MONTREAL, Dec. 11.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable was quiet and the prices bid in some cases were 1½d to 2d lower. The outside demand for corn and oats continues fairly good at steady prices. The local demand for flour was better, but the export trade is still very slow and the prices bid are away below millers' views. In mill feed an active business is doing. Cheese is firm and butter strong with a good demand. Eggs are active and firm. Barrelled pork has declined 50c to $1.50 per barrel and compound lard ¼c per lb., while abattoir fresh killed hogs have advanced 25c per cwt.

Corn—American No. 2 yellow, 83c.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 48c to 48½c; No. 3, 46½c to 47c; extra No. 1 feed, 47c to 47½c; No. 2 local white, 47c; No. 3 local white, 46c; No. 4 local white, 45c.

Buckwheat—No. 2, 65c to 66c.

Barley—Manitoba feed, 64c; malting, 96c to $1.

Hay—No. 2, per ton, car lots, $15 to $15.50.

Cheese—Finest westerns, 14½c to 14¾c; finest easterns, 14c to 14½c.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 30½c to 31½c; seconds, 29c to 30c.

Eggs—Fresh, 60c; selected, 29c to 30c; No. 1 stock, 25c to 26c.

Potatoes—Per bag, car lots, $1.25 to $1.27½.

Hogs—Dressed, abattoir killed, $9.25 to $9.50; country, $8.25 to $8.75.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Dec. 11.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 233 cars, comprising 3492 cattle, 2078 hogs, 3166 sheep and lambs, 63 calves and 28 horses.

Exporters.

E. L. Woodward bought 150 export steers, 1175 to 1250 lbs. each, at $6.15 to $6.20 per cwt.

Butchers.

Xmas cattle sold from $6 to $7; good, $5.75 to $6; medium, $5.25 to $5.70; common, $4.50 to $5.15; cows, $3 to $5.25; canners, $1.75 to $2.25.

Milkers and Springers.

Milkers and springers sold at steady prices at $40 to $75 each.

Veal Calves.

Veal calves sold from $4 to $8 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep sold from $3 to $3.75 with a few at $4; lambs, at $5 to $5.85.

Hogs.

Hogs, fed and watered, sold at $6.60 per cwt.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 11.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Dec. 9, were 1990 cattle, 1950 sheep and lambs, 2400 hogs and 250 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale were 1000 cattle 600 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 100 calves.

Altho the supply of cattle was larger than a week ago by 200 to 300 head, yet a stronger feeling prevailed in the market and prices for butchers' stock showed an advance of 25c per cwt. This was attributed to the scarcity of really choice steers and heifers, there ebing none on the market. There was a good enquiry and $6.25 to $6.50 per cwt. could have been easily realized for the same, as $5.85 to $6 was paid for good cattle and the supply of this grade was none too plentiful.

Common and inferior stock was abundant and prices for such were easier, with the demand limited, owing to the unfavorable weather prevailing for this season of the year and the fact that canners are well supplied for the present.

There were a few very good bulls on the market, which weighed from 1500 to 1800 lbs., and they sold for $4.75 to $5, and lighter ones of good quality brought $4.25 to $4.50. A feature of the trade was the demand from Quebec, which bought several carloads of cows and bulls, mixed, at $4.50 to $4.75 per cwt. The gathering of buyers was fairly large and, considering the unseasonable weather a very fair trade was done.

A strong feeling continues to prevail in the market for hogs and prices since this day week show a further advance of 5c to 15c per cwt., on account of the small supplies coming forward, for which the demand is good from packers and higher prices are anticipated in the near future. Sales of selected lots were made at $6.65 to $6.80 per cwt., weighed off the cars, and heavy fat and sows sold for $1 per cwt. less.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for sheep or lambs, the undertone being strong on account of the continued good demand from butchers for supplies and the falling off in receipts. Calves of good to choice quality were very scarce, for which there is considerable enquiry and good prices would be paid for the same.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.25 to $6.25; medium, $5 to $6; common, $3.50 to $4.50; canners, $1.50 to $3; choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; medium, $4.50 to $5; bulls, $4.25 to $5. Milkers, choice, each, $75; common and medium, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40. Sheep, ewes, $3.75 to $4; bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.50; lambs, $5.75 to $6. Hogs, f.o.b., $6.65 to $6.80. Calves, $3 to $12.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Dec. 11.—Cattle—Receipts, 5700 head; fairly active; good to choice 10c to 25c higher; common to medium steady; prime steers, $8 to $8.50; shipping, $6.25 to $7.50; butchers, $5 to $7; heifers, $3.75 to $6.50; cows, $2 to $5.50; bulls, $4.50 to $5.40; stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $5.15; stock heifers, $3.25 to $3.50; fresh cows and springers steady to easy, $20 to $65.

Hogs—Receipts, 19,500; fairly active and steady; heavy and mixed, $6.35 to $6.40; yorkers, $5.90 to $6.35; pigs, $5.75 to $5.85; roughs, $5.65 to $5.75; stags, $4.50 to $5.50; dairies, $6 to $6.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 25,000; sheep fairly active and steady; lambs slow, 15c lower; lambs, $3.50 to $6.25; a few, $6.40; yearlings, $4.50 to $5; wethers, $3.75 to $4; ewes, $3.25 to $3.50; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $3.65.

CITY FATHERS HAD THEIR USUAL LONG SITTING LAST NIGHT

City Solicitor Mikel said a similar letter had been sent to the C.N.O.R. Company.

Ald. Panter suggested that the city fix up the crossing and charge the expense of same to the railway.

The communication was referred to the City Engineer and he to confer with the C.N.O.R. in reference to it and have the work done and the expense to be paid by the railway company.

A communication was read from the Assessor as to the advisability of the Council asking that the Grand Trunk Railway open Franck Street.

Ald. St. Charles moved that Ald. Bogle, Bleecker and St. Charles be a committee to look into this matter and report.—Carried.

A communication was read from the Fire Underwriters' Association in reference to the city taking every precaution to see that hydrants are kept from freezing during the cold weather.

The matter was referred to the Fire Committee.

A communication in reference to a spur line by the C.N.O.R. being put into the Rolling Mills, same having been approved by the Railway Board, was referred to the Railway Committee.

Messrs. Porter & Carnew wrote the Council in reference to the removing of some large stone from in front of a residence on Murney Street placed there by the contractor who placed in the water service on that street.

Referred to the City Engineer, who was empowered to see that the stones were removed at the cost of the contractor.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received, and, on motion that it be adopted, Ald. Clarke moved that it be referred back to adopt the first clause of the Market and City Property Committee report.—Lost.

The yeas and nays were called for, resulting as follows:

Yeas—Ald. Bogle, Canning, Clarke, Gibson, Parks, St. Charles.

Nays—Ald. Adams, Bleecker, Chown, Panter, Riggs, Sills, Vermilyea and Woodley.—8.

The report was then adopted.

ENQUIRIES.

Ald. Panter asked why the C.N.O.R. had not paid for some lots owned by the city and which the railway had taken possession of.

Ald. Vermilyea—We need the money.

City Clerk—The remuneration will probably be forthcoming in a few days.

Ald. Canning asked why sewage is still going into the river near the lower bridge.

City Engineer—The valve was now ready to be placed in position and would be in a day or two and thus effect a remedy.

Ald. St. Charles asked that a few loads of gravel be placed near Mr. Adams' residence on Earle Street as it was almost impassable at that point.

City Engineer—I will have a few loads of gravel placed there.

MOTIONS.

Moved by Ald. Woodley, seconded by Ald. Canning, that the Gas and Water Works departments make an inspection of all excavations made by them this year and where necessary make the repairs at once, subject to the approval of the Engineer and chairman of Public Works.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. St. Charles, seconded by Ald. Chown, that a cheque for $200 be issued to the Mayor, which is the usual grant to the Mayor for his services.—Carried.

Ald. Chown moved, seconded by Ald. Sills, that the Water Works Department be empowered to charge 10 per cent. per annum for cost of installing the new hydrants on Front Street.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Bogle, seconded by Ald. Canning, that the expenses incurred in connection with the investigation of the Augustine Automatic Rotary Engine Company's business at Buffalo by the deputation appointed at a joint meeting for this purpose, with a view of establishing an engine works here, be defrayed by the city, and as this work has been done in the interest of the city, the city should bear the expense. The sum required is $98.20.

Ald. Clarke was opposed to the motion, as the Council was not consulted in having the deputation appointed and some citizens had subscribed towards the expense.

Ald. Bogle thought that the expenses of the deputation should be paid by the city, which would receive the benefit.

Mayor Ackerman considered that the Council should not bear the expenses of the deputation when the Council had nothing to do in the matter. He understood the expenses had been guaranteed.

Ald. Adams asked if there was a report from the deputation.

Ald. Bogle—Only a verbal report.

The motion was lost.

NOTICE OF BY-LAW.

Ald. Vermilyea gave notices of two by-laws, namely for sewer construction on Pine Street and McDonald Avenue.

Council adjourned.

COUNTY COURT AND GENERAL SESSIONS

Court Opened Today—Cases for Trial—Names of the Grand Jury

At 1.30 this afternoon the County Court and General Session were opened before His Honor, Judge Deroche.

There is but one criminal case up on the docket, namely, King v. Harrison. The accused Mrs. Harrison resides in the township of Thurlow, and it is alleged that she stole some articles from a neighbor. The woman was tried for the same offence at the last sitting of the court, the jury disagreeing.

The Grand Jury is composed of the following gentlemen:

Austin Gould, Wm. Detlor, W. A. Nugent, Bartholemew O'Connor, Walter Embury, Owen F. Fortune, Elijah Switzer, Hy. Williams, Chas. Meyers, G. N. Brintnell, John Carson, Jas. Sharpe, Cornelius Sine.

After the Grand Jury had been called they retired and selected Mr. W. H. Nugent as their foreman. They were then sworn and addressed by His Honor in respect to their duties. He was pleased to state that their duties would be light as there was no criminal business to come before them. It would be their privilege to visit the various institutions which are partially supported by public money. When they had done this they could make their presentment and be discharged.

BIRTHS

ANDERSON—At Belleville, on Monday, Dec. 11th, to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Anderson, Front Street, a son. 1t

FATHER CHINIQUY'S DAUGHTER SUES

MONTREAL, Dec. 11.—The ne temere decree and its operations are responsible for another suit. Action was entered on Saturday by Messrs. Desauiniers & Vllee, acting for Dame Rebecca Chiniquy, against Joseph Begin, editor and publisher of La Croix, a local weekly Catholic paper. It is stated in the declaration of plaintiff that she is the legitimate daughter of Charles Chiniquy and Euphmeie Allard, who were married on January 13, 1861, by Rev. Mr. Desroches, a minister of the Protestant church at St. Ann's in the state of Illinois, according to the laws of that State; that she is the legitimate wife of Joseph L. Morin, a professor of McGill University.

That the defendant published in his paper, La Croix, on November 1st last, an article in which it was said that Chiniquy, the apostate, could not be married, and that the woman who associated with him—namely, Euphemie Allard, was only a concubine; that the Chiniquy referred to in the article complained of is the legitimate father of the plaintiff, and that before his marriage with the mother of the plaintiff Chiniquy solemnly and officially repudiated the Church of Rome on the 3rd day of August, 1858; that the Euphemie Allard referred to in the article is the legitimate mother of the plaintiff; that the said article clearly and intentionally insinuates that plaintiff is of illegitimate birth.

That the article was published with the intent of insulting and does insult, the memory of the father and mother of the plaintiff; that said article is also meant to throw discredit on the daughter of said Charles Chiniquy and Euphemie Allard, namely, Dame Rebecca Allard, the plaintiff; that the said article is of a nature to injure the plaintiff in her honor, as well as that of her father and mother, and injures her in her feelings, and exposes her to the contempt and hatred of the inhabitants of the Province of Quebec.

Damages for $10,000 are claimed.

RECEIVING THE ELECTION RETURNS

Good Crowd Heard them at the City Hall - Speech by Mr. J. W. Johnson M. P. P.

Last night a large crowd accepted the invitation of Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., to hear the returns of the Ontario elections announced at the City Hall, which he had hired for the occasion. The crowd was not so enthusiastic as it was big, but some of the results were received with loud demonstrations of satisfaction, particularly when gains for the Government were announced, first by Mr. A. R. Walker and later by Mr. D. J. Fairfield.

After a majority of the returns had been received Mr. J. W. Johnson was called on and expressed his gratitude to his Conservative friends for his unanimous nomination and election, and also to his Liberals friends in Belleville and in Sidney for their proffers of support. He had been as prompt as possible in discharging the business of his constituents, and had done so without detriment to the interests of the province. It would be to the advantage of the province to have the Dominion and Ontario Governments in accord. The Laurier Government had refused to subsidize the T. & N. O. Railway, although clearly entitled to it under the law regarding colonization railways. That would be rectified. As to good roads, also, both Governments would contribute and he would press for a fair share of the grant to the urban municipalities, and for Belleville in particular. Mr. Johnson also spoke of the grant of land to the C.N.R. for its road north of Lake Superior which had resulted in the discovery of a great forest of the finest pine, and would cause other very material advantages to the province in developing the great clay belt. The giving of 400 acres per mile by the Provincial Government to the C.N.R. for 550 miles from Port Arthur to Selwood Junction was one of the best things ever done for Ontario, for instead of our people and the incomers having to go to the western provinces, they would settle in Ontario in the great clay belt of this province. He was more proud of the vote he had given in this matter than in any other he had given in the Legislature. He advised those young men who wished to migrate or to change their occupation to settle in northern Ontario and build up homes for themselves. Mr. Johnson continued to speak at some length on the natural advantages of New Ontario, with its grand agricultural and timber lands and its great rivers, lakes and bays, such as we have in old Ontario. Turning to the hydro-electric scheme, he rehearsed the history of the inception and operation of that great enterprise, which renders us independent of the coal mines of Pennsylvania for light and heat and power for all time to come. Next he spoke at some length on the breaking up of the school book ring, whereby a very large sum had been saved to the people, and the abolition of the numbered ballot, by which freedom of election had been secured.

Mr. Johnson concluded as follows: The excellent results secured by allowing land to lie fallow for a longer or shorter period are recognized by the tiller of the soil. The farmer summer fallows the fields that have become foul and exhausted, and he thereby destroys noxious and injurious weeds, renders the land tender and mellow, restores the constituent elements that it had lost, and renews its virility and power of production. The Conservative party summer fallowed in Ontario for more than thirty years and the good effect has been apparent since the change of Government, in the excellent crop of legislation and administration it is producing as year follows year. The same party summer fallowed in the Dominion for fifteen years and we already have evidence of restored vitality and power in its projected policies. It will be a benefit to the Liberal party to summer fallow for a time, a good long time, in both the Ontario and Dominion fields. Mr. Johnson was frequently applauded during his speech and at its close.

After a summary showing 80 Conservatives, 21 Liberals and 1 Independent had been read, the audience dispersed.

SAVE THE HAIR

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE WILL DO IT.

No woman should have poor, thin, scraggy hair, and no man need become bald. Poor hair and final baldness are due to the dandruff germ.

Newbro's Herpicide will destroy this little germ and stop the hair from falling. Further evidence of this is found in a letter from Mrs. E. Neilsen, of Tomah, Wis. She says: "I fought the worst kind of dandruff for nine years. I have been using Herpicide now one week, and my scalp is healthy the dandruff is gone, and the itching has stopped. It is the best remedy for scalp diseases I ever saw, and I have seen many."

Don't subject yourself to disappointment and expense by accepting something claimed to be "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. These off-brands may possibly be good, but why take chances. The genuine and original dandruff germ destroyer can always be obtained. If your own druggist has nothing but "just as good" articles, go to Doyle's Drug Store who will furnish you with Newbro's Herpicide and guarantee one dollar sizes bottles. It stops itching of the scalp instantly.

Send 10c. in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Kingsley Would Smoke.

Archbishop Benson, when headmaster of Wellington, was a great friend of Charles Kingsley, whose rectory of Eversley was but a few miles away. A. C. Benson gives many interesting reminiscences of Kingsley as he remembers him in those days:

"My father used to tell how once he was walking with Kingsley round about Eversley, when Kingsley suddenly stopped and said, 'It is no use; I know you detest tobacco, Benson, but I must have a smoke!' and he had accordingly gone to a big furze-bush and put his arm in at the hole, and after some groping about, produced a churchwarden pipe, which he filled and smoked with great satisfaction, afterwards putting it into a hollow tree, and telling my father, with a chuckle, that he had concealed pipes all over the parish, to meet the exigences of a sudden desire to smoke.

Football Forecasts

New football, with forward passes and restrictions, have knocked all forecasts galley west. The small school of huskies is as likely to win as the big brother with an enrollment of thousands. Brains and speed offset beef and brawn and an educated toe in the backfield discounts weight in the line.

The coach with two good ends and a punter can develop a high class eleven. The balance of the team will come along as a matter of evolution.

Cold Sores and Ulcers are Healed by Zam-Buk

Cold sores, chapped hands, ulcers, and winter eczema are common troubles just now, and for all these Zam-Buk will be found the surest and quickest remedy. Sometimes cold sores arise from chilblains on the toes or fingers, and in the former case, where colored socks are worn, there is a danger of blood-poisoning from the dye. Zam-Buk being so powerfully antiseptic removes the danger as soon as applied and quickly heals.

Mr. W. J. Haliday, of Ash Grove, Ont., says: "I had my little finger frozen, and it cracked at the first joint, causing a bad sore, which discharged freely and would not heal. The pain was very bad, and the whole of my hand became swollen and in bad shape.

"A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, and I soon found that Zam-Buk was altogether different to any preparation I had ever tried. In a very short time it healed the sore."

Miss Lillie May, of Stoney Creek, Ont., says: "A few weeks since, several nasty, disfiguring cold sores suddenly broke out on my lips, which became much swollen. Seeing my condition, a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk and leave all other preparations aside. This I did, and was much pleased, after a few applications of this balm, to see every sore healed."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for eczema, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful imitations and substitutes.

Use also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet. Best for baby's tender skin.

WATER CARRIERS IN PARIS.

In the Modern Babylon Water is Still Brought in the Old-fashioned Way.

Paris is rich in contrasts, and sometimes the irony is charming. In the height of fashion to-day is still to be seen the picturesque water-carrier, and the scarcity due to the drought once more calls attention to his existence. On the heights of Montmartre are to be seen these robust Auvergnes, marching with their measured steps—and, by a fiction, the Parsi water-carrier must always be an Auvergnat—with his two buckets The extension of the water system has gone hard with the "porter d'eau," who in days past made a fairly good living. In 1860 there were 1,253 porters; in 1880 the number had fallen to 800; and to-day there are few indeed. A barrel of water contains about 1,000 litres, and its market value is about five francs. Like most other occupations in France, the water-carrier was under State or police supervision, and each night he had to fill his barrel and place it in the district he worked, so as to be ready in case of fire, but the supervision has fallen into desuetude.

Sword in a Plank.

A curious discovery has been made at Oakley Station, near Dunfermline Scotland. In the course of alterations for the purpose of heightening the platform, it was found necessary to substitute a fresh plank of wood for an old one. The latter was being sawn up for firewood when a sword was found imbedded in the heart of it. The plank had formed part of the platform support for at least fifteen years. There was little rust on the weapon, which was an old-fashioned type, a short cross piece forming the handle. How the sword could have got where it was discovered is a mystery, as there was no indication from the outside of the plank where it had entered, and it is believed that it had been picked up by the tree at an early period of its existence and encircled with the growth.

A King's Retreat.

We often hear of Boscobel Oak people pointing to it as the very tree which sheltered Charles II. after the Royalist forces had been shattered at the battle of Worcester. But the Boscobel Oak is not the original tree. It has grown from an acorn taken from the original tree. Boscobel House, near by, is, however, the very house in which he hid. He lay concealed in a hole beneath a trap-door in the cheese-room, but as soldiers were everywhere about he had to crawl out of the chimney and make his way into a wood and hide in an oak tree. Returning when the danger was for a moment passed, he spent another night at the house then, early in the morning, took food and drink with him to the oak tree, climbed up and stayed there for twenty-four hours. During that time Cromwell's soldiers passed beneath the tree searching for him, and he heard them saying what they would do if they caught him.

Complicated Census Work.

Census taking in China, it would appear, is a business complicated by Chinese customs. Thus the Chinese method of reckoning age is not the same as the European. A Chinese child at birth is said to be one year old, and after it has passed one New Year it is said to be two years old; so that if born in the last month of the year it may be said to be two years of age before it is 30 days days old according to European reckoning. Difficulties are encountered in China, as elsewhere, in regard to the ages of females. There was an old lady of Ching-tzu known to be over 100 who insisted on the enu[illegible]or entering her age at 99. Th[illegible]as because it is a customary ter[illegible] abuse to call a person a "hundred years old donkey," or "ten-toothed donkey," which has the same significance. It is stated to be a common thing for a Chinese mother to give a son the name of a girl, presumably to deceive the fates, it being a common and true saying that a girl is easier to rear. This of course is another source of trouble to the enumerators.

THE HEART CHANGES.

(By Tom Jones).

Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd.

Mildred leaned thoughtfully against the railing and looked down the long walk, weed and grass choked, leading to the dusty white state road.

She gave the dust cloth that she had come out to shake an angry flap. A man turned up the driveway from the main road. Mildred watched him listlessly, nevertheless not unaware that he was well worth looking at. He was tall and sunburned with startling gray eyes and heavy eyebrows. "But his clothes!" inwardly commented Mildred, with a yearning to see Billy Duplessis' up to the minute smartness, or Bob Al[illegible]'s blonde curls and lavender tie. She recovered herself with a slight shake.

"Mrs. Bacon?" the man was asking in a voice that even Mildred's discontented spirit could not take exception to.

"Miss Bacon," she corrected him. "Will you sit down? I'll call mother:" her voice was courteously indifferent. "Homesick," thought Graham Forbes, indulgently, as he sank into the comfortable willow chair. "She looks just as Kitty Mason did when her folks moved here from the city; only there's more to this one than there was to Kitty. She'll like Mortonville yet."

Mildred would have given vent to shrieks of hysterical laughter if she could have heard the prophecy.

She was confessing frankly to Graham Forbes, sitting on the moonlit steps one night. They had grown rapidly into friendly intimacy. "If you knew," she was telling him, making it stronger because she knew it was agonizing to him, "how I long for a look at Billy's gray shirt and the irreproachable part in Bob's hair, or a pair of Jacky's loud tan shoes!"

Graham looked up at her with tormented eyes. "Oh, I don't care about any of them, silly," she laughed down at him, "only I simply yearn to see something citified."

The day after her confession in the moonlight he met Mildred at the tiny post office, the rendezvous of the entire village. She waved a sheath of letters at him gayly. "They're coming," she informed him, excitedly; "Billy, and Bob, and Jack, every one of them. They're coming up for their two weeks' vacation, and if they like it they're coming up for every week-end."

"I'm sure they will like it," he said, gravely, and lifting his hat, hurried past her down the street. Mildred looked after him with hurt, puzzled eyes, not wholly guiltless of tears.

"Silly little goose," she scolded herself, "I don't see why you should care what he thinks, horrid old dog in the manger!"

Billy and Bob and Jack duly appeared and carried the heart of feminine Mortonville by storm.

But with the coming of September the resorters grew restless. The hotel porches were deserted and the orchestra played wearily to an ever diminishing crowd of dancers. Forbes dreaded seeing Mildred; dreaded to see the unhappy look he was sure would be in her eye and the homesick droop in her lips. He had been making a practice of coming late for his mail as the easiest way of avoiding her, but meetings are inevitable in a small town, and Forbes soon came face to face with Mildred on the main street. He stopped short in astonishment. Mildred's eyes were as happy, Mildred's smile was as bright as if it were the middle of July instead of nearly October.

"Still happy?" he asked in astonishment.

"Still happy," affirmed Mildred "Why?"

"I don't know," Graham considered, slowly. "I have been afraid to meet you. I was also sure you would be lonely and homesick now that they are all gone."

"So you were making matters better by staying away?" Mildred teased gayly. "I've missed you all summer. Aren't you ever coming up again?"

Mildred carried home a vision of Graham's relieved, radiant face. It was an exceedingly illuminating vision and served to bring to Mildred's consciousness several things she had not realized.

"So that's why I am so happy, is it?" she smiled to herself that evening while she was waiting for Graham. "And that's the reason I had to manufacture that smile and put it on every morning when I was supposed to be having such a good time." So the smile was very real and happy, though rather tremulous as Forbes came up the steps.

"Are you going back to the city?" he asked, as he was standing up to leave. Mildred shook her head.

"I can't understand it," he said, wonderingly. "You seem so happy. Aren't you really going back?"

"Jack's sister has asked me up to spend December with her, but that's all,' she told him demurely.

"Are you going?" he asked quickly.

"I don't know. I may," Mildred said with a little smile to herself, he was so transparent. "Mother wants so many things in the city. Only for a week, though."

"Don't you want to go?" he asked, eagerly. Mildred looked out across the moonlit lawn and shook her head.

"I hate to go," she confessed. "I love all this so now. The green, green grass and the blue, blue sky, and even the farm houses and the funny old post office, and——" she paused and drew her breath.

Forbes caught her hand in his. "Really? Do you mean it? Mildred, will you stay here always?"

"I won't stay anywhere else," Mildred assured him humorously, but he swept that impatiently aside. "Always? With me?"

"—— the funny old post office, and you," finished Mildred close in his arms."

EUROPE'S THIRST

Germans the Great Beer Drinkers and the French the Largest Consumers of Wine in Old World.

"The Dane drinks annually 104 quarts of beer, little or no wine, and 24 quarts of brandy; the Swede absorbs 56 quarts of beer and 9 quarts of alcohol, while the Norwegian, on whom sobriety is imposed by very severe laws, is content with 31 quarts of beer and 3 quarts of brandy. The Russian requires only 5 quarts of beer and 5 of brandy (vodka); the Frenchman must have 32 quarts of beer, 108 of wine, and 10 of brandy. The Englishman consumes 6 quarts of gin, or whisky, little wine (scarcely 2 quarts), and 152 quarts of beer, ale, or stout; the Dutchman, 38 quarts of beer and 8½ of brandy; the Belgian 221 quarts of beer and 9 quarts of alcohol. The Austrian absorbs 16 quarts of wine, 80 quarts of beer, and nearly 11½ of brandy; the Hungarian the same quantity of brandy and wine but only 11 quarts of beer. The Italian drinks little beer (scarcely 2 quarts), 98 quarts of wine, and 1.3 quarts of brandy; he is the least alcoholic of Europeans.

"As for the German, he has the right, from his astonishing capacity, to a prominent place in these statistics. It is hardly possible, in his case, to confine oneself to averages. To pass over the extent of the Empire, including the grand duchy of Luxemburg, the consumption per head amounts to 7 quarts of wine, 6½ of brandy, and 125 quarts of beer. But the Alsatian and the North German drink 98 quarts of beer, while the Badener drinks 158 the Wurtemberger 169, and the Bavarian 24. As for the dwellers in the great cities, some of them are veritable bottomless pits; at Berlin 200 quarts of beer are drunk by each inhabitant annually; at Nuremberg 325 quarts, at Frankfort 432, and at Munich 570. When we realize that there are in Munich, as elsewhere, children, women, old persons, youth, and perhaps even, among the adults, some drinkers of average thirst, we may ask ourselves with some trepidation what is the daily flow of the river of beer, rolling its tumultuous waves down the esophagus of a loyal disciple of Gambrinus.

CHARACTER BY FINGER-NAILS

Amuse your friends by telling them their characters by their finger-nails. Broad nails are said to indicate a gentle nature, and persons possessing them are inclined to be timid and bashful. Those who have red and spotted nails have a desire to command, show great delight in war, and have a disposition to be cruel. White spots on the finger-nails denote misfortune.

Those who have very pale nails are subject to much infirmity of the flesh Melancholy persons, and those who have a desire to higher branches of knowledge, have pale or lead-colour nails. White nails denote a great love for the society of the opposite sex, very weak constitution, and feverish subjects.

Persons with narrow nails are ambitious, have a keen love for scientific knowledge, and are quarrelsome. Round nails show a great desire for knowledge in general and liberal sentiments; also that their possessors take great pride in their own accomplishments and are rather hasty. Those persons who lack confidence in human nature, and are decided in opinions have long nails. Small nails indicate a very small mind, obstinate and secretive nature.

Persons who have very good appetites and lovers of sleep have fleshy nails. Nails that grow into the flesh at the sides or points denote that their owners are given to luxury.

A TRAIN-LOAD OF MONKEYS

A plague of monkeys some years ago sorely troubled the officials at a small station on the Saran Railway, in North-West India. Trucks full of grain for export were often stored up in the station, and the monkeys came down in large numbers from a neighbouring grove to help themselves to the grain, picking holes in the tarpaulin roof of the wagons.

The officials were wearied out with keeping watch and scaring away the thieves, who daily grew bolder, till an ingenious guard hit upon a stratagem. For several days sweets and fruit were put on the roofs of the wagons, with the result that the whole of the monkey colony were attracted to the spot, and soon became perfectly indifferent to man.

One morning, when they were all busily feeding, an engine was stealthily attached to the wagons, and suddenly the train moved off. The monkeys were quite scared, and made no attempt to escape, sitting crouched together till the train had gone several miles and stopped at a jungle. Then they wanted no hint to leave. Every monkey leapt down howling and fled into the jungle, whence they never returned to trouble the railway.

It's easy for a girl to deceive herself about how she trusts her husband.

Vol. 45 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1911. No. 190

BOARD OF TRADE HAD A GOOD MEETING LAST NIGHT

Matters of Importance to the City were Discussed—To Confer with Council on Fire Protection—We have Good Bylaws, but they are not Enforced—As to Advertising the City—Municipal Matters Talked of

A a fairly well atended meeting of the Board of Trade, held last evening, in the Council Chamber, matters of interest appertaining to the city's welfare were brought up and discussed. Mr. W. B. Deacon, President, occupied the chair.

Among those present were the following: Messrs. W. B. Deacon, J. M. Farley, W. N. Ponton, G. Pearson, Wm. Donohue, J. Knox, R. Templeton, J. McKinley, H. Sneyd, C. M. Reid, H. F. Ketcheson, Walter Alford, J. G. Lindsay, C. J. Wills, J. O. Herity, J. Elliott, A. E. Bailey, Dr. Mather, F. S. Anderson, F. S. Deacon, E. P. Frederick, D. V. Sinclair, Ald. Chown, Dr. McCullough and Mayor Ackerman.

The Secretary, Col. Ponton, after reading the minutes, read a number of communications, many being in reference to advertising the city in trade journals, etc.

From the Canadian Forestry Association stating that the annual meeting would be held at Ottawa on Feb. 7th and 8th, and asking Belleville Board of Trade to send one or more delegates to same.

From the Fire Underwriters' Association calling attention to what is required in this city by way of fire appliances, an electric fire alarm, a paid brigade, more hydrants, etc., also an inspection of premises.

Mr. H. F. Ketcheson spoke to the Fire Underwriters' Association communication. There had been over 40 fires in Belleville this year and a number were reported as cause of fire unknown. There seems to be no effort made by the authorities to ascertain the cause of the fires. In speaking of new buildings being erected the speaker said that we never see a report of a permit for new buildings and there seemed to be no inspector of buildings. As the communication showed explosives were kept in stores, the city should, in his opinion, provide a magazine where explosives could be stored and make the people who store therein pay for storing the same, so the city would not be at a loss. Rubbish, such as boxes, papers, straw, etc., is allowed to accumulate in the rear of some business places of the city. The city should have a person to attend to this matter, also to inspect buildings. If we had this and better fire appliances, we could have a better insurance rate than we had at present. In his mind we should wake up in this matter. He would like to see the city placed on a par with other cities of its size in reference to insurance rates.

Mr. Bailey suggested that a committee of the Board be appointed to confer with the City Council in reference to this matter. He moved that a committee be appointed.

A committee composed of Messrs. C. M. Reid, H. F. Ketcheson, J. M. Farley, J. Knox and W. B. Deacon was named to wait upon the Council.

Mr. C. M. Reid said the Underwriters had it under consideration to raise the insurance rate on buildings in the city. It was a vital question, and the matter should be forcibly impressed upon the incoming Council, which would be seized with the facts.

Mr. S. McLachlan said the Trenton Electric and Water Company had an inspector for their lines in the city, but he thought that this inspection should be done by the city.

Mr. Walter Alford stated that when he was in the Council a certain building by-law was passed, but, like other by-laws, it was not enforced. An Inspector should look after the matter of cleaning up back yards, and in his opinion we had enough policemen to do the work. Let us see that something is done in this matter.

Col. Ponton said there was a special officer of the police force whose duty it was to see that back premises are kept in proper condition. In his opinion if we had a lower insurance rate it would not only affect Front Street buildings, but residences. Here is a subject that is important to all.

Mr. C. J. Wills said the city had taken action in reference to having a building by-law passed and permits have to be taken out for the erection of any building. It should be the duty of some person to see that this and other by-laws are enforced.

City Engineer Lindsay said he had no doubt that next year's Council will appoint a Building Inspector.

The committee named above were endorsed by the Board, and they are to meet and make a report at the next meeting of the Board.

Mr. W. B. Deacon said that Belleville was paying on the average for insurance more than any other city of its size in Ontario.

Col. Ponton said that he, as Secretary of the Board of Trade, had received a communication from capitalists in London, England, relative to interesting this city in the building of an electric railway.

The President said the matter was not dormant and something in this direction may be doing in the near future.

Mayor Ackerman, in making some remarks, thought that the members of the Board of Trade should take more active interest in municipal matters and especially as to the election of members of the Council.

ADVERTISING THE CITY.

Mr. John Elliott said it was the intention of the Board of Trade to send to the old country a number of views of Belleville and district. He referred to the artist who accompanied the old country press delegation that visited Canada recently and the fact that when here he took a number of local views which had been developed and were fine views. These views had been placed in a bound volume and would be sent to the old country, where they can be exhibited. They could be sent over as they are and framed when placed in the Ontario Government office in London. Mr. Johnson, M.P.P., had stated that the Ontario Government, no doubt, would bear the expenses of same. The best means to be adopted in advertising Belleville and vicinity in the motherland will be done. It was to his mind one of the best schemes for advertising the city and vicinity.

A motion prevailed that $5 be granted to Mr. P. Meagher as caretaker of the city building.

In reply to a question as to the banquet committee report, Mr. Sneyd said there was nothing definite to report.

Col. Ponton stated that January 9th was the date mentioned, but this was not definite. Prominent speakers would be secured for same.

Mr. A. E. Bailey, in speaking of municipal matters, said that it was imperative that the Board of Trade should take interest in municipal affairs and see that good men are nominated for the position of aldermen.

Mr. C. J. Wills thought this was a matter that did not concern so much the Board of Trade. Let the City Council attend to its business. In his opinion the Board was treading on dangerous ground.

Mr. Deacon spoke of the by-law to be voted upon to reduce [illegible] number of aldermen to ten, and [illegible] that the members of the Board take an active part at the election and see that the by-law was carried.

Mr. F. S. Anderson considered it was the duty of the Board to look after the city's interest and see that good live men were placed in the City Council.

The matter was not dealt with at any further length, as a motion to adjourn prevailed.

He was committed for trial at the Sessions.

PERSIAN SITUATION IS CRITICAL

Serious Trouble Between Turkey and Russia May Possibly Ensue

LONDON, Dec. 13.—A despatch from Teheran to The Times says Premier Samsam to-day filed the various Cabinet posts. He told the Mejis, that before presenting the names of the Ministers he must announce that the Cabinet would yield to Russia's demands. The Mejiss thereupon refused to accept the Cabinet. The opposition in parliament to the dismissal of Mr. Shuster, the American Treasurer-General, is stronger than ever.

There has been much talk lately of Turkey interposing in Persia. The Times' Teheran correspondent confirms the report that serious trouble between Russia and Turkey is passible. He believes that Turkey is a reply to the action of Russia in mobilizing an army in Asia Minor as sending troops to Khoi, in North-West Persia, which turns Turkey's wastern flank. The matter is vital to Turkey, and is declared to be more important than Tirpoli. It is believed, however, that Turkey wishes to straighten it out by diplomatic negotiations.

ELSIE SIEGEL'S SLAYER FLED

Betrayed in Cleveland After the Publication of Chinese Indictments

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 12.—Chinese Pinkerton men on the trail of Elsie Siegel, girl missionary in New York, were close upon him in Cleveland last Wednesday, and it is said he fled only two hours ahead of the detectives. It is said he went to Alton, Ill.

Ah Foo and other Chinese detectives went to Alton. Lieut. Alfred Walker, head of the city detective force, and City Detective MacFarland assisted the Chinese detectives while they were here. MacFarland went to Pittsburgh on Thursday in connection with the case.

The detectives blame their failure to arrest Leon Ling on the publication in the city papers on Wednesday of the indictment of Lang Yung, Jew Pang, and Dar Gia by the Grand Jury in connection with the shooting in the recent clash between the On Leong and Hip Sing Tongs. Through disclosures made after the trouble Leon Ling, who had been hiding in the city, was betrayed.

LOVERS MURDERED WHILE PLANNING WEDDING TRIP

BRADFORD, Pa., Dec. 12.—While discussing arrangements for their honeymoon trip to follow the wedding scheduled for next week, Miss Grace Cable and her intueded husband, Anthony Kohen, were shot and instantly killed at the woman's home here soon after midnight. The police and a posse are searching for Rossani Annisseti, a wealthy fruit dealer, who it is alleged was insanely jealous of the girl.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

LEFT FOR HOME.

Seven Hungarians, who had been for some time employed at the Cement works at Point Ann, left to-day for their home land.

GRAND JURY VISITING.

The Grand Jury, which is here in connection with the County Court today visited the hospital, house of refuge, Deaf and Dumb Institution and county jail, which will comprise their duties.

TEMPORARY ILLNESS.

Yesterday afternoon the police received a telephone message that a man was acting strangely in a store on Front Street and it was thought he was under the influence of intoxicants. Such, however, was not the case, the man being ill. He was conveyed home as soon as possible, and we are informed that his illness fortunately was only of a temporary nature.

XVTH. WERE WINNERS.

At the Armories last night an exciting game of indoor baseball took place between the Regimental and the Steel Company of Canada teams. The redcoats won by a score of 19 to 17. A large number of spectators witnessed the game. Mr. Wm. Cochrane was umpire and Mr. Connell was referee on bases. It proved to be one of the best games of the series.

INTERRED AT ALBURY.

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. R. Babcock, of Ameliasburg Township, took place yesterday afternoon, and despite the inclement weather was largely attended. Services were held in the Albury Methodist Church conducted by the Rev. Mr. Sexsmith, who preached an appropriate sermon. Interment took place at Albury cemetery. A large number of beautiful floral tributes were contributed by relatives and friends. The bearers were friends of the deceased.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Globe expresses its delight that there is "life in Liberalism." So there is, but precious little of it.

The vote yesterday is an expression of the appreciation of the province of good government. And we are sure the government feels the responsibility.—Ottawa Journal.

Let the Grits cheer up. The Whitney majority is diminishing, and it will take only 15 years more to wipe it out at the present rate of decrease. —Hamilton Herald.

"The strength of Liberalism is in its principles, its ideals and its aspirations," says its chief organ. Nay, nay, not so. Rather in the odor of its past misdeeds, which is so strong it smells to heaven.—Hamilton Spectator.

No government in Ontario after seven years of office ever received such a magnificent endorsation, and what is more to the point no other government so thoroughly deserved the same.—Brantford Courier.

Mr. Rowell, the Liberal leader, declares that, in his belief, the tide has turned. It may not comfort him, but it is a fact, that it would take seven or eight such turnings, or a period of say, thirty years for the party which he leads to secure a bare majority in the province.

The peculiar feature about the present Eastern question—there is alway an Eastern Question, you know—is that although Russia and Great Britain are nominally friends and allies they seem bound to meet in Persia as rivals. If Russia insists on pushing her way into the country from one direction Great Britain will feel compelled, as a mater of self-defence, to push her way in from another direction.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

The development of New Ontario is probably the biggest problem before the Provincial Government, and Sir James has just suffered the loss of a very capable New Ontario Minister in the departure of Mr. Cochrane for Ottawa. The Beck policies are still to be given breadth and stability; and Sir James might do worse than deprive the Opposition of a "cry" by permitting the people to enjoy local option in taxation. It is always a good policy to trust the people. —Montreal Star.

According to population, Detroit holds the American and probably the world's record in the matter of fatal automobile accidents. From January 1 to December 1 no fewer than thirty-one people were slaughtered by motor cars in the streets of Detroit. In Cleveland there were 34 fatal accidents, but this was at the rate of only one death among more than 16,-000 people, whereas the Detroit record is one death in about 14,000. In eight large American cities there were 227 people killed by automobiles in eleven months.—Montreal Gazette.

Edison's latest is that by the adoption of a process of his devising it will be practicable to make household furniture of concrete. He and others have shown how houses may be built, and in first-class buildings now the floors are either of concrete or some allied material. Long ago concrete replaced wood in the making of sidewalks. The forest conservationists are getting industrial as well as moral help. The concrete man is showing how wood after it becomes scarce, may be made largely unnecessary.—Mail and Empire.

The English-speaking Grits have been abusing Hon. Mr. Foy because of the alleged existence of bi-lingual schools. The French-speaking Grits have been denouncing Mr. Foy because he has declared that English must be the language taught in the Public and Separate Schools of Ontario. And Mr. Rowell and his party, not forgetting The Globe and Dr. "Butt-in" Macdonald, are heartily in accord with the French members of their party. And the Grit propagandists ask the people to believe that honesty and purity are their special characteristics..

Here is a sum in proportional representation: If five-eighths of the electors have four-fifths of the representation, is the result government of the people by the people and for the people?—Globe.

Here is another "sum in proportional representation" for our contemporary to figure on: If a popular majority of 9869 Conservatives have 30 fewer representatives in the Legislature than the Liberals, was the result government of the people by the people and for the people? Yet such was the case when The Globe's party was in power in 1896 and the organ was silent on the subject.

TO THE PUBLIC

If cough syrups would cure coughs every time, it would not be necessary for us to print this information, but there are so many cases of chronic bronchitis in town that have hung on for months and years, we feel that we must tell what we know about it.

It is a positive fact that the only right way to treat a cough is to use a remedy that acts on the blood, such as Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil.

This makes the blood rich and pure so it can heal and strengthen the inflamed bronchial tubes. Its taste is so pleasant that even children like it.

Mrs. Olivia Parham, East Durham, N. C., says "I used Vinol for a cough which had lasted two years and it gave me perfect satisfaction. I am also giving it to a delicate child to strengthen her. She will not take any other medicine but Vinol is so pleasant she cries for it and it is benefitting her very much."

Remember, if Vinol does not help you it costs you nothing.—Red Cross Drug Store, J. S. McKeown, Belleville.

AMUSEMENTS

HAWTREY AND LONDON PLAYERS TO-NIGHT.

To-night at Griffin's Opera House, one of the treats of the present theatrical season awaits the patrons of Griffin's when the notable English character actor Mr. Wm. Hawtrey, will be seen, supported by his company of distinguished London players in a three act farcical comedy "Dear Old Billy." If the critics in the principal metropolitan cities of the country may be relied upon, particularly in Chicago, where the piece played to crowded houses for nearly four months nothing funnier than this English farce has been seen in this country. "Dear Old Billy" is a crisp, clever comedy, just teeming with laughs, full of speed and wholesomely clean. In the title role Mr. Hawtrey does the best work of his illustrious career. The company and production to be seen here will be exactly as presented at Chicago. A few choice seats left at Doyle's Drug Store.

Letters received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry. headquarters from one of the prominent artists of New York, who has just returned from a trip over the Grand Trunk Pacific as far as the Canadian Rockies, contains the following:

"I went out to the end of steel on the Grand Trunk Pacific, then took the trail over to Maligne Lake, which I found to be the most beautiful lake I ever saw in all my life. I had a delightful trip and made several sketches. Returning, I stopped off at Wainwright, and from there went duck shooting in different directions, and had a most delightful time. Next year I hope to get away earlier and see more of your delightful country."

Death of a Distiller

NEW RULES FOR RAILWAY ENGINES

Regular Inspection and Tests of Boilers Ordered By Commission

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—After January 1, 1912, the inspection and testing of locomotives on all railways under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission of Canada, will be governed by new and rigid rules which the board has issued to every road affected. The new rules are designed for the safety and protection of the public, fixing as they do, the responsibility for accidents caused by defective boilers on those directly responsible for the condition of these. They are to be known as "rules for the inspecting and testing of locomotive boilers and other appurtenances." Companies are to be responsible for the general design and construction of locomotive boilers under their control. A safe working pressure is to be fixed by the chief mechanical officer of the company, or a competent mechanical engineer under his supervision. The mechanical officer in charge at each point where boiler work is done will be held responsible for the inspection of all locomotive boilers. Rules governing every detail of this inspection are then given, and it is ordered that not less than once a month, or fifteen days after inspection, a report of the inspection is to be filed with the chief operating officer of the board for each locomotive used. In case of accident from failure of locomotive boilers or their appurtenances, resulting in serious injury or death, the carrier company owning or operating the locomotive is required to immediately wire the board's operating officer regarding the accident, and the complete list of killed and injured. A penalty of $100 is fixed for contravention of any of the clauses in the new order.

TOOTHPICK AS A MURDER CLEW

A Mysterious Motoring Crime is Puzzling the Police in France

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The French police are trusting to the evidence of a toothpick to enable them to capture a murderer whose crime presents some of the features of the old-fashioned detective novel.

A murder was committed in a motor car at dusk near Melun. A gamekeeper on his rounds heard two shots, and hurried in the direction of the sound. On the high road next to a little wood he saw a small grey motor car. The driver was bending over something in the road, and as the game keeper came up he jumped into the car and drove off at full speed.

On the road the game keeper found the body of a man, apparently about fifty years old. He was quietly dressed and looked like a commercial traveller. He had been shot through the head twice, but was still breathing. His pockets had been rifled, but not all of them, for there was $90 in French currency still on him. The game keeper took the man to a farm close at hand, and he died at eleven o'clock at night without having uttered a word.

When the police came they went through the dead man's clothing with care, and a toothpick rewarded them. It was a flat piece of pointed wood, with the word 'Saulieu' stamped on it. One of the detectives got on his bicycle and rode to the nearest telephone. He came back in a half an hour with the information that the name of the dead man was Mandino, that he and the chauffeur had luncheon toghter at a hotel in Saulieu in the Cote d'Or Department, on Sunday, that they had spoken in Italian, said they had come from Italy by road and that the number of their small grey motor car was 701—S—2.

This is a French number. The car was registered either in the Rhone or in the Loire departments. It was found later twenty miles from the scene of the murder, near Lieusant. Inquiries at the station traced the driver again. He had eaten a good luncheon at the buffet in Lieusant, where he had arrived on foot. He had changed his clothes in the station and departed for Paris by the 2.39 train.

There is every probability that the police will catch the man, and if they do the toothpick which the murdered man slipped into his pocket after his luncheon on Sunday at the hotel in Saulieu may avenge his murder.

Only a man who is very rich can afford to say all the things he would like to say.

FOR AGED PEOPLE

OLD FOLKS SHOULD BE CAREFUL IN THEIR SELECTION OF REGULATIVE MEDICINE.

We have a safe, dependable, and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitutions who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorders. We are so certain that it will relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer it with our personal guarantee that it shall cost the user nothing if it fails to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, girping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowels, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity. Three sizes, 10c., 25c., and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store.—J. S. McKeown, Belleville.

The ensuing crash that filled the house was like an explosion. It also drowned my comments. To make matters worse, in my efforts to keep from falling, my revolver shot from my hand and through the balusters, and went clattering down to the landing with the noise of a falling brick.

I recovered myself on the instant, however, and with a final malediction, darted toward the bath room. There was a sound of scurrying behind its door; but I paused not for doors. Fortunately it was a trifle ajar, and it went open before me with a thud. Also from behind it a most unmistakable human grunt emanated, the sort of involuntary notice a person gives when he has the wind suddenly knocked out of him. Then right in my ears there sounded the most weird, unearthly cry that I ever heard; it was positively uncanny. A cold chill went through me from head to foot.

Event thereafter moved with such electric swiftness that the details are all blurred.

I remember that I heard Stodger shouting encouragement, and his stockinged feet patting bare floors as he ran. As the bath room door shot open and the strange cry shrilled forth, some object fell to the floor near me. There was also a sound of running feet up the rear stairs; which would indicate that my enemy was a host, and that the main body was returning to accomplish a rescue.

In a flash I had reached forth my arms and grappled with the unknown behind the door. That struggle would have been short, for he was like a child in my grasp. But instantly I was seized from all sides at once, it seemed. It was as if a dozen hands were feeling over me, to distinguish friend from foe.

Into what had I rushed so blindly? Who was opposing me? How many were there?

At least twice I was borne to one knee by sheer weight and the number of my assailants. Both times I succeeded in shaking myself free and rising again to my feet. I was warm enough now, heaven knows, and I had the satisfaction of knowing that I was inflicting far more damage than I was receiving.

I knew when Stodger unhesitatingly threw himself into the thick of the fray. Good old Stodger! And there we fought, silently, furiously, in the restricted space of the bath room, enveloped in a darkness that one could almost feel. Again and again I collided with the porcelain tub. More than once when I secured a firm grasp upon one of my unseen adversaries, I picked him up bodily and hurled him with all the force of which I was capable toward where I fancied the tub to be. But in the riot and frenzied confusion of being jerked first this way and then that, how could mortal distinguish the location of anything!

The struggle ended abruptly. Stodger and I were at a disadvantage, for he dared not shoot on my account, and I had no weapon but my two bare hands.

Not so our antagonist, however. Of a sudden one side of my face felt as if some one had quickly drawn the tip of a red-hot poker from the corner of my eye to my chin. At the same instant a crushing blow caught me above one ear.

The blow did not render me unconscious, but it more than staggered me. For an instant such strength as was left me was needed to keep from tumbling headlong. I was on my knees and one hand, while the other arm was hooked over the rim of the tub.

The fight had ended. I could hear a patter of feet on the rear stairs; I could hear some one near me on the floor, breathing heavily; then fell silence.

I tried to yell to Stodger to be up and after them, but the result was only a painful wheezing in my throat. Then the gasping form on the floor groaned, and I managed to get dizzily to my feet.

We received the worst of the fight in more ways than one. When I managed to find a candle and light it, I discovered that Stodger was the one who had groaned. He was sitting up, not badly hurt, and staring dazedly at the candle. His mouth hung ludicrously open. But in a moment he struggled upright.

"Good God, Swift!" he gasped. "You've been butchered!"

Then I recalled the red-hot poker. I put a hand to my cheek; it came away covered with blood. From the shoulder down, my clothes were saturated with it, and I had left a crimson trail to mark each of my movements since the keen-edged blade had laid my face open.

But enough of the wound. The white pucker of scar which to-day disfigures my face will be a lifelong momento of that spirited combat in the dark.

After we were in condition to do so, Stodger and I set about an inspection of the scene.

First of all we didn't find a trace of our adversaries, or how many of them there might have been, until we came to the snow outside. An open dining-room window indicated their method of ingress, the trampled snow beneath their number. There had been five.

"Why the bath room?" Stodger demanded, in deep perplexity. "Why should everything that happens in this house be pulled off there?"

Why indeed?

"Let's go back there and try to find out," I returned, stiffly, for my cheek was paining under the mass of plaster that Stodger had piled upon it.

Carefully and systematically, we went over every inch of space—I don't know how many times I had done so since the murder—but found absolutely nothing that was not already familiar to me. It was miserably aggravating that every search I undertook in this house of mystery should prove fruitless. Yet, we could find nothing whatever to serve as a reply to Stodger's pertinent question.

It was before the bath room door that Felix Page had met his death; it was the bath room that had been designated on the chart found by me in the snow; it was to this point that both Alexander Burke and Alfred Fluette had turned with a glance of ardent eagerness; it was to the bath room that Geneveive had pursued the mysterious yellow face—always the bath room. It would seem to be the converging point of the tragedy's every moving current.

We were about to give it up in despair, when I started forward with a wordless cry. The bar of yellow soap was gone!

On the instant the import of this discovery flashed into my mind. How blind and dull I had been!

During the struggle Tuesday night, between Page and—shall I say Fluette?—in the hall, Burke had in some way secured the ruby, and with diabolical cleverness had pressed it into the bar of soap! A bit of manipulation under the water-tap had removed all traces. Think of the brain that could light upon a hiding-place like that in the stress of such a moment! And I had paused by that very bar of soap, philosophizing and moralizing—it made me sick to think of it. No wonder they were all so interested in the bath-room!

This revelation left my mind blank for a second. Then came a rush of mingled feelings—bitter chagrin and disappointment, mortification because I had been outwitted, and blind, hot resentment against those who had bested me.

Recalling the object I had heard drop to the floor at the moment I dashed the door open, I dropped to my hands and knees and began a feverish search for some sign. Yes, there it was—a small smear of soap, where the bar had struck.

For a while Stodger thought I was crazy, and perhaps I was. I fumed and raved at him for not entering into the search with a frenzied zeal equal to mine. At last he too understood.

But our pawing over the floor and the stairs, and even in the snow outdoors, availed nothing. We were beaten, confounded, made a laughing-stock.

The bar of soap was gone.

BONAR LAW NEW LEADER

Says that the Canadian Elections Were a Declaration for Reciprocal Preference.

(Special Cable Service.)

LONDON.—Andrew Bonar Law, the new Unionist leader in the House of Commons, who succeeded Mr. Balfour, made his first speech at a leader at the annual conference of the Conservative associations of Great Britain at Leeds.

Mr. Law dwelt at length upon the Canadian elections, paying a warm tribute to ex-Premier Laurier as being the first to give preference to Great Britain and thereby setting an example to be followed by the other dominions. His admiration for Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not abated a jot when he rejoiced at the result of the elections. It was an ignorant and impudent claim, he said, that the elections did not bear upon the cause of preference. They were, and are, an emphatic reminder that reciprocal preference is the aim of Great Britain's autonomous dominions.

Our Municipal Government

The most important question for decision by the taxpayers of Belleville at the forthcoming municipal election is whether the city shall continue to be governed hereafter by an unwieldy body of twenty-one members, three chosen by each ward separately, or by a much more compact body of ten members elected by the votes of the ratepayers of all the city.

That the latter is the best and fairest system—particularly to the tenant and to the small property owner—is apparent on the face of the facts which have previously been published in these columns.

The objections to the ward system are many and weighty, and the most pronounced of them may be thus concisely stated:

1.—The ratepayer who is on the voters' list in one ward only can vote on the election of but three of the twenty-one aldermen who are to spend his taxes and transact the city's business. Under the general system, he could vote on the election of every member of the Council.

2.—Under the ward system men who could not be elected on a vote of all the taxpayers are enabled to secure seats in the Council. A small ward is so much easier to manipulate than is the whole city. No man should have a seat in Council unless he has the confidence of a majority of the people.

3.—The ward system fosters a narrow prejudice in each of the several divisions of the city and is inimical to the general welfare.

4.—It is the chief cause of log-rolling and grafting, on the "you help me and I'll help you" principle, of which there have been many costly manifestations during the past three years.

5.—In order to secure re-election weak or unscrupulous representatives work for undue expenditures in their constituencies, to the detriment of the general interest. Judge Cannon, the commissioner who investigated the charges of grafting in civic affairs at Montreal and discovered a veritable sink-hole of corruption, reported that the ward system was responsible for nearly the whole of it through aldermen wanting to make themselves "solid" with the electors.

6.—The committee work of the Council is conducted in such a way that what is done is known to the members of one committee only, while under the general system the committees are composed of virtually all the members, and each committee transacts its business on the same evening and at the same place, so that all the aldermen are aware of what is being done.

7.—The number of aldermen under the ward system is too great. In the multitude of councillors there is not wisdom, and the business is generally transacted without order as to its conduct.

8.—A voter in one of the small wards has as much power as two, or even three, voters in one of the larger wards.

We will deal further with this subject in subsequent issues.

Ne Temere

This decree of the Roman Catholic Church is still creating great interest, not only in the Province of Quebec, but throughout the whole Dominion, and will be fought to the end.

L. J. Loranger, counsel for Hebert, declares that

> "The Roman Catholic Church as well as Mr. Hebert, for whom I am acting, wish a final decision on the point of the church's authority to annul marriages not made in accord with ecclesiastical law. We demand that the principle involved in the Hebert and other cases be given a hearing before the Supreme Court or Court of Appeal. We believe that in asking the court to annul the Hebert marriage we were acting on our rights within the code of Quebec.".

This declaration of the counsel for the Church was met by an emphatic statement from George V. Cousins, Madame Hebert's lawyer, when shown the declaration of Mr. Loranger. "Does Hebert say," asked Cousins, "that he is within his rights under the Quebec code? That remains to be proved. In any event, those who stand behind Eugene Hebert can rest assured that Madame Hebert's rights and the rights of all wives similarly situated will be established according to Protestant ideas before this case is completed. There is no lack of money on either side, and we intend to press the case for a final decision so binding that the Roman Catholic Church shall not circumvent it.".

The sooner this extraordinary claim of the Church of Rome is finally settled the better for the peace of the country. If the code of Quebec gives the power to annul marriages of the character of the one now attracting so much attention, Parliament must step in and correct the evil. No such power should be allowed to continue for a day longer than it would take to pass an act of Parliament rendering it ineffective.

Prohibition

Prohibition has met defeat in New Zealand. A cablegram of Dec. 11th from Wellington says:—

> A proposal to adopt a general law of prohibition against the sale of alcoholic liquors throughout Zealand, has been defeated on submission to the people. The complete returns of a referendum held on the subject recently show that 255,864 persons voted in favor of the measure, while 202,608 voted against it. The proportion of voters required by law in order to carry a proposition into effect is 60 per cent.

Now it is in line for Liberal prohibitionists in Canada to denounce the New Zealand law for demanding a 60 per cent. vote, claiming that a majority should govern, and with the same breath defend Sir Wilfrid for refusing to pass a prohibition bill, on the ground that the vote recorded in favor of it when the question was submitted to the people was 15,000, but then Quebec gave a majority against prohibition. That was good enough reason for Sir Wilfrid to ignore the rest of the Dominion.

Looking Into Intercolonial.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Owing to many complaints received by the Government about the management of the Intercolonial Railway, it has been decided to fully investigate conditions on that road.

As a means of investigation, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways, has appointed Emile Jolly of Quebec, and James A. Macdonald, commissioners, to look into the charges of partisanship and neglect of duty preferred against some high officials of that company.

Tariff Changes.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—The feeling is growing that the federal budget when it comes down in January will contain some tariff changes. But if they do come down they will be few and judged to be absolutely necessary. The bulk of the suggested changes may be referred to the Tariff Commission, which, it is said, will be authorized in an early measure.

C.N.R. Issue Fell Flat.

London, Dec. 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The issue of $35,000,000 of C.N.R. stock by Lazars closed early, the underwriter getting 90 per cent. The result shows its unpopularity at the present time considering the unfavorable condition of the market. The issue was of 3 1-2 per cent. 50-year stock at 93, guaranteed by the Dominion Government.

WHAT FAMOUS AUTHORS ARE PAID FOR THEIR WORKS

Rudyard Kipling, Conan Doyle, Sir Gilbert Parker and a Few Others Stand at the Head—Their Words are Literally Golden—Interesting Facts as to the Earnings of High Class Literary Men

Kipling asks $10,000 for a two-part story of 10,000 words. Harpers have paid him as much as $2,500 for a short story not exceeding 5,000 words. The Delineator is said to have paid him a dollar a word for a short story. There is a question as to whether he often gest this last named price even in America, for it is known that although he recently asked through his agent $10,00 for a two part 10,000 word story, he later accepted a flat rate of $4,000 for it. Since his illness several years ago in New York, his rates have ranged from 35c. to a dollar a word. Of late his minimum rate has approximated towards 65 cents a word. It is understood that the Associated Sunday Magazines pay that price to him for his short stories.

It is well known that Conan Doyle received $50,000 for thirteen of his Sherlock Holmes stories. Since they were approximately 5,000 word stories his rate on them was about 73 cents a word. As a rule he commands a flat rate of $1,000 for a short story, the flat rate being understood as the sum paid for the work irrespective of its length.

Sir Gilbert Parker is another writer who gets $1,000 for a short story. The only other writers who are known to receive this price are William Dean Howells, Robert W. Chambers, Rex Beach, Jack London, Richard Harding Davis and Owen Wister.

One of the curious facts of authorship is that women writers have difficulty in commanding prices as high as the men writers in their own class. This is true to such an extent that many editors agree to pay their women writers higher prices if they will take masculine pen names.

Some of the writers who receive between $250 and $500 for a short story are Gouverneur Morris, George Randolph Chester, Thomas Nelson Page, George W. Cable, Edith Wharton, Gertrude Atherton, James Hopper, Richard Le Gallienne. Justin Miles Forman comes in a lower class of lower prices, but oddly enough authors say that he gets higher prices in England than any other American short story writer.

Why are authors paid such high prices to-day? The editor of one of the leading fiction magazines said recently in a discussion on this question:

"Ten years ago a man would have been locked up in a lunatic asylum for paying such a price as $500 for a short story. The price for a short story now ranges from $100 to $2,500. Mere beginners, people entirely unknown to us, send in manuscripts and ask $300 for them. I should say that the average price paid by us for a short story is $250. $500 is a very good price."

John O'Hara Cosgrave, formerly editor of Everybody's Magazine, says:

"In the business of literature the relation between supply and demand regulates prices just as it does in any other business. Good stories are difficult get. They are not manufactured in a night. The man who writes the best short stories does not write many in a year. This fact tends to make the stories expensive.

"Men are getting more money for their work now than they ever got before. The era of high prices for short stories came with the best seller. The man who writes a popular novel will get a high price for his stories, because the magazine editors feel that some of the popularity of the novelist will be contributed to their magazines. If the name of a well-known novelist appears on the title page of a magazine the editor feels certain that the people who have read the author's novel will buy the magazine.

"The best writers now get 7 1-2, 8, and 10 cents a word; $500 used to be an exceedingly high price for a story. The price an author gets for his work is due to the best seller he may have written or to a repetition of a certain quality of work.

"Robert W. Chambers began selling stories to the Saturday Evening Post They made a popular appeal. The editors thought there was a relation between the popularity of the Saturday Evening Post and that of Robert W. Chambers, and so in that way the demand for his work increased."

Robert Underwood Johnson, editor of the Century, when asked as to the policy of his magazine with respect to writers and their prices, said:

"The Century has no fixed rate of payment, but has no difficulty in meeting the reasonable demands of authors. Other things being equal, we pay more for reputation, of course; this is the law of all professions. If Balzac were living and were to send us an eight-page story we should undoubtedly pay more for it than for an eight page story by a young woman just graduated from Vassar.

"We do not do 'shovelling' here. I mean by this that it is not our custom to ask an author for a story with the understanding that we are to take it irrespective of its acceptability. Of course, one makes mistakes, but we are always looking for quality, and we do not take work merely for the sake of the author's name.

"It is so true as to be a common jest that any newly established magazine which sends around a conscription to authors will get a large yield of shelf worn manuscripts, newly dusted and with a freshly copied out side page. I think most editors agree with the one who said in classic phrase: "I'd rather have a nice batch of fresh dope from a new writer than a lot of hand-me-downs from the high-brows" It is not difficult for an editor to give steady vogue to the good work of new writers, while many a reputation that has gone up like a rocket came down like a stick.

"It is well known that the excessive, sometimes ridiculous, demands made by certain literary agents have caused editors to refuse to pay sensational prices. They have seemed to be acting on the principle of 'charging all the traffic will bear.' During the last few years, largely as a result of this situation, prices for fiction by certain writers have tended to decrease. The agents are coming to their senses, and are apparently doing more business.

"I think the word 'potboiler' has been greatly misused. It should not be applied to writing for money. There is nothing degrading about a man's earning money with his art Thackeray and Dickens wrote in order to pay the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker. The artist is not less an artist because the initial motive is necessity. He make go to his desk with that motive and yet do his work on the highest artistic plane. It is when a man relies on his reputation and writes poor stuff in order to get the money he knows his name will bring that his output deserves the opprobrium that goes with the word 'potboiler.' I believe the public, as well as the editor, is quick to apprehend such deterioration."

It is not uninteresting to note the difference in arrangement of names in the list given out by editors of high priced authors. All editors agree that Kipling is the highest priced writer we have. They seem to feel that his fame is deserved. But most of them disagree about other writers.

One of the best known editors in New York, a man noted for his industry, arranged the names of the high priced authors in this way: Stewart Edward White, Robert W. Chambers, Rudyard Kipling, Richard Harding Davis, Jack London, Frances Hodgson Burnett, George Randolph Chester, Montague Glass, Lloyd Osbourne S. H. Adams, Gouverneur Morris, Edwin Lefevre, Booth Tarkington, Robert Herrick.

A glance at the magazines with a view of the number of stories they publish gives an idea of the demand there is for short fiction. Harpers have three magazines.

Pension Fund For Montreal.

Montreal, Dec. 13.—A report was sent yesterday by William Robb, city treasurer, to the board of control, in regard to the establishment of a civic pension fund, and its cost.

It is shown that all the permanent employes of the corporation, which include police, firemen, clerks, and permanent employes of the road department, shall be included in the fund. One per cent. of their salaries will be taken to sustain it.

"Gone to 23."

Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 13.—Additional signs of life were discovered in the Cross Mountain mine at 11 o'clock. On the walls of the main shaft were found inscribed these words: "We have gone to 23." A crudely drawn "index hand" aimed at entry No. 23, pointed out the way.

COULDN'T GET STRONG

SEEMED TO HAVE LOST ALL AMBITION, WAS PALE AND ANAEMIC.

MADE WONDERFUL RECOVERY WHEN DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS WERE USED.

"I was never actually sick," writes Mrs. La Pierre, wife of a well-known resident of Labeniene, "yet I never could get strong like other women. I ate well enough, but somehow blood rich and red I could never make When I married I took great pride in my housekeeping, but it kept me tired all the time. Mrs. Lechance, my neighbor, loked well—she told me her health had been made by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I only thought of pills as a physic, but now I know that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are more, for they quickened my stomach, liver and bowels—made me stouter and stronger, gave me such color in my cheeks as I never had before. They do good to parts in ways I need not mention in this letter, but I sincerely believe that Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used at regular intervals by every woman —that's why I write this letter."

No medicine invigorates a woman like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25 cents a box, all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

AN AUSTRIAN TRAGEDY

Private Tutor In Revenge Shot His Pupil and Her Brother.

A terrible tragedy has taken place in the house of a former official in the Ministry of Justice, Austria. The teacher of his children, Chevalier de Matkovich, aged 24 years, had asked for the hand of the baron's daughter, Marie, who is also 24 years of age. The father refused the request. Matkovich thereupon entered the house in the absence of the father and mother, and shot Marie with a revolvel. He also killed her brother Robert, aged 21, and mortally wounded another brother George aged 17. The murderer then committed suicide with the same revolver. The parents returning home were met by a terrible spectacle.

DEER KICKED TO DEATH.

A farmer residing one mile west of Clyde, near Kingston, discovered a deer weighing one hundred and fifty pounds caught by the horns on the wire fence of one of his fields. Investigation showed that the deer had been kicked to death by horses pasturing in the field.

BEFRIENDING ROCKEFELLER

Not Bright Enough to Do Business in New York, Better go Back to New York, According to the Hat Boy.

Some folks think that Percy Rockefeller is the rising hope of the Rockefeller family. He is credited with being wise and wary, equipped with a positive gush of conversation that doesn't commit, when that sort of chatter is needed, and to be so silent at other times that a dungeon in a deaf and dumb asylum would sound like the whispering gallery in St. Paul's Cathedral in comparison. He keeps a thumb on the public pulse, and knows a lot of things about popular sentiment that many other rich men do not know.

The other night he went to a restaurant with a party of friends. The restaurant is rather a favorite of his, and the immature pirate in charge of the hat-room had learned to know him. Mr. Rockefeller handed him his mushed and desiccated old brown hat as he entered. It was a good hat, —once. The hat pirate looked on Mr. Rockefeller with pity in his gaze. By and by Mr. Rockefeller's little supper ended, and he returned to the coatroom to retrieve his hat. Instead of that decrepit old brown lid, the boy handed him a brand-new one, of the same general form and bearing the label of America's most expensive maker. It fitted Mr. Rockefeller perfectly, but he handed it back. "That isn't my hat," said he.

"Get wise, boss," said the hat pirate. "Nudge by with it while you can. It's worth ten of them old kettles you been wearin'."

Mr. Rockefeller said that was undoubtedly true, but he did not want to rob an unknown of a new hat.

"Say," said the boy, in disgust, "I thought I was doin' you a favour, because you been a good feller. But you better go back where you come from. You ain't bright enough to do business in Noo York."

A Time of Change.

We are in one of the great crisis of the world's history; the era of transition is full upon us, and there 's no people which is not rocking on its waves. International relations are changing, Empires are being broken up, immemorial systems are passing away, struggles are threatening that will involve half the human race.

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 31, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman

London, Ont.—I feel as if I could not tell others enough about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was so weak and tired that I could not rest nights. A friend recommended your Compound and I soon gained health and strength and could not wish to sleep better. I know other women who have taken it for the same purpose and they join me in praising it.—Mrs. WM. A. BUFFY, 905 Dame St., London, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has surely cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

His Original Sin.

In a country seat in one of the middle Western States dwelt a lawyer who, after a practice of thirty years, had accumulated a competence and retired. Being a man of much more than ordinary ability, an excellent speaker, entertaining decided political views, and enjoying the confidence of the community, he was urged by his friends to run for Congress. He refused. A man high in the political councils of the State came to see him, and added his persuasion.

"You ought to take that office," he said. "It might lead to something higher. You would make a national reputation."

"That's what I am afraid of."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Well," answered the lawyer, hesitatingly, "I will tell you, but it is in strict confidence. It must not go any further. Many years ago, when I was young and inexperienced, I published a small volume of original poetry. So far as I know, there is not a copy of that book in existence now, but one would turn up in some corner of the world if I were to run for office, and the papers would print extracts from it. I wouldn't have that happen for a million dollars. No, sir, nothing doing!"

T.R.H. IN MONTREAL.

Governor-General Gets Big Reception In Metropolis.

Montreal, Dec. 13.—T.R.H. the Duke and Duchess of Connaught arrived here yesterday, accompanied by the Princess Patricia. Their visit will extend over four days.

Immediately on their arrival at 3 p.m. they were driven to the City Hall where the civic address of welcome was read, together with loyal addresses from the British Army and Navy Veterans. The royal party then drove to Royal Victoria College, where a special convocation of McGill University was held and the honorary degree of LL.D. conferred upon His Royal Highness.

Following this the Duke and Duchess of Connaught entertained a small party at dinner and later the public reception in their honor at the City Hall, was was attended by several hundred prominent citizens.

The weather was most inauspicious and the Governor-General and his party drove from place to place over streets inches deep in mud, in the midst of a steady drizzle of rain.

Despite the weather and that the mayor's proclamation of a public holiday met with little response from employers, owing to the Christmas rush being already on the streets were lined with people and cheers for the royal visitors were often heard.

Probing Dynamite Shipments.

Indianapolis, Dec. 13.—Who besides John J. and James B. McNamara handled or had knowledge of the interstate shipment of the ton or more of dynamite and nitro-glycerine used in blowing up iron and steel structures erected by firms employing non-union men in the last five years?

This question was enquired into by Government officials yesterday preparatory to the resumption on Thursday of the federal grand jury's investigation of an alleged nation-wide dynamite conspiracy. Clerks who wrote letters, baggagemen shippers and all those who are supposed to have had even the remotest knowledge of the movement of the explosives or where and how they were stored are among the several hundred witnesses who have been summoned to testify before the grand jury.

The instances of the finding of the explosives about which special enquiry was made yesterday, are the following:

Fourteen hundred and ninety pounds of dynamite discovered in a padlocked box in a barn in the rear of Ortie E. McManigal's father's home at Tiffin, Ohio, April 23, 1911.

Guelph Winter Fair.

Guelph, Dec. 13.—This was the opening day of the provincial winter fair, and there was a large crowd in attendance. The horse ring was a big attraction, and all available space was occupied by those anxious to see the best exhibition of horses yet shown at the winter fair. The judging started yesterday afternoon, and but few awards have yet been made.

The heavy draught horses are exceptionally fine and some of the judges say a better collection has never been brought together in Canada. Another great feature of the fair is the poultry show, with over five thousand entries.

The competition in sheep is very keen, there being about five hundred entries, many of which captured prizes at the Chicago International Show last week. The dairy test of milch cows was concluded Monday night. There were sixty entries in this class, about twenty more than last year. There were no Jerseys entered.

The wet weather of the past few days has made the roads so bad that it may affect the attendance of local farmers, who have far to drive, but big crowds are expected by train today and to-morrow.

M.C.R. Men Ask Arbitration.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Three thousand men in western Ontario are deeply interested in an application which was received at the Department of Labor yesterday. It came from the station agents, telephone and telegraph operators of the Michigan Central Railway, who ask for a board of arbitration under the Labor Disputes Investigation Act, to take up matters connected with their working conditions and rates of pay. They also desire a new schedule of rules.

The present application is one of the most interesting that has ever been received by the Labor Department, as it applies to a company of which the principal officers are not citizens of Canada, but live in the United States.

Dogs Go Wild.

Our tame dogs would all go wild if left to themselves for a few years They tried the experiment once on Robinson Crusoe's Island. They left some of their dogs there, and nobody called at the island again for about thirty years. And they found all the dogs had become quite wild. They hunted just like wolves, and they had forgotten how to bark; they could only howl. It was not till they became used to men again that they learnt to bark. A few years ago two dogs near to Nottingham lost their owners, so they made homes for themselves in a field. They hunted sheep and lambs, and did a great deal of damage. Just as the wild dogs of India and Africa and Australia do They looked just like wolves—so much had they changed during the months they had lived the life of wild dogs; and, finally, they had to be shot.

Yes you can, with a box of ZUTOO Tablets in your pocket or home.

Taken when you feel a headache coming on, one little tablet will ward it off—nip it in the bud. Taken later it will cure the headache in twenty minutes.

Why then continue to suffer when a box of ZUTOO will make you headache proof. You would be suprised to know how many people, who never before used a headache remedy, are now using ZUTOO Tablets. Why not you?

PRIZE BILL REJECTED

Lords Hold Up Declaration of London For Two Years.

On Ground That Measure Gave to Great Britain Only the Same Representation Given to Petty Central American Republics, Earl of Selbourne Moves Refusal—Asquith Is Blocked, But May Force It Through

London, Dec. 13.—The House of Lords last night rejected the naval prize bill by a vote of 145 to 53. The Earl of Selbourne, in moving the rejection, objected to the constitution of the proposed international prize court, pointing out that it gave the British Empire only the same representation as that accorded to petty Central American republics. Furthermore, he sadi, the bill permitted an appeal from the British Privy Council to the prize court, but no corresponding appeal from the United States Supreme Court, the representatives of the United States having discovered that under their constitution it is impossible to carry an appeal from their supreme court to any international tribunal. It was, therefore, possible, Lord Selbourne argued, to get two sets of conflicting judgments.

The naval prize bill passed its third reading in the House of Commons on Dec. 7, a motion for its rejection being defeated by 172 to 125. Its rejection by the House of Lords had been predicted. The passage of the naval prize bill would be tantamount to approval of the Declaration of London, the international agreement respecting prizes in naval warfare.

According to The London Daily Telegraph, the rejection of the naval prize bill was determined upon by the House of Lords in order to prevent the Government from ratifying the Declaration of London. This procedure will delay the passage of the prize bill for two years, and the Declaration of London cannot be ratified until the prize bill has received the royal assent.

The Prime Minister, however, last June made it plain in the House of Commons that the British Government intended, despite all protests from British admirals, ship owners and chambers of commerce, to force through the ratification of the Declaration of London, which had been approved by the Government after the fullest possible deliberation.

More Suffragettes Sentenced.

London, Dec. 13.—Twenty-two suffragettes, arrested with 200 companions in connection with the demonstration at the House of Commons on Nov. 21, were indicted at the London sessions yesterday. About 200 had been summarily sentenced by the police magistrate at Bow street police court on minor charges.

The accused who appeared yesterday had on their first appearance been committed for trial at the sessions and now had to answer more serious charges of maliciously damaging property.

All the prisoners pleaded not guilty. They were brought in in batches of four. The first group when found guilty refused to undertake to refrain from similar lawlessness in the future and were sentenced to two months in jail.

C.N.R. President Leaves For France.

Montreal, Dec. 13.—Sir Wm. Mackenzie arrived in Montreal yesterday and left at noon for Halifax, on his way to France, to spend Christmas with his son-in-law and daughter, the Count and Countess de Lesseps. He was accompanied by D. B. Hanna, vice-president and general manager, Canadian Northern Railway, who is going to England on business.

Sir William said that he would have no announcement to make regarding the plans of the C.N.R. terminals in Montreal until his return, early in the new year. His representatives in this city, he said, were still hard at work on the scheme, and Col. Davidson, the company's land commissioner, had come down from Toronto yesterday to personally settle up the land end of the scheme.

Britain Averts Big Strike.

London, Dec. 13.—The Government, after inducing the employes of the Postoffice Department not to strike on the eve of the Christmas holidays, has obtained another victory, when yesterday, through its efforts, a second strike of the railway men was averted. The conference, which was brought about by the Government, ended in the signing of an agreement which, though it does not contain any provision for the direct recognition of the unions by the companies, greatly facilitates the access of the workmen to their employers when matters are in dispute, and for which purpose the unions were formed. In the opinion of many of the labor leaders this action will ultimately lead to the recognition of the union directly.

McNamaras In Jute Mill.

San Quentin, Cal., Dec. 31.—"James B. McNamara has not been examined yet by the prison physician for tuberculosis, and it is impossible to state when he may be," said Warden J. E. Hoyle yesterday.

The McNamaras began their second day's lesson in the jute mill, according to the prison authorities.

Owing to his familiarity with printing machinery, James B. has appeared the quicker of the brothers in mastering the mechanism. The working of a loom is not simple and several weeks are allowed prisoners for learning.

Fired on British Steamer.

Marseilles, France, Dec. 13.—The British steamer Baron Polwarth, which sailed from Manilla on Nov. 8 for this port arrived yesterday and reported that she had been fired upon by an Italian cruiser while passing through the Red Sea on Nov. 30. Her bows were badly damaged when she came into port. The captain says that the commander of the Italian cruiser apologized for the occurrence.

WHEN LINCOLN WAS SHOT.

Booth, Taking Advantage of Guard's Temporary Neglect, Rushed Through the Box Entrance and Accomplished His Deed.

When Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln and their party sat down in their box at Ford's Theatre the fateful night the President was shot, the guard who was acting as substitute for Col. McCook, took his position at the rear of the box, close to an entrance leading into the box from the dress circle of the theatre. His orders were to stand there, fully armed, and to permit no unauthorized person to pass into the box. His orders were to stand there and protect the President at all hazards. From the spot where he was thus stationed, this guard could not see the stage or the actors; but he could hear the words the actors spoke, and he became so interested in them that, incredible as it may seem, he quietly deserted his post of duty, and, walking down the dimly lighted aisle, deliberately took a seat in the last row of the dress circle. It was while the President was thus absolutely unprotected through this guard's amazing recklessness—to use no stronger words—that Booth rushed through the entrance to the box, just deserted by the guard, and accomplished his foul deed. Realization of his part in the assassination so preyed upon the mind of the guard that he finally died as a result of it.

WHAT DID HE MEAN?

"Two men got into a fight in front of the bank to-day," said a local tradesman at his family tea-table, "and I tell you it looked pretty nasty for one of them. The bigger one seized a great stick and brandished it. I felt that he was going to knock the other's brains out, and I jumped in between them."

The family had listened with rapt attention, and as the head paused in his narrative, the young heir, whose respect for his father's bravery is immeasurable, proudly remarked:

"He couldn't knock any brains out of you, could he, father?"

The head of the family gazed long and earnestly at the heir, as if to detect evidence of a dawning humorist; but, as the youth continued with great innocence to munch his bread and butter, he gasped and resumed his tea.

OLD ORDER RESUMED

Officials Get Back to Routine After Elections.

Sir James Whitney Is at His Desk Again, Tired But Cheerful — Rainy River Is Still In Doubt—Recount May Be Asked Fof In Case of Hon. Mr. Reaume—Studholme Is Feeling Good—No Protests Registered.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—Neither W. J. Carstairs, nor F. G. Inwood, the party organizers, have received notification yet that any election in the province will be protested, and it is believed that everything will stand as at present. "It would take several days before anything of this nature would develop," said Mr. Inwood last night, "as any parties wanting to contest an election would make pretty sure of their evidence before they would so so."

Sir James Whitney was quite cheerful but a little tired yesterday. He had nothing to say for publication regarding the election beyond what he said Monday night.

The result in Rainy River is still in doubt. One report has W. A. Preston, the former member re-elected, and another has it that an Independent Conservative was chosen. Sir James has wired for particulars.

Col. Hon. A. J. Matheson, Hon. J. S. Duff and Hon. Dr. Pyne were at the Parliament Buildings yesterday and spent the forenoon talking over the situation with the Prime Minister. The other members of the Cabinet are expected in town by to-night.

When Dame Toronto, Monday, again put on her old Conservative bonnet with the Whitney ribbon on it, which she has worn with few alterations for the past generation, but little surprise was occasioned. A. H. Birmingham, the local Conservative organizer, takes the sweeping victory as a matter of course, and has nothing to say of the result. Mr. Carstairs, the Conservative provincial organizer, experiences no especial elation over the vote in the province, as the net rsult was, of cours, a foregone conclusion.

Studholme Is Happy.

Hamilton, Dec. 13.—Although greatly fatigued by his strenuous campaign, Allan Studholme was the happiest man in Hamilton yesterday as the result of his decisive victory at the poll over Controllor W. H. Cooper, the Conservative candidate. The "old man" was not vainly puffed up, but gave the credit for his magnificent victory to those who had helped in the campaign.

Correct returns as given out yesterday, place Studholme's majority at 688 votes, his total vote being 3,525, while Cooper received 2,837. The vote cast in East Hamilton Monday was little more than 65 per cent. of the strength of the constituency. In the west riding, where interest in the election was not so keen, only a bare 50 per cent. of the vote was polled.

Reaume's Close Call.

Windsor, Dec. 13.—Revised returns show Hon. Dr. Reaume, Conservative, leading by 17. The election is in doubt and is claimed by both sides. A recount will likely be asked for.

Changes In Paris.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—The decision of the Dominion Government, reached within the last few days, to consolidate the various branches of the Canadian service in Paris, means that Mr. Anatole Poindron, trade commissioner, will cease to hold office. The trade and commerce and immigration offices are to be placed under one roof, and Canada is to get more advertising in Paris than has obtained under the old system.

Mr. Poindron was appointed by the late Premier and his work, it is alleged, has not been satisfactory. Under the centralization scheme the Paris offices will, it is expected, be conducted at an annual outlay of $12,000 instead of $30,000, the old figures.

C.N.R.'s Big Land Deal.

Prince Albert, Sask., Dec. 13.—The biggest deal in northern Saskatchewan farm lands which has ever come to the attention of the local registry office is now being wound up. The Canadian Northern Railway is transferring a land grant to the Northern Saskatchewan Land Co., Ltd., and the latter company is paying $901,921.70 for the lands involved.

The lands in question are located at Tisdale, Birch Hills, Mellfort and Kinistine districts, and comprise townships 42 and 47, ranges 15 to 25 west of second meridian. The registration and title fees for this deal will approximate $1,175.

NEW RULERS OF INDIA

King and Queen Are Proclaimed Emperor and Empress.

Great Ceremonial at Delhi Is Carried Out With Impressive Pomp and Dignity King Emperor Gives Handsome Sum of Money For Education —Many Other Presents—Delhi Is to Become Seat of Civil Power.

Delhi, Dec. 13.—King George V. and consort, Queen Mary, were proclaimed Emperor and Empress of India yesterday. The culminating act of the monarch's accession to the throne of his vast Indian Dominions took place amid a scene which for richness of color and magnificence of decorations has probably never been surpassed in modern times.

The crowning was followed by an act of generosity on the King-Emperor's part, of which a slight hint had already been given. The viceroy proclaimed that the King-Emperor was to donate a large sum of money to promote the public education, and that further handsome gifts would be made.

The huge amphitheatre, which had been erected in the Durbar camp was thronged with people from an early hour. The bright tissues and sparkling gems of the many Indian princes and the smart uniforms of the soldiers contrasted strongly with the white dress of the European ladies and the sober garb of civilian officials.

The great feudatory princes and rulers of India, with the leading British officials occupied seats of honor near the pavilion located in the centre. Screened from the gaze of the curious by a lattice framework, a number Maharanis and other Indian ladies of high rank occupied two sections of the front galleries.

The interval of waiting was beguiled by the playing of military music. The soldiers played a large part in the Durbar and a guard of honor composed of 100 picked men was drawn up before the central pavilion.

Cheers, mingled with sobs, heralded a little body of veterans, the survivors of the armies which had made the present Durbar possible. The old fighters in their weather-beaten uniforms strove to keep up a show of military formation as they marched to the privileged place allotted them, but generally it was impossible, and many of them limped to their seats.

Almost immediately the vice-regal procession came into view. Escorted by a brilliantly-uniformed native bodyguard, the Viceroy and Lady Hardinge sat in their state carriage, drawn by blooded horses, with outriders uniformed in scarlet and gold.

Carriage after carriage with members o fthe suite followed the imperial pair. The guard presented arms and the bands burst into the royal anthem.

When this gorgeously uniformed line had filed past the imperial and vice-regal parties appeared before the vast assemblage in the Durbar amphitheatre. When they took their seats on the crimson dais the strains of the National Anthem were heard and the people rose as one person and stood in profound silence. It was a pretty group around the four thrones of the Emperor, the Empress, the viceroy and the vicereine at the back of which the imperial and vice-regal staffs and the Imperial Cadet Corps, composed entirely of youthful princes and scions of princely families formed in rank.

The first formal act of the ceremony was performed by the Foreign Secretary, who advanced to the dais and asked permission of the Emperor to open the Durbar. At his signal a long roll from the drums and a thrilling call from the bugles were sounded followed by a triumphant peal of music from the bands. Then a note from the heralds' silver trumpets rang over the plain.

At that moment appeared the striking figure of the imperial herald mounted on a jet black charger and blazing in his brilliant uniform of gold and purple. Behind him were a drummer and sixteen trumpeters, eight British and eight natives. Halting for an instant they sounded another blast and then rode slowly toward the dais where they gave a third call before saluting.

The Emperor then commanded the heralds to read the proclamation announcing the coronation. The herald wheeled his charger round and read aloud so that all could hear that George had been crowned King-Emperor. At that moment the Royal Standard was unfurled from the tall flagstaff in the centre of the arena. The National Anthem was played by the massed bands and as the last notes of the music died away, 101 guns boomed the tidings of the proclamation.

Along the never-ending line of infantry rattled out a continuous firing of blank cartridges.

The herald retired to the entrance of the arena, sounded a further flourish, and the Emperor arose from his throne and bowed to all sides. He sat down once more, the herald called for three cheers for the Emperor, and a mighty roar burst from over 100,000 throats. Natives vied with the British in their acclamations and the cheers within the arena were continued by the troops outside until they extended to the horizon.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Lord Hardinge announced that the King had resolved to devote immediately fifty lakhs of rupees (about $1,600,000) to the promotion of popular education in India, and that further generous gifts will be made for the same purpose.

He also announced that half a month's pay would be granted to the non-commissioned officers and the men as well as to the reservists of the British army in India, and that officers and men of the native army in India would be eligible hereafter to be awarded the Victoria Cross for bravery on the field of battle. A half month's pay was also granted to subordinate civil servants and certain classes of prisoners were released from jail.

Another important change announced by Lord Hardinge was that the seat of Government was in the future to be transferred from Calcutta to Delhi.

The greatest of Durbars ever held in India then came to an end with the National Anthem and a final burst from the silver trumpets.

As the King-Emperor and Queen-Empress, accompanied by Lord and Lady Hardinge and their suites, left the amphitheatre they were cheered time and again by the crowd until they reached their tents.

Calucttu has been the capital of India since 1773. No intimation had been given out that King George was considering changing the seat of Government. No ancient emperor of India ever dreamed of the magnificence and splendor which yesterday marked the formal proclamation of King George and Queen Mary as Emperor and Empress.

King George is the first reigning British Sovereign to visit the Far East, and native potentates and British officials eclipsed themselves in the granduer of the setting for the ceremony. Gems of fabulous value gleamed on the 150 native potentates, but their brilliancy was dimmed by the crown of Queen Mary, from which sparkled the famous Koh-i-noor diamond, for ages the choicest possession of the native emperors, and hundreds of other glittering jewels. King George's crown was equally magnificent. It had been made especially for the ceremony, and no inkling of its design had been given the public. In the centre was a 34-karat Indian emerald, surrounded by 6,170 magnificent diamonds.

Walked Out of Court.

Montreal, Dec. 13.—Walking out of the court in the middle of the proceedings, Eugene Hebert's lawyers protested yesterday morning against the re-opening of the famous Hebert marriage case. Despite these protests, however, Mr. Justice Charbonneau supported the lawyers for the wife in the case to the extent of agreeing to hear evidence and legal argument on the merits of the whole case involving the marriage of Roman Catholics by a Protestant minister.

Two witnesses were called by Mrs. Hebert's lawyers. One was Rev. Father Callahan, who was asked to produce a copy of the Ne Temere decree forbidding the marriage of Catholics by Protestant clergy. The decree now becomes a court record, known as exhibit H. 2, and its text was examined with considerable interest by Judge Charbonneau.

Rev. Wm. Timberlake, the Methodist minister who married Eugene Hebert and Emma Clouatre, was also called to produce a copy of the marriage license.

Emphasis was laid on this production of a marriage license because it is in reality issued by the Lieutenant-Governor, and empowers the clergyman before whom it is presented to solemnize the marriage.

Where Tail Wags the Dog.

Washington, Dec. 13—Railroad stock juggling, exemplified by the "tail wagging the dog," in the case of the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad, over 200 miles long, was discussed at yesterday's session of the house "steel trust" investigating committee. The short-line road is owned absolutely by the U. S. Steel Corporation, which also owns 51 per cent. of the stock of the longer road.

F. C. Baird, general freight agent of the short-line, was a witness. Chairman Stanley brought out that the shorter road's rental of the longer one netted the latter's stockholders about three per cent. a year profits, while the shorter road paid annual dividends of 334 per cent.

Assailant May Be Insane.

Chatham, Dec. 13.—George Senior, the young English immigrant charged with a brutal assault upon his employer. J. W. Robertson of Harwich was remanded yesterday by Magistrate Stanworth for examination by alienists to determine his sanity. If the doctors pronounce Senior to be in his right mind, he will be tried for attempted murder.

Senior was infatuated with his employer's wife and said he tried to kill Robertson because he hated to see him have her. He knocked Robertson down with a spade and was attacking him with a knife when neighbors pulled him off.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—With crop conditions so unfavorable in the Argentine as to lead to withdrawal of wheat offers from that country, the market for the cereal to-day took an upward tilt. The close was firm, 3-8c to 5-8c higher than last night. Latest trading left corn with a net gain of 3-8c to 1-2c, oats up 3-8c to 1-2c and provisions at 7 1-2c to 12 1-2c advance.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d higher than yesterday on wheat, and ½d higher on corn. Antwerp wheat closed ⅜c higher, Buda Pest 1⅛c lower, Paris ¼c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—There was a decided improvement in the demand for Manitoba spring wheat, and the bids from the United Kingdom were better than those from the continent, and as ocean grain room to the former ports is more plentiful than to the latter a fairly good business was done at an advance of 3d per quarter. An easier feeling has prevailed in the market for oats, and prices are ½c per bushel lower, with a fair amount of business doing in car lots.

The demand for American new No. 3 yellow corn is fair at 72c per bushel, ex-track. A fair volume of business is passing in flour for local account, but the foreign bids for spring wheat grades are 6d to 1s per sack out of line, and for winter wheat flour 1s. Millfeed is in good demand and firm. The trade in cheese is quiet, while the demand for butter and eggs is good. Provisions are steady under a fair demand.

CHURCH REGULATION OF MARRIAGES

Archbishop of Rupert's Land Issues Pastoral on Ne Temere Decree

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—Amongst the many important matters dealt with by his Grace, the Archbishop of Rupert's Land, Primate of Canada, in his Advent pastoral letter to the clergy of the Dominion, is the question of the no temere-decree.

The Archbishop says they cannot pass silently over the recent Papal utterance, which "although it purports to be merely a domestic regulation of the Roman Catholic Church, has been used by Roman Catholic priests in such a way as to imperil the sanctity and security of home life. In the face of this undeniable fact, and confronted by the existence of doubts and uncertainties raised thereby, it has seemed good to the General Synod to join in the common movement now on foot for obtaining, as far as possible one uniform marriage law for the whole Dominion, together with such other legislation as may be necessary to secure the civil rights of duly married persons and their offspring, and to afford such persons due protection against the aspersions of individuals and the ecclesiastical rules of any religious body.

"In commending this action to your sympathetic interest and co operation we not only admit but affirm the right of any ecclesiastical body or religious body to make and enforce its own regulations respecting marriage rights, and to prescribe such legitimate penalties (the supreme penalty being excommunication) as it may deem right and wise under the validity of all marriages solemnized the validity of all marriage solemnized by the mutual consent of the parties concerned, before a competent officer, in the presence of witnesses, there being no impediment of preconcert, affinity or consaguinity between the contracting parties, and we maintain that once cosummated such marriage are indissoluble."

FINAL SESSION OF COUNTY COUNCIL

At the final session of the County Council on Friday night the various by-laws were given their third reading and numbered respectively 707 708, 709 and 710.

Mr. P. P. Clark gave notice that he would at the January session introduce a by-law to authorize the County of Hastings to acquire certain land for the purpose of refefestration.

Moved by Mr. Clark, seconded by Mr. Newton, that the Clerk prepare a by-law authorizing the County to acquire certain lands for the purpose of reforestration, according to the statutes and submit the same to the Minister of Agriculture for approval—Carried.

Moved by Mr. N. Vermilyea, seconded by Mr. W. H. Hubbell.

That this Council hereby records its sense of the fine and estimable qualities of James Dryden, Esq., Warden of the County this year. His impartiality, his urbanity and his devotion to his public duties are worthy of all praise and this Council expresses the sincere wish that he may live to see many more years of service to this County.

The motion carried unanimously by a standing vote.

The Warden replied and thanked the Council for its expressions of appreciation for the assistance to him while filling his office.

Moved by Mr. P. P. Clark, seconded by Mr. W. H. Hubbell, that we the Council of Hastings, wish to place on record both our sorrow and our joy at the loss of Robert Cook Reeve of Rawdon, and Sandy Grant Reeve of Tweed, sorrow that these of us who may be back, will lose the wise counsels of the above mentioned Councillors and our joy that our loss in this Council will be our gain that we will be honorably and well represented in the counsels of our Province.—Carried by a standing vote.

Moved by Mr. Dryden, seconded by Mr. Thompson, "That the thanks of this Council be tendered to the officials for their efficient and cordial services during the year."—Carried.

The minutes of December 8th were read and adopted.

Movd by Mr. Vermilyea, seconded by Mr. Hawley, that Council do adjourn sine die.—Carried.

Hooey vs. Tripp—This was an action by the plaintiff to recover possession of part of lot 8 on the north side of Dundas Street, Trenton, according to Evans & Bolger's plan. Defendant got a conveyance of the west half and plaintiff of the east half of the lot. Lot 8 is not rectangular, the northeast corner being cut off by Ridgway Street. The plaintiff claims that each party should have half of the superficial area of the lot. The defendant claims that the front line of the lot should be divided in the centre and a line run to the rear from that and in that way the defendant would have more than half of the superficial area of the lot. Judgment reserved. W. C. Mikel, K.C., for plaintiff; Porter & Carnew for defendant.

INSURANCE CASE IN COUNTY COURT

Plaintif was Non-Suited Because of Lack of Written Notice

Yesterday afternoon at the County Court and General Sessions, after the Grand Jury had been addressed by His Honor Judge Deroche, the first case on the docket, and the only jury case, was taken up. The case was as follows:

Evans vs. Railway Passenger Assurance Company.—This was an action to recover $600 under an insurance policy of the defendant company. The plaintiff, J. W. Evans, of Belleville, was disabled within the meaning of the policy by appendicitis. A few days after the beginning of his illness he had it called to the attention of the agent through whom the policy was obtained. Apparently the agent did not pass this information on to the company. After plaintiff had to some extent recovered, but while still in the hospital, he again, by letter, informed the agent of his illness and asked for forms for a claim. Then the company was informed of the claim, and when the claim papers were sent in payment was refused on the ground that appendicitis had been excepted from the policy by an indorsement thereon. This contention was a surprise to the plaintiff. A careful examination of the policy resulted in the discovery of such an indorsement, which was on a paper pinned to the back of the policy. The plaintiff was non-suited by Judge Deroche upon the ground that there was a condition in that policy that a written notice should have been given to the company at its Toronto office within ten days after the commencement of the illness, informing the company that the plaintiff had had the attack of appendicitis, and that what had been done by the plaintiff was not a compliance with the condition. Wills & Wright for plaintiff; Shirley Denison, K.C., Toronto for defendants.

BERESFORD ON LATE HEAD OF THE ADMIRALTY

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Lord Charles Beresford, in a speech at Leicester last night, referred to "Britain's naval unpreparedness during the Morocco crisis," and bluntly stated that Mr. McKenna was dismissed from the post of First Lord of the Admiralty. His grotesque antics during the late crisis, said Lord Charles "led to his dismissal, and if the facts were generally known there would be considerable excitement in foreign countries."

It is significant that when Lord Charles remarked in his speech, "I don't see why we cannot come to some agreement with Germany," the audience cheered loudly.

WOMAN CUT HER THROAT AT LONDON

She was Mrs. D. Jones from Belleville Died From Rash Act

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 12.—An unknown woman, about 35 years of age, who said she had a ticket from Toronto to Detroit, cut her throat and stabbed herself in the ladies' waiting room here because she claimed she had lost her ticket, and the conductor would not take her to Detroit. She was rushed to the hospital in a dying condition, and refused absolutely to tell her name.

On arriving here on the noon train from Toronto, she told the authorities she wanted to go to Detroit, but had lost her ticket, and tried to get on the train, and the conductor would not take her. The stationmaster left her while he went up to get the operator to wire to Toronto. On returning he found she had cut her throat with a big jack-knife, which was then sticking in her breast.

She was from Belleville, where her trunk had been checked through to Detroit.

The above unfortunate and distressing affair refers to Mrs. David Jones of this city, who with her husband, had not been long resident here, having come from London, Ont. It appears that Mrs. Jones was afflicted with a cataract in one of her eyes and while in London had been treated by a specialist of that city. Of late the optic had been troubling her and she decided to visit the specialist for treatment. Yesterday morning Mr. Jones accompanied his wife to the Grand Trunk Railway station here, she taking the early morning train for the west. He was naturally surprised last last evening when he was informed that his wife was dangerously ill at London. He left this morning for that place. Mr. Jones, since coming to the city, has been employed at the Steel Company of Canada's mills here and is much respected by his fellow employees. There is no doubt that the deceased committed the rash act while in a state of despondency. It is not known whether the remains will be brought here for interment.

DEATH-DEALING BOMB HURLED IN THEATRE

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 12.—The bomb explosion which occurred during a cinematographic exhibition here last night has resulted in the death of two persons while sixty-three others are suffering from serious injuries. Eight of the victims had legs amputated.

The theatre was crowded with workmen at the time of the explosion and a terrible panic ensued. The bomb which was charged with dynamite, was loaded with nails

It is believed that it was thrown by a madman and not by a revengeful discharged employe as was at first supposed.

Growth of Naval Expenditure.

Since 1902 the naval expenditure of the principal countries of the world has increased from £90,583,000 to £145,219,000. Great Britain is responsible for an increase of £13,000,000, Germany for $12,000,000, the United States for £10,000,000, France for over £4,000,000, and Russia for £3,000,000. In the last ten years the eight chief naval powers have spent the stupendous sum of upwards of one billion pounds sterling on their defence.

Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, newly revised and up-to-date Edition, sent free on receipt of 50 one-cent stamps to cover cost of wrapping and mailing only, in French cloth binding. CANADA'S CHRISTMAS STAMP

The Campaign for 1911 is on, and Needy Consumptives all over Canada are Rejoicing

As Archdeacon Cody expressed it at a meeting of the Citizens' Christmas Stamp Committee in Toronto, a few days ago, the Christmas Stamp, now issued each year in aid of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, has become one of the institutions of the country.

Three years ago the movement was set on foot in Canada by the National Sanitarium Association, following the idea that first originated in Denmark, which was a year later taken up in the United States, and quickly spread to Canada.

The idea itself is very simple, though the results show how true it is that "great oaks from little acorns grow," $11,000.00 being realized from the sale of stamps in 1910, a sum sufficient to care for forty patients at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. This year it is hoped that $25,000.00 may be realized to assist in this great life saving work which is ever becoming more urgent.

The cut in the corner of this article shows the design of the stamp for 1911, though the original is in three colors.

This stamp does not carry any mail. One wants to remember this, though, as it has been epigramatically expressed, any mail will carry it. The idea is for everyone to use this stamp in their correspondence between now and the end of the year. This plan will serve the two-fold purpose of helping to realize the $25,000.00 for the aid of needy consumptives, and will besides possess an educational value that can hardly be overestimated.

The stamps are on sale to-day in book stores, drug stores, and elsewhere in almost every town and city in Canada. Clergymen, Public School teachers, Sunday School teachers, Bible Class workers, Daughters of the Empire, and organizations of many different kinds are assisting in the work of spreading the sale of this little stamp. Each stamp costs only one cent, so that it becomes possible for everyone to have some part in this great battle against consumption.

We have every pleasure in urging our readers to make much use of this little messenger of healing for the next thirty days.

SIGNS OF ITALIAN RULE

BY UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD.

Picture of Italian soldiers installing telephones in Tripoli. The Italians hold the city forts, but the outer forts are in the hands of the Turks.

TRIPOLI. — One of the first things the Italians did on capturing Tripoli was to install telephones in the city, and if it were not for the serious side, for now this city is again besieged from the land side by Arabs and Turks, one could smile at the incongruity of the placing of what represents the new age in buildings that are almost as old as the hills.

CONVERTIBLE SHIPS CONDEMNED

Resolution Moved and Withdrawn in Australian Parliament Against Convertible Ships In Their Waters.

(Special Cable Service.)

MELBOURNE. — Grave concern is felt throughout the Commonwealth over the assertion that all overseas vessels subsidized by foreign countries are easily convertible into commerce destroyers in war time. Private advice received in this country state that liners flying the German flag are especially equipped for this contingency. As a result of this feeling of apprehension, a resolution was moved in the federal Parliament to-day to the effect that action be taken forthwith to discourage such shipping for trading in Australian waters. Premier Fisher said: "We say most emphatically that ships of other nations which come to trade in our waters must not presume too much on our good nature and equip themselves so that they may act as ships of war upon the declaration of hostilities."

The Premier's words were greeted with ringing cheers, and the resolution was finally withdrawn.

VICE-ADMIRAL BOREA D'OLINO

TRIPOLI. — Since General Caneva, on account of the massacres of the natives, who are Arabs, in the vicinity of Tripoli has been superseded by Vice-Admiral Borea D'Olino satisfaction is felt in the capitals of Europe. The new governor is probably the best naval fighter Italy possesses to-day, and though a stern disciplinarian he is very popular with his officers and men.

Newpop (flattered): "Ah, who told you?"

Nagsby: "You did, a moment ago."

CLUBMAN HAD MARKED CARDS

Was Trapped by Fellow-Members in Newport—Said to Have Won $20,000

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 12.—A game of poker in the Newport Country Club was interrupted a few nights ago, when one of the players was discovered with marked cards by others, who had set a trap for him. The exposure was followed by a charge by the accusde man against some of the players that they had "fixed" the cards.

Within the last two years $20,000 is said to have been lost at poker in the Country Club, and it was said to-night that the exposure of the crooked game was made known by the wife of a prominent member.

One of the heaviest of the losers, a well-known business man, stated today that he proposed to see if there was any way by which he might recover some of his money, acknowledging that he had dropped $1,000 in the clubroom. Others have lost much more.

The scandal has stirred Newport, and further action against the winthe accused man against some of the who lost. A few nights ago the Governors decided to recommend the closing of the club.

A Realist All Right

He staggered into the club, and sank into a chair.

"Horrible — horrible!" he cried.

His friends hurried to him, while one was dispatched for brandy.

"I cannot blot them out!" he exclaimed, burying his face in his hands. "Men and women rushing hither and thither — feverishly, madly, with anxious faces. Children struggling forward, now dropping like logs, now vainly endeavouring to regain their feet! Here is an old woman, clutching at anything or anybody in her fright! There, a feeble man, brushed aside by the tearing throngs that sweep by him, left tottering against a wall! Horror!" he cried, rising suddenly and stretching out his hand. "I can hear the shriek of a girl, who, only a few moments ago, had been full of happiness and mirth, as she comes crashing to the ground!"

"Poor fellow! Drink this," cried his hearers, as the brandy appeared, and then tell us what has happened!"

With a look of gratitude, the hysterical man drained the glass. Then, handing it back, he gave a great heave, and said, more quietly:

"Thank you, friends! It was just an ordinary scene at a skating rink!"

COUNTY COURT AND GENERAL SESSIONS

The Docket Disposed of Yesterday—What the Grand Jury Report

The County Court and General Sessions were brought to a close yesterday afternoon, the docket having been disposed of.

In the case of Rex vs. Harrison the Attorney-General advised that a stay of proceedings had been granted. The accused was charged with theft.

The last case was that of John Orr vs. Harry A. and Edith Cook. The plaintiff claimed damages for services rendered. A verdict of $50 for the plaintiff was given. Messrs. Porter & Carnew for plaintiff; Mr. A. A. Abbott, of Trenton, for the defendants.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

The Grand Jury made their presentment and were discharged.

The report details the visitation to the Court House buildings, County Jail and House of Refuge. The premises were found to be clean and close attention was paid to the inmates.

In the County Jail 11 men were confined for the following offences: 1 insane, 2 drunk, 2 theft, 1 forgery, 3 robbery, 1 fraud, and 1 vagrant.

The condition of the House of Refuge was such as to reflect credit on the efficiency of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Superintendent and Matron.

The report congratulated the County Council on the improvements to the county buildings.

The Hospital was visited and the jury were cordially received by the Lady Superintendent. The addition to the building provides great accommodation. The County Council was commended for its grant of $400 to the institution.

The Deaf and Dumb Institution was inspected and the various departments were found in excellent condition. The teachers are giving good service. We desire to make special mention of two fire escape being installed of the latest and best pattern, and the Government is to be commended for its efforts to prevent loss of life in case of fire.

We desire to thank Sheriff Morrison for his assistance in the performance of our duties.

GERMANS MAKE POTATO FLOUR

Thus Tubers Can be Stored when Plentiful to be Used when Scarce

The great bulk of the so-called potato flour that is sold at retail in the groceries of Germany for cooking purposes is simply finely ground and sifted potato starch. There is, however, a flour obtained by grinding and bolting dried potatoes that is a comparatively new product.

In 1901, when the potato crop of the country reached the enormous total of 53,682,010 short tons, efforts were made to discover practical and economical methods of preserving the potatoes so that the surplus could be stored and utilized in supplying future demands. Prizes were offered and a number of processes were submitted, in the more important of which the potatoes are dried by steam forming what are called kartoffelflocken, or potato flakes, which can be used for feeding stock, for distilling alcohol, for making starch and for other purposes for which potatoes are used, or they can be ground and bolted for human consumption.

MURDER AGAINST THREE MEN

Likely, However, that Donato Manconi Alone Will be Tried

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—Three men accused of murder stood together in the same dock in the Enquete Court this morning, when Donato Manconi, Colombo Champini and Jacono Trolli appeared before Judge Leet for preliminary inquiry, on the charge of murdering Armiglio Santino, on St. James Street on the night of November 10th.

Owing to the severe injuries sustained by Manconi at the time of the fight, it is the first time that the three men are arraigned together. Manconi has just been released from the Western Hospital. It will also probably prove to be the last time, as the Crown intends to drop the charges against Trolli and Champini, as they are to be heard as witnesses against Manconi. They will probably be held on charges of stabbing with intent, shooting with intent and aggravated assault. They are alleged to have cut up Manconi most brutally and placed him in such a condition that for some time his life was despaired of and his ante-mortem statement had to be taken by Judge Leet and Court Stenographer Lomax.

Mr. Alban Germain, who appeared for Manconi, asked that his case be proceeded with independently from the other two, who are represented by Mr. Dan McAvoy. This was refused by Crown Prosecutor Walsh, and taken under reserve by Judge Leet, who, in the meantime allowed the case to proceed against the three men at the same time.

Dr. McTaggart, who made the autopsy on the body of Santino, swore that there was a bullet in the chest, one in the right leg, one in the left leg, one knife stab in the stomach and one in the back. Three of the wounds taken separately would have been sufficient to cause death.

After Mr. Lomax had produced the ante-mortem statement of Manconi and two dispositions made by the same accused in the presence of Trolli and Champini, Mr. Walsh wanted to call one of the accused in the dock.

This was objected to by Mr. McAvoy as being irregular. A man being accused of murder could not be forced to testify in the case in which he was concerned. This was taken under reserve by Judge Leet, who adjourned the case till this afternoon so as to study the authorities.

PORTUGUESE CROWN JEWELS BELONG TO THE NATION

LISBON, Dec. 13.—The Portuguese government has decided that the jewels found in the royal palaces at Lisbon, Cintra, Mafra, and other places after the flight of King Manuel and his relatives on Oct. 5, 1910, are the property of the republic.

The Cabinet has determined to sell the immense collection of practically priceless crowns, bracelets, rings, swords, scimitars and daggers, all of which are encrusted with precious stones. They are mostly relics of Portuguese conquests in the past or tributes from the native rulers of conqueerd territory to Portuguese kings.

COST OF FRAZER CASE ABOUT $10,000 SO FAR

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—Many a one has wondered, in speaking of the Michael Fraser case, what it must have cost both parties in the courts, as well as where the costs will ultimately rest.

The following approximate estimate will give a glimpse of the resultant bill:

Number of days in the different courts, Trial Court, Divisional Court, and Court of Appeal, 15[illegible]

Cost of counsel per d[illegible] in the courts, two on each side, [illegible].

Three expert medical men on each side at an approximate cost of $1,000; so that for counsel in court it is estimated $6,000; for medical experts, $1,000; other expenses, $3,000; a total of $10,000.

A total of $10,000 it is thought would be a conservative estimate.

Are you there when it comes to making the best of the worst of it?

TURNS HIS 106TH BIRTHDAY

Haileybury's Oldest Resident—Has Never been Outside of Quebec and Ontario

COBALT, Ont., Dec. 13.—Alexander Reneaud, of Haileybury, celebrated his 106th birthday Sunday at the home of his son. The old man went to the polls Monday and cast his vote. He was born near Sherbrooke, Que., December 10th, 1805, and two years afterwards moved with his father and mother to near Ottawa, and since that time has lived in the Ottawa Valley. He kept a butcher shop in Ottawa, when Bytown, as it was known, consisted of three or four houses. He moved to Haileybury five years ago. In 1909 he made the trip from Haileybury to St. Anne's alone.

He has never been out of Quebec or Ontario provinces, and only once has he been more than fifty miles from the Ottawa River. Last year he celebrated his birthday by chopping a cord of wood. He has smoked and chewed tobacco since he was eleven years of age, and has used liquor moderately. He has twelve children, forty grandchildren, and a score of great grandchildren.

KING OF SMUGGLERS IS BEHIND THE BARS

Chinaman Pleads Guilty to Opium Charge, and is Sentenced to 18 Months

NEW YORK, Dec 13—Charley Boston, now acknowledged king of the ring of Chinese who smuggled opium into this country, threw up his hands yesterday in the face of overwhelming evidence and pleaded guilty to the charges of smuggling opium, for which he will go on trial in the United States Circuit Court.

Boston's Chinese name is Li Quon Jung, and he is a power, not only in New York's Chinatown, but also in Chinese colonies in large cities of the east into which his opium trade has extended in the long years of his activity. He was sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary at Atlanta, while Lai Bake, the man who ran the store, has to serve nine months on Blackwell's Island.

MR. JONES OF BELLEVILLE IDENTIFIED HIS WIFE

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 13.—The husband of Mrs. David Jones, who committed suicide at the Grand Trunk Station yesterday, arrived in London to-day, and, before a Coroner's jury, identified the remains as those of his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Jones lived here about six years ago, before going to Belleville. The husband stated that his wife had a ticket to Detroit. She intended to purchase there a ticket to Toledo where she was to be opearted on for the removal of a cataract. Mrs. Jones has never been melancholy, and her terrible death was a shock to him. The unfortunate husband said he was in straitened circumstances, having to borrow money to come here.

HORRIBLE MURDER NEAR ALBANY

Three Women and One Man Killed and Beheaded by an Italian

(Intelligencer Special.)

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 14.—The headless bodies of Mrs. Mary Morner, her son Arthur, aged 28, and two daughters, Edith and Blanche, aged twenty and seventeen respectively, were found buried in a cow stable behind their home in Rensselaer County near here last night. An Italian farm hand, who disappeared, left a note on the piano containing the following: "Italian make sausage out of Americans."

TORONTO, Dec. 14.—Lyman B. Dillman, a middle aged farmer from near Lindsay, was to-day sentenced to sixty days in jail for shoplifting in Simpson's store. He stole many articles of small jewelry.

DELHI, CAPITAL OF INDIAN EMPIRE

Delhi, which by royal proclamation becomes the capital of India instead of Calcutta, was formerly the capital of the Patan and Mogul empires, and was then the largest city in Hindustan, covering an area of 20 square miles, and having a population of 2,000,000. Its circumference is now 7 miles. The ancient metropolis of the Mogul empire is now only indicated by a vast tract covered with ruins. The present city is built on two rocky eminences, and is surrounded by walls of red sand stone 30 feet high, with a moat 30 feet broad. There are seven colossal arched gates, defended by round bulwarks. The most interesting building in Delhi and the most magnificent structure of its kind in India, is the palace of the great Mogul, built by Shah Jehan, commenced in 1631, and finished in 10 years. The great mosque of Delhi is considered by the Mohammedans to be the wonder of the world. It is built of white marble and red sand stone and has two minarets each 150 feet high.

The change is made because of the sedition in Calcutta, and because Delhi is held in such reverence by many Mohammedans.

GIFT FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Duke of Connaught presented Mr. John Carlton, the housekeeper of the Senate, with a scarfpin, as a recognition of services performed in connection with their Royal Highnesses' first drawing room and the opening of Parliament. The pin was in the form of the letter A. and C. and surrounded by a crown of diamonds. Mr. Carlton is well and most favorably known her, his wife being a daughter of Mrs. Wm. Docter, of this city.

TAKEN TO TRENTON.

Fred Campbell, Edward Sweet and Mervin Mackie were to-day taken from the County Jail to Trenton to be tried before Magistrate O'Rourke on a charge of highway robbery. Mr. Anderson, County Attorney, prosecuted.

BROKE AN AXLE.

A light democrat waggon, laden with a load of earth, came to grief at noon to-day by the breaking of an axle. The vehicle had just crossed the Grand Junction Railway track at the junction of Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., when the mishap occurred.

LATE FLOWERS.

As evidence of the extraordinary mildness of the season, Mr. A. McClatchie, who has long been a student of nature, this morning presented the Intelligencer with a small bouquet of dandelions which he picked in the 5th concession of Sidney. The flowers are smaller than those which are so plentiful in the good old summer time but they are just as pretty.

INSPECTOR'S VISIT.

Mr. J. J. Spotton, of Toronto, one of the Provincial Inspectors of Schools, was in the city to-day. This afternoon, at the High School, he met a number of the members of the Board of Education to talk over matters appertaining to that and the public schools of the city.

CURRENT COMMENT

Mr. Taft says the moral sense of the nation should be as sensitive as that of the individual. It is just that. The trouble is that in the average invidual moral sense is not as keen as it might be.—Indianapolis Star.

It would be a great accommodation to merchants and their assistants, were residents of the city to make their purchases on days other than Saturday, when the stores are thronged with people from the country. "A word to the wise."

Mrs. Anne Maria Fisher, who was in her girlhood the slave of Henry Clay, died recently and left $10,000 to Tuskegee Institute. Mrs. Fisher lived in Brooklyn, N.Y., and is said to have left an estate vaued at more than $75,006, much of it to charity. Mrs. Fisher slaved to some purpose.

Census returns in New York City show that the city owes nearly half of its population to foreign countries. Out of every 1,000 white residents only 57 were born in the United States; only 193 of every 1,000 white New Yorkers were the children of native born Americans. This means that if emigrants and their children were excluded from the population New York would have fewer than a million inhabitants.—Mail and Empire.

From the report of the Dominion director of the veterinary department Canada is losing ground as an exporter of live stock. Were this owing to a movement to feed the cattle at home and export in the shape of dressed beef, it would be a cause of satisfaction rather than regret. Failing this the broad grazing grounds of the west should surely be able to meet the competition of Argentina and other foreign countries.—Hamilton Spectator.

The cities were strong for the Whitney Government: Ottawa, Kingston, Belleville, Toronto, St. Catharines, Guelph, Windsor, London, Woodstock Peterborough, all went—some of them by acclamation—for the Conservative candidates. Gualph was particularly strong, every polling place giving a Conservative majority, and in Peterborough the Grit candidate had a majority in but one polling subdivision, and that of 3 only.

"One more river to cross." Another election to be held, namely, the municipal election. So far as people in general are concerned, the municipal contest is the most important of all, but the voters are so tired of elections that the vote is likely to be light. It will be well, however, for all who are opposed to the iniquitous ward system to go to the polls and vote for its abolition and the restoration of a sane system of municipal government for Belleville.

ILLUSTRATION OF PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

The United States Government Is Running Department Stores, Hotels and a Steamship Line in Panama.

The United States government, as everybody knows, is engaged in building as a public enterprise, a canal across the Isthmus of Panama. What the world does not generally understand is that as part of this operation the government is also running lines of railway, a departmental store, hotels and a steamship line. At this government departmental store it is possible to buy almost everything, including ladies' patent leather shoes, briar pipes, teething rings for babies, sugared almonds etc. No less than fifteen hotels are operated, besides 18 mess halls. During one month these places served nearly 1,000,000 meals all told.

This has led a writer to suggest the possibility of the United States government developing Alaska by means of railways operated by the government itself.

Does not what has been accomplished suggest something more—the possibility of solving the trust problem by means of public ownership? It seems futile to talk of going back to the old days of small industries and free competition. The economy in large operations is something the public will not readily consent to surrender. Neither does it seem altogether easy to solve the problem by public control of corporations. The only easy way out would seem to be going the whole length and providing for public operation, something which does not, in view of what is being accomplished in Panama, appear so very difficult after all.

O'Hara once saw an advertisement in a street car reading—"Buy your stove at O'Brien's and save half your coal." "Begorra," he said, "I'll buy two stoves and save all my coal."

"DIVORCE RING" NEWEST FAD

Worn on Little Finger of Right Hand Denotes Estate

CHICAGO, Ill, Dec. 13.—The "divorce ring" was disclosed to Chicago to-day by Mrs. Marina Delgado Parke, divorced wife of Fred K. Parke, formerly secretary of the Board of Supervising Traction Engineers.

Mrs. Parke was found at the Wellington Hotel wearing a plain gold band on the little finger of her right hand. The peculiar effect caused comment, and she said:

"Why, that's a divorce ring. Quite a few women are wearing rings like it, and explaining its object to their friends.

"Pretty soon everybody will know that a plain ring on the right little finger means its wearer is divorced. The divorce ring saves a lot of embarrassment. New acquaintances do not enquire about your husband, and old friends who have not heard of your divorce do not embarrass themselves with awkward questions."

LORNE HALE'S AUTO FRIGHTENED HORSES

Widow and Children of Dead Farmer Get $1,000—They Sued for $5,000

TORONTO, Dec. 13.—Martin Ashick, farmer, of Alice, in the County of Renfrew, was passing along the highway with a team of horses, one of which he was riding. Lorne Hale, lumber merchant, of Pembroke, in the County of Renfrew, was also passing along the highway in his motor car.

The motor in passing, it is claimed in a negligent and careless fashion, frightened the horses. They reared, throwing Ashick to the ground. One horse, it is supposed, fell on him.

He died from his injuries, and his widow and three children sued the defendant Hale for $5,000 damages and costs for negligent driving, etc.

Justice Britton awarded $1,000 and costs in all to the widow and children yesterday.

AMUSEMENTS

"DEAR OLD BILLY."

The above unique character has come and gone, yet many whose mirth was frequent and uncontrollable will continue to ask the cause, only to decide upon a medley of misunderstandings which are common to everyday life. Griffin's Opera House was packed to the doors last night by the best people of our city, whose greeting of Mr. William Hawtrey and his talented supporters was all that could be desired—actors whose rare ability alone could bring from the individual characters, the best results. All that has been said of Mr. Hawtrey's popularity as a performer is but modest compared to his wonderful power to hold and sway the people before him—his very simplicity and freedom from affectation winning at once the hearts of all. The intricate experiences of the man's sojourn at a seaside boarding house, the attractive power he possessed with the gentle sex, the difficulties he encountered by accepting the caresses of those who were in a sense bound to others, the protests of young men who questioned his intimate relations with those dear to them, kept the house in an uproar continually, resulting in fistic contests, personal injuries, and at times a rough house among the ladies; yet it was all so natural that the audience could easily identify incidents in personal life—and perhaps to their benefit. In his supporters Mr. Hawtrey was admirably assisted by Mr. Bernard Fairfax as Willoughby Perks, an attorney; Mr. Harry Redding as George Spencer, independent; Mr. E. H. Kelly as Christopher Crock, a crank; Mr. G. Stewart Christie as Sandford M. Barlow, a bridegroom; Mr. Earl Fox as Mr. S. Walker, from the Emporium Ltd.; Miss Jane Burby, as Mrs. Mullis, a land-lady; Miss Ruth Tomlinson as Millie Bramble, a ward; Miss Laura Clement as Mrs. Smith, Smith's wife; Miss Winnifred Kingston, as Mrs. Barlow, a bride; and Miss Cassie Jamieson as Pattie, a maid servant.

Mrs. Smith, the separated wife, Miss Millie Bramble, the ward, Mrs. Mullis the landlady, Patty, the maid, and Christopher Crock, the crank, deserve special mention for perfect work. The final act, with Mr. Smith's bedroom as the scene, where the "poor old man" was sought, persecuted and appealed to, until wearied beyond physical limit, was really pathetic, his wife, finally, having discovered his staunch integrity coming to his rescue and effecting a reconciliation. There was a superabundance of love throughout the play, culminating in all being happily mated, even Crock the crank, inducing the comely landlady to enter into a life partnership, with all the benefits—including a comfortable home on his side. That the audience as a whole was especially well entertained goes without saying.

THE Paternoster Ruby

CHAPTER XIX

Belle.

It was a very crestfallen detective that presented himself at the Fluette home early Friday morning. I had counted so much upon unearthing the ruby myself, assured that through it I must certainly succeed in drawing some betrayal from the murderer, that its loss amounted to a thwarting of all my hopes. My feeling was that of one who has striven and failed—failed through a solitary act of gross carlessness.

But if I was dejected, I was no less determined. Only a little more than two days had elapsed since Felix Page met his untimely death; the body had not been interred yet; and I knew that I held in my hands the ends of a net which enveloped all the actors. One of them was guilty. My determination was to be no longer considerate through fear of wounding the innocent. I meant to draw in the lines of the net until everybody's position stood clear and unequivocal; but to that end I must be fortified with one more fragment of information. And here it was that I looked to Geneveive.

A neat-appearing maid admitted me, who seemed to be expecting my arrival, for she conducted me at once up-stairs, above the second story to the third, and to a room in the rear of the house. I wondered a bit at this; but I was more surprised than ever when the open door disclosed Miss Fluette instead of Genevieve. A good many startling experiences were in store for me that morning.

The maid closed the door and left us immediately. I began muttering some words expressive of my pleasure at seeing Miss Fluette able to be up and about; but something in her manner checked the speech. She had not even looked at me. In fact, I quite suddenly realized that she was studiously keeping her eyes averted from mine.

And again, she presented the appearance of one who has recently undergone a strenuous exertion. Her rich, red-gold hair was in disorder; she was breathing deeply, and her cheeks were flushed, though her movements were direct, and full of purpose. Then, too, if a man may hazard the guess, I would have said that lacey, beribboned dressing gown she wore hid her nightdress. The situation was most unusual.

When I entered the room she was standing on one side of the door, precisely as if she had moved aside to make way for me, meaning to depart as soon as I had entered. But she did not. Instead, the instant I crossed the threshold, she advanced quickly to the door. She turned the key, then withdrew it from the lock, and hastened to a chair on the side of the room farthest away from me.

I could not repress a smile—depite my amazement at these proceedings—when I realized that the chair was placed between us as an object of defence. She stood, very erect, behind it, her hand tightly holding the back. She was prepared with a weapon of offence, also. For now her right hand appeared, for the first time, from a fold of her gown; I was startled to see that it held a small, shining revolver. For the first time, too, her hazel eyes met mine, and they burned with a light which, considering the manner of my reception, I was not slow in ascribing to a state of mind bordering upon irresponsibility.

"So I am a prisoner," I said.

"You are," she replied. She clipped the words in an uncompromising way which promised that I was in for a bad quarter of an hour. Where in the world was Geneveive? I wondered. But Miss Belle went on at once, eying me steadily with a hard, stony look.

"I shall get to the point at once. It all depends upon you, whether or not you leave this room alive. It will be for you to choose, and I think you'll choose the wiser course. I'm in dead earnest."

She was, whatever her purpose; there was no gainsaying that. I was profoundly curious to learn what that purpose was.

"May I sit down?" I asked, calmly.

She made an impatient gesture with the hand that clutched the chair-back—the hand that held the door-key. But there were two keys in her grasp, I observed. The flowing sleeve of her dressing-gown disclosed a momentary glimpse of white, rounded arm.

"It's useless—useless for you to play for time. I want to know why you have permitted Royal Maillot to be railroaded to jail"—she flung the word at me—"and permitted a snake like that creature, Burke, to go scathless.

"But, no, I don't care for your motives. You know Royal to be innocent. Between the two who were in that house Tuesday night—Royal, open, frank, and manly; Alexander Burke, sly, secretive, and a coward if ever there was one. What sort of intellect have you that it should make such a choice between these two? Bah! You're either base—in league with the criminals—or a fool."

She stopped for sheer lack of breath. She stood staring at me with all the dignity of an outraged queen, and for once in my life I was so astounded that I was at an utter loss for words. I sank into a nearby chair—without her permission—and for the second or so of the pause, my thoughts flew like lightning.

When Miss Fluette was carried from the Page library the previous day her condition promised a long siege of illness; Dr. De Breen had confirmed my own surmise with a declaration to that effect. Why, then, was she not at this moment in bed, with Genevieve caring for her? I had an engagement with Genevieve; she was expecting at eight o'clock. Miss Belle's appearance indicated that she had prepared for this meeting with the utmost haste—she had probably risen and donned dressing-gown and slippers after I had rang the doorbell. What, then, had she done with Genevieve?

I was not in the least frightened by her display of the pistol. To tell the truth, it was only with much difficulty that I kept from laughing. Still, I did so. The girl was plainly so overwrought that she was fairly frantic, and it would require the utmost circumspection on my part to keep her from precipitating matters before somebody came. The women folks, I fancied, would then need the assistance of a man; but for the present her condition demanded that I be at least considerate.

So I concluded to humor her.

"What is it you wish me to do?" I inquired, not forgetting my dignity.

She waved the insignificant weapon toward a writing desk.

"There are pens and ink and paper," she said, her voice tremulous with suppressed passion. "I want you to write down a plain, straightforward declaration that Royal Maillot is innocent, and then follow it with the reasons why you know him to be innocent—for you have those reasons. Doubtless it will included an exposure of the guilty; very well, this is the time for such a disclosure."

"THE FINEST COUNTRY"

A Globe Trotter, the "Prince of Tramps," Favors Australia

Having completed a walking tour of 34,700 miles to win a wager of $35,000, Captain H. M. Seaton, who styles himself the "Prince of Tramps," has arrived at Penzance. He undertook the task to walk around the world because he was told it was impossible and that the nine previous attempts had failed. The conditions were that the captain should walk 35,000 miles in four years, cross every country, and earn a good living by lecturing. Backed by a stout heart and a good constitution, Captain Seaton set out on his journey from New York on April 9th, 1908. According to a statement made by him to a press representative he has had some perilous times, especially in Thibet. Twice he tried to reach Lhassa, but failed. On one occasion he was bound hand and foot and tortured on the chest and legs with red hot irons. He escaped by chewing through the thongs which bound him. Terrible as these experiences were, he suffered greater pangs from hunger and thirst in his journey over the Australian continent, where, for hundreds of miles, he did not meet with a human being. Despite these experiences, Captain Seaton says Australia is the finest country he has ever struck.

EMANCIPATION OF WAITERS

Those in London and Paris Wish to Keep Out the German.

A delegation of English waiters from the Royal British Waiters' Society, London, will shortly pay a visit to Paris as a sign of sympathy with the campaign being carried on by the French Hotel Employés Syndicate against the invasion of hotels and restaurants in France by foreign, notably German, waiters. After a number of noisy street manifestations the syndicate agitation is now taking more definite shape in the form of a Bill which will be introduced in the Chamber. The law, if passed will oblige hotel proprietors to employ eight Frenchmen out of every ten on their staff. A tax which will be practically prohibitive will be imposed on employer and employé for every foreigner engaged above that proportion. There are between six and seven hundred French waiters seeking employment in Paris to-day, says M. Giraud, secretary of the syndicate. "Many of them speak three languages, and quite a number have a knowledge of bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting. But the first question asked on their applying for a situation is: 'Are you French?' Then they are told they are not wanted. The German hotel keepers will only take absolutely a free hand in France. He has no tax to pay, and in order to earn the language, he works for wages on which our men cannot live. Then he returns to Germany, and with his experience, builds up a big business, eventually to pay us another business, but this time to start an hotel of his own. The French waiter in Germany is heavily taxed. English waiters in London are even worse off. Recent statistics show that London contains no fewer than 100,000 German hotel employés."

HOOLIGANS AT LARGE

Set Fire to Newspapers in a Theatre Caused a Panic.

At panic at the Alcazar Theatre in Bordeaux was caused by a number of hoodlums in the upper gallery. These rascals set fire to some newspapers, and waved them over the gallery shouting "fire," while the crowded audience was breathlessly watching the dramatic development of the "Lyons Mail." Terror-stricken by these shouts and the flames from the burning newspapers, the spectators rose in a body and rushed for the exit. From the upper part of the house people tried to scamper down to the lower seats. A mass of woodwork collapsed, and they were hurled head foremost into the orchestral stalls, ten of them sustaining serious injuries.

Other person jumped from the windows into the streets. One young man broke his leg and five other spectators were taken to the hospital. M. Nouts, a policeman, who tried to check the rush at the outbreak of the panic, was rushed down by the seething throng, and more than 500 persons trampled over him. His condition is serious.

In the meantime the hoodlums who themselves with seats and pieces of wood, with which they smashed the mirrors and tables of the theatre cafe.

Doing nothing is apt to be overdone.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Frightened over a big falling off in northwestern receipts and because of unsettled weather and strike threats in the Argentine, wheat shorts to-day covered freely. In consequence the market closed 1-8c to 2-8c higher than last night. All other leading staples, too, made a net gain—corn, 3-8c to 3-4c; oats, a shade to 1-4c to 3-8c, and hogs, 10c to 22 1-2c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day unchanged to ½d higher than yesterday on wheat and ½d higher on corn. At Berlin wheat closed ⅜c higher, at Buda Pest ½c lower and at Antwerp unchanged.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat continues good and a fair amount of business is passing daily, but exporters state that ocean room is becoming very scarce to all ports and unless steamship agents increase the sailings, it will be hard to do much more business. In coarse grains a fair trade is being done. There was an increased inquiry from European sources for spring wheat flour, but the prices bid were all 6d to 1s per sack below millers' views. The local trade is fair and prices rule steady. Demand for bran and shorts is good. Cheese is quiet, but firm. Demand for butter is good. Eggs are active and strong at another advance of 1c per dozen. Provisions are fairly active.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the offerings this morning were 900 cattle, 1100 sheep and lambs, 1750 hogs and 200 calves.

On account of the continued mild and unseasonable weather and the fact that the market is glutted with common and inferior beef the demand for such grades of cattle was very limited, and as the bulk of the offerings on the market consisted of the same, trade was dull and the tone of the market was weaker, but even at the reduced prices butchers did not want that class of stock at this season of the year.

There were no really choice steers offered, but there were a few good ones, for which the demand was fair and sales of a few picked lots were made at $6 to $6.15 per cwt., and some fairly good steers brought $5.50 to $5.75. The trade in small meats was fairly active, there being a good demand for all lines and as supplies were not in excess of the requirements a firm feeling prevailed in the market and prices show no change as compared with those of Monday.

Hogs were a little more plentiful, but the demand was ample to take care of them all and sales of selected lots were made at $6.50 to $6.80 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Export cattle, bulls, $4.50 to $5.40; butchers' cattle, choice, $5.80 to $5.85; choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; medium, $4.50 to $5; bulls, $2.50 to $4.50; milkers, choice, each, $75; common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40.

Sheep, ewes, $3.75 to $4; bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.50; lambs, $5.75 to $6.

Hogs, f.o.b., $6.50 to $6.80 per cwt.

Calves, $3 to $14.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 21,000; market weak; beeves, $4.55 to $8.90; Texas steers, $4 to $5.75; western steers, $4.40 to $6.65; stockers and feeders, $3.15 to $5.60; cows and heifers, $1.90 to $6.45; calves, $5.50 to to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 31,000; markets 5c to 10c higher; light, $5.55 to $6.22½; mixed, $5.85 to $6.32; heavy, $5.90 to $6.40; rough, $5.90 to $6.10; good to choice hogs, $6.10 to $6.40; pigs, $3.75 to $5.40; bulk of sales, $6 to $6.35.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 45,000; market weak; native, $2.60 to $4; western, $2.75 to $4.10; yearlings, $4.25 to $5.50; lambs, native, $4 to $6.10; western, $4.25 to $6.20.

Our Municipal Government

The principal objections to the ward system were stated as concisely as possible in yesterday's issue; but, bad as that system is in theory and undesirable in practice, it is in Belleville, owing to the manner in which the subdivision of the city has been made, grossly unfair in its character, as a brief study of the following tabular statement of assessed value and number of ratepayers in each ward cannot fail to demonstrate:

	1911 Assessment.	No. of Voters.
Foster Ward	$ 304,360	212
Samson Ward . . .	764,615	391
Ketcheson Ward . .	1,434,560	485
Baldwin Ward . . .	820,655	490
Bleecker Ward . . .	462,142	378
Coleman Ward . . .	388,655	430
Murney Ward	741,820	681
	$4,916,807	3067

Under the ward system, with one-fifteenth of the total number of voters and one-sixteenth of the total assessment, Foster Ward has as great a representation in the Council as has Murney Ward with more than three times as many electors and considerably more than twice its assessed value, or as Ketcheson Ward with over twice the number of voters and an assessed value nearly five times as large. This arrangement is so transparently unfair that it is matter for wonder that a majority of the taxpayers gave it their sanction three years ago when the question of discarding the general system and returning to the antiquated system which is now in vogue was decided in the affirmative by their votes.

The reasons for this unexpected verdict were chiefly a feeling of unrest, which at that time was general, and representations which had no foundation in fact. For instance, in Foster Ward it was made a grievance that no resident of that ward was elected to the Council, while four had been chosen from Murney Ward, and many voters were influenced by that cry. Just how ridiculous was that allegation was demonstrated at the first election after the change had been made, when three gentlemen, one of whom resided in Samson Ward and two who lived in Murney Ward—the bete noir of the southern section east of the river—were elected for disgruntled Foster Ward. And, be it related, Murney Ward was the place of residence of six aldermen who were chosen under the system which was to redress the alleged wrongs of the general system. At present Foster Ward has only one alderman who lives in the ward.

The Board of Trade has condemned the ward system; the Property Owners' and Taxpayers' Association has joined in that condemnation, and the City Council will submit a by-law for its repeal and the return, temporarily at least, to the general system at the ensuing municipal election. In such case it will be the duty of every good citizen to vote for the abolition of the present unfair system of election by wards and the restoration of a more equitable method of choosing the men who are to spend our money and transact our business.

Toronto Values—Some Comparisons

A correspondent writes:

Several prominent real estate men assured me recently that inside property on Yonge Street, above King, is worth $8,000 per foot frontage 100 feet deep, or an average of $80 per square foot.

At this rate one acre would be worth $3,884,800.

That is to say, that 435 feet of frontage on Yonge Street, where the lots are 100 feet deep, is worth as much as one hundred and fifty-five thousand of the best C.P.R. irrigated western land at $25 an acre.

Or equal to 38,848 acres of good Ontario farm lands with improvements.

Or equal to three times the total investment in the fishing industry of Ontario.

Or greater by 50 per cent. than the value of the whole product of the fishing industry in Ontario last year.

Or 176 such acres would be worth as much as all the farm land of Ontario in the year 1909.

Or 353 acres of this Yonge Street property would be worth more than all the farm property, land, buildings, cattle and crops in the year 1909.

And yet some people will tell you that the taxation of land values will bear heavily on the farmer.

Spies Heavily Sentenced.

Leipsic, Germany, Dec. 14.—Heavy punishments were meted out yesterday to the English spies arrested at Hamburg on March 18, and who have been on trial behind closed doors before the imperial court for several days.

Max Schultz, an English ship broker, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. One of his associates, an engineer named Hipsick, was condemned to twelve years in jail; another engineer named Wulff was sent to jail for two years; a merchant named Von Maack and Max Schultz's housekeeper each received three years.

Max Schultz was accused of using his profession as a ship broker as a covering for corrupting shipyard workmen and getting them to betray German naval secrets. He was for a long time closely watched by detectives during his frequent trips between Hamburg and Bremen, at which ports ten German warship of different types were at the time under construction.

It was said during the trial that incriminating material was found in his possession, but that this was not of an important character, although it is believed that he succeeded in getting documents of value to those who employed him out of the country. He is regarded by the German naval authorities as the most dangerous spy connected with an institution whose activities cover all the shipyards and arsenals of Europe.

Revenue Greatly Increased.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Great increases in the receipts of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway are reported by the Provincial Treasurer.

During the month of September the net earnings of the Government railway amounted to $75,814, as compared with $21,604 during September, 1910.

The gross receipts for September, 1911, were $200,317, against $119,072 during September of last year.

The gross revenue of the T. & N. O. Railway from Nov. 1, 1910, till Sept. 30, 1911, amounts to $1,568,646, as compared with $1,480,318 during the corresponding eleven months previous.

After all expenditures have been deducted, the net revenue of the Government railway from Nov. 1, 1910, till Sept. 30, 1911, is $492,822.

Last year it was $384,841.

Bouquet For Speaker Sproule.

London, Dec. 14.—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union at its regular meeting, placed on record its appreciation of the stand [illegible] by the Hon. Dr. Sproule in prohibiting the use of intoxicants at social functions. The membership also expressed its grateful appreciation of the part Mrs. Sproule played in bringing about this happy event.

South African Cruisers.

London, Dec. 14.—The Chronicle announces that the South African Government will build a fleet of cruisers, which will be employed in times of peace to carry the mails to England in place of the Union Castle Line, which is now receiving a subsidy of $750,000.

Modern Civilization Tends to Remove Burden of Breadmaking From Muscles

Following closely in the footsteps of Dr. Inge, the new Dean of St. Paul, Sir James Crichton-Browne has now given his countrymen a severe verbal roasting. Speaking in London a few days ago, Sir James stated that the people of England of late had unfortunately become slipshod in much of their work, they fluttered from theme to theme, they had no patience to see a tragedy, and fell back on musical comedy. They had no stomach for books, no appetite for a square meal of literature. The introduction of machinery had made life at once more monotonous and more irritating.

"One cannot negotiate a London street-crossing in these motorial days," said Sir James, "without realizing by heart-jolt and nerve-jolt that alarms are not confined to the battlefield of the Middle Ages. We are all more vivid than we used to be, and have to be more on the alert, and so make sharper demands on our nerves, and are therefore more prone to nervousness."

After giving figures relating to insanity, Sir James said he believed they warranted a belief in a portentous growth of nervousness. He pointed out that almost all the most efficient causes of insanity were retreating, but that insanity itself remained stationary, if indeed it was not advancing.

"The explanation," he continued, "is, it seems to me, to be found in nerves and nervousness. The tendency of modern civilization has been to transfer the burden of bread-making for masses of the people from the muscles to the nerves. We have in many of our industries adopted a policy of 'speeding up,' whereby men do their work in less time than formerly and with fewer intervals of rest allowed them in the workshops, and therefore with more exciting and exhausting calls on their nerves.

"We have been bringing up our babies on anything but mother's milk and by the employment of our women in factories and by giving them an unrestricted sphere of activity have curtailed that family life in which the child best grows and thrives. We have subjected our children indiscriminately to educational processes on the path of mechanical obedience rather than on that of self-realization which, however advantageous they may have been to some, have proved to others the starting point in nervous degeneration. We have been forcing education on multitudes of children while half starved and incapable of mental assimilation. It is, I believe, to stress and strain that we must look for the explanation of the fact that insanity holds its own while its best accredited causes are on the wane."

ISADORE DUNCAN CLASSIC DANCER

Time Has Robbed The Apostle of National Dancing of Neither Grace or Agility

Miss Isadora Duncan emerged from her retirement in Paris and appeared at a matinee, where she gave an exhibition of classic dancing. With advancing years the apostle of bare feet, or, as she would prefer to call it, natural dancing, seems to have put on weight. She is less sylph-like than some years ago, but time has robbed her of none of her grace or agility. Rodin has said of her: "She borrows from Nature that force which one does not call talent, but genius. She is simple, like the antique, and the synonym of beauty." Certainly her Terpsichorean triumphs owe nothing to her surroundings on the stage, for they are performed in a bare curtained space where her harmonious movements are accomplished to the sound of tuneful music. She was attired in floating draperies which trailed behind her as she moved in time with the soothing strains of Gluck's divine music. After a lively air she interpreted a slower composition, and when, with all the playful abandon of youth, she imitated the young girls of Chalcis playing ball, the audience [illegible] repeat the number. Another contribution that greatly pleased the spectators was Miss Duncan's representation of the joy with which the daughters of Chalcis hailed the approach of the Greek fleet, dancing for very happiness, and beckoning her companions to join her. That also she had to give a second time. One thing that impressed one as one watched the airy figure on the stage was that none of the movements were stereotyped or hackneyed. They seemed to be spontaneous, to spring from the natural emotions produced by the sentiments which animated her, and so pleasing were the effects she obtained that for the best part of two hours she kept her audience under the spell of her charm. The "Dance of the Scythes" was a lesson in the poetry of motion, and a couple of gavottes were danced in light and graceful fashion. Towards the end of the programme came a mad Sicilian measure, and at its close the theatre rang with shouts of "Bravo!" and "Bis!" The afternoon should have closed with three valses by Brahms, but the audience refused to let Miss Duncan go. Half a dozen immense tributes of lovely flowers were brought on to the stage, and it was only when she had given two more sprightly dances before these charming evidences of appreciation that she was allowed to retire.

SMUGGLING OF OPIUM IN U. S.

Ton of Poppy Jelly Secretly Brought Over from Mexico Every Month—El Paso the Scene of Wholesale Crime.

(Publishers Press News Service)

El Paso.—More opium is smuggled into the United States across the Rio Grande than over any other strip of American border. A ton of the poppy jelly, worth $20,000, enters El Paso secretly from Juarez every month, they say.

The opium is sent into Mexico from China, and shipped by rail to Juarez, and openly deposited in the vaults of a bank there. Most of it is consigned to a man who has made a fortune out of opium.

Smugglers go to this bank, buy as many half-pound cans as they think they can handle, paying cash for the opium at the bank window—$9 or $10 a can. In El Paso, a mile from the bank, a can is worth $12 to $14. If he can get it to the Pacific coast, it's worth $18 to $21.

In the Chinatowns of Chicago, New York, Philadelphia or Boston, or even in the smaller eastern towns where the chop suey restaurants are often only blinds for hop joints, he will receive $30 or $35 for his half-pound can of ill-smelling, brown paste.

"A smuggler will spend a year in thinking up a plot," said one of the revenue men at Uncle Sam's end of the El Paso bridge."

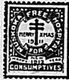
Sharply Flaring Military Shapes

Military and official shapes are prominent in the new hat forms. The Marquise, tricorne, Rajah and Nitre are particularly chic and desirable. A Napoleon "cocked hat" is jauntily becoming to young faces. Little trimming is used on hats of these forms; a cabochon, a little rosette, a cockade, a single quill or a bunch of chenille.

CANADA'S CHRISTMAS STAMP

The Campaign for 1911 is on, and Needy Consumptives all over Canada are Rejoicing

As Archdeacon Cody expressed it at a meeting of the Citizens' Christmas Stamp Committee in Toronto, a few days ago, the Christmas Stamp, now issued each year in aid of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, has become one of the institutions of the country.



Three years ago the movement was set on foot in Canada by the National Sanitarium Association, following the idea that first originated in Denmark, which was a year later taken up in the United States, and quickly spread to Canada.

The idea itself is very simple, though the results show how true it is that "great oaks from little acorns grow," $11,000.00 being realized from the sale of stamps in 1910, a sum sufficient to care for forty patients at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. This year it is hoped that $25,000.00 may be realized to assist in this great life-saving work which is ever becoming more urgent.

The cut in the corner of this article shows the design of the stamp for 1911, though the original is in three colors.

This stamp does not carry any mail. One wants to remember this, though, as it has been epigrammatically expressed, any mail will carry it. The idea is for everyone to use this stamp in their correspondence between now and the end of the year. This plan will serve the two-fold purpose of helping to realize the $25,000.00 for the aid of needy consumptives, and will besides possess an educational value that can hardly be overestimated.

The stamps are on sale to-day in book stores, drug stores, and elsewhere in almost every town and city in Canada. Clergymen, Public School teachers, Sunday School teachers, Bible Class workers, Daughters of the Empire, and organizations of many different kinds are assisting in the work of spreading the sale of this little stamp. Each stamp costs only one cent, so that it becomes possible for everyone to have some part in this great battle against consumption.

We have every pleasure in urging our readers to make much use of this little messenger of healing for the next thirty days.

Here is a New Kind of COFFEE

And We Give You A Pot To Make It In—Free

To get to the heart of the coffee question, you must do as we did—get to the heart of the coffee berry. The coffee berry is protected by Nature from the insect world, by a tough inner shell or coat. This shell contains tannin and other bitter substances.

It is this shell, roasted and ground up with ordinary coffee, that causes indigestion, headaches and other ill-effects so common with coffee drinkers.

Yet there is no other beverage in the world so thoroughly wholesome healthful and delicious as good Coffee when properly made.

DALTONS COFFEE
Never sold in Bulk

Dalton's French Drip Coffee

is this good, wholesome, delicious coffee. It contains no chicory and by our special process of grinding, every particle of the bitter tannin-bearing shell is removed. We take out all the injurious parts. We leave the meat—the heart—the flavor—the aromatic essences that mean so much to coffee-lovers.

The Percolator, or French Drip Process, is the only way to make really good coffee. We have secured sole rights at last for a practical, economical, reliable French Drip Coffee Pot.

We will give it to you free so that you can try Dalton's French Drip Coffee as it should be made. Read our offer. We have put up Dalton's French Drip Coffee in two Blends—MILD and STRONG. You can't tell which one you will like best until you try both. Dalton's French Drip Coffee is better and costs less than any other if made in Dalton's French Drip Coffee Pot. That is why we make this special offer.

This is the Coffee Pot we are giving away with 2 tins of Coffee at 50c. per tin.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER

We have authorized your Grocer to give you one of these handsome pots (worth $1.30) absolutely Free with your first purchase of a tin EACH of Mild and Strong Blend at 50c. per tin. You buy two tins of our Coffee—one of each blend—to give it a fair trial and we give you the means of testing it FREE, satisfied that you will use nothing but Dalton's French Drip Coffee thereafter.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE A JOKE, SAYS PASTOR

Denounces the Cult in His Church Near Which a Child Died

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—In the shadow of the home where 5 year old Kathryn Mosbach died from diphtheria on Thanksgiving Day under Christian Science treatment, and within a stone's throw of the residence of the practitioner who treated her, Christian Science was denounced last night as a fraud and quackery.

The denunciation was delivered by the Rev. William Milton Hess, a Ph. D. from Yale, and at one time instructor of psychology there. He spoke in the Trinity Congregational Church, at 17th street and Washington avenue, of which he is the pastor.

Many of the clergyman's hearers were in full accord with the Coroner, whwo held the child's mother on a charge of homicide, and so expressed themselves at the close of the meeting. Others were Christian Scientists who came to listen to an attack upon their practices and to offer a challenge to debate at a subsequent church gathering. That the attack would be made had been advertised upon placards such as these: "Can Christian Science Cure Diphtheria?" and "The Truth About Christian Science and Other Frauds."

"I base my right to discuss this subject," said Mr. Hess, after announcing that moving pictures showing the inside of a quack medicine laboratory would conclude the evening service, "on the fact that my study in college was almost wholly in the field of psychology, including abnormal psychology, and my degree of Ph.D. was granted at Yale in that particular field. More than this, I have studied Mrs. Eddy's cult for twenty-five years. The quotations I am going to make from her writings, I shall make from a $6 copy of her book. I paid $6 for it in order to get the genuine none-other-so-good edition. The equivalent in book cost of the $6 volume in Bible publication is 40 cents, for which sum you can buy as wellmade a Bible any day."

Mr. Hess proceeded to sketch the history of Christianity from Christ's admonition to pray for the sick and lay hands on them and also "anoint them with oil" to the birth and development of Mrs. Eddy's cult.

"The sad fact is," he said, "that Christianity turned for a time grievously and sinfully away from Christ's teachings. His was a ministry on behalf of health. He made health the keynote of His messages, and gave up most of His time to healing the sick. And He told His disciples to "anoint with oil," which meant to practice medicine, for anointing with oil was the standard medical practice of His day.

"So Christianity, instead of fighting tuberculosis and demanding a National Bureau of Health as a Christian obligation, drifted off into blind speculations, and let the problems of congestion of population, of the saloon, of germ diseases, and tuberculosis grow up among us.

"And Mrs. Eddy recalled us to our Christianity—in every point where is right and on defensible ground. For it is entirely true that you can cure every disease that you only imagine you have by Christian Science. You can rest your nerves by it and soothe your troubled feelings. So you can by the teachings of the Bible throughout the New Testament.

"But as to organic diseases, that is where you need to call in a physician You should call in a physician and trust him as if he had all the responsibility, and then pray to God and trust Him as though He had all the responsibility. Each will care for that over which he assumes jurisdiction. As Benjamin Franklin used to say often, "God will not help those who do not bestir themselves in their own behalf." Or to give the exact quotation, "God helps those who help themselves."

"We know to-day through medical science that melancholy and jaundice go together, and that the blues and a bad liver go together, and that proper food and plenty of exercise will cure both. So in our pulpit we preach against melancholy and advise you to go to a doctor for a cure for your jaundice, and thus the sciences of religion and medicine go hand in hand, as they were intended to go by the Redeemer.

"You know all the devils in the land are in league against Dr. Wiley, and so we know—if we are getting back to Christianity—that there is no duty before us so urgent as that we fight with this fighter for good health. If Christianity had been making its proper fight the mental condition would not have been ripe for Christian Science to gain its foothold.

"When Mrs. Eddy gets away from the truths that have been known for two thousand years she talks arrant nonsense. In places her work suggests the ravings of one unbalanced. Its impressive mysticism can only appeal to the uneducated and the mentally undisciplined.

"I have watched for twenty-five years to obtain a single bit of evidence showing that even one case of organic disease has been cured by Christian Science. Dr. S. Weir Mitchell and others have waited and watched for a similar time. We have never found such a case. And I would like any one who has heard of such a case to bring an authenaic record to me.

"You cannot cure diphtheria by Christian Science. All you can do is to drive out the devils in the disease germs by means of modern science, and Mrs. Eddy, who, in her hatred of drugs, was a monomaniac, only invites her followers to shake dice with death when they apply her teachings to organic ills.

"It was a crime that a foolish person, with no mental discipline—a quack—should inflict her treatment on the little girl that died. It was criminal, and the law should be amended so as to stipulate in no uncertain tones. Christian Science is not a science. It is a joke."

In a series of running comments while moving picture films illustrated the devastation wrought by patent medicines and quack remedies on the children of the poor, Mr. Hess pointed out those children on the films, "who were five years old, as you will observe—just the age of our little neighbor who died."

TO STRENGTHEN NAVY

Germany Plans to Expann It or Army Very Soon.

Possibility of Measures to That End Coming Up Before the New Reichstag Is Arousing a Great Deal of Interest In Europe and Arises Out of the Recent Crisis—Aviation and Guns Are Main Items.

Berlin, Dec. 14.—The possibility that measures for strengthening the navy or the army or both will be submitted to the next Reichstag, which is to be elected on Jan. 12, 1912, as a result of the international crisis of last summer, is arousing the most intense interest in the press and among the public.

Until now not the slightest indication of the Government's intention in the matter has been evoked.

According to an apparently authoritative statement, which appears in The Boersen Zeitung yesterday, however, the navy and not the army is to be the chief beneficiary of the new program. The army at the same time will figure in the appropriations asked for. These were included in the last budget, but the Minister of War withdrew them out of consideration for the financial condition of the empire.

In connection with the published report that a new military bill which will add two entire corps to the army, is to be introduced instead of increasing the navy program (a statement which The Boersen Zeitung calls semi-official), the newspaper remarks that the remark in this sense is false. The building up of the navy is regarded in authoritative circles as more urgent and the reorganization of the army will be taken up only after what is necessary for the navy has been accomplished. A general military bill is not to be expected for several years. In the meantime the Ministry of War will probably seek minor appropriations.

The statement of The Boersen Zeitung does not mention the nature of these appropriations, but it is believed that they concern aviation and the provision of more machine guns.

A Time of Change.

We are in one of the great crisis of the world's history; the era of transition is full upon us, and there is no people which is not rocking on its waves. International relations are changing. Empires are being broken up, immemorial systems are passing away, struggles are threatening that will involve half the human race.

CHORUS GIRL ETHEL CONRAD CONFIRMS HER CHUM'S STORY

Miss Graham Excused After Being on the Stand Half a Day—Laughs at Replies—Miss Conrad Convulses Court by Sharp Answers—Stokes Operated Upon—Complainant Under Surgeon's Knife While Girls Deny His Charges

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—While W. E. D. Stokes was under a surgeon's knife for an operation which is expected to restore him to health, Ethel Conrad, charged with Lillian Graham with attempting to murder him last June, was on the witness stand this afternoon corroborating every feature of the testimony of her chum that they had shot the millionaire in self-defence. Mr. Stokes' operation was for an abscess of the kidneys and it was said to-night that it had been successful.

Miss Conrad, well poised in manner and clear of voice, made a striking contrast to the older, but weaker voiced and less self-contained Miss Graham as she succeeded the latter on the stand.

Miss Graham's ordeal had lasted through two and a half days of steady examination and her pale and almost haggard face showed to-day that she had felt the strain severely. Frequently she would sit for a long period with her eyes closed, merely murmuring "yes" and "no" to the string of questions which Attorney Buckner fired at her with the hope of shaking her story.

The witnes, however, stuck to every material point and likewise denied every material charge that Stokes had made against her. Once she allowed her face to light up when a messenger entered the court room with a large bunch of American Beauty roses for her.

Miss Conrad, on the other hand, was smiling much of the time and convulsed the court by several of her sharp replies.

"I wish," she said, when her cross-examination was reached, "that Mr. Buckner would stop making me laugh. I don't want to laugh."

The girl explained her friendship to Miss Graham by saying that the latter had nursed her so devotedly during her illness last April that she decided never to leave her. Buckner questioned the witnes closely as to her past life, particularly as to a visit she made in 1910 to Plattsburg, where she occupied, she said, the house of a friend, "Mr. Farley, who was away for the summer."

While there she admitted that she had drawn a revolver upon a man named Louis Miller, with whom she had been on an automobile ride. She forced him to write a statement, she said, of what took place on the automobile trip, and then told a sheriff that she had attempted to kill a man and wanted to be arrested. This statement she promised to have in court to-morrow if she could find it.

When court opened this morning, Miss Graham denied all insinuations that she and her friend had ever planned over the telephone how they could lure Stokes within reach. She denied also Mr. Buckner's suggestions that she had investigated the quickest way to get to Canada.

Mr. Buckner surprised the court by producing a pint bottle, one third full of whiskey. He asked the witness if it was not the bottle she had sent out to be filled on June 7th, the day of the shooting. She admitted she had a bottle of whiskey in the house but denied that she had it refilled on that day.

Coming down to the night Stokes was shot, Miss Graham said that he thought she had gone to Europe and was surprised to see her. She admitted that she was angry with him for what he had told Miss Conrad about her and her sister. "How dare you come into this house after what you have said about me and my family?" were the words with which she greeted the caller.

The witness rehearsed the story of how Stokes had throttled her and pushed her down the hall and into her bedroom, and against a bureau and how she reached into an open drawer behind her and got the revolver with which she shot him.

The Assistant District Attorney tried to review the events of the witness's life after her arrest, but most of his questions were blocked on the ground that they were put solely to prejudice the prisoner in the eyes of the jury. The girls' vaudeville engagement and the alleged kidnapping of Miss Graham figured in these questions.

DECEMBER MAY BE COLD YET

High Temperatures for the First Half of Month Put Average up Seven Degrees

From now until the end of the month December will be colder. At least this is what the forecasts point to. This mild spell, which has extended as far west as the Yukon, and as far east as the Atlantic, is the mildest probably that has been experienced in the last ten years at least. In the Yukon where Polar weather is generally expected at this season of the year, the lowest temperature during December was 16 below, and the highest, zero.

In Ontario the mercury went up as high as 54.6. The average temperature has been 7 degrees above normal.

Christmas weather is of great interest to most people, and especially to merchants who handle heavy stocks. Coal dealers, stove dealers and so on will be injured greatly by a mild spell such as the present one, but on account of the ususual high temperatures a cold spell will probably set in now.

The rains which occurred in Ontario and Quebec during the last two or three days were due to a disturbance over Lake Superior. The eastern part of the Dominion is now getting the showers.

If a man is at home all the time he is a nuisanse, and if he is away all the time he is a worry.

A man has to have so many opinions in politics he's afraid to express any one of them.

If the house caught on fire a woman couldn't stop telephoning her best friend what the baby was trying to say.

Power To "Do Things"

Comes with clear brain and steady nerves

Tea contains a drug—caffeine—which fogs the brain and upsets the nerves of a great many naturally bright persons who don't suspect the cause.

If you are ambitious to "be somebody," try quitting tea for a while and go on

POSTUM

It is made of wheat, and contains nothing but pure rich food elements, including the Phosphate of Potash (grown in the grain) whtch Nature requires for the rebuilding of Brain and Nerves, as well as other parts of a healthy body.

There's nothing in this world quite equal to being perfectly well.

Then comfort and success are possible.

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

STRONG AS STEEL.
THE KIND OF NERVES THAT CAN DO THINGS.

A young athlete writes concerning the method by which he acquired steady nerves, and also of some good missionary work he has done:

"About a year ago," he says, "my nerves began to grow unsteady and I found myself troubled with sleeplessness. I set an enquiry on foot and became convinced that the coffee I drank was the cause of the trouble" (tea contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee, and is just as injurious) "and determined to quit right there.

"So I got a package of Postum, and Mother and I prepared it. We did not boil it long enough the first time and were not much impressed by it. The second time, however, we followed the directions on the package carefully and were more than pleased with the result.

"I can sleep like a log now, since I am using Postum, my nerves are as strong as steel, and my muscles, which used to tire so easily, are hard and enduring as iorn. Heavy athletics no longer give me pain in the side and chest as formerly.

"I have brought our whole family to use Postum, and it has done every one of them good. My Father has found his asthma almost entirely relieved since he gave up coffee and began to drink Postum."

PRINCESS IN A WRECK

King George's Sister and Her Family Nearly Perish.

While Traveling on the P. and O. Liner Delhi to Egypt the Princess Royal and Her Daughters Are Shipwrecked — While Being Taken Ashore Boat Capsizes and Sailor Carries Her Safely Ashore.

Gibraltar, Dec. 14.—Princess Louise Victoria, Princess Royal of Great Britain and Ireland and sister of King George V., and her daughters, had a thrilling experience yesterday when the Peninsular and Oriental steamship Delhi, on which they were voyaging to Egypt, struck the reefs of Cape Spartel, the northwest extremity of Africa. While being taken ashore by the long boat of the British armored cruiser, Duke of Edinburgh, they were thrown into the water by the capsizing of the boat, one of the daughters having a narrow escape from drowning. She was rescued by a sailor and carried to land with the others, all suffering severely from the bitter cold.

The Delhi struck at one o'clock in the morning in a thick fog. Immediately all the passengers hurried from their staterooms half dressed and put on life preservers. Water poured steadily into the cabins, while enormous seas, sometimes mast-high, broke over the vessel. Signals of distress were sent out by wireless, and the first warship to arrive was the French cruiser Friant.

It was long past daylight before the Friant's steam launch was able to come alongside the Delhi. In the meantime preparations were made aboard the stranded steamer to send the women and children ashore. One of the boats of the Delhi was lowered and filled with passengers. The launch succeeded in getting this in tow and then steamed to the British cruiser Duke of Edinburgh, where the frightened woman and children were safely taken aboard.

The cruiser Duke of Edinburgh with thirty-eight of the rescued passengers from the Delhi, arrived here last night. It was expected that the royal party would reach Gibraltar aboard the battleship London, but latest reports state that they had decided to remain for the night at Tangiers, where they are housed in the British legation.

One of the women passengers, in describing the wreck, said that there was not the slightest panic after the vessel struck. The passengers were summoned to dress and go on deck, but were assured that there was little danger. Arriving on deck they found the fog dense and the seas beating heavily against the ship. There was little confusion or excitement. They remained assembled on deck until 10 o'clock in the morning, when the Friant's boats, after considerable exertions, succeeded in conveying some of the passengers aboard the British cruiser.

All preparations had been made here for the reception of the royal party, which included the Duke of Fife, who, it is learned, remained aboard the Delhi until most of the passengers had been transferred. Wireless despatches say that they are in good health and spirits, but much fatigued and exhausted from their dangerous adventure, the ride on horseback to the lighthouse and the journey thence to Tangiers.

The Delhi is reported to be in a critical position. She is broadside on the rocks. The salvage vessel Gibelmusa, has sailed from here with lighters and will make an attempt to save the specie, mails, and luggage. The weather has moderated somewhat, but heavy seas are still breaking over the stranded vessel.

On Eve of Revelations.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 14.—Nationwide interest will centre here to-day when the weeks of work by detectives, attorneys and accountants who have compiled evidence alleged to show the complicity of others than the McNamara brothers in a dynamiting conspiracy, will be turned over to the federal grand jury for formal investigation.

Letters and records of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers have been abstracted and checked, against statements by O. E. McManigal, confessed dynamiter in the employ of John J. McNamara, the convicted secretary-treasurer of the association.

Must Be Separate.

Lisbon, Dec. 14.—The Portuguese Government has informed the Catholic Patriarch of Lisbon, Mgr. Anthony Mendes Bello, that it will not pay any salary to the clergy unless the clergy submit to the law separating church and state.

This announcement was made in consequence of the receipt of advices from Rome that the Pope had authorized destitute Portuguese priests to accept stipends from the republic on the condition that they did not allow the Government to interfere in ecclesiastical matters.

Taft Still Hopes.

Port Hope, Dec. 14.—J. A. Culverwell, hydraulic engineer of this town, was a delegate to the convention of the Atlantic Deeperways Association held at Washington, and addressed the association on the subject of canals.

Mr. Culverwell met President Taft, and the President said to him that the U. S. would have reciprocity with Canada yet. Mr. Culverwell replied that Canada was not worrying about reciprocity, but was constructing canals, and busy thinking of building more.

Sir Charles Tupper Ill.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—The Star publishes a despatch from its London correspondent to the effect that Sir Charles Tupper is seriously ill with bronchitis at Bexley Heath and that owing to his advanced age the doctors consider his condition critical.

SAYS LAW IS IN ERROR

This Is Contention of Counsel For Mrs. Hebert.

Celebrated Marriage Suit In Montreal Takes an Interesting Turn When Lawyer Wainwright Undertakes to Combat the Ruling Given In Two Famous Cases Now Cited as Precedents.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—That under the Roman law, French law, British common law, and under the law prevailing in the Province of Quebec before the cession of 1760, the one great essential for the validity of the marriage was the mutual consent of the contracting parties; that Catholic priests officiating at marriages in the province prior and subsequent to the cession acted simply as officers or witnesses on behalf of the state in the matter, and that, consequently, all attempts to read into existing statutes exclusive powers for Catholic clergymen to officiate at the marriages of Catholics could not be based on the contention that such exclusive privilege existed prior to the promulgation of the present civil code — such was the burden yesterday of a lengthy address delivered before the practice court by Arnold Wainwright, counsel for Mrs. Hebert, in the marriage annulment case. His address occupied the whole afternoon session and was resumed this morning.

According to the attorneys for Mrs. Hebert, the position of Hebert is that, taking into account the ancient practice existing in Quebec prior to the time when the French colony came under the dominion of the British throne, the marriage of Catholics, to be valid, had of necessity to be contracted before the parish priest or bishop. Hence, if it could be proven that such was not the case, the position assumed by Hebert in the matter would become automatically untenable. As it was it was a decree of the Council of Trent, as well as an ordinance of the French state, issued in 1697, that Catholics had of necessity to be married before their parish priest or bishop, all that had to be proven was that neither the decree nor the ordinance had ever been in effect in French Canada before the cession. This counsel endeavored to do.

Incidentally, as the position Messrs. Cousins and Wainwright are taking is in contradiction to existing jurisprudence as enunciated in judgments of Justices Jette and Lemieux, in two famous cases, they admitted that the task of confronting them was no small one, and, in this admission, they were confirmed by an expression of opinion from Mr. Justice Charbonneau, presiding at the hearing. That an extraordinary error had crept into the jurisprudence of the province, as exemplified in the rulings above referred to, was the view taken by Mr. Wainwright.

"It is incumbent upon me," says he, "to prove that, under the old law, the marriage of two Catholics solemnized before a Protestant clergyman was not illegal.

"In doing this I will prove that the marriage in the present instance cannot be attacked, and thus combat an extraordinary error which has crept into the jurisprudence of the province will be set aside."

Hawkes To Report.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—Immigration Commissioner Arthur Hawkes is in Ottawa to-day in connection with the report which he is to present to the Government. Mr. Hawkes, who has been appointed to prepare a report on the most scientific and practical methods of obtaining settlers for the Dominion, has been out west, and also in Quebec. He will be here for a day or so, and will then go to Toronto. His work will, after Christmas, take him over to England, and he expects to have his report ready about February.

He has already seen about six of the Provincial Governments with regard to overlapping in immigration.

"I was up in New Ontario last week to meet some of the incoming settlers," he said. "An idea has for some time prevailed that it is possible to dump immigrants into New Ontario like coal into a cellar, but this 'root, hog or die' scheme brings failure and discontent."

Royal Garden Party.

Delhi, India, Dec. 14.—A royal garden party was held at the fort yesterday afternoon, King George and Queen Mary being given a great ovation by the 7,000 guests as they walked through the grounds. Later in the afternoon Their Majesties, wearing their crowns and coronation robes, appeared in a screened balcony on the wall of the fort, formerly used by the mogul.

The Emperor and Empress remained seated on golden thrones, while for an hour and a half a long train of religious and other native processions passed in review.

Thorold Beats Railway.

St. Catharines, Dec. 14.—The Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Co., Tuesday night accepted the terms of the Town of Thorold as to renewal of the franchise of the Port Dalhousie, St. Catharines and Thorold Street Railway owned by the former company, and the service was resumed yesterday morning. The company grants all the terms, and [illegible] town leases a site to the company [illegible] new station.

Farmer Goes to Jail.

Chatham, Dec. 14.—Grant Vanmeer, charged with assaulting James Chittem of Raleigh, was sentenced to one month in jail without the option of a fine by Judge Dowling yesterday afternoon. The assault was the outcome of a dispute over possession of a farm. The defendant started upon Chittem when he and his brother attempted to move a threshing machine into the barn on the property.

MILKING BY HYDRO.

Hon. Mr. Beck Tells Winter Fair Visitors How It Can Be Done.

Guelph, Dec. 14.—With the entries larger than ever before, and with increased accommodation, all that was necessary to make the winter fair of 1911 the greatest in its history was for the attendance figures to be larger than that for any previous year and this bids fair to be the result. The attendance figures for Tuesday were 5,547, being an increase of 2,105 over 1910, when there were only 3,442 on the first day of the fair. Yesterday the station platforms were black with people when the trains discharged their passengers, and an enormous crowd thronged the buildings all day long.

In the evening a big public meeting was held in the City Hall, over 1,200 people being in attendance. Hon. J. S. Duff, Minister of Agriculture, who acted as chairman, in a brief address, stated that this year the show was the best ever held in the Dominion, the attendance being greatly in excess of other years.

Hon. Adam Beck followed, dealing with the Hydro-electric power question as regards the supplying of electricity for use on the farms of the province. He gave a heart to heart talk with exhibitors from the rural districts and described the many ways in which it was used in Europe, especially in Genrmany, in many sections of which is was used on every farm and showed how the farmers of Ontario would be benefited by its installation, as it was the intention of the Government to extend main lines through other parts of the province from which municipalities and townships could secure power at a very low rate.

"It will relieve the burden of household work and will lighten work on the farm," declared Mr. Beck. "Cheap electric power will work wonders and benefit the farmer greatly, as he will be able to cook, wash, milk, heat his dwelling and operate his machinery with electricity, and even do his threshing and plowing with it."

Continuing, the speaker stated that he knew a farmer in Germany who farmed 23 acres who did all his plowing and farm work even to milking his cows, by electricity.

President Creelman of the O. A. College, spoke on the benefits received by the counties where graduates of the Ontario Agricultural College were sent as experts. There were not twenty experts at work all over Ontario. There should be more for everywhere they went they were received with open arms by the farmers, who were anxious to receive the "gospel of agriculture," which they carried. Every farmer and farming community was entitled to the services of these graduates.

Among other speakers, who addressed the meeting were Mayor Thorp, H. C. Scholfield, M.P.P., and W. Smith, M.P. for South Ontario.

'Phones Rates In Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Dec. 14.—The Manitoba Government Telephone Commission yesterday announced a new schedule of rates, the essential feature of which are as follows:

The old rates and methods of charging for service will be abandoned.

No more payments of six months in advance. All bills in future will be paid monthly.

Twenty thousand telephones are now in use in the city of Winnipeg, but with the new low monthly rates 10,000 more places should have telephone connections as fast as they can be installed.

Old rates will remain in force for present subscribers up to April 1, 1912. New rates apply to all new subscribers after Jan. 1, 1912. The rate for business telephones will be $4 a month which includes 100 calls free, or 1,200 a year. Additional calls will be charged at the rate of 2 cents each. The rate for residence telephones will be at $1.50 a month, which includes 30 calls, free, or 360 a year. Additional calls, 2 cents each, or $4.00 a month unlimited calling.

Party lines are abolished.

Train From Canada Wrecked.

Portland, Me., Dec. 14.—A special train bringing several hundred passengers to sail for Liverpool to-day, was wrecked yesterday at West Parish, Me., on the Grand Trunk Railway. Several passengers were hurt, but no one was killed.

The passengers came from points in the Canadian Northwest and were on their way to spend the holidays with relatives in their native countries. They were taken to West Parish to remain there until the tracks were cleared. They will be among 1,000 passengers to sail from Portland to-day on the Teutonic and Sicilian for Liverpool and Glasgow.

Lieutenant-Governor at Brantford.

Brantford, Dec. 14.—Lieutenant-Governor Gibson formally opened the new children's shelter here yesterday, the gift of Mrs. Peter Wood to the Children's Aid Society. His honor was tendered a luncheon by civic representatives and was escorted to the new shelter by the cadet corps and scouts.

The shelter, which is the residence of the late Rev. Dr. Martin, is said to be the finest in Ontario and congratulating references were made to the work of the society in Brantford. His honor was accompanied by Sheriff Middleton, Hamilton, and J. J. Kelso, Toronto.

No More Live Men.

Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 14.—With the passing of another day without the discovery of any more live men in Cross Mountain mine, hope for the rescue of the fifty old men still unaccounted for reached its lowest ebb. Late yesterday the report spread through the village that three more survivors had been found and practically the whole population flocked to the mine for news, only to be disappointed in finding that it was untrue.

Niobe Deserter Surrenders.

London, Dec. 14.—Edwin Rutherford, aged 16, who deserted last May from the cruiser Niobe, surrendered himself to the Windsor police on Dec. 11, fearing arrest and punishment. Rutherford formerly resided with his parents at 140 Egerton street, this city.

TRADE IS INCREASING.

Canada's Imports Grow Faster Than Exports, However.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—The section of the annual report of the Department of Trade and Commerce dealing with trade between Canada, Great Britain, France and Germany has been issued. The report shows that during the fiscal year, which closed on March 31 last, Canada's total trade with Great Britain amounted to $247,551,912 as against $245,313,984 for 1910. A considerable increase in imports of British goods, and a decrease in exports to Great Britain are shown.

The total imports amounted to $110,586,801 as compared with $95,679,877 in 1910. Exports last year amounted to $136,065,111 as against $149,634,107.

Canada's total trade with the U. S. for the same twelve months reached a total of $413,813,003, as compared with $352,221,327 in the previous year. Both imports and exports increased, the former from $230,070,540 in 1910, to $294,415,202 in 1911, and the latter from $113,150,778 in 1910, to $119,396,801 in 1911. The duty collected on imports from Great Britain amounted to $20,756,811, and on imports from the United States $37,854,728.

The figures of trade with Germany show a slight increase, the total for the year being $12,750,216 as compared with $7,958,264 in 1910.

The figures show that while Canada bought more largely from Germany, the increase in exports from Canada to Germany was very slight, the figures being $2,501,191 for 1910, and $2,663,017 for 1911.

Trade with France increased both ways. The imports amounted to $11,755,403 in 1911, as compared with $10,170,903 in 1910, and the exports $2,782,092 in 1911, as against $2,640,648 in 1910.

Canada's total trade in 1911 amounted to $769,443,905, as compared with $693,211,221 in the previous year, and the duty collected increased from $60,709,707 in 1910, to $72,935,639 in 1911.

The exports as well as imports of coin and bullion show very large increases, the imports being $6,017,589 in 1910, and $10,206,210 in 1911, and the exports $2,594,536 in 1910, and $7,196,155 in 1911.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Alex. Renau, aged 106 years, voted at Haileybury for Mr. Roebuck last Monday.

Hon. John Richards has been elected leader of the Prince Edward Island Liberals.

Senator Ellis and The St. John Globe celebrated their fiftieth anniversary together.

Restrictions on the production and distribution of opium, morphia and cocaine were agreed to at The Hague conference yesterday.

The Allan liner Hungarian, Havre, for St. John, N.B., put in at St. John's, Nfld., last night with one of her main steampipes broken.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was excused from a Toronto court to be present at a reception in Montreal to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

Some Montreal aldermen who were not introduced to the Duke of Connaught at the civic reception, are going to bring the matter up in the City Council.

The American schooner Mooween, from Bank Quero for Boston, struck on Pollock Point, at the western end of the Lunenburg coast, Tuesday night. The crew were saved.

Mr. John Bright, president of the Winter Fair, speaking at Guelph, said the Government must increase its encouragement of agriculture or the farmers would get behind Mr. Rowell.

The grand jury at Goderich found no bill against J. G. Armstrong, the Lucknow druggist, charged with criminal negligence in giving Miss Murray the wrong medicine and causing her death.

State Cable Not Yet.

London, Dec. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Postmaster Samuel, replying to questions in the House of Commons, said that after viewing all the circumstances, the Government had no present intention of embarking on a large capital expenditure involved in the laying of a state cable.

"Is the postmaster aware," asked Major Archer-Shee, "that one Canadian railway's telegraph facilities are not controlled by the American Telegraph & Telephone Co., and is fighting them in fact, and that now is our opportunity to arrange through traffic for the Pacific cable?"

Mr. Samuel replied that the Pacific Cable Board had already leased a wire between Montreal and Vancouver.

Out on $10,000 Bail.

Hamilton, Dec. 14.—After remaining in jail for nearly two weeks, Joseph Acheson and J. D. Chilman, the two young men charged with the theft of $8,000 from the Canadian Express Co. last September, were released from custody yesterday afternoon on bail in the sum of $10,000 each. They appeared in the police court yesterday, and at the request of the crown attorney were remanded for another five days, at the end of which time the police expect to be able to proceed with the charges against them.

Chicago's Big Terminals.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Details of a plan that would involve the most comprehensive grouping of railway terminals ever contemplated are being worked out by railroad officials here, following a suggestion of President F. A. Delano of the Wabash System. The plan provides an expenditure of from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000 and includes the abandonment of several terminals now in use.

This outlay would provide for the construction of a transcontinental railway from coast to coast.

Compulsory Training Won't Do.

London, Dec. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Truth disparages Dr. Logie's scheme for compulsory military training. It says: "Compulsory training would quicken the procession of young Canadians to the United States. Neither the navy nor the militia arouses enthusiasm in Canada. Both problems threaten to be as difficult for Mr. Borden as for Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

Labor Can Beat Liquor.

Washington, Dec. 14.—"The laboring man is the hope of the country in the fight against the rum traffic," declared John B. Lennon, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, to the delegates at the annual convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, here yesterday.

"The liquor forces had boasted," said Mr. Lennon, "that as long as organized labor stood back of them they had no fear of the church. This combination can be broken up," he said, "just as soon as Christian men and women begin to interest themselves in organized labor."

BELLEVILLE BRANCH BIBLE SOCIETY HELD ITS ANNUAL MEETING

Good Attendance and an Excellent Address by Rev. A. S. Kerr—List of the Officers Elected—Receipts Rather Less than those of Last Year—Short Address by the President, Rev. R. Wallace—Good Work Done by the Society

In the Sunday School rooms of Bridge Street Methodist Church last evening the annual meeting of the Belleville Bible Society was held, presided over by the President, Rev. R. Wallace. There was a good attendance, and an excellent address on the Bible was given by the Rev. A. S Kerr, pastor of St. Andrew's Church The proceedings were opened by the singing of a hymn, reading of a Scripture lesson by Rev. C. G. Smith and prayer by Rev. A. R. Sanderson.

Rev. A. M Hubly, Secretary, verbally reported that the collectors had done efficient work during the year.

The Executive Committee recommended that the officers of the Society for the ensuing year be as follows

President—Rev. R. Wallace.

First Vice-President—Mr. S. A Gardner.

Second Vice-President—Mr. W. B Deacon.

Treasurer—Rev. A. L. Geen.

Secretary—Rev. A. M. Hubly.

Executive Committee—Pastors of all churches and Messrs. Walter Alford C. M. Reid, P. F. Canniff, S. Russell, J. E. Walmsley, T. Nightingale C. A. Harte, W. P. Hudson and E Botterell.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Rev. A. L. Geen, Treasurer, presented a report which showed that the collectors had during the year collected $159.06 and from other source $19.71 had been received, making the total receipts $178.87. The expenditures were $11, leaving a balance of $167.87, which was a slight decrease from last year.

On motion of Mr. E. Botterell and seconded by Mr. S. A. Gardner, the report was adopted.

The President gave a brief address referring to the fact that there were yet 45,000,000 of the world's population who were without the Bible. While Holy Writ had been translated into some 530 languages, yet there were hundreds of dialects that had not been touched. The British and Foreign Bible Society since its inception in 180 had accomplished a grand work, yet there was much to be done, as about one-third of the world was without the Bible in their mother tongue. The Rev. gentleman gave instances of the work of the Bible Society in heathen lands and the good it was doing.

REV. MR. KERR'S ADDRESS.

Rev. A. S. Kerr, in his opening remarks, said it was a pleasure to attend an annual meeting of the Bible Society. We in Canada ought to take a peculiar interest in this Society because it was in Canada the Bible was translated for the Mohawk Indians. In 1804 the Foreign Bible Society was inaugurated in the motherland. The object of the Society was to place the Bible in languages so as to be read by all the inhabitants of the globe. When the Word of God is presented to readers in their mother tongue it accomplishes that for which it is intended. The missionaries can reach the heathen when they can speak to the heathen in their own tongue. So he must have the Bible in the tongue of those whom he is laboring amongst. In Canada alone there is said to be 90 different languages. The contributions to the British and Foreign Bible Society are increasing and Canada gave quite liberally to the parent Society. The value of the work of distributing the Bible to those who have it not was referred to most appropriately. This is not a speculative project; we know we are on safe and sure ground. We may live in an age of things that are new and untried. This cannot be said of the Bible Society. It is not a new thing. The work of this Society has stood the test of time; through its work lives have been saved and souls redeemed. Wherever there is the giving of the Word of God it means the ennobling of lives. The Bible itself has stood the test of time, notwithstanding that we are living in an age where there has been speculation as to the Word of God. We know the Scripture by what it has accomplished. It is a book that never grows old. A good book will last for a few years, but none of them can take their place with the Bible. The Word of God is new and fresh all the time. We should give it every support and every encouragement. The giving of the Word of God to pagan countries is assisting national greatness. When we look to the far-off east we see a new nation. It is because the Word of God is in China it is giving to that country a greater vision. Righteousness alone exalteth a nation. There is still a wider outlook in regard to this matter. The Word of God is the foundation of true brotherhood. How are we to be made brothers. The world is being unified to-day in various ways, but the only way it can be properly unified is the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ. There is nothing will unite men as the Word of God. This is the teaching of St. Paul; it is christian teaching. The Bible is not a denominational book, but a cosmopolitan book, a book for all nations and all people. This is glorious work, a cosmopolitan work, a christian work. Here was an opportunity to invest money in a glorious enterprise. We are not to worship the Bible as we do Christ; the Bible leads us to Christ, and it is He who takes away the sins of the world and He is the hope of the world. In the Bible there are historical facts, which cannot be found elsewhere; but we must not use it exclusively for this end; but to use it to stimulate us in christian service. What the Bible has done for Canada it can do for the heathen country. In closing his address Rev. Mr. Kerr said that Sir Walter Scott, when dying, asked that a portion of the book of all books be read to him. May we all have the same respect for the Bible as the great poet had.

On motion of Rev. W. G. Clarke, and seconded by Rev. A. L. Geen, a vote of thanks was tendered to the lady collectors, also to Rev. Mr. Kerr for his address.

The singing of a hymn and benediction by Rev. Dr. Bishop brought the meeting to a close.

A woman thinks she has lived in vain if she has not succeede in making a fool of one man.

Being agreeable means agreeing with people regardless of your own opinions.

CAMPHOR USED FOR PNEUMONIA

A German Physican Tells of Successful Results Achieved Since 1906

Dr. Serbert, in the Munchner Medizinische Wochenschrift, describes the remarkable results which he obtained in the treatment of serious cases of pneumonia by means of strong doses of camphor. He first had occasion to use it in 1906 in a case of double pneumonia where the patient was also suffering from typhoid fever. He therefore practiced a subcutaneous injection of 12 cubic centimeters of camphorated oil (20 per cent.) recently sterilized. The results obtained on the pulse and respiration, as well as those on the temperature and general condition were extremely satisfactory. He renewed this dose every 12 hours, and he found after three days the trouble had disappeared.

Dr. Serbert has since employed the same treatment in 21 cases, one of which was extremely serious, since it was a question of double complicated pneumonia in a woman 72 years old. All these cases recovered. It seems certain that the camphor produced these effects, since there was no real crisis, the cure being gradual and slowly effected.

FIVE DOCTORS GAVE UP ALL HOPE

Said she Would Die of Kidney Trouble

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" CURED HER

MOUNTAIN, ONT., Dec. 14th. 1910.

"For six years, I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen, and the pain was awful. My people thought sometimes I was dead, as I would faint from the agony. Five different doctors attended me, and all said it was kidney trouble and gave me no hope of getting well. A kind neighbor told me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and mentioned the case of Mrs. Fenwick, who was cured by them.

I took "Fruit-a-tives"—and in a short time, I began to feel better, the swelling went down, the pain was easier, and then "Fruit-a-tives" entirely cured me. All my friends look upon my recovery as a miracle, and I am unable to praise "Fruit-a-tives" enough."

(MISS) MAGGIE JANNACK.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the most scientific remedy ever discovered for Irritation or Congestion of the Kidneys, frequent Pain In The Back, and Swollen Limbs. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.09.

DALY DEFEATED DE ORO.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 13.—In a remarkably well-played finish, John Daly, of Chicago, to-night recaptured the world's three-cushion billiard championship from Alfred De Oro by the narrow margin of 2 points, the score for three nights' play being Daly 150, De Oro 148. To-night's block went 114 innings.

When play opened for the third round De Oro had a lead of 13 points on the Chicagoan, the score being 100 to 87. Daly played a sensational game, and took the final block of the match 63 to 48. Daly made a high run of 7. De Oro one of 6.

RING NEWS AND NOTES.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13.—Carl Morris, the "Oklahoma Giant," made short work of Al. Williams, of Cleveland last night. The fight, a bloody one, was stopped in the third round. Williams was punished severely and was helpless against the jabs dealt by Morris. The latter weighed 228 lbs. and towered over the local man, who tipped the beam at 205. Williams was bleeding freely and in the second round went to the floor for the count. He was put down twice in the third. Morris was unscarred and seemed not to feel the few blows Williams landed.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 12.—Abe Attell, champion featherweight, and Johnny Kilbone, of Cleevland, have been matched to fight twenty rounds at Vernon February 22, for the championship. The men are to weigh 122 ringside.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Dec. 12.—Mike Gibbons, of St. Paul, defeated Frank Perron, of Pawtucket, in the ninth round by a clean knockout, in a bout scheduled for fifteen rounds at the Rhode Island A.C. to-night. Perron was completely outclassed by his very scientific opponent.

At Windsor, Magistrate Leggatt, in the police court here to-day, found guilty the principals in the boxing bout at the Windsor A.C., that two weeks ago was stopped by the police. Peter Shaughnessey and "Spike" Keily, the fighters, and Promoters Edward Glassco and William Richards were each fined $50 and costs. The decision will be appealed by Promoter Glassco in the high court there.

The bout between Abe Attell and One-round Hogan scheduled for next Monday in New York, has been postponed until December 29, Attell having injured his hand.

CARPENTIER BEAT LEWIS.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—Georges Carpentier, the 19-year-old French welterweight champion, won the decision over Harry Lewis, the American pugilist, and welterweight champion of England, in a 20-round fight at the Cirque de Paris to-night. The fight went the limit and Carpentier won on points.

Parisian society, including hundreds of women in evening gowns, saw the contest, and applauded the decision of the judges, which was unanimous in awarding the victory to the Frenchman.

YOU CAN'T CURE CATARRH BY SWALLOWING DRUGS

COUGH SYRUP, TABLETS AND SPRAYS SICKEN THE STOMACH BUT DON'T REACH THE GERMS OF CATARRH—HENCE THEIR FAILURE TO HELP.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to rout out Catarrh or Asthma it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

Catarrhozone has entirely displaced the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, tablets, sprays and sedative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and drowsy narcotics so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrhal remedies.

COULDN'T BREATHE—CATARRHOZONE CURED.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal catarrh than I suffered a month ago," writes Mr. G. E. Root, a well-known resident of Bridgetown, W.I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief, so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co. Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

THE YOUNG ARTIST.

The Romance of a Canadian Painting Exhibition.

(Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd)

This story must be told in stages. The first must picture the hero, a boy of fourteen, by name George Davidson, just arrived in Montreal from Ontario, where, since he had left his home in Russia, he had lived with his aunt. He was homeless and fatherless; but, filled with a determination to make his way in the world, he had come to the great Canadian metropolis. After several days' vain tramping of the streets to seek employment, Davidson was engaged by a crayon artist. And this must mark the second stage in his story.

His main duty in these early days was to sweep the floor of the studio, and to prepare the easels and other implements of the artist, ready for his master to begin work each morning.

But if the work seemed mean and profitless for the future, it was effecting a great change in the boy's mind. As he busied himself in the studio his eyes would constantly roam to the easel at which his master was working. How simply and wonderfully he supplied a delightful background to the portraits which were sent to him by a firm of photographers.

Ambition was gradually growing in young Davidson's mind. One day he would become a painter.

A year or so went by. In that time a big change had come over the boy's life. He no longer spent the day in mental work in the studio. Instead, he was fast becoming as proficient as his master. At night he went to the National Academy of Design, and there, under competent masters, worked diligently at oil-painting.

Three years past. Young Davidson sat before his easel. He was just putting the finishing strokes to a small landscape scene.

The little landscape was sent to the exhibition, bearing beneath it the words "Evening Shadows."

The exhibition was filled with an excited crowd. It was the first day of the opening. A group of critics had gathered round a large canvas. This was the work of John La Farge. They could tell it at a glance. It was magnificent! But whose was the little sunset scene, that held a place of such high honour beside it?

"George Davidson—Davidson, who was Davidson, whose picture had received such commendation?" A few days later everyone in Canada could have told how, with indomitable courage, the once penniless boy had in a few years proved himself to be one of the rising artists of the great Dominion.

Boots and Shoes.

Shoes are one of the expenses of a toilet that may be reduced by care alone. A worn-out shoe cannot be renovated; no amount of skill will make it pass as new. The only possible way to save in shoe leather is to care properly for the shoes while wearing them. When they are taken off they should be wiped at once, and if wet filled with paper and put in a dry place (nor near the first) for some hours. We do not advise putting shoes into a bag, for the sake of neatness. If boot-trees are not convenient the boots or shoes should be stood where the air can get to them, as this will tend to harden the soles.

Rheumatism and Sprains

ZAM-BUK IS A CURE!

When you have a sprain or feel the searing, gnawing pain of rheumatism or the acute agony of lumbago, rub Zam-Buk well in.

Mrs. Frances Wyatt, of 25 Guy Avenue, Montreal, says: "I have found Zam-Buk most soothing and valuable for rheumatism and stiffness of joints and muscles. I suffered long and acutely from rheumatism and tried one liniment afte ranother in vain. I also took medicines internally but it remained for Zam-Buk to effect a cure. It seemed to penetrate to the very seat of the pains, driving them completely out, and now I am cured."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for piles, ulcers, cold sores, chapped hands, cuts, burns, scalds, scalp sores, babies' rashes, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores 50c. box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse substitutes.

ON "THE CANNY SCOT."

Scotsmen Not Sentimental, But Deeply Romantic at Heart, Says a Well-known English Writer.

"I have been trying all my life to like Scotsmen," said Charles Lamb "and am obliged to desist from the experiment in despair." There are still probably a few people who secretly or openly harbour similar antipathetic feelings towards the natives of Caledonia, but their number is decreasing daily. It would hardly be correct to say that the Scots are universally popular. Popularity is usually the product of leisure and luxury, and is seldom accorded to those who have had little opportunity for the cultivation of the graces and external beauties of life. For generations the Scots have been held fast in the grip of uncompromising realities. The poverty of the country, with its long stretches of bleak but beautiful moorland; the "Sabbath gloom" which so long reigned over the Lowlands, combined with the "Celtic gloom" permeating every "distant shieling" in the Highlands has not been conducive to the development of a spirit of gaiety and charm. But what they have lost in one way they have gained in another. It is this very schooling in "strait and narrow" ways which has given the nation the grit and dogged determination it now possesses.

HUMOUR NORTH OF THE TWEED

A sense of humor is not now denied Scotsmen by the Sassenach. "A Scotsman and therefore quick to see the humor of things," was the recent comment of so cosmopolitan a critic as Mrs. Annie Besant. What would Sydney Smith say if he could have heard it?

Meanness is another charge which seems to have been withdrawn in recent years. It probably arose in the first instance from the Scot's necessity for economy. Brought up in a country where money was unusually scarce, it was difficulty for him to develop suddenly an open-handed generosity. This fostered habit of economy, brought about by circumstances, must be carefully distinguished from the merely mean desire to hoard Great generosity of heart is often found in the most economical person, while a certain cold selfishness not infrequently accompanies the most outrageous extravagance.

Another charge which has sometimes been levelled against the Scots is a lack of romance, but their history is an ample refutation of this charge. The Scotsman is not sentimental, but he is deeply romantic at heart."

Twixt Bull and Bear.

Lincoln stories are common, and the tellers of them are not as accurate in ascertaining their genuineness as they are prolific in producing them. The following tale may or "may not be a real Lincoln." It is in any event, a good story:

Two farm-hands, Lincoln used to say, were set upon by a huge bull while crossing a rocky field. One managed to gain a tree. The other took refuge in a hole in the tree that proved to have an exit in the rear.

The man who had chosen the hole was no sooner in at one end than he was out at the other. With a bellow, the bull made for him. He turned and again shot through the hole. The bull once more bore down upon him, and once more he was in and out of his hole.

The strange pursuit kept up some minutes. At first it mystified the farm-hand up in the tree. Then it angered him.

"Hey," he shouted, "you idiot! Why don't you stay in the hole?"

The bull was dashing from one end of the hole to the other at great speed, and the man was bobbing in and out desperately. He heard, however, his comrade's shout, and found time before his next brief disappearance to shout back:

"Idiot yourself! There's a bear in the hole."

The Time of Long Sermons.

Those who like long sermons should have lived in the seventeenth century. The manner in which the Rev. John Howe, Minister of Great Torrington, in Devonshire, conducted Divine service on a public fast day is thus described by a contemporary: "Mr. Howe said that upon these occasions he began about nine in the morning with a prayer for about a quarter of a hour, in which he begged a blessing upon the work of the day, and afterwards read and expounded a chapter or psalm, in which he spent three-quarters of an hour; then prayed for about an hour, preached for another hour, and prayed for about half an hour. After this he retired and took some little refreshment for about a quarter of an hour (the people singing all the time) and then came into the pulpit and prayed for another hour; and gave them another sermon of about an hour's length; and so concluded the service of the day. . . ."

Perhaps a man has more temptations than a woman because he knows just where to look for

FAMOUS STOKES SHOOTING CASE HAS ALMOST REACHED ITS END

Girls who Shot Millionaire May Know Fate Today—Trial Concluded so far as Taking Testimony is Concerned—Miss Conrad on the Stand—Defendant Submits Statement She Forced Man to Sign

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The trial of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad for shooting W. E. D. Stokes was concluded to-day, so far as the taking of evidence is concerned. The case will go to the jury on Friday afternoon. To-morrow will be spent in summing up by counsel for the defence, Robert M. Moore and Clark L. Jordan. The assistant district attorney, Mr. Buckner, expects to finish his argument by noon.

After Justice Marcus's' charge the jury will deliberate as to whether Miss Graham and Miss Conrad attempted to murder the proprietor of The Ansonia, the punishment for which may be anything from a day in jail to 25 years in prison.

By consent of counsel, Mr. Stokes, now recovering from an operation, was eliminated as a witness. Dr. Thornley, his physician, testified this morning that Mr. Stokes would not be able to appear in court in the near future. Lawyer Moore told Justice Marcus that Lillian Graham's sister, Mrs. Stella Singleton, was ill and that he did not know whether she would be able to testify in the morning. It was the purpose of the defence to put Mrs. Singleton on the stand to relate what she told Miss Graham as to her belief that Mr. Stokes murdered Al. Adams, the policy-man.

One of the last witnesses to-day was Mr. Stokes's wife, Helen E. Stokes, whom he married on February 11, 1911. The lawyers for Miss Graham and Miss Conrad were surprised when she was called. Mrs. Stokes was quite self-possessed under the stare of the crowd and answered questions readily.

Mr. Buckner asked if she was with Mr. Stokes at his Lexington farm in May last. She said she was; that they went there on May 19th and returned on May 29th. He asked her if she remembered what time it was when they got back to New York on May 29th. Mrs. Stokes consulted a little black diary and answered that it was afternoon. She remembered that the train was late. Miss Conrad had testified that she saw Stokes at 10.30 a.m. on May 29th. Just one question was put to Mrs. Stokes on cross-examination—had she lived at The Ansonia before she married Mr. Stokes? She said she had lived there five or six months before her marriage.

There were few witnesses to-day. Miss Conrad, displaying her temperament somewhat less, but still unable to resist giggling at "that funny Mr. Buckner," was under examination most of the day, describing her success in obtaining a confession from Charley Miller, of Plattsburg. Miss Conrad accused Miller of insulting her and used a revolver to force him to sign the statement.

Miss Conrad's attorney to-day gave out the statement she said she had obtained from Miller in 1910. The statement recited that although he had seen the girl only once before, he induced her to take an automobile ride.

"She met me," continued the statement, "with the intention of finding out my identity, which she was unable to ascertain, as I was in an automobile attire. We stopped at Silver Creek Inn to enable me to buy cigarettes for my own use. While there I had a drink; the young lady remained in the auto. At that time she discovered who I was, which satisfied her, and she asked to be taken home, which I did not do, but drove to another place, where I asked her to spend the night. She refused indignantly and we struggled and she pretended to faint, causing me great anxiety. After apparently recovering, I immediately drove her home, getting out of the car and seeing her to the door, but never entering the Farley home.

"She never drank with me nor smoked cigarettes in my presence. Ashamed of myself for having caused a lot of untruthful gossip as to my relationship with Miss Conrad, I will do everything in my power to vindicate both her and myself."

Miss Conrad was arrested and put in the Plattsburg jail, charged with assault, she said, and while she was locked up the man who had insulted her called and offered her $5,000 for his statement, but she refused to part with it. Horace Hicks, an elderly negro, who was Mr. Stokes's valet for several years, told what he had observed of Miss Graham while she was visiting Stokes at the Lexington farm Hicks was cook, butler and housekeeper at that time. Some of his answers so upset the courtroom that Justice Marcus threatened to put the crowd out.

CHICAGO PRESS CLUB TO ENTERTAIN SIR MACKENZIE

One of the Prominent Entertainers a Belleville Boy who has Made Good

The Press Club of Chicago, the largest organization of the sort in America, composed of men whose profession is writing, including all branches of the craft, will entertain Sir Mackenzie Bowell at a noonday luncheon on January 24th at the big club house on Dearborn Street in Chicago. As soon as the Club learned that Sir Mackenzie would visit Chicago in January as the guest of the Belleville Club, consent of the latter organization was asked, and readily granted. The Belleville Club feels that its guest is being shown a gentle courtesy by his brother journalists and readily fell in with the idea. This is only one of the several "side" features being prepared for Sir Mackenzie's visit.

The Club has entertained every President of the United States for thirty-eight years or more and every distinguished traveller who comes to Chicago sits at its board. An old friend, W. J. Shanks, has been a prominent member of the Press Club for twenty years or more. Mr. Shanks, a Belleville boy, is to be Secretary of the new Subway Commission which will have the supervision of the building or digging of the Chicago subway. It's a fine job, but they need a Belleville boy to help the work along. Mr. Shanks is an expert on subway matters. He has made a study of it for many years, and has been driving his theories home with his pen, having written hundreds of columns in the daily papers and published several pamphlets concerning it.

HIS DOG NIPPED HORSE SO HE MUST PAY $150

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 14.—An interesting dog case was tried in the Sessions yesterday afternoon, when John Coleman, Grimsby, sued James Coulson, of the same place, for damages.

Last July, when Coleman drove past Coulson's place, Coulson's terrier ran out, bit the horse, causing a runaway.

Coleman was thrown out and he broke his leg.

Coleman brought a dozen witnesses to swear that the dog had a reputation, and habitually chased passers-by.

Coulson brought a dozen witnesses to swear that the dog was a model citizen and didn't chase anybody.

The jury gave Coleman $150 damages.

GIFTS FROM CHURCH TO FATHER KILLEEN

New R. C. Pastor of Belleville Honored by his Former Congregation

Immediately following high mass in St. Gregory's Church, Picton, says the Gazette, Father Kileen referred to his departure from Picton to Belleville. He referred very feelingly to his departure. During his charge here he has received from the congregation $27,000.00. He referred to the coming of Father Carson as priest, as deserving of the kindness and affection of the congregation. When Father Kileen had finished he was presented by David McAuley, sr., with a purse of $100.

An address from the congregation was read by J. L. Shannon, Warden of the county. Father Kileen made a suitable reply.

On Monday night the ladies of the congregation met at the priest's house. Miss Kileen, sister of Father Kileen, was presented by Mrs. Geo O'Brien and Miss Carroll, on behalf of the ladies with a valuable set of furs.

In the majority of cases the sad look on the face of a man is from over eating.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 15.—Prince Arthur of Connaught is to succeed Lord Hardinge as Viceroy of India, according to reports circulated to-day.

INSURANCE BILL

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 15.—Lloyd George's industrial insurance bill passed its third reading in the House of Lords to-day, minor amendments being made which undoubtedly will be accepted by the Commons.

ANOTHER FALSE REPORT

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A rumor that the King had been assassinated at Delhi camp swept all England to-day causing a tremendous sensation. The Home Office issued a statement denying the occurrence of an accident affecting His Majesty.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

SHOPPING.

Most of the Front Street merchants would like their customers to do their buying before Saturday and leave that day as much as possible for our friends from the country. Of course this only applies to the holiday trade.

MR. McGINNIS IN CHARGE.

Inspector Shaw, of the Customs Department for this district, was in this city yesterday, and, acting on the instructions for the Minister, Hon. Mr. Reid, placed Mr. Arthur McGinnis, the new Collector, in full charge of the local Custom House.

IS RECOVERING.

Our esteemed felow-citizen, Mr. A. A. Richardson, has arrived home from Toronto. As was to be expected, after a critical operation, he has not yet regained his normal strength, but that of course will return with time. All will be glad to know he is with us again for the Christmas festivities.—Deseronto Post.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was rendered by the coroner's jury at London, Ont., in the case of Mrs. David Jones, the Belleville woman, who cut her throat in the Grand Trunk Railway station there on Tuesday. The body was taken to Cleveland for burial.

MADE RESTITUTION.

At Trenton yesterday before Magistrate O'Rourke, Mervin Mackie, Fred Campbell and Ed. Sweet were convicted of the offence of obtaining unlawfully $60 from a foreigner named Peter Michalek. The accused made restitution to the foreigner, paid all the costs in the matter and were allowed their liberty, upon furnishing bonds for their good behaviour for a year.

ON THE QUI VIVE.

Shortly after 5 o'clock last evening a stone was thrown through the window of Mr. Wm. Payne's residence at the corner of Dundas and Burnham Streets. It is alleged that for some nights a man has been about that section of the city acting in a peculiar manner. The police are making every effort to catch the party, and some members of the force in plain clothes have even visited the section.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Camp Rob Roy, S.O.S., held their regular meeting yesterday evening for election of officers for 1912, and other business. The following officers were elected:—

Chief—Bro. Wm. McIntosh.
Chie[illegible]—Bro. J. R. Massie.
Chap[illegible]—Rev. Mr. Kerr.
Rec. Secretary—Donald Paterson.
Fin. Secretary—Thos. Bowie.

Bard—Bro. Peter Johnston.

OFFICIAL VISIT.

L. B. Cooper, Belleville, P.G.P., made an official inspection of Cant a Gananoque, No. 12, I.O.O.F., on Wednesday evening, two new members being mustered in. After the business session, the guests were tendered a banquet at F. Hicks' restaurant.

RECEIVED HIS APPOINTMENT.

Mr. Alfred Gillen, the new Postmaster here, received official instructions from the Post Office Department this morning to take over and assume full charge of the office at once.

RAILWAY WRECK.

A C.N.O.R. engine with several cars were wrecked on Wednesday forenoon at Marlbank. A switch had been left open after one of the small engines used at the Cement Works. No person was injured.

A FRUITLESS SEARCH.

In response to a call the police last evening visited the piece of woods near Bleecker Avenue to find, if possibl, a man who is said to have been about there for the past two or three days. Although a diligent search was made of the vicinity the supposed stranger could not be found.

BELLEVILLE BOY WON.

It is learned from the Santa Barbara, California, Times that Mr. S. W. Lazier, who is a Belleville boy, being a son of the late Nicholas Lazier of this city, was elected a member of the City Council of that place at the municipal election.

"PEEPING TOMS."

At 9 o'clock last evening the police answered a call to Bleecker Avenue, it being reported that some boys were annoying residents by peeping into windows and doing other acts to attract attention. The lads soon decamped when they learned that the police had been sent for.

NEW COLLECTOR AT TRENTON.

Mr. Robert Frazer, Collector of Customs at Trenton, has been removed from office and Mr. W. H. Polly, of Trenton, assumes charge as Collector. This appointment of Mr. E. G. Porter's will be exceedingly popular in Trenton, where the new appointee is well and favorably known.

SIX MONTHS FOR HENRY.

A week ago Henry Renfrew was convicted of a charge of vagrancy and remanded to jail for a week. This morning he appeared before the Magistrate and a sentence of five and a half months in the Central Prison was imposed. Renfrew had been about the city for some time apparently doing nothing.

HONORABLY ACQUITTED.

At the County Court and General Sessions being held at Peterborough this week, Gilbert Horton, who is known to many in this city, having at one time lived here, was yesterday acquitted by a jury on a charge of theft preferred against him. The accused is a cheese maker and an employee of the Lakefield Dairy Company.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Grits elected only 22 members to the Legislature, but they got "23" all the same.

It is said the German government borrowed fully $75,000,000 in New York during the Morocco war scare. That sum, however, would have gone but a very short way toward financing a war.

The last hope of the Toronto Globe is blasted. The Hon. Dr. Reaume has been declared elected after a final count of the ballots, by a majority of 54. This fact does not appear in the columns of The Globe with a conspicuous border around it.

The situation in Ontario over the election of a new Legislature seems to be that the Conservatives are satisfied with having almost three-fourths of the members and the Liberals are thankful that they got as many as one-fourth. The man who trains himself to expect little in politics does have his compensations now and then.—Montreal Gazette.

Sir Wilfrid's navy would have been a useless expense to the country, it would have been a lasting burden upon the public treasury, and in the event of war between Great Britain and another power it could never have been of the slightest service either in our own waterways or in foreign seas. As Mr. Monk says, there was no disloyalty in disapproving of such a scheme.—Vancouver Province.

It is a curious coincidence that, while King George as Emperor of India, was at Delhi, which he proclaimed as the new capital of India, his sister, the Princess Louise, and her family, were passengers on the steamship Delhi, which went ashore on the rocks off Cape Trafalgar, some leagues off which the British fleet under Lord Nelson encountered the combined fleets of France and Spain, with results which every Briton recalls with pride, on the 21st of October, 1805.

ing argument in the Hebert case, is reported as having said that he had discovered that the 'ne temere' decree had civil effects, and was not purely canon law. If a few more discoveries like this can be made by the bench, counsel for Mrs. Hebert will have achieved a most gratifying triumph. Canada must not have laws which permit civil effect to the promulgations of any church.—Mail and Empire.

It can only be hoped that the settlement of differences which has been reached by British railroad directors and representatives of railroad labor organizations will be permanent. The workingmen rejected the plan recommended by an arbitration commission after the big strike. It has been reported that one of the propositions made by the railroads includes a profit sharing scheme, but it is not known whether or not this was accepted by the employees.

The turbulent races that occupy trans-Carpathian areas seem to have a chronic state of unrest as their normal condition. Twelve thousand Albanians under arms is the latest manifestation of this undesirable feature. It is difficult for the denizens of the workaday world on this half of the North American continent to understand who furnishes the sinews of war while they are thus engaged in their favorite occupation. Evidently somebody must pay the shot, and sweat under it.—Hamilton Spectator.

It is reported that a Turkish force also has entered Persian territory and that the Turkish government announces that it will stay till the Russian troops are withdrawn. If Russia has counted on Turkish pre-occupation because of the Italian war, it has overlooked the fact that Turkey is unable to use her army against Italy and is still free to employ it in resisting Russian aggression. And judging by the record of Russia in the war against Japan, the Czar has some reason to worry about what Turkey's fine modern army might do.

The actual number of murders in the United States is far more than five or six thousand a year; the Chicago Tribune's figures are approximately correct. Those figures showed last year a total of 8,975 deaths from murder. Consider for a moment what this means. Supposed you possessed a very vivid imagination, and that you stood in front of a clock, sleepless day and night. These figures mean that for every hour of the day and night which you heard the clock strike you would know that some victim of a shotgun, a knife, a pistol, or poison had been done to death in this country.—Colliers.

SEE HIM SMILE.

Now the civic candidate for the voter lies in wait
And oft that artless person doth nearly shake the hand;
His yarns are ready spinned, he is full of gas and wind,
And he'll tell you tales of service done to beat the band.
But the voter, with a sigh, sadly winks the other eye.
He's heard those little fairy tales times many and oft before,
But he'll hear them still, I fear, at this season of the year,
Till he gets a trip with Charon to the other shore.

In Belleville the process above outlined has been reversed since the restoration of the ward system, citizens having had to be coaxed with all sorts of inducements, to become members of a Council, with twentyone aldermen in it; and at that, a sufficient number has not been secured at any election yet held under that deplorable system.

CHARLTON STILL PRISONER IN JAIL

The Self-Confessed Murderer Might Probably Have Escaped

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Plans for breaking jail which might have resulted in the escape of Porter Charlton and the consequent elimination of an international question, were frustrated last night at the Hudson County penitentiary in Jersey City, when the Matron, Mary Murray, was awakened by an unusual noise in the northeast division of the building.

She called James Moody, the warden, who investigated and found that the bars of an unoccupied cell window in the ninth tier had been sawed out, leaving an opening big enough for a man to get through. He also found in the empty cell a set of saws and chisels.

Among the eight prisoners in that particular part of the jail was Charlton, who has been a prisoner ever since June of 1910, charged with killing his wife in Italy. The refusal of the country to surrender him has been the cause of many notes between the State Department of the two governments.

Charlton and the other seven prisoners were transferred to another part of the jail. There was no evidence to indicate which of them planned the escape.

CHANGED HER MIND AND HER NAME

Lady Constance Foljambe Is Now Mrs. Henry Hawkins

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Lady Constance Foljambe, who last July disappointed the Rev. A. H. K. Hawkins by not marrying him, went away to the country, and is now Mrs. Hawkins. The couple were married on Monday.

The marriage was to have taken place on July 3rd last at the fashionable St. Peter's Eaton Square Church, and a big crowd of society people had gathered to witness the nuptials of the half-sister of the Earl of Liverpool, controller of the King's household, to a clergyman.

After a wait at the church of about an hour the minister sent a note to the Earl of Liverpool. He replied that his sister had gone shopping earlier in the day and had not returned home. Lady Constance had done equally startling things before, having at one time climbed the steeple of Whitewell Church. The bridegroom is 46 years and the bride is 22. His income is about $915. Last summer the size of the minister's income was believed to have had something to do with the disappearance of Lady Constance.

TWO WAR PICTURES.

Reminiscences Written by a Non-Commissioned Officer Who Served During the Napoleonic Wars.

There has recently been published a book containing reminiscences written by a non-commissioned officer who served during the Napoleonic wars. In these reminiscences there is given this description of a scene after the British attack on the French forces in Alexandria: "After the action was over we were ordered to go and take all the wounded of both armies and carry them to the boats . . . . It was truly a horrible sight to see the French and British writhing in agonies of death, and making friendship, who had only a few minutes before been filled with rage and hatred at one another—all their fierce passions stilled, and like a hushed child, taking one another in their dying arms."

This other picture is of the scene presented by Waterloo the morning after: "When morning came I went out to see the field on which so many brave soldiers had perished. The scene which met my eyes was horrible in the extreme. The number of dead was far greater than I had ever seen on any former battlefield. The bodies were not scattered over the ground, but were lying in heaps—men and horses mixed promiscuously together. I turned away with disgust from this heart-moving spectacle. . . . . I confess my feelings overcame me; I wept bitterly, and wished I had not been a witness of such a scene."

Daisy: "Is she so economical?"
Maisie: "Well, she's saving her wedding dress for a possible second marriage."

For peppercorns, four cloves and one teaspoonful of mixed herbs are the proper flavoring for one quart of water for soup.

CYCLIST RISKS LIFE

NEW YORK—Jim Zanora, one of the best known trick bicycle riders in the United States, risks his life at every public appearance and knows how necessary it is for him to have a steady nerve and unfailing strength.

The slightest weakness might cost him his life, or injure him severely, and this letter from him is of great interest on that account. He says:

"I do trick bicycle riding as a professional and work hard, and so I was always tired and weak. I got so I had no strength and felt all run down, but since using three bottles of Vinol I feel fine again. I have recommended Vinol to others and they too are using it with good results."

Your strength is just as valuable to you, and we want to say to you that there is nothing so good as Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, for making weak and wornout people robust, rugged and well. It is good for children and old people too, and we give your money back unless Vinol does all we claim.—Red Cross Drug Store, J. S.

LET EVERYONE USE CHRISTMAS STAMPS

MUSKOKA FREE HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTIVES
MERRY XMAS
1911

The little Christmas Stamp, issued on behalf of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, to help care for needy patients, serves, of course, a very practical purpose in providing a means of securing funds for this institution. But the educational value of millions of these stamps being put in circulation must not be overlooked. For this reason we urge our readers to put a one cent stamp on every letter and package that they will be mailing between now and the new year. Scatter abroad the good news that there is hope for the poor consumptive. With the stamps costing only one cent each, the door is open to everyone to have some part in this great campaign of stamping out consumption. In a decade the mortality in the Province of Ontario from tuberculosis has declined nearly forty per cent. Every buyer of a Christmas Stamp can help to further improve these conditions. A post card to the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street West, Toronto, will give all particulars. Write him to-day.

The amazing effrontery of the proposal made me gasp. Suppose I were to tell her that I believed her father to be the guilty man? Heavens and earth! Here was a pretty pass!

"Miss Fluette," I said at length, very gravely, "such a declaration from me would have no more weight than the sheet of paper itself. The matter is entirely out of my hands. Further than to procure the evidence necessary to convict the guilty, I have no influence whatever."

"So!" Her lip curled and her eyes flashed. "You would weave a rope about Royal's neck!"

"I would not," I emphatically disputed. "If Royal Maillot was instrumental in Felix Page's death, he was so innocently. He don't know now—"

She broke in, leaning with intense eagerness across the chair-back.

"Then why is he in prison?" There was a note of triumph in her voice, as if she had me cornered.

"Miss Fluette," I replied earnestly, "will you listen to me for a few minutes? Believe me, there is no occasion for this desperate manner—"

"I am desperate."

"Perhaps. I understand your feelings; you and Mr. Maillot have my deepest sympa—"

She cut me short with a rap of the pistol upon the chair-back; I looked to see the thing go off.

"We don't want sympathy," she said through her teeth. "We want justice. And justice we'll have. Go over there and write!"

She imperiously indicated the desk.

Was a man ever caught in such an absurd predicament! I was truly sober now. I was resolved not to commit myself to anything that would only make me rediculous; but this passionate, high-strung girl had told only the truth when she warned me that she was in dead earnest. My dilemma was most perplexing—and irritating, too. Could she be made to understand that if I exposed my hand now, before the issue was ripe, that the disclosure might work irreparable injury? Would she comprehend that such a course would immediately drive the guilty inside their defences? Could she be made to see that it was better for her lover to endure a temporary inconvenience, than to be left in a position where he could never be freed from reproach? Perhaps so, but only by showing her where her father stood. I scarcely need point now impossible such a choice was. And in her present mood!

"Where is Miss Cooper?" I asked at last.

She abruptly clutched the hand that held the keys, so that they clicked together.

"Never mind," she flared at me, with a stamp of her foot. "Obey me."

"And if I don't?"

And now she levelled the pistol at me. She threw back her head and her lips curved.

"I'll shoot," she announced, in a tense tone. "So help me, I'll shoot."

For a moment we confronted each other, I utterly nonplussed, every line of the girl's figure breathing relentless determination.

"Miss Fluette," I tried to reason with her, "you are beside yourself. Pray don't do anything you'll regret."

But she stopped me. Her voice was harsh and strained.

"Get up out of that chair. Do as I say."

Should I continue to humor her?—for further parleying was wholly out of the question. And if I wrote anything at all, it would doubtless have to pass her critical inspection—and also into her possession—before she would yield an inch.

I had to decide quickly. I started to shake my head, and bang!—the pistol blazed right into my face.

Heaven knows where the bullet went; I only know that it missed me. Next instant I was too busy to think about how narrow had been my escape. I sprang up agiley enough now, and was only just in time to catch the drooping figure before it fell. As I passed a supporting arm 'round her, her hair tumbled about her face and over her shoulders. Her eyes were closed, her brow was gathered in a frown, her lips were pinched and livid.

I acted rapidly. She had not fainted—was not wholly unconscious—for she was still putting forth a feeble effort to help herself. I eased her into the chair, behind which she had been standing and into which she now sank limp and silent. Her chin fell forward upon her bosom, and now and then her shoulders rose in a racking, gasping sob.

She let the still smoking pistol drop into my hand. Somewhere below I could hear Genevieve calling wildly and some one pounding away upon a door.

Next I got the keys from Miss Belle's yielding fingers, and soon had the door to the room open. The cries and pounding had ceased, and I surmised that the troop of maids and other servants chattering on the lower stairs and in the second story hall had been attracted to their source. Then a hope came to me that the shot had passed unoticed.

Well, it transpired that Genevieve was locked in a room on the second floor, much to the amazement of the servants, none of whom, I was thankful to learn, had heard the shot. Genevieve had, though, or I was very much mistaken in the cause of her vigorous effort to attract attention and her present frenzied appeals for some one to break down the door.

"Oh, please, please don't wait for the key," she was importuning them. "Break in the door—only hurry!"

"Everything's all right, Miss Cooper," I called. A little cry of relief came from beyond the closed portal. "I have the key," I added.

The second key which Miss Fluette had held was the one, and I had the bolt shot in a jiffy. Genevieve ran straight to me and threw herself into my arms.

Whatever it was she meant to say in her first overjoyed transport, remained unsaid; for I unceremoniously clapped a hand over her mouth, picked her up and carried her bodily back into the room, and slammed the door upon the gaping servants.

"They don't know," I said. "Go upstairs to Belle; she has fainted. The explosion was accidental, and no one was hurt." I was still holding her in my arms. "God bless you!" I whispered at her ear. And then—

Well, even the exigencies of a memoir do not require that I should set down what occurred then. Genevieve, her cheeks aflame, broke from my embrace and ran out of the room. I heard her light steps upon the stairs, and then the door to the room which had come near being the scene of a tragedy, opened and closed.

CHAPTER XX

Genevieve's Mission.

Almost at once a summons came from the up-stairs room for Miss Belle's maid. The rest of the servants were dismissed, and Genevieve signalled over the balusters for me to wait.

A very old man, cheerfully garrulous, who announced that he was the butler, took me downstairs.

"The drawing-room—living-room—or if you're of a mind to smoke, sir, Mr. Fluette's study." He indicated each of the rooms mentioned with a little flourish of the hand.

Although I am not a smoker, the word "study" arrested my attention. I indicated my preference. The old man instantly clapped a hand to one ear, and, leaning toward me, shouted into my face, "Hey?" So I decided the matter for myself by striding down the hall to where a door stood invitingly open.

Now perhaps you may consider it to have been the first duty of a traditional detective to take advantage of this opportunity, and perhaps you may be right. However, I believe I can assert, with some measure of authority, that a man in my profession may be a man of principle and honor and still succeed. I believe I may go even further: honest, straightforward conduct and upright dealing, by winning the confidence and respect of those with whom he holds intercourse, will carvy a detective farther along the road to success in a given undertaking than any other means he may adopt. Honesty, in my calling as in all others, is the best policy.

But there are certain subtle impressions, often difficult to define, which are more poten than foot-prints and thumb-prints. A man's words, for example, are often of far less importance than his manner of uttering them. A man's personality is the stamp by which he declares his status among his fellows, and everybody is entitled to scan it that he may weigh and consider and judge. Hence a man's surroundings bear a thousand tokens of his character; for him to try to obliterate them, to keep them hid, is not to be frank and open, and that in itself invites suspicion.

Fruit Inspection Changes.

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—The Hon. Martin Burrell has made a number of changes in the fruit inspection department. About a dozen fruit inspectors have been dismissed for non-political reasons. The dismissals had been urged for years by officials, but political pull was strong.

A reorganization of the fruit section of the agriculture is being contemplated by Hon. Mr. Burrell. The fruit industry is now under the direction of the dairy commissioner, whose interests are naturally not with fruit farming. Strong representations have been made by the various fruit farming associations that there should be a special fruit commissioner appointed. It is almost certain that the change will be made.

Delhi's Passengers All Safe.

Tangier, Dec. 15.—All the passengers of the wrecked steamer Delhi have now been landed. Only one of the passengers was injured in the most difficult task of rescue, he having a leg broken. Three Lascars, members of the Delhi's crew, were drowned by the capsizing of a boat which was returning to the ship after landing a batch of passengers.

The sea continues to run high. The starboard side of the Delhi is now completely stripped of its planking. A tug from Gibraltar, which came to assist in the rescue, was driven ashore by the heavy sea. The crew escaped.

Pope Exempts Germany.

Berlin, Dec. 15.—(Can. Press.)—It is announced officially that the Papal Legate to Prussia was informed by Cardinal del Val, the papal secretary of state, when the special order of the Pope relating to court proceedings against the clergy was issued, that it did not apply to Germany. The order has been subjected to bitter attacks by newspapers on every side except the Catholic organs.

Would-Be Suicide In Jail.

Galt, Dec. 15.—Thomas Sayles made a desperate attempt to take his own life and yesterday afternoon was removed to Berlin jail to await sentence, having pleaded guilty to the charge at the police court yesterday morning. Sayles is a friendless Englishman and ex-soldier, aged 50. He slashed his throat with a razor and nearly bled to death.

While the whole egg is generally used for dipping croquettes, the yolk alone with a little water added will be found quite as satisfactory.

Listless, Backward Children

Made Bright and Active by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

Many a growing boy or girl is set down as constitutionally slow, stupid or lazy when it is really a question of inactive bowels, lazy liver or sluggish kidneys.

The growing child, with a hearty appetite, certainly cannot long remain healthy and bright if the sewers of the body, the bowels and the kidneys, are choked up with impurities that should be thrown off promptly.

The muddy complexion, dragging limbs and dislike for mental or physical effort show plainly that the child needs Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills to stir up the liver and kidneys and regulate the bowels. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills do this most effectively, cleansing the whole system, purifying the blood, aiding the digestion and giving plenty of life and activity. As upon the education obtained may depend the success in life of your boy or girl—see to it that the general health of the child is such that study is pleasure and not a hardship.

The Hebert Case

Proceedings in the famous Hebert marriage case, which despite the efforts of some unavowed, but strongly suspected, power to prevent its being fought to an issue in the Canadian courts and to a finality before the Privy Council in England, having proved ineffective owing to the action taken by Mrs. Hebert, are daily growing in interest.

The developments which have taken place since our latest comments on the subject, through the able contentions of counsel for Mrs. Hebert, are of general interest and importance, as our readers will have learned by perusal of the telegraphic report of the proceedings. According to that report Mr. Arnold Wainwright, counsel for Mrs. Hebert, in the court on the 13th inst., advanced the argument that under the Roman law, French law, British common law, and under the law prevailing in the Province of Quebec before the cession of 1760, the one great essential for the validity of the marriage was the mutual consent of the contracting parties; that Catholic priests officiating at marriages in the province prior and subsequent to the cession acted simply as officers or witnesses on behalf of the state in the matter, and that, consequently, all attempts to read into existing statutes exclusive powers for Catholic clergymen to officiate at the marriages of Catholics could not be based on the contention that such exclusive privilege existed prior to the promulgation of the present civil code.

Proceeding, Mr. Wainwright said the general fundamental principle underlying the law of marriage, was that the one great essential was the common consent of the two contracting parties. By a process of gradual evolution the necessity for outward formalities was made imperative, but simply to be admitted as proof of the existing contract. There was no need of any authorities on the point, as under the Roman law the common consent of the two parties was not only a sign of marriage, but was of the very essence of marriage, in fact the consent constituted marriage.

The rights granted Catholics under the Treaty of Paris were to be interpreted as privileges and not, in the sense that Catholics, as such, should be submitted to onerous penalties at the hands of their religious superiors.

"The present Hebert case is an instance," said Mr. Wainwright. "Here two Catholics gave their mutual consent to a marriage. They secured a license from a duly qualified representative of public law—the lieutenant-governor. They went before one whom they had every reason to consider a duly qualified minister or officer empowered to celebrate marriage. They were married, lived together, and had a child. And now, simply beause they are Catholics, enjoying free exercise of their religion, the church claims the right to step in and declare that they are not man and wife. I claim that such a state of affairs cannot be said to flow from the Treaty of Paris. The church has no right under such a treaty to make such a declaration."

The case being sub judice, The Intelligencer is thereby estopped from pronouncing on the merits of this contention; but we repeat that Parliament should at once pass a law subordinating the canon law of any church to the civil law in a matter of such tremendous importance as is involved in the Hebert and other cases of like kind.

We usually go to the mother country for our precedents, and properly so, as the laws of England are the best and most comprehensive in the world and a model upon which have been founded those of many other great nations. There conflicts have during many centuries arisen at times between Church and State; but in every case the State has eventually triumphed. For instance, the State Church does not recognize divorce and will not marry divorced persons; but divorces are legally granted under the civil law, the marriage of divorced persons is legal and the legitimacy of children born of such marriages cannot even be called in question. The sooner, therefore, that Canada follows the example of England in establishing the supremacy of the civil law over the regulations of any denomination whatever, the better will it be for all concerned.

The South Renfrew Bargain

The Toronto Globe's Ottawa correspondence of the 12th inst. says:

> "Many of the leading Conservatives of South Renfrew are registering an emphatic protest against the action of the Federal Ontario Ministers in seeking to secure opposition to the election of Hon. Geo. P. Graham in the coming bye-election.
>
> "Mr. T. W. McGarry, M.P.P. for South Renfrew, who was in the capital to-day, emphatically declared that he would not be a party to any opposition to Mr. Graham, and furthermore did not believe there would be any opposition. 'I feel confident,' he said, 'that the Conservatives of Renfrew will live up to their agreement to let Mr. Graham be elected by acclamation.'"

The Globe, of course, has no objections to offer to this bargain and sale. The Hon. Geo. Graham, having been beaten in Brockville, wants a seat; so he, or his friends, go to South Renfrew and bargain for one, the consideration being the allowing of the Conservative candidate for the Ontario Legislature to be elected by acclamation.

A clear bargain and sale! To what extent is such a case covered by the provisions of the Act of Parliament providing punishment for corrupt practices is a question for the Judges to decide.

That there was a bargain and sale is clear from the statement which the report says Mr. McGarry made, "that he felt confident [illegible] Conservatives of Renfrew will live up to their agreement to let [illegible] Graham be elected by acclamation," which agreement was that if the Liberals would allow Mr. McGarry to be elected by acclamation, they, the Conservatives, would not oppose Graham. If they made that bargain they should not violate it, but it is nevertheless an agreement that never should have been made. Mr. McGarry could have carried the constituency, as he did at the last election, and the ex-Minister of a corrupt and extravagant Government should have been allowed to remain where his constituents, who knew him well, placed him—in retirement.

True, he now secures a seat in Parliament through the clemency of his political opponents. A humiliating position, truly; but he does not realize that.

Building Floating Drydock.

Port Stanley, Ont., Dec. 15.—A floating drydock will be built in Port Stanley by Oscar C. Smith of the village, to provide facilities for the repair of vessels coming into port, as well as to care for the local fleet. Hitherto, owing to its absence, the boats had to go elsewhere to have their troubles attended to. The Tug Owners' Association will give financial assistance to the undertaking.

Never turn griddle cakes a second time, as it makes them heavy. Serve them the same side as when taken from the griddl.

To Plan for the Future

The Ontario Union of Municipalities is taking an important forward step. Legislation will be sought at the next session of the Provincial Legislature permitting towns and cities, which are rapidly growing, to have a definite plan laid out for their future boundaries, and giving them control of the laying out of additional land that will eventually become incorporated within their borders. This is most desirable legislation. It will not correct the errors that have been made in the past in the planning of towns and cities, but it will enable municipal legislators to avoid the mistakes of their predecessors, and give to the newer parts of towns and cities a greater definiteness in their layout.

Legislation will also be sought giving municipalities authority to purchase lands for park purposes without payment of sinking fund for a period of 25 years. This will give municipalities power to secure vacant lands, issuing 50 year debentures in payment, on which for the first 25 years interest only will be paid, the sinking fund being paid in the last 25 years of the life of the debentures.

Should these and minor amendments along the same line become law, it will very materially widen the scope of parks commission boards and give an impetus to park development that should make our towns and cities vastly improved.

Women's Ailments
Caused by Neglect

ARE QUICKLY CURED AND ROBUST SOUND HEALTH RESTORED BY DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated; another and more important reason is they put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of women's ailments. The blood becomes weakened and polluted—the nerves suffer and a run-down condition takes root.

Because of their mildness of action as a system regulator, because of their undoubted power to remove constipation, iregularities, no medicine for women can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The kidneys quickly respond to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the result is as you would expect—pain in the back and side, shortness of breath, and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns.

Thousads of happy women say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood-purifier, the finest complexion renewer, the most certain regulating medicine known. All dealers, in 25c. boxes, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

ASQUITH HEARS ANTIS.

Says Suffrage For Women Would Be Disastrous.

London, Dec. 15.—(Can. Press.)—The anti-suffragists have been roused to action by the recent violent demonstrations of the suffragettes.

An important deputation of the National Anti-Women's Suffrage Society, under the leadership of Lord Curzon of Kedleston, was received by Premier Asquith at his official residence on Downing street, yesterday morning.

The object of the deputation was to secure the Prime Minister's co-operation in blocking the threatened enfranchisement of women by means of an amendment to the Government's forthcoming Franchise Reform bill, which includes the granting of votes to women.

Mr. Asquith expressed his hearty sympathy with the object of the deputation and agreed with them that to grant the franchise to women "would be a political mistake of a very disastrous kind."

The Premier said that he did not reject the suggestion that a referendum should be held on the subject of women's franchise, but he feared that the verdict of such a referendum would not be accepted by the suffragettes unless women were permitted to vote in the referendum.

Mr. Asquith thought that the public opinion in the British Isles was so much against such a gigantic change as the granting of suffrage to women that it would prove a dominating factor in ultimately defeating the proposal, even should a franchise bill, including the women's vote, be carried through the House of Commons.

Wife Sues "Pinafore" Captain.

Montreal, Dec. 15.—The "Captain of H.M.S. Pinafore" was sued yesterday in the Practice Court of Montreal, for $1,200. His name is George J. Macfarlane, and the lady who sues is his wife, Dame Emily Whatt. The money is claimed as alimony and an interesting trial is promised unless an amicable arrangement is arrived at before the departure of the company, now playing at the Princess Theatre, takes place on Sunday morning next.

It is not a theatrical quarrel; quite the reverse. Mr. Macfarlane is a native of this province and as a result of trouble with his wife she awaited his coming to Montreal. Victor Harmon, the manager of the company, says that he knews nothing whatever of the suit beyond the fact that he had heard that trouble might take place in Montreal between the two parties. The hearing began this morning.

Control of Shoe Machinery.

Montreal, Dec. 15.—The local sessions of the United Shoe Machinery Co. of Canada investigation ended yesterday afternoon, when the testimony of F. W. Knowlton, general manager of the company was concluded, and next Tuesday the investigation will reopen in Quebec to take the testimony of plaintiffs.

The chief point of interest yesterday was evidence relating to the control of shoe machinery in Canada previous to 1899, when the United Shoe Machinery Co. of Canada was formed. It was shown that while a few companies had supplied machinery before that date, the machines made by them had either become obsolete or passed under the control of the company whose affairs are now being investigated.

More Outlaws Slain.

Lanano, Mindanano, Philippines, Dec. 15.—Forty-two Moro outlaws were killed here yesterday in an engagement with a detachment of United States scouts. There were no fatalities on the American side. The battle occurred in connection with the campaign for suppressing organized brigandage among the Moros.

The disarmament of the entire Moro population of Mindanano and Jolo was ordered by the military authorities three months ago, following a number of murderous attacks on Americans. Since that time the troops have been actively engaged in carrying out the order. Most of the chiefs gave up their weapons peaceably, but there has been a series of sharp engagements with bandits,

"John Strange Winter" Dead.

London, Dec. 15.—Mrs. Arthur Stannard, the famous novelist, known throughout the world by her pseudonym of "John Strange Winter," died yesterday. She had been confined to her bed for the past five months as the result of an accident while stepping out of an elevator. She slipped and fell on her elbow. The wound never healed.

Mrs. Arthur Stannard, who was born at York, England, in 1876, had been for years one of the most prolific fiction writers. Her stories were chiefly about army life, and the late John Ruskin referred to her as "The author to whom we owed the most finished and faithful rendering ever yet given of the character of the British soldier."

Conscription For Women.

Dusseldorf, Germany, Dec. 15.—The introduction of obligatory military service for women was proposed at a meeting yesterday of the Patriotic Women's Union here by Privy Medical Councillor Witzell, professor of the Medical Academy at Dusseldorf.

The lecturer, who is a well-known physician, suggested that women should be enrolled in the military hospital, transport, provisioning and clothing services, and should be mobilized with the other auxiliary troops in case of war.

The proposition has been taken up enthusiastically by the suffragettes, as it is regarded by them as eliminating any argument against the granting of the franchise to women.

King Reviews Troops.

Delhi, Dec. 15.—King George yesterday reviewed 50,000 British and native troops. He held an investiture in the royal camp last night bestowing orders on 93 knights and 200 companions. The Queen witnessed both the review and bestowal of orders.

Too Easy For Prisoners.

London, Dec. 15.—Dr. R. W. Bruce-Smith, inspector of prisons, has filed his report of his inspection of the jail with Sheriff Cameron.

The report states that the amount of work provided for the prisoners is not sufficient, and that there is altogether too much idleness. Governor Carter explains in this connection that the prisoners who were not at work were either those on remand or those sentenced to serve terms in the Central Prison.

McNAMARA DEFENCE FUND

Federation of Labor Fights Shy of Resolution.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA. — Labor leaders are trying to prevent the introduction into the convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session here of a resolution framed by the California delegation appropriating $50,000 for the defence of the McNamara brothers.

A large sum has been raised already for this purpose by private subscriptions and the leaders contend, it is said, that whatever money is needed for the McNamara defence can be obtained in this manner without drawing on the funds in the none too well stocked treasury of the federation.

Two brief sessions were held by the convention today, but practically no busines was transacted.

WARSHIPS AT TANGIER

French Vessels Exchange Salutes With Spanish Cruiser.

TANGIER. — The warships Leon Gambetta and Edgar Quinet, which were ordered here a short time ago after a Spanish vessel had arrived, came into the harbor. Salutes were exchanged with the Spanish cruiser Cataluma.

The natives here are restless and sickness and misery are prevailing.

A Beauty Sleep

A grandmother who still possesses the freshness of complexion and youthfulness of eye that a woman of 30 would have, boasts that it is due to the daily siesta which she has taken all her life. She undresses every day after luncheon and sleeps for 20 minutes. She insists that one should put on a nightdress and really go to bed if one is to get the full advantage of the afternoon's sleep, and that it should not exceed 20 minutes.

A prolonged sleep in the afternoon makes one heavy and stupid and keeps one wakeful when night comes, but 20 minutes' sleep will renew and refresh immensely.

This method is only possible to the woman of leisure, and utterly beyond the woman of business. But she can strive to get a sufficient amount of sleep at night.

Sun Yat Sen at Penang.

Penang, Straits Settlements, Dec. 15.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Chinese reformer, and Gen. Homer Lea, the American who, it was alleged, would take charge of the military government in China, landed here yesterday. Dr. Sun Yat Sen declined to grant an interview, preferring to reserve his judgment on the situation in China, and not desiring to commit himself to a definite policy until he was in full possession of the facts and acquainted with the intentions and views of the reformers.

The Duke at McGill.

Montreal, Dec. 15.—His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught paid a visit to the medical buildings of McGill University yesterday morning and was received there by Dean Shepherd, Principal Peterson, Dr. Sarkey, Col. Carleton Jones, and Dr. Adams. The royal visitor was shown through the different departments. His Royal Highness expressed his surprise and satisfaction with the magnificent new buildings.

Will Oppose Graham.

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Interest is growing in the political situation in South Renfrew. The Conservatives are calling a convention to consider the selection of a candidate to oppose Hon. George P. Graham, to provide a seat for whom Thomas Low, M.P., resigned.

Joke Ends in Murder.

London, Dec. 15.—Fred. Culbert, aged 27, died last night from loss of blood from a wound caused by an ax slash at Graham's Hotel, a roadhouse three miles from this city. A middle-aged gypsy, Dan Reynolds, was arrested late last night, charged with the assault.

The two men met at the hotel early in the evening and got into an argument over a gun which had been hidden as a joke. Reynolds, the gypsy, accused Culbert of hiding the gun. After some arguing Reynolds went to his wagon and got the ax and attacked Culbert. He escaped, leaving Culbert on the road. The wounded man dragged himself into the hotel and a physician was sent for, but arrived too late.

Reynolds was arrested some hours later at his home in Pottersburg.

WHOLE FAMILY WIPED OUT BY A BRUTAL MURDER NEAR ALBANY

Bodies of Mother, Two Daughters and Son Found by Neighbors. Hacked, Battered and Buried Under Barn—Tragedy on a New-York Farm—How the Foul Deed was Discovered

ALBANY, Dec. 14.—An entire family, Mrs. Mary A. Morner, a widow; her daughters, Edith, aged 20, and Blanche, aged 17, and a son, Arthur, aged 28, were murdered Tuesday on the Morner farm near DeFreestville, a hamlet in Renesselaer county, about five miles from Albany.

The bodies of the three women were discovered late last night near a gloomy cow barn, where they had been so hackd with a hatchet and battered with a balestick that the murderer had been able to crush all three of them into a small manure pit on one side of the stable.

A searching party this morning found the body of the son with the throat cut and otherwise mutilated, under the barn floor, the boards of which had been ripped up and replaced after the murderer had secreted his victim.

The police are searching for an Italian farmhand known as "Ed Dennis," who had been employed by the Morners since last September. Little is known concerning him or the motive for his crime.

A blood-stained hatchet and a four-foot balestick were found in the pit near the three bodies and with these the police believe the murderer first felled and then mutilated his victims. The three bodies were almost naked when found, the clothes having been ripped from them. What garments remained were frayed and blood-stained.

Mrs. Morner had received a blow from the hatchet on the right side of the head. It cut a great gash in her skull, which was fractured in several places. There were many bruises on her body.

The body of the elder girl, Edith, was also badly cut and bruised and there was a large hole in her left temple. One of her arms was broken, and when the body was found both arms were in front of her face, as though she had raised them for protection. The younger girl's body was the least lacerated.

Motive for the crime seems to be lacking. What money there was in the house was found intact early today and all the furnishings appeared to be in their places.

Indications, the authorities say, point to the murderer being insane. A note found in one of the rooms of the house read: "Italian meat and American made sausage imported from Rome, Italy."

Neighbors can in no way account for such an outbreak on the part of the suspected Italian as they say he was quiet and attended strictly to his own business. Mrs. Morner, who was 52 years old, and the two girls were never known to have had a dispute with him since he was hired by them last September.

The discovery of the crime was brought about by Horatio Mould, a milk dealer, to whom Arthur Morner usually brought a supply of milk every night. Tuesday night Morner failed to appear nad Mould thought he might be ill. When he failed to come last evening with the milk, however, Mould decided to investigate, and drove out to the Morner farm.

Arriving there about 8 o'clock, Mould went towards the house, which stands perhaps a hundred feet from the road. There was no light, nad repeated knockings failed to get a response. Mould decided there was something wrong and notified Charlie Ostrander, whose home is directly across the road from the Morner house. A hurried search of the premises convinced Ostrander that things were not as they should be, and he immediately notified Jesse Morner, another son of the dead woman whose farm is about two miles away.

When Jesse Mould arrived, he, with Messrs, Mould, Ostrander and Arthur Sharp, another neighbor, equipped themselves with lanterns, and began a systematic search of the house and barn. Nothing was discovered until the men reached the side of the cow barn, parallel with ahe road, which passes by not 50 feet away. Here a fleck of blood on the side of a milk can standing near the barn door furnished the first clue.

Realizing that his mother and sisters had been the victim of foul play, the son thought of the manure pit as the only possible place for hiding the bodies.

The searchers hurried to the pit and pried off its board coverings. Two bare legs which had been held down by the planks, jerked upwards, and the lanterns disclosed to Morner the almost naked body of his mother, face downwards in the pool of slime and refuse. Beneath her on the side, was the body of his eldest sister, and under her was the other sister, almost hidden by the contents of the pit.

Coroner Strope of Troy was called, the Sheriff was notified, and the Renesalaer police were told to be on the lookout for the missing farmhand, his description being furnished them.

A small splash of blood a short distance from the entrance to the barn told where one of the victims had been struck down. A few feet from this, in a feed box, was part of a broken back comb. Some 200 feet from the pit where the bodies lay, on the opposite side of the barn at the foot of a cow stanchion, was a large blood stain and a few strands of black hair, mated together by blood.

"There is where one of the girls dropped," remarked one of the searchers.

In another part of the stable was found a man's watch. Whether it belonged to the Italian or the son has not been ascertained. Thinking they might find the body of the son, the searchers dug deeper into the mire, but succeed in bringing forth only an old tin bucket stuffed full of clothes which had been torn from the women. They had apparently been used to soak up the blood that had flowed from the wounds.

Countrymen in pairs and threes covered every foot of the 90-acre farm owned by the Morners, searched in every nook and cranny of the barn and the house, and yet failed to find the body of the supposed murdered Arthur Morner. With the break of day the search was renewed.

The last seen of either of the two girls, Mrs. Morner or her son, was Tuesday noon, when the younger girl, Blanche, appeared in the kitchen doorway of her home and nodded a greeting to Mrs. Ostrander, wife of one of the men who searched the premises. After that no sign of life was seen about the place, with the exception of Tuesday night about 9 o'clock when Mr. Ostrander saw a light in the kitchen of the house. It is supposed by the authorities that the murderer was making ready to escape.

Everything in the house was in perfect order with the exception of the door leading from the kitchen to the sitting room. This had been smashed open, splintering the woodwork and snapping off part of the lock. In the later room was found the note which the police think was left by the murdered when he fled.

It's Hamilton Now.

Hamilton, Dec. 15.—Some alarm has been caused in the city by the report of City Bacteriologist Dr. Fidlar, presented to the board of control yesterday morning. The report states that colon bacilli have been found in the water taken from taps in the city. The doctor says that the condition is serious, but as the infection is only occasional, there is no cause for immediate alarm. The source of the city's water supply has been found to be pure, and the doctor concludes that the water is probably infected from the bay inlet through seepage.

UNDER NO OBLIGATION

Britain Not Bound to Protect Persia, Says Grey.

British Foreign Secretary Says That Shuster Must Be Replaced Because Despite His Good Intentions He Has Raised Strife Between Russia and England—No Intention on Part of Powers to Harm Persia.

London, Dec. 15.—Referring to the Persian question during a discussion of foreign affairs in the House of Commons yesterday, the Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, said that the Anglo-Russian agreement was not intended to impair the independence and integrity of Persia. A declaration to that effect had been made to the Persian Government, but, he added, Great Britain was not undertaking any obligation to protect the integrity of Persia.

The Russian Government, continued the Foreign Secretary, had demanded that Mr. Shuster should be withdrawn. The British Government had said that it did not object to that demand. Mr. Shuster's intentions in appointing British officials in Northern Persia were good, but the spirit and intention of the Anglo-Russian agreement could not be permitted to be upset, and two great nations embroiled by the action of an individual, no matter how good the intentions were.

After what had happened he agreed with Russia's demand that the consent of the British and Russian legations should be obtained for the appointment of foreign advisers to Persia.

In conclusion, Sir Edward said that as Persia was unable to pay an indemnity, he hoped Russia would be induced not to press that demand.

Philip Edward Morell, Liberal, said that a poorer excuse for taking away the independence of Persia than that advanced in the case of Mr. Shuster had never been put forward in the House of Commons. The exact crime committed by Shuster, said Mr. Morrell, was that he did not call at the Russian legation as often as he ought.

The Foreign Secretary said that if the difficulty were mismanaged or rashly handled by those concerned larger issues of policy might become involved. The British Government strongly opposed the restoration of the ex-Shah and Russia had given categorical assurances that it had no intention of that kind.

In this connection Sir Edward read a communication from the St. Petersburg Government stating that the troops would not advance from Kasbin for eight days, unless extraordinary circumstances should force an advance, and that when Persia complied with the demands the further presence of the troops would be superfluous. The communication concluded with assurance of adherence to the Russo-British agreement.

Sir Edward insisted upon the importance of Treasurer-General Shuster being replaced without delay by a foreign financial adviser acceptable to Great Britain and Russia, and that the latter countries should co-operate to assist Persia in securing loans and restoring order.

Criticism of Policy Unreasonable.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 15.—M. Sazanoff, Foreign Minister, said yesterday: "The Morocco agreement and the Turkish and Persian questions have strengthened the European combinations, especially the triple entente, which has passed the test with honor. Under the circumstances there is no desire in any quarter to change the groupings of the powers.

"No one is safe from reproaches, but criticism of the Persian policy is unreasonable.

"Should the ex-Shah attempt to usurp the throne," said M. Sazanoff, "Russia will refuse to recognize him."

On the question of the indemnity demand he asserted that the poor financial condition of Persia had been taken into consideration in making the demand.

FORCED TO BACK DOWN

French Minister Tells Story of the Moroccan Affair.

At Outset of the Crisis Germany Declared That She Would Never Submit to an Algeciras Conference Again, But She Had Changed Her Mind—France Not Worsted In the Affair By Any Means.

Paris, Dec. 15.—The German, British, Russian and Spanish ambassadors were present in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon when Foreign Minister DeSelves, before a crowded House, delivered France's contribution to the German-British debate and made some additions to the revelations concerning the Moroccan crisis.

Among other things M. DeSelves declared that Germany at the outset of the crisis had asserted that she would not accept or abide by a new Algeciras conference as a means to the settlement of the Moroccan question.

The discussion followed an interpellation by the Count DeMun and other members to the right or Conservative side, which wished to postpone the ratification of the Franco-German accord in regard to Morocco until after the negotiations now going on with Spain are concluded.

Count DeMun in a long speech condemned the sacrific to a rival power of part of a French colony equalling in extent two-thirds of France and conquered by the spilling of blood of French soldiers. He condemned the making of secret treaties as a method of diplomacy and wanted to know where France had been heading for forty years. The world, he said, had not seen Europe in a more menacing condition. He hoped that France did not dream of a dangerous Utopia involving the substitution of the friendship of England by the friendship of other powers.

M. DeSelves, in opposing the motion for the postponement of the ratification of the Franco-German agreement, traced the negotiations between France and Germany since the beginning of the crisis. He admitted that there had been a moment of tension due to the excessive demands of Germany. Reasonable negotiations ensued upon this and M. DeSelves denied that Germany had become irritable and tried to start a conflict. On the contrary her attitude had been conciliatory. French interests had been constantly guarded while the dignity and calm of public opinion in France had revealed the force of French patriotism.

M. DeSelves then defended the Franco-German accord, saying that the world realized that France had emerged from the negotiations far from being worsted. However, he continued, the chief advantage of the agreement is that it frees foreign politics from the Moroccan question, which has been a permanent source of conflict.

"The advantage is not a small one at an hour when the external political situation demands particular attention." He then continued: "We have no intention of abandoning our friends or our alliances. On the contrary we shall bind them closer." In conclusion he said that the negotiations with Spain had been taken up in a friendly spirit.

Count DeMun's motion was defeated by 448 to 98.

WHY PUNISH WOMAN?

This Is Wainwright's Argument In Hebert Lawsuit.

Dame Clouatre's Counsel to Go on With His Argument To-day—Will Proceed With History of Marriage Laws In Quebec—If Marriage Was Illegal Minister Should Have Been Punished For Infraction of Law.

Montreal, Dec. 15.—The continuation of argument in the Hebert case, which was to have taken place yesterday afternoon, was deferred till this morning, on account of the fact that the hearing of the cases on the Practice Court roll extended till late in the afternoon.

In his coming address Mr. Wainwright will take up the thread of historical argument at the cession, and will proceed thence to the year 1866, when the present code was brought into effect. His contention that in the interval between 1670 and 1866 there was nothing in law then existing to oblige Catholics to go before their parish priests or bishops in order to be married, and that consequently ministers of any faith other than the Catholics were not restrained from officiating at such marriages.

Mr. Wainwright will also claim that if an illegality was really committed in the solemnization of the marriage, then the author of that illegality was the officiating minister. If so, how does it come to pass, that the sanction of, punishment of that illegality in the form of a judgment of annulment is visited upon a third party or parties and not on the person responsible for the commission of the illegality?

Archduke Disciplined.

Vienna, Dec. 15.—Another romance connected with the imperial house of Hapsburg is contained in the announcement that the Emperor Francis Joseph has placed the Archduke Henry Ferdinand, brother of the Princess Louise of Saxony and of Archduke Leopold Salvatore, "on leave with the stoppage of all emoluments."

Archduke Henry Ferdinand, who is a painter with great distaste for court life and military duties, has been living some some time in Munich. He has desired for a long period to abandon his rank and title in the same way as Archduke John Orth, Archduke Salvatore, and more recently Archduke Ferdinand Charles, in order, as is reported, to marry a Munich girl belonging to a family not of noble rank. Finding this to be most difficult, the archduke has taken the easier course of throwing up his military career.

The family of the Hapsburgs has experienced a series of romances. The first among the more recent was that of the Archduke John Salvatore, known as John Orth, who completely disappeared after giving up his rank and title and marrying an actress named Milly Stiebel. He was said to have sailed for Chile on board the Santa Margaretha in July, 1890, and no trace of him has since been found.

Check on Drugs.

The Hague, Dec. 15.—(Can. Press.)—The International Opium Conference yesterday, adopted two resolutions presented by the British delegates. The first declares that it is desirable that the Governments decide whether it is possible to punish those having morphine illegally in their possession. The second resolution urges the Governments to restrict the traffic and use of such substances to medical and other legitimate purposes.

The Dutch delegates referred to a future conference a proposal that the Governments interested in the production and consumption of raw opium should arrive at an agreement to limit the trade therein, in view of international measures already taken.

Will Settle Coal Strike.

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Hon. Charles W. Crothers, Minister of Labor, has taken what will probably be final action on the part of the Government in connection with the settlement of a strike which several months ago tied up the coal mines of Alberta and Eastern British Columbia.

On the suggestion of Mr. Crothers, H. Bentley, a well-known merchant of Lethbridge has consented to act as chairman of a committee of arbitrators. It is agreed that the findings of the committee will be accepted by both parties.

Borden's Busy Week.

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Premier Borden's return to Ottawa on Saturday will be followed by a week of hard work. The intention is to rush the work of preparation for the re-opening of the House in January. Probably the first thing to be done will be the appointment of the promised tariff commission and the commission which is to study the needs of agriculture with a view to co-operation between the Dominion and the provinces.

Liners' Crews Too Small.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Wm. H. Frazier, secretary of the International Seamen's Union of Boston, startled the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries yesterday, by declaring on a majority of the passenger carrying ships on the Atlantic coast, there were not enough members of the crew to man the life boats. He said most ships carry only boats enough for 75 per cent. of the passenger capacity of the ships.

A Home-Stayer's Death.

London, [illegible], Dec. 15.—Mr. George Burridge [illegible], a shoemaker, of Delaware, died in that village on Wednesday night at the age of 75 years, without ever having spent a night away from his home or ever been on a railway train.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14.—A fair amount of business continues to be done in all grades of Manitoba spring wheat over the cable, the demand being still good from both the United Kingdom and continental buyers at steady prices. There was also considerable enquiry for oats from foreign buyers and as buyers have advanced prices 6d per quarter during the past two or three days a good business could be done at a profit if ocean freight room was obtainable. The local trade in oats and American corn is fair. Flour is steady under a fair demand. Millfeed is active. Cheese is quiet but firm. Demand for butter and eggs continues good. Provisions are fairly active. Supplies of dressed poultry are large and demand slow on account of mild weather.

Corn—American No. 2 yellow, 82c.

Oats — Canadian western, No. 2, 47½c; do., No. 3, 46c; extra No. 1 feed, 46c to 46½c; No. 2 local white, 46½c; No. 3 local white, 45½c; No. 4 local white, 44½c.

Barley—Manitoba feed, 64c; malting, 96c to $1.

Buckwheat—No. 2, 65c to 66c.

Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.60; seconds, $5.10; strong bakers, $4.90; winter patents, choice, $4.75 to $5; straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.40; do., bags, $1.95 to $2.05.

Rolled oats—Barrels, $5; bag of 90 lbs., $2.37½.

Bran, $23; shorts, $25; middlings, $27 to $28; moullie, $29 to $34.

Hay—No. 2 per ton car lots, $15 to $15.50.

Cheese—Finest westerns, 14¼c to 14⅜c; finest easterns, 13⅞c to 14¼c.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 30½c to 31½c; seconds, 29c to 30c.

Eggs—Fresh, 60c; selected, 31c to 33c; No. 1 stock, 26c to 27c.

Potatoes—Per bag, car lots, $1.25 to $1.27½.

Dressed hogs—Abattoir killed, $9.25 to $9.50; country, $8.25 to $8.75.

Pork—Heavy Canada short mess, barrels, 35 to 45 pieces, $22.50; Canada short cut back, barrels, 45 to 55 pieces, $22.

Lard—Compound, tierces, 375 lbs., 8¼c; wood pails, 20 lbs. net, 9c; pure, tierces, 375 lbs., 12c; pure, wood pails, 20 lbs. net, 12½c.

Beef—Plate, barrels, 200 lbs., $14.50; Plate, tierces, 300 lbs., $21.50.

Buffalo Grain Market.

BUFFALO, Dec. 14.—Spring wheat, strong; No. 1 northern, car loads, store, $1.09½; winter, dull; No. 2 red, 99c; No. 3 red, 97c; No. 2 white, 95c.

Corn—Strong; No. 3 yellow, 65c; No. 4 yellow, 63c; all on track, thru billed.

Barley—Good to choice, malting, $1.18 to $1.25.

Duluth Grain Market.

DULUTH, Dec. 14.—Wheat—No. 1 hard, $101⅞; No. 1 northern, $1.00⅞; No. 2 northern, 97⅞c; No. 3, 93⅞c; Dec., $1.01⅞, nominal; May, $1.04⅞ asked; July, $1.05⅞, asked.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Dec. 14.—The railways reported 60 carloads at the City Market, comprising 573 cattle, 1211 hogs, 932 sheep and lambs, 42 calves and 1 horse.

Butchers.

Christmas quality cattle, $6.25; picked butchers $5.90 to $6.10; good, $5.70 to $5.90; medium, $5.30 to $5.60; common to medium, $5 to $5.25; inferior light eastern cattle, $3.75 to $4.75; cows, $3 to $5.25; bulls, $3.50 to $5.25.

Stockers and Feeders.

Some light feeders sold at $4 to $4.50; light stockers, $3 to $4.

Milkers and Springers.

There were too many of the common, backward springers and light weight common milkers on sale, the supply being greater than the demand, and for these prices were from $8 to $10 per head lower. The good to choice cows were not hurt as much as the common ones. Prices ranged all the way from $30 to $70, but not many above $60.

WHAT AN INFLUENTIAL IRISH PAPER HAS TO SAY OF CANADA

Patriotism of our People Commended—Conditions of Life and Labor in the Western Provinces—Comparison of Wages in Canada and Ireland—Big Migration of Farm Laborers to be Expected

A representative of the Belfast Telegram, who recently made a tour of Canada, has this to say in part in a recent issue of that paper:

"The admiration of the Canadian for his country and his fixed belief in its future are superb. His challenge to every skeptic is "Come out and see for yourself," and it is a challenge which he issues with superlative confidence as to the result. In that attitude he but reflects the attitude of the Dominion Government. 'The truth,' says the Government, 'is all we want.' There has just returned from a tour through Canada a number of the representatives of the British Press. In issuing invitations to these the Minister of the Interior put upon the face of the invitations the proviso that no suggestion whatever would be made to them as to what they should write, what they should suppress, or even whether they should write at all. They were to be afforded ample opportunity of seeing the country from Rimouski, at the entrance of the St. Lawrence, right through to Vancouver on the Pacific coast. The tour lasted for nine weeks in which some thousands of miles were travelled by train; more than a hundred towns and cities were visited in order to afford an exact idea of the conditions of life and labor in the great North-West, and hundreds of quite disinterested settlers from England, Scotland and Ireland were seen, who told us their story of the country, as they have proved it to be. The Press representatives were given the fullest opportunity of putting every statement made to the proof. So far as this paper is concerned, nothing will be published than has not been put to the test; nothing will be suppressed, and nothing will be exaggerated. These articles will be simple plain statements of fact, wholly destitute of any desire either to 'boost' or to depreciate the attractiveness of Canada, and without any desire whatever to affect the tide of emigration for good or evil.

"I met men from Cookstown and from the counties of Cavan, Clare, Antrim and Down, who had left the old home twenty and thirty years ago and were returning from what to some of them was a last farewell visit to Ireland. All of them told us the same story, and their own history exemplified it, viz., that for the man who was prepared to put his back into the work for five or six years there was assured prosperity thereafter. The truth or otherwise of what had been related we put to the proof as we inspected the various provinces one after another. I had the addresses of dozens of north of Ireland people whose veracity I knew by personal acquaintance, I could implicitly trust. Their statements and the evidences of my own eyes were the things I called to aid me in the capacity of juror in this matter.

"It may be asked, why tell our people of the attractiveness of other lands at all? I am no zealot for emigration, I should be glad to see all our people remain at home provided they can maintain themselves in comfort and decency. But do present economic conditions conform to that qualification? They certainly do not. A Board of Trade return issued in the present year shows that the average weekly earnings of an ablebodied male agricultural laborer in Roscommon is 9s 8d; in Mayo, Sligo and Westneath, 9s 8d; in Leitrim 10s 1d; and so on to Co. Antrim, which has the maximum of 14s. That figure includes all payments of every kind whether in money or materials. To preach stay at home patriotism to men earning 10s weekly is to mock their wretchedness and to deny them knowledge that might lead to a happier life and larger destiny and would be rank inhumanity. Enough, then, of that point of view. Whether we like it or not, men are not going to sit down and suffer on in poverty while their fellows go out to the new world and make a home and fortune that are impossible in Ireland. If they will go, let them know something of the land to which their eyes and hopes turn. We do not lose them quite if they go to our own colonies; they but take up a new, a more advanced and better position along the great highway that girdle the Empire."

TORONTO POLICEMAN TAKES HIS LIFE

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—While being taken to the Court Street station by Patrol Sergeant Martin, who found him on the beat, incapable for duty, Constable Arthur Staples (91) shot himself shortly before three o'clock this morning.

At the corner of Leader Lane and King Street Staples stepped back and put a bullet through his head with his revolver. He died in the hospital a few minutes later.

CURLING

Central Canada Association.

A meeting of the Central Ontario Curling Association was held at the Randolph Hotel, Kingston, for the election of officers. Representatives were present from all the places represented in the association.

The league was divided into two groups, western and eastern. The western group will consist of Kingston, Belleville and Napanee. The eastern group will consist of Brockville, Prescott and Eastern Hospital, Brockville. The work of drawing up the schedule was attended to with regard to the western group, but the drawing up of the other schedule was left to the clubs themselves to look after.

The election of officers resulted: President, Robert Craig, Brockville; vice-president, T. M. Asselstine, Kingston; secretary-treasurer, E. Lyons, Kingston.

The schedule for the western section is as follows:

Jan. 10—Napanee at Kingston.
Jan. 12—Belleville at Napanee.
Jan. 18—Belleville at Kingston.
Jan. 25—Kingston at Napanee.
Jan. 29—Napanee at Belleville.
Jan. 31—Kingston at Belleville.
Feb. 2—Napanee at Belleville.
Feb. 7—Napanee at Kingston.
Feb. 14—Kingston at Belleville.
Feb. 16—Belleville at Napanee.
Feb. 19—Kingston at Napanee.
Feb. 22—Belleville at Kingston.

The winner of each group will play off at the end of the season for the championship.

If riches didn't have wings there would be but few high flyers.

CHAUFFEUR CLEARS UP MURDER IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Mystery surrounding the killing of Mrs. Hattie Kaufman, wife of Edmund Kaufman, a wealthy commission merchant, who was shot by robbers a week ago while returning home from a theatre with her husband, was partly cleared, according to the police, by the arrest and confession of Thomas Jones, 19 years old.

Jones is a chauffeur, and the police say he admitted having driven the automobile which carried the three men to the scene of the crime on the North Side.

In his statement Jones implicated George Robinson, 25 years old, alias "Towhead"; John Stacey, 21 years old, said to be a bricklayer, and a man known to him only as "Fred" who is about 20 years old.

Jones said robbery was the motive of the attack, and that the woman was shot because she screamed when ordered to hold up her hands. The three men wanted by the police are believed to have left the city.

MEETS DEATH IN SILENCE TRUE TO "GOPHER" CODE

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Silent to the end, Joe Larkin died yesterday true to the code of the Gopher gang. With a bullet hole in his head, and another in his abdomen, he remained in the hospital in a semi-conscious condition for hours while detectives leaned over him and tried to catch a word that might reveal who shot him.

"Nothin' doin'" was the only response that came from the lips of the wounded man to questions put to him in intervals when there were glimmers of consciousness. And at one time he added: "I'll get square."

Larkin was shot Sunday night at a "benefit" ball after a quarrel and a scuffle as to who should dance with the belle of the ball.

HANGED NEGRO ON OPERA STAGE

Friends of Murdered Man and Condemned Occupied Front Seats

JACKSON, Ga., Dec. 14.—The first hanging that ever ocurred in an opera house took place here shortly after noon, when Rev. William Turner, a negro preacher, was hanged for having incited a race riot in which Jess Singley, a prominent planter, was shot to death. The Sheriff had planned to hang the negro in the jailyard but he feared the crowd would break in. The weather was also disagreeable so he decided to hang him in the opera house, so that the relatives of the murdered man who wished to see the hanging, would not have to stand in the rain. This morning the gallows was erected on the stage of the opera house, and at noon the negro was marched to the scene.

Before the trap was sprung the negro confessed that he incited the riot and that he also fired the shot that killed Singley. He warned the members of his race to let whisky alone, and to be advised by the whites. In the box and front seats of the opera house were many relatives and friends of the murdered man. Besides these there were not many other persons present, as the Sheriff refused to issue many tickets. There was a great crowd, however, of people outside the opera house and guards had to be stationed to keep them from breaking in.

Turner, was influential with his race, and, it is said, incited the negroes to many acts of aggression on the whites. Three of his sons are in jail in Atlanta waiting trial for the same crime for which their father was hanged. They were removed to Atlanta, as they would have lynched if kept here.

NEW STEAMER ORDERED FOR 1000 ISLAND LINE

The Toledo Shipbuilding Company has booked an order for a passenger steamer, for delivery next season, to cost about $100,000, for the Thousand Islands Steamboat company for the St. Lawrence river trade.

The boat will be 175 feet long, 32 feet beam and will have 9 feet 9 inches moulded depth. She will have a capacity for about 1,000 passengers and will make sixteen miles an hour. Mr. Cabler said that work on the new boat would be started at once and that she will be completed and ready for business June 1st, 1912.

This is the second passenger boat that the builders have booked orders for lately.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.09.

GERMANY AGAIN AFTER TERRITORY

PARIS. — It is learned from an authoritative source that Germany is negotiating with Spain for the acquisition of territory in Rio Muni, or Spanish Guinea, where it is proposed to establish warehouses and factories. Rio Muni is in Western Equatorial Africa, between Kamerun and the Muni river. A German commission will be sent to Rio Muni shortly to engage in topographical work.

MADRID. — Prime Minister Canalejas denies the statement that Spain was about to sell her Guinea colony to Germany or any other power. He added that Spain was willing to use great moderation in her negotiations with France about Spanish vested rights and interests in Morocco.

CANADA FOR MANUFACTURERS

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Hon. J. G. Henderson, commissioner of industries of Hamilton, Ont., declared "Annexation sentiment in Canada is absolutely nil," while addressing the American Hardware Manufacturers' Association convention on the subject, "Canada, the manufacturers' opportunity."

"As a budding nation our loyalty is intense and practical, and our position as one of the leaders of the Empire compels us to maintain our tariff wall," he asserted.

The speaker stated that Canada is a firm believer in the home market, and that there was no possibility in the very near future of any reduction in duties levied on articles manufactured this side of the line.

CHRISTMAS APPEAL FOR The Hospital for Sick Children

Dear Mr. Editor,—

Thanks for your kindness in allowing me the privilege of appealing at this Christmas time on behalf of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

I make this direct appeal to the people of Ontario, for the fathers and mothers of Ontario, outside the City of Toronto, have precisely the same claim for their sick children as regards the privileges of the Hospital, as parents who reside in this city.

In brief the sick children from any place in Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay, is, on certificate from a municipal officer of any city, town village or township, treated free.

This is a privilege not granted by any Hospital in the Dominion, or on this Continent.

Let me, in a few words, state that in the last 20 years, since 1891, there have been 4,731 patients from 450 places outside of this city treated free, as the parents were unable to pay for treatment. Last year 381 patients from 231 places outside Toronto were so treated.

The Hospital is not a city but a Provincial institution. The Corporation of Toronto grants $18,000, not only for city children, but towards the maintenance of every patient in the Hospital and the citizens of Toronto donate an average of $10,000 to the maintenance fund of the Hospital.

It would take more space than you can spare to tell of the good work done for the sick and deformed children of this Province.

Why, in the Orthopedic department in 20 years, nearly 700 children, boys and girls, have been treated for club feet, and about 600 were corrected. Two-thirds of these came from places outside of Toronto, from parents who could not afford to pay.

Surely we have a fair claim for help from the people of this Province.

Every day is Christmas to the child whose little life is saved, or whose crippled limb is straightened with the might of money—your money—and the mercy of the Hospital.

Will you, the reader of this letter think of what your dollar will do? It helps to restore health and strength, and gives sound limbs and straight feet to crippled boys and girls.

You give wealth to the Hospital, and the Hospital gives health to the children.

Yes, your money can put golden hinges on the door of the Hospital's mercy.

Will you, kind reader, help us and send a spare dollar to Douglas Davidson, the secretary-treasurer of the Hospital, or

J ROSS ROBERTSON,
Chairman of the Trustees, Toronto

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well.

Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

THE SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT

Suffragettes Injured Their Cause by Howling Down Premier Asquith When Speaking for a Good Object.

(Publishers Press News Service)

London. — The question of woman suffrage has undoubtedly suffered a setback more as a result of the howling down of Premier Asquith when he attempted to speak at the City Temple for a philanthropic object than because of the demonstration at Westminster a short time ago. Mr. Asquith is really popular with his party, and has the respect and liking of the Opposition. When he entered the House of Commons on the afternoon after the City Temple insult, he received sympathetic cheers from every quarter of the House. Great resentment at the treatment of the Premier is undoubtedly felt in the House of Commons. The letter which Sir Edward Grey wrote to the Earl of Lytton protesting against the violent demonstrations of the suffragettes shows how even the most enthusiastic supporters of the women's cause are disheartened at the tactics of militant ones, while opponents of suffrage eagerly seized on the moment when all the members of the House of Commons are in a resentful frame of mind to attempt to consolidate the Unionist party in a policy of complete opposition to any measure of female franchise. Six prominent Unionists, including Austen Chamberlain, Walter Long, and F. E. Smith, have sent a circular to this effect to the members of their party.

PREMIER ASQUITH

From Generation to Generation.

Grandfather Billings smiled covertly when Billings junior wondered where Billings third, aged seven, got his "trickiness." "If I didn't keep my eyes open," said Billings junior, hotly, "Billy would outwit me every time."

"This morning," he continued, "I promised him a whipping to-night. When the event came off just now, he never flinched or yelled. 'Pluck pure and simple!' said I to myself, mighty proud, for I wasn't sparing him in the least. But that wasn't it at all," he concluded, in disgust. "The young rascal had on three pairs of trousers."

"As I remember it," observed Grandfather Billings, reflectively, "you used to insert a small geography when a 'good sound one' was due you."

DISMISSAL OF KING'S CHAPLAIN

Charges of Drunkenness and Immorality Against Rev. Frederick P. Farrar. — Bishop Investigating Case.

(By special cable)

London. — The first court scandal in King George's reign exploded with violence, when The Gazette announced officially the dismissal of the Rev. Frederick Percival Farrar, the King's domestic chaplain, and also honorary chaplain to Queen Alexandra.

Charges of drunkenness and immorality have been made against the deposed King's chaplain, and they are now being investigated by the Bishop of Norwich. The disgraced clergyman has been rector of Sandringham, where the favorite residence of the late King Edward and of Queen Alexandra was situated. It is understood that he has resigned his rectorship in consequence of the charges against him, and a startling report is abroad that the Rev. Farrar is missing and that search is being made for him.

He is a son of the late Dean Farrar, and only last July he married Miss Nora Davis, a sister of Richard Harding Davis, the author, and a daughter of the late Clarke Davis, of Philadelphia. The wedding was attended by many prominent society people of London. Members of the Royal family sent wedding gifts, those of King George, Queen Mary and Queen Alexandra being especially handsome.

First Sewing Needle

It is believed that the first fine steel sewing needles were made in London, at any rate, in the reign of Queen Mary. The implement, however, did not receive much favour, and not until 1566 were they really taken into general use.

HAIR HEALTH

IF YOU HAVE SCALP OR HAIR TROUBLE, ACCEPT THIS OFFER

When we promise your money back for the mere asking if Rexall "93" Hair Tonic does not do as we claim it will, you certainly have no reason for even hesitating to try it. We do not ask you to obligate yourself in any way.

We could not afford to so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it as we do, if it did not do all we claim. Should our enthusiasm carry us away, and Rexall "93" Hair Tonic not give entire satisfaction to the users, they would lose faith in us and in our statements, and in consequence, our business prestige would suffer.

Therefore, when we assure you that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will promptly eradicate dandruff, stimulate hair growth and prevent premature baldness, you may rest assured we know what we are talking about.

We honestly believe that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do more than any other human agency toward restoring hair growth and hair health. It is not greasy, and will not gum the scalp or hair or cause premanent stain. It is as pleasant to use as pure cold water. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain it only at our store—The Rexall Store—J. S. McKeown, Belleville.

BOARD OF EDUCATION HAD A BUSY SESSION LAST NIGHT

After Many Years' Consideration will Investigate Savings Bank System—Inspector Clarke's Report Shows Continued Progress—Trustee W. S. Smith's Resignation Accepted--Other Business Transacted

At a regular meeting of the Board of Education, held last evening, considerable business was transacted. Mr. W. S. Smith, a trustee from Bleecker Ward, tendered his resignation and the same was accepted. A motion prevailed to send a delegation of two teachers to Toronto to inspect the working of the savings bank system in vogue in the schools of that city. The Inspector's report showed a continued increase in the attendance at the Public Schools.

The members present were: Messrs. W. P. Hudson, chairman; W. Johnson, J. H. Anderson, C. F. Sharpe, A. E. Bailey, W. C. Reid, C. M. Reid, J. F. Wills, T. E. Ketcheson, M. Malloy, W. N. Ponton, P. Harrison and F. S. Deacon.

Communications, Etc.

Mr. W. S. Smith tendered his resignation as a member of the Board and asked that same be accepted immediately.

Mr. C. Ashley asked the Board to give him some insurance on the new schools as he had no insurance on school buildings.—Referred to Sites, Building and Repairs Committee.

An invitation was extended to the members of the Board to attend a Christmas entertainment to be held in Grier Street and Pinnacle Street Schools on Thursday afternoon next.

GIVES HUBBIES AS PRIZES

English Paper Has Novel Inducements—A Trying Ordeal for Contestants

LONDON, Dec. 15—An English women's paper has surely hit upon the most sensational circulation scheme ever planned. It is to be in the form of a competition for readers and the first prize is to be nothing less than a handsome husband. There are to be second and third prizes and a consolation prize, all of which are to be, though not distinctly described as "handsome," "desirable" husbands. With the first husband a complete household of furniture is to be given as a wedding present.

The fair ones who want to compete for this remarkable prize have first to induce their friends to fill up coupons, to be found in the paper, recommending them for the post, and the coupons and the candidate's latest photograph are to be sent to the editor, who will select a hundred and forward them to Mr. "First Prize." He will sit down, and in cold blood reject fifty of them, and then his work begins. At the editor's expense, he will lunch or dine with each one of the remaining fifty, and will try to make up his mind which one he will have for his wife. He must be a brave man man, as well as a handsome one to face such a task Even then his ordeal is not complete. If for any reason which may subsequently appear, he decides to give the lady of his—temporary—choice, the go-by, the editor will pay the broken-hearted damsel $500 damages for breach of promise Messrs. Second, Third and Consolation Prize Husbands, not so handsome, but equally brave, are to go through similar ordeals.

In setting out the conditions the editor says naively that although he will not necessarily select those who have the largest number of coupons, he will, of course, take them into consideration.

TEST QUESTIONS FOR INEBRIATES

NEW YORK, Dec 15.—The questions by which is to be judged a man's worthiness to become an inmate of the new State farm for Inebriates were publicly revealed yesterday for the first time when they were put to Reginald Stuyvesant Morrell, who said he had no home. Morrell was sentenced to the City Prison for three days for having thrown a brick through the window of a Bowery saloon where his request for a drink had been refused.

"Are you temperate?" Are you intemperate?" Are you independent?" "Are you dependent?" "Are you bright?" "Are you slow?" "Are you happy?" "Are you kind?" "Are you depressed?" "Are you ugly?" "Are you social?" "Are you solitary?" were some of [illegible] questions put to Morrell.

A fellow prisoner, still not recovered from the effects of the previous night's experiences, burst into tears as he heard the questions, declaring that none but a perfectly sober man could pass such an examination for the Inebriate Farm.

BLOODHOUNDS ARE ON TRAIL OF MURDERER

Man Sought in Connection With Murder of Moner Family Near Albany

ALBANY, Dec. 15.—The police are searching for Edward Doula or Denig, or Denis, Italian farmhand, employed by the Morner family of De-Freesville, Renssalaer county, the mutilated bodies of whom were found in a stable on their farm at an early hour Wednesday morning.

The missing man has not been seen since Tuesday afternoon, when about 3.30 o'clock he went to a farmhouse located near the Morner farm and had his trousers, which were ripped from the knee down one leg, mended and several buttons sewed on his clothing.

He is described as of very dark complexion, five feet six inches tall, and weighing about 120 pounds. He has been employed at the Morner farm since August last when he was received through an employment bureau in Albany. Mrs. McCann, who mended his clothing at the neighboring farmhouse did not notice any blood stains on the clothing.

The motive for the murder is a matter for speculation. Some believe that an attempt was made to criminally assault one of the girls and that the murders followed in an attempt to conceal the crime.

The theory of the attempted assault and murder of the women before Arthur Morner met his death received added strength last night by a report that Arthur Morner had been seen in Renssalaer as late as 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. This led to the belief that his mother and sisters might have been murdered during his absence, and that he met his end when he returned to the farm

Sheriff Cottrell and a large posse of men are making a search for the missing farm hand. Bloodhounds were procured and they took up the scent and started along the highway which leads to the eastern section of Renssalaer county towards the Massachusetts state line. The sheriff and his posse followed in automobiles.

Sheriff Cottrell learned last night that an Italian answering to the description of the missing farm hand was in the city of Hudson yesterday morning. He spent several hours with another Italian.

He enquired how he could make train or car connections to go to Pittsfield, Mass. The theory is that he went by trolley line from Troy to Albany and thence by trolley to Hudson. Officers have been sent to Pittsfield.

FORMER FAMOUS ACTRESS DROWNED IN BATH TUB

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The dead body of Mrs. Oliver Rankin, 70 years old, wife of Arthur McKee Rankin, and formerly known on the stage as Mises Kitty Blanchard, was found yesterday in a bath tub full of water in her apartment in a Broadway hotel. A physician said that Mrs. Rankin had undoubtedly been stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage as she was about to step into the bath, and he thought that she had fallen into the tub and was drowned, a conclusion with which Coroner Hellenstein also agreed. Mr. Rankin, her husband, the actor and playwright, had only recently returned from a two months' tour and rejoined his wife at their hotel.

As "Kitty Blanchard" Mrs. Rankin was famous in her day, and appeared in many old-time plays, including "The Two Orphans."

CONCERT AT MILLTOWN.

An appreciative audience assembled at the Milltown school last Friday evening and listened to an excellent programme given by the scholars assisted by the Quinte Quartette of Albert College, composed of Misses Scantlebury and Batstone, Messrs. Partridge and Johnston. The orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Frank Smith, rendered a number of selections in a pleasing style. The selections given by Miss Scantlebury and Mr. McCreary and Miss Batstone, assisted by Mr. Frank Smith, were excellent. Mr. Wannop gave two readings entitled "Limberger Cheese" and "Me and the Two Murphys," which proved pleasing to all, especially to his cousin, Jeffrey, teacher of the said school, who deserves a great deal of credit for the success of the entertainment. The entire programme was enthusiastically received and the actors proved themselves to be Arcadians skilled in song and composition. Surely Richter was right when he declared that music rather than poetry should be called "the happy art" and the enchantress of the souls of mortals.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY.

At about 10.30 this morning a team of horses attached to a democrat waggan created some excitement on Pinnacle Street near the Bank of Montreal building. The animals became frightened at a train passing down the Grand Junction track and made a desperate effort to run away. While prancing and backing the horses backed the vehicle into the train, resulting in a wheel being demolished and some other damage to the rig. The animals were finally quieted down The owner of the outfit, a yoeman, remained in the vehicle, doing his utmost to control the horses, which he succeeded in doing.

INTERESTING MEETING.

There was a very interesting meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M.C.A. held Thursday at 3.30 p.m. Reports were given by the secretary, Miss Holden; the treasurer, Mrs. Millard, the convener of the Membership Committee, Mrs. French; the convener of the Entertainment Committee, Miss A. Reid, and the convener of the Rooms Committee, Mrs. F. S. Deacon. Mrs. Faulkner reported for the Social Committee, and Mrs. Hess for the Calendar Committee. Miss Holden, the very faithful secretary, felt compelled to resign. Her resignation was accepted with much regret. Miss Frank Hitchon was elected as her successor. The ladies decided to have busy bee parties to make comforters for the dormitories of the new building. Mrs. M. Sprague gave a very interesting Bible reading.

CURRENT COMMENT

Galt is one of the most important centres of industry in Ontario, and it is interesting to learn that at the late election it gave the largest Conservative majority in its history, namely 303.

Canadian chartered banks opened 23 branch offices and closed seven during November. There are now 2,628 branches of Canadian chartered banks.

The British wheat crop of 1911, amounting to 7,832,196 quarters, is the largest returned since 1899 and exceeds by nearly one million quarters the crop of last year.

Canada is as large as 30 United Kingdoms and 18 Germanys; twice the size of Briaish Indies; almost as large as Europe; 18 times the size of France; 33 of Italy.

The Ontario Conservatives have this consolation, namely, that at the rate of increase of this election over last the provincial Liberals will not come into power till Sir James Whitney is 123 years of age.—Ottawa Journal.

Sir Charles Tupper's physicians issued a bulletin on the morning of the 14th, stating that Sir Charles, who has been seriously ill, was maintaining his condition.

—As the last Monday in December is this year Christmas Day, the nominations of candidates for municipal councils will be held on Friday, the 22nd of December next, as provided by section 124 of the Consolidated Municipal Act.

A West Elgin elector has polled his first vote at the age of eighty years, and voted for the Conservative candidate. It is a rather late and backward start still it is not impossible for him to develop into an advanced and progressive Liberal.—Globe.

One of the Cap. Sullivan style, it is supposed. He has lived too long to be of that trible.

The militant suffragettes who recently distinguished themselves by breaking windows and other riotous proceedings have aroused public indignation to such an extent that their chance of success during the present generation at least, has been extinguished. And no one has so much cause of rejoiicing as heads of families; for what would become of the husbands of such women as engaged in those riots if they should venture to differ from their "better halves" on political matters?

A telegram from Ottawa states that one hundred men, artisans in the Dominion Public Works Department, will be discharged by the Government. Four masons, six plumbers three carpenters, and five painters are on the list, the rest being laborers temporarily employed since just before September, 21. A few foremen and assistant foremen are also slated to go, all for too open partizanship in the recent election. Serves them right!

The streets of Belleville are in a condition which would do credit to Mudville. It would be invidious to particularize, because nearly all are so very bad, but there is one dangerous spot which ought to receive attention, namely the crossing over the Grand Trunk at Bridge and Pinnacle streets, where loose and rotten boards threaten injury to every horse which passes over them. Of course it is the company's duty to keep the crossings in a proper state of repair, but it is equally the duty of the city to see that this done; but that duty has too long been neglected. As The Intelligencer has previously remarked in this connection, the streets have been starved in order to provide money for granolithic walks, but it is now time to call a halt with regard to walks and to care properly for the streets, including permanent pavement for Front street and a fair surface of macadam for other streets. The taxpayers ought at the coming election to pledge every candidate to that effect.

The British Government is to undertake an inquiry into the cost of living of working classes. The prices of groceries have advanced 13 per cent, since 1898, and the price of meat rose 20 per cent between 1905 and 1907. In the last ten years also the price of clothing materials has risen 5 to 7½ per cent. Another necessity of life—coal—has advanced about four shillings per ton since 1898. On the other side of the balance sheet, wages have gone up, but not sufficiently to compensate for ahe increased cost of living.

Premier McBride of British Columbia, is not allowing the grass to grow under his feet. On the 14th inst. he announced that his government was considering an extensive railway policy which would be embodied in legislation more important than any during the last twelve years. The Premier declined to go into details, but declared that the proposals had recently attracted to Victoria some of the largest railway and contracting firms on the continent. The project of building a line through the centre of British Columbia from Fort George to Vancouver is under consideration.

It has been decided to employ 40 electric locomotives to propel vessels through the locks of the Panama Canal. For a ship of ordinary size four locomotives will be required. Two will run ahead, one on either side wall, towing, and two behind trailing. The trailing locomotives are to keep the vessel in the middle of the lock and to bring it to a stop when entirely within the lock chamber. The towing speed will be two miles per hour. The locomotive consists of a body and two trucks. The body is a box-like structure, to contain a motor driven windlass for hauling in or paying out the towline under load, and a high speed motor-driven attachment for coiling and towing line when out of service.

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent is still harping on the opposition likely to be offered to the return of the Hon. Mr. Graham for South Renfrew by acclamation. He says: "Messrs. Reid and Cochrane are behind the candidature of Dr. Maloney against Mr. Graham in the coming bye-election, and declare that there must be a contest." If so, it is to their credit and should be commended.

That Belleville market prices are about the highest in Canada is apparent from our market report. Turkeys sell here for several cents more per pound than Toronto prices, and eggs are much higher than they are in England.

BOY SCOUTS FIGHTING CONSUMPTION

The Boy Scouts of the country, ever true to their creed, have enlisted in the battle against consumption. Under the direction of their superior officers, they are planning to do real substantial work in the selling of stamps, between now and the end of the year. Living up to their motto that each scout shall each day do some kindness to another, the boys have resolved that this slogan can be well made effective in the selling of Christmas Stamps to help on the great work being done for needy consumptives in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. In fact, the young people everywhere, in Public Schools, Sabbath Schools, and through their many different organizations, are proving themselves a wonderful help in this Christmas Stamp campaign. If no one in your town is active in this work—if you want to be active—write the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street West, Toronto, and learn all about the possibilities of this little one cent Messenger of Healing.

EGGS REACHED RECORD PRICE

On Belleville Market Today—All Sorts of Produce Sold Very High

It was anticipated that the market to-day would be largely attended and such proved to be the case. The attendance was exceptionally large. Although much produce was offered for sale prices were by no means lower; in fact, in some cases they were higher.

Fresh butter was sold at 28c. to 30c. per pound. The supply was fairly good.

Strictly fresh eggs are more than a luxury judging by the price obtained to-day. They were sold by the basket lot at 45c. per dozen, and in a few cases 50c. was paid for a single dozen. This is exceptionally high for this season of the year.

While dressed poultry was quite plentiful, prices were good. Chickens sold at from 70c. to $1.40 per pair according to quality; geese, $1.25 and $1.50 each; ducks from $1.50 to $2.00 per pair, and turkeys from $1.50 to $3.50.

Potatoes are a scarce commodity, and sold readily at $1.75 per bag, and in a few cases $1.85 was realiezd.

During the past few days there has been a decline in the hog market. Live porkers bring $6 per hundred weight, while dressed pork sells at $8.10 to $8.15 per hundred weight.

In the price of dressed beef there is no change to note.

The grain and hide market is quiet, prices remaining unchanged.

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats, which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contains the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract of Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. D. M. Waters, druggist, is the first to import this preparation into Belleville, and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

In connection with the "Chateau Laurier," the new $2,000,000 Grand Trunk Hotel at Ottawa, it has been decided to establish an ice freezing plant, and the Forbes system of sterilization. This means that every drop of water that comes into the hotel for any purpose is first filtered twice, then sterilized and cooled, rendering it not only absolutely pure from all sanitary standpoints, but clear and free from any coloration.

As regards ice, the water from which it is made will be first filtered twice, then converted into steam, then condensed and frozen, rendering the ice not only absolutely pure, but a beautiful clear, transparent crystal.

WOMAN WANTS $50,000 FOR ONE SINGLE KISS

WINDS[illegible] Ont., Dec. 15.—George Jasperson, [illegible] Kingsville, Ont., against whom an action has been entered in a Detroit court by Mrs. Coatsworth, of that city, claiming $50,000 damages because he tried to kiss her and make love to her so violently that she became ill, is a prominent resident of Kingsville, a wealthy tobacco merchant. He is married, and reputed to be worth a quarter of a million dollars. Delegations have several times asked him to run as Mayor, but he always declined.

A GREAT CROWD CHEERED RESULT OF THE STOKES TRIAL

Show Girls were Acquitted of Shooting Millionaire—Scene in the Court Room—Lilian Graham and Ethel Conrad Were Indicted for Attempt to Murder W. E. D. Stokes, Wealthy Hotel Proprietor

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—"Not guilty," was the verdict returned late to-day, freeing Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad of criminal charges on which they had been held since last June for the shooting of the millionaire sportsman and hotel proprietor, W. E. D. Stokes. The jury arrived at its verdict after slightly less than an hour's deliberation—fifty-eight minutes, to be exact.

The "shooting show girls" were tried on an indictment of three counts, the first being an attempt to murder Stokes. Of consideration of this, the most serious charge, the jurors were relieved by Justice Marcus, who astonished the defence by the eleventh-hour announcement that the district attorney would withdraw the first count. The court restricted the jury to the second and third counts, which charged respectively, assault in the first degree, with intent to kill, and assault in the second degree with intent to do bodily harm.

While the jury was out the two defendants were held prisoners in one of the ante-chambers of the court room. The period of waiting was obviously a severe ordeal for both of them. When summoned to hear the verdict Miss Graham appeared to be completely unstrung, and had to be assisted into the court room. She was trembling in every limb. The more spirited Miss Conrad came unassisted, but she seemed highly nervous. She had been overheard to say while waiting for the verdict: "I can't stand it until he gets through, Lillian."

A moment later when the girls were facing the jury and the foreman announced that they were not guilty, Miss Conrad cried, "Thank God," and she went into violent hysterics. She sank to the counsel table, jumped up again, and, shrieking at the top of her voice, tore her hair and threw her arms about wildly. It was a surprise to the spectators for Miss Conrad showed much the better nerve of the two throughout the trial. On the other hand, Miss Graham, who wept continually during the trial, and who only sobbed the more when she heard the verdict, recovered herself when she saw her companion so affected, and acted as the comforter to her younger friend.

It was at first thought that Miss Conrad had misunderstood the verdict, and her companion tried to assure her they were free. "Oh, I know," she said "Tell mother we are free. Tell her we are coming home."

These were practically Miss Conrad's only coherent words during her hysteria, which continued fully ten minutes before her companion as well as her brother and her counsel succeeded in quieting her. She recovered as suddenly as she was attacked, and with Miss Graham on her arm issued from the court room to be greeted with cheers by a large crowd outside. Many persons stepped forward to pat the girls on the back and to shake their hands.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. Geo. A. Kingston, of Toronto, is spending the week-end in the city.

Mr. Ned LaRoche is confined to his home with a slight attack of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Gordonsmith, of McDonald Avenue, and her niece, Mrs. Dr. Whiteman, of Picton, left this morning for Detroit, where they will remain Sunday on their way to Denison, Texas, where they are going to visit Mr. S. J. Boldrick, brother of Mrs. Whiteman.

The Premier and Mrs. Borden entertained at a delightful dinner party on Thursday evening, when the guests included Hon. Robert and Mrs. Rogers, Hon. Nesbitt and Mrs. Kirchhoffer, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Northrup, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Ross, Mrs. Charles Read, Commander Cooper.

Greatest Invention of Age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

NOTHING SO FAR DISCOVERED IS SO BENEFICIAL TO PUBLIC SPEAKERS, MINISTERS, SINGERS AND TEACHERS AS CATARRHOZONE.

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly relieves huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singers' greatest anxiety—unfitness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhozone, and credit in no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

SINGER RECOMMENDS CATARRHOZONE.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as CATARRH.

"Being a professional singer you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill.

"One year ago I read in the 'Progress' a convincing testimonial from one who had been cured of this disease through using your God-sent invention, Catarrhozone.

"Believing in the merit of Catarrhozone, I tried it.

"Catarrhozone cured me and has been the means of my success.

"You are at liberty to use my name if it will help relieve some from suffering, and I will always remain,

"Bob Bixley, New Glasgow, N S."

Mr. Bixley is one of the best known singers and entertainers in the Maritime Provinces. Everyone knows him, and his testimonial for Catarrhozone is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhozone is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh.

Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months, costs one dollar. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

THIEVES GET $2500 BY DYNAMITING SAFE

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Alexander Nautiezik, who runs a saloon at Robert's Road and Courtney was alone in his place this morning about 12.30 o'clock. He was preparing to close up. Three strangers entered and called for beer.

"Better have one with us," said one of the trio to Nautiezik.

"Don't care if I do," said he, drawing a beer for himself.

"Give us some cigars," said another of the strangers before anyone had tasted their beer. The saloonkeeper turned his back on his customers while getting the cigars and one of them poured powerful knockout drops into the glass containing Nautiezik's beer.

"Here's looking at you," said one of the callers as the saloonkeeper drained his glass. The next instant he fell senseless to the floor. The strangers left him where he fell and dragged into the backyard of the saloon Nautiezik's safe, which weighed 1,000. In the yard they blew the safe to pieces with dynamite, and then disapeared with the contents—$2500. Nautiezik had in the saloon when the robbers entered a St. Bernard dog. The animal attacked the thiers when they were dragging the safe out, and one of the robbers shot the dog dead.

The explosion was heard by neighbors who rushed to the saloon in time to see the three men disappearing Three doctors worked over Nautiezik until six o'clock this morning before they succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. At eleven o'clock he had not recovered sufficient use of his faculties to give the police more than a very meager description of the robbers.

LET EVERYONE USE CHRISTMAS STAMPS

The little Christmas Stamp, issued on behalf of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, to help care for needy patients, serves, of course, a very practical purpose in providing a means of securing funds for this institution. But the educational value of millions of these stamps being put in circulation must not be overlooked. For this reason we urge our readers to put a one cent stamp on every letter and package that they will be mailing between now and the new year. Scatter abroad the good news that there is hope for the poor consumptive. With the stamps costing only one cent each, the door is open to everyone to have some part in this great campaign of stamping out consumption. In a decade the mortality in the Province of Ontario from tuberculosis has declined nearly forty per cent. Every buyer of a Christmas Stamp can help to further improve these conditions. A post card to the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street West, Toronto, will give all particulars. Write him to-day.

Ward and General

In the city of Belleville the general vote system came into force in 1899. During the time it was in force the Council took over the management of the water works, formerly managed by a commission, purchased, repaired and improved the gas works, acquired a water power, built about fifteen miles of granolithic walks, enlarged Victoria Park and opened the Corby Park, increased the grant to the Hospital and Public Library, extended the gas and water mains about one mile each, put in cement piers in a ferry slip, reduced the city's floating debt, added largely to the sinking fund, purchased Zwick's Island of fourteen acres in the Bay of Quinte valuable as a gravel bed, filterer for the public water supply and for a park, and completed a large amount of other public works of a less important character.

The record above given in brief is excellent—better by far than has ever been made during a similar period in the city's history. It is quite true that an outcry was raised concerning the apparent increase made in the city's debt by the purchase of the gas and water works; but that increase was only apparent, not real. It was, indeed, a profitable investment, as the utilities named have proved highly profitable. Not only has the interest on the capital been met, but so also has the sinking fund, whereby the amount of the investment has been annually reduced, and a considerable sum has been paid out of revenue for extensions, in addition to which a considerable sum, which helped to lessen the burden of the taxpayers, was paid into the city treasury every year. By the installation of electric power at the pump-house the expense of operating the water works has been greatly reduced, and this year's returns ought to be very satisfactory.

Such are the results achieved under the general system. What has the ward system resulted in other than the Front Street sewer, which many hold to be in part unnecessary, and a general exhibition of incapacity, as witness our awful streets.

The foregoing facts, in addition to others adduced in our articles on the subject, ought to determine every elector who desires honest and efficient municipal government for Belleville to vote for the restoration of the general system.

A Good Example

Port Arthur has set a good example to Belleville, concerning which the following statement made by N. G. Neil, Secretary of the Board of Trade, will be read with interest. "Inside of ten years' time," he declared, "the people of Port Arthur will be drawing dividends instead of paying taxes, for the simple reason that they own all their public utilities. They own the street railway, electric light and power plant, water works and telephone system, and now negotiations are under way for the purchase of the gas works.

"All this is accomplished under a semi-commission form of civic government, with Commissioner of Public Utilities J. J. Hackney, a former Guelph man, at the head of affairs. He is elected to office for a term of three years, and before the end of that time he cannot be removed by the Mayor and Council, or by anyone but the chairman of the Federal Board of Railway Commissioners. One of the projects now being put into effect in Port Arthur is the opening of a special factory district in the city, where all the streets are laid out and the sites, which are given away free, improved and made ready for tenancy. Another good thing is a company just formed by English capital for erecting workmen's houses. Three million dollars will be expended on 850 houses, to rent at $10 a month, by these people."

Berlin has also achieved results with water works, which, although Belleville's department has done well, yet leaves this city considerably in the rear. The water works department of that city has submitted a statement of the year's business to the commission, showing a net profit for 1911 of $14,170.84, after paying $8,147.74 interest and principal on debentures. Total receipts amount to $34,686.34, of which $21,683.48 was received from consumers with meters installed, and $5,125 from the town for hydrant rental. During the year the commission reduced the hydrant rental from $30 to $25 per year, making a saving to the town of $1,050. The profit is the largest since the plant was purchased by the town twelve years ago.

The publication of the result of the present year's operations of the Belleville department will be awaited with interest.

Must Pay

A telegram from Ottawa of the 15th Dec., says:

"Postage will be collected on campaign issues of Canadian newspapers which were distributed to other than regular subscribers prior to the recent election."

It will be remembered that the Toronto News called attention to and exposed the manner in which the Laurier Government was allowing the post office to be used to spread Grit literature among the electors, to the extent, it was said, of a saving to The Toronto Globe alone of $25,000. The present Postmaster-General has decided, so says the telegram, to compel payment of whatever is due the department. This is right.

CHINESE MERCHANT'S WILL SHOWS PICTURE OF HEIRS

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 15—The most singular document among the 750,000 wills on file in the Suffolk registry has just been placed there after a journey of 13,000 miles from China. It winds up the affairs of the estate of Lee Houé, a former Boston merchant, who was killed in a railway accident while returning from a visit to China.

The will is inscribed on a sheet of yellow rice paper two feet long and two feet wide, and consists of several columns of Chinese hieroglyphics and an English translation. Photographs of his wife and son are posted in [illegible] corner. On another paper is the [illegible]ger print of the widow, used in lieu of signature.

WILFUL, MALICIOUS OR IGNORANT MISREPRESENTATION

There are certain Life Insurance Agents (for the honor of the business fortunately very few) who resort to misrepresentation and lying.

The Policyholders' Mutual Life Insurance Company is a comparatively new Company, organized in 1907 and forging ahead in its business because it has modern advantages and can offer the insuring public a better value at lower cost.

In their jealous misrepresentations these Agents Assert

1.—That the rates of the Policyholders' Mutual Life are too low for safety and yet they know, if they have any knowledge of the Insurance business, that these very rates are the same as used in its dividend and stock bonuses by one of the oldest Companies (over forty-eight years) and which in its dividends and stock bonuses has been better than a gold mine to its fortunate stockholders.

2.—That a young company is a weak one, and yet they know, if they have any knowledge of the Insurance business, that a young company has the advantage of starting out with a clean slate on modern principles, with no old business or methods to be disturbed, and that with the regular Government deposit made and the full Government reserve put up, the policy holder has an absolute security as though he were with the oldest Company.

3.—That the Company is not registered and is, therefore, doing business illegally. This they know is false and, if they have any knowledge of Insurance business, know that it would be a criminal matter. All companies doing business in Ontario, their own included, must register with the Ontario Government and the Policyholders' Mutual Life is certified and registered on the Insurance Company Register pursuant to the Ontario Insurance Act as No 4321, Folio 449, Certificate signed by A. A. Chisholm, Entry Clerk, J. J. Foy, Attorney General of Ontario Minister in charge of the Department of Insurance and A. R. Boswell, Inspector of Insurance for the Province of Ontario.

The names and work of two of these unfair agents are known and if their false and malicious statements are repeated, they will be named in a future issue. If they then consider that any injustice is being done them they will be invited to prosecute us for libel in the Courts.

Published by order of the Board of Directors of the Policyholders' Mutual Life Insurance Company.

PREFERS NEW WIFE TO OLD

Woman Finds Husband, who Deserted Her—Own Children Did not Know Her

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.— After searching for her husband for years, Mrs. Chas. W. Marquedant says she learned that he lived at 62 Belvidere Place, Yonkers. She says she went to that address. A woman responded to the bell, and said Mr. Marquedant was not in.

"Can't you tell me what you want?" asked the woman at the door, "I am his wife."

"His wife?" cried Mrs. Marquedant. "That cannot be, because he married me seventeen years ago in Boston."

Three children came running out, and Mrs. Marquedant says she recognized them as her own, but they would not go to her; they called the other woman 'mamma.'

"Don't you know me?" asked Mrs. Marquedant. Thereupon she says the door was slammed in her face.

Mrs. Marquedant went to City Judge Beal and wanted to prefer a complaint of bigamy against her husband. The judge advised an investigation first.

Marquedant appeared before the court on a summons. He refused to make a statement of any kind, and the hearing was adjourned. Counsel was instructed to have the other woman in court.

Marquedant is a commission merchant in New York. Mrs. Marquedant said her husband left her immediately following the birth of her third child in Boston.

NEVER TOOK A VACATION

"Uncle Jimmy" Rowan Worked Thirty Two Years Without a Day Off

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The superintendent of the Yakima Canyon division of the Northern Pacific received recently a laboriously written letter from the track-walker, "Uncle Jimmy," requesting a week's leave of absence during Christmas week.

As there was no explanation forthcoming as to the reason of this, an official message was sent back asking "Why?"

The following answer was returned in due course:

"I have been working for this company for 32 years, and during that time I have never had a day off, never been absent on account of sickness or for any other reason. I just thought I would like to take a little rest during the week and look around."

It is said the superintendent's car stopped at Yakima Canyon a day or two later and the old man was summoned into the dread presence.

In the meantime it had been discovered that for all the long years the man had been working for the company—in rain and sunshine, winter and summer, day and night,—the engineers and trainmen who flashed by the little old cabin of railroad ties, had always found the man at his post, his track clear, his signals right.

Every one knew old "Uncle Jimmy," and every one had a good word for him. The superintendent questioned the embarrassed old man and found that all he wanted was to spend a week in town. But the official also heard that Rowan had come from Ireland when a young man, but he had never returned to the home place and never expected to. The superintendent cleared his throat a little when the interview was over, and told Uncle Jimmy that the company would let him know.

Uncle Jimmy got the "know" about three weeks ago. He was ordered to drop his work on a certain day, report to headquarters, get new clothes, new hat, new shoes, and be prepared to take the fastest train he could find to New York in time to report at the company's New York office, 34 Nassau street, on Monday morning, December 11. He was to forget all worry, all care, do what he wanted, eat what he liked and to make ready to go back to the old country for Christmas.

That is why Uncle Jimmy was so happy when he arrived yesterday and went to the office this morning, and will be ushered into the secretary's office, where they will hand him his steamship transportation across and back, and the necessary railroad transportation on the other side, and a sufficient sum to meet all expenses he may incur while over there at his boyhood home.

A revolt is reported in Paraguay, but in these milder days even South American countries do not live up to reports.

BY-LAW NO.

A BY-LAW RESPECTING THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.

Passed the day of 1911.

WHEREAS by Sub-Sec. 3 of Sec. 71a of The Consolidated Municipal Act of 1903 the Council of any City having a population of 15,000 or less may by By-Laws provide that the Council of such City shall be composed of a Mayor and one Alderman for each 1,000 of population, to be elected by general vote, the population to be determined by the last census of the Dominion of Canada,

AND WHEREAS, by said last census of the Dominion of Canada taken in the year 1911 the population of the City of Belleville was determined at the number of 9,850.

IT IS THEREFORE ENACTED by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville:—

1.—THAT the Council of the City of Belleville shall be composed of a Mayor and one Alderman for each 1,000 of the population of the said City as determined by the last census of the Dominion of Canada to be elected by general vote.

2.—THAT the first nominations to be held under the provisions of this By-Law shall be the last Monday of December, A. D., 1912, and the first elections the first Monday of January, A. D., 1913.

3.—This By-Law shall come into force and effect immediately on and after the final passing thereof.

4.—THAT the votes of the qualified electors of the Municipality of the City of Belleville shall be taken (in accordance with the Statute in that behalf made and provided) upon this By-Law on the same day, at the same hour and at the same places at which and by the same Deputy Returning Officers, by whom the next Municipal Elections for said Municipality are held.

5.—THAT the Clerk of the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall attend at his office in the City Hall in the City of Belleville on Tuesday the 2nd day of January A. D. 1912 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon to proceed to sum up the number of votes given for and against this By-Law in accordance with the provisions of the Statute in that behalf.

6.—THAT the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville shall attend at the City Hall in the said City on Tuesday, the 26th day of December 1911, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of appointing and shall appoint in writing signed by him two persons to attend the final summing up of the votes given for and against this By-Law and for the purpose of appointing one person to attend at each polling place upon the day of polling of the said votes, on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of promoting the passing of this By-Law and a like number on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of opposing the passing of this By-Law which place and hour are hereby fixed for said purpose.

Clerk. Mayor

NOTICE.

To the Municipal Electors of the City of Belleville:

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of the proposed By-Law which has been taken into consideration by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville which will be finally pased by said Council (in the event of the assent of the electors being obtained thereto) after one month from the first publication in the Daily Intelligencer and Daily Ontario Newspapers of Belleville, the date of which first pub. was 2nd day of December 1911 and that the votes of the electors of the said Municipality will be taken thereon and at the hour, day and place therein fixed for taking the votes of the Electors the Polls will be held.

LIT FIRE TO CALL DADDY

Boy was "Warmed" as Result—Wanted Father, who was Chief of Fire Brigade

LYNBROOK, L. I., Dec. 15.—"I want my papa to come home," said four year old Leonard Haff, Monday to his mother, Mrs. William P. W. Haff, whose husband, a coal dealer, is also ex-Chief of the Lynbrook Fire Department.

"But your papa is busy now, dear, he'll be home this evening," said the mother.

"I know how to get him now," said Leonard, as he ran from the house.

Soon there was a cloud of smoke from the garage in the rear, and Leonard came rushing back.

"Quick, Mamma, the barn is burning; call papa," shouted the youngster.

Mary Vines, a maid in the Haff household, rushed into the garage and found some loose hay on fire on the floor. She threw a blanket over the hay and then pitched it into the street with a hay fork. The firemen didn't come after all, and Leonard was much disappointed. Papa, however was summoned by telephone, and after Leonard had admitted kindling the hay he was sorry papa had come home.

THE Y. M. C. A, BALL TEAM WON BY A BIG MAJORITY

At the Armouries last night an indoor baseball league match was played between the Y. M. C. A. and the Cemeent Company teams. The Y. M. C. A. boys proved to be the victors, scoring 37 runs to their opponents 22. In the last inning the winners scored no less than 15 runs. A large number of spectators witnessed the game, Mr. Wm. Cochrane was umpire and Mr. A. P. Allen judge on bases. The battery for the winning team was Alexander, pitcher, and Dingman, catcher, and for the losers, French, pitcher and Thompson, catcher. The line up of the teams was as follows:

Y.M.C.A.	Cement Co
Dingman	F. Reddick
Malory	Thompson
Hayes	French
Finkle	Connell
Ketcheson	Bowen
Alexander	C. Reddick
Tedman	Pitcher
Hitchon	Croft
Panter	Dowrie.

The score by innings was as follows:

Y.M.C.A. . .	6	2	3	5	4	1	0	1	15	—37
Cement Co. .	4	4	2	1	3	2	3	0	3	—22

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

would come from men who are constantly associated with their assistants and be in a better position than I am to give such an estimate, since I can only see them occasionally.

On motion, the Board went into Committee of the Whole on Reports, etc., Mr. Mallory in the chair.

The Finance Committee's report was adopted without discussion.

The recommendation of the Printing and Supplies Committee for some supplies in connection with the High School was referred back to the committee, with power to act.

Mr. Colling, Principal of the High School, asked for the reaffirmation of a resolution approving of the use of certain text books in Form Four of the High School.

A motion prevailed that the resolution be reaffirmed.

Col. Ponton moved, seconded by Mr. Deacon that the City Treasurer be requested to hand over to the Board the accrued interest on the debentures from the date of issue to the present date.—Carried.

Mr. C. M. Reid moved, seconded by Mr. Bailey, that the resignation of Mr. Smith as a member of the Board be accepted.—Carried.

Mr. Johnson moved, seconded by Mr. Wills, that the Board express its regret that Mr. Smith is resigning from the Board.

The motion was carried by a standing vote.

A motion prevailed that the Board accept the invitation to attend the entertainments at Grier and Pinnacle Street Schools.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

Motions.

Col. Ponton moved, seconded by Mr. Deacon, that the offer of the Chief Inspector of Schools of Toronto to instruct two teachers in the savings bank system there carried on be accepted, and that the chairman of the School Management Committee be requested to arrange for this as early as possible to be carried out in January, 1912; and that the addresses to be given on the subject by the Toronto committee be deferred till after the return of the two teachers who may be selected.

Col. Ponton read a communication from Inspector James L. Hughes, of Toronto, stating that if the Board sent up two teachers they could see for themselves the working of the system of savings banks in the schools, and that some one versed in the matter would come to Belleville and give instructions in regard to the same. The Colonel spoke in favor of the motion. He said it teaches not only economy and thrift, but imparts to the scholars a knowledge of banking. Two teachers could be selected to go and it would be an education for them and also the pupils. Mr. Sneyd, manager of the Merchants' Bank here, had offered his services to the Board in this matter.

Mr. J. F. Wills was not altogether in sympathy with the proposition, as it took more time and trouble than was anticipated. He moved an amendment that the offer of Mr. Hughes to have two representatives come here and give an addres on this matter be accepted before any teachers are sent to Toronto.

Mr. Anderson seconded the amendment of Mr. Wills.

Mr. Deacon spoke in support of the motion. Thrift cannot be installed in the minds of the children at too young an age. He did not consider it a waste of time that was ocupied in taking in the money.

Col. Ponton said the system where it had been tried had proved to be a success. In Toronto it takes twenty minutes once a week to do this work. It was a forward and progressive movement.

Mr. Bailey thought this was a step in the right direction and was learnin the children to be saving. It would be educating the children on the right line, and would no doubt be of benefit to them when they grow up.

Mr. Hudson said the children should be taught to bank their money as it would prove of great benefit to them in later years.

The motion of Col. Ponton was adopted.

A motion prevailed that the teachers be paid on Friday preceding Christmas.

The chairman of Queen Victoria School was authorized to procure an assistant caretaker of Queen Victoria School for the winter months..

Mr. Wilkin, Principal of Queen Victoria School, Mr. Barragar, Principal of Octavia Street School were selected as a delegation to Toronto, and Mr. McLaurin of the High School in reference to seeing about some necessary supplies for the science department.

A motion prevailed authorizing the Chairman of the Board to send to Master Doxsee the Governor-General's medal, he having been the pupil winning the same this year.

Board adjourned.

DOCTORS GAVE ME UP

But "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Me.

MOORFIELD, ONT., March 25th, 1910.

"I suffered from severe indigestion and dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress.

I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors and they both pronounced my case incurable, that they could do nothing more for me as they thought my disease was HEART FAILURE AND INCURABLE. The doctors gave me up and I looked forward for death in a short time.

At this time my son asked me to try 'FRUIT-A-TIVES', and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I was better, and gradually this medicine completely cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely cured and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight."

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

DECISION IS AWAITED

Arnold Wainwright Ends Argument in Hebert Case.

He Urges Before Judge Charbonneau That Marriage Law as Interpreted by Justices Jette and Lemieux Is Monstrosity In Which People Can Feel No Security—Asks Ruling That Will Obviate All Deception.

Montreal, Dec. 16.—"If the system of law in this province is what it is represented to be in the judgments of Justices Jette and Lemieux, it is a monstrosity and one designed to entrap the unwary, for under such circumstances a person might go before an officer who has been given the power by the state to celebrate marriage, and who accordingly assumes such right and is protected by the state; a person, I say, might be married by that officer, who acted in virtue of a license emanating from the King's authority. If that marriage is invalid—not on account of any restriction existing in the only law of which the person can be assumed to have any knowledge, but on account of the provisions and ordinances of old dead and gone French kings, or on account of hair-splitting distinctions of learned jurists, all of which the person cannot be expected to understand—then the law is not a protection to the public as all laws of marriage are supposed to be, but a menace both to the state and the individual.

"Therefore, I would ask your lordship's ruling in the matter in order to determine at once and for all whether the law in this province is the monstrous and unreasonable thing it is held to be. Under a system where only one set of ministers would be given the exclusive right to officiate at marriage ceremonies there would, at any rate, be no danger of deception for innocent parties, but, under a system where the validity of the union is said to depend purely and simply on the faith of the contracting parties, there is a constant danger to all concerned."

In these words did Arnold Wainwright terminate his argument in the Hebert marriage annulment yesterday afternoon. Mr. Wainwright endeavored by the historical argument to show that from the period intervening between the cession (1760) and the promulgation of the present code in 1866, there was nothing to warrant the contention put forth in the judgments of Justices Lemieux and Jette—or, in other words, there was nothing to support the argument that two Catholics would be validly married only by a priest of their faith.

As the case in the interests of Dame Clouatre is now closed, the ruling of the court in the matter is looked forward to with expectancy.

Thirty Nimrods Lose Lives.

Boston, Dec. 16.—Thirty human lives were lost in New England, and four in the Province of New Brunswick as a direct result of the hunting season which, so far as big game is concerned, came to an end yesterday. Of the victims five were shot in mistake for deer, 12 were killed by accidental discharge of their own guns, 14 by accidental firing of guns held by companions or by stray bullets, two were drowned and one died of exposure.

It is estimated that about 10,000 deer and 300 moose were killed, besides several score of bear and a great quantity of small game.

U. S. Fears Russian Reprisals.

Washington, Dec. 16.—Opposition to the Senate program for immediate action on the Sulzer House resolution looking to the termination of the Russian treaty of 1832 is developing among some Senators. It is based largely on the theory that any estrangement between this country and Russia would have the effect of bringing Russia into alliance with Japan with the result of injuring the Oriental trade of the United States. Many telegrams advancing this idea were received during the day.

To Educate U. S. Farmers.

Washington, Dec. 16.—A plan to enable agricultural colleges throughout the country to do extension work by taking to the farmers of their respective communities the best methods of intensive agriculture, is contemplated in a bill, which will be introduced in Congress after the holidays.

The leading spirit in this movement is Howard H. Gross of Chicago, president of the National Soil Fertility League.

Boys' Fatal Fight.

Fraserville, Que., Dec. 16.—In the trial of Jules Ploudre for the murder of Louis Dion, at St. Honore, Temiscouata County, some months ago, a number of witnesses have sworn that after a fight between the two Dion brothers and the two Ploudre boys, the accused deliberately fired five shots at the victim, killing him. The prisoner is only 20 years of age.

Montreal a Spender.

Montreal, Dec. 16.—According to the civic estimates tabulated at the City Hall at noon yesterday by Mr. Pelletier, the city comptroller, the city will spend more than a million dollars in excess of last year. Next year's total expenditure on revenue account is placed at $8,185,000, against $7,005,285 placed in the estimates last year.

Million-Dollar Canning Co.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—Letters patent have been issued to a new million-dollar canning concern to be known as the British Canadian Canners, Ltd., with headquarters in Montreal. The company is authorized to deal in all food products and to buy up or otherwise acquire the interests of other companies.

Mother Deserts Baby.

Brockville, Dec. 16.—An infant of two months left in a basket on a door step in Athens, was handed over yesterday to the Children's Aid Shelter. With the child was left a letter from the mother, saying she was unable to provide for her offspring.

TO NAME ACCOMPLICES

Four Indictments Are Expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

Several Persons Appear Before Grand Jury In Los Angeles and Californians Are Said To Be In Line For Arrest on Dynamiting Charges—Indianapolis Is Also Hot With Clues That May Entangle Officials.

Los Angeles, Dec. 16.—A little package of indictments, numbering perhaps four, probably will be returned here next Tuesday or Wednesday against men living in California and suspected of complicity in nation-wide dynamite plots. This will end the western section of the investigation and will transfer the scene of all activities to Indianapolis, where another grand jury is in session.

A canvas and leather case, ten inches square and as tall as a small ice cream freezer, was shown the jury yesterday. This case and others like it are said to have been used in carrying about the country dynamite needed for various "jobs."

It was such a case that Ortie McManigal carried them, according to his own statement, when he came west to blow up the Llewellyn Iron Works. McManigal was so accustomed to its presence, that he gave it to a porter, giving him also a dollar to take care of it.

Presumably in connection with the appearance of the dynamite case, came B. J. Crosby, now of Los Angeles, and formerly of Boston, Mass. Crosby was once connected with the firm that made the case.

Miss Tillie McCarthy, of San Francisco, a stenographer for an exhibition league, of which Olaf Tveitmoe is president, appeared before the grand jury, remaining about fifteen minutes. She was preceded by Thos. Mills of San Francisco, a chauffeur, whose appearance recalled the story that after James B. McNamara had dynamited The Los Angeles Times' building, he hurried north to San Francisco, and with his companions, "went automobile riding," apparently having plenty of money.

Mrs. Maude B. King, assistant housekeeper of a San Francisco hotel, appeared before the grand jury a second time, being the only witness recalled. She is said to have been acquainted with Milton A. Schmidt, a fugitive under indictment for complicity in The Times' explosion.

Trail Grows Warm.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 16.—Government officials who are co-operating with District Attorney Miller in conducting the investigation of the dynamite conspiracy before the federal grand jury, learned from two sources yesterday the details of explosions in which it is said others than the McNamaras were implicated.

W. A. Griffiin, chief of police of Kansas City, Mo., who had knowledge of five explosions in Kansas City, was questioned about certain facts which, it is said had never been revealed. These explosions, all directed against structures erected by firms employing non-union men, occurred from 1908 to 1910. As not more than two of them were confessedly the work of McManigal, Chief Griffin's information was sifted to ascertain who else might have destroyed the property.

Much important testimony bearing on the records taken from the headquarters of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers was also obtained from Miss May Dye, who went before the grand jury. Up to a few years ago, Miss Dye, now of Pittsburg, was confidential secretary in the Iron Workers' headquarters, and as such had to do with the correspondence of J. J. McNamara, the secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Andrew J. Hull, the ironworkers' former bookkeeper, also visited the federal building. Many hotel clerks from various parts of the country have been subpoenaed to tell what they know of the movements of McManigal while he was on his dynamiting expeditions. The hotel men are to be questioned chiefly to corroborate McManigal's confession wherein he related visits to certain towns with a suitcase filled with dynamite or nitroglycerine.

It was intimated that the ironworkers' officials were not opposed to the Government efforts to expose all implicated in the dynamiting.

Burns Is Prophetic.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 16.—Declaring that other arrests in the McNamara case may be expected soon, and that attempts to bribe him and his men had been made, Detective William J. Burns made an address here yesterday before one hundred members of the National Erectors' Association. He stopped here on his way to Indianapolis, where he will continue his investigations.

Burns made another attack on Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declaring he would not cease his attacks until Gompers is thrown out of organized labor. He also denounced what he called "the corrupt political crowd that controls organized labor."

"There are many McNamaras in organized labor," he said.

Burns said that after concluding his work at Indianapolis, he will go to Los Angeles.

Papers Must Pay.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—Postmaster-General Pelletier has decided that newspapers which mailed campaign numbers to people other than subscribers during the Federal election must pay postage.

The matter caused [illegible] a furore after the campaign, [illegible] Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux remitted the charges. The new Postmaster-General reverses this decision.

C.P.R. Lets Big Contract.

Calgary, Dec. 16.—The C.P.R. have awarded the contract for the construction of their two million dollar railway shops here to the Westinghouse, Church, Kerr Co. of New York and Chicago. This is the railway construction and building Westinghouse concern.

FIRE IN LONDON.

Biggest Part of Perrin's Biscuit Factory Destroyed.

London, Dec. 16.—The greater portion of the D. S. Perrin Co.'s biscuit and confectionery plant was destroyed by fire, which broke out about 11.30 last night. The loss is estimated at about $100,000 and is fully covered by insurance, there being about $240,000 carried on the building. The risks are well divided among a number of companies, principally English companies.

The fire started from an oven in the rear portion of the factory on Carling street, and flames spread furiously so that by the time the firemen arrived, it had gained great headway. That portion of the building on Dundas street was partially saved from destruction. The company have four buildings in one block, and one other across a street. It was the east building of the block, that was gutted and the central building was partially destroyed. The building was five storeys high and about eight years old.

Altogether 500 hands were employed and some of these will be out of work for some weeks.

Most of the Christmas stock was out of the building, but there was considerable regular stock on hand.

The firm is one of the oldest established in the western part of the province, having been startled fifty years ago.

Fatal Lock Exhibited.

New York, Dec. 16.—After hearing extended testimony, Judge Crane, in general sessions late yesterday, allowed the lock in the door that is alleged to have barred the escape of the girl operators from the Triangle Waist Co. fire of March 25 last, to be introduced in evidence. Twice before the day the court had refused to admit the exhibit as evidence against Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, who are on trial for manslaughter in the case of Margaret Schwartz, one of 147 who died in the fire.

The piece of panel containing the lock, with shot bolt and known as "People's Exhibit, No. 3," constitutes the strongest physical proof the prosecution possesses. For two days Assistant District Attorney Bostwick fought a legal battle to get it before the jury. It shows conclusively, he contends, that ninth floor on the Washington Place side of the factory where many girls died, was locked when the panic-stricken employes threw themselves against it to escape from the flames.

Teddy Denounces McNamaras.

New York, Dec. 15.—Denouncing the McNamara brothers as "depraved criminals, who have on their sacred souls the murder of so many innocent persons," Theodore Roosevelt, in an editorial entitled "Murder is Murder," gives his views of the famous dynamiting case in the current issue of The Outlook.

The associate editor bitterly scores the labor leaders, who championed the cause of the McNamaras, "as they did that of Moyer and Haywood," declaring they have rendered an evil service to the union cause. He insists that he believes in unions, but all workers must "set their faces like flint against any effort to identify the cause of organized labor, directly or indirectly, with any movement which in any way benefits by the commission of crimes of lawless and murderous violence."

Roosvelt to Run?

New York, Dec. 16.—A [illegible] that Col. Roosevelt is "ready to run for the Presidency" is printed today by The Herald, which explains that the announcement comes from the "authentic source." The statement says in part:

"There will be no formal announcement of the candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt, but if he is chosen as the party's standard-bearer in the national contest next year, he will not decline the nomination."

Tip to Fruit Growers.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—A cable has been received from the Canadian trade commissioner in Birmingham, England, stating that a Birmingham firm requires several cars each of russets, greenings, baldwins and spys, grading No. 1 and No. 2 for January delivery, Ontario apples preferred. Parties desiring the name of the firm in Birmingham will be supplied with same by wire on application to the Department of Trade and Commerce.

U. S. Meat Packers Excluded.

London, Dec. 16.—The British Government has decided to exclude all the American meat packers against whom prosecutions have been instituted in the United States, from tendering for contracts for the supply of meat to the British army and navy, pending the settlement of the suits.

The contracts are now expected to go to Argentina packers.

To Protect "Dope" Fiends.

The Hague, Dec. 16.—The International Opium Conference yesterday adopted a resolution submitted by the British delegates restricting the import or export of morphine or cocaine in the countries represented at the conference. It was decided that all resolutions adopted concerning morphine should be applicable to opium and similar drugs.

Many Fishermen Drowned.

Emden, Germany, Dec. 16.—Three fishing luggers belonging to this port, carrying crews totalling forty men, have, it is feared, foundered during the recent storms in the North Sea.

Mrs. Bowie's Death.

Brockville, Dec. 16.—The death occurred here yesterday of Mrs. Robert Bowie, following a stroke of paralysis. Deceased was 72 years of age and a life-long resident of Brockville.

Welland Canal Closes.

Port Colborne, Dec. 16.—The Welland Canal was officially closed yesterday. Lock tenders were busy closing bridges and lock gates for the winter.

Not to Succeed Hardinge.

London, Dec. 16.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—It is officially denied that Prince Arthur of Connaught will succeed Lord Hardinge as Viceroy of India.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Speculative buying of futures here for both European and for Argentine account, made wheat to-day advance with accelerating speed. The close was firm, 1⅛c to 1½c higher than last night. Other leading staples, too, all scored a net gain—corn ⅛c to ⅝c, oats ¼c to ⅜c, and hog products 2½c to 7½c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅛d to ¼d higher than yesterday on wheat, and unchanged on corn. Berlin closed ¼c higher on wheat. Buda Pest ⅛c higher. Antwerp 1c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 15.—There was a brisk demand from foreign buyers for all grades of Manitoba spring wheat and the prices bid showed an advance of 3d to 9d per quarter. There were orders in the market for over 1,000,000 bushels, but owing to the limited amount of ocean grain room available to all ports, only a fair amount of business was done. The demand for oats was also good. A fair trade continues to be done in all lines of coarse grains on spot at steady prices. There is no change in flour, for which the demand is fair, for local consumption. Demand for bran and shorts is good. Cheese is quiet but firm. The trade in butter is fairly good. Eggs are active. Demand for provisions fair.

Vol. 45 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1911. No. 193

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

My sole object in entering Alfred Fluette's study, therefore, was prompted by a hope that I might absorb something of its atmosphere. I did not know the man. Here was the place where he spent his leisure hours, where he unbent and became his normal self. It were indeed strange if I failed to gain some concept of his character.

I leaned against a window-casing, and surveyed the room with much interest. From the appearance of the books on the shelves—they were worn from use, but their coating of dust evidenced neglect—I gathered the idea that the master of the house had once been a bookish man, but that of late he had grown away from such pursuits. Here and there on the wide-topped writing-table were letters and papers in neat piles, while other letters and papers were heaped up and scattered about in the most careless disorder. The ink-well and blotting-pad were scrupulously tidy, but he never troubled to clean his pens after using them, or even to place them in the pen receiver.

To me, all this argued a man whose moral forces were undergoing a slow but certain deterioration; and with a man in Alfred Fluette's position, and with his responsibilities, the possibilities were manifold and ominous. His conscience still had a voice to raise in protest against meddling with his niece's heritage; but he remained deaf to the voice. He could stoop to villainy; but he was not so callous to wrongdoing but that the stooping hurt. Alfred Fluette needed a jolt—somebody to bring him up with a short turn—and I resolved, having the means, to be the one to do it.

As my glance roved hither and thither about the room, it was suddenly arrested and held.

On the writing-table, among a thousand and one odds and ends, was a memorandum calendar. It was in nowise different from scores of other calendars; the date displayed was today's, and in the blank space below, written in a large, firm hand, appeared a notation.

But this memorandum contained a most peculiar word. Somehow, as my eye encountered it, a thrill ran through me. I could not define it; the thrill was without perceptible meaning, but I felt that the odd word should tell me something. The word was odd, in fact, that I feared I could not remember it. So I copied it upon the back of an envelope, thus:

TSHEN-BYO-YEN.

Immediately under it had been written: "10 o'clock."

Further speculation on the matter was interrupted by Genevieve coming down-stairs. I stepped into the hall when I heard her, and she at once joined me. We went into the living-room.

Her beautiful eyes were round with wonder, her sweet face filled with concern; but before I entered into any explanations, I turned to her and held out my arms.

"First," I whispered, "I want to know whether it is real."

She caught her breath sharply; the color came quickly to her cheeks, a tender light to the blue eyes. She put her hands confidently into mine.

"What has happened to you?" she asked, standing away from me and staring with perplexed solicitude at the testimony of Stodger's barbarous surgery. I had forgotten all about the red-hot poker.

"A mere scratch—a nothing," I made light of it. "I'll tell you all about it when the time comes. There are too many other things to be disposed of first."

"But—you have been wounded," she persisted, now thoroughly alarmed. And so I had to tell her about the night's adventure, which I did, for the most part shamefacedly enough.

It was a delight to watch the different expressions flit across her lovely countenance, to see them mingle and blend and give away to others—wonder, amazement, awe, horror, terror—I can't begin to name them all. A score of times she interrupted me, but it was always a welcome interruption.

"Stodger's a trump," I concluded. "Think of him jumping up from a sound sleep and throwing himself into the thick of the fray, without one second's hesitation."

"Y-e-s," she agreed, but there was no enthusiasm in her tone. Then she turned warmly upon me.

"I'm thinking, though, that you've been gifted with mighty little sense, Knowles Swift, to have acted so recklessly. The very idea of a sane man creeping through that dark hall and up those dark stairs, and plunging into he knew not what!" She eyed me severely.

"But I did know," I protested meekly. "It was the étagère."

There was a solemn rebuke in the slow shaking of her head. "A man swears so," she sighed, "when he does anything awkward, like that."

I remained discreetly silent.

However, she was too much exercised over my "wound"—as she persisted in calling the scratch on my cheek—and the loss of the ruby to encourage any levity. Honestly, at that moment I cared not a whit for the ruby. Besides, there were consolations which I need not record. It was real—very, very real; and I was the happiest man in the world.

Genevieve was curious to learn—very naturally so—what had transpired between Belle and me.

"How is she now?" I parried. I had concluded that when Miss Belle was again her normal self, she would rather have our little episode forgotten.

"Calm as a graven image," was the reply. Grief and anxiety trembled in Genevieve's voice. "But it is a stony, deathlike sort of calm that gives me the creeps. The poor girl is distracted. She wants to be alone; she sent me to you."

"She sent you," said I, with quick interest. This struck me as being rather curious.

"Oh, I know Belle," said Genevieve. "She probably said some very bitter things to you; now she's sorry."

I trusted that the impulsive young lady was experiencing some pangs of remorse; but before I confided anything, I learned how Genevieve came to be locked in Belle's room.

Early in the morning Belle had grown quite tranquil, but insisted upon talking. To humor and soothe her, Genevieve, during their talk, asserted that I could be depended upon to save Royal. She also mentioned that I was expected to call.

After breakfast Genevieve had fallen asleep, through sheer weariness. Belle must have risen cautiously, determined to treat with me herself. Her impulsive decision was manifestly arrived at after I rang the bell, because she had had no time to dress.

Soon after, Genevieve had awakened with a start, to find herself locked in and the bell-button dug out of its socket. She could not summon the servants without creating an uproar. She soon surmised something of what Belle had in mind, but never, until she heard the muffled report of the pistol, had she dreamed that the frenzied girl contemplated anything so desperate and rash.

Well, I softened the matter as much as I could for Miss Belle; making it very clear that I realized from the start that she was not responsible, and that I had been most of the time engaged in calming her and trying to persuade her to return to her room. I even stretched a point about the shooting; I feared that Genevieve would never forgive her for that. I said it had occurred—without intent—while struggling with her; which, after all, was perhaps not far from the truth.

"Why should Miss Belle have any reason for despising Alexander Burke?" I asked during our conference, for the girl's patent abhorrence of the fellow stuck in my mind.

Genevieve's expression became all at once very grave. For a moment she sat silent, toying with a plait of her skirt; then she looked up at me, saying soberly:

"It is one of the things that I should'nt talk about. Still—I don't know," she faltered. "It is Burke alone who has arouse her resentment." Then she decided.

"I will tell you this much: She overheard a conversation between him and her father. It filled her with loathing for the fellow—that and—and something else."

"I shall not try to force your confidence, my dear girl," I said. "Tell me only what you think you ought."

"Belle trusts me implicitly," she said simply.

"And I want her to continue to. The something that makes her loathe him—are you free to speak of that?"

"It's nothing; it's ridiculous." She laughed nervously. "He has tried to make love to her. Ugh! She shuddered at the idea.

"The dickens he has!"

Such a thought had never entered my head; it was impossible to imagine that slippery rascal in the role of an ardent lover. His blood was as cold as a fish's. But now I understood the fellow's animus toward Maillot; his hatred was inspired by jealousy. Belle had never spoken of the matter to Maillot—mortification was potent to hold this confidence in check—but he had instinctively distrusted and disliked Burke in return.

I could not bring myself to confide in my lovely coadjutor my convictions respecting her uncle. I learned that he had left the house that morning at an hour unusually early for him, and I thought at once of the queer memorandum on his calendar. He was still very much worried, declared Genevieve, and when at home kept more and more to himself as time went by. Mrs. Fluette was asleep after the night's ordeal with her daughter.

"If Royal were free to come after her," said Genevieve, not without some bitterness, "he could carry Belle away this very minute; there would be nobody to say him nay. Poor boy!"

"It is more than likely that he shall soon," I offered in dubious comfort.

"Do you know where your aunt and uncle were married?" I asked.

"Yes. It was in a little town in Ohio—"

"Merton," said I.

"That's it! But how did you know?"

I smiled at her surprise. "It's Felix Page's birth-place; the rest was inference."

She waited with ill-concealed curiosity for what was to follow. I found it necessary to hold her hands—both of them—while I told her.

"Would you mind making a journey there?—at once—to-day?"

Her eyes opened [illegible]; even her sweet lips parted; [illegible] she waited.

Building Floating Drydock.

Port Stanley, Ont., Dec. 15.—A floating drydock will be built in Port Stanley by Oscar C. Smith of the village, to provide facilities for the repair of vessels coming into port, as well as to care for the local fleet. Hitherto, owing to its absence, the boats had to go elsewhere to have their troubles attended to. The Tug Owners' Association will give financial assistance to the undertaking.

WHEN LINCOLN WAS SHOT.

Booth, Taking Advantage of Guard's Temporary Neglect, Rushed Through the Box Entrance and Accomplished His Deed.

When Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln and their party sat down in their box at Ford's Theatre the fateful night the President was shot, the guard who was acting as substitute for Col. McCook, took his position at the rear of the box, close to an entrance leading into the box from the dress circle of the theatre. His orders were to stand there, fully armed, and to permit no unauthorised person to pass into the box. His orders were to stand there and protect the President at all hazards. From the spot where he was thus stationed, this guard could not see the stage or the actors; but he could hear the words the actors spoke, and he became so interested in them that, incredible as it may seem, he quietly deserted his post of duty, and, walking down the dimly lighted aisle, deliberately took a seat in the last row of the dress circle. It was while the President was thus absolutely unprotected through this guard's amazing recklessness—to use no stronger words—that Booth rushed through the entrance to the box, just deserted by the guard, and accomplished his foul deed. Realization of his part in the assassination so preyed upon the mind of the guard that he finally died as a result of it.

CHINAMAN'S CURIOUS MISTAKE

In Chinese visiting etiquette the rank of the caller is denoted by the size of his card. Thus the visiting-card of a high mandarin would be an immense roll of paper, neatly tied up.

A gentleman who has travelled in China brought home a Chinese servant, and his wife soon after held a "reception." John Chinaman attended the door, and received with great disgust the small paste-boards of the visitors. Evidently with an opinion of his own of the low condition of his mistress's friends, he pitched the cards into a basket and with scant ceremony showed their owners into the drawing-room.

But presently the gas-man called with a bill—a big piece of cream-coloured paper. The "card" satisfied John. With deep reverence he received it. With low salaams he ushered the bearer not only into the drawing-room, but with profound bowings, to the dismay of the gasman and horror of the hostess, right up to the centre of the room, where the lady was receiving her distinguished guests; and then John, with another humble reverence, meekly retired, doubtless supposing that the owner of the card was a person of very high distinction.

All He Said.

A Chinaman was called as a witness in the police court of Los Angeles in the case of a driver who had run over a dog. The judge asked him what time it was when he saw the man run over the dog.

"Me no sabe," replied the witness.

"I say," repeated the judge, "what time was it when you saw the man run over the dog?"

"Me no sabe," repeated John, smiling blankly.

"We shall have to have an interpreter," commented his honour, as he realised that the witness did not understand English; and accordingly another Chinaman was hailed into court to act as interpreter. "Ask the witness," commanded the judge, "when he saw this man run over the dog."

The interpreter turned to his fellow countryman and said, "We chung lo, ho me choo lung wow, e-ho me no ehow chee, loo know so-loo bing gong tong yit ben."

To which the witness replied, "Wong lin kee, wo hoo, wing chong lung yue lee, kin sing, choy yoke coey ying inng ding wah, sling suey way san yick ling toy bing coey bow tsu, po long po gou hung mow kim quong quen lee chow yo ben tong."

The interpreter then turned to the judge and said, "Him say, 'Two o'clock.'"

WHAT DID HE MEAN?

"Two men got into a fight in front of the bank to-day," said a local tradesman at his family tea-table, "and I tell you it looked pretty nasty for one of them. The bigger one seized a great stick and brandished it. I felt that he was going to knock the other's brains out, and I jumped in between them."

The family had listened with rapt attention, and as the head paused in his narrative, the young heir, whose respect for his father's bravery is immeasurable, proudly remarked:

"He couldn't knock any brains out of you, could he, father?"

The head of the family gazed long and earnestly at the heir, as if to detect evidence of a dawning humorist; but, as the youth continued with great innocence to munch his bread and butter, he gasped and resumed his tea.

Proper Table Manners.

Teach the little one table manners as soon as he can sit at the table and handle a spoon, says an exchange. Nothing forms so complete a dividing line between well-bred and ill-bred people as their manners at table. Eating in company with others should be taught as a festival, not merely for the gratification of appetite. Many a child whose education at home has been neglected has suffered untold mortification when making mistakes in company in the little etiquettes of the table.

A STRANGE PETITION

By Agnes Thomas

Once upon a time there lived, in Denmark, a little boy whose name was Hans. His father, who was dead, had been one of the King's foresters, and his mother still lived in the cottage on the edge of the forest where Hans and his two little sisters had been born. They were very poor, for their mother could only make a little money by knitting stockings, which were sold in the town of Z——, about four miles off. Hans, who was ten years old, was glad to get odd jobs to do for a neighbouring farmer, such as leading the cows to and from the pasture, carrying water from the spring to the house, or frightening the birds from the farmer's grain. He was a bright, industrious little fellow who loved to be useful, but his great desire was to go to school, so as to become a schoolmaster when he was grown up.

In the winter his mother fell ill, and for several weeks could earn no money. Hans did what he could, but if it had not been for the kindness of the farmer's wife the little family in the forest but would well-nigh have starved to death. Many a time the boy asked the good woman what he could do to earn more money, but she seemed to think he was too young to leave home, and told him to wait till he was older.

One day the farmer brought home great news from Z——. A fine new bridge was to be finished next month, and the King himself was coming to open it. There were no railways in those days, and the King would drive from Copenhagen to Z—— in his own carriage. The road ran through the farm, and all the people, the farmer said, must be prepared to salute His Majesty as he passed.

Hans ran off at once to tell the great news to his mother, and just as he came in sight of the hut a sudden thought jumped into his mind, and it was such a great and surprising thought that he gave a little leap in the air, and burst out laughing. The thought was this, "Why should I not ask the King to help mother?"

Now, Hans had never seen the King but he had often heard that he was a very kind and good man. He was always thinking of what he could do to make his people better and happier, and he was very charitable to the poor. So our little boy, as he skipped along the forest path, was quite sure that if His Majesty knew his troubles he would help him.

He took a week to think it over, for he felt it would be wiser not to tell his plan to anyone, lest he should be forbidden to carry it out. He decided that the proper thing to do was to present a petition to the King as he drove past the farm. And, as he was a very small boy, he thought it would be wise to make the petition as large as possible. He had neither paper, nor pens, nor ink, and he knew that he could not borrow any without saying why he wanted them. After a great deal of thought he slipped into his mother's room one day when she was asleep, and, opening the chest where the house linen was kept, he took out a pillowslip. It was of coarse linen, but very white from many bleachings in the sun. Upon this Hans wrote in large letters with a piece of burned wood — "Please, Your Majesty, Help Mother."

Carrying it very carefully on the morning of the great day, he ran across the fields to a part of the road where he knew no one else would be, and, sitting down under the hedge, he waited.

By-and-by he heard a sound of cheering, and knew that the cavalcade was passing the farm. Then he heard the trampling of horses' feet and the rumbling of wheels, and suddenly round the bend of the road came the gleam of bright harness and the colours of brilliant uniforms. A company of soldiers came first, and behind them the King's carriage drawn by four horses, with officers riding on each side. Hans waited till the soldiers had passed, then he sprang up and running into the road, held up his petition with both hands, in full sight of the King, quite hiding himself from view.

His Majesty stared for a moment, and then cried—"Halt! What's this?" An officer with a long grey moustache pulled up his horse, and saluted.

"May it please Your Majesty, I think it's a pillow-slip."

The King lay back in his carriage and laughed heartily.

"A pillow-slip, General? But what's on it?"

Now, the General was a kind old gentleman who had grandchildren of his own, and he had caught sight of little Hans's face. The tears were running down it from pure excitement. So the General said:—

"May it please Your Majesty, there's a boy behind it, and I think he's in distress."

"Dear, dear!" said the King; "that is serious. Let me see him."

So the General took the petition from Hans, and the little fellow clasped his hands and gazed anxiously at the King.

"What's your name, boy?" said the latter.

"Hans Petersen, Your Majesty."

"I had a forester of that name," said the King, "who was killed by the fall of a tree."

"It was my father, sire," said Hans, "and my mother's ill and we've no money, and I want to go to school, and the farmer's wife is very kind to us."

"This should have been seen to before," said the King, "but I'll attend to it when I pass this way to-morrow, boy."

And, as you may believe, he saw to it very well, for he gave the poor woman a pension and a house in Z—— to live in, so that Hans and his sisters could go to school. The boy grew up good and clever, and in time became a learned professor in the great University of Copenhagen.

SOFA RUGS

During the colder months the afternoon nap and the sofa rug are so closely associated that the one seems impossible without the other, although many people object to sofa rugs on the score of appearance. Many recent specimens are made of fleecy wood, light of weight, and in the prettiest pale shades, richly embroidered in bold design in self-coloured and contrasting silks; others are of plain satin, wadded and handsomely embroidered at the corners and in the centre. Although made of practically the same materials as are elder-downs, these sofa rugs are quite distinctive in appearance.

One very dainty home-made sofa rug was built up of patchwork squares. Each "patch" was in reality a four-inch-square bag, duly wadded with vegetable down. When a sufficient number of thees padded squares was made, they were simply seamed neatly together side by side. The maker had made a special purchase of "patchworks" from a silk merchant — a matter easily arranged — with the result that the rug was a collection of charming "patches" of bright brocades, silks, and satins.

Get Breakfast on Time

Punctuality is one of the chief rules in a well-ordered home — whether it be a small or large house. Meals must be prepared and served at the pre-arranged hour. Especially does this apply to breakfast in order that husband may have time to make a good meal before going to business. Much more depends on this than the average young wife can realise. If a man is compelled to hurry off to town with only a cup of coffee or a "scramble" through some imperfectly cooked dish, he will feel the need of something before noon, and this something may take the form of stimulants. Therefore, let there be no carelessness or delay over the first meal.

Unless quite unavoidable, never be from home when your husband returns from work or business. This is one of the special duties you undertook when you married him. On those rare occasions when you may be obliged to go out, leave his meal ready for him to take, and if this does not often occur and he is a good natured man, he will not grumble.

An Attempt to "Crinoline."

The vogue for narrow dresses has for some time past caused loss — it is alleged — to cloth manufacturers, and more than once or twice there have been rumours that the excessively wide skirt was about to be introduced in company with the old-time crinoline.

At last something in the crinoline line has made its appearance in England. But it has little in common with its ancestor except its stiffness. The new crinoline is, in fact, nothing worse than a stiffening of the skirt hem, the skirt itself being the present normal width. The balloon-like appearance expected is entirely absent from the crinoline models now on view, though those but mark the cautious beginnings of the dreaded revival. What Fashion has power to induce one to do of course "you never can tell," but it is difficult to believe that we ever can be persuaded to go back to the full-blown crinoline, which had neither use nor beauty to recommend it.

Edith—"There is one thing in particular that I like George for. He always tells me of my faults without the least hesitation. That was the agreement I caused him to make." Bertha—"Tell me some of the faults he has found in you." Edith—"Oh, he hasn't found any yet. When I ask him to name them he always says I'm faultless."

TIT FOR TAT!

(By Ada Thomas).

(Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd)

Arriving home, after spending an evening with a married friend, Jack Merriman felt the loneliness of bachelorhood for the first time.

Jack had reached fifty, and only now had the desire for companionship come upon him in one fell swoop. His friend's wife was fluffy haired, tinkled the piano agreeably, lisped plaintive songs in a minor key, and set him thinking of the romantic side of life.

"I'll advertise," said he, being strictly a business man. "Must be musical," he wrote, "of cheerful disposition. Means not necessary, but desirable." Then he signed himself "Lonely," directed it to a matrimonial paper, and posted it with his own hands.

There were many aspirants—and some painfully eager—but it was the one signed "Blushing" that impressed him most.

Jack liked the tone. It sounded fresh and girlish, with a dash of straightforwardness that others lacked. He arranged an interview, still signing his nom de plume, "Lonely," in a railway waiting room.

Shortly after eight a lady answering to the description given peered in at the open door, but, seeing Jack, fled hastily, yet not before he had caught sight of her tell-tale violets. He pursued and caught up to her just as she was making a rapid exit into Raleigh avenue.

"I beg your pardon," he said, touching her on the shoulder, "but are you 'Blushing'?"

"Yes," she answered, timidly: and, indeed, she was for her dimpled cheeks betrayed it.

"I am lonely," he explained, "or rather, I was until you came." Then they both laughed and felt more at ease. That evening was a revolation to Jack. Before the night was over she had confided to him her history.

A pretty little wedding at a church in Parmington consummated their happiness, but before the ceremony took place Ettie made a request. "I want to hold my position a few weeks longer. May I?" she pleaded.

Open in all her dealings, on one point she had remained obdurate—that was withholding the name and address of her employer. "You will know one day," she constantly assured Jack, and one day, sure enough, he did.

In her little square cage in an office, perched on a high stool, sat Ettie one hot afternoon. There was a temporary lull, and the tired, white faced assistants were listlessly moving to and fro re-arranging their departments, whilst the sauve shop walker strutted round like an irate turkey cock.

"Now, Miss Morse, hurry up and put that dress material away. You seem to be half asleep." He turned to another. "Why did you let that lady go without a purchase?"

"We had nothing in stock to match her ribbon, sir," answered the girl, penitently.

"Bosh" he cried rudely, then stopped to whisper something to a lady more favored, who was lolling on the counter. It was an unwholesome scene, and one that Ettie had witnessed from her point of vantage many times.

Cranford, the shop walker, was one of that low type that uses his authority for a base end, so girls came and went in quick succession, and it was an open secret why so many proved unsatisfactory.

Ettie had turned in loathing from the man's advances, so he had bided his time for revenge. Now it had come, and seizing this slack moment he marched up to her desk with a triumphant leer.

"You know the rules, and you've been late two mornings this week. Instantly dismissed by rights, but I'll give you till Saturday to clear out." Ettie slid on to the floor from her perch, and, opening the office door, turned to face him.

"You will give me till Saturday. Then let me tell you, coward, bully and libertine, that you are, it is you who will go, not I, but instead of waiting till Saturday you go now."

Rage held him speechless for a moment, then he advanced threateningly towards her just as a newcomer arrived on the scene.

Ettie gave a start of glad surprise, and went to meet—her husband. He started back in bewilderment, then a light broke in—he understood.

"I have had to discharge that man for his insolence, Jack," she said, pointing at the crestfallen shop walker. "My husband or I will pay the salary due to you as soon as your luggage is packed and you are ready to go," she concluded, walking past him to her office with the air of a queen. The man slunk away as Jack clinched her peremptory order with a decisive nod.

That same evening, as Ettie sat at her piano playing a soothing melody, and Jack was desecrating the atmosphere with a fat cigar, she stopped to say: "Do you remember how I ran away from you at the station?"

"Perfectly well. I imagine you recognized me."

"Yes, dear." A slight pause. "But you don't know how glad I am you ran after me."

"So am I, darling."

"I suppose you think it was silly of me to go on working in your shop, hiding my identity and all that sort of thing?"

"Rather."

"But it wasn't." She rose and sat down on the rug by his knee. "It was just lovely to go each day, knowing it was my darling old hubby's shop, and that no earthly power could sack me—to see that silly beast of a shop walker watching his opportunity to discharge me, and know all the time that I could afford to laugh at him—I felt so safe, so deliciously safe."

"Ettie, you're crying." He drew her face towards him and looked anxiously into her glittering eyes.

"Yes, dear, but not for myself—only for those I have left behind."

GENERAL MILES PRAISES CHINESE

War Always Unpopular with the Chinese but they are a Brave People but Nothing Can Stop Revolution.

(Special Cable Service.)

In some respects, China was to me the most interesting country I have ever had the pleasure of visiting. In their ancient civilization we find much that we could adopt with benefit, and still more that has been obsolete for centuries.

Ages ago China passed through some of the experiences that now interest or agitate our people. The controversies between capital and labor and the unequal distribution of wealth were problems in which they were concerned thousands of years ago. As a race they have encouraged industry, art, science and literature. Compared with some other people, their integrity has been proverbial.

GENERAL MILES

It was my good fortune, in 1902, to have the opportunity of seeing the different sections of China, as well as visiting the principal cities of Hong Kong, Canton, Tsiensin, Pekin, and other important places. A marked contrast is noticeable between that and our country.

During my sojourn in that country nine years ago I found the leading men greatly exercised concerning the threatened dismemberment of their country. Ostensibly for the purpose of obtaining spheres of commercial influence, Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and Japan had all acquired control of certain portions of Chinese territory, and it seemed only a question of time when their nation would disappear from the map of the world.

China owes her existence today partly to the fact that two of the aggressive powers became involved in war over a certain portion of her territory.

To realize how far the absorption of that country had extended, one needed only to visit Hong Kong and see the formidable fortification defending the entrance to the harbor—the powerful fleet of battleships, the palace of the governor general and the 5,000 trained, disciplined, veteran (English) troops, all under a foreign flag. Similar occupation could be observed in other parts of the empire.

For hundreds of years war and the military profession has been unpopular with the Chinese people. They abhor the first and if possible would always avoid the latter. Their army now consists of approximately 160,000 men, and the government has recently been endeavoring to increase this number to 350,000.

That great empire of 430,000,000 people is now quaking like the tremors of the earth. From the center to the remotest quarter of that vast territory a political convulsion and revolution is affecting all its conditions and attracting the attention of the world. What will be the result — how far reaching will be its influence, or to what extent it will affect the 400,000,000 of the human race in other countries of the orient, it is impossible now to determine.

"As It Was in the Beginning."

When William Pengelly was a sailor boy, weather-bound on the coast of Devonshire, he had his earliest geological experience, and Mr. S. Baring-Gould says he was wont to relate it as is printed below:

I received my first lesson in geology at Lyme Regis very soon after I had entered my teens. A laborer, whom I was observing, accidentally broke a small stone of blue lias and thus disclosed a fine ammonite—the first fossil I had ever seen or heard of.

"What's that?" I exclaimed.

"If you read your Bible you'd know what 'tis," said the workman, somewhat scornfully.

"I have read my Bible. But what has that to do with it?"

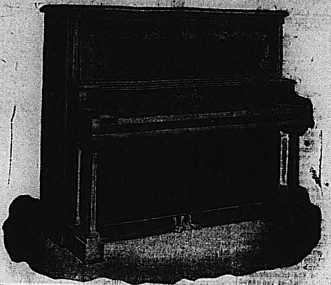
"In the Bible we're told there was once a flood that covered the whole world. At that time all the rocks were mud, and the different things that were drowned were buried in it, and there's a snake that was buried that way. There are lots of 'em, and other things besides, in the rocks and stones hereabouts."

"A snake! But where's his head?"

"You must read your Bible, I tell 'ee, and then you'll find out why 'tis some of the snakes ain't got no heads. We're told there that the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head; that's how 'tis."

KOHLER and CAMPBELL PIANOS

Over 130,000 Now IN Use !



Over 100 Already Placed in Houses in Belleville District

Kohler & Campbell Pianos are made to satisfy the big demand for a piano of real musical excellence and artistic appearance, at a price within the purse-reach of the majority of the people.

It is utterly impossible for anyone to realize the economical manufacturing strength of the Kohler & Campbell organization, without a clear idea of its enormous manufacturing facilities. To the average man a piano factory is merely a factory—a place where pianos are made. Yet there is the greatest difference in the world, On one hand you have a plant, which, on account of its great production, can make and sell its pianos for far less than the other factory. And on the other hand you might have a very smrll factory, which, while it produces a good instrument, one a very small capacity, and its piano for piano production costs are considerably higher than those of the larger plant. That is why you find has manufacturer selling his pianos for $400.00 to $600.00, while we market pianos of the same grade for $235.00 to $350.00.

"The Home Piano of America"

"The Home of the K. & C Piano"

In order that the people of Belleville might have a clearer idea of the extent of the great Kohler & Campbell Factories and the economies of production in great quantities, Mr. Leo Riggs, who daily plays the $75,000 Pipe Organ (the largest in America) at Hotel Astor, New York, was instructed to visit the manufacturing plant and record his impressions.

Under date of November 28th, 1911, Mr. Riggs forwarded the following letter to his father:

MY DEAR FATHER:

I met Mr. Simpson, of the Kohler & Campbell Co., yesterday. On learning of our relationsoip he insisted that I go over and see their factory. I am glad I did, because I was certainly surprised and delighted. I only wish you could run down to New York and see for yourself just how they do things. I do not wonder now why there are so many happy and satisfied owners of these pianos.

What impressed me most was the great stock carried in their factory. They have nearly 10,000 pianos uncompleted on their floors at all times. I am sure this explains just how pianos of K. & C. excellence can be sold at so low a price. They use such large quantities of material that they can buy very cheaply. Thep have a wonderful system in manufacturing. There is a separate department for each part of the piano and the checking of the work is so perfect that it is impossible for any imperfect piece of work to pass unnoticed in its travels from one department to another.

I also found the same extraordinary conditions at the Aetopiano Plant which adjoins that of K. & C.

Time will not permit to tell you in detail of all I saw. In closing let me say that I have owned one of these pianos for two years. At the end of that time it is in beautiful condition, and you know I give it some good hard work. If prospective purchasers of pianos knew just how these pianos are made and their real lasting qualities, there would be no hesitation on their part in selecting a Kohler & Campbell. Hoping you are doing the business of your life,

Affectionately Your Son,

CHRISTMAS APPEAL
FOR
The Hospital for Sick Children

Dear Mr. Editor,—

Thanks for your kindness in allowing me the privilege of appealing at this Christmas time on behalf of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

I make this direct appeal to the people of Ontario, for the fathers and mothers of Ontario, outside the City of Toronto, have precisely the same claim for their sick children as regards the privileges of the Hospital, as parents who reside in this city.

In brief the sick children from any place in Ontario whose parents cannot afford to pay, is, on certificate from a municipal officer of any city, town village or township, treated free.

This is a privilege not granted by any Hospital in the Dominion, or on this Continent.

Let me, in a few words, state that in the last 20 years, since 1891, there have been 4,731 patients from 450 places outside of this city treated free, as the parents were unable to pay for treatment. Last year 384 patients from 234 places outside Toronto were so treated.

The Hospital is not a city but a Provincial institution. The Corporation of Toronto grants $18,000, not only for city children, but towards the maintenance of every patient in the Hospital, and the citizens of Toronto donate an average of $10,000 to the maintenance fund of the Hospital.

It would take more space than you can spare to tell of the good work done for the sick and deformed children of this Province.

Why, in the Orthopedic department in 20 years, nearly 700 children, boys and girls, have been treated for club feet, and about 600 were corrected. Two-thirds of these came from places outside of Toronto, from parents who could not afford to pay.

Surely we have a fair claim for help from the people of this Province.

Every day is Christmas to the child whose little life is saved, or whose crippled limb is straightened with the might of money—your money—and the mercy of the Hospital.

Will you, the reader of this letter think of what your dollar will do? It helps to restore health and strength, and gives sound limbs and straight feet to crippled boys and girls.

You give wealth to the Hospital, and the Hospital gives health to the children.

Yes, your money can put golden hinges on the door of the Hospital's mercy.

Will you, kind reader, help us and send a spare dollar to Douglas Davidson, the secretary-treasurer of the Hospital, or

J ROSS ROBERTSON,
Chairman of the Trustees, Toronto.

$3.50 Recipe Free For Weak Kidneys

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Stops Pain inthe Bladder Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forhead and the back-of-the-head-aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing mucle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a QUICK RECOVERY, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this Dr. A. E. Robinson, K1793 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope, as you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

NEW RACE TRACK

Surveyors Hard at Work Laying Out Lines for the Promoters.

Although it has not yet been definitely settled as to when the first sod will be turned, so to speak, for the race track at New Westminster, there are signs that this operation will not now be long delayed. Surveyors have in the past few days been busy preparing plans which will be submitted to the principal stockholders in the concern, which was first mooted some months ago, when many of the chief sportsmen of the Royal City signified their intention of assisting financially in the purchase of the pocket of land which lies over the Fraser bridge, and which is immediately outside the city limits.

The intention of those back of the project is to form an organisation which will control a series of meets throughout the summer months on dates which will not conflict with the meetings at Minoru Park in this city. Application will be made at an early date to the racing authorities for the necessary permit and affiliation, and although there are many who venture to suggest that there will be a surfeit of racing should the New Westminster venture go through to a successful issue, sportsmen of the smaller city welcome the scheme as by its means many visitors will be brought to that place and money will circulate more freely.

The track of land is situated in an ideal spot for such an enclosure, and with capital train and an augmented car service, success is almost bound to attend the innovation.

Enlightening the Fan

"What," asked a baseball fan of Hughie Jennings, the Detroit baseball manager, whose antics on the coaching-lines are familiar to all who watch American League games—"What does it mean when you reach down and pick up blades of grass, as you frequently do when you are coaching?"

"Why," replied Jennings, "that is simple enough. If I pick one blade of grass and hold it up to the batter, that means he is to make a single, two blades mean a two-base hit, three blades a three-bagger and four blades a home run."

"But," persisted the fan, "what does it mean when you throw both hands in the air and yell: 'E-e-yan!'?"

"Why," replied Jennings, "that means we are in a tight place and the batter is to use his own judgment as to the kind of a hit he will select."

YANKS COCKSURE OF WINNING

Yankee sporting writers are just as certain that their Athletes will win at the Olympic games, to be held next summer, as their political writers were sure a few months ago that reciprocity would win in Canada. In prophesying, two courses offer safety. One is to prophesy after the facts by the good old method of saying, "I told you so." The other is to prophesy so far in advance that when the event transpires your prophesy will be forgotten if it happens to be wrong which will likely be the case.

COULON LIKES TO TEAR IN.

Johnny Coulon doesn't like the idea of the New York Boxing Commission enforcing a clean break in all matches held in the Empire State. Coulon, one of t[illegible]leverest of boxers, likes to be able [illegible]ear in whenever he feels like it. [illegible]ently the rough and tumble variety, for whom the restriction was aimed, are not the only ones who will be handicapped. Ad. Wolgast is another who undoubtedly looks with disfavor on the ruling.

ZBYSCO SHOULD BEAT CHAMPION

Has Best Trick Holds of All His Opponents and Few of His Own.

"Europeans as a rule, outside of the Turk, do not know much about the catch-as-catch-can wrestling game," says Dr. Roller; "and even if they are taught it, when they first come to this side, they rarely, if ever, make a success of it. But in this connection, as well as in regard to other matters, it takes the exception to prove the rule. When I say this, I have in mind Stanislaus Zbysco, who is today, without the slightest doubt, one of the best catch-as-catch-can men on the mat. He has learned the game since first coming to this country. From the very first time he came here he has made this style of wrestling a study, for he is a good thinker, this same Zbysco. He has as many tricks as any wrestling man today, and they are all good. He has perfected the best holds and tricks of Gotch, of Westergards, of Americus, of Bull, and surprising to say, the last time I wrestled with him he pulled off a couple of "good ones" that I thought were my exclusive property. He is a tremendously powerful fellow, and without doubt a great wrestler."

BEST SPRINTER IN DIXIE

JOHN ST. PAUL

St. Paul is one of the few sprinters who has not been touted to smash Arthur Duffy's 9 4-5 seconds. He has repeatedly negotiated the hundred in 10 1-5 however and his sensational performance in the Southern championships when he led the field in easy style, stamped him as a high class performer.

St. Paul's showing is chiefly due to the coaching of Frank T. Gormley, athletic director of the Young Man's Gymnastic club, of New Orleans who discovered St. Paul winning school boy meets with ease two years ago. He saw so much in the boy that he arranged to coach him.

Winning four sprints in one afternoon, in successive years is a performance an athlete may be proud of and it is something St. Paul has done. His victories were in the 50, 100, 220 and 440 yards events. His initial quadruple victory last year was hailed as a fluke, by well informed individuals but when he repeated last June his critics were silenced.

St. Paul's development in two years is remarkable and much of his success is due to the efforts of Coach Gormley to get him away from the mark running, something every sprinter must master if he hopes to be a champion.

St. Paul weighs 136 and stands five feet six inches.

BOXING

The cables from dear old London, dontyerknow, dear old chappie, have been burning up the juice with the blood curdling details of how the British leaders in the fistic game were losing hold of the titles to Frenchmen and Americans, and lovers of the padded mitt sport in these parts were completely at sea and floundering about wondering just what was what. eLt these following lines help clear the air:

Harry Josephs, better known as Young Josephs, who won the Lord Lonsdale belt at the welterweight limit — 158 pounds — by defeating Jack Goldswain at the National Sporting Club, London, met and was decisively chewed up by George Carpentier, of Paris, France, who was up until a comparatively few months ago, unknown in the world of boxing. Josephs, whose name denotes his Jewish origin, is without a shadow of a doubt the best at 158 in the mother country, certainly underrated the Gallic foeman, and in the result had to give in after ten rounds had been fiercely contested.

WAKE UP CANADA

Is Canada sending a team to Europe next Spring?

Johnnie Hayes

I BELIEVE there are lots of boys back home who could have done the same thing if they had trained as I did," said Johnnie Hayes after winning the brilliantly run Marathon at the London Olympic game in 1908.

Johnnie was right. But to do what Johnnie did requires a world of ambition and hard work, especially if the lad who wants to go after a record has to labor at such a prosaic thing as clerking in a store, like Johnnie did.

At the last games Canadians came away with a good share of the prizes, but we fell down on some mighty important events. For instance Walker of South Africa, took the 100 meter (109.3 yards). Could you go better than 10 4-5 seconds, the winner's time? Could you train up to that?

We lost everything in the five mile race; Voight of England, landed the first; Owen of England, second, and Svanberg of Sweden, third.

Then Larner, also of England, walked away with two firsts, in the 3500 meter walk and in the ten-mile walk. Not only did we lose the firsts in those two events, but the seconds and thirds also. The hop-step-and-jump went the wrong way, too. Not a point for Canada.

The Greeks and Swedes beat us out in both of the javelin throwing stunts. France, England and Germany divided up the bicycle races.

The Britishers — women, too — put the eternal kibosh on us in the archery contests.

Have we no good wrestlers in all Canada? Rei[illegible]skow, Bacon, Kelly, of England and Gunderson of Norway cashed in [illegible] every amateur wrestling bout except one.

ENGLISH WEIGHT SCALE BAD FOR AMERICANS.

A proposal has been made by certain Gotham sportsmen to have the New York State athletic commission adopt a review scale of weights which would raise the scaling marks for all classes to conform with those set forth by the National sporting club of London. They tried this game in the east on several occasions, but other selections of the country in which boxing flourished failed to respond with enthusiasm and the scheme fell through.

The English system is to weigh in at 2 o'clock and weights are as follows: Bantam limit, 118; feather, 126; light, 135; welter, 148; middleweight, 160. Imagine Johnny Coulon being obliged to scale 118 at 2 o'clock, when he can go lighter than 115 pounds ringside if necessary. Abe Attell goes out of his class frequently to meet lightweights in 10-round bouts, but when his title is in question he holds strictly to the 122-ringside limit, as was evidenced when he recently refused to meet Jose Rivers unless the Mexican made that figure.

Wolgast can do 128 at 3 o'clock if needful. If the proposed new ruling be adopted he would find himself pitted again men who would enter the ring weighing easily 140 pounds. There are scores of youngsters fighting their way up the ladder who would be handicapped in like fashion.

Joins the Irish-Americans

Le Roy Dorland, former captain of the Pastime Athletic Club, and holder of the 200-yard indoor record, has been expelled from the club at which he developed into one of America's greatest runners and hurdlers.

For several months Dorland had not been in good standing in his club. Several times he asked for his release, only to be refused, and piqued by this he competed unattached. This earned the wrath of the officials of the club, and they preferred charges against him, with the result that when the meeting was held every one present but Harry Smith, the captain of the club, voted to expel him. Smith was present, but refused to vote. Dorland took his expulsion gracefully. In fact he seemed pleased.

Dorland has been in the athletic game for five years. He has won many titles. Besides the Pastime A. C. he was a member of the Seventy-first Regiment. Before developing into a champion both the New York A. C. and the Irish-American A. C. tried to get him for their club. Each time he refused. He is now a member of the latter club.

The First Importation

Barney Joy, who was secured from Boston as a recruit to the 1912 pitching staff of the Spokane team in the Northwestern league, has the distinction of being the first player imported for an organized club in the United States. Joy was burning up the platter in Honolulu five years ago, when Long of San Francisco sent a scout to the crossroads of the Pacific, with the result that he was signed to play with the Seals. He was in good form during the first few months, but "petered" toward the end of the season and was sent adrift by the manager. Two years afterward he showed his mettle and his second trial resulted in a sale to Boston. While with the Seals in San Francisco Joy had Charlie Street, now with the Washington team, at the receiving end. Joy is a veritable giant in size and has remarkable speed and a lot of other things, including control. He will report for practice early next spring. Manager Cohn has every confidence in the native-born Hawaiian and expects to get good service from him.

ACADIANS AND DOUKHOBORS

Two Communities, Whose Praises Were Sung by Longfellow and Tolstoy, Who Are Settled Happily in Canada. To-Day.

The years 1605 and 1632 saw two considerable migrations from Normandy and Brittany to the peninsula since christened Nova Scotia, which for a long time subsequently formed a part of New France. These people were not fugitives of any description, neither the law requiring them nor persecution driving them. They formed a colony under their own Government's rule. They were farmers, with a desire to obtain freehold property and a life of peace and quietness. Their name resulted from the description of the Indians around, who designated any cultivated place as Kady. These people were comparatively few in number, for about a century after emigration their total population was computed at about two thousand. Things went fairly well at first, for they made excellent friends of the Indians in the vicinity, the Micmacs by name. Later, however, came the subjugation of the French in Canada by the English, and the latter's complete possession. Then it became necessary for these simple folks to take full measures and precautions for self-maintenance; as it turned out they were unmolested for forty years, no English settlement being formed in Acadia during that time. Eventually, however, the inevitable took place; the English settled at last, and founded the town of Halifax, and the disaffected Acadians had to undergo the bitter experience of deportation.

The Doukhobors

To turn our thoughts in another direction, we find the Doukhobors. These strange people differ considerably from the Acadians, the first and foremost reason being that they are now a scattered race, parts of which can be found in various Canadian States. Again, their nationality is different, for they are the descendants of Russian emigrants of the peasant class; and lastly, the cause of their emigration was in total contrast to that of the Acadians. In the reign of Catherine II, the Doukhobors, who are a religious sect entirely opposed to militarism, and in favour of a doctrine of non-resistance, could still not be induced to conform with the conscription laws of their country, the which had been the case for a considerable period previously; the ruler in question, however, considered persecution an unwise procedure, so that any sufferings the Doukhobors underwent were purely private. After the accession of Paul the plan was changed, and in 1799 persecution with the cognizance of the State commenced. Alexander I. reverted to the policy of Catherine and permitted the sect to form a settlement of their own at "Milky Waters," near the Sea of Azof. Thus the Doukhobors became an industrial and economic community, as well as merely religious. Unfortunately they failed to give complete satisfaction to the Government, and were transported to the Caucasus. Still, owing to their anti-militarist attitude, persecution followed them. After this a small detachment emigrated to Cyprus, whilst in 1898 permission to leave Russia for Canada was granted by the Government with somewhat stringent conditions.

THE PROGRESS MADE IN KOREA

Japanese Have Made Great Improvements in New Territory Recently Acquired.

Since the Japanese took over the control of Korea they have opened there 133 primary schools; 83 sericulture training schools; 21 training schools for weaving; 13 sericultural workshops; 8 training schools for the manufacture of paper 3 fishery training schools; 37 seeding nurseries; 4 mulberry farms; 8 common industrial workships; 7 industrial apprentice schools; and 4 industrial training houses. State aid has also been given to 217 other schools, established by public or private enterprise. Five hundred miles of common roads have been completed, and fourteen hundred miles more, to cost $5,000,000, are under construction. Telegraph offices have been opened at twenty additional places; ten more telephone exchanges have been established; and eight hundred miles of new telephone line will shortly be added to the long-distance system. The postal service has been greatly improved, and the routes now covered by a daily mail service amount in the aggregate to more than a thousand miles. Harbor improvements, to cost more than $4,000,000, are under way at Chemulpo, Chinnampo, and Fusan, and when they are completed steamers of the largest size will be able to receive and discharge cargo without lighterage at any of these ports. A free public hospital has been erected in every province of Korea, and in the first five months of the present year the number of patients treated in these hospitals was eighty-nine thousand.

Varying Colors of Flames.

The varying colors of flames as they appear in a wood fire are due to combustion of the elements of the fuel. The light blue flames are due to the hydrogen, the white to carbon, the violet to manganese, the red to magnesia and the yellow to soda.

The greatest kind of Christmas present the greatest Christmas present of its kind, the Edison Phonograph

a gift for ALL the family, a gift for ALL the year, and for ALL the years to come

THINK of the money that is thrown away on trifles at Christmas time—the candy that is eaten, the toys that are broken, the Christmas cards that are merely glanced at and thrown away. What have you to show for last year's Christmas?

Now think of the Edison Phonograph—the gift of a lifetime, that brings to every member of your family all of the very kind of entertainment each prefers—not merely for a day or a year, but for always. That's what makes the Edison the greatest kind of gift.

The Edison brings you the four great advantages which you should look for in a sound-reproducing instrument, and which you will find only in the Edison—exactly the right volume of sound for your home; the sapphire reproducing point, which does not scratch or wear the records and lasts forever—no changing of needles; Amberol Records, which play twice as long as the ordinary records, rendering each composition completely, the ability to make and reproduce your own records, in your own home, just as true to life as the records made in our laboratory.

That's what makes the Edison Phonograph the greatest gift of its kind.

There are Edison dealers everywhere. Go to the nearest and hear the Edison Phonograph play both Edison Standard and Edison Amberol Records. Get complete catalogs from your dealer or from us. Edison Phonographs, $16.50 to $240.00. Edison Standard Records, 40c. Edison Amberol Records (play twice as long), 65c. Edison Grand Opera Records, 85c to $2.50.

ILLUSTRATION OF PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

The United States Government is Running Department Stores, Hotels and a Steamship Line in Panama.

The United States government, as everybody knows, is engaged in building as a public enterprise, a canal across the Isthmus of Panama. What the world does not generally understand is that as part of this operation the government is also running lines of railway, a departmental store, hotels and a steamship line. At this government departmental store it is possible to buy almost everything, including ladies' patent leather shoes, briar pipes, teething rings for babies, sugared almonds etc. No less than fifteen hotels are operated, besides 18 mess halls. During one month these places served nearly 1,000,000 meals all told.

This has led a writer to suggest the possibility of the United States government developing Alaska by means of railways operated by the government itself.

Does not what has been accomplished suggest something more—the possibility of solving the trust problem by means of public ownership? It seems futile to talk of going back to the old days of small industries and free competition. The economy in large operations is something the public will not readily consent to surrender. Neither does it seem altogether easy to solve the problem by public control of corporations. The only easy way out would seem to be going the whole length and providing for public operation, something which does not, in view of what is being accomplished in Panama, appear so very difficult after all.

Too Easy For Prisoners.

London, Dec. 15.—Dr. R. W. Bruce-Smith, inspector of prisons, has filed his report of his inspection of the jail with Sheriff Cameron.

The report states that the amount of work provided for the prisoners is not sufficient, and that there is altogether too much idleness. Governor Carter explains in this connection that the prisoners who were not at work were either those on remand or those sentenced to serve terms in the Central Prison.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Ezra Teaches the Law. Neh viii. Golden Text—The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul. Ps. xix:7.

(1) Verses 1-5—What can be said for, or against, the churches in the community uniting at least once a year in a camp meeting, with no other object but to quicken spiritual life and get sinners converted?

(2) Where was this great meeting of the Jews held, and what was its object?

(3) What answer would you make to the statement that it is the duty of the churches in large centres to have street meetings?

(4) What results will surely follow, when all the people are eager to have the law of God read to them?

(5) How long did the first meeting last?

(6) There is a general demand for short sermons; what is this a sign of? Is it poor or uninteresting preaching, or a growing lack of spirituality on the part of the preachers or people, or what?

(7) Verses 6-7—What is the more becoming and natural in public worship, and why, the hushed silence which generally prevails with us, or hearty and glad responses as in this case?

(8) If our public prayers were more of the "and Ezra blessed the Lord" type, out of jubilant hearts; how long would it take to get the people to respond as these worshippers did?

(9) Ezra had at least fourteen helpers besides the Levites, to assist him in explaining the law, each no doubt having a class to himself; what resemblance is this to modern Bible Classes?

(10) Why is it that there is not the same realized obligation resting upon church members to attend classes where the Bible is studied, as to attend the regular church service?

(11) Is our present method of oratorical and textual preaching a success as a teaching agency? Give your reasons.

(12) Verse 8—What agency, other than the Bible School, is there in the Christian Church of which it can be said, "So they read the book .. and caused them to understand the reading"?

(13) Verses 9-11—What made the people weep so much?

(14) Why have sinners a reason to weep, when the word of God is brought home to them?

(15) When we, by the grace of God, have put ourselves in harmony with God's law, is it right for us to weep over our past sins?

(16) Why is it a duty, as well as a privilege, for us to rejoice and be glad?

(17) Is it still right for us, and why, to hold feasts and banquets, and get joy out of eating and drinking? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(18) Verse 12.—What provision is being made to-day for feeding and clothing the poor?

(19) Verses 13-18—Is preaching or singing, or praying, or study of the Bible, in tents occasionally, likely to be more effectual than under usual circumstances?

(20) Should it, or not, and why, be the aim to have every religious meeting produce "very great gladness"?

Woman's World

BE YOURSELF

It has been said that nothing is so rare in people as a thought of their own. Most of us adopt the thoughts of other people. The practice appeals alike to the timid and the lazy. The lazy "think in quotations" to save themselves trouble; the timid, to save themselves from the dangerous position of being unlike their neighbors. If it stopped at thought, we probably should not realize this human frailty—it is with what people are doing, rather than with what people are thinking, that most of us are concerned. But pretending to be something else is very common in the sphere of action also.

The very best fruit, among the many fruits of "being yourself," is an entire absence of envy. You have something, if only you will be brave and develop it, which is wealth just because it is yours, and when you find it out, you do not envy the superior knowledge, the more expensive clothes the larger acres of your neighbors.

H. R. H. PRINCESS PATRICIA OF CONNAUGHT.

The popular eldest daughter of the Governor General will just suit the Canadian people and the Canadian people will take to her as one of their own. Her delightfully irresponsible and democratic ways have always amused her father — who is really very democratic in his ways — though they have often been the bugbear of some of the ladies of the court. Princess Patricia — whose younger sister will one day be Queen of Sweden — is very accomplished and King George, with whom she has hobbies in common, is very fond of his beautiful cousin.

Hardening the Gums

The mouth often needs an antiseptic wash, for hardening the gums and purifying the breath; the best thing for this purpose is tincture of myrrh, a few drops in a glass of water to rinse the mouth. It leaves a clean, pure taste in the mouth, and will relieve the breath of any unpleasantness for a short while.

As most good remedies are often the ones nearest at hand, we find that borax water, not too strong, will whiten the teeth wonderfully, using it like ordinary water, with no other dentifrice. As borax is a powerful germ-destroyer, it will arrest decay and so stay the work of destruction until one can get to the dentist. Common salt is a good dentifrice, used occasionally, especially in cases where the gums need hardening, but it should not be used often, as the powerful acid is strong for the delicate enamel of the teeth.

Hang Up the Broom

A broom should never be stood on the straws after using, but there should be a stringloop, or ring with a screw attached to the upper end of the handle, and it should be hung up by this fastening. If set in a corner, as is usually done, the straws will be bent to one side, and if the user is a careless person, its after use will tend to increase the one-sidedness until it is ruined. The broom should be washed at least once a week in hot water and hung up to thoroughly dry by the water dripping from the points of the straws, not being allowed to run down into the sewing at the handle, where the moisture will rot the threads. It is not necessary to use soap.

A Tasty Irish Stew.

This dish gives little trouble to make and is remarkably tasty and a general favourite. Ingredients are: 1 lb. of scrag-mutton, 1 lb. of onions, 3 lbs. potatoes, some pepper and salt. Method: Cut the meat, after washing and drying it, into neat pieces, add the bones as they make the gravy richer; slice the potatoes and onions. Place in a pan a layer of meat, potato, and onion, adding seasoning between each layer, and having potatoes on the top. Pour over sufficient water to come two-thirds up the pan. Simmer the whole very gently for one and a half or two hours. Stir very occasionally, adding more liquid if needed.

Care for the Nails

The only way to care for the nails is to use a manicure set. A little Lanoline and a little powder, well rubbed into them each day, is also of great value. Inflammation of the nail bed may cause complete loss of the nail, and this may be set up by many agencies.

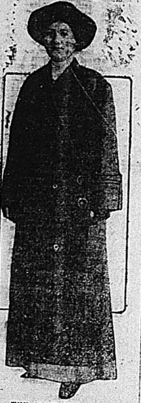
WHAT IS NOW ILL-BRED

"It is no longer well-bred to talk about ill-health. It is true that we are still hindered with relics of the days when one's health and ills were the most interesting topic of conversation. We still perfunctorily ask 'How do you do?' But we have only pity for the person who answers that question in detail if she is not well. The woman who habitually pours out upon the unwilling ears of her friends the disagreeable tale of her headaches, her backaches, her worries or other ills; the woman whose greatest satisfaction seems to be to tell, in gruesome detail, every step of an operation either upon herself or someone else — these women are slowly but surely being isolated by the bar of social exclusion, and either ignored or avoided. We know for a certainty now that the psychic contagion which one person can spread by suggestions with reference to disease is as real as the contagion from measles, or mumps, or scarlet fever. Modern society has recognised this psychic contagion, and is demanding that our conversation shall be clean and wholesome on subjects of health. To talk otherwise has become a sign of ill-breeding. This is an epoch-making change in the character of human conversation, and it has occurred within the memory of many of us."

MY WISH FOR MY BABY

I desire for my baby neither great beauty nor great wealth, nor fame, nor anything to mar her happiness. But give her a contented spirit, ministering hands, and willing feet, that her presence may radiate joy wherever she may be. May she care nothing for society; but may she love her neighbour as herself. Let her motto through life be: "Noblesse oblige." May she never know ambition, nor seek to explore life's mountain tops or steps, either through curiosity or great yearning, but may her little feet tread tranquilly life's common way. May she be cursed with neither brilliance nor wit, but give her a sense of humour, a tender tact, a gracious presence, and only sufficient beauty to make her face lovely to her friends. May the public pass her by in utter ignoarnce andn ever know of the existence of my little maid. May she never seek her own happiness, but let her always minister to others without thought of reward. Thus give her happiness in great measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over, and as her crowning glory may she know the supreme joy of a great and selfless love. — Lilian Bell.

FROM PARIS



THE BATH ROBE SUIT

The "bath-robe" suit and cloak have received official endorsement for next spring's styles. The National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, in session have attached the official o k.

"The 'bathroom' coat is a loose-fitting, full length enveloping garment, and were it not for the belted effect at the back and side and the buttoning in the front allowing for a longer roll, it would be difficult to distinguish it from an ordinary bath-robe.

All of the fashions fixed for the coming spring emphasize straight line effects, looser even than the silhouette styles in vogue at present.

To Remove Stains

Always let mud spots get perfectly dry before trying to remove them, and usually then it will be found that a good brushing is all that is required. If, however, the stain remains, it can be easily removed by two ounces of fluid ammonia, one quart of soft water, one teaspoonful of saltpitre, and one ounce of white soap. Let the mixture stand over night, and shake it well when it is used. Rub the spots with a sponge saturated with this mixture until the last one disappears, then wash it off with clear water.

The yellow spots left by the sewing machine oil on white material may be removed by rubbing the stain with a cloth wet with ammonia before washing it with soap.

To remove paint from window glass make a strong solution of potash, saturate the spots of paint with this, and let it remain until it is nearly dry. Then rub it off with a woollen cloth.

Facings of Color on French Tailor Suits.

A distinctly new feature of the latest French tailor suits of cloth is shown in the deep facings on the skirt of contrasting cloth in the color which is used to trim the suit. A Paul Poiret fall model of dark blue serge of a very fine quality is designed in this mode. It is cut on severely tailored lines, the only trimming being a narrow bordering of Nattier blue broad-cloth, which followed closely the neck-line at back and sides to drop into a shallow square outline in front. This did away with any collar or revers on the coat, which buttoned down the centre front with buttons of the serge worked with heavy Natzier blue floss. These buttons appeared again on the sleeves and, high-waisted, narrow skirt, the distinctive feature of which was a five-inch facing of Nattier blue broadcloth. This facing is visible only in glimpses as the wearer walks, and the effect is extremely smart and distinctive of the latest modes.

Smart Women and their Perfumes

The Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia have for years used wallflower perfume. When in the spring the flower is in bloom they have quantities of it dried, put into muslin bags, and scattered through their wardrobes and chests. It is white rose which the Countess of Warwick favours. Everything about her emits its delicate fragrance. The Empress Eugenie has had all her life a penchant for definite scents, such as musk and patchouli — a weakness shared by the late Queen Victoria, who had a special partiality for musk. The Queen of Spain has all her perfume sent to her by a well-known chemist in England. Her favorite is Parma violets, but she likes "heliotrope" and "new-mown hay." It is full, rich Oriental scent which the Hon. Mrs. George Keppel likes. She never uses any other. It was remarked some time ago lavender is the odour Queen Mary favours.

Pretty Evening Modes

New evening dresses and modes continue to come in. Chiffon tunics in beaded patterns are the favorites still. A knee-length tunic of gold-colored minon crepe was outlined with silver crystal beads, and finished with a gold cord girdle. Another of white net had crystal beads and mock pearl embroidery, and the high waist line was finished with a band of heading and pearls. There are crystal bead rope girdles which are very handsome, although being quite popular they will soon become wearisome. The mock pearls mingled with beading are also very popular just now for evening wear; and bandeaux for the hair of the same garniture as that used on the gown are a chic idea. Crepe de chine with velvet brocade patterning the edge is a lovely new conceit for evening gowns.

WHICH KIND OF HUSBAND

There was a very good little boy once who wanted to go to sea. And the captain asked him what he could do. He said he could do the multiplication table backwards, and paste seaweed in a book; that he knew how many times the word "begat" occurred in the Old Testament; and could decite "The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck," and Wordsworth's "We are Seven."

"Werry good — werry good indeed," said the man of the sea. "And ken yer kerry coals?"

It is just the same when you want to marry. Great ability is not required so much as little usefulness.

Advice to the Lovelorn Maidens.

It is better to have loved a fat man than never to have loved at all.

Don't grab him off just because he wears a violent vest. It isn't an infallible sign of aristocracy.

What if he does work in a fly-paper factory? A man in that line of work is apt to stick to his job.

A man whose ears stick out from his head like the wings of a biplane is apt to be generous to a fault, perhaps more generous to a fault than to anything else.

If you are counting on getting any pin money, marry a man who carries his change loose in his trouser pocket. He may never have very much, but what he has you are welcome to. Beware the string wallets.

BEWARE OF SELFISHNESS
One of the Dangers of a Happy Life Is Want of Thought for Others.

The bachelor girl, especially at the outset of her career, is usually bright, jolly, in love with life and the good times she is having. Everyone likes her because she has such good spirits, because her outlook on life is so cheery. She is welcomed everywhere. Her social calendar is usually full.

But if she wants to continue popular, if she wants her life to remain interesting, she should, as the years slip by, keep strict watch and ward upon herself. For this gay, care-free life of the bachelor girl is apt to make her self-centred, self-absorbed. She grows selfish. She is apt to be concerned only with herself and her own affairs. And gradually, little by little, lovableness slips out of her character. And before she knows it life still be less full of bloom and fragrance. There will be barren spots. It will begin to take on the ue of the desert. And unless she heeds these signs of the times she will come to a rather desolate old age.

New Collars and Cuffs

Speaking of collars and cuffs, there is nothing prettier than hemstitched white marquisette. For winter gowns and blouses it is charming, and is seen on many new models. You can make a set in an hour or two at home, the cost is almost nothing, and the effect charming. For those in mourning, white marquisette accessories are very pretty on blouses of chiffon or crepe, or on serge frocks.

HOW CHILDREN ARE POISONED

Every Year Brings Its Record of Children Who Have Been Poisoned As A Result of Eating Berries from the Woods.

Every summer and autumn brings its record of children who have been poisoned, sometime with fatal effects, as a result of eating some berries leaves, or other parts of plants which they have picked in the woods. One of the first things a child should be taught is never to eat any berries except the well-known harmless ones such as blackberries, wild strawberries or raspberries. Little ones must be watched till they are old enough to recognise edible fruits, but even when very young they may be taught not to try eating anything which is unknown. The plants that are most commonly responsible for illness and even death when eaten by children are privet berries, laburnum seeds, aconite leaves, the brilliant red, juicy berries of the arum (lords and ladies) and the woody nightshade. The deadly night shade is pretty well known to be poisonous, but it is far less common than the woody nightshade or biter-sweet. The common hemlock is a strong poison, but there is nothing to tempt children to eat it; one danger, however, lies in its hollow stem, from which whistles may be made, and these of course when put to the mouth will convey the poisonous juice to the membranes and the salive by which means it may reach the stomach.

THE BUSINESS SPY

Each of the Two Great World's Oil Trusts Have a Large Number of Private Detectives to Watch Each Other.

In old days, before Patent Acts had been passed to confer well-deserved monopolies upon inventors, the man who discovered a new process in the arts or in mechanics took the most elaborate precautions to guard it.

He worked behind locked doors; his workmen were put under oath not to reveal the process, and were searched when going out, while all visitors were rigorously excluded.

The business spy of those days had to resort to the most elaborate disguise, and he practically carried his life in his hands. The man who, in 1770, stole the famous Huntsman process for making steel, got access to the Attercliffe works under the guise of a half-frozen tramp, who begged admission one bitter winter night.

To-day the owner of a patent is protected by law from infringement in every country in the world, yet the trade spy is far more numerous than he was a century ago.

The Oil Business

There has been, and is, war in the oil trade. The two great companies — one of which draws its supplies from America, the other from Russia — have been cutting prices.

Part of the campaign — the most important part — is conducted by spies. The Standard Oil, it is said, employs no fewer than eight hundred secret police, many of whom act as paid employees in the works of the rival company.

Thus the rival oil companies are kept informed of the yield of their enemies' wells, of the names of their customers, the wages they pay, and particularly of the prime cost of the carriage of their products to the various markets.

In England, many of the great wholesale firms have their own corps of secret police. There is at least one firm of whisky manufacturers whose secret agents constantly visit the retailers, their object being to see that no inferior substitutes are offered to customers in place of their own brand.

The owners of well-known brands of patent articles, such as soap, drugs, motor-car tyres, etc., also send round men, whom they call "inspectors," to see that the retail firms do not sell their products below the advertised prices.

How Dressmakers Suffer

The worst sufferers from trade spies are the fashionable dressmakers. Very large prices are paid to the artists who design new fashions in ladies' dresses, and these, of course, can be registered, and so protected.

Firms, however, that either cannot or will not pay the best artists are always on the look-out for these designs as soon as they appear; for, by making a few trivial alterations, they elude the copyright, and so manage to profit dishonestly by the brains of others.

MANUFACTURED MILK

Cows are not numerous in Japan, but the Japanese are fond of milk, and to meet this demand in the face of a natural shortage they long ago put their wits to work and evolved a product that the average person cannot distinguish from the regular dairy article.

The artificial milk is derived from the soja bean. The beans are first soaked, then boiled in water. Presently the liquid turns white; sugar and phosphate of potash in proper quantities are added, and the boiling continued until a substance the thickness of molasses is obtained. This fluid corresponds very accurately with ordinary condensed milk, and when water is added cannot be told from fresh. If the present rise in the price of British milk continues we can foresee a big run on soja beans. Now, Mr. Milkman, beware!

A man should never try to keep any secrets from his wife. Some kind friend will come along and tell her, anyhow.

A pretty girl never envies the brains of a homely girl.

Never turn griddle cakes a second time, as it makes them heavy. Serve them the same side as when taken from the griddl.

Have You Got Your Coffee Pot?

Your grocer is only waiting for your order of 2 50c. tins of DALTON'S FRENCH DRIP COFFEE to deliver This Coffee Pot Absolutely FREE

We Give You All Of The Good Of The Coffee, and the means of Always Having Good Coffee.

Dalton's French Drip Coffee is not only the best in the world from the standpoint of health—it is also the most delicious. The special Dalton process of roasting and grinding—that makes Dalton's French Drip Coffee so good for you, also improves the flavor.

Nature covers the Coffee, just as she protects grains and nuts, by covering the kernel or heart with a tough skin or coat. This coat contains tannic acid and other bitter substances which are harmful to insects and not harmless to the human system.

Ordinary Coffee is ground with this tough coat, and boiling brings out all the rank, bitter flavor and indigestible fibre. No wonder ordinary Coffee, made in the ordinary way, upsets digestion and racks the nerves.

DALTON'S FRENCH DRIP COFFEE is free of these harmful substances and contains no chicory. After this Coffee is roasted and ground, a powerful air-blast removes the inner coating, leaving only the kernel or heart of the Coffee berry, rich in the essence which gives flavor and aroma to the breakfast and dinner cup. This is why Dalton's Coffee is never bitter—never upsets the stomach—never jangles the nerves—never is anything but the richest, most fragrant, most appetizing Coffee that ever came on the table. But Dalton's Coffee must be made right. This is why we give you this $1.30 French Drip Coffee Pot FREE.

Dalton's French Drip Coffee

Boiling ruins Coffee. Boiling drives off the flavor, instead of developing it. The French Drip Process is the only way to make really good Coffee. We have been on the lookout for a reliable, satisfactory, inexpensive percolator or Coffee pot for a long time and found just the right one over in Germany. Now you can have Dalton's French Drip Coffee made as good Coffee should be made.

We put up two special brands of Coffee — MILD and STRONG. You can't say which of the two you will prefer until you try both. Nor can you make good Coffee without this French Drip Coffee Pot.

THE NICE YOUNG MAN.

(By Steven Roberts).

(Copyright by Publishers Press, Ltd).

Gordon Thompson was a misanthrope. For five years he had lived alone in his flat, and during that time he had not exchanged half a dozen words with his neighbors.

But that was before Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and Nina came to live in one of the apartments. Nina was only four. She was quite alone when first she met Gordon Thompson. He had just made his solitary way up the stairs when he almost fell over a wee girl busily drawing wonderful chalk pictures on the floor.

A welcoming smile lit Nina's baby face. "Nice man," she cooed. "Nice man see Nina's pictures."

He took the hand she had extended to him, and knelt down. There was neither form nor anything intelligible in the chalk scribble, but he gravely assured her that it was very nice, very nice, indeed."

Nina gurgled with delight. Her blue eyes danced as she placed her chalk into his hand.

"Nice man make pictures better'n Nina," she announced gleefully. "Make some more, nice man." But Thompson stood up suddenly. He had heard a step behind them on the stairs, and his face assumed the usual mask of rigidity.

"Nina, darling, you must come away and have tea," a gentle voice said. "I hope you will excuse my little girl," Mrs. Andrews continued, "she has a perfect genius for making friends, and she never stops to consider whether her advances will be appreciated."

"Who could help appreciating that?" Gordon Thompson said. Nina leaned forward and held her rosy lips up to be kissed. Gordon hesitated and glanced nervously at Mrs. Andrews.

"Certainly," she said, in an undertone. "She expects it." He kissed the child, and there was a new tenderness in his voice when he said, "Good night, Nina."

"Good night. God bless you, nice man," Nina responded.

After that Nina got into the habit of waiting on the stairs for the return of her "nice man" every evening.

He became anxious when, on one night, she was not there. The child had taken such a fancy to him, he felt she would not willingly miss coming to see him. Perhaps there was somethhing the matter. At any rate, it would only be polite to inquire, and he hastened up the stairs to the Andrews' flat. Mrs. Andrews answered his knock, and he started back at sight of her. Her eyes were red with weeping, and her face wore a strained, anxious look.

"What is the matter?" he asked, faintly. "Is it Nina?"

Mrs. Andrews nodded. "I can't ask you to come in," she said. "Nina is very ill. It is diphtheria."

"Is there anything I can do?" Thompson asked hoarsely. "Could I bring her anything, grapes, for instance?"

"She couldn't eat them now, thank you," Mrs. Andrews said, sadly. "No, there is nothing to be done but follow the doctor's instructions, un——" She checked herself.

"Unless what?" Gordon asked. "Mrs. Andrews, if there is any way I could help, any way at all, it would be a charity to let me do it. Perhaps a nurse——"

"Dr. Forman said I ought to have a nurse," said Mrs. Andrews, slowly. "We couldn't possibly afford it."

"Then you must let me send for one. I can well afford it, and it is for Nina's sake," he said; then, without waiting for her consent, "If you don't mind, I will slip to the nearest telephone and ask Dr. Forman to send one at once."

Gordon was distinctly perturbed, so much so that on the three following days he waylaid the doctor on the stairs and asked for news of Nina. A load was taken off his mind when the doctor was able to assure him that the child had taken a turn for the better.

Then one evening he missed the doctor. For an hour he waited with his door open, listening for his footstep, until he could stand the suspense no longer. He must go up to the Andrews' flat and ask how the patient was progressing. He was half way up the stairs when he almost ran into a tall, slender girl in nurse uniform.

"Lottie!" he exclaimed impulsively: then he drew back. "I beg your pardon, Miss Clapp; I forgot myself," he said. Nurse Lottie's violet eyes filled with tears. For a moment she hesitated, then she laid a hand on his arm. "Won't you forgive me, Gordon?" she asked, softly. "I was foolish, I did not really mean that cruel letter. Afterwards, when I came to know my own heart, I realized that I had thrown away real gold for dross. Then, when I wanted to tell you, you had gone away!"

"If I had only known," the man groaned. "I came to New York immediately, and have been living alone in the flat below. Lottie, do you really mean it? You haven't married that other fellow, at any rate. I can harly realize that you have cared all the time, that you still care."

"I did care all the time, I still care," Lottie said softly.

"My darling, I am not married," he said, as he kissed her. "But I soon will be." Lottie drew back.

"Oh, you musn't," she exclaimed. "I have just come from Nina."

"I don't care," he said. "Dear little Nina! But for her I might never have found you. How is she?"

"She is much better, and I think you might see her," Lottie said, and together they entered the child's room.

Nina gave a weak cry of recognition when she saw him.

Her glance travelled to Nurse Lottie.

"Nina loves nice man," she [illegible]ined. "Does 'oo?"

Lottie stooped and kissed the [illegible]. "[illegible] Nina, [illegible]," she said.

Pope Exempts Germany.

Berlin, Dec. 15.—(Can. Press.)—It is announced officially that the Papal Legate to Prussia was informed by Cardinal del Val, the papal secretary of state, when the special order of the Pope relating to court proceedings against the clergy was issued that it did not apply to Germany. The order has been subjected to bitter attacks by newspapers on every side except the Catholic organs.

Boots and Shoes.

Shoes are one of the expenses of a toilet that may be reduced by care alone. A worn-out shoe cannot be renovated; no amount of skill will make it pass as new. The [illegible] possible way to save in shoe [illegible] is to care properly for the shoes while wearing them. When they are taken off they should be wiped at once, and if wet filled with paper and put in a dry place (nor near the first) for some hours. We do not advise putting shoes into a bag, for the sake of neatness. If boot-trees are not convenient the boots or shoes should be stood where the air can get to them, as this will tend to harden the soles.

GERMANY AND MOROCCAN CRISIS

Many People Are Sore on the Supposed Laxity of German Government in Allowing Britain to Dictate.

Berlin. — The official report of the secret sitting of the budget committee of the Reichstag in November, when Foreign Minister von Kiderlin-Waechter made a report on Anglo-German relations as affected by the Moroccan dispute with France, is now published.

The Foreign Minister's account of the interviews between the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, and the German Ambassador at London, Count Wolff-Metternich, and of the communications that passed between Germany and England, show that the situation was most tense from July 21 to July 27, and the language used on both sides was so sharp that a peaceful outcome of the affair under the circumstances is considered most fortunate.

Great Britain, according to Herr von Kiderlin-Waechter, after receiving on July 1 an individual, as well as a general, explanation of the objects of the despatch of the German warship Panther to Agadir, remained silent until July 21.

Sir Edward Grey then had a conversation with the German ambassador, in which he declared that the time had come for Great Britain to intervene in the Franco-German negotiations, since these apparently were about to be broken off owing to Germany's unacceptable proposals, which would raise the question of the future of Morocco, whereby British interests would be affected. He requested an explanation of the German designs at Agadir.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

London.—The unionist forces in the British parliament have called upon a Canadian to lead them against the assaults of the progressive liberal forces. Andrew Bonar Law, born in New Brunswick and who removed to Glasgow, and was from there sent to the House of Commons, has been chosen leader of the British standpatters to succeed former Premier A. J. Balfour. Law is one of the ablest conservative debaters; also, he is the best chess player in parliament.

BONAR LAW

THE EMPIRE AND CANADA

London. — The London Chamber of Commerce tonight discussed "Canada" in its relation to the Mother Country. Faithfull Begg, treasurer, who presided, said that no country could show such a remarkable advance in progress as Canada during the past five years. Canada had done its part nobly in the recent elections and it was for the United Kingdom now to do hers and show appreciation of the efforts of the Dominion in the cause of imperial unity.

A. W. Smithers, chairman of the G. T. R., thought the British Government was discreditable for investigating the emigration question so unscientifically. The Dominion doesn't want the riffraff of our cities, and he appealed to the Government to transform unemployed casual labor into citizens acceptable to Canada.

She: "Oh, yes, I quite believe there's a fool in every family, don't you?"

He: "Well — er — my opinion is rather biased. You see, I am the only member of our family."

INESE REVOLUTION

The Truth About Chinese Revolution —When, Why and How It Started, Is Told by Correspondent From the Scene.

(Publishers Press News Service)

HANKOW, CHINA.—As I sit writing this article in the foreign section of Hankow, in the British "concession," to be exact, huge clouds of smoke roll up from the native city and tens of thousands of Chinese people are being made homeless by the flames.

It is the fortune of war. The loyalists started the fire and the revolutionary army completed it.

For generations China may be said to have been on the verge of rebellion. Long before the Boxer movement there ran through the very fibre of the common life of the people a feeling of discontent because of the official corruption and gross injustice of the official classes. This was felt all over China, but parallel with it was a spirit that there was no help for it. To complain only made matters worse, for the discontented complainant merely had his head taken off. The common people could do nothing.

JIM CHENG

Viceroy whose palace at Wuchang was burned and he himself driven to hiding with an insurgent price on h's head.

There was no one to organize or control any new movement. The social position of all was looked upon as unalterable, and so there came about that inbred Chinese habit of grinning and bearing what they could not remedy.

But as time went on there came a new China, born after the Boxer movement, and among the things that this new China began to learn was that the wrong people were on the throne, that China's only hope was in getting rid of the Manchus by overthrowing the dynasty — and so it has bubbled and burst all over China for many years past, with no very great net result for good other than stirring up among the people the spirit of revolution.

Of all the strategic points in China, Wuchang, midway up the Yangtse-Kiang, may be reckoned of the greatest importance — next, of course, to Peking itself. For many years Wuchang was looked upon as a hopeless center by the revolutionary party.

Wuchang was the "center of the world," from the Chinese standpoint; Wuchang was a model city, foremost in the reforms that appealed to the Manchu ruling class; last of all cities to foster rebellion to the sacred throne.

But this was the city in which the flame of revolution burst forth brightly. Nobody suspected how thoroughly organized were the reformers. The day before the blow was struck a number of plotters were arrested with plans in their possession for blowing up the Russian concession across the river at Hankow. They were beheaded.

That was the spark. The big army garrison at Wuchang revolted the next day and made Col. Li their republican commander.

They tied the white revolution badge around their arms and commenced in deadly earnest their fatal work. They first burned Viceroy Jin Cheng's palace, then the camps; they then set about ridding the city of all traces of government control, and with all the gates of the city closed made a raid for all Manchus. The Manchus were either shot dead or beheaded on sight, whole families being taken outside their houses and killed in cold blood. Firing with quick firing guns upon the loyal troops was kept up until the latter surrendered.

THE STEEL TRUST INVESTIGATION

Muzzle the Investigation of the Steel Trust? Never! Says Stanley, Chairman of House Committee of Congress.

(Publishers Press News Service)

Washington, D. C.—"Muzzled? Well, I should say not! Nor leashed, nor gagged."

This was the answer today of Representative A. O. Stanley, chairman of the house committee investigating the steel trust, when asked about the rumor that the special steel trust investigating committee had quit under fire of the trust's opposition and influence.

Congressman Stanley

"We have hardly begun. We will not stop, at least not until we have completed a thorough, searching and complete investigation of the trust, or congress dissolves the committee," said Stanley, emphasizing his remarks with sparks of fire snapping from his dark brown eyes.

"No power on earth except congress can tie the hands of this committee in the great work it is doing. And I don't believe this democratic congress will prevent an honest committee from ascertaining the truth about the steel trust.

ALFRED MERRIT,

Who testified before the House Committee that Rockefeller took away his fortune by shrewd practice.

"I do not express lack of faith in any member of the committee," said Representative Stanley, with a significant glance at his interviewer, in evident reference to the reported defection of Representative Martin W Littleton, "but you can draw your own conclusions. If any member of this committee should weary of disclosing the truth, or if any member think the truth should be suppressed, it will not effect the result. A campaign of suppression and silence in the interest of the United States steel corporation will not prosper in this democratic congress.

LEONIDAS MERRIT,

A witness against Rockefeller.

"The committee hearings will be resumed soon. This cessation is a mere recess. We will take up the transportation question next, and may even resume the hearings before congress convenes. It takes time to get affairs prepared and this is the third recess the committee has taken. It certainly is NOT final.

DOCTOR COMMITTED FOR MURDER

Charged With Causing Cyril Sparling's Death—Nurse Waived Extradition

BAD AXE, Mich., Dec. 16.—The Sparling poisoning case came to a sudden end yesterday, when Mr. Justice Skinner announced that in his opinion a crime had been committed. He directed that Dr. Robt. A. McGregor, the physician charged with having caused the death of Cyril Sparling, be committed to Huron county jail without bail and held for trial on January 22nd next. The examination in the case of Miss Margaret Gibbs, of Sarnia, Ontario, a trained nurse, charged with being an accessory after the fact, was waived, and it was announced that she, too, will be held for trial on the fourth Monday of next month. Her bail bond was renewed, however.

Sheriff Donald McAuley testified that he had been told by Dr. McGregor that he (McGregor) could make Mrs. Carrie Boddy Sparling, mother of the dead boys, confess to the murder of her husband, John Wesley Sparling.

Mrs. Sparling, against whom direct charges were made in yesterday's testimony, appeared greatly affected by the sudden turn of events. She said little, and sat quietly in her seat as though expectant of the arrest which it had been asserted would be made at the close of the examination. But nothing came, and she left the court house escorted by her only son, Ray, and Mrs. Peter Sparling, her sister-in-law. With head bowed she passed through the crowd which lined the narrow stairway and proceeded to her hotel.

AN ANCIENT ADAGE FULLY EXEMPLIFIED IN THIS CITY

How Some Astute Citizens Were Deprived of their Wads—The Parting of the Men from the Money was so Very Easy—The Operators were Gipsies who are Under Arrest--They are "Wise" People from the East--Highly Interesting Developments Expected

On Saturday evening a party of gipsies, consisting of two men, five women and six children, arrived in the city from the east and sought quarters in one of our city hotels.

This morning the women started out on a pilgrimage of Front Street, visiting singly places of business. Where the proprietors or clerks were not engaged, the women succeeded in attracting their attention were not long making known their avocation, namely, telling fortunes. Their modus operandi was to have their victims extract from their pockets or till some bills, which the women would first have the men place in their hands, and, after saying a few unintelligible words, would make a few motions and return the money. In at least three cases the women succeeded in slipping, unnoticed, some of the bills.

Mr. James Erskine, one of the victims, after the woman had departed, ascertained that he had been done up for $15. Mr. W. S. Clarke was minus $10, and Mr. R. Zufelt was relieved of $3.

The affair was reported to the police, with the result that the five women, who were rather gorgeously attired, were soon located and taken to the police station, where they were locked up. The two men were shortly after apprehended. The business of the aggregation appears to have been profitable, as $283.25 was taken from one man, this amount being in ten and five dollar bills, and $58.25 from the second man. A considerable sum was found on the women after they had been searched by a female, who was secured to do the searching.

The parties, with the exception of one elderly woman, are all young. They gave their names and ages as follows: Joe Eli, aged 26; Dick Stevenson, 25; Marie Eli, 23. Maggie Stevenson, 25; Amelia Stevenson, 23; Annie Stevenson, 22; and Mary Eli, aged 36. The latter, after being locked up in the cells, enjoyed herself by smoking a pipe.

The women, after being placed in the cells, protested their innocence in a manner that was rather demonstrative.

It appears that in the party there were six women, but only five were detained at police headquarters. The sixth was allowed to remain with the little children, who are sheltered in a hotel.

At 3.30 this afternoon the band was brought up before the Magistrate for a preliminary hearing.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

ALLEGED ASSAULT.

A young man named Melburn Emsley reported to the police that he was assaulted on Saturday evening. He was advised to lay a charge against his assailant.

POLICE POINTERS.

A drunk, who was picked up on the street at 11.15 on Sunday night, and three tramps, two of whom were brothers, were last night occupants of the police cells.

A CHAMPION LAYER.

Mrs. W. A. Kerr, Cherry Valley, has a turkey hen which has made a record. Commencing in April, this bird continued laying until October, producing a total of 114 eggs.

AGAIN REMANDED

Wilfred Young, who a week ago was convicted of the charge of raising a cheque from $2.65 to $5.65, was brought up before the Magistrate this morning but was further remanded for a week in order that he may be able to procure testimonials as to his previous good character.

CONVICTED OF ASSAULT.

On Saturday afternoon an assault case was investigated by the Magistrate. James Beesack was charged with assaulting Frank Sullivan. The result was the accused was convicted of common assault and judgment was reserved for a week. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown, and Mr. Carnew appeared for the accused.

GIFT FROM DR. HERSEY.

Dr. Milton Hersey, Montreal, who is very much interested in the School of Mining in Kingston, has given $1,000 to be used for the improvement of the industrial laboratory connected with the chemistry department. The gift is one that is much appreciated by the director of the school and his assistants in chemistry.

DIED AT TRENTON.

James Herbert Tyldesley Bleasdell, barrister, eldest son of the late Canon Bleasdell, LL.D., died at Trenton, Dec. 8th. He was in his sixty-seventh year. Mr. Bleasdell's name was previously published incorrectly.

HIS NEW CHARGE

Rev. Father Killeen, the newly appointed parish priest at St. Michael's church here, yeterday officiated for the first time at high mass and also preached. He created a most favorable impression upon the large congregation which was present.

CASE ADJOURNED.

The case of Joseph Diamond, a junk dealer, who is accused of receiving and purchasing a quantity of rubber tubing, knowing same to have been stolen, was called in the police court this morning. Mr. Carnew, who appeared for the accused, asked for a further enlargement, as Mrs. Diamond, who was a material witness, was seriously ill, and another witness whom the defence wanted had not been located. The request was granted and the accused was allowed out on bail until Tuesday next, the 26th inst. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown.

AMONG THE INDIANS.

An interesting conclusion to the services at the Tabernacle Church last evening was a brief address by Mr. C. S. B[illegible]k, a former Belleville young man, [illegible] for the past five years has been, with his wife, engaged in missionary work among the Indians about five hundred miles north of Vancouver, B.C. He gave some instructive sketches of the red men and the progress they are making toward civilization, including their prospects for becoming one with the white race, which at present, he claims, is not favorable in a general sense. Mr. Buttrick is deeply interested in his work to which he returns in a short time.

JOHN BULL THE BEST DRINKER IN EUROPE

Followed by German he Consumes large amount of Beer Every Twelve Months

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Englishmen are the greatest drinkers of alcohol in Europe, according to a table just compiled here. The average John Bull consumes six quarts of gin or whiskey, less than two quarts of wine and 152 quarts of beer, ale or stout per year. The average German runs him not a very close second, with seven quarts of wine, six and a half of brandy, and 125 quarts of beer. The German figures are deceiving, however, as the Teutons of the larger towns like Berlin, Frankfurt and Munich, who are famous the world over for their "capacity" at the table, are much heavier drinkers than the country Germans. Thus while in Berlin, the average inhabitant gets away with 200 quarts of beer a year; in Frankfurt 432 quarts are necessary to assuage the thirst of the man in the street and in Munich the natives are satisfied with nothing less than the remarkable total of 570 quarts a year.

The Dane drinks annually 101 quarts of beer, little or no wine, and twenty-four quarts of brandy; the Swede absorbs fifty-six quarts of beer and nine quarts of alcohol, while the Norwegian is content with thirty-one quarts of beer and three quarts of brandy. The Russian requires only five quarts of beer and five of brandy (vodka); the Frenchman must have thirty-two quarts of beer; 108 of wine and ten of brandy. The Dutchman requires thirty-eight quarts of beer and eight and a half of brandy; the Belgian, 221 quarts of beer and nine quarts of alcohol. The Austrian absorbs sixteen quarts of wine, eighty quarts of beer and nearly eleven and a half of brandy. The Italian drinks little beer) scarcely two quarts), ninety-eight quarts of wine, and 1.3 quarts of brandy; he is the least alcoholic of Europeans.

ALASKAN SEALSKINS FETCH $428,385

Sell 12,002 Alaskan Pelts in London, Averaging $35,66 Each

LONDON, Dec. 16.—George M. Bowers, United States Fish Commissioner, who came to London to conduct the annual sealskins sale, at which he sold Alaskan skins belonging to the United States Government, sailed on the Campania to-day, satisfied with the result of his mission.

The sale, which was held yesterday at Lampson's auction rooms, netted £85,667, ($428,385.) There were 12,002 skins sold, or an average of £7 2s. 9d., or about $35.66 each, which is higher than the price obtained last year, when the average was £6 17s.

This increase, however, is not due to a rise in price, but merely to the skins being a little larger than last year.

HIS FIRST OFFENCE

NEW HOCKEY ASSOCIATION

Hockey should boom this winter among the boys of the High Schools in this vicinity. On Saturday at Trenton was launched the Quinte H. S. Hockey League. Representatives were present from Trenton and Belleville High Schools and Picton Collegiate. After drawing up a constitution they elected the following executive: Hon. Pres. Rev. Mr. Armstrong, Trenton; Hon. Vice Pres.—Principals Colling, Whyte and Minns Pres.—J. I. Harvey, Belleville; Vice Pres.—T. C. Martin, Picton; Sec.-Tras.—S. J. Raymond, Trenton. In order to insure the permanency of the league, it was decided to ask the Boards of the schools to furnish a challenge cup, to be competed for annually. The schedule for 1912 is:—

Jan.16—Trenton at Picton.
Jan. 20.—Trenton at Belleville.
Jan. 27.—Belleville at Picton.
Feb. 2.—Picton at Trenton.
Feb. 10.—Picton at Belleville.
Feb. 16.—Belleville at Trenton.

CURRENT COMMENT

A Council of twenty-two members is entirely "too much of a good thing." At least Belleville has found it so.

Great bodies move lowly. It is out twenty years since the subject of school savings banks was brought to the attention of the Belleville Board of Education, and only now is it being given a fair consideration.

There is no reason why the residents of the city should not make their holiday purchases before Saturday next as the stores will be open at night, and by purchasing early the hard work employees of the merchants will be relieved of the overwork usual on the Saturday before Christmas.

The United States has a draft upon its Treasurer of $1,000,000 of an annual pension disbursement which goes to foreign countries, and more than half of it to Canada and the British Isles. There are nearly 1,000.000 pensioners on the rolls, and they cost their more or less grateful country the neat sum of $150.000.000 a year.

Philadelphia has a curiosity in the person of Mrs. Eliza Rooms, of 31 Catherine street, who celebrated her 100th birthday anniversary last week. She has lived in the same house since the day of her birth. The longest trip of her life was when she took the ferryboat to Camden, N.J., directly across the Delaware river from Philadelphia.

A startling lusus naturae is reported from the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, which should establish a novel record in clinical ethics. A poor little waif was born, living with its heart on the outside of its body. Many acquire the art later in life of wearing this useful appendage, metaphorically, in an exposed position, but this is going them one better, though undoubtedly the questionable triumph will be a brief one.—Hamilton Spectator.

Without wires, and with an apparatus that cost but forty odd dollars to construct, an English inventor, a few days ago, talked to a friend five miles across the country. In another week he is to give an official demonstration of a conversation carried on with several miles of mountains in between. The days of wireless telephoning are almost here and from the above cost estimate, the system promises to be cheaper even than the present one.—Ottawa Journal.

Nearly three hundred physicians, among them some of the most distinguished in the United States, have petitioned Congress to restore the army canteen. They assert that the abolition of the canteen has resulted in an increase of intemperance, desertions, disease and insubordination. Oddly enough, the strongest argument that opponents of temperance reform can urge against any temperance measure is that it promotes intemperance.—Mail and Empire.

The horrors of war are well illustrated in the following telegram from Rome of the 14th inst.: "After the capture of Taguira the Italians found the bodies of former comrades with the limbs severed, and others who had been crucified. The corpses of members of the Bersaglieri and other regiments were found in a well where they had been buried alive and the top walled in." In addition to the barbarities described above, there is the enormous cost of war, to Rome. An additional appropriation of $25,000.000 was made on the 14th inst, to carry on the war until the end of 1911. Thus the war in three months has cost Italy $90,000,000.

Returns show that during the last eight months 281,000 immigrant settlers arrived in Canada. Of the number, 180,206 arrived at ocean ports, and 101,692 from the United States. These figures show an increase of 16 per cent., as compared with those for the corresponding months of the last fiscal year, which were 150,618 at ocean ports, and 92,453 from the United States, making a total for the eight months, April 1st to December 1st, 1910, of 243,071 persons. During the month of November, this year there were 16,065 arrivals, 7,946 of them having been at ocean ports, and 8,119 from the States, as against 15,296 for November last year, 8,089 of whom were at ocean ports, and 7,207 from the United States.

The report of the Secretary of State for last year shows that in the period covered naturalization papers were issued to 16,384 persons. Well in the lead of the recipients of these evidences of changed allegiance were citizens of the United States to the number of 5,854, or quite one-third of the total. Next to them came Russians, who numbered 2,865, and people from various countries in the Austrian empire to the number of 2,859, followed by Italians to the number of 813. Almost all the other countries in Europe and some of those in Asia were represented by the remainder of the new citizens. It would seem that the men who have a little experience of Canadian political institutions find them easy to accept in permanence.

Some years ago Erastus Wiman when lecturing in Canada told the farmers that if they would vote in favor of unrestricted reciprocity, the United States market for eggs would wipe off all the mortgages on their farms. Eggs sold on the Belleville market on Saturday for 50 cents a dozen, and are being imported into the Toronto market in large quantities from the United States. Let's hear no more about the superiority of the Yankee market for the farmers.

ALLEGED MURDERER IN THE TOILS

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 16.—An Italian with blood-shot eyes, and a letter in his pocket addressed to Ed. Donato, was arrested last night by the police of Coxsackie, about twenty miles south of Albany, as being the E. Donato wanted by the police of Rennsalaer county on the charge of murdering Mrs. Conrad Morner, her two daughters and one son at the Morner farm near DeFreestville, last Tuesday. The man will be brought to Albany this morning.

The man under arrest denies all knowledge of the crime, but the Coxsackie authorities say his description fits that of the supposed murderer. They say he is polite, talks good English at times, but on others, "cannot understand."

"Donato" first said he had just come from New York, but later said he was in Albany two days ago, the police assert.

BY ACCIDENT

Workman Blundered on Electric Motor—One Dynamo Set the Other Going

At the Vienna Exposition in 1873 there occurred one of the most fortunate accidents recorded in the history of material progress of the world. Several dynamos were being set up there. One of them was already in operation, and the workmen on the job had just completed the installation of another. One of the men by mistake connected the second dynamo with the one that was in operation. To his intense astonishment the second dynamo began to revolve in the reverse direction. He told his fellow workmen what he had done, and presently they were all marvelling at the curious phenomenon. Then the men of science at the exposition heard about and they came and marvelled also.

That was the beginning of the development of the electric railway, the starting point of the largest of the new industries—electric traction—which is capitalized at billions of dollars. For the electric railway motor is practically nothing else but a dynamo, which reverses when the electric current is passed through it. There had been electric motors of one sort or another for more than 50 years before that accident at the Vienna Exposition revealed the fact that a dynamo by reverse action would become a motor, but it was not until that fact was discovered that a motor, having the simplicity, compactness, strength and durability to make it adaptable to the severe strain of ordinary railway service could be constructed.

So new is this industry of electric traction, in spite of the enormous proportions it has attained to-day, that nearly all of the men who are conspicuously identified with its development either on the mechanical or the commercial side, are still active in affairs. Twenty-five years ago there was not a mile of electric track in existence anywhere. In the United States alone there are to-day 35,000 miles of electric railway track (single) over which are operated 75,000 cars. The electric railway companies have an annual income of approximately $440,000,000, and have 250,000 employees on their salary lists. They carry 10,000,000,000 passengers a year. Beginning merely as a substitute for the old horse car, the electric railway is to-day a competitor of the steam railroad, operating in some parts of the country over lines 50 to 100 miles in length, running sleeping and dining cars and handling freight and mail.

Returned To Her Babe.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 18.—Reunited after a long separation, Mrs. O. H. Sang, wife of wealthy Japanese importer of New York, and her little five-year-old son, are together to-day. Behind the reunion here is an interesting story.

Five years ago "Yankee Consul" company played a one-night engagement at the International Theatre over the river. Olgo Sinclair, who was a Russain dancer with the company, was the mother of a two-weeks-old baby boy weighing scarcely three pounds. The manager refused to keep the young mother in the company unless she gave up the child. To leave the show meant starvation for both mother and child.

Harris Lumberg, who was at that time manager of the International, was appealed to by the almost distracted mother, and Mr. and Mrs. George Land, Chippawa, were induced to take the baby boy, the mother agreeing to pay $1 a day for his keep. For a few months the money came regularly, then all trace of the mother was lost and the Lands came to look upon the dancing girl's child as their own.

A week ago Land received a letter from a firm of New York lawyers seeking information concerning the Russian dancer's child. The mother arrived Saturday afternon and saw her boy for the first time in five years.

Mrs. Sang, who will take the boy back to New York with her, refused to talk of her fortunes during the past five years.

A little vinegar put into the water in which eggs are poached will keep them white and prevent them from spreading.

The Boy Scouts of the country, ever true to their creed, have enlisted in the battle against consumption. Under the direction of their superior officers, they are planning to do real substantial work in the selling of stamps, between now and the end of the year. Living up to their motto that each scout shall each day do some kindness to another, the boys have resolved that this slogan can be well made effective in the selling of Christmas Stamps to help on the great work being done for needy consumptives in the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. In fact, the young people everywhere, in Public Schools, Sabbath Schools, and through their many different organizations, are proving themselves a wonderful help in this Christmas Stamp campaign. If no one in your town is active in this work—if you want to be active—write the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street West, Toronto, and learn all about the possibilities of this little one cent Messenger of Healing.

Earthquake In Mexico.

Mexico City, Dec. 18.—Mexico was rocked from ocean to ocean and from Guanajuato on the north to the Isthmus of Tehuantepec on the south by an earthquake yestereday. One old woman was so badly injured in a falling hut that she may die. Mrs. Dora Chenoweth, wife of an American dentist, succumbed to heart trouble aggravated by the shock.

The disturbance was most severely felt in the State of Guerrero, especially in Chipancingo, the movement was much greater. A few flimsy buildings were thrown down.

The quake caused a panic here. Hundreds rushed terrified to the Zocalo, where they ran aimlessly about or fell on their knees in prayer.

Telegraph and telephone wires were snapped and for a time the city was without light and electric power.

The first shock was felt at 12.40 and continued for a few seconds more than two minutes. The instruments registered an oscillatory movement from southwest to [illegible]east. Two slight tremors were [illegible]ded at 2.16 and 8.13 p.m.

Turks and Russians May Clash.

London, Dec. 16.—A despatch to The Times from Teheran says that the Mollahs at Shiraz, capital of the Province of Fars, have disregarded the order of the Government to cease the boycott of the Indian troops there, and that hence these troops are absolutely without supplies. The correspondent adds that a collision is possible at any moment between Turks and Russian on the Turco-Persian frontier.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

And now I found it really essential to put my arm around her and draw her to me—she was too agitated to hear otherwise what I had to say. I hastened to explain how impossible it was for me to leave the city just at the time, what with my anxiety to recover the ruby and the necessity of keeping in close touch with Burke.

"I require only one more piece to complete the answer to our riddle," I affirmed,—I really thought so at the time,—"and you can get it for me. Don't bother your aunt; she will keep back all essentials, anyway. Your uncle and aunt and Felix Page all came from the same town, and there you can find plenty of old gossips who can—they'll be only too willing to—give you all the information you want. They'll give you more; but we can winnow the wheat from the chaff after you get back. Do you feel equal to such an undertaking?"

The proposal appeared to overcome her. She considered for a time, then turned to me, her eyes dancing, her cheeks flushed.

"Yes," she said, with bated breath. "I can't do Belle any good; she only wants to be alone. What do you want me to do?"

"Dig up every scrap of family history that you can—the Page's, the Fluettes', and the Coopers'; especially as they affect one another. Being a Cooper yourself, the task should be easy for you; you are compiling a family-tree, you know."

Genevieve gave me a sly look, and retorted:

"'When first we practice to deceive'—"

"Oh, no," I assured her. "If you do your work thoroughly, you certainly will have a complete family-tree. So there's no deception about it."

Well, it was finally settled that she would go, and that she would report the result of her journey to me as soon as possible.

She then elicited a confession of my inability to solve the cipher—which confession was yielded up to the accompaniment of an exceedingly sour smile.

"That old house is a hoodoo," I said bitterly. "I have failed in everything I ever undertook inside its walls. The rest of the chase will be pursued on the outside."

"And you did'nt even find the little daisy what-you-may-call-'ems — the originals, I mean?" She meant the crazy designs on the cipher.

"I did not."

Genevieve laughed.

"Wait till I get back. I mean to have a try at our crytograph. If the daisies are in the old Page place, I'll find them."

"They're there, all right. I'm sure you're welcome to try—if you'll let me assist in the search."

She wrinkled her nose and sniffed. "Hmf! A lot of assistance I can look from you!" Her tone was emphatically disparaging. "No, I'll find them by myself. But I'd be afraid to stay—for long—alone in that empty house."

I cared not in what capacity I served, just so I might be with her.

After making me promise that I would have the scratch on my face attended to at once, she sent me away.

I had not proceeded far toward town when I discovered that somebody was dogging my footsteps.

CHAPTER XXI

Shadows.

It required some little time for me to determine that my shadow was one of the "Japanese"; for it was a most intangible and elusive shadow. Whatever else I might think of these worthies, I could not deny that their ability to hang on a man's trail, and at the same time keep themselves wellnigh invisible, amounted positively to genius. With all my doubling and lurking in doorways around corners, the fellow never came up to where I could get a good view of him.

Of course it occurred to me that here was a chance to attempt a capture. But was it? The fellow was so slippery and artful that I risked a greater chance of losing him altogether. And then, to capture one of the quintet—or whatever their number might be—would more likely than not merely serve as a warning for the ring-leader of the crowd. Doubtless I could drag nothing at all from the fellow, even though I did succeed in laying hands upon him. If he had been set to watch me he would continue to do so unless I scared him away. I resolved to let him alone for the time being; but the first thing I did after reaching Dr. De Breen's offices, was to ring up headquarters and request the Captain to send a man to get on my shadow's trail.

The doctor gave me a bad half-hour. The instant he was through I hurried to a window to learn how events were progressing in the street. Before I had time to ascertain whether my shadow was still on duty, or whether the Central Office man had showed up, my whole attention was absorbed by the appearance of two familiar figures on the opposite side. They were Mr. Fluette and Alexander Burke, walking along together in the most intimate manner imaginable.

I glanced at my watch; it still lacked a minute or two of ten, the hour Mr. Fluette had jotted on his calendar along with the extraordinary memorandum. Inasmuch as he and his strangely chosen companion were moving rapidly, it was a reasonable assumption that he was even then on his way to keep his engagement.

For a moment I stood irresolute. I was very anxious to follow the twain to the rendezvous, while at the same time I did not want to lose my shadow. I glanced eagerly up and down the street, studying the hurrying crowd on the walk, but could not see him anywhere. Then I hurried out to the elevator, and within the next minute was dropped to the ground floor.

I was obliged to walk fast to get within range of Fluette and Burke again—not an easy thing to do among the crowd—but still I could see nothing of my headquarters man, nor of the Jap. And right then I perceived the last mentioned. He had manifestly only at that instant caught up with the speculator and his companion—though why I had failed to see him before I can't imagine—and he was evidently addressing one or the other, or both of them.

CHICAGO IN TERROR OF BAND OF THUGS

West Side Churchgoers Arm Themselves when Setting out for Evening Worship

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Bethany Union Church, at 103rd and Wood Sts., West Side, will give a festival this evening, and all the members of the Tracy Protective Association, will go armed because the streets thereabouts are infested with thugs.

Under the charter granted the Tracey Association, which is in reality a vigilance committee all members are authorized to bear arms. The men have rifles and shotguns loaded with slugs, and the women carry magazine revolvers in their muffs and chatelaines. A shooting gallery has been opened in Tracy and all the residents have become fairly expert with revolvers.

There have been a few shocking murders in the vicinity, the latest being the killing of a railroad official by a negro, who was trying to attack his eleven year old daughter.

Train Nearly In River.

Philadelphia, Dec. 16.—A signal tower was demolished and passengers on the Conshohocken, Norristown & Phoenix express train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, leaving Broad street station at 5.49 o'clock last night, narrowly escaped being thrown into the Schuylkill River when the rear coach jumped the tracks shortly after leaving the station. Six coaches composed the train, all being filled with passengers. When the rear car bounded the rails, the engineer applied the emergency brakes just as the train approached the bridge which spans the river.

Oversalting of food is very often counteracted by using a teaspoonful of vinegar and one of sugar.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION GETS CANADA SPECIMENS

Four Naturalists EXplored Wild Country Surrounding Mount Robson for Months

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 16.—The Smithsonian Institution gets nine hundred specimens from the Canadian wilds. The Smithsonian party which accompanied Dr. A. O. Wheeler, president of the Alpine Club of Canada, on his topographic survey of the British Columbia-Alberta boundary line and the Mount Robson region, has just returned to Washington after a successful tour.

The new collection is quite complete and covers practically all the birds and animals inhabiting this previously unworked territory.

The party, consisting of four members, included the assistant curator of Mammals and Mr. J. H. Riley, of the division of birds of the National Museum.

Assembling at Edmonton, Alberta, early in July, the party proceeded on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad to the end of the line where they found it necessary to take pack horses to penetrate the Mount Robson region. The land to be surveyed included the territory lying about this mountain in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, comprising the most rugged and broken country imaginable.

Amid this wonderful scenery Mount Robson rises in titanic outline the highest peak in the Rockies, probably between 14,500 and 15,000 feet, and surrounding it for a distance of fifty miles in all directions lies the field of survey.

In this wild and unclaimed country the party of naturalists remained nearly four months, protected by special permits from the Dominion Government. The natural history work was divided up, Mr. Hollister and Mr. Riley collecting the birds and small animals, while the other two collectors hunted big game.

The collection includes 900 specimens of birds and animals ranging in size from mole-like creatures called "H. H. Rews," to full grown caribous and bears. One enormous grizzly bear was obtained by a fortunate shot. Much fine material for exhibition groups was obtained, including a series of caribous, mountain goats, mountain sheep, beavers and many varieties of small animals.

Besides birds and mammals a large number of plants and insects were collected. All the specimens have been turned over to the National Museum, where they will be put on exhibition.—Montreal Star, Dec. 16.

IMPORTANT MEDICAL APPOINTMENTS

Leading Canadian Physicians Become Consultants to the Muskoka Sanatoriums

The trustees of the National Sanitarium Association have announced to the Medical Profession in Canada that they have appointed Dr. W. P. Caven, Dr. J. T. Fotheringham, Dr. H. B. Anderson and Dr. Harold Parsons consultants to the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium and the Muskoka Free Hospital. These well-known physicians will spend a day regularly once a month at the Muskoka Homes. The visits of Dr. Parsons, who has charge of the tuberculosis clinic at the Toronto General Hospital, will be made every two months.

The Canadian Army

There is nothing like having a gentleman at the head of a department of State who knows his business, and has the enterprise and courage to inforce the reforms which he decides upon. That the Hon. Col. Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence, is of that character is evident from the energetic manner in which he is, at this early stage of his ministerial career, adopting means to put the militia force upon a footing to make it of some service to the country.

We cannot do better than reproduce The Globe's Ottawa correspondent's account of what the Minister is doing. The correspondent, writing on the 14th inst., among other things, says:—

> Hon. Col. Hughes is proceeding, with characteristic vigor to carry out his programme of meeting the militia requirements of the country. In addition to the new barracks at Toronto, he is also preparing to promptly provide new militia quarters at Montreal, Ottawa and other centres. At Montreal a half-million dollars will be spent on new barracks on the St. Lambert's site. A permanent corps will be established there.
>
> The Minister has also inaugurated a reform in regard to the annual schools of instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers. Hitherto these schools have been held at a comparatively few fixed points throughout the Dominion, and in some districts the men have to travel considerable distance to reach them. Under the new arrangement the instructors will do most of the travelling, and the schools will come to the officers at most points instead of compelling the officers to leave their places of residence to go to the schools. There are now available on the permanent staff seventy-five instructors, and a vigorous effort will be made to remedy one of the chief deficiencies of the present militia service—namely, the scarcity of properly qualified officers. The first of the schools of instruction will open in St. John on Jan. 1st.
>
> Plans for the new Toronto barracks near Long Branch to replace the present Stanley Barracks have been completed, and tenders will be called for shortly. The plans call for a total expenditure of about half a million dollars and provide for buildings, drill grounds, etc., for the Toronto permanent corps that will meet the requirements of many years to come. Work will be started next spring but the new barracks will probably take four or five years to finally complete. Meanwhile the transfer of the present barracks site to the city will of course be delayed.
>
> Lieut.-Colonel Hardin has been appointed Inspector of Arms and Ammunition for the Dominion, a new office.

Changes in India

The transfer of the capital of British India from Calcutta to Delhi will be gratifying to the natives in a sentimental way, since Delhi is the ancient capital—the principal seat of power for centuries before the English came. The ancient Delhi, on the opposite side of the Ganges from the present city, is said to have dated from the fifteenth century before Christ. Calcutta is a modern town, founded by the English and built up under their direction.

The division of the government of Bengal will be less popular with the natives, though it probably will work out for their benefit. At present Bengal, which includes most of Northern India, is administered by a Lieutenant Governor with very autocratic powers. There is a Legislative Council, which is, in part, nominally elected by the people, but no legislative act can be introduced without the consent of the Viceroy or the Secretary of State for India. The effect is that a population of some 80,000,000 is governed by very few officials and the people have virtually no voice in the management of their affairs. By the division of the province, two Lieutenant Governors will rule where hitherto there has been but one, the importance of the office will be considerably diminshed and each will be in position to study more closely the wants of the people under his charge.

Delhi possesses great interest for the British people, because of the memorable siege and final storming of the great fortress during the Mutiny and the capture of the native ruler. Wonderful as have been the achievements of British soldiers, none has been more memorable than their doughty deeds during the siege and assault of the capital of the Great Mogul.

KINGSTON'S NEWPAVEMENT IS IN A VERY BAD SHAPE

The newly laid permanent pavement at the intersection of King and Brock streets is in a wretched condition, many of the blocks being either loose or sprung up in most uneven surfaces. In fact, in spots, the pavement looks like a patchwork.

As a consequence the contractors will be obliged to relay a goodly portion of the work in the spring; but fortunately the city is fully protected as a considerable sum of money is still held back from the contract.—Standard.

Two Nearly Suffocated.

Port Hope, Dec. 18.—Fire was discovered at about 1 o'clock yesterday morning in the lockup of the Town Hall, where a commercial traveler, for being drunk and disorderly, and also a young man, charged with stealing a horse, were confined. Constable Chester and family, who live in the building, were aroused by the shouts of prisoners and liberated them just in the nick of time, as they were almost overcome by the smoke. The fire was extinguished after it had done a few hundred dollars' worth of damage, and thus the town hall was saved. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

U. S. Financing for Nicaragua.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, Dec. 18.—The Nicaraguan Finance Minister has handed over the custom houses to the American financial advsier of the Nicaraguan Government, Ernest H. Wands. This action is taken in connection with the readjustment of Nicaragua's finances, which is to be carried out with the aid of the American Government, and with the loans which are forthcoming from American bankers.

A Costly Fire.

Hudson, N.Y., Dec. 18.—Fire starting at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the large storehouse of the New York and Hudson Steamboat Co. here burned that building and its contents, spread to the Washburn ice house, which was also destroyed, and to the Hudson Wholesale Grocery Co.'s building, all but one end of which was saved. The total loss is estimated at more than $200,000.

CHARGE AGAINST RETURNING OFFICER

Auditor-General Accuses Official in Maisonneuve of Fraud

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—Upon information sworn out by Mr. James Fraser, the Auditor-General of the Dominion of Canada, Albert Gingras, returning officer of the Maisonneuve division at the time of the last Federal election, and chief enumerator for the same division at the time of the last census, was arraigned this morning before Judge Leet.

The charge is to the effect that "Since the 14th day of September, until the 8th day of December, by false pretences and with the intention of defrauding, Gingras tried to obtain from the Dominion of Canada, the sum of $200, more or less, and there is good reason to suspect that he had in his possession in his dwelling some papers with which he intended to commit said fraud."

He was released on $500 bail.

CHRISTMAS GIFT OF $100,000

Word has been received from Washington by Mrs. Henrietta Foster, of 160 Palisade Avenue, Yonkers, that she and her four children are beneficiaries of $100,000 as the result of the settlement of the long standing claim of Alsop & Co. against the Government of Chile. The claim was settled for $900,000, King George of England serving as arbitrator. As the expenses were $400,000 the claimants, of whom there are nine, will receive $500,000.

George J. Foster, Mrs. Foster's father-in-law, held 20 1-2 per cent. of the stock of Alsop & Co. Several days before his death Mrs. Foster's husband told her that his father had a large interest in the company which had a large claim against Bolivia. When Bolivia went to war with Chile and Chile won, it agreed to recognize all claims against Bolivia. This was in 1867, but it was not until August last that the claim was paid.

Mrs. Foster and her family received the news with inexpressible joy. Harry Foster, the eldest son, said that the first thing to be done with the money was to build a home. He said that his mother had always expressed a wish to see the world, and that a trip would be planned for her.

PIGEONS WERE HIS MESSENGERS

One Carries a Note from His Wife Telling Him to Hurry to Dinner

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., Dec. 16.—Edward Carson looked out of the back window of his jewelry store at noon to-day and saw one of his best carrier pigeons hopping about the yard. Thinking the bird had escaped from the cote a few blocks from the store, he went out and caught it, intending to take it home. When he took it into his store he noticed a piece of paper fastened to one of its legs. The paper bore this message:

"Telephone not working. Come to luncheon early. Company." He wrote this answer:

"Count me in."

Luncheon was ready when he got home. Mrs. Carson found the bird hopping on the kitchen porch with the note.

When Mr. Carson takes office as Supervisor of the First Ward in April, he intends to train his carriers to take messages from White Plains to New Rochelle. He says his pigeons are safer than messengers, telephone, or telegraph and quicker than the mails.

KING LAID STONE OF NEW CAPITAL

DELHI, Dec. 15.—The King-Emperor and the Queen-Empress laid the first stone of the new capital of India, which, as was proclaimed after the Durbar, is to be Delhi, to-day. There was a brilliant assemblage of the ruling princes, governors and state officials.

The foundation stone simply bore the date, December 15.

MAN'S BODY SCATTERED ALONG RAILWAY

LINDSAY, Ont., Dec. 16.—Pat Penrose, a well-known carpenter of Lindsay, met a horrible death last evening when he was struck by the G. T. R. flyer while crossing the iron bridge. This morning workmen picked parts of the dismembered body all along the track, while a leg was also found on the C. P. R. tracks below, and his coat a half a mile out in the country.

It is assumed that owing to the blinding snow storm and winds last night that Penrose did not hear the train. Strange to say, he was struck in a like manner two winters ago, and seriously injured.

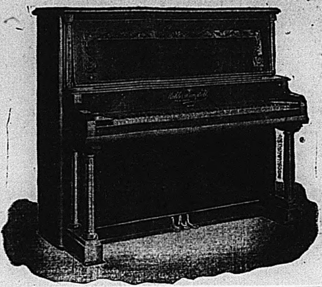
KOHLER and CAMPBELL PIANOS

Over 130,000 Now In Use!



Over 100 Already Placed in Houses in Belleville District

Kohler & Campbell Pianos are made to satisfy the big demand for a piano of real musical excellence and artistic appearance, at a price within the purse-reach of the majority of the people.

It is utterly impossible for anyone to realize the economical manufacturing strength of the Kohler & Campbell organization, without a clear idea of its enormous manufacturing facilities. To the average man a piano factory is merely a factory—a place where pianos are made. Yet there is the greatest difference in the world, On one hand you have a plant, which, on account of its great production, can make and sell its pianos for far less than the other factory. And on the other hand you might have a very small factory, which, while it produces a good instrument, has a very small capacity, and its piano for piano production costs are considerably higher than those of the larger plant. That is why you find has manufacturer selling his pianos for $400.00 to $600.00, while we market pianos of the same grade for $235.00 to $350.00.

"The Home Piano of America"

The KOHLER & CAMPBELL Piano

"The Home of the K. & C Piano"

In order that the people of Belleville might have a clearer idea of the extent of the great Kohler & Campbell Factories and the economies of production in great quantities, Mr. Leo Riggs, who daily plays the $75,000 Pipe Organ (the largest in America) at Hotel Astor, New York, was instructed to visit the manufacturing plant and record his impressions.

Under date of November 28th, 1911, Mr. Riggs forwarded the following letter to his father:

MY DEAR FATHER:

I met Mr. Simpson, of the Kohler & Campbell Co., yesterday. On learning of our relationship he insisted that I go over and see their factory. I am glad I did, because I was certainly surprised and delighted. I only wish you could run down to New York and see for yourself just how they do things. I do not wonder now why there are so many happy and satisfied owners of these pianos.

What impressed me most was the great stock carried in their factory. They have nearly 10,000 pianos uncompleted on their floors at all times. I am sure this explains just how pianos of K. & C. excellence can be sold at so low a price. They use such large quantities of material that they can buy very cheaply. Thep have a wonderful system in manufacturing. There is a separate department for each part of the piano and the checking of the work is so perfect that it is impossible for any imperfect piece of work to pass unnoticed in its travels from one department to another.

I also found the same extraordinary conditions at the Autopiano Plant which adjoins that of K. & C.

Time will not permit to tell you in detail of all I saw. In closing let me say that I have owned one of these pianos for two years. At the end of that time it is in beautiful condition, and you know I give it some good hard work. If prospective purchasers of pianos knew just how these pianos are made and their real lasting qualities, there would be no hesitation on their part in selecting a Kohler & Campbell. Hoping you are doing the business of your life,

Affectionately Your Son,

LEO B. RIGGS.

ENGLAND IS NERVOUS

Fears Openly Expressed For King George's Safety.

Every Effort Was Made to Persuade His Majesty to Avoid Visit to India and Friday's Rumor Is Evidence of the Anxiety In London—Fires In Durbar Camps Increase Feeling—Royal Party Hunting.

London, Dec. 18.—Apprehension for the safety of King George in India is now voiced openly in official circles. The rumor of the King's assassination on Friday was the natural outcome of the apprehension felt in London and shows how keenly the nerves are on edge of those who realize the danger of the crisis which would be precipitated if harm came to the sovereign.

Every effort was made to persuade the King to abandon his visit, but he was obdurate in the face of evidence presented to him of Indian unrest which was not seeking an opportunity such as the royal presence would afford to demonstrate its strength. Those whose advice he did not heed now feel justified in saying "I told you so!"

An appreciation of the danger of the situation is shown by Parliament in its present treatment of the announcement of the removal of the capital from Calcutta to Delhi and the readjustment of the boundaries of Bengal and Assam. It was a stroke of genius for the Ministry to induce the King to make the announcement. This fact in a measure stifled criticism on account of the desire not to reflect on the King-Emperor. But the main consideration causing the present reticence is that which was implied by Bonar Law, the leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, when he said that it would be dangerous to the King's safety to agitate the subject while royalty is in India. The first bitter outburst of the Marquis of Lansdowne and Lord Curzon, both of whom were former viceroys, were frowned upon in the press and elsewhere, and there is evidence that the would-be critics of the Indian changes will remain silent until the King has started for England.

While the reports that the burning of the durbar tents was caused by incendiaries have been discountenanced by the press, the belief is widespread that the fires were purposely set as a protest against British rule. The Ministry will breathe a sigh of relief when the Indian excursion passes into history.

Hunting In Nepal.

Delhi, India, Dec. 18.—King George, who Saturday left for Nepal on a shooting expedition, was notified before his departure of the death of Maharajah of Nepal, Shamsher Jang Bahadur, on Dec. 11. Before his death the maharajah expressed the wish that his illness would not interfere with the King-Emperor's visit. The succession of his son, Hair, has been announced and the mourning ceremonies will be hastened. The King decided to fulfil his engagement.

New Uniform Rule.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—The Minister of Militia is putting into effect a new rule with regard to the selection of uniforms for the militia. Under the old system the cloth for the uniforms was purchased without any stipulation as to color standards, the result being that different regimnets wore varied hues of red or of green, and this has caused comment on review days. Hereafter, the cloth will be manufactured in Canada specially for the militia under the supervision of a textile expert.

WILL AVOID OFFENCE

Taft Does Not Propose to Quarrel With Russia.

President Has Sent a Diplomatic Message to Czar's Ministers, Giving Notice of the Proposal of the U. S. to Abrogate Treaty on Account of Jews—Will Veto Sulzer's Fire-Eating Resolution If It Passes.

Washington, Dec. 18.—The Russian treaty situation cleared materially yesterday, and the administration plans for the abrogation of the 1832 pact with the St. Petersburg Government became more definitely known. President Taft, it is said, has indicated emphatically that he would veto the Sulzer resolution instantly if it should be forced through the Senate to-day without modification. Nothing that can be construed as an offence to Russia will be permitted if the President can help it.

According to plans announced last night, Mr. Taft to-day will send two communications to the capitol, one a message addressed to the same to be considered in executive session, and the other a letter directed to Chairman Cullom of the Senate committee on foreign relations. In these communications, Mr. Taft, it is said, will outline his attitude plainly, and will call pointed attention to the fact that international relations are not lightly to be dealt with.

Despite the advice of certain of the Republican leaders of the House that the lower branch of Congress should be considered in the matter, President Taft said last night he was determined to ignore the House entirely in his further dealing with the Russian situation. Senate leaders expect to hear to-day that the President, through American Ambassador Guild at St. Petersburg, already has notified Russia of the impending abrogation of the treaty. This notice is believed to have been couched in the politest terms of diplomatic language, and to have stated that the American people had come to regard the treaty as obsolete in many of its provisions. The expiration of the treaty is fixed for Jan. 1, 1913.

N. J. Divorce Was N. G.

Montreal, Dec. 18.—A divorce said to have been obtained in the District Court of New Jersey, failed to meet with recognition at the hands of Judge Charbonneau yesterday when Dame Caroline Francis Smith brought an action against her husband, Henry Charles Cornish, to force him to support herself and her children.

The couple were married in West Ham, Eng., in 1886. Two years ago Cornish left his wife and went to the United States. Here he obtained a divorce and then came to Montreal and is said to be earning $3,000 a year. His wife traced him and, Saturday, despite his plea that the American divorce freed him from all obligations and liabilities, that the judge ordered him to pay his wife $50 a month for twelve months and costs.

Canadians In Georgia Railroad.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 18.—The Georgai Railroad Commission yesterday approved the $47,000,000 stock and bond issue sof the Georgia Railway & Power Co., a consolidation of numerous North Georgia water power electric concerns, financed largely by New York, Boston and Canadian interests.

The company asked permission to capitalize at $27,000,000, and issue $30,000,000 in bonds. The farmer was cut to $17,000,000, whlie the latter was approved.

Whether this compromise will be accepted will be decided by the company officials in New York this week.

Reick Buys The Sun.

New York, Dec. 18.—The Sun yesterday announced that the controlling interest in The Sun Printing & Publishing Association has been purchased from the estate of Wm. M. Laffan by Wm. C. Reick, who will direct the property in future as president and publisher.

It was added that no further announcement would be made at this time. Mr. Reick, the new proprietor, was for several years general manager of The Times, and also president of The Philadelphia Public Ledger Co. He is 47 years old.

Berlin's New High School.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 18.—The high school, which is nearing completion at a cost of $100,000, will be formally opened by the Minister of Education, Hon. Dr. Pyne, during the first week of the New Year. The Board of Education decided to name the school Victoria, owing to its close proximity to Victoria Park and the Queen Victoria monument. It is an eight-room school and is one of the most modern in the province. It is fireproof throughout, and has every convenience for teaching.

Sank at Her Pier.

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 18.—Early yesterday the coasting steamer Avon, belonging to the Peninsular Steamship So., sank at her pier. The cook, who was asleep bleow, had time only to spring to the wharf, wearing nothing but his nightclothes. The theory is that the seacock had been turned on, how no one knows, thus allowing the steamer to fill.

GERMANY SMELLS RAT

Paper Accuses Great Britain of a Dynamite Plot.

Rhenish Westphalian Zeitung Publishes an Inflammatory Story to the Effect That British Conspirators Tried to Blow Up Wilhelmshaven, the Big Warship Harbor—British Admiralty Laughs at Tale.

Cologne, Dec. 18.—The Rhenish Westphalian Zietung publishes a story of an alleged discovery of a plan on the part of Great Britain to blow up Wilhelmshaven. The Zietung professes to have received its information from one of the best informed officers, who said that the postal authorities, becoming suspicious of repeated money orders in favor of deck officers and chief mates, finally seized some of the letters passing through the postal department. These showed that the plans to the entrances to Wilhelmshaven war harbor, as well as plans of the water supply and the contents of the secret code book had been betrayed to the British Admiralty.

The paper points out that with such information at its command, Great Brtiain could blow up the entrances to the war harbor at the decisive moment, rendering the harbor utterly useless and Germany at the very beginning of war helpless to defend herself at sea. To prevent the threatened danger, The Zietung continues, a German squadron remained for weeks on patrol duty. Recent conferences between the Emperor, the Minister of Marine, the chief of the Admiralty staff, and the chief of the Marine Department, dealt with this danger.

Just a Romance.

London, Dec. 18.—The story that the British Admiralty has secured plans of the locks and water supply and the secret signal codes of Wilhelmshaven with the idea in event of war of blowing up the harbor entrances, and thus bottling up the German fleet, is regarded here as a mere romance. It is further alleged that to avoid this supposed danger, the German fleet kept for weeks to the open sea during the recent crisis. These stories are supposed to have been betrayed by German officers to the Rhenish Westphalian Zietung, which is strongly anti-British and the organ of the war material trade.

England Not Friendly.

Cologne, Dec. 18.—The Cologne Gazette's inspired Berlin despatch says yesterday, commenting on The London News' article in which Anglo-German relations are discussed: "The News correctly asserts that the desire for better relations will not be satisfied until English speeches are supported by English deeds. One could believe from reading The News that the greatest goodwill exists among the English, and that closer relations between Great Britain and Germany would be in no wise difficult.

"Unfortunately, it must be said that The News is far from expressing public opinion in England, which now, as formerly, approves the policies which can be blamed for the present situation.

"Of course," continues The Gazette, "there are some prominent Englishmen who have preserved the historic British open-mindedness towards us. Lord Charles Beresford appears to have joined these recently, but their influence is not strong enough to banish the hypnosis with which the English regard German policies and what they believe to be behind them. The conviction that Germany is threatening Great Britain with every sinister plan is so firmly rooted through years of incitement by a certain section of the press, that it would be difficult to shake off. How deep this conviction is and how it rises to blind hatred can be seen from the libels which have been uttered against Germany."

Death List Now 84.

Briceville, Tenn., Dec. 18.—Twenty-one more bodies were found yesterday in the Cross Mountain mine, in which an explosion occurred a week ago yesterday morning. This brings the death list to 84 and President Stevenson of the Knoxville Iron Co., owner of the mine, stated last night that he believed this accounted for every man entombed. Five were rescued. The company has claimed from the first that but 85 men were in the workings when the explosion occurred, but the miners say there were more.

Fifty-nine women were made widows and 147 children left fatherless as a result of the disaster. In addition, there are ten or twelve other dependents. It is probable all bodies will be removed by to-day. Only one of 84 men killed carried life insurance. The relief fund has passed the $20,000 mark.

To Stop Tripoli War Films.

Washington, Dec. 18—Italy, through her ambassador here, Saturday appealed to the State Department to stop the exhibition in the United States of motion pictures alleging to portray the massacre of Arabs and Turks in Tripoli by Italian soldiers. The States Department informed the ambassador that it would do what it could towards stopping the exhibtion of the objectional pictures.

Royalty Will Enjoy Winter.

Montreal, Dec. 18—That Their Royal Highnesses intend to enjoy the Canadian winter in true Canadian fashion was made evident by some purchases made by Captain Buller, A.D.C., before the departure of the royal party. He visited a well-known sporting goods establishment and purchased toboggans, skis, snowshoes, etc., ordering the store authorities to send them to Rideau Hall.

Strikebreaker Shot Dead.

Houston, Tex., Dec. 18.—The third killing during the strike of Harriman line shopmen here occurred yesterdey, when Thomas C. Lyons, a carpenter, was shot dead in the Southern Pacific Railroad yards. Lyons came here from Kansas City.

The assassin has not been identified and no arrests have been made.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 16.—There was some realizing at the opening, with prices lower and following the opening further pressure carried values lower, with support lacking. The early firmness in Buenos Ayres and the unfavorable weather there and the strong closing in American markets yesterday were offset here by the reaction in Buenos Ayres at the close and latest reports of hot dry weather over most of the area, which is highly favorable. There was free outside selling by early buyers on the quieter demand for cargoes and parcels and forecast of fine weather in Argentine. At the close the market was easy, ¼ to ⅜ lower.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Despite hopeful news from many quarters, better harvest weather in the Argentine sent the wheat market to-day to a lower level. The close here was easy at 1-4c to 1-2c under the figures of 24 hours before. Corn finished a shade to 3-8c higher than last night. Oats a shade lower and hog products varying from unaltered prices to decline of 10c.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat was quieter and cables stated that advanced prices asked by exporters checked business and there were few orders in the market that could be accepted on account of the higher prices for wheat and the advance in ocean grain freights. There was no change in the local market for coarse grains, for which the demand was fair. There was an improved demand from European sources for spring wheat flour. Sales of sdveral thousand sacks were made and bids of 3d to 6d per sack less were in hand for round lots. Sales of 90 per cent. winter wheat patents were made to Belfast at equal to 24s 6d to Glasgow, but the best bid from Glasgow was 24s. The local market is steady with a fair volume of business doing. Demand for bran and shorts is good. Cheese is quiet. Receipts for the week were 1084 boxes, against 2037 a year ago. Demand for butter is fairly good. Receipts for the week were 4231 packages, against 3462 a year ago. Eggs active and strong. Receipts for the week were 2243 cases, against 454 a year ago.

Express Case Postponed.

Hamilton, Dec. 18.—The preliminary hearing of Chilman and Acheson, accused of the theft of $8,000 from the Canadian Express Co. last September, which had been set for to-day, has again been postponed, this time until Wednesday of this week, at the request of counsel for the accused, George Lynch-Staunton, who has to go to Ottawa to-day and cannot be present here. Crown Attorney Washington said on Saturday that the hearing in the cases against Acheson and Chilman would certainly be proceeded with on Wednesday.

Lloyd-George Wounded.

London, Dec. 18.—David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was seriously injured while leaving a Women's Liberal meeting here on Saturday evening, at which he had just made an address. A male suffragist hurled a brassbound box at the Chancellor, which struck him full in the face, cutting his lip and badly injuring his eye. A doctor who attended the Chancellor's injuries, said that he had a narrow escape from losing the eye.

Sir Edward Grey and Mr. Lloyd-George both addressed the meeting in favor of including female franchise in the Government's suffrage bill next year. The police had taken extraordinary precautions to exclude militant suffragists from the meeting, but evidently some of them forced their way through the barrier.

FOREST OF POLES ON THE STREETS FACE OBLITERATION

All Wires Soon to go Underground and One Disgrace to Montreal's Landscape Will Disappear—Fight for Underground Trolley Wires Next—Montreal a Mining Camp, Perhaps—Typhoid Mary Bobs up Again—Hangman to Deliver Lecture on His Art

(From our own correspondent.)

MONTREAL, Dec. 16.—In an attempt to reach a point of vantage from which to view the passing of their Royal Highnesses, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, whom Montreal has been entertaining this week, a young man fell fifteen or twenty feet from an electric light pole to the pavement. As he was being lifted into the ambulance Mr. George Janin, the City Engineer, said: "He's quite a tumbler pigeon, that fellow; but I promise you if he wants to see our next Governor-General from electric wires, he'll have to fall into a manhole instead of off a pole."

Montreal's poles and overhead wires are to go. The Montreal Light, Heat and Power has already started the movement by placing its lines underground at its own expense, and the city now has a commission at work studying out a plan with a view to getting all the overhead wires buried under the sod. It is rather peculiar, but none the less true, that when Morse, the inventor of the telegraph, Orrin Wood, the first operator, and Ezra Cornell, the founder of Cornell University, were building the first commercial electric system in the world they planned to place the wires underground in New York City. The excavating machine could not stand the shock of the Bowery soil and broke. Cornell then had to go to the Government and obtain permission to put the wires on poles, and it is only within the last decade that engineesr have commenced to realize that the first attempt was right and the latter wrong.

As soon as telephone, lighting and power wires have been put out of the way, an assault is to be made on the street railway for an underground trolley system.

MONTREAL A MINING TOWN

Whether Montreal is in danger of being turned into the most remarkable mining camp in the history of the country is the question which is perplexing legal experts here as the result of the discovery of a quartz vein bearing free gold far below the city streets. For some time it has been known that his city is underlain by mineral bearing rock and many deposits of garnets and other semi-precious stones have been discovered from time to time.

The deepest excavations heretofore made, however, in the course of providing foundation for the great skyscrapers have not exceeded 125 feet and the mineral deposits which they have brought to light have not been of sufficient value to make them profitable. While the quartz vein already discovered bearing free gold in considerable quantities is only a small one, there are authorities who believe it is an offshoot of a larger vein or lode, which may turn the city into a real mine. The geological formation which is now being reached at a great depth for the first time is similar to that in which some of the world's largest silver mines have been found.

THE COOK SUPPLY.

That the fast disappearing Canadian cook is as important as health, if not more so, is the basis of a novel suit shortly to be tried in this city in behalf of "Typhoid Mary" who achieved notoriety here because of her three years' seclusion by the Health Department on the unique charge of being a "chronic germ carrier." Mary's strange name comes from the fact that about four years ago a series of typhoid cases in houses in which she worked as cook led the health authorities to conclude that she was the transmitter of the germs causing the sickness. Although she had never suffered from any contagious illness, she was, as a result, secluded for nearly three years. Now she has brought suit against the city to recover $50,000 damages for illegal detention. The gravity of the case, in view of the present difficulty of securing domestic servants is pointed out by Mary's lawyer, who argues that if the Board of Health cannot act in a similar manner in the case of any person who is alleged to be a "germ carrier," it can put in jail thousands of cooks who have had typhoid, since evidences of this disease remain in the system long after recovery, and thus put the cook industry out of business. In view of this opinion it becomes far less important whether or not Typhoid Mary recovers her $50,000 as compared to how the result of the trial will affect the cook supply of the country.

FRIENDS BADE THEM A KINDLY FAREWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Wright Given a Formal Expression of their Neighbors' Good-will

On Monday evening, Dec. 11, 1911, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wright, Haktor, Tyendinaga, was the scene of a very pleasant event. Mr. Wright has lately disposed of his farm and purposes removing to Toronto in the near future. The people of the community had previously arranged among themselves to surprise Mr. and Mrs. Wright, and about 6.30 p.m. a large number, provided with well filled baskets, assembled, and after a short time spent in social chat, Mr. and Mrs. Wright were requested to seat themselves in the dining room, and were presented with a handsome silver service and accompanying address.

Mr. Wright replied in his usual able manner, sincerely thanking all who had participated for their gift. He modestly disclaimed any right to recognition, maintaining that he and Mrs. Wright had simply done their duty as any citizen would have done. He also extended a most hearty invitation to all present to call upon them in their new home at Toronto, where he assured them that every endeavor would be made to make their visit pleasant. The affair was a complete success, Mr. and Mrs. Wright not having the slightest intimation of the intention of their neighbors.

STOLE MILLION FEET OF LUMBER AT NIGHT

River Pirates Managed to Steer It Through the Hell Gate Currents

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The feat of stealing a million feet of lumber and convoying it safely through the treacherous currents of Hell Gate was successfully accomplished by river pirates on the night of November 11, according to a police report just made public. The theft has no parallel in the annals of the police.

The lumber was from Georgia, and consigned to the Yellow Pine Co., It was worth $50,000 and the two rafts weighed something over 5,000,000 pounds.

The passage through Hell Gate, which the thieves somehow accomplished with the cumbersome burden is one which even the big battleships and liners avoid after nightfall. The rafts were somehow poled a distance of eleven miles, and beached in a secluded bay on the Long Island Coast. Later, most of the lumber was recovered by the harbor police. The identity of the thieves, still remains unknown.

DEATH'S CALL

THOMAS JENKS.

Mr. Thomas Jenks, an elderly gentleman, who resided with his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Deshane, of this city, died last evening from an attack of pneumonia. Deceased, who was in his 80th year was born in Prince Edward County, where he resided the greater portion of his life. He had been a resident of the city but a short time. Mr. Jenks was a man highly esteemed by all who knew him. He had been for many years a member of the Orange Order. In religion he was a Methodist. Mrs. Jenks preceded him to the tomb some years ago. Surviving are three sons and five daughters. The sons are Chester, Arthur and Augustus, all residents of Prince Edward County. The daughters are Mrs. Joseph Deshane, of this city; Mrs. John Covert, Mrs. Chas. Hunt and Mrs. Greeley, of Prince Edward County, and Miss Evelyn, of Brighton.

ABLE SERMON ON MILITARISM

Rev. W. G. Clarke's Discourse on the Ethics of the Sword

"The Ethics of the Sword. Ought the Canadian boy to have a military training?" This was the subject of the 4th of a series of sermons on the "Ethics of the Commonplace," now being delivered on Sunday evenings in the Methodist Tabernacle Church by the Rev. Geo. W. Clarke. The church was crowded on the occasion. Mr. Clarke prefaced his remarks with the statement that in this sermon the case of war as advanced by its defenders would be presented. Next Sunday night, Christmas Eve, the subject will be presented from the position of the Prince of Peace, "Peace on Earth, Good-will to Men."

The text chosen was in Ex. 15:3 and Psalm 144:1; also in the New Testament in Rom. 13:4 and Matt. 8:19.

War is one of the commonplace events in history and is all too common, even up to the present day. The cost of war in men and money is enormous. It is said the Civil War cost 600,000 lives and $10,000,000,000. To day, sober minded men who are accustomed to looking facts squarely in the face, talk of the certainty of war in the near future between Germany and England. The events of the past summer awaken us to the fact that for years most of us have been living in a fools' paradise. War between these two mighty peoples would be not merely a disaster, but a hideous crime. Now that we are awake, the Christian sentiment in these two nations must say to our rulers, 'You must come to some amiable understanding with each other.' To pursue this work deliberately of preparation for war cannot be justified nor morally defended. It can only be a war for supremacy and as such would be a crime against humanity. Surely there is room enough on this wide earth for both Germans and English.

In eliminating from the discussion of the subject those things which no right thinking person undertakes to defend, the first thing to go by the board is the curse of militarism. Universal conscription will go with it, and all wars where the sword is drawn only in hatred and revenge. No one defends wars of aggression and greed, nor the use of the sword as the instrument of religious fanaticism and bigotry.

On the other hand Mr. Clarke presented for consideration many of the precepts and practices found in the Old and New Testaments which illuminate the case for war from the scriptural standpoint. Of course it may seem a very easy way of disposing of the whole question by the Sheldonian method of asking what would Jesus do? But the Master's words to the centurion, Matt. 8:10, and His whole attitude toward the man who trade was war do not allow us to settle the question so easily. As well as the cases of Cornelius, the soldier and the Philippian guard. They were not required to leave their trade, though they believed in Christ. In more recent times Cromwell's Ironsides verily believed they were doing the will of God. A host of splendid Christian soldiers, of whom Sir Henry Havelock and Chinese Gordon are shining examples, have given men pause who would condemn the soldier's trade. Hugh Price Hughes, while attacking war makes the confession "Some of the best Christians I have ever known have been in the army."

For these and other reasons it is contended that an army for purely defensive purposes is morally defensible. There are worse things than war. Slavery is worse in its effects. To take the side of the enslaved ones and punish their oppressors as in the Civil War of 1860-65 is right. So the Christian Church believes, for she sends her chaplains with the soldiers and invokes God's blessing upon her country's arms. Hence, it is morally defensible that Canada as a Chistian nation should have an army for purely defensive purposes.

And to the question: "Ought the Canadian boy to have a military training?" our answer must be 'Yes' and 'No.' No, if you mean that military training should be made compulsory and demand universal conscription. Yes, if you mean that the training should be purely voluntary, on the basis of the purely volunteer militia system such as we now have.

But are there not essential features of good strong citizenship which a military training will supply to our youth and hence ought to be made compulsory? Does not military training and discipline set him up physically? Does it not mean organization and system, precision and orderliness? Does it not develop that essential to all sterling character, obedience? Does it not promote manly endurance, courage, and a wholesome contempt for personal hardship?

'We have many organizations among the young whose operation and object is wholly peaceful in character and which are calculated to do all these things. We have our Boy Scouts, Boys' Brigade, Rifle Associations, High School Cadets, Y. M. C. A.'s with all kinds of manly sports, and the organization of all kinds of industrial concerns to-day into miniature armies. We have our Sunday Schools which in form are organized into companies, etc. And the question is looming up for settlement before the Christian Church, will it permit without protest all those organizations that at present are so peaceful in their purpose while military form to be linked up to our militia system and so imbued with the military spirit? This would mean at least the widespread fostering of the military spirit and would be a long step toward the introduction of universal conscription. It would be putting the hands of the clock back instead of forward. This pulpit for one must take its stand against any such movement as would make the objective of all these organizations the inculcating of the military spirit that in its last analysis means the preparation and training of the youth that he may the better be able to take the life of his fellowman. To move forward means to teach our youth how to save life, not how to take life. While this is true, we do not decry our soldier militia. The soldier's calling is an unselfish one, and in the time of crisis, exalts the purest patriotism. He gives his life for his country, as at Queenston Heights and Ridgeway, and many another historic field, and if such a thing were imaginable as a war again between the United States and our Dominion, who would be the ones to rush to battle to drive back the invader? These same soldier militia, while we would reap and enjoy the benefits purchased for us by their hardships, dangers, wounds and life blood. And the most bitter opponent of war would sit tight and reap with the rest. Let us be consistent and either honor our soldiers or keep very quiet.

Mr. Clarke also made a very strong plea for the banishment of the canteen from the militia camps. One of the most serious charges against militia training camps is the number of young men who have fallen before the temptation of the open canteen. All the Christian forces of Canada must stand against it.

When one sums up the horrors and misery and ruin that war has made the prayer of suffering humanity is that God may hasten the day

"When the war drums cease their throbbing
And the battle flags are furled
In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world."

"DIAMOND DICK" DEAD IN KANSAS CITY

George R. Cleveland, Who Was With Buffalo Bill and Texas Jack, Succumbs

OGDENSBURG, N.Y., Dec. 1.—Word was received here to-day of the death last night in Kansas City, Kansas, of George R. McLelland, better known as "Diamond Dick," famous in dime novel lore, from injuries received from being run down by a train while driving over a railroad crossing

McLelland was a native of Ogdensburg, and his paernts still reside there. He was a crack shot with the rifle, his favorite trick being the shooting of an apple from a man's head. He ran away from home at the age of sixteen, and in 1872 joined with "Buffalo Bill," "Wild Bill," and "Texas Jack," in the show business. He is said to have been the first doctor in Oklahoma, and when the Spanish war broke out he organized a regiment of old Indian braves and offered his and their services to the country.

"Diamond Dick" gained his sobriquet because of the large number of diamonds he wore. His body will be brought to Ogdensburg for burial.

Every man knows what he will do in an emergency until the time comes.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec 16.—Paddy Lavin, of Buffalo, boxed the famous Willie Lewis, of New York, to a no-decision draw here last night, but he was lucky to weather the final rounds for he was in trouble several times.

Lavin made an exceptionally good showing against the hard-hitting Lewis in the earlier rounds, but on end Lewis opened out, and in the eighth, ninth and tenth had the best of the go, and looked as if he might have put Lavin away had he been a little more anxious or cut loose a round or so earlier.

Wells and Storbeck.

The next big fight in England will take place in London Monday, when Bombardier Wells and Fred Storbeck, the South African champion, meet in a 20-round contest for the championship of England. The men will fight for a gold belt and a purse of $6,000. Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, who has been ill with erysipelas, is well again, and expects to sail for America in three weeks. He will try and secure matches with Freddy Welsh and Packey McFarland. Owen Moran will also start for America soon. He is coming over to secure fights with Abe Attell, Knockout Brown and One-Round Hogan. Moran is out about $6,500 because the authorities prevented his bout with Jem Driscoll.

Nelson Beat Wilson.

UTICA, N.Y., Dec. 16.—Battling Nelson and Bobby Wilson, of this city went ten slashing rounds before the Oneida County A. A. here last night. It was Nelson's fight, though Wilson stood up to his opponent cleverly the entire distance and made a splendid showing. Nelson landed more often being especially effective in the in fighting.

Jeanette Won.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 16.—Joe Jeanette, of New York, won a decision over Nat. Dewey, of Chattanooga at the end of an eight-round boxing match here last night. Jeanette had an advantage of nearly 10 pounds in weight. He had the better of the bout all the way, but Dewey landed a number of telling blows.

THEY ARE WIPING OUT OUR WILD DUCKS

Some Species are Already Extinct—Further Restrictions are Necessary

The past season has been marked again with the scarcity of wild ducks throughout the country, so much so that the press notes have censured the present neglected legislation to amend the evil.

Experienced sportsmen for some time have foreseen the famine spreading and now we are in the midst of the predictions of ten years ago.

The market shooter and army of gunners, compared to the disappearing resources and long term of the open shooting season, with no intervals of opportunities of food and rest, has wiped out the greater portion of the duck family and some once common varieties are extinct. The wood duck and canvas back are destined to follow, only the greater marshes and feeding grounds retain a small average. These birds are leaving their old and former passes where they have been so deadly attacked and moving to new route to more seclusion. This in a great manner accounts for the greater numbers of these birds in the northwest both as a pass in migration and as well as the natural nesting and propagating districts, proving clearly that the old and settled districts are gradually driving the ducks to less activity of civilization.

All winter long over the border and along the Atlantic coast and to the Gulf of Mexico the pot hunter and market shooter never ceases. They are virtually followed from nesting in the north in the spring to the south and again back to the north, and only about half return and half as many more that are bred and reared are potted by northern miners, Indians and half-breeds. So as on a whole the present situation should not be a conundrum.

If the leading and experienced sportsmen could legislate the present evil and loss would be less noticeable. The representative members of the districts are not sportsmen and acknowledge they are not versed in what would be beneficial, and not experienced enough to offset the tide of evil. It would be safe to say not one in the Province is full [illegible]ed and could define mergansers [illegible] mallards or teals from bald pates. The sportsman is living on a promise from year to year that he will be properly represented and his wants looked after, and once more he feasts for another year, and the game bag gradually collapses.

The middleman in the market is no better than a ravenous vulture. He is never a true sportsman or a lover of nature. He gorges himself on the provender belonging to the knights of the fowling piece. He is degrees lower than the market shooter—the latter entitled to the lust of the legislature's blind stupidity. Five years more of these rulings wipes out one of the grandest game bird species known. Mr. Jack Miner's illustration of the Canadian hunters settles any hesitation of a closer, more rigid and shorter season; a little good taste and observation with self denial of wilful killing is one of the keys to the it road.

Permitting a suggestion of some important revision I would strongly recommend the non-sale of wild duck with heavy penalty attached for violation, and limit the season's bag to 75 birds.

Place your provincial map before you and note the north and south line on the east shore of Lake Huron which in a horizontal line extending south to Lake Erie divides the counties of Essex, Lambton and Kent, to the southwest with Lake St. Clair intervening. The atmospheric condition covering this section in the fall season is more tropical than in eastern counties, and remains quite summerlike as late as 20th of October, and should be governed accordingly in ruling of a much later open shooting season to open about October 10th to 15th allowing only four days per week shooting, and before sunrise and after sunset, and shipping them like junk to the market. They are smuggled out in shipments of fish by the thousands by pot hunters and the gaunt sportsman is famished and disappointed.

The Pelee Marsh borders about the ponds resemble cattle runs in pasture elds, trodden by boys and hunters who return empty handed and disgusted. Don't blame or censure the prospective sportsman, the law permits him to all he has assumed.

Miles of literature has been written on the threadbare subject. Sportsmen are becoming disheartened and the next generation to follow may gaze on the profiles of mounted birds cursing the plunderer and the stupidity of the Legislature.

Sportsmen are not afraid of international negotiations in this line and if necessary the Federal Government of both Canada and the United States must intervene. Why cannot sportsmen call the attention of the commission of conservation to the subject and enlist their powerful aid and support in this highly meritorious work.

Most truly yours,
FOREST H. CONOVER.

WIRELESS FOR LAKES

Government Beginning to Erect a Chain of Stations.

First Report of the Department of the Naval Service Is Issued at Ottawa and Deals With the Carrying Out of the Program of the Late Government — Marconi Installation Will Cost $150,000.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—The first report of the Department of the Naval Service was issued yesterday. It deals with the carrying out of the naval program of the late Government, the work of the fisheries, protective service and of the hydrographic survey, and the wireless and radio telegraphic services.

Arrangement are in progress, it says, for the establishment of a chain of wireless stations on the lakes from Port Arthur to Kingston, including Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie, Midland, Tobermory, Sarnia, Port Stanley, Port Colborne, Toronto and Kingston, with the station at Kingston of sufficient range to communicate with Montreal. Three new radio-telegraphic coast stations were established during the year.

Out of an appropriation of $3,000,000 for the naval service, there was an expenditure of $1,790,000. On the fisheries protection service there was expended $272,200, out of an appropriation of $301,500. Upon the hydrographic surveys, out of an appropriation of $300,000, there was expended $163,118. The total appropriation of $150,000 for wireless stations, was spent, the grand total appropriation for all these services and contingencies was $3,969,566, out of which there was expended $2,492,812, leaving a balance of $1,476,754.

Dealing with the recruiting for the naval service, the report shows a total sum of 223, including 185 for the Niobe, and 38 for the Rainbow. Nova Scotia contributed 97 men for the Niobe, Ontario 45, and Quebec 28. Of the Rainbow recruits, all but three were found in British Columbia. Alberta contributed one recruit for the service, and Manitoba and Saskatchewan none.

The hydrographic survey report includes considerable information in regard to the possibilities of Port Churchill and Fort Nelson as desirable railway terminals. The approaches to the ports were examined by two parties from the icebreaker Stanley. A good deal of ice was encountered in making Churchill, which would be dangerous to a ship not especially constructed.

The opinion is expressed that no cargo vessel of ordinary construction would have been able to find or force her way through the large fields met before Churchill. Apart from the ice difficulty it is stated that the salient points of Hudson Bay and Strait, are inaccurately charted. The report adds that the approach to Churchill harbor is very well marked, and comparatively easily picked up in marked contrast to the approach to the whole shore from near Cape Churchill to James Bay.

At Nelson the Government expedition had great difficulty in getting ashore with material for signals. The roadstead is described as exposed to every wind that blows and every sea that runs with cross currents and low shores.

The report states: "Until further and proper definite information is obtained no opinion can be expressed as to the suitability of this port for a terminus."

Sheffield Choir Leaders Honored.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—A cable received here from London says: At a special meeting of the court of the Musicians' Company yesterday the honorary freedom of the ancient city guild was conferred on Sir Edward Elgar and the silver medal was awarded Dr. Charles A. E. Harriss of Ottawa for distinguished services rendered British music throughout the Empire. A banquet preceded the presentations.

Soo Navigation Closes.

Soo, Ont., Dec. 16.—The last boat down bound, the Michipicouten, from Michipicouten, has arrived in the Soo, and navigation is closed for the year. The formal closing of the canal occurred yesterday, and the gas buoy at the upper approach to the locks is already taken in. Lighthouse keepers are arriving in the Soo. The weather is exceedingly mild, and all snow in the city has disappeared.

New Election Demanded.

Oshawa, Dec. 18.—There is a movement on foot to demand another provincial election in South Ontario, because of alleged mistakes on the part of Crown Attorney Farewell in issuing the voters' lists and giving instructions to deputy returning officers.

It is stated that Col. Farewell did not act under the revised statutes in handling the lists, but under the old provisions of the law, that there were some errors in the polling books and instructions given D. R. O.'s were vague, and that the returns from the polling books were not systematically handled.

The recent election resulted in a Liberal gain, Mayor Sinclair defeating Charles Calder.

"Trusty" Makes Escape.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—Felix Gagne of Montreal, a prisoner serving a sentence of two months in Hull Jail, escaped from that institution on Saturday evening, and, despite rigorous search, has not yet been recaptured. He was a "trusty" and working in the cellar at the furnace. There was a loose bar to the 18-inch window and while the jailer went upstairs he got through and escaped.

STATIONARY ENGINEERS TO MEET IN BELLEVILLE

Secretary of the Association Issues a Notification to all Concerned

The following circular will be read with interest:

To manufacturers of and dealers in Power Plant specialties:

Gentlemen,—This is to remind you that the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Stationary Engineers is to be held in Belleville, Ontario, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July, 23, 21, and 25, 1912.

You are requested to include this convention in your 1912 advertising appropriation. This is the first time the convention has been held east of Toronto and is an excellent opportunity for manufacturers and dealers in power plant specialties to get in personal touch with factory engineesr, managers and superintendents in the east. Belleville is the centre of a progressive eastern territory, which includes a large number of growing towns. A large attendance is therefore expected.

Invitations will be sent to every engineer and manufacturer in all the cities and towns and the convention will be widely advertised. Already the committees of the C. A. S. E. and of the Exhibitors' Association aer at work and the co-operation of all dealers in and manufacturers of power plant equipment and supplies, is desired.

The membership fee of $10 covers one space of eight feet and all expenses outside those of your personal representative.

Any further information regarding the exhibition held in connection with the Convention of Engineers will be cheerfully supplied by the Secretary. Yours very truly,

EXHIBITORS' ASSOCIATION OF C.A.S.E.

G. L. KEITH,
Secretary.

MRS. VERMILYA DIDN'T GO TO FATHER'S FUNERAL

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Mrs. Louise Vermilya, alleged poisoner of Arthur Bissonette, a policeman, remained in jail yesterday, while her father, John Wolfe, who died on Wednesday, was being buried. Mrs. Vermilya said she felt to ill to venture out of the jail hospital.

GIPSY FORTUNE TELLERS MADE ONE VERY SERIOUS FAILURE

Did not Foresee that They Would be Arrested, but they were One and All Immured in a Dungeon Cell—Confessed their Guilt and Made Restitution to those who Claimed their Money—But some of the Losers were too Modest to Voice their Wrongs—The Gipseys Took to the Road

The band of gypsies who yesterday morning succeeded in victimizing a number of citizens out of their hard-earned cash, and who were arrested, have left the city, and in all probability will not return. Although but $29 was the amount reported to the police which the women secured from parties under the pretence of telling fortunes, there is no doubt that a considerably larger sum than this went into their coffers. We have heard of several parties who were victims, but did not desire to report their losses.

Yesterday afternoon the five women and two men were brought up before the Police Magistrate, and a motley crowd they were.

A goodly number of spectators were present at the proceedings, which were shortened by the fact that the accused pleaded guilty to the charge of obtaining money by false representations. Five different charges were preferred against the accused, and to these they pleaded guilty. They were compelled to make restitution to the extent of $29, and the costs amounted to $14, namely $25 to the County Attorney, $7 as court costs and $12 constable's fees. They were also ordered to leave the city, which they subsequently did. The payment of the $73 did not appear to worry the party in the least.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

BURIED AT BETHEL

The funeral of the late Mr. Thos. Jinks took place this morning from the residence of Mr. Joseph Deshane. Services at the house were conducted by the Rev. W. G. Clarke, pastor of the Tabernacle. Interment took place at Bethel, in Prince Edward County.

NEW P. M. INSTALLED.

Mr. H. Merrick, Post Office Inspector, of Kingston, was in the city yesterday afternoon and installed Mr. J. Gillen in his position as Postmaster of the city post office.

MEDAL CONTESTS.

It will be remembered that all last winter and spring an extended series of elocution contests was held in this city, the prize for each contest being a silver medal given by the band of young ladies known as the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union, but better known as the "Y's." Ten of these contests were held in all, and in eight different places, namely, St. Andrew's, Tabernacle, Bridge St. and Christ Church S. S. rooms, in the church at Cannifton, in Grier Street Public School, in the Salvation Army Hall, and in the City Mission. In these ten contests six medals were won by the juniors, or those who were sixteen years of age or younger, and four medals were won by the seniors.

BRIDGE ST. EPWORTH LEAGUE

Last night was Literary night at Bridge Street Epworth League. Miss Loal Drummond, Literary Vice President, occupied the chair. A very pleasing feature was a vocal solo by little Miss Neva Deeton, accompanied on the violin by her brother, Master Lorne Deeton. They also sang a duet, which was very sweetly rendered. The violin solo by Mr. Ransom and the vocal solo by Miss Helen Ketcheson were much appreciated. Miss Adams, Deaconess, of Toronto, gave a very interesting talk on nurse-deaconess work, touching particularly on the work among the foreign element in the city of Toronto. A very pleasant and profitable evening was spent.

FIVE MONTHS FOR SAMUEL.

At an early hour this morning Samuel J. Kelly, a stranger, was found asleep in the loft of a livery establishment. He was placed under arrest on a charge of vagrancy and when appearing before the Magistrate he was convicted of the offence. Being an old offender, he was sentenced to five months in the Central Prison.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Our Tuftsville correspondent writes: Among many pleasing events that transpire in this locality was that of a golden wedding which took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Juby on Friday, Dec. 8. It was a pleasing sight to see Mr. and Mrs. Juby so hale and hearty, with their four sons, fine healthy, hearty, stalwart boys, and their three daughters, with husbands, no less than themselves with their thirteen grandchildren, it was a beautiful picture that Mr. Tom Eggleton, of Stirling, came and took of the group. There was a dinner provided which was served with elegance and style to suit the most fastidious taste. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants of various style. There were also present a few neighbors, nearly forty in all. After dinner was served the company was entertained with patroitic and comic songs by Mr. Tufts. Mr. and Mrs. Juby were called to the floor and a neat little speech was made by Mrs. Bennett, followed by Mr. Tufts and others. A little misunderstanding had taken place, as the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Byers, of Stirling, came in the evening after all had gone; there were to have been four christenings at the same time, but these will take place in the near future. We all join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Juby many years of health, happiness and prosperity.

THE POETRY OF KIPLING.

At John Street Guild last evening Prof. J. F. Macdonald delivered a most interesting lecture on the "Poetry of Kipling." He traced in rapid survey the main incidents of his early years, showing the various influences of time and place upon the young author—his birth in Bombay, his parentage, his early years in Devon, his work on Indian newspapers from sixteen years of age, and his trip around the world in 1887 and in 1888. After a few remarks on his stories, the rest of the lecture was devoted to his poetry. His budding genius is seen occasionally in the "Departmental Ditties," but it was in the "Barrack Room Ballads" of 1892 that he came to his own. The spirit of adventure and English love of country are the two strongest motives in his verse and they are revealed in this volume. His patriotism is concrete, as shown in "The Song of the English," and "The Flag." One need scarcely look for quiet reflection or deep spirituality in Kipling. The "Recessional" itself is narrow in its conception of the non-English races as "lesser breeds." Another serious drawback is his lack of sympathy for women, yet in his prose works numerous little ditties of child life are spread broadcast, revealing tender feeling. But Kipling has many qualities of greatness—the remarkable power of phrasing, the gift of writing musical verse, which is the essential gift of poetry, the ability to express the sentiments of rude and rough sailors and soldiery, and the insight into the romance of modern life so commonplace to most people. He read copious extracts from Kipling's works. Prof. Coleman occupied the chair. Prof. D. A. Cameron sang "The Recessional." A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Prof. Macdonald, after which the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

WEDDED AT KINGSTON

The Globe's Kingston correspondent writes:—A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. George's Cathedral by Rev. Canon Starr, M.A., when Miss Beatrice Mary, youngest daughter of Lieut.-Col. Sydenham C. and Mrs. McGill, was united in marriage to Mr. Morgan Jellett, of Toronto. The bridal couple were unattended, and only immediate relatives were present. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Jellett drove to the home of the bride's parents, 212 King St., and after partaking of a dainty repast left on the noon train for Montreal, en route for Bermuda. After an extended tour of the West Indies, they will reside in St. George's Apartments, Toronto. The groom is a Belleville boy, being a son of the late Morgan Jellett, and is connected with the firm of Aemilius Jarvis & Co., Toronto.

Many a man's success is due to his ability to use another man's brains.

SAVED FROM GALLOWS BY MOTHER'S PLEA

Aged Mother's Letter Saved Her Son who Slew His Father

LONDON, Dec. 17.—William Hammond, a Yorkshire miner, forty years of age, was recently sentenced to be hanged for the murder of his father, aged ninety. Petitions for a reprieve signed by 3,000 persons were addressed to the Home Secretary, who a few days ago received a letter from the condemned man's mother, the wife of the murdered father, which is a poignant human document. The letter follows:

Dear Sir,—I am heart broken at the awful affair which caused the death of my husband. It is a very sad thing for a mother to see her son in the position he is to-day, for he had been a good lad to me and to my late husband.

He always worked hard and brought his money home every Saturday as regular as clockwork, and my husband did not work for 25 years.

I am sure you will agree with me, sir, when my lad helped to keep him all this time, he could not be a bad lad. He was steady and respectable until this awful affair. I must tell you, sir, that my husband was very short-tempered and used to annoy him a lot: then when he had some drink I am sure he did not know what he was doing, for he had an accident some time since, and never was the same after.

I am sure, sir, you can imagine a mother's feelings for her son. It is a dreadful thing for me, and I am a heart broken woman—husband gone and my poor lad in a condemned cell.

I am old, sir, and ill, but if I could only take his place and sacrifice my life for his I would gladly do it. I have written you this letter, as I know you have a good heart and will listen to the pleading of a poor, broken-hearted mother to save my son's life. Yours truly,

C. HAMMOND.

On Friday Mr. McKenna, the new Home Secretary, decided to reprieve Mr. Hammond.

Mr. Foy was elected by a splendid majority while Mr. Reaume skated to victory on the thinnest kind of ice. There is no mistaking the significance of the vote. Bi-lingualism must go.—Kingston Standard.

Some of the Ontario Opposition papers charge that the Government of the province is composed of men who are asleep. The critics, if they have justification for their charge, would do well to make no noise about the discovery. If the Ministers were asleep when they won that election on Monday, the 11th inst, and should awake and go to work on their opponents they might not leave even a critic to cheer for Mr. Rowell.—Montreal Gazette.

The Montreal Star compliments the policemen of Montreal on the Chirstmas present they are to receive from the city in the form of an increase in their pay, who, The Star properly says, deserve "something more than a day laborer's pay." We are entirely in accord with this sentiment which applies to other cities than Montreal. Policemen occupy important and responsible positions and should be beter paid than they and should be better paid than they are.

Plans for the future: She was a lady visitor to the prison, kindly and well-meaning, and as she chatted with a burglar who had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment, she thought she detected signs of reform in him.

"And now," she said, "have you any plans for the future, on the expiration of your sentence?"

"Oh, yes, ma'am," he said, hopefully, "I've got the plans of two banks and a post office."

The total expenditure on the naval service of Canada to the end of the last fiscal year was $1,790, 017. The inauguration of the Naval College at Halifax, the purchase of the Niobe and the Rainbow and their operations up to March last are dealt with in a general way. "During the year," says a report just completed, "223 recruits were received, of whom 185 went to the Niobe and 38 to the Rainbow. Nova Scotia contributed 97 men to the Niobe, Ontario 45, Quebec 28, Prince Edward Island 11, and New Brunswick 3. This is only a beginning.

That was a notable victory which Mr. Norman won in Prince Edward. It was, indeed, virtually a clean sweep, his opponent getting a majority in only one municipality, namely Hallowell, where a little 3 was recorded in his favor. The majorities were as follows:

Is the pleasure worth the sacrifice? A telegram from Boston of the 16th says: Thirty human lives were lost in New England and four in the province of New Brunswick as a direct result of the hunting season, which, so far as big game is concerned, came to an end on the 16th of December. Of the victims, five were shot in mistake for deer, 12 were killed by the accidental discharge of their own guns, 14 by accidental firing of guns held by companions or by stray bullets, two were drowned, and one died of exposure. Maine furnished 15 victims; Massachusetts 7; New Hampshire, 3; Vermont and Connecticut, 2 each; and Rhode Island, one. In addition more than twenty persons received more or less serious injuries. It is estimated that in the neighborhood of 10,000 deer and 300 moose were killed during the season, besides several score of bear and a great quantity of small game.

Is this not a lamentable state of affairs to exist in a supposed Christian country: "In the United States one marriage in every twelve is dissolved. Two persons out of every twenty-four united in matrimony sooner or later become divorcees. Lynchings and burnings at stake are all too prevalent over large areas of the Republic. To a terrible extent poorly enforced laws have fallen into disrespect. Is there any law in the United States? If so, is it enforced? American newspapers complain that in the past ten years 86,931 murders have been committed in the United States and that only 1,149 of the murderers have been executed. An American may kill his neighbor and have 74 chances out of 75 of escaping the death penalty. The number of homicides committed in the Republic is 70 per million per annum. In Canada the rate is less than 18 per million, and in Great Britain only nine per million.

That the defeat of reciprocity spells a new era of prosperity to the city of Port Arthur is evidenced by the statements of Mr. N. G. Neill, Secretary of the Board of Trade, and Industrial Commissioner, who declares that as a result of the sweeping Conservative victory, American manufacturers were tumbling over themselves to secure sites for the purpose of establishing industrial plants in and around that city. One of the new industries is a $450,000 steel mill, which will manufacture sheet steel and galvanized iron for the northwest, while another in the Garden City Feeder Company in which the municipality of Port Arthur will invest 75 per cent. of the capital, the balance being found by the company. Mr. Neill, commenting on the fact that many American concerns had been held back by limited capital from entering Canada, stated that this difficulty had been overcome, and as far as Port Arthur was concerned, by bringing English capital in touch with American manufacturers.

25 EDITIONS SOLD OF HIS NOVEL

Yet This Welch Author Had To Seek Parish Relief

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The extreme poverty of a novelist whose works are popular has come to light in proceedings before the Merthyr Bankruptcy Court in Wales. The occasion was the public examination of Isaac Craigfryn Hughes, 60 years old, who gave his occupation as that of a colliery laborer.

It came out in his examination that although one of his twelve novels was in its 25th edition, he had been forced to obtain parish relief, and later had been committed to jail. His wife died in 1908, leaving four children, and since November, 1910, Mr. Hughes said he had been unable to work on account of illness and had sold his books and effects to obtain food for his family.

Mr. Hughes told the court that one of his novels, "The Maid of Cefn Ydfa," was in its 25th edition of 6,000 copies each in English and in its tenth edition in Welsh.

"I sold the copyright of all my books outright," Mr. Hughes explained, "and I am not receiving royalties of any kind. I was ignorant about 'royalties.'

The novelist said that he had begun to write in Welsh when he was about 25. In his leisure he had studied English and had written in that language since he was 30. His writing was done in his leisure from work in the collieries. Nine of Mr. Hughes' works are in Welsh and three in English.

3 FATAL ACCIDENTS IN A SINGLE FAMILY

George Hargraves Dies From Injury to Head—Two Children Killed

TORONTO, Dec. 18. — Tragedy seems to have followed the Hargraves family, who live at 23 Humbert Ave., since they left Yorkshire, England, seven years ago, to start life anew in this country.

Yesterday the father, George Hargraves, succumbed in the Western Hospital from injuries received a week ago in the Toronto Carpet Company's works where he bumped his head against some spikes, receiving a bad scalp wound. He paid little attention to the injuries until he was forced to go to bed. On Friday it was decided to consult a physician, who on examination found that Hargrave's skull had been pierced by the spike. He was removed to the Hospital, where a clot of blood which had formed on the brain was found.

Hargrave and his wife, who survives him, came from England with a family of five, three boys and two girls. They settled in Glenwilliam, but after only a short residence there the eldest daughter, Charlotte, was drowned in a mill race. Two months after this a son died from a fractured spine, brought about in a collision while tobogganing.

BOXING

WELLS BY A KNOCKOUT.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Bombardier Wells, whose scheduled fight with Jack Johnson last summer was prohibited by the authorities, appeared in the ring of the National Sporting Club to-night, where he met Fred Storbeck, the heavyweight champion of South Africa. A big crowd had gathered to see the bout, which lasted eleven rounds. Storbeck being knocked out with one of Wells' powerful swings.

NOTABLE LAND SALES

Among the notable land sales during the past year in England was that of the Duke of Bedford's Devonshire estate, which realized $2,500,000. Most of the land was bought by the tenants. The Duke of Sutherland, who is buying up thousands of acres in Canada, sold 1,280 acres at Trentham in Staffordshire for about $125,000, and Viscount Clifden has unloaded 2,020 acres in Oxfordshire for $210,000, an estate in Cornwall for $65,000, and one in Cambridgeshire for $235,000. Another big sale was that of Lord Londesborough's estates in Yorkshire, which netted about $640,000, while Lord Lansdowne, the famous Tory leader in the House of Lords, got over $170,000 for 1,050 acres in Wiltshire.

The majority of umbrella thieves are borrowers in disguise.

Brantford and Paris Dry.

Brantford, Dec. 19.—Announcement has been made that strong efforts will be made in Paris at the municipal elections to elect a temperance council for [illegible] submission of local option in Ja[illegible], 1913. It is understood a simi[illegible]ovement will be made in Brantford, so that voting will take place in both municipalities at the same time.

After the "Plumbing Trust."

Los Angeles, Dec. 19.—The Government filed in the federal court here yesterday a suit to dissolve the so-called plumbing trust. The allegations are made in a bill in equity that the Pacific Coast Plumbing Supply Association "and others" have conspired since 1907 to restrain trade and interstate commerce.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

It seemed to me that the fellow was trying to make his presence as inconspicuous as possible. He strode stolidly along, close behind them, looking into shop windows and apparently not noticing the two men at all. Yet I knew that he was talking to them. I could tell by the surprised way with which both Fluette and Burke swung round and stared at him.

I quickened my steps. Yes, the Oriental was talking, and talking volubly. And, if I might judge by the consternation and anger reflected in the faces of his two auditors, his message was anything but welcome. That is to say, Alfred Fluette's strong features showed these emotions, while, as always, it was difficult to read what was going on behind Burke's impassive mask. Still it was pretty plain that the secretary was utterly at his wits'-end.

At last the three stopped at a corner, where they moved up close to the building to avoid the rush of pedestrians. I dared not draw near enough to hope to hear any of their conversation; I could do no more than watch from a distance, trusting to their absorption to keep them oblivious of my proximity.

Both were now excitedly questioning the Jap, who seemed to be wholly unmoved by their agitation. Presently Fluette turned angrily upon Burke. From his manner it was not difficult to imagine that he was soundly berating the secretary, who, whenever he could make himself heard, was just as plainly attempting to present some extenuating argument.

The entire episode was perplexing enough, but what immediately ensued caught me unawares. Without the least warning the trio separated, each hurrying away in a different direction. At this critical juncture a voice said, right at my ear:

"Shall I stick to Burke?—or follow one of the others?"

I jerked my head to confront Fanshawe, the man detailed to keep Burke under surveillance. I had not observed him before—not surprising, since he had just caught up with me—but I welcomed his presence now.

"Stay with your own man," I shot at him, and turned to look for the Jap. He was gone.

To make the account of this discomfiting episode as brief as possible, I shall say, merely, that out of the three men whom we were watching, two of them walked away from under our very noses without our having the slightest idea in which direction they went. How did they do it The momentary diversion occasioned by Fanshawe's arrival, the brief distraction of our attention, had been sufficient. He lost track of Burke, and I never had so much as another glimpse of the Jap.

We had the assistance of another headquarters man, too. The one for which I had telephoned showed up immediately after Fanshawe addressed me. The last-named skurried away to find Burke, while Pennington, my othed colleague, and I devoted our efforts to catching the Jap.

"One of those Japs has been shadowing me all morning, Pennington," I advised him. "He's as shifty and evasive as a fox. Fall half a block behind me, and if he shows up again give me a signal and close in. I want him."

But he did'nt show up.

It was humiliating to be outwitted by the Oriental—it was the second time for me, too; it would be calamitous to lose Burke. The day dragged along, and when each succeeding minute brought no news of him my anxiety increased by leaps and bounds. Before nightfall, every available man in the department was scouring the city for the ex-secretary.

Subsequent events, however, showed that we might have spared ourselves all the trouble and worry; for one more pertinacious even than Fanshawe clung to Alexander Burke's heels all that day and night.

I found time during my purposeless running to and fro to learn that Alfred Fluette had arrived at his brokers' offices in Quincy Street shortly after ten, where he remained until the Board of Trade closed, and that Genevieve had left on an afternoon train for a brief visit with relatives in Merton, Ohio. Fluette had failed in his engagement; Genevieve had kept hers.

Some time after dark I boarded a Sheridan Park car, and rode out to the Page place; I don't now know why, unless it was because of the disastrous turn affairs had taken, and that I hoped, in this dismal, dispiriting environment, to find a balm for my depressed feelings.

It was only that morning, in the midst of a blinding-snow-storm, thoroughly disheartened by the loss of the ruby, that Stodger and I had left the old house; but as I approached it that night, it bore every appearance of having been abandoned for years instead of only a few hours. No smoke curled from the chimneys; no light gleamed at any of the windows. In its white setting of snow, it loomed silent and spectral.

In the afternoon I had turned the keys over to Mr. Page's lawyer, and how I hoped to effect an entrance—if I had any such intention at all—I have long since forgotten. It may have been because it was here that I first met Genevieve, that I came mooning through the cold snow. She was gone upon a journey; I knew that I could not see her for days; and perhaps I thought to find some companionship in the more intimate associations clustered about the dreary spot. At any rate, here I was. And I saw nothing else for me to do than to turn round and go back to town again.

However, I started to enter the gate. Next instant I stopped short. The snow bore other tracks besides Stodger's and mine—tracks pointing toward the house instead of away from it. They were fresh, made since the snow ceased.

I advanced a little farther into the yard, where the tracks had not been obliterated by pedestrians on the sidewalk, and soon comprehended that they had been made by two men. Were they in the house now? And if so, who were they? What errand could be so pressing that it would bring anybody here on such a night?

My indifference and discouragement fell away from me in a flash. Cautiously I followed the trail up to the front steps, where at first I fancied it disappeared upon the porch. Still I could not see a glint of light, nor did the most attentive harkening favor me with the slightest sound.

It occurred to me while I stood pondering on the porch that, after all, Mr. White—Felix Page's lawyer—might have been responsible for the tracks in the snow. It was possible that he had sent somebody to look after the place; a caretaker, perhaps, who would stay here until a disposition could be made of the property.

But this idea no sooner occurred than it was dismissed. All at once I noticed that one pair of footprints, instead of mounting the porch steps, had turned to one side. They led off to the east, and disappeared round the wing in that direction. The two persons had not come in company; the first, I presently concluded, had carried a key, and the second had been following him. There were no retreating impresses to indicate that either had departed.

I tiptoed to the front door and turned the knob. The door did not yield. Then for the first time I recalled the window which our housebreakers had forced the night before; unless the latch had been repaired during the day, it would be an easy matter to gain access to the dining-room which was located in the western wing.

Now it was the eastern wing or gable which sheltered the library, the conservatory, and Mr. Page's bedroom, and it was thither the second man's foot-prints led. I followed them round the corner of the house.

From their appearance it was easy to trace all the mysterious intruder's movements. Evidently after the door had closed behind the first arrival, Number Two had stood for some time at the east end of the porch. Then he had moved toward the same end of the house, pausing at every window and trying the sash to ascertain whether it was fastened. Turning at the corner, he had proceeded along the side of the house, still testing the windows and bestowing particular attention upon the glass conservatory. This was true of every window as far as the bedroom, at least; beyond that I did not explore. Just as I drew opposite the first of the bedroom windows I came to an abrupt halt.

There was a light in the room.

Nor was this all. Some person was in the room, too, and by the silhouette on the blind I could see that he was industriously applying himself to some task, the nature of which I could not determine. The longer I watched the shadow on the blind, the more puzzled I grew. I could imagine no occupation that would account for such singular actions.

The shadow was a man's; I could distinguish that much. He appeared to be bending over something, while his hands flew hither and thither, as if they were performing a quick-step upon a piano. But no sound of music came from the lighted room.

It would be impossible to say how long I stood there, the snow nearly to my knees, fascinated by the remarkable antics of that shadow. Then of a sudden the hands ceased flying. The man straightened and became motionless, as if startled by some unexpected sound.

Well, perhaps within the next second he knew what had alarmed him; I'm sure that I did not. The shadow flashed away the blind. Then my scalp tingled and the blood seemed to freeze in my veins.

From within the room there came a most unearthly cry. It was weird, terrifying, utterly unlike anything I had ever heard—save once. For it was a repitition of the wild, inhuman note that had thrilled me when I first dashed open the bath room door the previous night.

The terrible cry was not immediately repeated, but for a while the utmost confusion prevailed within. I could hear furniture knocked and slammed about, a tumult of stamping scraping feet, and once—for the briefest moment—another shadow was projected upon the blind.

It was a hideous, squat, dwarfish shadow. Two long gorilla-like arms were upraised in an abandonment of fury. Then came that awful, bloodcurdling scream again, and the shadow's owner seemed to plunge forward.

Another crash followed. The light was suddenly blotted out. The silence was once more absolute.

To Study Canals.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—The first real move towards the realization of the Georgian Bay Canal scheme has been made by the Public Works Department. Arthur St. Laurant, Deputy Minister of Public Works and engineer in charge of the Georgian Bay Ship Canal, leaves Ottawa to-day in company with Mr. Coultbee, the assistant engineer of the Georgian Bay Ship Canal, for Panama, via New Orleans.

The object of the two engineers is to examine the works and obtain information that may be useful when the Georgian Bay Ship Canal is placed under construction.

The two gentlemen will be absent from Ottawa for six weeks, and during that time will consult with all the eminent engineers who made possible the opening of the great Panama route, as the latest machinery and appliances for work of that kind are at the canal. Mr. St. Laurent and his assistant will make a report on them.

Farmers Write Borden.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—Premier Borden is in receipt of a large number of letters from western farmers, in which attention is called to the fact that Saturday was the first anniversary of the visit to Ottawa of the mammoth delegation of farmers, which made a large number of demands upon the late Government.

All the letters contain the hope that as little time as possible will be lost by the Government in meeting the requests made by the members of the delegation.

HEARD MEN DROWNING

Pathetic Tragedy Occurs Near Village of Oka, Quebec.

Two French-Canadians and Four Indians Perish In Lake of Two Mountains While Men From Village Endeavor to Locate Them—Shouts For Help Are Heard While Storm Rages—Women Pray.

Como, Que., Dec. 19.—While women knelt on the banks and prayed wildly and men frantically tried to locate the direction from which the despairing cries for help were coming, six men were drowned in Lake of Two Mountains, opposite Oka., on Saturday night.

The accident happened in the evening about eight o'clock. The victims were: Hormisdas Laberge, postmaster of Oka; John Burns, butter manufacturer, and four Indians — Ignace Simon, Pierre Ignace, Joseph Laforce and a son of Jean Tivasha.

It was toward eight o'clock and all at once through the blinding snow and howling wind wild, despairing cries for help were heard.

Half of the population of Como immediately collected on the river bank. To their horror, however, they were unable to tell from which direction the sounds came. The voices were tossed about by the wind.

A dozen boats were ready to start, but no one knew which may to go.

The wife of the postmaster was telephoned to and told of her husband's danger, and a search party at once collected on the opposite bank at Oka. Nothing could be done, however, and it was not until 10 o'clock that search parties found the boat floating bottom upwards, with two dead bodies lying across the bottom.

Laberge and Burns had crossed the lake in a boat to Lake Como to get the mail, which arrives at 4.40 o'clock in the afternoon. When the train had departed and they were able to start back, the four Indians asked to be taken over in the boat.

Northumberland Fruit Growers.

Brighton, Dec. 19.—At an enthusiastic meeting of the fruit growers here yesterday afternoon, the Northumberland Co-operative Fruit Growers' Association was formed, and the following officers were elected: President, W. J. Farley; vice-president, C. E. Post; secretary-treasurer, E. C. Brown; executive, Robt. Wade, Dr. C. M. Sanford, S. T. Tinson.

R. B. Scripture, who was instrumental in organizing, was appointed manager.

Chatham's Building Permits.

Chatham, Dec. 19.—Seventy-seven building permits aggregating an expenditure of over $140,000 have been issued this yeaer by Fire Chief Richard Pritchard. Several large permits, including one for the addition to the Ursuline Academy, are yet to be filed this year, and it is expected that the total cost of building operations will amount to over $150,000. The last year has been the best from a building standpoint in the history of the city.

Blaze In Kingston.

Kingston, Dec. 19.—Kingston's main business block had a narrow escape from destruction when fire broke out in the apartments of J. H. Melville, over the store of D. A. Weese, photographer. It was checked in the nick of time by Chief Armstrong and his men. The loss of $3,000 is partially covered by insurance.

A country with a grievance against Great Britain might hesitate about going to war with a nation whose women are so warlike.

HYOMEI

WHAT IT IS AND DOES.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a pleasant healing antiseptic from the Eucalyptus forests of Australia, combined with other ingredients of great value for troubles of the breathing organs. You breathe this medicated air through a small hard rubber inhaler and it penetrates every nook and crevise of the membrane. In this way Hyomei overtakes the catarrh germ and annihilates every particle of disease located in the membrane.

Hyomei is a guaranteed cure for Catarrh, colds in the head, croup, bronchitis and asthma, gentle in its action, yet sure in its work as a germ killer.

A complete outfit, (including inhaler) can be purchased from your druggist for $1.00 and additional bottles of Hyomei if required 50c. or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont.

Remember, Hyomei is guaranteed to do what we claim for it or your money refunded. Sold and guaranteed by J. V. Doyle.

Our Municipal Government

Although 1912 will undoubtedly be one of the most important years in the municipal history of Belleville, owing to the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's new Toronto-Ottawa line through the city and the building of the Government wharf, there is no prospect of improvement in the personnel of the inefficient board of aldermen who have ruled in this municipality during the year which is now closing. Rather, it is to be feared, will there be deterioration instead of improvement in the make-up of the City Council; for the most useful members of that body have declared in emphatic terms that they will never again serve in a Council of twenty-two members. The chief reason assigned by the gentlemen in question is the incessant flood of useless talk at every session, whereby the meetings have been prolonged beyond the time "when the clock struck the hour for retiring," whereby they have become so disgusted as to cause them to cease to take any interest in the city's affairs, and to long for their time of servitude to cease.

That the oratorical nuisance could have been abated by revision of the rules of debate so as to lessen the time allowed for speechifying is true, but the aldermen who objected to the long-drawn-out debates seemingly preferred to suffer in silence; for which weakness they are not to be commended. Better by far, in the interest of the city and of themselves, had they faced the situation and secured its amendment.

The questions naturally arise: What is to be done under the circumstances? How is Belleville to secure for 1912 a Council which will be competent to conduct the civic business satisfactorily?

Only one answer is possible to these questions, namely that if the better class of citizens will come to the rescue by offering themselves for election in the various wards the situation can be saved; but that is virtually an impossibility, as men of business capacity will not enter the arena of civic activity until after the membership of the Council shall have been reduced to reasonable dimensions.

The duty, then, of every elector who desires efficient government for this municipality is to vote for the abolition of the ward system, so that in 1913 and in succeeding years the experience of the past three years may not be repeated.

Patronage

The Opposition in the House of Commons and their friends of the press are complaining and fault-finding on account of the removal from office of men who had, in violation of the principle agreed upon by both political parties, made themselves "offensive partizans," not only during the past election, but at every election since their appointment during the Laurier regime; and now that those gentlemen are receiving a little of the medicine they administered to the Conservatives during the past fifteen years, they are whining like whipped spaniels, forgetting that men in office were dismissed by them, against whom no offensive partizanship could be urged.

Patronage is not desirable by any Minister, nor is it at all pleasant for any Minister to remove a man from office, nor has it been done by the present Government of the Dominion, nor of Ontario; except for cause, and ample cause, too. In fact, in the case of the Ontario Government, politicians of the most offensive type have been retained in their positions, much to the disgust of supporters of the Government. Still, if the Government of Ontario erred in this respect, it was a charitable error.

Discussing the question of patronage and the responsibilities of office, at a banquet tendered him in Montreal, the Hon. Mr. Monk said:

> "I and my colleagues, on assuming office, immediately found ourselves confronted with questions of the utmost difficulty and importance. The man in office is not only taken away from the contemplation of these questions waiting for settlement, by the importunity of office seekers, but he is left by them with a feeling of disappointment that he has not been able to satisfy the large and not perhaps unnatural, though mistaken, demands for patronage that are made upon him."

It should not be forgotten by those in office that the principle agreed upon by both sides in politics during former, as well as by the late Laurier Government, was clear and unmistakable. On the 17th of April, 1905, Mr. Lake, M.P. for a western constituency, moved the following resolution in the House of Commons, which was accepted by both parties, and unanimously passed:

> "That whilst it is desirable that every official in the employ of the Government of Canada, shall enjoy perfect freedom of political action, and the untrammelled exercise of his franchise in accord therewith, no official shall be engaged, and be permitted to engage, in partizan work of any description in the election of a representative of a provincial or Dominion Legislature."

Acting upon the principle involved in that resolution, the late Government introduced an Act, which became law, and is now on the Statute Book, Section 43 of which declares that

> No officer, clerk or employee in the Civil Service shall be debarred from voting at any Dominion or Provincial election, if under the laws governing such election he has the right to vote, but no such officer, clerk or employee shall engage in partizan work in connection with any such election.

Notwithstanding these provisions of the law, Grit officials not only voted, which under the law they had a right to do, but many of them not only worked in the interest of their party, but offensively so, and should not now complain if the purpose for which the law was passed is being literally and practically administered.

The fact is, some of the officials whose services have been dispensed with had been in office so long that they had come to the conclusion that they were anchored for life, and could become, as they did, insolently offensive. They should not now complain if the law as placed upon the Statute Book by their idol, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, is administered, even though it be done by those whom they abused.

FANATICAL LEADER GETS TEN YEARS

Rev. Frank Sandford, Head of "Holy Ghost and Us" Sent Up

Portland, Me., Dec. 19.—In company with two convicted postoffice robbers, Rev. Frank W. Sandford, leader of the Holy Ghost and Us Society, left Atlanta, Ga., last night, to enter upon his ten-year term in the federal penitentiary, to which he was sentenced yesterday.

The specific charge upon which the Shiloh leader was sentenced is that of causing the death of Geo. Hughey, a member of his flock, who died at sea, by failing to furnish provisions during the recent 17 months' cruise of the Holy Ghost yacht Coronet. This was the first of six counts in the indictment.

The arrival of the party at the Union Station, where the train was taken, in the police automobile, was the signal for the gathering of a big crowd, but Sandford remained undisturbed.

Convinced that he was being banished for a time, Sandford had bid his wife and children good-bye before leaving his home in Shiloh for the court house at Portland yesterday, and when he finally took his departure for the south last night, three of his elders, Rev. Charles E. Holland, who succeeds to the leadership of the colony; Capt. A. K. Perry, commander of the Kingdom fleet, and Rev. George A. Jewell, were the only close friends about him. He shook hands with each and urged them to continue the work at home as he should like while away.

In an interview just before he left the city Sandford declared that he felt no resentment and that he looked upon his imprisonment simply as a part of God's plan.

"NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS Proved of Great Value to Me"

There is only one explanation for the numbers of enthusiastic letters that we receive praising Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and that is that these tablets certainly do cure any kind of stomach trouble.

Here is a typical letter from Miss Eliza Armsworthy, Canso, N.S.:

"It is with pleasure I write to inform you that your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets have proved of great value to me. I tried remedy after remedy but without any lasting good. Having heard of your tablets curing such cases as mine I decided to give them a fair trial. They proved satisfactory in my case."

The remarkable success of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is such a success as can only come to an honest remedy, compounded according to an exceptionally good formula, from pure ingredients, by expert chemists. If you are troubled with your stomach just ask your Druggist about Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, and sold throughout the Dominion at 50c. a box. 142

Pastor Russell's Sermon

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Dec. 17.—As our ship neared your beautiful island I thought back a century to the time when these islands were uncivilized It called to my mind the text, "Who hath heard such a thing? Who hath seen such things? Shall the earth be made to bring forth in one day? Shall a nation be born at once?"—Isaiah lxvi:8.

Then I thought of how your island has been styled the "Paradise of the Pacific." The reality surpasses my expectations. Yet as I think of the glorious conditions which the Bible tells us will prevail throughout the whole world under Messiah's Kingdom, I perceive that even the Paradise of the Pacific falls far short of the Paradise of God.

God has declared that the earth is His footstool, and that in due time, under Messiah's Empire, He "will make the place of His feet glorious." He has told how the wilderness shall blossom as the rose and the solitary place shall be glad; how streams shall break forth in the desert, and the earth shall yield her increase; how then the knowledge of the Lord shall fill the whole earth, until none shall say to his neighbor, "Know thou the Lord," because all shall know him even from the least unto the greatest; how every knee shall bow and every tongue confess Messiah to the glory of God.

It is because God has already dealt bountifully with your island and given you in advance many of those blessings promised to the whole earth that your island is styled a Paradise. Nevertheless, you all need to pray with the remainder of mankind for the coming of the Kingdom of Messiah and its blessing—"Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven."

"Although you have so many earthly good things lavished upon you, you still are under the curse—sin and death still reign in your midst; their marks are in evidence. Nature smiles and only man is vile," wrote the poet. Thank God that some of the vileness has passed awya: that Christian civilization has brought to these islands a little of the light of the knowledge of the glory of God!

But here, as elsewhere, the marks of sin are visible. Sin and imperfection are everywhere visible; you need the Times of the Restitution and the Messianic Kingdom.

Your cemeteries were early in evidence, telling that here, in this Paradise, men die. Your hospital and physicians' signs tell us that here, too, men are sick. But in the Paradise which God has promised to establish under Messiah's Kingdom, the inhabitants will not say "I am sick." Ultimately there will be no more sighing, no more dying, and no more crying, because all the former things of sin and death will have passed away. He that shall sit upon the throne shall make all things new. (Revelation xxi:4,5.) "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death," (I. Corinthians xv:26), and everyone under its power will be released.

"There shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and of the unjust." There sleep will appear to them as but a moment, and wonderful will be the changes to which they will awaken—the blessings, the privileges, the opportunities! Verily our God is a great God; there is none like Him—loving, gracious, kind. Although He condemned our race, the condemnation was death and not torture, and the redemptive plan, which He devised, enables Him to be just and yet to be the justifier of him that believeth in Jesus."

Pastor Russell expounded his text showing by the context that it refers to the resurrection of the church. He declared that the begetting of the Holy Spirit in the present life constitutes God's people embryo new creatures in Christ; that this begetting and embryo development, according to the scriptures, concludes in death, and that the resurrection moment, the attainment of glory, honor and immortality as spirit, beings beyond the veil, will be the birth of this new creation of God—the elect church—"the Bride, the Lamb's Wife."

Pastor Russell pointed to the declaration of the apostle that Jesus in His resurrection became "the first-born from the dead," "the first-born among many brethren," who attain a similar resurrection, and who are, therefore, said to share in His kind of a resurrection to the spirit nature.—Romans viii:29.

Our text points us down to the thousand-year day of Messiah's Kingdom—the day so long foretold—the day of earth's blessing, in which the "Sun of Righteousness" will scatter the darkness of sin and bring blessings to all mankind. It is the Psalmist who tells us that the church will be blessed of the Lord in that glorious day, but in advance of the world. Thus we read, "God will help her right early in the morning." (Psalm xlvi:5.)

That the privileged time in which the church will be helped, in which she will be passed from earthly conditions to heavenly conditions, is in our text spoken of as her birthday. St. Peter tells us that the church is the Holy Nation to which God frequently refers in the prophecies. (I. Peter ii:1,9.) The head of the church was born from the dead more than eighteen centuries ago; the body is come forth now, the Holy Nation complete, perfect and fully equipped by the lessons and experiences of the present life.

To that Holy Nation wil be given the control of the world under the supervision of her Lord and Redeemer: "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me in My throne"—"and I will give him power over the nations"—"he shall rule them with a rod of iron." Through this nation blessing is to proceed to all the families of the earth.

Verse seven pictures the church as a mother, and pictures Messiah as a man—the head of the church, which is His body. This is the great deliverer referred to by St. Paul in Romans xi:26. He it is that, coming out of Zion, shall be the deliverer of Israel; who shall "turn away ungodliness from Jacob." Verse 9 connects the resurrection birth of the head with the resurrection birth of the body. Would God bring forth the head, Jesus, and then fail to bring forth the Church, His body? Nay, verily! His faithful shall share His resurrection as promised.—Philippians iii:10.

RECORD IN TRANSPORTATION

Railway shippers and especially shippers of live stock will be interested in the record made by the Soo in transporting a shipment of horses from St. Paul to Vancouver recently. The shipment which consisted of one hundred and fifty thoroughbred horses was made from Lexington Kentucky, by Irving H. Wheatcroft, a retired United States Railway man and the owner of several large stock farms. In shipping his stock, the only stipulation of importance made by Mr. Wheatcroft was that the horses should be delivered in good condition at Vancouver in not more than six days after they had left St. Paul.

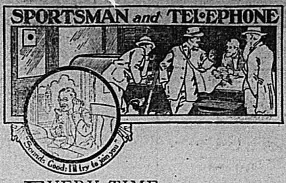
In forwarding the shipment, the railway not only made delivery at Vancouver within six days but cut the time down to under four days,—three days and twenty-one hours to be exact. The special train containing the horses left Minneapolis at 10.15 A.M. one morning. The following day, at 6.30 P.M. it reached Portal and it left Portal the same night at 8.05 o'clock. The trip from Portal was made in sixty-two hours, Vancouver being reached four days after. This is remarkably good time and on the arrival of the horses at Vancouver Mr. Wheatcroft complimented the Canadian Railway officials on the high standard of their freight service.

The horses were eventually shipped to Australia on the steamship "Kish".

It is humane to put some things out of their misery—shattered hopes, for instance.

LET EVERYONE USE CHRISTMAS STAMPS

The little Christmas Stamp, issued on behalf of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, to help care for needy patients, serves, of course, a very practical purpose in providing a means of securing funds for this institution. But the educational value of millions of these stamps being put in circulation must not be overlooked. For this reason we urge our readers to put a one cent stamp on every letter and package that they will be mailing between now and the new year. Scatter abroad the good news that there is hope for the poor consumptive. With the stamps costing only one cent each, the door is open to everyone to have some part in this great campaign of stamping out consumption. In a decade the mortality in the Province of Ontario from tuberculosis has declined nearly forty per cent. Every buyer of a Christmas Stamp can help to further improve these conditions. A post card to the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street West, Toronto, will give all particulars. Write him to-day.



SPORTSMAN and TELEPHONE
"Sounds Good; I'll try to join you"

EVERY TIME a man wants to get away from all connection with the busy world, the telephone is an important helper.

The Local Service is useful in arranging his affairs at home, and the Long Distance Service of the Bell System helps him to decide where to go and what to take.

By means of his Bell Telephone he can find out whether the fish are biting or the birds are flying, and whether guides or horses can be secured.

After he has been out awhile, if he wants to get word from the city, the nearest Bell Telephone is a friend in need.

AX-GRINDING

A SCIENCE WITH SOME DEALERS.—DONE AT THE EXPENSE OF THE PUBLIC.

There is nothing "just as good" as Newbro's Herpicide. Some dealers will even go so far as to tell you they have something better.

That dealer has an axe to grind.

You can't stop his grinding, but you can prevent him grinding it at your expense.

There is one sure, swift way to do it.

Go where you can get what you ask for.

You won't be obliged to do this very often, as fortunately the majority of druggists are honest and conscientious.

Newbro's Herpicide has been so long and favorably known as the original dandruff germ destroyer that no one should be deceived.

When you need a hair remedy, you don't want one which merely promises to kill the dandruff germ and prevent the hair from falling.

You want one that will do it.

Herpicide does it.

The hair becomes soft and lustrous There is life, snap and beauty, where formerly the hair was dead, dull and brittle.

Newbro's Herpicide is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications of this wonderful prophylactic may be obtained at the best barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Send ten cents in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for a nice sample of Herpicide and a booklet telling all about the hair.—Doyle's Drug Store special agents.

AIR CONQUEST LONG STRUGGLE

Berget is of Opinion that the Monoplane is the Machine of the Future.—Present Speed Must Be Doubled to Secure Safety.

The fundamental principle of aerostatics was discovered by Archimedes and formulated as follows: "Every body plunged into a fluid is subjected by this fluid to a 'pressure' from below to above which is equal to the weight displaced by that body." The first application of this principle was to balloons, care being taken to produce a body whose total weight was less than that of the volume of air it displaced. But although the principle was thus applied as far back as 1783, it was not until 1884 that the first balloon capable of being steered was produced by Col. Renard, who accomplished a circular flight in what deserved the title of a dirigible. The reason for this was that in order to steer a body floating in a fluid it is absolutely essential that this body should possess an independent speed, to permit it to move in the fluid of its own accord. In 1887 Col. Renard succeeded in obtaining an electric motor of eight horsepower weighing only forty kilogrammes a horsepower and capable of great endurance.

Monoplane the Future Machine

Today mechanicians have succeeded in perfecting motors especially designed for aviation of the almost incredibly light weight of two kilogrammes a horsepower and of such perfect action that they can start in an instant without preliminary preparation. Professor Berget, in his volume "The Conquest of the Air," explains clearly and briefly the mechanical difficulty of the problem and the scientific reasons why it took a century to discover how to guide the machine which the brothers Montgolfier launched into the air in 1783. Next came the problems connected with the resistance of the air, which determine the shape of the envelope for a dirigible balloon. A spherical balloon can not be propelled. So long ago as the beginning of the nineteenth century Marey Monge predicted the necessity of adopting a shape, should an attempt be made to propel aerostats, which should have "the head of a cod and the tail of a mackerel." According we see the fusiform shape in the Giffard and Santos-Dumont, the fish shape in the Renard, Lebauchy and Clement-Bayard and the cylindrical in the Zeppelin. As the result of the laws of air resistance large balloons have an advantage over the small, the Zeppelin (18,000 cubic meters) being the largest ever made, though the shape is against its best interests in this particular case.

The Aeroplane.

The forerunner of the aeroplane was the kite. In a chapter entitled "Application of General Principles," after discussing the wings and their proper angle, stability and the means for its realization, Prof. Berget pronounces decidely in favor of monoplanes as against biplanes and declares that the Rheims week of 1911 conclusively demonstrated the superiority of the monoplane, which appears to be the aviation apparatus of the future. One of the defects of the Wright biplane, he asserts, to be the warping of the wings to keep the carrying surface as horizontal as possible. This must inevitably end in endangering the essential solidity of the structure, he says. Another defect is that it requires an extra action on the part of the pilot.

The British Government has intimated its determination not to issue tenders for army and navy contracts to the indicted U. S. meat packers.

The Government has decided upon a Christmas innovation in regard to the outside civil service and temporary employes at Ottawa. This year they are to be paid on Dec. 22 in the interests of Santa Claus. The necessary order in council has been passed.

Turks In Bad Plight.

Malta, Dec. 16.—The Turkish and Arab forces, who have retreated to the oasis at some distance from the coast of Tripoli, are in a sorry plight, according to a statement made by a Maltese citizen named Tomua, who succeeded in escaping from the Turkish camp, and he just reached Malta.

Tomua says that it will be impossible for the Mohammedan forces to hold out much longer, owing to the almost entire lack of provisions. He also says that the dissensions among the Arabs irregulars and the Turkish troops have become so acute that defections among the former are extremely numerous.

Constantinople, Dec. 16.—Officials of the Turkish War Office are circulating a complaint that the Italian troops in Tripoli are using dumdum bullets in their operations. These bullets are soft at the point and spread when they come in contact with any opposing substance, making a severe wound.

New Collars and Cuffs

Speaking of collars and cuffs, there is nothing prettier than hemstitched white marquisette. For winter gowns and blouses it is charming, and is seen on many new models. You can make a set in an hour or two at home, the cost is almost nothing, and the effect charming. For those in mourning, white marquisette accessories are very pretty on blouses of chiffon or crepe, or on serge frocks.

Woman's World

CARE FOR THE TEETH!

It is useless to say to intelligent persons that the teeth should be brushed at least twice every day, with unfailing regularity, and that selection of the toothbrush is a matter deserving some thought. Anyone who will buy a cheap, inferior toothbrush, and spend money on things more ornamental and less useful, does not deserve good teeth.

For ordinary use, a good, stiff brush that fits the mouth is the best to use, and do not be afraid to use it. A prominent dentist once told me that a tooth kept polished would never decay. This itself is an argument in favor of the untiring use of the toothbrush.

Some good dentifrice should be used two or three times a week, and there is nothing superior to plain "prepared chalk." It forms the basis of all the expensive tooth powders, and is just as good as the best of them. If one objects to the flat taste of the chalk, it can be easily converted into a pleasant dentifrice by flavoring with extract of rose.

A still more effective dentrifice is prepared chalk and powdered orris root, and about a half teaspoonful of finely shaved Castile soap. This formula may be used a lifetime and never be improved upon, as it contains every essential for cleaning and whitening the teeth.

Heavy Macrim Lace combined effectively with sheer chiffon.

Washing Silk Gloves

For washing silk and Lisle-thread gloves use a soft suds made of soft warm water and a good white soap; put the gloves on the hands just as you would to wear, and wash your hands in the suds as though the gloves were not there, rubbing more soap on any soiled place. When clean, rinse through several waters, wipe with a soft towel, but do not rub them; then take off carefully and hang in a draught to dry, pulling them into shape occasionally. Pure white gloves should be hung in the sunshine, but delicate tints should be dried wrong-side out in the shade. The delicate threads of such gloves can not stand rubbing on the washboard. All rents and repairs should be made before washing.

Water of Eternal Youth

The beauties of the Austrian court used a lotion which was so effectual in keeping the face smooth and free from winkles, even in the aged, that they named it the water of eternal youth."

Some one has recently divulged the secret of this wonderful, though exceedingly simple wrinkle lotion, which in her gratitude she has similarly dubbed as a preserver of youth. One ounce pure saxolite (powdered), dissolved in a half pint of which hazel—that's all there is to it. Any woman can get these ingredients at her drugstore, put them together, and use the solution with entire safety. To bathe the face in the same brings immediate results, even in case of the deeper wrinkles and furrows. This is also effective for hanging cheeks and double chin.

To Remove Stains

Always let mud spots get perfectly dry before trying to remove them, and usually then it will be found that a good brushing is all that is required. If, however, the stain remains, it can be easily removed by two ounces of fluid ammonia, one quart of soft water, one teaspoonful of saltpitre, and one ounce of white soap. Let the mixture stand over night, and shake it well when it is used. Rub the spots with a sponge saturated with this mixture until the last one disappears, then wash it off with clear water.

The yellow spots left by the sewing machine oil on white material may be removed by rubbing the stain with a cloth wet with ammonia before washing it with soap.

To remove paint from window glass make a strong solution of potash, saturate the spots of paint with this, and let it remain until it is nearly dry. Then rub it off with a woollen cloth.

Facings of Color on French Tailor Suits.

A distinctly new feature of the latest French tailor suits of cloth is shown in the deep facings on the skirt of contrasting cloth in the color which is used to trim the suit. A Paul Poiret fall model of dark blue serge of a very fine quality is designed in this mode. It is cut on severely tailored lines, the only trimming being a narrow bordering of Nattier blue broad-cloth, which followed closely the neck-line at back and sides to drop into a shallow square outline in front. This did away with any collar or revers on the coat, which buttoned down the centre front with buttons of the serge worked with heavy Nattier blue floss. These buttons appeared again on the sleeves and high-waisted, narrow skirt, the distinctive feature of which was a five-inch facing of Nattier blue broadcloth. This facing is visible only in glimpses as the wearer walks, and the effect is extremely smart and distinctive of the latest modes.

Smart Women and their Perfumes

The Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia have for years used wallflower perfume. When in the spring the flower is in bloom they have quantities of it dried, put into muslin bags, and scattered through their wardrobes and chests. It is white rose which the Countess of Warwick favours. Everything about her emits its delicate fragrance. The Empress Eugenie has had all her life a penchant for definite scents, such as musk and patchouli — a weakness shared by the late Queen Victoria, who had a special partiality for musk. The Queen of Spain has all her perfume sent to her by a well-known chemist in England. Her favorite is Parma violets, but she likes "heliotrope" and 'new-mown hay." It is full, rich Oriental scent which the Hon. Mrs. George Keppel likes. She never uses any other. As was remarked some time ago, lavender is the odour Queen Mary favours.

Pretty Evening Modes

New evening dresses and modes continue to come in. Chiffon tunics in beaded patterns are the favorites still. A knee length tunic of gold-colored minon crepe was outlined with silver crystal beads, and finished with a gold cord girdle. Another of white net had crystal beads and mock pearl embroidery, and the high waist line was finished with a band of beading and pearls. There are crystal bead rope girdles which are very handsome, although being quite popular they will soon become wearisome. The mock pearls mingled with beading are also very popular just now for evening wear; and bandeaux for the hair of the same garniture as that used on the gown are a chic idea. Crepe de chine with velvet brocade patterning the edge is a lovely new conceit for evening gowns.

TWO WAR PICTURES.

Reminiscences Written by a Non-Commissioned Officer Who Served During the Napoleonic Wars.

There has recently been published a book containing reminiscences written by a non-commissioned officer who served during the Napoleonic wars. In these reminiscences there is given this description of a scene after the British attack on the French forces in Alexandria: "After the action was over we were ordered to go and take all the wounded of both armies and carry them to the boats . . . . It was truly a horrible sight to see the French and British writhing in agonies of death, and making friendship, who had only a few minutes before been filled with rage and hatred at one another—all their fierce passions stilled, and like a hushed child, taking one another in their dying arms."

This other picture is of the scene presented by Waterloo the morning after: "When morning came I went out to see the field on which so many brave soldiers had perished. The scene which met my eyes was horrible in the extreme. The number of dead was far greater than I had ever seen on any former battlefield. The bodies were not scattered over the ground, but were lying in heaps—men and horses mixed promiscuously together. I turned away with disgust from this heart-moving spectacle. . . . . I confess my feelings overcame me; I wept bitterly, and wished I had not been a witness of such a scene."

Mother Charged With Murder.

Bad Axe, Mich., Dec. 18.—Mrs. Carrie B. Sparling, wife of the late John Wesley Sparling, and mother of Cyril, Albert and Peter Sparling, all of whom are dead, was arrested early last night charged with the death of her son. Mrs. Sparling was taken to jail. The warrant was issued Saturday and Mrs. Sparling was expecting arrest.

"I am resigned to go to jail contentedly and prayerfully," she said in an interview some time before the sheriff arrived. She told of "prayer visions," in which she said she saw Dr. R. A. MacGregor of Ubly robed in white and indicating his innocence, being driven over a precipice by a multitude.

Saturday Dr. MacGregor was held to the Circuit Court, charged with the murder of Cyril Sparling. Miss Marguerite Gibbs, the nurse who also attended the youth, was bound over on a charge of accessory after the fact.

Mrs. Sparling's arrest resulted partly from the testimony of Sheriff McAuley at the MacGregor examination Saturday.

It is reported that the bodies of father and third son are to be exhumed soon.

Reyes Pulls Off Battle.

Mexico City, Dec. 18.—A special despatch to The Herald from Monterey says that a high official at that place has received word from the vicinity of Galeana in the State of Nueve Leon that Gen. Reyes has arrived there and is engaged in recruiting. The some official learns also that a skirmish between federal troops and Reyistas occurred Saturday at Sandoval, near Matamoros, in the State of Tamaulipas. No details of the fighting have been received.

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 18.—Private advices received here Saturday night say that Gen. Geronimo Trevino, in command of the federal army in Mexico, is closing on the Town of Galeana, where Gen. Berorado Reyes is declared to have established headquarters preparatory to launching a rebellion against the Government of Mexico.

Gen. Trevino has ordered his troops to move hurriedly on Galeana and has informed his officers that Gen. Reyes was accompanied by only five or six men on his trip from the border.

Makes Hair Grow

D. M. Waters has an invigorator that will grow hair or money back.

The time to take care of your hair is when you have hair to take care of.

If you hair is getting thin, gradually falling out, it cannot be long before the spot appears.

The greatest remedy to stop the hair from falling is SALVIA, the Great American Hair Grower, first discovered in England. SALVIA furnishes nourishment for the hair roots and acts so quickly that people are amazed.

And remember, it destroys the dandruff germ, the little pest that stos the life that should go to the hair from the roots.

SALVIA is sold by D. M. Waters under a positive guarantee to cure Dandruff, stop Falling Hair, and Itching Scalp in ten days, or money back. A large bottle costs 50 cents. The word SALVIA (Latin for sage), is on every bottle.

Pinchot Warns Republicans.

Boston, Dec. 18.—That the development of recent months have made impossible the renomination of Mr. Taft and that the country is turning rapidly to LaFollette as the next Republican Presidential nominee, were among the declarations made by Gifford Pinchot, former chief of the U. S. Forest Service, before a gathering of progressive Republicans in Tremont Temple Saturday night.

"Unless the Republican party shall meet the demand of the times by throwing itself squarely into the progressive movements, its time of usefulness is past," said the speaker. "Modern conditions demand modern treatment. The Republican party needs to be cleansed of its open sores."

The gathering was so large that an overflow meeting was necessary.

Girl Babies Taller.

Boston, Dec. 18.—Girl babies are being born taller and with much more vitality than used to be the case, according to an authority in this city. Miss Charlotte W. Dunn, assistant superintendent of a hospital here patronized by the stork to the extent of 3,000 babies a year, says:

"We have noticed that girl babies are getting taller and that they are appearing in this world lately with more vitality than formerly. The boy babies continue on the average in weight and height."

Alfred Vanderbilt Weds.

London, Dec. 18.—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and Mrs. Smith Hollins McKim, formerly Miss Margaret Emerson of Baltimore, were married at Reigate at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, the banns having been announced in the customary manner.

The couple have gone on a motor wedding trip. It is said at the Vanderbilt apartmnets in London to-day that their destination was not known.

MAY INTERVENE.

Japan and Great Britain to Mediate In China.

Tokio, Dec. 18.—It is unofficially stated that Japan and Great Britain have offered, or are about to affer, to mediate between the Chinese Government and the rebels, and will adopt further measures if this is refused. The newspaper Yorozzu says Japan on Dec. 11 notified China of her intnetion to make such an offer and said an agreement had been made with Great Britain by which the two Governments would act in concert in the matter. Mr. Ijuin, the Japanese Minister at Pekin, was notified of this action on Dec. 16, and it is understood that he forthwith informed Premier Yuan Shi Kai and the rebel leaders at Shanghai that Japan and England were instructing their respective consuls-general at Shanghai to offer to mediate.

The Ji-Ji Shimpo adds to the above that if the terms suggested by Japan and England are refused they will take decisive measures.

The Foreign Office refuses to confirm or deny the story, but says its publication was not authorized. It adds that it is impossible to make a statement now owing to pending negotiations.

Some action of this sort has been expected for several days. Japan recently sent councillor of the Foreign Office Matsui, who was at one time Charge d'Affaires at Washington, to Pakin, where he has held frequent conferences with Premier Yuan Shi Kai. It is reported that Sir John Newell Jordan, the British Minister at Pekin, left for Shanghai on Dec. 15.

A despatch from Shanghai reports that Japan and England have notified the revolutionists that they are prepared to guarantee certain terms of peace.

[illegible] Subpoena.

Montreal, Dec. 16.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was asked yesterday if it was true that he had been called as a witness in a case appearing in the Toronto courts, but was excused from appearing, owing to the fact that he had to be in Montreal to take part in the reception to H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught.

"Yes, it is quite true," said Sir Thomas, laughingly. "I did receive a subpoena to attend a hearing at Toronto as a witness. But as no conduct money accompanied the subpoena I did not feel that I could afford to pay railway fare from Montreal to Toronto and back to see if I knew anything concerning the matter at issue."

Considerable prominence was given to the affair in the Toronto press, but the calling of the C.P.R. president is considered to have been merely a bid for publicity, and as the subpoena was quite irregular, Sir Thomas took no notice of the matter.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

TRAILING DYNAMITERS

Grand Jury at Indianapolis Gets Important Clues.

Evidence at Federal Investigation Into Shipment of Explosives Reveals Movements of Authors of Explosions Throughout the United States—Burns Will Give Evidence—Depots For Dynamite Located.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 19.—Hotel registers showing the movements of those suspected of complicity in the dynamiting conspiracy other than the McNamaras and Ortie McManigal were taken before the federal grand jury yesterday.

Thomas J. Refingon of Youngstown, Ohio, the first hotelman to be examined, brought with him his hotel register and some account books said to show by whom certain hotel bills had been paid. A bridge being erected by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at Youngstown was damaged by an explosion on the night of Oct. 30, 1907. Non-union ironworkers had been employed on the contract. This explosion was followed by numerous others in Northern Ohio, all alleged to be depredations of the "dynamiting crew."

McManigal's and the McNamaras' movements are well-known, and the hotel records are being brought from places in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, from the east and as far west as Salt Lake City, Utah, with a view of tracing others whose names have not yet been mentioned, but upon whom it is said, the Government is keeping close watch.

Other persons examined yesterday are believed to know circumstances connected with the stores of explosives which the dynamiters kept. The stores were at Tiffin, Ohio, where in April, 1911, 540 pounds of dynamite were taken from a barn in the rear of McManigal's father's home at Indianapolis, where more than 100 pounds of explosives were found in the basement of the building occupied by the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and in a barn outside the city; at Rochester, Penna., where nitro-glycerine was found, and at Muncie, Ind.

Detective W. J. Burns, who, through evidence left at these places, traced McManigal's connection with the McNamaras, probably will be a witness later.

District Attorney C. W. Miller said the Government was progressing rapidly with the investigation. He said more than the preliminaries had been gone through, and it was probable all the evidence would be in within a month.

Probing Bribery Charge.

Los Angeles, Dec, 19.—Bert. H. Franklin, formerly an investigator, employed by the defence in the McNamara dynamiting cases, was brought before Justice Young yesterday for preliminary hearing on the second bribery charge against him—that of having bribed Mrs. Robert F. Bain to influence her husband, a juror, in the trial of James B. McNamara.

One witness, Mrs. Maud Farley, a neighbor, testified that Mrs. Bain came to her home one day and used the telephone; that Mrs. Bain used the name Franklin several times.

The case then went over until today.

Major Leonard's Generosity.

Brantford, Dec. 19.—Announcement has been made here that Major R. W. Leonard, chairman of the Transcontinental Railway Commission, has offered to donate funds to Grace Church in this city sufficient to erect a tower with a chime of bells. It is understood the entire structure will cost $6,000. The tower will be a memorial to Major Leonard's father and mother, who were well-known workers in Grace Church for many years.

In connection with the improvements the sum of $23,000 has been subscribed in addition for a handsome parish hall. The gift of Major Leonard is entirely unconditional, and it is understood has been accepted by the church authorities.

Rev. H. F. D. Woodcock, M.A., has resigned as curate of Grace Church and will accept a call to Oakville Anglican Church.

Nine Dollars For Six Weeks Work.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 19.—Otto Greiger and Otto Huffman, Germans, told Magistrate Fraser yesterday that they had been brought to Canada from the States by a contractor, for whom they worked six weeks, receiving $9 pay each. The balance had been kept for transportation. The men were dismissed. They were charged with trespassing, but were released.

Wm. J. Hamilton, Falls passenger agent of the Lehigh Valley, will assume his new duties as successor of the late Robt. Lewis, Canadian passenger agent in Toronto, the first of the year.

Pray For U. S. Senate.

London, Eng., Dec. 19.—Influential support is being given among Englishmen of all parties to the celebration of a century of Anglo-American peace. The Morning Post makes the piquant suggestion that the best celebration would be to convert the Rush-Bagot agreement into a treaty securing the removal of all armed forces now upon the Great Lakes, thus ensuring the future peaceful character of these lakes. If, as proposed, a special day be devoted to prayer, The Post says, let us all pray that the Senate of the United States be moved to consent to such a treaty.

Woman Obstructed Police.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 19.—Mrs. O'Connor, who assisted her husband, James O'Connor, to escape from Bailiff Ogg, Guelph, while being brought to the county jail here to await trial on a charge of housebreaking, was placed under arrest by the local police and remanded until Thursday. She is charged with obstructing the police in the performance of their duty.

NEW FIELDS TO CONQUER.

Canada Must Be Commercially Great, Says Laurier.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—Members of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association, at their annual banquet last night heard two members of the Dominion Cabinet, together with the leader of the Nationalists, each of whom expressed divergent views and ideas. While Sir Wilfrid Laurier emphasized the necessity of looking after foreign trade and not being cut out by European nations, Hon. George E. Foster argued that interprovincial trade relations were perhaps more important still; and Henri Bourassa, speaking for the Province of Quebec, made an eloquent and forceful plea for the use of the French language throughout the Dominion.

The toast to the Dominion Parliament was first responded to by Hon. Charles J. Doherty, who was followed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid urged that attention must be given to western European nations, to which he said Great Britain and the United States were making a bee line to capture trade.

"Canada should be not only in the front rank of commercial nations, but the every first of the commercial nations of the world. To that end, let me tell you to wake up; the dawn is upon us."

Hon. George E. Foster suggested that attention should be turned to the interprovincial trade of the Dominion.

"Laud as we may the praises of trade between ourselves and nations across the border and across the sea, right here amongst us ought there to be the interchanged of our diversified products. The policy is good which leads to the development of trade between Canada and foreign countries, but that policy is better which leads also to the devolpment of home productions and their interchange between our products," he said.

Tried to Hit Member.

Constantinople, Dec. 19.—The Parliamentary situation is becoming critical. The members of both parties are at high tension over the proposed modification of Article 35 of the constitution, and this led to a personal encounter yesterday between a Unionist deputy and a member of the Opposition on the floor of the House. The former attempted to strike the Opposition deputy with a chair, but was prevented from doing so by the intervention of several members. A tumultuous scene ensued, and the president was compelled to suspend the sitting.

The Unionist majority then held a meeting and decided to provoke a dissolution of the chamber at all costs.

Refuses Ultimatum.

Teheran, Persia, Dec. 19.—The National Council has refused to accept the Cabinet's proposals regarding a solution of the Russian difficulty, and the Russian troops are preparing to advance on the capital. It is believed that the advance will begin on Thursday.

The people are apathetic and only the women continue an active boycott. The official attitude suggests passive resistance, but the provincial sentiment is strongly opposed to the Russians. The ex-Shah, Mohammed Ali Mirza, is at Gumesh Tepe.

Wabash Receivers Appointed.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 19.—On the application of the Westinghouse Airbrake Co., Judge Elmer B. Adams in the U. S. Circuit Court yesterday afternoon, appointed Fred. J. Delano, Edward B. Pryor and W. T. Bixby receivers of the Wabash Railway Co. The receivers' bond was fixed at $300,000 each, to be given in ten days. Wells E. Blodgett, who has been general counsel for the road, was appointed counsel for the receivers.

F. J. Delano is president of the road now, and Mr. Pryor, until recently, was a director.

Chinese Cabinet Not Formed.

Shanghai, Dec. 19.—The Nanking convention, which is to take under consideration the establishment of a republic, has not yet met in regular session. As a consequence the reports that a President has been elected and Ministers named, are without foundation.

SENATE TO OFFICIATE

It Will Quietly Make an End of Russo-American Treaty.

President Taft Hands the Matter Over to Upper Chamber of Congress to Bring to an End the Entente and Suggests That a More Modern One Be Entered Upon — Officials Are Not Very Sanguine.

Washington, Dec. 19.—President Taft turned over to the Senate yesterday the task of completing the abrogation of the treaty of 1832 with Russia, because of alleged discrimination against American citizens of Jewish faith. Ignoring the House of Representatives, the President sent a message to the Senate announcing that on Friday last he had caused notice to be forwarded to St. Petersburg that the U. S. desired the treaty to end Jan. 1, 1913. This notification was officially handed to the representatives of the Russian Government yesterday.

Mr. Taft asked the Senate to ratify and give effect to his action. The foreign affairs committee of the Senate voted unanimously to report a resolution of ratification couched in diplomatic language, and Senator Lodge offered it later in the Senate. There was every reason to believe that the resolution would be rushed through, inasmuch as the Senate committee, as an act of courtesy to the House, had decided that the lower branch of Congress should be asked to concur in the Senate's action.

Senator Heyburn of Idaho took the floor, and after protesting vigorously against hasty action, asserted his right under the rules and by formal action, threw further consideration of the matter over until to-day.

Although it was evident that politics would enter into the fight to-day, the prediction was made freely that all obstacles would be overcome.

In his message to the Senate, President Taft transmitted a copy of the letter to the Russian Foreign Office. In it was expressed the view of the U. S. that the old treaty no longer met the political principles or commercial needs of the two nations and should be terminated.

The American Government, with marked courtesy suggested further that it would be most agreeable to this country if a new treaty, along more modern lines, could be negotiated to replace the ancient and outlived document.

Despite this overture to the Russian Government, State Department officials last night practically admitted that there was little hope for negotiating a new treaty that would avoid the very things that were leading to the denunciation of the old one.

Popular In Russia.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—American Ambassador Guild, acting under instructions from Presidenct Taft, yesterday notified the Russian Foreign Minister, M. Sazanoff, that the treaty of 1832 between the U. S. and Russia would be abrogated, in accordance with provisions made by article 12, on Jan. 1, 1913.

It is pointed out in official circles that Russia has no cause to be dissatisfied with this turn of affairs, President Taft's action, in view of the previously contemplated procedure, being likely to increase his popularity here. The notification, it is said, was given with full right and tactful mention of motives underlying the abrogation of the treaty, which leaves full latitude for conducting new negotiations, with the controversial factor eliminated.

Austria Backs U. S.

Vienna, Austria, Dec. 19.—The Russo-American controversy is arousing great interest there and the newspapers are publishing long despatches from Washington on the subject. The general view held in Austria is that Russia will be worsted in a commercial fight, especially in view of the power of American capital.

The Neeue Freie Presse commenting on the possibilities, says that a conflict would occasion no surprise, as the contract in culture and political development between the U. S. and Russi is bound to influence the relations between the two countries. Two Galician deputies of the Austrian Parliament have sent cablegrams to the Senate at Washington, expressing gratitude at the efforts of the U. S. to obtain justice for the Jews.

Youthful Thugs Committed.

Cornwall, Dec. 19.—Fred White, Arthur and James Tyo, aged 18, 16 and 15 years respectively, were yesterday committed for trial on the charge of doing bodily harm to Geeorge Gallinger, aged 83, of Cornwall Township, with the intent to commit murder.

Mr. Gallinger, whose eye was knocked out by a club in the melee, gave evidence and in a measure identified the trio as his assailants.

Fourth Son to Crown Princess.

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 19.—Crown Princess Cecilia, the wife of Crown Prince Frederick William, gave birth to a son at one o'clock yesterday morning.

The Crown Princess was Duchess Cecilia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. Her marriage with Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm took place June 6, 1905. The family of the royal couple now consists of four sons.

New York's Gas Strike Deferred.

New York, Dec. 19.—A committee of clergymen representing all denominations persuaded the Consolidated Gas Co. employes yesterday not to plunge the city in darkness at Christmas, but to wait until after the holidays at least before taking action on a proposed strike.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Wheat shorts took fright to-day at a sensational advance in prices at Buenos Ayres, the result of incessant rains apparently putting an end to bright harvest prospects in the Argentine. The close here was nervous at 3-4c to 1c advance over Saturday night. Corn made a net gain of 5-8c to 3-4c and oats a shade to 1-4c. Latest trading left hog products varying from 2 1-2c decline to a rise of 5c.

The Liverpool markets closed to-day ⅜d to 1¼d higher than Saturday on wheat, and ¼d to ⅝d higher on corn. Paris wheat closed ½d to 1d higher. Buenos Ayres wheat was 3⅝c higher. Antwerp and Budapest unchanged, and Berlin ½c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 18.—The demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat was renewed again to-day on account of further bad reports from the Argentine, and there were orders in the market for some round lots at an advance of 1½d to 3d per quarter, but owing to the increased scarcity of grain room exporters were not able to do much business. The local market is steady, with a fair volume of business passing. Demand for bran and shorts is good. Cheese quiet, but the trade in butter and eggs is fairly active. Dressed hogs strong, at an advance of 25c per 100 pounds.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 91 cars—1013 cattle, 3117 hogs, 1174 sheep and lambs, 38 calves and 35 horses.

Exporters

E. L. Woodward bought 28 steers for export, 1170 lbs. each, at $6.10. There was one load of cattle, export weights, sold at $6.50, and one lot of three cattle, export weights and Christmas quality, sold at $6.75; bulls, $5 to $5.75.

Butchers.

Picked lots of butchers' cattle of butchers' weights, sold at $6.30 to $6.60; loads of good, $5.80 to $6.10; medium, $5.40 to $5.75; common, $4.50 to $5.25; cows, $3 to $5.25; bulls, $4 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

The market here to-day was dull and draggy, and we only heard of one lot of five being sold at $50 to $70 each. But there were some that were unsold at the close of the market.

Veal Calves.

The veal calves on sale to-day were not as a rule of good quality, and sold at from $4.50 to $7.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep sold at $3.50 to $4 per cwt. for ewes; rams and culls, $2.50 to $3; lambs were higher, selling at $6.25 to $6.40, and one lot of selected ewes and wethers at $6.50.

Hogs.

W. J. Johnston, buyer for Gunns (Ltd.), quoted $6.40 for selects, fed and watered, and $6.10 f.o.b. cars, country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 18.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Dec. 16 were 1600 cattle, 1200 sheep and lambs, 2175 hogs and 400 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale were 900 cattle, 675 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 250 calves.

The display of cattle for the Christmas market was, without a doubt, one of the poorest ever seen in Montreal, there being no extra choice stock on the market, and the supply of choice was very limited. In fact, some of our leading butchers could not fill their wants. A few choice bulls were offered, weighing from 1900 to 1980 pounds, which were bought up by Messrs. Belanger & Drolet of Quebec at $6 per 100 pounds, along with a number of other steers and heifers, at $5.50 to $6.

Choice milk-fed calves, suitable for the Christmas trade, were very scarce, and good prices would have been paid if they had been obtainable. A few good calves sold at $12 to $15 each, and the lower grades went as low as $5.

The market for hogs continues strong, and prices have scored a further advance of 20c to 25c per cwt., owing to the limited supply now coming forward and the good demand from packers for the same. Sales of selected lots were made at $6.90 to $7 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.25 to $6.35; do., medium, $4 to $5.50; do., common, $3.50 to $3.75; canners, $1.50 to $3; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; do., medium, $4.50 to $5; do., bulls, $4.50 to $5.50; milkers, choice, each, $75; do., common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40.

Sheep, ewes, $3.75 to $4; bucks and culls, $3.25 to $3.50; lambs, $6 to $6.25.

Hogs, f.o.b., $6.90 to $7.

Calves, $5 to $15.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Dec. 18.—Cattle—Receipts, 4800; slow; 10c to 25c lower; prime steers, $7.75 to $8; shipping, $6.50 to $7.25; butchers, $5 to $6.85; heifers, $3.75 to $6.25; cows, $2 to $5.25; bulls, $3.50 to $5.50; stockers and feeders, $3.50 to $5.25; stock heifers, $2.25 to $3.25; fresh cows and springers slow and $2 to $4 lower, $30 to $65.

Hogs—Receipts, 28,000 head; slow and 10c to 20c lower; heavy, $6.10 to $6.15; mixed, $6 to $6.10; yorkers, $5.85 to $6.05; pigs, $5.70 to $5.75; roughs, $5.50 to $5.60; stags, $4.50 to $5; dairies, $5.75 to $6.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 20,000 head; active; sheep steady; lambs 10c lower; lambs, $3.50 to $6.50; a few, $6.60; yearlings, $4.50 to $6; ewes, $3.25 to $3.50; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $3.65.

Frenchmen Protest.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—That the French in the English-speaking provinces were treated with far less generosity than that accorded the English-speaking minority in the Province of Quebec and that the rights of the French-Canadian citizens of the Province of Quebec and of the Dominion generally were grievously trampled upon both officially and semi-officially, was the dual declaration of Mr. Armand Lavergne, M.P.P., speaking before the Canadian Club of Montreal yesterday afternoon on the position of the French language in Canada.

A strong denunciation of the methods of the Government in requiring all French candidates for the civil service to be able to speak English when little or no knowledge of the French language was required from English-speaking candidates for Government positions was indulged in by Mr. Lavergne, who further charged that French-speaking citizens of the Province of Quebec were even unable to get printed receipts in their own language from the postmasters of districts in the heart of their own province.

In conclusion, Mr. Lavergne said that while he was considered an extremist, he would, as long as he could draw a breath, see to it that the English-speaking minority in this province was accorded the greatest generosity that it was possible for the French majority to bestow.

Two Wrecks In U. S.

Odessa, Minn., Dec. 19.—Twelve persons were killed in a wreck on the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad here yesterday, and ten or more were seriously injured when the second section of train No. 18, the Columbian, from Seattle, crashed into the first section, which had been stopped on a signal.

The dead were: Mrs. R. C. Myers, Newcastle, Ind.; Mrs. C. W. Barber, Ferry, Mont.; — McCone, sleeping car conductor; Mrs. J. J. Richards, Mobridge, S.D., wife of Supt. Richards of Trans-Missouri Slope Division, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Richards; Dr. R. F. Whetsone, Minneapolis; six unidentified dead.

Among the injured are Miss Eliza Clement, Boston, Mass., seriously, and Miss Leona Kennedy, Newcastle, Ind., bruised.

Leavenworth, Kas., Dec. 19.—According to reports received here seven persons were killed and a number injurd in a head-on collision between two trolley cars on the Kansas City Leavenworth electric line near Wolcott, Kas., fifteen miles south of here, yesterday. Physicians and nurses were hurried to the scene from this city.

C.P.R. Changes.

Vancouver, B.C., Dec. 19.—G. M. Bosworth, C.P.R. vice-president, yesterday announced the transfer of the following officials of the company's telegraph service:

J. F. Richardson, superintendent at Montreal, to be superintendent at Vancouver; J. Fletcher, superintendent at Windsor, to be superintendent of traffic at Montreal; J. McMillan, superintendent at Calgary, to be transferred to Winnipeg, replacing J. T. Tait, appointed assistant to Western Manager B. S. Jenkins; J. L. Coons, formerly of Winnipeg, to be superintendent at Calgary.

good motto, but the trouble is that the average man doesn't realize how small he really is.

THAT WORKSHOP IN THE CITY HALL

Alderman Parks Tells Why He Wanted it Removed—Sharp Talk to Critics

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—I would be very glad if you would allow me space enough in your valuable columns for the following letter. I would like to put more fully that which appeared in the press regarding this hazard, and why my committee made the recommendation to have the work shop removed from the basement of the city hall. About two months ago I made a motion in Council to have this work-shop removed, so we could save about half of the premium paid on the insurance carried on the entire building. Ald. Vermilyea opposed my motion and said that the Water Works Department was perfectly satisfied where they were (why not when they were not paying any rent), and said it would be better for the department to stay there and pay the difference of premium in rent. This was some encouragement, and at the committee meeting held on Thursday evening, Dec. 7th, my committee made the recommendation in question, which you have all read. This would do away with the nuisance of the two dirty water closets at the weigh scales, which the Board of Health should not allow. If you remember last year when the then Market and City Property Committee, along with the present chairman of the Executive Committee, recommended that the old meat market be remodelled and used for a police station, etc. A number of the then aldermen, namely ex-Mayor Wallbridge, Ald. Robinson, Ald. Canning, Ald. Knox, Ald. Carlaw, myself and three others, the names have slipped my mind at present, said no, do not waste any more money on a building over 60 years old. We said tear it down and leave the space for the vehicles, gardeners, etc., and build a one-storey building at the east end of the City Hall, relieving the congestion in the butter market at the holiday season, the only time there is a rush. This same chairman said no, we have lots of room for the butter market, we must put the police offices over in the old building, for we wanted more office room at the front of the City Hall.

Then, about one month ago, when I wanted six or eight feet off the butter market to get a vault built in a proper shape and large enough to take care of the valuable city documents that were lying around and being destroyed, the tax rolls and plans that the city is paying hundreds of dollars to have made and no place to keep them until this vault was completed, this same chairman raised a howl and said they could not spare any more off the butter market, for it was only about half large enough (Only 12 months ago it was plenty large enough). Then two weeks ago, when my committee made this recommendation to remove the repair shop from the basement, reducing the insurance premium by half and adding a room 30x70 feet to the inside market, removing the nuisance from the weigh scales, putting a decent lavatory and closet in the basement near the furnace on the south side, giving the market vendors what they were paying for and what they should have, what did this chairman say to this? Why, the Water Works Department were perfectly satisfied with their present quarters (why not when they were not paying any rent nor the additional cost of the insurance). He did not think it fair to turn them out. There would be nothing gained, for ex-Ald. Ketcheson had told him if we turned them out of the basement it would practically make no difference in the insurance rate on the whole building.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am surprised at this same chairman repeating this statement, especially in Council in the presence of some other fire insurance agents that perhaps knew just as much about this matter as this chairman's friend, ex-Ald. Ketcheson. Surely any business man that ever read his policy or even the newspapers would learn by this time that every additional hazard increased the rate on fire insurance.

Take, for an example, the Deacon Shirt Co.'s factory last year. One would think that everything there was perfect and they should get the very best rate possible, which was from 55c. to 65c. It burned with all this care and attention. They built again, removing all hazards possible, being a little more cautious. What have they got to-day? Why an extra low rate, namely 43c. Fancy $4.30 per $1,000 at risk. And with this hazard in the basement of the City Hall makes the tariff rate 85c. or $8.50 per $1,000 at risk, this is what the work shop does to the rate by being allowed to remain in the basement. Now, Mr. Editor, if we remove this hazard and give our poor old city building a the same rate as the Deacon Bros., or a little better. Why, sir, this poor old building has been robbed for years and no repairs done to it of any account. It has paid for itself long ago. Why, even the market tolls, rents from the meat stalls and offices have been stolen from the Market and City Property Committee, and have been used to help pay dividends and boost the Water Works Department.

Why, sir, this same chairman at the last meeting of the Council actually wanted to charge the Fire Department 10 per cent. for all time on the cost of putting in the six hydrants that were ordered to be put on Front Street, so as to add it to the revenue of the Water Works Department. Why this is another case where the Water Works Department was trying to rob the Fire Department to pay more dividends in the Water Works Department, just boost it no matter how or where you get the money to do it with. Now, Mr. Editor, why did ex-Ald. Ketcheson tell Ald. Vermilyea that if the work-shop was removed from the basement there would practically be no reduction in the rate?

Why, sir, that is easy; any one could guess why, because if the rate on the building is lowered the premium would be correspondingly less, and of course he would get less in commissions on the risk.

The whole recommendation was made with the object of furnishing better accommodation to the public, and at the same time make a considerable saving to the city.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, in anticimy letter,

(Signed) ALD. JNO. E. PARKS,
Chairman, Market and City Property Committee.

UNRULY PASSENGER CREATED DISTURBANCE

Claimed to be from Belleville and was Arrested at Kingston

KINGSTON, Dec. 18. — Sunday night Chief Baillie of the police department received a telegram from Napanee station stating that one of the passengers on No. 2, G. T. R. express going east was raising the deuce generally, by parading the coaches, hitting the passengers little love taps as he passed them, telling everybody how much money he had, and how excellent was his fighting condition.

A police squad, headed by Constable Craig gathered in the wandering one at the outer depot as the train passed through this morning.

At the station he gave his name as Daniel Fitzgerald, his residence as Belleville, and his destination as Brockville, and later Prescott. He had in his possession $160 in one dollar bills.

The man seems to be temporarily unbalanced by liquor or drugs. He begged Magistrate Farrell to "kindly let him go home to see his wife."

He will be on trial in police court to-morrow morning.

DEATH'S CALL

Mr. Heman Chapman, who resided on Pinnacle street, died yesterday afternoon after being ill for some time. Deceased, who was 79 years of age, had lived the greater portion of his life in Sidney Township. He had lived in Belleville about a year. Deceased was a man respected by all who knew him. Mr. Chapman was a member of the Presbyterian church. An aged widow and two sons survive, the latter being Lewis of Los Angeles, and Albert of Sidney.

COURT HOUSE IN NEVADA BLOWN UP

Suspected Conspiracy Arising Out of Award of Contract

RENO, Nev., Dec. 18.—At one o'clock this morning two terrific shots of either nitro-glycerine or dynamite were fired in the second story of the new Lyon county Court House in Yerington, Nevada, completely demolishing the entire floor and causing damage to the rest of the building.

The partitions and pillars of the building are of reinforced concrete, and it is one of the most modern and up-to-date edifices in the State, costing about $50,000.

It seems that there was great bitterness among the contractors during the bidding for the work of construction for the new county Court House, and when the bid was let to a Reno construction company a sullenness settled over the different factions in the county of Lyon. They claim that the contract should have been restricted to home competition.

By some strange freak of the powerful blasts there was not any loss of life, and the only damage to surrounding buildings was broken windows and broken china and glassware.

The county commissioners have offered a reward of one thousand dollars for the arrest and conviction of the dynamiters.

EDISON

Of the presents you give or receive this Christmas, how nany will it be possible to show with equal pride and enjoyment next Christmas?

VICTOR

Edison Phonographs range in price from $19.50 to $97.50, the Amberola at $240.00 is the highest point of development of the Phonograph.

The Phonographs vary according to price in regard to the size and finish of the cabinet, the strength of the motor, the style of the horn and the particular model of the reproducer with which they are fitted. Every instrument, however, contains the essential Edison features, chief among which is the permanent sapphire reproducing point.

Instead of giving members of your family comparatively small presents which quickly loose their value, present your "Home" with a Victrola or an Edison Phonograph or Amberola.

In our parlors you can choose from a representative display of the world's finest sound reproducing instruments. We have a full line of Edison and Victor machines and facilities enabling you to compare them. This opportunity of choosing from such a display assures you of getting just the instrument you want.

Victor Victrolas and Victor Gramophones range in price from $20 00 to $250.00. The Victrola is the Hornless Cabinet Instrument. The small cabinet illustrated above is very popular, as it can be placed on a stand or table. It has less volume of tone than the large cabinet at $250.00, but the reproduction is clear and distinct and loud enough for a room of ordinary size. We have also two cheaper models of Victrolas with small cabinets and without covers at $20.00 and $32.50.

Come in any time. We are open evenings until Christmas

Shoes are one of the expenses of a toilet that may be reduced by care alone. A worn-out shoe cannot be renovated; no amount of skill will make it pass as new. The only possible way to save in shoe leather is to care properly for the shoes while wearing them. When they are taken off they should be wiped at once, and if wet filled with paper and put in a dry place (nor near the first) for some hours. We do not advise putting shoes into a bag, for the sake of neatness. If boot-trees are not convenient the boots or shoes should be stood where the air can get to them, as this will tend to harden the soles.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.09.

Why a Chinese Republic?

The statement that the revolution is likely to result in the formation of a Chinese Republic has caused a good deal of surprise in the Western world. When one thinks of it, however, this seems the most natural solution of the problem that [illegible] be presented by a successful rev[illegible]on. The Manchu, a foreign dynast[illegible]ch has held power in China for some 300 years, is, of course, impossible since, as a matter of fact, the present revolution is for the purpose of driving that dynasty from power. On the other hand, the old native dynasty has been out of business for so long that it would probably be impossible to find any legitimate claimant of the throne in that quarter. The natural aversion to Japanese tutelage shuts that country out of consideration as the source of possible supply for a king, and of course a European prince would be altogether out of the question.

NERVOUSNESS AND DYSPEPSIA

CURED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES" THE GREAT FRUIT MEDICINE

In Nervous Dyspepsia, the Dyspepsia does not come from the Nervousness—but the latter trouble does come from the Dyspepsia.

The stomach is a network of nerves. Now if all these nerves are irritated by improper food, hasty eating, or poisoned by gases from the constipated bowels, then they will make one nervous.

"Fruit-a-tives" cures both the Nervousness and the Dyspepsia because "Fruit-a-tives" cures all stomach troubles, keeps the stomach sweet and clean, and enables you to eat and sleep as you did when a child.

CANADA'S CHRISTMAS STAMP

The Campaign for 1911 is on, and Needy Consumptives all over Canada are Rejoicing

As Archdeacon Cody expressed it at a meeting of the Citizens' Christmas Stamp Committee in Toronto, a few days ago, the Christmas Stamp, now issued each year in aid of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, has become one of the institutions of the country.

Three years ago the movement was set on foot in Canada by the National Sanitarium Association, following the idea that first originated in Denmark, which was a year later taken up in the United States, and quickly spread to Canada.

The idea itself is very simple, though the results show how true it is that "great oaks from little acorns grow," $11,000.00 being realized from the sale of stamps in 1910, a sum sufficient to care for forty patients at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. This year it is hoped that $25,000.00 may be realized to assist in this great life-saving work which is ever becoming more urgent.

The cut in the corner of this article shows the design of the stamp for 1911, though the original is in three colors.

This stamp does not carry any mail. One wants to remember this, though, as it has been epigrammatically expressed, any mail will carry it. The idea is for everyone to use this stamp in their correspondence between now and the end of the year. This plan will serve the two-fold purpose of helping to realize the $25,000.00 for the aid of needy consumptives, and will besides possess an educational value that can hardly be overestimated.

The stamps are on sale to-day in book stores, drug stores, and elsewhere in almost every town and city in Canada. Clergymen, Public School teachers, Sunday School teachers, Bible Class workers, Daughters of the Empire, and organizations of many different kinds are assisting in the work of spreading the sale of this little stamp. Each stamp costs only one cent, so that it becomes possible for everyone to have some part in this great battle against consumption.

We have every pleasure in urging our readers to make much use of this little messenger of healing for the next thirty days.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

WELLINGTON.

Mr. Cole is the new sexton of St. Andrew's Church.

Bowermans will hold their Xmas Tree on Wednesday evening; Hillier on Friday evening. We hear of a number of Xmas Trees this year.

St. Andrew's sale of fancy work was a success, the weather was rainy but a number attended. The wheel of fortune for the children was a success. All who attended enjoyed it. A neat sum of money was made.

Miss O. J. Shrouds is down from Toronto University for her holidays.

Mrs. King and two children are away to Kingston for Xmas.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Benson were at Picton Saturday.

Mrs. J. D. Stinson, we are sorry to state, is very ill.

The Methodists hold their Xmas Tree on Thursday evening.

The seed house will have a few holidays at Xmas.

Our new jeweler and his mother have arrived at Wellington.

A number are expected home for the merry Xmas Holidays.

Our post master is better and able to be out again.

BOWERMANS

During the past few days we have had abundance of rain and people are now wishing for a freeze up.

A few last week were still plowing but owing to all low land being too wet they have to discontinue.

An excellent programme is being prepared for the Xmas Tree on Friday night.

Mr. Baitley was busy last week, moving on to his new farm on the 3rd concession.

Mr. John Munro, from near Bloomfield, is moving here to the Baitley farm.

Messrs. Benjamin and Austin Palmer of Hillier, visited here at their uncle's, S. B. Palmer, yesterday.

Mr. Phillip Terry has bought the Raynor farm on the Gilead road, near Wellington, and intends moving in the spring.

The few that have clover seed report a good turn out.

The Orange oyster supper and dance at the Hillier Town Hall on Thursday night last was a success.

TUFTSVILLE.

A number from here attended the anniversary services at West Huntingdon on Sunday, Dec. 3rd.

Mr. James Juby has returned from a visit to Campbellford, Wooler and other places.

A goodly number from this place attended the S. S. convention at Foxboro.

A few of the many friends of the Rev. Barker gave him a surprise party last Friday evening.

Mrs. Maggie Tweedy of Stirling, visited Mrs. Davis for a few days recently.

Revival services are being held in Eggleton church by Rev. E. A. Tonkin, assisted by Rev. W. Barker.

Mrs. Albert Seeley and Miss Annie Clarke, of Stirling, visited their mother, Mrs. H. Clarke recently.

Mrs. R. Werden spent a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Bailey, ridge road.

SIDNEY CROSSING.

Mr. Editor, I wish you a merry Xmas and a Happy New Year.

Mr. Jas. Hyde, of Lisbon, N.D., paid us a flying visit on Wednesday last.

The many friends of Mrs. Chas. Treverton are delighted to hear of his receiving an appointment as clerk in Belleville post office.

Messrs. Frank and Willie Jeffery, who have been located in the west for the past four years, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jeffery.

Mr. Dan Hyde was in Toronto over Sunday attending the funeral of his father.

The Government surveyors are working in this vicinity.

Mr. Harley Hubbell, who has been ill for some time, is some better.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McMasters, of Ellendale, N.D., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Walter Meyers, and other friends.

Mr. W. W. Kelley spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. Horace Denyes, of Odessa.

On Thursday, Dec. 7th, Mr. Daniel Hyde died at his residence, 342 Gladstone Avenue, Toronto; having celebrated his 87th birthday only one week previously. Death was due to senile decay. Deceased was born in Stroud, Gloucestershire, England, and came to Canada 60 years ago, being one of the pioneers of North Hastings. He there built himself a log shack and transformed acres of bush into crop producing land. He lived for many years in Sidney, where he was most highly respected and esteemed by a large circle of friends. Mr. Hyde retired from active life over twenty years ago and settled in Toronto. All his life he was an enthusiastic Methodist and was a local preacher for more than forty years. He was associated with Wesley Church, Toronto, where he rendered devoted service as a Sunday School teacher and class leader. There were ten children, a daughter dying some years ago, and a son, Mr. Ben. Hyde, of Toronto, passing away four weeks ago. The eight surviving are, Mrs. E. V. Graham, and Mrs. R. Nelson, of Toronto, Mrs. H. Finkle, of Los Angeles, Cal., Mr. Dan Hyde of Sidney Crossing, J. G., of Lisbon, N.D., Rev. W. J. Hyde, of Chicago, Harry of Toronto, and Albert of Manitoba.

JASPER PARK.

Pleasure seekers and tourists are impatient for the opening of travel to Jasper Park, B. C. During the past summer a number of parties travelled to the end of steel and then trailed away into this newly discovered wonderland of the West. They all came out with enthusiastic reports of the grandeur of the scenery along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Mr. Frank B. Kirkbride, of 55 Wall street, New York, has just written to the Grand Trunk telling of a trip he had taken in the Athabasca country last fall. Mr Kirkbride says in part:

"The party met the outfit at mile 62 (Hinton), and from there rode to mile 110, stopping two nights on the way. The horses swam the Athabasca at mile 110, and the journey across Shovel Pass to Lake Maligne was made over the excellent trail which had been built by the Otto Brothers for the Park authorities in the Spring.

"From the time of leaving Hinton the scenery grew steadily more interesting and beautiful. Maligne Lake was the climax of the trip. It is unique in the succession of constantly changing views—snow peaks, glaciers, and wooded fore ground—which opens up as one rounds one promontory after another through the length of its eighteen miles. The party spent ten days camping at three different points on the lake, exploring valleys and climbing mountain ridges each of which disclosed new beauties.

"On our return we took the train at the end of steel, then mile 29. We are glad of this opportunity to express our appreciation of the thoughtfulness and courtesy of all the Grand Trunk Pacific officials on the construction trains.

"The trip was undertaken on the recommendation of the Otto Brothers, who have previously guided some members of the party in the region near Field, B. C. Their enthusiastic reports of the new country to which they had just moved were more than justified. The party consisted of Miss E. B. Kirkbride and Miss M. B. Kirkbride, of Philadelphia, Miss Marion R. Taber, Miss Josephine Taber, Miss Elsie Powell, Mr. Alfred Killmer, Mr. Edward Ingraham, and myself, all of New York.

"This was the first 'tourist party' to visit Maligne Lake, the Pearl of the West."

POLICE CHIEF IS TO BE TRIED

Sherbrooke's Chief Guardian of the Peace Charged with Forgery

SHERBROOKE, Dec. 19.—Chief of Police Robert Davidson, of this city, was to-day bound over to stand trial at next session of the Court of King's Bench on charge of forgery. Judge Mulvena bound him over this afternoon and accepted his personal bail of $1,000. The case arose out of the arrest of one Allard Asselin on November 21st, 1910. It appears that the chief had Allard arrested on the charge of cruelty to his wife and sent was sent to the jail no commitment was sent to the jail no committent was sent to the jailor and the next day, J. A. Loforce, jailor, went to the chief and asked for a document so that he could legally detain him. The chief took a blank from a drawer in his desk, signed by L. H. Guay, J.P., and filled it out. Emile Rioux who represented the plaintiff pointed out that Asselin had never appeared before Guay, although the committent stated that he did. L. H. Guay was examined, and stated that Asselin had never appeared before him, and he had never had a complaint against him. Defendant is represented by C. D. White and C. C. Cabana.

OLYMPICS PILOT WAS TO BLAME

The Admiralty Court Finds the White Star Liner Was to Blame, But Loses Its Cross-Suit.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The Admiralty Court to-day found that the White Star Line steamship Olympic was responsible for the collision with the British protected cruiser Hawke near Osborne Bay on the north side of the Isle of Wight on September 20 last.

However, the suit brought against the owners of the Olympic by the Admiarlty fails because the Olympic was in charge of a pilot, as required by law, in these waters. The suit against Commander Blunt, of the Hawke, by the owners of the Olympic, of course, fails also. So there are no damages on either side.

Sir Samuel Thomas Evans, president of the Probate Divorce and Admiralty Division of the High Court of Justice, who gave judgement, accepted the theory of suction advanced by the commander of the Hawke. The cause of the collision was that the liner Olympic came too close to the cruiser, Hawke.

Sir Samuel Evans also decided that the speed of the Olympic at the time of the collision, and for a few minutes preceding it, was greater than had been stated by her witnesses, and that the Hawke's speed at the time of the collision, and for some time before, was about fifteen knots.

He thought that the Olympic, having the Hawke on her starboard side, ought to have got out of the Hawke's way.

NO MORE TIPPING AFTER NEW YEAR

Head of Travelling Men's League Warns Hotels to Bar Practice.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Dec. 19.—A warning that travelling men will cease to give tips after Jan. 1 to hotel employees is contained in a letter sent out to-day by P. E. H. Dow, president of the Commercial Travellers' National League. The letter represents official action of the executive body.

It is stated if on Feb. 1 the hotels persist in the tipping habit the League will begin to advertise for rooms and apartments for transients in every city in the country not having a tipless hotel.

The letter follows an anti-tipping crusade of 40 days. During that time a flood of communications have poured into the League headquarters here expressing views of the tipping system from various standpoints. With them as a basis the League charges that "the growth of tipping in this country is owing to the greed of the hotel proprietors."

In case the hotels don't assist in the crusade the League will request the various chambers of commerce to encourage the establishment of centrally located showrooms for patrons with samples.

WEALTHY NEW YORK CONTRACTOR SHOT

Found Dead in Chair With Bullet Near Heart After Quarrel.

NEWBURGH, N.Y., Dec. 19.—Robert Borvoriso, one of the wealthiest contractors in Orange County, was shot at his home in Tuxedo to-day. He was found dead in a chair where he had been seated.

His wife, her mother and father and two children are presumed to know more about the case than they have thus far told.

Borvoriso had been visiting friends of Hillburn, Rockland County. Returning home about 11 o'clock at night, it is said, that after they had repaired to their room ,the husband and wife had some words about his absence from home. Words were followed by blows, and in the scrimmage it is said Borvoriso knocked his wife down.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Coluccio, parents of the wife, who lived on the next floor, are said to have taken a hand in the struggle and a general mixup, in which the children of the contractor—Annie, 10 years of age, and Emily, aged 7 years, did their little part.

One story is that after Borvoriso had been forced out of the kitchen door a shot was heard, but no one knew who fired it. The other is that he returned to the house and went into a room, from which the report of a revolver was heard soon after and he was found dead in his chair.

The bullet passed through his left breast, just below the heart, the powder leaving its mark on the flesh and clothing. The theory advanced by the family is that he committed suicide.

COSTS $5000 TO BREAK ENGAGEMENT

Jury Gives Stenographer Goodly Portion of 'Heart Balm."

HACKENSACK, N.J., Dec. 19.—Lawyer William De Lorenzo, member of the Board of Education and teacher in the Hackensack night school, must pay $5,000 to Miss Emma Milani, his former stenographer, for breaking his engagement with her. So a jury decided after a deliberation lasting two hours.

The trial occupied three days. Every expressive poem written by the young lawyer concerning the young women he called "Emily" seems to have had great weight with the jury. The lines contained words of warm love.

Lawyer De Lorenzo said he never told any one that he was engaged to Miss Milani, but the plaintiff said: "All Hasbrouck Heights knew of it and I had arranged with a dressmaker to make my wedding gown in May."

Lawyer De Lorenzo admitted that he loved Miss Milani, but said he had to restrain his love because of his love for Miss Lucy Zisak, whom he quietly married.

There was a break with Miss Zisak for several weeks due to the latter's contemplated plan of going to Germany and the young lawyer said he made a conditional agreement with Miss Milani that he would become engaged and be married providing Miss Zisak went to Germany. Finally Miss Zisak changed her mind and Miss Milani was broken hearted when Lawyer De Lorenzo broke the sad news to her.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

EXAMINING LOCALITY.

Mr. Dryden, the Warden of the County, Mr. N. Vermilyea, Reeve of Thurlow, and Mr. J. L. Newton, Deputy Reeve of Hungerford, chairman of the Gravel Roads Committee, to-day visited a portion of a road in Tyendinaga, where, it is alleged, that, owing to defects in the road an accident occurred to an automobile belonging to Rev. Father McCarthy. It is alleged that the machine was completely ruined owing to the condition of the road. An action against the county is threatened in the matter.

A COMING WEDDING.

We clip the following note of local interest from the Kingston Whig: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Anglin announce the engagement of their daughter, Annie Gertrude, to Mr. John Anderson, B. A., Davidson, Saskatchewan, son of the late Mr. Levi Anderson and Mrs. Anderson, Rossmore, Ont. The marriage will take place quietly next week. Mr. Anderson has been very successful as a teacher in the west, and his many friends will be pleased to hear of his new undertaking and will wish both he and his prospective bride a long and happy married life.

CHRISTMAS TREE.

The Kingston Road Methodist Church was last evening filled to the doors with a very appreciative audience, gathered on the occasion of the annual Christmas Tree and entertainment given by the Sunday School scholars of the church. The chair was occupied by Mr. T. W. F. G. Andrews, of Albert College, and the programme, which was exceedingly lengthy, consisted of drills, dialogues, songs and recitations. A feature of the programme was a maypole drill by sixteen young ladies, who executed the different movements in a highly creditable manner. Sprague's concert orchestra, of this city, was present and rendered a number of selections. After the programme the presents on the Christmas Tree were distributed. A number of Albert College students were present and enlivened the proceedings with some of their college songs and yells.

30TH ANNIVERSARY.

Oxford Lodge No. 17 Sons of England celebrated the 30th anniversary of the opening of their lodge last night. Through the efforts of the late Bros. R. C. Hulme and J. W. London and a few others, the lodge was instituted on December 19th, 1881, and has steadily grown both in membership and funds, now standing as one of the largest of the Society. Eight members were initiated last night. After the lodge business in the Red Rose degree a banquest was held in the reception room, after which an hour of speeches and songs was in order. Four members were then advanced to the White Rose degree. Visiting members of Kensington Lodge S.O.E., of Picton, and Lydford Lodge, Belleville, were present and assisted in making the meeting one long to be remembered.

SANTA AT BAPTIST CHURCH.

Two hundred scholars, parents and friends of the Baptist Sunday School enjoyed a sumptuous Xmas supper in their big schoolroom last night. After full justice had been done to the food, adjournment was made to the church auditorium, where a delightful programme was rendered by the scholars. Col. Ponton then gave a lecture on the British Empire, illustrated with beautiful pictures thrown upon the screen. He began at Bombay and ended up with Belleville. The scholars were tumultuous in their applause from start to finish and gave the Colonel a vote of thanks and a Chatauqua salute for his splendid lecture. Then came Santa Claus. He gave gifts to the scholars, and he received gifts from each class amounting to $25, to be given to the poor.

AIKINS—SPAFFORD.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Spafford at Sidney Crossing yesterday at two o'clock in the afternoon. The contracting parties were Mr. Frank Percy Aikins and Miss Nellie May Spafford. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Dyer, Principal of Albert College, uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Mr. Cook, pastor of the Sidney circuit. The parties were assisted by Mr. Stanley Spafford and Miss Olive Aikins. The bride was very prettily dressed in white marquessete, with pearl trimming and bridal veil. The bridesmaid was becomingly dressed in white Ninon with trimmings of blue satin. The presents were unusually numerous and valuable. The Aikins church gave the bride four pieces of furniture, while the gift of the groom's parents was a bedroom suite. The parents of the bride presented her with an appropriate cheque. The lady friends gave a kitchen shower of forty pieces. Besides there there were many other valuable pieces of cut glass, china, etc. The popularity of the gride was very manifest from the numerous and valuable gifts. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful set of sable furs. About 50 guests sat down to a very dainty but bountiful luncheon. Mr. Jas. S. Dyer, cousin of the bride, sang with great effect "Life's Gift," a most appropriate song. The usual toasts followed the luncheon, after which, amid the best wishes of their many friends the happy couple left on the evening train for Toronto and points west. They will return in about a week and will reside at Sidney Crossing.

BAPTIST MINISTER TRIES SUICIDE

Accused of Murdering His Sweetheart, He Gashes His Groin—May Probably Recover.

(Intelligencer Special.)

BOSTON, Dec. 20.—Rev. Clarence V. T. Ritcheson, the young Baptist minister accused of murdering his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell, attempted suicide in his cell this morning by gashing his groin with a piece of tin. His condition is serious, but he may recover. His trial is set for January 15th.

PERSIAN TROUBLE

(Intelligencer Special.)

TEHERAN, Dec. 20.—The Persian Cabinet resigned to-day as the result of the Parliament's refusal to permit the dismissal of Schuster. It is predicted that a ministry will now be formed of men pledged to support the Treasurer General. The Russian troops at Kasbin are reported ready to advance on Teheran to-morrow.

THEY PLEADED GUILTY

Case Was in Progress Before the County Judge at 3.30 p. m.

In the County Judge's criminal court this afternoon Edward Hubbard, Vincent Asselstine and Archibald Green pleaded guilty to stealing rubber tubing from the St. Charles Omnibus Company. Counsel were addressing the court when The Intelligencer went to press.

GANG BATTLE; TWO MEN DEAD

Fierce Struggle Takes Place in New York Park in Which 15 or 20 Men Take Part.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A "gang" battle before daylight to-day in Thomas Jefferson Park left two men dead and a third man dying. All the victims, and several others under arrest, are Italians, but thus far the police have not learned the cause of the fight. Between 15 and 20 men in two divisions took part in the battle and more than a dozen shots were fired.

The police believe that one of the dead men is Patsy Ammello, who lived at 152 South Pearl Street, Philadelphia. They base their identification on a lease for the premises at this location and a return ticket to Philadelphia found in the man's pocket. Lying near Ammello was a man identified as Marinno Debuono, a New York barber He died on the way to the Hospital. Amoclio Duomono, who is dying at the hospital, refuses to throw any light upon the affair.

The men held as witnesses are an undertaker, who brought the dead man to the hospital, and four others, who called to see the wounded man. All deny any knowledge of the shooting.

TRAIN DISTURBER PAID HEAVY FINE

Daniel Fitzgerald, a Passenger From Belleville, Dealt With at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Dec. 19.—Creating a disturbance on a railway train, steam boat, or any kind of conveyance, constitutes a very serious offence, in the eyes of the law.

Daniel Fitzgerald, a young man, found out this to his sorrow, in police court Tuesday morning, when Magistrate Farrell found him guilty of using bad language and creating a disturbance on a train on the Grand Trunk railway, and imposed a fine of $10 and costs, or twenty days. The accused was in police court on Monday morning, and was remanded.

The charge against Fitzgerald was that of using bad language towards Conductor David White, on the night train coming from Belleville. Fitzgerald pleaded guilty, stating that he was under the influence of liquor, at the time, and did not know what he was doing. Fitzgerald was on his way from Belleville to Coteau Junction.

The Magistrate pointed out to the accused the seriousness of the charge, and stated that the public had to be protected.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, ex-Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who was the guest of honor at the Montreal Reform Club, speaking of the leader of the present Government, paid a high tribute to the integrity and ability of Mr. R. L. Borden.

The Kingston City Council has united the water and light departments under a committee to be called the civic utilities. Collamer C. Folger, manager of the light plant, is made superintendent of both at a salary of $ 2,000 a year. Belleville might well consider such a proposition.

Boston is handling a nuisance in a common-sense manner. It requires every hand organ to be tuned and tested before its owner gets a license to play it on the street. The music may be execrable to a cultivated ear, but at least it will be in tune, and thus one of the terrors of Summer evenings is removed.—Mail and Empire.

Allan Ross McDougall, who hurled a brass-bound box at David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, while he was leaving a woman's Liberal meeting on Saturday evening striking him on the face with the missile, was sentenced at the Police Court to two months at hard labor. Not too severe a punishment. Six months would have been better.

Sir William Mackenzie, President of the Canadian Northern Railway, who left for England last week, ostensibly to spend the Christmas holidays with his family, according to a New York despatch, will undertake negotiations with a Paris syndicate for a loan of $80,000,000 to complete the road from ocean to ocean. Has he exploited the London money market?

Some Liberal critics are seeing the undoing of the Borden Government in the changes that are being made in the personnel of the public service. There are some who think that these same changes may rather help the Government. For instance, putting a railway builder like Mr. Leonard in the place of a politician like Mr. Parent, to have charge of building a big railway, struck most people as a good thing.—Montreal Gazette.

The Liberal party is by no means a unit on the subject of abolishing the three-fifths vote in local option. The Windsor Record, which is a prominent supporter of the party led by Mr. Rowell, says: "Unless three out of five persons desired local option, which deprives one class of its liberties, there would be little justification in having such a radical step taken affecting a community. On the other hand, the three-fifths clause is a protective measure for the temperance people because once local option comes into force it cannot be repealed except by a three-fifths vote. What is sauce for the goose is also sauce for the gander. History teaches that extreme views one way or the other, inevitably suffer reaction. The pendulum swings one way and then back again. The only really safe coarse to follow is in the path of moderation."

The relative positions of the two political parties in Ontario to-day has given growth to an extensive list of personators of Mark Tapley—that charming character of Dickens, who grew more cheerful when his prospects were at low ebb. Perhaps one of the most prominent of the group is the Kingston Whig man, who optimistically asserts that public opinion has turned against Whitney and will eventually push him out. A most charitable wish is that this worthy scribe may live long enough to see it accomplished.—Hamilton Spectator.

Although the municipal nominations are only two days away, not one citizen has been bold enough, or rather perhaps, has sufficient interest in the city's government under the big Council to have entered the contest for any one of the twenty-one seats at the aldermanic board. The outlook for the Council for 1912 is very blue, and the present deplorable state of affairs is entirely owing to the minority in the Council, who succeeded some months ago, in preventing the people from voting on the issue of general system with ten aldermen or ward system with twenty-one.

Belleville will be "dry" both on Christmas and New Year's Day. The new Provincial law requiring hotels to close on Christmas goes into effect for the first time this year, which means that from seven o'clock on Saturday evening next, until Tuesday morning the "damp joy emporiums" will have their doors locked. New Year's Day falling on Monday, the day municipal elections will be held, necessitates the hotels closing from seven o'clock from the Saturday evening previous until the following Tuesday morning.

Here's a sensible judge: A divorce said to have been obtained in the District Court of New Jersey, failed to meet with recognition at the hands of Judge Charbonneau, of Montreal, when Dame Caroline Francis Smith brought an action against her husband, Henry Charles Cornish to force him to support herself and two children. The couple were married in West Ham, England in 1886. Two years ago Cornish left his wife and went to the United States. Here he obtained a divorce and then came to Montreal, and is said to be earning $3,000 a year. His wife traced him and to-day, in spite of his plea that the American divorce freed him from all obligations and liabilities, the judge ordered him to pay his wife $50 a month for twelve months, and costs.

The general election to come off on January 3rd in Prine Edward Island promises to be interesting. The electorate has for a good many years been pretty equally divided between the two parties. The local Assembly had a Liberal majority of two until the recent bye-elections transferred that majority to the Conservative side. Thus far the indications would be that the coming contest might be a fairly equal one, with somewhat uncertain chances. The defeat of the Laurier Government, and the downfall of the Palmer Administration has depressed the Liberals somewhat, and has proportionately advanced the hopes and confidence of the Conservatives. There is also the fact that a strong Conservative Government has been formed by Premier Mathieson. The election will be by open voting, giving an advantage to the party in power. Premier Mathieson is not to blame for the fact that the open vote will be in use during the coming contest, for he and his party in the Assembly, year after year, voted to introduce the ballot, which the Liberals rejected.

Pauper's Hallucination

At Cambuslang, a mining town in Lanarkshire, a curious case of a pauper's hallucination was reported to the parish council. The pauper, who has been in receipt of parochial relief for many years, has refused to accept the aliment voted to him. He has become possessed with the belief that a Lanarkshire magnate died and left him a fortune amounting to several thousand pounds, and that if he accepts parochial relief he will forfeit every penny of his "inheritance." All efforts to make the man change his mind have proved useless. The eccentric, who is of a good age, is well known locally, and the case is exciting great interest.

Luck consists in getting what some other fellow wants.

Fielding May Stay In England.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—It is stated here that Hon. W. S. Fielding will go to England to reside, taking charge of his late son-in-law's business, and perhaps entering British politics. British Liberals have, it is said, offered him a seat.

Lawyers would probably starve to death if the fool killer wasn't so far behind with his work.

CHAPTER XXII

Ashes of Old Romance.

It was Friday afternoon when Genevieve started on her mission; the following Wednesday morning I received a telegram from her announcing that she would be home that same afternoon. The interim was so uneventful that my note-book mentions only two incidents as being worthy of preservation.

Late Friday night the welcome news came to headquarters that Alexander Burke had been found. He appeared at his lodgings shortly before midnight, looking wretchedly ill and exhausted. Saturday morning a physician was called in, and the whilom secretary was not able to appear upon the streets again until Tuesday. Then it was observed that a change had come over the man. His impassivity had been penetrated at last; it could no longer hide a nervousness and apprehension which kept his head perpetually pivoting in backward glances across his shoulder.

I smiled with satisfaction when Fanshawe told me this.

"Stay with him," I said; "it makes no difference whether or not he knows that you are always close behind him. In fact, I want him to know it; I want to break that man, and I will."

The other incident referred to was a meeting I succeeded in securing between Maillot and Miss Belle—memorable for me as being the first occasion upon which I was favored with a glimpse of Mrs. Fluette.

Sunday afternoon mother and daughter drove up to headquarters in the family carriage. Although the girl had been tactful enough to eschew a heavy veil and sombre apparel, it was plain to be seen that the event was almost too great an ordeal for even her proud and dauntless spirit.

Belle descended from the carriage hesitantly, and then stood looking about with an air of such helpless terror that I approached—I had previously resolved to keep myself effaced during the visit—and conducted her into the Captain's private office, where Maillot was waiting. She gave me an embarrased, beseeching glance, and murmured a barely audible "Thank you." No more was said. She faltered an instant on the threshold, then, sobbing, rushed in. I made haste to close the door and rejoin Mrs. Fluette.

This lady was slight and frail, with hair as white as snow, and about her there hung an intangible something which gave me the impression that she was a woman who had suffered much. Although I strove to speak cheerfully of the prospects of Maillot's early release, her manner was quite discouraging to all my overtures. When she spoke at all it was only in the faintest monosyllables—usually with her eyes avoiding mine. She looked at me, when at all, shyly, started at every unusual sound, and trembled during the whole time she sat in the Captain's big easy-chair.

At the end of the allotted half-hour—I wasn't very particular over the number of minutes—Mrs. Fluette's increasing nervousness and impatience moved me to rap upon the private room door. Belle emerged, her cheeks white and her eyes swollen with weeping. The poor girl pressed my hand when I helped her into the carriage—clung to it despairingly, to be exact—and the tears again rushed to her eyes.

"This is killing me!" she moaned. "Oh, it is! It is! I can't stand it much longer."

"Courage, Miss Fluette," I undertoned assuasively. "Everything is working for the best, believe me."

Ah, but was it? I could not say the words with much assurance. They drove away, two sad, harassed women.

Touching again upon Wednesday afternoon, I was pretty sure that the Fluette carriage would meet Genevieve at the station—very likely with Belle, or possibly Mrs. Fluette. In anticipation of the request that she find an excuse to meet me at the earliest possible moment, for I was all impatience to hear her report.

But Genevieve had anticipated also. She arrived armed with a commission from the Ohio cousin, the performance of which would brook no delay. So I had a minute alone with her downtown. She had been thoughtful enough to record a detailed statement of her investigations; it lies before me now as I write; and I shall condense from it those portions that are essential to advancing this chronicle.

In the early '50's Clara Cooper was the belle of the village of Merton. Wooers were many, but favors were few and grudgingly bestowed; and in time all suitors withdrew, leaving the field clear to Alfred Fluette and Felix Page.

The Coopers and the Fluettes represented the wealth and aristocracy of the community, while Felix Page was a poor, struggling young man whose only advantages and prospects for the future lay in his indomitable pluck and a resolution that was ready to ride roughshod over all opposition.

And Clara favored the poor young man. He went forth from Merton resolved to wrest a fortune from the world and lay it at his sweetheart's feet. She promised to wait for him until he returned with the fulfilment of his ambitious aims.

Alas, though, for the fiery Felix: she was not of a very resolute character, being easily influenced by her sterner parents, whose patrician eyes looked askance upon the presumptuous lover's claims. Besides, Felix was absent—supposedly engaged in his laudable enterprise of wresting a fortune from the world—while Alfred, handsome, polished of manner, patient and persistently attentive, was ever at her elbow.

Then, too, there was Miss Clara's family, to the last one of them espousing Alfred's cause. In the end

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

the girl allowed herself to drift with the current. Felix would have accomplished more to his purpose had he remained at home and married Clara, and then gone after the fortune. At any rate, after one or two letters from Felix, which glowed with hope and boundless zeal, she ceased to hear from him. Doubtless he had come to realize that the wresting operation demanded all his powers; but his silence was easily made to appear of more significance than it deserved. It was construed—for Miss Clara, not by her—as indisputable evidence of forgetfulness. Within the year she married Alfred Fluette.

Six years passed. Alfred Fluette had migrated with his bride to the city. Then Felix Page returned triumphant to Merton. His triumph, however, was short-lived. He was well on the road, even then, to his subsequent commercial success; a good deal of the wresting had been accomplished; but the girl he had steadfastly loved, whom he had never for an instant put out of his thoughts, had married his rival.

To get together most of her report Genevieve had been obliged to labor patiently and painstakingly; when it came to the events associated with Felix Page's return to his birth-place, her task was suddenly transformed from one of gleaning to another equally arduous, of selecting from the plethora of material at her disposal.

One gathers the idea, after reading it all, that his rage was that of a cave-man who returns from the day's hunt to find that his home in the hillside cliff has been despoiled. One thing stands out clear and unmistakable: from that hour his life was embittered, his character warped with the shattering of his ideals. He registered a solemn vow of vengeance against Alfred Fluette, then disappeared.

So much for this portion of the report. Nothing in the subsequent relations of the two men was now obscure.

(To be Continued.)

ABROGATION RATIFIED.

U. S. Senate Backs Taft In Stand With Russia.

Washington, Dec. 20.—The Senate, by an unanimous vote last night, formally ratified President Taft's notification to Russia of the termination of the treaty of 1832. The Lodge joint resolution reported by the foreign relations committee as a substitute for the Sulzer resolution, that passed the House 300 to 1, was adopted after an all-day debate over Russian discrimination against the Jews of America. The House to-day is expected to agree to the Senate measure.

Commercial relations between the U.S. and Russia will not be affected as a result of the abrogation of the treaty of 1832, in the opinion of Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, because the favored nation clause of that treaty has been swept aside by the operation of the maximum and minimum clause of the Payne tariff law, carried into effect by the President's proclamation of July 18, 1910.

The Senator's view was discussed widely at the capitol yesterday as a feature hitherto lost sight of in consideration of the annulment of the pact.

Framing New Treaty.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—Having accepted in an equable spirit the notification of the American ambassador that the treaty of commerce and navigation entered into by the United States and Russia in 1832 would be abrogated on Jan. 1, 1913, officials of the Russia Government are now directing their attention to the question of a new treaty. It is recognized that diplomacy of the most experienced kind will be required, especially on the American side, if negotiations for a new treaty are to proceed satisfactorily.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

A publicity board has been formed for Norfolk County.

Robert McKeown, father of C. R. McKeown, M.P.P., died at Orangeville.

The great powers are lending their moral support towards an early termination of the war of revolution in China.

Kenneth Kingston, an Ottawa civil engineer, was found dead on a trail in Saskatchewan. Foul play is suspected.

The explosion of a barrel of gasoline caused a dangerous fire in the oil storehouse of Mr. C. Hughes near Guelph.

Milton, Ont., is plagued with tramps and the police magistrate has had many applications recently for sleeping quarters for the night.

A. W. Green, ex-reeve of Zorra, surrendered to the Chatham police to answer a charge of misappropriating township funds. He claims that he can clear himself.

The physicians in charge of Sir Charles Tupper in London report that there is a further improvement in his condition. It is stated now that there are distinct hopes of his recovery.

Calgary Municipal Street Railway reports earnings $100,000 over and above expenses in 11 months, receipts totaling one-third of a million. The expenses include taxes, sinking fund and sundries.

PRINCESS PATRICIA OF CONNAUGHT

John Bigelow Dead.

New York, Dec. 20.—John Bigelow, the venerable diplomat and author, died at his home here yesterday morning from general breakdown due to old age.

Although in the 95th year of his age, Mr. Bigelow had displayed almost to the time of his death, amazing vitality and mental keenness. He had kept thoroughly abreast of current events and recently taken part in many public functions.

He leaves four children: Major John Bigelow, jr., U.S.A.; Poultney Bigelow, the journalist and author; Miss Grace Bigelow, and Mrs. Butler K. Harding, Mrs. Lionel Guest and Mrs. C. B. Tracey.

John Bigelow, author, statesman, journalist, lawyer and diplomat was born in Malden, N.Y., on Nov. 25, 1817. His long life was of action.

A conspicuous figure in the anti-slavery contest, a convincing journalist, minister to France throughout the troublous times of the Civil War, his career was always one of service to his country and the world in general.

Doctors Protest.

London, Dec. 20.—A large gathering of 2,000 doctors from all parts of the United Kingdom at a meeting held in Queen's Hall yesterday struck against the Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George's insurance scheme.

Sir Victor Horsley, member of the council of the British Medical Association, which the doctors charge with sacrificing their interests to the blandishments of Mr. Lloyd-George, was roundly hissed. He was denounced as a traitor when he tried to defend the action of the council of the British Medical Association in promising Mr. Lloyd-George that the doctors of the United Kingdom would do their share toward the success of his measuree.

The meeting passed a resolution to boycott vigorously Mr. Lloyd-George's scheme and not to treat the poor under its provision until the demands of the medical profession were granted.

Railway Rights Cancelled.

Brantford, Dec. 20.—Acting on instructions from the City Council, City Solicitor Henderson has been instructed to serve notice on the Grand Valley and Brantford Street Railway here that the rights of the company have been cancelled owing to default of terms of the agreement, and to prosecute the same immediately. The company, it is stated, owes the city a considerable amount in taxes.

Just what result will follow from the action of the city is problematical, as a deal is understood to be in progress whereby the company will be acquired by big interests.

The Household Pest

Many exterminator compounds used against bed bugs have a pungent odor and their use is therefore objectionable. Keating's Powder is odorless, stainless and harmless except to insect life—yet it is thoroughly efficient and never-failing. Kills bugs, drives them away and prevents their coming. Sold by all druggists.

Not a Parallel Case

The discussion of the "Ne Temere" decree of the Roman Catholic church and the use which has been attempted to be made of it in Canada has no doubt become wearisome to many readers of the newspapers; but the mater is of such vital moment that it must continue to eners; but the matter is of such vital moment that it must continue to enupon by the highest judicial tribunal in the Empire, namely the law lords of the Privy Council in England.

Interest has been added to the discussion of late by the utterances of the English cleric Father Vaughan, who some time ago, unhappily for himself, denounced Protestantism as "a soulless religion," and who, of course, spoke strongly in support of the action of the ruling power of his church in this country. On Sunday last, in the course of an address delivered in a church in Toronto, Father Vaughan, according to The Telegram's report,

> "Attempted to defend the outrages which have been perpetrated in the name of the Ne Temere by pointing to the fact that the Anglican church had regulations concerning marriage which differ from the laws of our land; notably, forbidding marriage with a deceased wife's sister.
>
> Instead of getting absorbed in misrepresenting the Papal decree, Father Vaughan thought that non-Roman Catholic clergymen might possibly do better service to their churches by exhorting their people to attend some of their services in more than negligible quantities. Before undertaking to give advice to the Holy See and the Governments of their country, it might be well for them first to study matters more closely connected with their own institutions.
>
> "I submit," Father Vaughan continued, "that they might do worse than study the new edition of the Book of Common Prayer, especially the edition 'printed for the new reign.' There they will find that marriage with a deceased wife's sister is declared to be invalid. On the other hand, the law of England has made all such unions perfectly lawful.
>
> "What legal right, then, had the State church, which was the creation of an act of Parliament, which might end it as it had made it, to proclaim that such marriages were unlawful? To me it is impossible to understand how with so many contradictory points about marriage in the Protestant church their clergy can venture over the borders to instruct us about a sacrament which they refuse to recognize."

The attempt made by the Rev. gentleman to set up a parallel case with regard to church and state in England is so transparently incorrect that it was not, for even a single day, allowed to pass without exposure. In Monday's evening papers the following convincing and authoritative statements were published:

> "It's merely drawing a herring across the trail," remarked George S. Holmested, K.C., in reference to Father Vaughan's defence of the Ne Temere by a reference to the regulations of the Anglican Church, prohibiting marriage with a deceased wife's sister.
>
> "The Anglican Church," continued Mr. Holmested, "does not attempt to annul marriages. The position of the church regulations is this: The Parliament of Henry VIII. declared certain marriages to be contrary to God's law, and the Church has in its 'prohibited degrees' stated what is God's law according to Leviticus, and as declared by Parliament itself. The Parliament has since declared that there shall be no penalty if a man marry his deceased wife's sister. He shall not be liable for prosecution; his children shall be legitimate. But suppose Parliament should say 'We will not punish theft,' would that mean that the Church should strike out the eighth commandment?"
>
> "The position of the Church of England is just this: We don't marry them," said Rev. R. J. Moore, of St. George's Church, John Street. "If a man wants to marry his deceased wife's sister we don't marry him; but if he does so he can come to Holy Communion and his children are legitimate. We do not take the position of the Church of Rome at all."
>
> "There is no excommunication?" Mr. Moore was asked.
>
> "No, none at all," was the answer. "They can come to church and come to communion. We just don't marry them. You can put that in a nutshell."
>
> Provost Macklem—"I do not consider the case a parallel. The Anglican Church does not attempt to interfere with the civil status of any parties."

Father Vaughan's attempt to find a parallel case in support of his contention has failed. It could not possibly do otherwise. Its only effect has been to intensify public feeling on the subject and to strengthen the determination of the people of Canada that the civil status of persons who have been married according to the law of the land shall be preserved.

A Christmas Classic

Several years ago the editor of the New York Sun received a letter from a little girl asking him if there is a Santa Claus. His answer at once became a Christmas classic, and thousands of requests are made each year for its reproduction, which follows:

"We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

> "Dear Editor: I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say that there is no Santa Claus. Papa says if it is in the Sun, it's so. Please tell me the truth: is there a Santa Claus? Virginia O'Hanlon.

ginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected epticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible in their minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant in intellect as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then; no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus? You might as well not believe in fairies. You might get your papa to hire men to watch all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus; but even if they did not see him coming down, what would that prove. Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children or men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not. But that's no proof that they are not there. [illegible]obody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are until seen [illegible] until seeable in this world.

"You may tear apart baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside; but there is a veil covering the unseen earth that not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory behind. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus? Thank God, he lives, and he lives forever! A thousand years from now, Virginia—now, ten times ten thousands years from now—he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

BROKE WINDOW AND WAS CHASED TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Frank Prince, address and occupation unknown, stood on a Brooklyn street corner early to-day leaning against the window of a fruit store, when the plate glass suddenly yielded beneath his weight, and fell in with a crash. Prince, frightened by the damage he had done, took to his heels, followed by a policeman, shouting for him to halt.

Prince, doubly frightened by the added danger of arrest, bounded up an apartment house stairway in hopes of finding some means of escape. At the top landing, with the blue coat close behind, he leaped out of an open window and fell sixty feet to the pavement below. He was dying of a fractured skull when the policeman reached him.

BOOKS PRINTED ON STEEL EDISON'S LATEST PROPHECY

Experimenting of the "Wizard" Which May Lead to the Substituting of Metal for Paper in Bookmaking—Steel; Aluminum, or Nickel May be Used—The Last Named Preferable

At the present rate of depletion of forests the time is not far away when the pulp supply for the manufacture of paper will havo reached its end. Leading lumbermen say that the visible supply of standing timber in the United States and Canada will last only from 30 to 50 years more, and unless reforestation is carried out on a large scale publishers will then have to look to some other material to serve as a substitute for paper for books and periodicals, writes Erie Dime in the New York Tribune.

But take heart, the danger is not so imminent as it appears. If a prophecy made by Thomas A. Edison to me the other day comes true the books of the future will not be printed on paper. The "wizard" of Lewellyn Park confidently expects that the books of the coming ages will be printed on pages of nickel or steel.

NOT A DREAM.

A prophecy by Mr. Edison is not a wild dream. The famous inventor generally knows what he is talking about before he makes a prediction. The assertions made by him are preceded by experiments which he quietly conducts in his laboratory. He works secretly for weeks, months and sometimes years, on problems before he derives real pleasure from letting the world know about it. I came to his laboartory studio discussing with him the European trip from which he had just returned and his plans for the future.

A SUBSTITUTE.

Among the questions I asked him was this:

"Can we ever expect a good substitute for paper in the printing of books and periodicals?"

"Why, yes; steel, copper or nickel will do."

And Mr. Edison said this in as commonplace a way as one man would tell another that a trip from Manhattan to New Jersey could be made through the Hudson tunnels as well as in a ferry boat.

FROM THE GLOBE'S INTERIOR.

Steel, copper or nickel can take the place of paper, then. And that means that the material for books that will line the shelves of libraries of future generations will be taken out of the bowels of the earth, instead of from the forests that adorn its surface.

Continuing to discuss this subject the inventor of the phonograph said: "By an electro-chemical process I can make sheets of steel, copper or nickel that will absorb printers' ink. Of the three metals I consider nickel to be the best substitute for paper. It is possible to produce a sheet of this metal one twenty-thousandth of an inch in thickness, and make it cheaper, tougher and more flexible than ordinary book paper."

THIN AND LIGHT.

As he said this, Mr. Edison strolled over to one of his shelves and returned with a book with a thickness of about two inches. He held the volume out to me, saying: "If the leaves of this book were made of nickel, it would contain 40,000, and it would weigh only about a pound."

I marvelled at his assertion, because it dawned on me what this would mean to the publishing business of the world, which now can, by using fine India paper, crowd barely 1,500 pages into the thickness of an inch, while ordinary book paper runs 350 pages to the inch. For some time Mr. Edison has been making these thin nickel sheets for another purpose, and meanwhile he has experimented with their use for printing purposes.

WILL ABSORB INK.

"The nickel sheets," he continued, "will absorb ink the same as paper. The ink would possibly have to be of somewhat different ingredients than that in use at the present, although the latter makes a perfectly good impression on nickel, but that would only be a minor problem which the ink manufacturer could solve. The nickel sheets can absorb any color, and it would bring out the same shades as half-tones do on fine calendared paper. So, whatever is printed on paper, be it type, illustrations or color work, can be printed on nickel."

THE COST.

"How long does it take to make this paper substitute, and what would be its cost of manufacture?" I asked.

He replied: "It takes one minute and a half to make a sheet of five square feet of this product, and with the limited facilities we have here we can turn out one-fourth of a ton a day. In order to produce this nickel on a large commercial scale, it would be necessary to build machines that would manufacture the nickel in rolls made in the mills, instead of sheets of limited size.

"The cost of manufacture on a small scale is $1.75 a pound, but I believe that this could be reduced to $1 a pound were the nickel sheets to be manufactured in rolls in large quantities."

DONE BY ELECTROLYSIS.

Then Mr. Edison described the process of making nickel sheets and how they are made so thin. The operation is performed by electrolysis, and the process is accurate to a high degree. The electrical current deposits on a prepared base one twenty-thousandth of an inch of nickel in a minute and a half. No more, no less because there is an absolute law that governs this.

THOUSAND GUESTS ROUTED BY FIRE

Early-Morning Fire in Chicago's Board of Trade Alarmed Hotel People

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Nearly 1,500 guests were routed from their beds in the Kaiserhof and New Victoria Hotels shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, when fire broke out in the Open Board of Trade Building at 323 La Salle Street. The two hotels face in Clark Street, and the flames from the burning building swept against the windows of each in the rear.

Guests in both hostelries were aroused by bell-boys and other attaches of the places, and soon the lobbies were filled with half-dressed men and women.

Many of the guests of the Kaiserhof, which was nearer to the blaze, dragged their trunks after them, and nearly everyone carried one or more suitcases.

The fire, which started from a cause as yet not learned, spread through the Open Board building in a few minutes. In fifteen minutes after the first alarm was given the roof fell in, and the flames shot up into the air more than 150 feet, giving a most spectacular effect. The total loss is estimated at $100,000.

Three furnace stokers who were at work in the basement of the building when the fire started are missing. They were not seen to leave and may have perished.

NEW DREADNOUGHT TO BEAT EVERY RECORD

The "Lion" is Expected to Attain a Speed ot Over Thirty Knots

Phenomenal speed records are expected to be made by the super-Dreadnought cruiser Lion, now approaching completion at Devonport Dockyard. At the present moment Germany holds the record for Dreadnought speed by the fraction of a knot; but it is confidently expected that the Lion will restore the lead to the British Navy.

It will be remembered that with the first three Dreadnought cruisers, the Indomitable, Inflexible, and Invincible, Great Britain secured three armored ships which completely shattered existing records for armoused ship speed. The best of the trio was the Indomitable, with 28.7 knots to her credit.

These records remained until the Indefatigable surpassed them on her trials towards the end of last year, for this ship, designed like the others for 25 knots, succeeded in making 29.13.

In the meantime Germany had produced two fast armoured cruisers—the Blucher (26.4 knots) and Germany's first real Dreadnought cruiser the 19,000 ton Von der Tann (27.62 knots.)

In spite of easily verifiable and well known facts to the contrary, the Von der Tann was heralded in Germany as "the fastest armoured ship in the world," and under that description she was sent on her advertising cruise to South America. She was really slower than the Indomitable, the Indefatigable and the Invincible.

Since then, however, Germany has undoubtedly taken the lead, she claimed nearly a year ago, for recently the battle cruiser Moltke, on her trials, succeeded in making 29.5 knots.

She will not, however, hold this position for long. The Admiralty has given us no figures whatever about the Lion, but it is known that in spite of her huge displacement, of 26,350 tons, a speed of well over 30 knots is confidently expected. The actual designed speed is 28 knots, but if the Invincible designed for 25 knots (with engines of 41,000 horse power) made an average of 28, what will the Lion make (with 70,000 horse power engines) having been designed for 28?

The answer would seem to be somewhere between 31 and 32 knots; but in any case the regaining of the blue riband for speed may safely be taken as certain.

The cost of the Lion's machinery is actually less than that of the Indomitable's namely £470,223.

The new ship is 680 feet long over all. Her armament consists of eight 13.5 inch guns, mounted in four turrets on the middle line, and 20 four inch quick firers for repelling torpedo attack.

Japan is the only other power besides Great Britain and Germany that is building Dreadnought cruisers but details of her vessels are not definitely known as yet.

NAT GOODWIN TO PAY FORMER WIFE $60,000

In Settlement of all Claims She Holds Against Him—Most of It in Cash

SANTA ANA, Cal., Dec. 19.—Four documents filed in the county court by Nat C. Goodwin, actor, provide for the settlement of all claims held against him by his former wife, Edna Goodrich Goodwin. By the terms of the settlement, Goodwin is to make payments to his former wife as follows:

Dec. 15, 1911, $15,000; Jan. 16, 1912, $30,000; and April 16, 1912, $15,000. The first payment of $15,000, the papers state, was made in the form of a mortgage on an orange grove owned by Goodwin at Placentia, California.

The other payments are to be made in cash.

THERE'S SOMETHING IN THE ENGLISH.

I've been meditating lately that when everything is told,
There's something in the English after all;
They may be too bent on conquest, and too eager after gold,
But there's something in the English after all.
Though their sins and faults are many, and I won't exhaust my breath
By endeavoring to tell you of them all,
Yet they have a sense of duty, and they'll face it to the death,
So there's something in the English after all.

If you're wounded by a savage foe, and bugles sound 'Retire,'
There's something in the English, after all;
You may bet your life they'll carry you beyond the zone of fire;
For there's something in the English after all.
Yes, although their guns be empty, and their blood be ebbing fast,
And to stay by wounded comrades be to fall,
Yet they'll set their teeth like bulldogs and protect you to the last
Or they'll die—like English soldiers—after all.

If you're ever on a sinking ship, O, then I know you'll find
That there's something in the English after all,
There's no panic rush for safety where the weak are left behind.
(For there's something in the English after all.)
But the women and the children are the first to leave the wreck,
With the crew in line, as steady as a wall,
And the captain is the last to stand upon the reeling deck,
So there's something in the English, after all.

Though half of Europe hates them, and would joy in their decline,
Yet there's something in the English after all.
Even those who hate them most respect the thin red British line,
Yes, and fear their scant battalions after all.
For they know that from the colonel to the drummer in the band,
There is not a single soldier of them all,
But would go to blind destruction were their country to command
And just call it simple duty—after all.

—Shadwell in Boston Transcript.

FORESTRY IN SOUTH AFRICA

Conservation is spreading in South Africa, and tree planting is to be commenced ahround Bloemfontein. The Council of that city recommends all other councils and village management boards to follow their example. It is believed that all South Africa was formerly covered with forests, and the renudation of the forest area was contemporaneous with the appearance of the Bantu races from the north of the Zambesi. A forestry department of the Union Government has now been organized, and it is hoped to carry out extensive work of afforestation in the immediate future.

AN OLD SAYING NOW AMENDED

Civic Cleanliness is as Necessary as Private Cleanliness and it is the Duty of Citizens to See that Streets are Clean.

The old saying, "Cleanliness is the Mother of Godliness," has been revised by modern science. It now reads, "Cleanliness is the Mother of Health."

Clean houses, clean yards, clean streets, clean lanes, clean water are essential to good health.

In the cities, towns and villages, individual cleanliness is not sufficient. You make take the utmost pains to keep your own house and premises clean, but if the public streets are dirty, dust laden with disease will be carried into your home. Civic cleanliness is as necessary as private cleanliness, and it is the duty of every citizen to use his vote and influence in favour of keeping the lanes, streets and other public places perfectly clean at all seasons of the year.

It costs money to keep a city clean, and the citizen should not grumble about any taxation that may be necessary for this purpose. There is danger, however, in every community that unless the right men are selected for municipal offices money which should be used to ensure civic cleanliness may be used for other purposes. The best way would be to have a special tax for street cleaning purposes, and restrict the municipal authorities from using the revenue obtained from this tax for any other purpose than street cleaning.

MEXICAN TRAITORS

El Paso, Texas.—The finding here of five letters indicating that Gen. Pescuad Oroz[illegible] of Madero's chief lieutenants, is [illegible]lved in the Reyes revolutionary [illegible] has produced a profound sensation. The letters were found some time ago by secret service men, but the matter has been kept very quiet, only just leaking out. Orozco has been in Juarez for several weeks, but left that city a short time ago, shadowed by a spy in the employ of the Madero Government. The secret service men are looking for Garzo Galant, a former associate of General Reyes, in Mexico, to whom a carload of rifles, it is said, was billed to El Paso from Chicago on Nov. 23. The rifles have not yet arrived here as yet.

T. P.'S WIFE VISITS NATIVE LAND AGAIN

London.—Mrs. T. P. O'Connor, wife of the famous Irish member of the British parliament, has been gathering material for new book, to be called "My Beloved South."

Mrs. O'Connor is an American by birth, and well known in the literary and theatrical world, as well as for her active interest in the industrial problems of her adopted country.

MRS. T. P. O'CONNOR

Before she became the wife of the famous "Tay Pay" and while he was still carving out his political and journalistic career, Mrs. O'Connor was working 14 hours out of the 24 as a reporter on a New York newspaper. This energy which characterized her newspaper work has never abated. Besides being one of her husband's rivals in the editorial field, Mrs. O'Connor has written a number of books, and has been a tireless worker for the Irish Industries association. Two years ago she toured America to promote the use of Irish-made products.

A GREAT LINER

Will Rival the Great Cunarders.

London.—Despite the fact that the keel of the new mammoth White Star liner is laid at Belfast, the company remains as secretive about the vessel's dimensions as the Admiralty is with regard to the latest super-Dreadnought.

Preparations at the shipyard, however, confirm the prediction that the liner will be about 992 feet long and 94 feet beam. Equally important is the statement made by one excelent authority that she will be a very fast vessel, rivalling in that respect the Cunarders 'Lusitania' and 'Mauretania.' The passenger accommodation on the new vessel will be planned on novel lines, the experience gained since the 'Olympic' took up service having shown that the demand of wealthy passengers for expensive suites of rooms was no mere passing whim.

CAMEL MEALS FOR CHRISTMAS TABLE

An Animal Trainer Provides a Culinary Novelty for Parisian Gourmands

PARIS, Dec. 19.—Roast camel will be the culinary novelty to be served on Christmas Eve in fashionable restaurants here. Parisians in search of the traditional eccentric delicacy for their annual festival found the bear cotolets, which were served last year rather tame, and missed the elephant's foot, which had figured prominently on the menus of 1909.

The opportunity for presenting the revelers with real camel this year was afforded by a well-known Hamburg animal trainer, who informed prominent Paris butchers that he had three camels for sale. The reason he offered them was that he had bought them in Algeria some months ago with a view to training them for circus work, but had been disappointed with their artistic abilities. The three animals, which cost $220 each, were killed to-day at the Villette slaughter house, and their quarters, which were prominently displayed in the shops of central butchers, attracted the attention of great crowds all the afternoon.

A competition has been started among the chefs of several restaurants as to the best manner of cooking the tough meat of the desert runners.

$3000 REWARD FOR ARREST OF SLAYER OF WHOLE FAMILY

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 19.—Governor Dix issued a proclamation to-day offering a reward of $2,000 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who murdered Mrs. Mary A. Morner and her three children, Edith, Blanche and Arthur, at Defreetsville, Rennsalaer county, last Tuesday.

The county authorities have offered $1,000 for the apprehension of the murderer.

"I feel very keenly," said the Governor to-night, "that such an atrocious crime, the murder of an entire family, could be committed so near the capital and am anxious to do all in my power to accomplish the apprehension of the murderer. For that reason I have issued a proclamation offering a reward of $2,000 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

"I would offer a larger reward if it were in my power, but I have been advised by Attorney-General Carmody that $2,000 is the maximum amount that can be offered.

"I am extremely anxious that nothing be left undone to bring to justice the perpetrator or perpetrators of this crime and that justice be done.

North Adams, Mass., Dec. 19.—Two deputy sheriffs from Troy, N.Y., who came here late to-day were unable to identify the suspect held here as the Italian wanted in connection with the murder of the Morner family.

The North Adams police were requested, however, to hold the man for some time further, and it is expected that some one acquainted with Edward Donato, whom the police seek, will come here to determine if the man under arrest is Donato.

FORMER CHAMPION NOW A VAGRANT

Once Great Athletic Policeman Has Sadly Degenerated—Becomes a Thief

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—Ovid Latremouil'e, formerly athletic champion of the Toronto police force, was arrested yesterday by Detective Greig, charged with vagrancy. He will be later charged with attempting to rob with violence the premises of H. A. Wilson at Queen and Church streets, on Saturday afternoon. His photograph has been identified by Harry severely beaten in defending the till, and by two other men who vainly pu and by tao other men who vainly pursued the little fellow's assailant.

About 1.30 Saturday afternoon, a very tall man entered the store and approached Windle, who stood beside the register. He demanded its contents, but the youth, who is just 20 years of age, pluckily refused, and was then struck two or three times over the head with a black jack, which was left on the premises. He was later removed to St. Michael's Hospital where nine stitches were required to close the wound.

The black jack is a home made weapon of patricularly villainous nature. It is made of leather filled with rough pieces of lead with a wooden handle. The wonder is that the young man's skull withstood the blows from such a weapon.

"PROPHETESS" CALLS "1912 BLACK YEAR"

Paris Woman Foretells Long List of Disasters for France and Europe

PARIS, Dec. 19—One long vista of catastrophes is all that Mme. de Thebes, the famous Paris "prophetess," can see in the approaching year. She stated that 1912 is the "Black Year," and predicts for humanity practically every misfortune in the calendar.

War will come at the end of the year, when the French armies will go forth. There is just a chance that the cataclysm may be postponed till 1913, but it is absolutely certain to come then. It will be so great that it will not only turn Europe upside down, but other continents as well, and particularly Asia. We shall reach the paroxysm of the peril when the earth quakes at home. We shall be at the end of our ordeals when the essential substances, particularly milk, are lacking.

"There is a hard winter in prospect, a muggy spring, a heavy summer, and a bitter autumn. There will be most frightful storms and the wine will be second-rate.

"Blood and fire everywhere" is the next item in 1912, "particularly at Brest, Toulon and Paris." Conspiracies, treacheries against the state, foreign gold, assassinations, fierce riots, epidemics, floods and possibly total ruin will come to Paris.

The calamities will be by no means confined to France. Spain will have conspiracies and fusilades, but the Royal Family is saved. After 1912 there will be no Hohenzollern, and no dominant Prussia. The Kaiser's days as Emperor are numbered. England also is menaced by an evil destiny.

SANTA CLAUS WAS ARRESTED

Some One Took His Money Pot as He was Sleeping Under His Tripod

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A white-whiskered old man in bedraggled Santa Claus garb, who said he was William Simms, 69 years old, of 100 Bowery, appeared before Magistrate O'Connor in the Tombs Court yesterday, charged with intoxication.

Policeman Barry, of the Elizabeth street station said that Simms on Saturday evening was minding one of the Salvation Army's Christmas pots at Bayard Street and the Bowery. A number of times during the evening Simms asked Barry to watch the pot while he got a cup of 'coffee.' The trips were so frequent that Santa Claus got wearied, sat down on the curb, and finally went to sleep under his tripod. When Barry passed at fi o'clock Simms was still dozing and the tripod and pot were gone.

"How much was in the pot?" asked the Magistrate.

"Five dollars and ten cents, your Honor."

"Well, you are an unfaithful steward, and it will cost you a two-dollar fine," said the Magistrate.

ACQUITTED OF AN OLD CRIME

White Haired Octogenarian who was Tried for Murder of 36 Years Ago

ALBUQUERQE, N.M., Dec. 19.—White-haired and bent, Donace Espalin, 80 years old, was to-day, on the instructions of the Court, adjudged innocent of a murder which it was alleged he committed 36 years ago. Espalin was on trial in the district court of Doñana county, at La Crucez. Two eye witnesses of the alleged killing, men who were then boys, were among those who testified.

Espalin, after the killing, went to Old Mexico, where he remained until a few months ago, when he went to Yaleta, Texas, where he was arrested. The evidence, as the court declared, was at this late date too incomplete and vague to incriminate Espalin.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

CENSUS SHOWS A GAIN

Second Bulletin Is More Satisfactory Than First.

Male Population Has Grown Much Faster In the Last Decade Than Female Owing to the Influx of Settlers In the West—Bulk of Eastern Constituencies Are Below the Unit of Representation In the Commons.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—A second census bulletin issued last night gives the count of June last by sex and electoral divisions. It covers the whole of Canada with the exception of two subdivisions in Saskatchewan, two in British Columbia, and a few in the Yukon.

With these omissions, the total is still greater than the 7,180,000 announced in October, the figures announced yesterday being: Males, 3,806,350, and females 3,376,987, a total of 7,192,338, as against 5,371,315 for 1910. The male population has increased by 1,054,642, and the female population an increase of 757,330, showing a much greater increase of males than of females. This increase is largely in the west, which has seen a great influx of settlers and railway builders. A large male surplus is shown in each of the western provinces.

The figures issued last night will form the basis of the coming redistribution of constituencies. The unit of representation will be 30,852, which is higher than may now be found in a majority of eastern constituencies, but lower than may be found in the big riding of the west. Maisonneuve, which is represented by the one Labor man in Parliament, has the largest population of any riding, 170,976. Winnipeg is second with 127,388, Vancouver third with 123,902, and West Toronto fourth with 105,368. Many of the ridings are far below the new unit. Antigonish, N.S., has only 11,962, the Yukon 10,051, North Lanark 14,629, North Middlesex 13,737, and West Northumberland 12,965.

The provincial totals are:

Ontario: Males, 1,299,403; females, 1,223,955; total, 2,523,358. Population in 1901, 2,182,947.

Quebec province: Males, 1,012,506; females, 992,799; total, 2,005,305. Population in 1901, 1,648,898.

Nova Scotia: Males, 251,019; females, 241,320; total, 492,339. Population in 1901, 459,574.

New Brunswick: Males, 179,865; females, 172,023; total, 351,888. Population in 1901, 331,120.

Prince Edward Island: Males, 47,065; females, 46,657; total, 93,722. Population in 1901, 103,359.

Manitoba: Males, 250,196; females, 205,673; total, 455,869. Population in 1901, 255,211.

Alberta: Males, 224,417; female, 151,017; total, 375,434. Population in 1901, 73,258.

Saskatchewan: Males, 289,114; females, 198,778; total, 487,892. Population in 1901, 91,279.

British Columbia: Males, 243,835; females, 136,952; total, 380,787. Population in 1901, 178,657.

Yukon: Total, 10,051. Population in 1901, 27,219.

Northwest Territories: Males, 7,930; females, 7,763; total, 15,693. Population in 1901, 20,129.

Teachers Are Defiant.

Kingston, Dec. 20.—Teachers in the public schools are up in arms because the Board of Education has decided to adopt the bonus system instead of a fixed salary increase. They have written the board, stating they will not accept the plan and asking that the question be reconsidered. If the board decides to press the scheme many resignations will follow at the end of the year.

Bernard McColl, aged 22, of Camden East, left on Nov. 27, with a rifle, to spend a few hours shooting in the bush and has not since been seen. He is a chemist employed in Rochester, but he has been visiting at his home.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will likely extend a call to Rev. S. J. Compton, Bellymony, Ireland, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Mackie.

Ready to Try Packers.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—The jury, which is to try the ten Chicago packers, who are charged with violation of the criminal provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law, was completed yesterday and the opening statement of U. S. District Attorney James H. Wilkerson was begun.

In outlining the case, Mr. Wilkerson, in a speech replete with bitter invective, declared that the defendants through the National Packing Co. had continued the old pooling practices of the packers and had actually put into effect the most powerful engine for the suppression of competition ever devised in the industrial world.

Stationmaster Assaulted.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 20.—The provincial police are facing a mystery that may never be completely solved, in finding Ross Hall, Michigan Central stationmaster at St. David's, unconscious in the road near his home, late Monday night. It was Hall's custom to take railroad money home over night, and the police believe he was sandbagged and robbed. His head and body are cut, and his condition is serious.

Brantford's Busy Custom House.

Brantford, Dec. 20.—Ald. J. W. Blakney and Edward Young have been added to the staff of the Customs Department in this city. Both are well-known factory foremen. Receipts of the Brantford office have reached the half million mark annually, and an increase in the staff was necessary.

Child Fatally Scalded.

Hamilton, Dec. 20.—Wilbur Lloyd, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Billington, 391 Main street west, died last night as the result of being fatally scalded yesterday morning, when he accidentally fell into a tubful of boiling water, which was being prepared for the family washing.

REV. DR. HARRIS DEAD

Toronto Professor, Minister and Capitalist Dies In India.

Son of Founder of Implement Firm, Who Was Widely Known For His Benefactions and His Eminence as a Biblical Teacher, Succumbs to Smallpox at Delhi, Where He Went to See the Durbar.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—With startling suddenness yesterday morning came the news by cablegram from Delhi, India, of the death on Monday through smallpox of Dev. Dr. Elmore Harris of this city.

Four brief words—"Elmore Harris dead, smallpox"—was the whole of the message received by his brother-in-law, Mr. J. N. Shenstone, of the Massey-Harris Co., which told of the end of the earthly career of one who had been an outstanding figure in the Baptist Church of Canada, and one of the greatest benefactors of Christian institutions of his time.

The news will come as a shock to thousands of people in Ontario, by whom Dr. Harris was known, loved and respected.

J. N. Shenstone, who is a brother-in-law of Dr. Harris, said last night that no further news had been received from Delhi, India, where Dr. Harris died.

Preceding the announcement of his death, no news of Dr. Harris' illness had been received. It is probable his remains will not be returned to Toronto, but will be interred in India. Rev. Dr. Harris was a native of Beamsville, and a son of Allison Harris, one of the founders of the Massey-Harris Co. He was educated at the Beamsville public and high schools, and had a brilliant course at Toronto University, especially in classics and Hebrew. His first pastorate was at the Baptist Church, St. Thomas. Coming to Toronto, he became pastor of Yorkville Baptist Church, and was prominently identified with the establishment of Bloor Street Baptist Church. He was a pioneer in the mission in Walmer road, from which developed the stately church there, to which he pledged $35,000 just before starting on his journey.

Eighteen years ago Dr. Harris was identified with the Bible training movement, resulting in the founding of the College Street Bible Training School.

While Dr. Harris was a trenchant champion of the Old Testament as against some of the views of the higher critics, he is universally spoken of in the highest terms by the most representative Baptist clergymen of the city, to whom the news of his death came as a stunning shock. He was a member of McMaster University senate, and one of the lecturers there.

Brantford's License Board.

Brantford, Dec. 20.—A permanent license board, governing all except liquor licenses in this city, has been appointed by the City Council. The board consists of five members—the city engineer, chief of police, fire chief, medical health officer and chairman of the finance committee. All license bylaws have been consolidated.

Dr. Bruce Smith addressed a meeting of ratepayers here last night, urging the adoption of the hospital bylaw to raise $35,000 by debentures for an enlargement to the hospital. The county will spend $15,000 and the Women's Aid $20,000 for the nurses' home. Dr. Smith showed the imperative necessity of increasing the accommodation, as the city has long ago outgrown the hospital.

Five Years For Stanton.

St. Catharines, Dec. 20.—This was sentence day in the general sessions of peace. County Judge Carman handed out stiff terms of imprisonment to Wm. Leiden at Vineland, convicted of burning a barn last September and Burner Goodall, convicted of writing threatening letters to Annie Black, a Beamsville girl, to whom he was previously engaged to be married.

Goodall was given a sentence of two years in the penitentiary.

Stanton, who is quite deaf, made a strong plea for freedom, claiming that he was not only innocent, but the victim of a conspiracy, even his own family turning against him. The judge imposed t sentence of five years in the penitentiary.

German Budget Goes.

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 20.—The Norddeutsche Allegemeine Zeitung publishes yesterday a summary of the imperial budget for 1912. The total expenditure is given as approximately $704,840,750, an increase of $14,506,670. The army expenditure is given as $192,626,000, an increase of $10,310,250.

On the navy $114,353,750 is to be spent, a decrease of $199,500. The naval ordinary and non-recurrent expenditure shows an increase of $6,385,500.

The army increase is due to the larger peace footing voted in the Reichstag during the last session.

The interest on the national debt calls for $8,198,000 less.

Big Real Estate Deal.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—The biggest single real estate deal ever put through in Canada was closed yesterday at 6 p.m., the Dominion Bond Co. buying the Manufacturers' Life building, at the northwest corner of King and Yonge streets for $800,000.

The deal has many [illegible] outstanding features. The price [illegible] foot, including the structure, [illegible] the King street frontage, is over [illegible]teen thousand dollars. This is the highest price paid for property in Canada, exceeding any Montreal sale.

Liner to Blame For Collision.

London, Dec. 20.—The Admiralty Court yesterday found that the White Star line steamship Olympic was responsible for the collision with the British protected cruiser Hawke, near Osborne Bay, on the north side of the Isle of Wight, on Sept. 20 last. The company pays the costs.

ESCAPED CANNIBALS

Toronto Missionary and Wife Are Home From Africa.

Rev. Dr. W. T. Currie and Mrs. Currie Arrive In New York After Undergoing Privations In Portuguese Province of Angola — Were Surrounded by Man-Eating Natives, But Talked Blacks Over.

New York, Dec. 20.—Stories of cannibalism in Africa were told by missionaries who arrived yesterday on the Minnewaska.

Rev. Dr. W. T. Currie and Mrs. Currie of Toronto, who have been stationed in the Portuguese Province of Angola, on the west coast of Africa, told of having been surrounded by man-eating natives.

"We were making a 14-month trip into the interior," Dr. Currie explained, "when on one occasion armed cannibals surrounded us and made preparations to serve us up for a Christmas dinner. It looked pretty serious for a time, but I called the chief over and finally talked him out of his intention of eating Mrs. Currie and myself.

"It ended up by the cannibals giving us a pig and a gourd of native beer."

On other occasions they were surrounded, but they still have the same arms and legs with which they started.

Dr. Currie has spent twenty-five years in Africa, and his wife has been with him there for eighteen years. He said that the natives of Angola practice polygamy, but discard all their wives except one when they become Christians. He told of one chief who had twelve wives, and seemed to be glad to get rid of 11 of them.

The missionary was met at the pier by his brother-in-law, Rev. Henry J. Johnston of the First M. E. Church of Hoboken, with whom he will stay for two days before leaving for home.

B. C. To Control Railway Belt.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—The Dominion Government has made an important concession to the Province of British Columbia in response to appeals from the McBride Government. The administration of the unalienated rights in that portion of the province, known as the railway belt, along the line of the C.P.R., goes to the province subject to any possible future action of the federal administration.

The condition is that the administration by the province is to be paid for out of the revenue and any surplus revenue, after the administration charges have been met, comes to the Dominion Treasury.

The necessary order in council has been passed. Valuable water rights exist in the railway belt and the province has been anxious to have the administration of them. In the action now taken there is no provision for the ultimate transfer of the unalienated territory back to the province.

Jamaica Sugar Industry.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—The Department of Trade and Commerce is in receipt of an exhaustive report, which may have an important bearing upon the negotiations for closer trade relations between Canada and the British West Indies. The report comes from E. H. S. Flood, Canadian trade commissioner at Barbados. He says that the favorable market offered by Canada to West Indian sugar and molasses and the absence of destructive competition from beet-growing countries in Europe have not been sufficient to increase the sugar production of the islands, capital being repelled by the speculative character of the industry.

"There is," he says, "in Jamaica, the appearance of an awakening and with the improved machinery, which is being introduced throughout the colonies, a larger output of sugar may be looked for in the near future."

Attacks Montreal Liberals.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—Oliver Asselin, the young Nationalist, who was defeated in St. James' constituency last election, was in the city yesterday and asked the Government to appoint a royal commission to investigate the preparation of the list in Montreal for the last election. He claims that if such an investigation is held it will reveal an astounding state of affairs. He believes that a wholesale system of personation and ballot-stuffing was followed in Montreal and district by the Liberal machine last election.

Mr. Asselin is strongly in favor of the abolition of the system of plural voting in vogue in Quebec for federal elections and would favor a Dominion election law for the cities at least.

Rich Strike In Yukon.

Dawson, Yukon Territory, Dec. 20.—A stampede to the head of Sixty-Mile River is in progress, as the result of a rich gold strike there, news of which was brought by John Matton, who told of getting two and a half ounces of gold, worth nearly $40 from a bedrock space five by eight feet. Many old prospectors have started over the 130-mile trail to the new diggings, which are 20 miles from the Alaskan boundary.

Medico In Jail.

North Bay, Dec. 20.—As the result of a prosecution by Charles Rose, detective for the Ontario Medical Council, an unregistered physician practicing in a village near North Bay, is serving 30 days in the county jail in default of a $50 fine imposed on a second conviction. The first conviction, some months ago, resulted in a fine of $25 and costs, which was paid.

Right to Slap Passenger.

Galt, Ont., Dec. 20.—Magistrate Blake yesterday ruled that a conductor on a G., P. & H. train was justified in slapping a passenger's face when the passenger used profane language, and although warned, continued, and the conductor punched him in the face. The complainant was a local man, while the conductor was a Preston man.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Despite the bullish nature of the government report the wheat market to-day closed weak. Misleading reports as to a break in prices at Buenos Ayres had much to do with the setback. Latest trading here varied from 1-4c higher to 1-4c to 3-8c lower as compared with 24 hours before. Corn finished 1-8c to 1-4c lower, oats off 3-8c to 1-2c and hog products at an advance of 12 1-2c to 20c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅛d to ¾d lower than yesterday on wheat, and ⅝d higher on corn. Buenos Ayres wheat was 1⅛c lower, Paris wheat closed ⅛c higher, Antwerp 1⅛c higher, Berlin unchanged and Budapest ⅜c higher.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat continues good, and especially so from the continent, there being orders in the market for round lots for shipment as far as May-June, and the prices bid were better than those from the United Kingdom. The volume of business done was not large, on account of the ocean freight situation. The demand from outside points for coarse grains is fair. The demand from European sources for spring wheat flour was again good, and orders for some round lots were accepted at an advance of 6d per sack for March shipment. The local trade is fair at steady prices. Demand for cheese is quiet, but the trade in butter is good and the market is strong. Eggs are active at firm prices. Provisions steady under a fair demand.

FAVOR SECESSION.

Northwestern Ontario Men Want to Join Manitoba.

Kenora, Ont., Dec. 20.—The business men of this section favor cutting off all the Ontario country west of Fort William and adding it to Manitoba. The culmination of a long agitation resulted Monday night in the following resolution by the local Board of Trade:

"Resolved, that it is the opinion of this Board of Trade that the welfare of this district would be best advanced by joining the Province of Manitoba, and that copies of this resolution be sent to the Premier of Canada, the Premier of Manitoba, the Premier of Ontario and the Boards of Trade for Fort Frances, Fort William, Port Arthur and Dryden."

The resolution was passed at a largely attended meeting called specially to consider the question of the electoral division of Kenora casting in her lot with Manitoba. A committee consisting of Messrs. Pope, Horn and Earngey were appointed to draw a memorial.

While many speakers spoke in favor of the move, they did not think there would be any likelihood of Kenora joining Manitoba. Still they thought it would have the effect of waking up the Provincial Government to the fact that the people were much dissatisfied with the treatment which has been accorded them, not only by the present Government, but by previous Governments. There were many speakers, and with one exception, all were in favor of a change.

Looted Jewelry Store.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 20.—Thieves early yesterday entered the store of Harry Laws, Welland, and nearly fifty watches and many rings were taken. They practically cleaned out the store, leaving no clue to their identity. The border is being guarded to prevent the escape of the thieves to the States.

Local authorities will ask the Government to investigate the methods pursued by contractors in bringing foreign laborers into Canada.

The request results from a number of foreigners picked up by the local police during the week, who told of having been paid paltry sums for several months' work after the contractors deducted transportation charges from the wages.

Flying Post Must Go.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—Exit the "Flying Post." The manner of its going is decreed in an announcement issued last night by the Postoffice Department:

It points out that last May the late Government entered into a contract with the G.T.R. for a special train to leave Toronto at 2.55 in the morning and reach London at 6.30 a.m. This was an entirely new departure in the railway mail service and costs the country some $40,000 a year.

The new Postmaster-General says he has looked into this matter very carefully and has come to the conclusion that this cannot be continued, and if certain newspapers desire to have special delivery they must do so at their own expense.

Claims $10,000 Back Taxes.

North Bay, Dec. 20.—The town of Sturgeon Falls is suing the Imperial Land Co., Limited, of that town for back taxes amounting to nearly $10,000. The company contests the claims, alleging that the law was not complied with in reference to assessment and collection, and that consequently no taxes are due, and that the municipality lost the priority of its lien to the bondholders by accepting promissory notes for taxes, and asking judgment on the same.

SCOTCH POTATOES

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.— Fifteen hundred tons of potatoes grown in Scotland reached New York today on the liner California, and will be placed on the market, it is said, to break the high prices charged for the Long Island potato. Duties amounting to $750 was paid on the consignment. Dealers declare that there is a shortage in the crop, and prices greatly in excess of last year's market, they say, prevail. Other shipments from Scotland will follow the initial cargo.

CANADIAN BOATS AND U. S. PASSENGERS

A Traffic Problem of Which a Satisfactory Solution is Probable

Mr. Francis King, general counsel for the Dominion Marine Association gives the pleasing information that in all probability vessels of Canadian register would continue to enjoy the same freedom in the carriage of passengers across the line which they enjoyed before the Turbinia case of last summer brought about the ruling from the Dpeartment of Commerce and Labor which threatened to place the most serious impediments in the way of international traffic.

Mr. King presented the case for the Canadian interests at an interview in Washington last Wednesday with the Acting Secretary of Commerce and Labor and the Commission of Navigation for the United States. Mr. B. W. Folger, manager of the Niagara Navigation Company, and Mr. C. J. Smith, manager of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, were also present and gave evidence regarding the business of their respective fleets.

Mr. Harvey D. Goulder of Cleveland, general counsel for the American Lake and River Vessel Owners, spoke for American interests and was supported by representatives of the leading American passenger steamboat companies on the lakes. No definite conclusion was arrived at, because of the ambiguity in the American statute and because the situation is complicated by the claims of American vessel owners on the Pacific coast who have presented a bill to amend the law by placing further restrictions upon the traffic, these interests being represented at the hearing in Washington by counsel from New York City.

This much however, Mr. King states, has been attained, namely that the Government at Washington now understands the question fully, and has a better appreciation of the reciprocal possibilities of the problem. He adds that while no one is asking for the right to carry from one American port to another, in a Canadian boat, it is probable that a Canadian boat will be allowed to carry passengers from a port of the United States and back to the same port if she makes a landing and gets clearance papers in Canada. It seems agreed that this is proper and that Americans should enjoy similar privileges, at least on the lakes and river St. Lawrence, and if any changes in the law are made this district will probably be let subject to some such arrangement as that mentioned.

EASY WIN FOR THE HARDWARE COMPANY

Good Crowd Witnessed Last Night's Indoor Base Ball Match

The scheduled indoor baseball match played at the Armories last night between the Belleville Hardware Co. and the Springer Lock Works teams attracted a large crowd of spectators, who were much interested in the game. The Belleville Hardware Co. team proved to be easy victors, winning by a score of 20 to 7. In the early part of the game the winners took a decided lead, maintaining it to the end. Clarke and McGuire were the battery for the winners and French and Hyland for the losers. The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Springer Lock Works—Hyland, French, Gonter, Smith, Goyer, Bell, Knott, Deesberry, McDougall.

Hardware Co.—McGuire, Stewart, McKenna, Barnum, Westover, Dolan, Stark, Clarke, Courtney.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS' INFORMAL BANQUET

The members of the local branch of the Dominion Life Underwriters' Association last evening had a most enjoyable and profitable time. At Hotel Quinte supper was provided, and was, as usual, all that could have been desired. In the absence of Mr. Butler, President, Mr. S. Stocker, Vice-President, occupied the chair. The guest of the evening was Mr. A. H. Vipond, of Montreal, President of the Dominion Life Underwriters' Association.

After supper had been partaken of the party repaired to one of the reception rooms in the hotel, where a most instructive address was given by Mr. Vipond. In his opening remarks he referred to the wonderful growth the Association was making at the present time. There were at present thirty-four local bodies, extending from Sydney in the east to Vancouver in the west, with a membership of 15,000. The Dominion Association is affiliated in a visiting capacity with the National Association of the United States and is recognized by the President of the Life Companies of the United States. The speaker referred to the improved ethics of the business, which was commendable. He emphasized the fact that all members should do all in their power to prevent the lapsing of policies by holders of same. This was not a speculative business, but a business of firmness and stability. By preventing the lapsing of policies, many dollars can be saved to insurers. There were concerns which showed speculative profits, but not so with life insurance. Its investment feature was one that appealed to all and was for the benefit of all concerned. There was no better investment than life insurance. Some of the best and brainiest men on the continent are engaged in this business. In concluding his address, Mr. Vipond impressed upon those present to do all in their power to uplift the business.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Vipond, which was acknowledged, after which the gathering was brought to a close.

A CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

Let the homes of beautiful Belleville be full of Christmas gladness.

Gather in the loved ones. Fill to the brim the cup of joy! Pass it round!

Let no one be missed in all the loving circle of family and friends. Let the sunshine of love radiate every face. Exchange, greetings, gifts and graces. Let the young be glad and the aged be full of comfort. Let the guest chamber be full, but see to it that there is room for the "Christ Child." Spread the festive board, but set a place for Him, without Whom no festival is safe.

In all the crowding, make way for Him—the author and giver of every Christmas, and all beatitudes. Let no unforgiveness linger to taint the breathings of love. Let all supposed or real wrong or injury be forgiven and forgotten.

Break not the harmony of the angel's song, but by thought and word and deed, "prepare the way of the Lord, Prince of Peace."

For those whose hearts are desolate, whose way is in the wilderness, and whose life seems a desert waste "make straight in the desert a highway for our God."

For such as are ready to faint in humble, lowly, unnoticed, secret, silent service, or unrequited toil, discouraged, sad at heart, because evil seems to triumph, "Get ye up!" there is a Christmas promise—"Every valley shall be exalted." Envy not they that are lifted up in the pride of prosperity. "Every mountain and hill shall be made low."

If any have been seeking enrichment by robbing God, or their fellow men, Christmas has a message for them: "The crooked shall be made straight."

There are some for whom the smooth pathway has been broken up. The way is rough. Storm clouds lower; the winds are contrary; unkindnesses press the heart; supposed friends have proven false. Good deeds have been requited with coldness and misrepresentation. Difficulties and disappointments have clouded the sky, and darkened the way. Cheer up! Christmas has a glad message for you: "The rough places shall be made plain."

He has come who will "Bring forth thy righteousness as the light and thy judgment as the noonday." There are some sitting under the shadow of a great sorrow; loved ones are missed; there are vacant chairs; the home is emptier; the graveyard is fuller. O, beloved! why should the shadows of grief be so dense? The joy of all hearts has come. Open your heart and your home. "Let Him in." He is your friend, and the friends of all your loved ones absent.

Let Him in whose "garments smell of myrrh and aloes and cassia, out of the ivory palaces whereby they have made thee glad!"

Wishing that true Christmas joy may prevail in hearts and homes.

A. M. HUBLY.
Emmanuel Rectory.

A CITIZEN COMPLAINS

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Sir,—I would like to ask through the press why the water is shut off in the whole of West Belleville today. Now, sir, I don't think there is another city in Canada that would shut down half of the city for such an insignificant job as changing a few hydrants.

The Chairman of this department and the manager of this department either don't know their business, or if they do, they don't attend to it.

And if the Fire Underwriters find out that the Water Works department have to shut down the whole of one side of the city for a few repairs the rates will soon go up. Trusting we will hear from the Manager of this department as to cause, etc., I am,

Yours truly,
WATER CONSUMER.

300 Front St. Belleville

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

THE OPTIMISM OF THE CONSUMPTIVE

Perhaps there is no disease, whilst often fatal in its outcome, is yet viewed with so much optimism by the patients themselves. It is well that it is so, for all know to what extent one's own feelings, whether cheery or the opposite, influence both mental and physical conditions. "I was certainly impressed with this thought," remarked a newspaper reporter, "in interviewing a patient of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. She was a pretty girl of 24, brown hair and dark gray eyes, who had come all the way from Saskatchewan. She said she felt pretty sick when she first arrived at the Hospital, and for two days the nurses had to personally feed her. 'I have been in bed all the time,' she said. 'I have been well cared for while I have been here. I am sure I am going to get well, and feel better now than before I took sick. Everybody seems so happy and bright, and tells me when I get up I am sure to like it.' Everything is done to please me and make me happy.'" One may well wish that so bright a patient should soon be restored to health.

GOOD HEALTH IN THE HOME
CANADA CLUB LAGER

The favorite beverage in every Canadian Home is Carling's Canada Club Lager. The careful housewife realizes that this light beer is not only cool and refreshing but is a liquid food and acts as a healthful tonic, being prepared from the choicest Canadian Barley Malt, Bohemian Hops and pure spring water. All liquor stores—demand Canada Club. Carling, London.

SPORTS IN GENERAL

Mike Murphy, the Athletic trainer of the University of Pennsylvania, has been ordered by his physician to spend the winter in a milder climate so as to build himself up for the work of training the American team which will compete in the Olympic events at Stockholm, Sweden, next year. Murphy is at present confined to his home by illness.

Ross Binkley, captain of the Argos interprovincial champions, announces that he is through with football for good.

The National Sporting Club if London has decided that the kidney wallop is illegal, and will disqualify any boxer who uses it at the club.

C. H. Goulding is the most remarkable walker ever seen in Buffalo. He started from scratch in the mile walk and before the distance was half covered he caught the field and passed them. Some of the entrants had 125 yards handicap over him, yet he beat the next man up by almost a quatrer of a lap. Goulding's time for the the next man up by almost a quarter world's indoor record.—Buffalo Express.

Frank Wootton, who has replaced mile, 6 min. 29 1-5 secs., set up a new England's premier jockey, sailed last week for India, where he is to ride during the winter months, returning to England in ample time for the Lincoln meeting the latter part of March.

If a new broom sweeps clean, then Ganzel's chances of making the fourth pennant are exceeding bright. There is an entire change in the cast of characters, and by mid-spring not a trace of the old guard will be left, save possibly, the boy that carries the bats.—Toronto Telegram.

Edward Grant Barrow has shown himself to be a big man by being unanimously chosen for five years as president of the Eastern, now the International League, writes J. P. N. in the Newark News. Mr. Barrow will now be able to work with a free mind and a more firm hand. There are things that ought to be done that are not done because the general 'get-square-with-you' policy that predominates baseball. With five years staring him in the face, Mr. Barrow should be able to get the International League closer to the National League and the American League than ever. President Barorw must be given credit for the "AA" classification. He will have a chance to do other big things, and he is sure to make good.

Outside Tyler—W. Kelly.

The officers made a reply as to their election to offie.

The Preceptory was closed in due form, after which the members were regaled with oysters and had a sociable chat untill about the smallest hour, after which the Sir Knights went home, feeling that they had spent an enjoyable evening.

HOLLOWAY.

Holloway L. O. L., No. 251, held their annual meeting on Dec. 5th, all the officers being present, and also a well filled hall of its own members, and visiting brethren from other lodges. The [illegible]mbers and officers took their pla[illegible]bout 8 p. m. when the lodge wa[illegible]ened in due form. W. M. Bro. Wm. Kelly was in the chair. They passed through the routine of general business, then Bro. Clayton Hagerman, P.M., of West Huntingdon, was asked to take the chair for general election and installation of officers. After a few remarks he said he was ready to receive nominations for the office of W. M. After a few ballots had been passed the officers were selected as follows:

W. M.—G. M. Rose.
D. M.—Ed. Lowery.
Chap.—H. Carter.
~~Rec. Sec.—T. H. Kelly.~~

Tyler.—C. H. Kelly.
Auditors.—A. Lloyd, C. Spencer.

After the officers were installed short addresses were given by the officers and visiting members. According to the report the lodge has had a prosperous year. The lodge was closed by singing God Save the King.

COUNTRY CORRESPONDENCE

MADOC.

Who shall be Reeve seems to be an interesting question, and shall the village go wet or dry is another. The township is taking in the temperance battle.

Christmas Trees for Sunday Schools are everywhere around us, and in the village also.

The Methodist church aniversary was a fine success. All were delighted with the Rev. J. P. Wilson, a former pastor. His lecture on 'Canada' was a fine effort.

On Monday night the store of Ray Carke was broken into. Poultry and new furs to the value of $15 were stolen. This is the second time this happened.

The poultry supply is good and prices firm. The ruling price for turkeys is 17c. per lb.

Mr. J. C. Dale announces the coming marriage of his eldest daughter, on Jan. 3rd, to Mr John Thompson, of Winnipeg. Mr. Thompson is a son of Mr. Archie Thompson, of this village.

POPE OF ROME BREAKS PRECEDENT

Played Host to Consecration Guests and Took a Meal With Them

ROME, Dec. 19.—The Pope performed this morning the most fatiguing ceremony of consecrating Cardinal de Lai as Bishop of the Sabine district, and also the Bishop of Cracow. After the long function, the Pope gave refreshments to all those present, presiding himself at the breakfast and occupying a table higher than that at which the other guests were seated. The sight was most interesting, as according to the etiquette the Pope does not partake of meals with anybody.

All noticed the strength and brightness of the Pontiff, who, speaking of the new Cardinals said he wished they would remain in Rome altogether. He especially regretted the departure of the Americans, who, being further away, he can see but seldom. He added that he realized the amount of work awaiting them in the United States.

The Pontiff is delighted that Cardinal Farley is able to spend Christmas in Rome, not leaving until the beginnig of January. The Pope expects to see Cardinal O'Connell tomorrow or Tuesday in a farewlel audience. Cardinal O'Connell does not leave until the middle of January.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE COW AND THE MOON."

Chas. A. Sellon's "The Cow and the Moon," a new musical extravaganza, comes as the attraction at Griffin's on Wednesday, Dec. 27th. As the title implies, it deals with a story dear to childhood, founded on the tales and rhymes of the nursery; all have heard of Hi Diddle Diddle, the Cat and the Fiddle, and the Cow Jumping Over the Moon, and this set to music and story. Surrounded by gorgeous scenic displays and interspersed by clever choruses, it is bound to make an entertainment worth while. The Cow and the Moon will be an ideal Xmas attraction for Belleville theatregoers.

The music is by Carleton Lee Colby, favorably known here, and he has provided some sixteen or more numbers for the principals and chorus.

Mr. Sellon's attractions have always pleased our theatregoers here, and it is a safe prediction that a large house will greet The Cow and the Moon here. Seats go on sale at Doyle's Drug Store Monday, Dec. 25. Prices 25c. to $1.50.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

BEFORE TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so."

KING GEORGE A MIGHTY HUNTER

Three Tigers and Three Rhinoceroses fell to His Rifle in One Day

(Intelligencer Special).

DELHI, India, Dec. 21.—Three tigers and three rhinoceroses fell to the King's rifle in yesterday's hunt at Nepaul. His Majesty, who proved himself a cool and expert marksman, plans to present several of his trophies to the British Museum.

STRIKE REFERENDUM

(Intelligencer Special).

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 21.—The leaders of the Miners' Union to-day decided to submit the question of a general strike to a referendum vote. The mine owners refuse to meet the men's demands for higher pay and better working conditions.

BLOW FOR ASQUITH

(Intelligencer Special).

LONDON, Dec. 21.—A. M. Anderson, Liberal member for North Ayrshire, who had to seek re-election upon appointment as Solicitor General for Scotland, has been defeated by Captain D. F. Campbell, Unionist, and a Canadian by birth. Mr. Anderson's defeat is considered to be a severe blow to the Government. Mr. Campbell was born in Toronto, Ont.

TRIPLE SHOOTING AT RIVERS MAN

A Strike-breaker, Alfred Thomas of Toronto, Claims He was Attacked

BRANDON, Dec. 20.—Constable Matthews of Rivers, Man., who made the arrest of Alfred Thomas, a Grand Trunk Pacific strike-breaker, charged with shooting three men this morning, says he was called from his home early this morning on information from the hotel. When he arrived he found Thomas lying prostrate on the floor with two striking apprentices sitting on him. Albert Alsford, the man who is lying in the hospital here, probably fatally injured, was on the floor a short distance away, and in the corner of the bar was Gribbon, another injured man.

Thomas states that he came home from the shops about 6.30. Some of the strikers got into an argument with him, and Thomas was struck on the back of the head with a club. He pulled his revolver and fired until it was empty. Thomas had been working at Rivers for about two months, having gone there from Toronto to help break the strike. Police Magistrate Bates this afternoon took an ante-mortem statement from Alsford, who was a porter in the hotel, and an innocent bystander.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

LOST AND FOUND.

It was reported to the police yesterday afternoon that a child named Elmore Babcock was missing from his home in the city. The little one was subsequently found and returned to its parents.

WANTED A HOME.

An aged man, who gave his name as William Scriver, at noon to-day walked into the police station and asked to be locked up as a vagrant. Having no apparent home and no visible means of support, his request was complied with.

OLD MAN LET GO.

Wm. Gilchrist, an elderly man, who is a stranger in the city, yesterday partook of too much intoxicants, with the result that he was locked up on a charge of drunkenness. This morning the Magistrate allowed him his liberty without imposing a fine.

TORONTO WEDDING.

A very pretty wedding took place at Saint Cyprians Church, Toronto, Dec. 14th, when Mr. Percy Black, of Corbyville, was united in marriage to Miss Winnifred Beeston, Toronto. The Rev. R. Seaborn officiated, while Miss Maggie, sister of the bride, and Mr. Edward Whitfield assisted. The party, after the ceremony, drove to the bride's home, where a buffet lunch was served. At 10.30 the happy couple took the train for Belleville. The bride received many useful and beautiful presents. The young couple have taken up their residence at Corbyville.

ROTHWELL—McCURDY.

At the residence of Mrs. James McCurdy, Moira Street, at 11 o'clock this morning a wedding took place. The bride was Miss Mary Edith McCurdy and the groom Mr. T. E. Rothwell, B.A., of Toronto. In the presence of the immediate relatives the ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. G. Clarke, pastor of the Tabernacle church. The couple were unattended. Miss Florence McCurdy, niece of the bride, played the wedding march and the bride was given away by her brother, Mr. J. O. R. McCurdy. After a wedding repast Mr. and Mrs. Rothwell left for a wedding trip in the west, after returning from which they will take up their residence at 607 Spadina Avenue, Toronto. The bride, who was deservedly popular in the city, has a host of friends, and the groomsman is also well known here. That their wedded life may be both pleasant and profitable will be the wish of all friends.

LAID AT REST.

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Mr. Heman Chapman took place from the family residence, on Pinnacle Street, and many friends were in attendance. At the house and grave services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Adams. Interment took place at the Belleville cemetery.

MADE RESTITUTION.

A young man named James Smith was before the Magistrate this morning charged with obtaining $4 from John Ballard by false pretences. Mr. Wright, who appeared for the accused, stated that Smith was willing to return to Bollard the money he had obtained. The transaction was in regard to the sale of a watch. Mr. Bollard stated he did not wish to prosecute if he was paid the $4 which belonged to him. Smith was allowed to go upon payment of this sum.

A JUDGE'S COMMENDATION.

A lad of fifteen was brought before the County Judge at Brockville on a charge of stealing a pair of trousers because his own were torn. The lad's predicament appealed strongly to the Judge from the fact that his mother was dead and his father had deserted him. After consultation with the officials, His Honor remarked that the Children's Aid Society, through Mr. Traill, the active fearless officer, had undertaken to procure the boy a situation and thereby give him a fresh start in life. The intervention of the Society held out the hope of saving the youth from ruin. He would be pleased if the jury would make known in their presentment the splendid work being carried on by the Children's Aid movement, which was deserving of the heartiest public support.

CIVIC NOMINATIONS.

The statutes provide that in the Province of Ontario nomination of candidates for municipal honors shall take place on the last Monday in December of each year, excepting when that Monday is Christmas Day. This year, owing to Monday being Christmas, nomination will take place to-morrow. That for Mayor will take place from 11 to 12 o'clock noon in the city building, and for Aldermen and Public School Trustees in the several wards of the city from the hour of noon until 1 o'clock p.m. Up to the present there is but one candidate for Mayor in the field, namely ex-Alderman G. I. Thomas, and no candidates for Aldermanic honors have been announced.

WORLD'S BIGGEST LOCK.

Hon. Frank Cochrane is gathering all the material possible in regard to the Hudson Bay route. The report of the officers who accompanied the steamer Stanley to the bay last year, has not been too favorable. Their report also favored Fort Churchill as a terminus. Detailed surveys were taken and the report will be ready soon. Nothing has yet been heard of any private line of steamers to operate on the bay, and if possible the Government will have to build its own steamers.

THREE MEN PLEADED GUILTY OF THEFT OF RUBBER TIRING

Before Judge Deroche yesterday afternoon, Archie Green, Vincent Asselstine and Edward Hubbard were arraigned and charged that they did during the month of November steal a quantity of rubber tiring, the property of the St. Charles Omnibus Co. The three parties pleaded guilty to the charge.

Asselstine was also charged that he did steal and sell a quantity of brass coupling and other brass belonging to the corporation of the City of Belleville. John Wilson was examined on this charge and testified that he gave the couplings to Asselstine to sell. This charge was dismissed against Asselstine.

Mr. Anderson, in asking for a sentence to be pronounced upon Green, Hubbard and Asselstine on the charge of theft from the St. Charles Omnibus Company, briefly outlined the circumstances of the case to His Honor. From what was learned, some 200 to 300 pounds of rubber was taken and disposed of.

Mr. Carnew, who appeared for the accused, made an appeal for leniency on their behalf, and especially so in the case of Asselstine, who was never employed by the St Charles Omnibus Co., but was induced by Hubbard to sell the rubber.

Argument in the case was continued at some length by the County Attorney and Mr. Carnew.

Messrs. Henry Fringle, F. S. Deacon and C. B. Scantlebury were called and testified that they had known Hubbard for some years, and that they had never known the first thing against his character previous to the offence he was charged with.

Mr. Carnew presented a petition signed by many citizens asking for leniency on behalf of Hubbard.

Restitution has been m[illegible] to the St. Charles Omnibus Co., f[illegible] full value of the rubber stolen and all costs have been paid.

In the case of Green and Asselstine His Honor, in allowing them to go, stated that they could be called upon within a year for sentence. If they behaved themselves they would not be called upon.

In Hubbard's case judgment was reserved until January 3rd, and in the meantime he is out on substantial bail.

LION MAULS BANKER'S SON

Cub Taken to England Last February Becomes Suddenly Savage.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Terence Barclay, son of Hugh Gurney Barclay, the well-known London banker, has been seriously mauled by a lion cub, one of a pair brought from Mombassa last February and since kept at the banker's residence, Colney Park.

When he was attacked Mr. Barclay was releasing the cubs from their sleeping quarters in order to give them their customary morning exercise. The male cub struck Mr. Barclay down and was standing over him when a gardener arrived and drove the animal off with a gun.

Mr. Barclay is a son of the Vice-President of the banking firm of Barclay & Co., whose chief West End branch, at 2 Pall Mall East, is the building in which The New York Times's London business office and visitors' bureau are located.

BIT TIP OFF THIEF'S FINGER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—At the age of 70 years Dr. George V. Hudson fought five robbers who assaulted him in the vestibule of his home last night. The aged doctor lost his watch but saved $400 in cash by actually biting off the end of a finger of the man who attempted to steal the money.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE.

The largest inland ship lock in the world has just been completed in Buffalo, N. Y., at a cost of $1,250,000 The contract was let by the Government in 1908. The lock is 600 feet long and seventy feet wide. It is considered one of the greatest engineering feats along the great lakes, being big enough to carry the largest freighters. The gates are operated by Niagara Falls power.

MODE OF WRECKING IMPROVED BY CREW

Local Unions Were Sent "Donations" When a "Job" was on

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 20.—Examination of the books of the iron workers' organization has opened a new lead in the dynamiting conspiracy. The plan said to have been followed in the early days, was for a local union, or some members thereof, to write to international headquarters asking for a "donation" as there was a good "trick to be turned" or a "job to be done" in that locality. Money, it is said, was sent. This, it is charged, was used in bringing about an explosion, but the arrangements were made by men in the locals, and not directly by any one at international headquarters. With the rapid extension of the dynamiting plan the system was changed, and J. J. McNamara, with a fund of $1,000 a month, for which he was not required to render any accounting to the membership of the union, took charge. This was believed to be due to the large proportions to which the dynamiting programme had grown, the belief that the system could be handled more safely and more economically from central headquarters, and with the object also, it is thought to eliminate chances of graft against the members of locals who might be looking for a good thing."

Another advantage of the new system was that by using the same dynamiters all the time, instead of hiring local men to do the blow-ups, the chances of being detected were lessened, as there would be fewer men who might squeal.

A number of witnesses were before the grand jury to-day, including D. Jones and wife, from whom McNamara rented a barn for the storage of dynamite, and from which they saw men at various times carry away suitcases. Evidence was also taken regarding dynamite storage at Muncie and Tiffin, Ohio.

DAYLIGHT BURGLARY AT THE FALLS

One Stood Guard With a Shotgun. While His Pal Robbed the La Salle House.

NIAGARA FALLS, Dec. 20.—In broad daylight yesterday two young men broke into the home of Roy Binkley on the River Road, La Salle, ransacked the house and made off with a gold watch and $35 in currency. The job was the boldest in the history of the village. It was done in the middle of the afternoon with several men within view of the place.

Wiliam Hosack, who saw the two men, said that while one ransacked the house, the other stood guard at the door with a shotgun. Word was borne to Constable Jacob Luick, who he immediately started in pursuit with a posse at his heels. When the constable's search failed to discover the robbers the case was called to the attention of Police chief Lyons of this city, who turned the work over to Detective Roeder. It is believed that the men were from this city.

ROBS EXPRESS OF $10,000

—:—:—

Messenger Leaves Word He Intends to Have a Merry Christmas.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 20.—Leaving word that he intended to have a merry Christmas, Robin C, Fargason, a Southern express messenger, has disappeared, taking with him a package containing $10,000 in currency.

Fargason has been missing since Saturday, and the express company to-day offered a reward for his capture. His run is on the Central of Georgia railway. He left Macon on Saturday morning with valuable money packages in a small safe in the express car. The packages were consigned to the Merchants and Planters' Bank at Griffin, Ga. He had came to Atlanta to check his run, and was not seen again.

The Atlanta office was notified last night that the money had not been delivered, and it was found that the safe had been drilled and blown open. Fargason leaves a bride of a year.

CURRENT COMMENT

Nomination to-morrow for Aldermen and School Trustees.

"What is the use of this article?" asked a shopper.

"I really don't know," replied the clerk. "I think it is intended to be sold for a Christmas present."—Harper's Magazine.

It's always well at this season of the year not to display an undue inquisitiveness as to the contents of mysterious-looking parcels, or explore into the contents of drawers and cupboards without giving due warning.

The idea of Col. Hughes is a good one to send military instructors to many points throughout Canada so that the officers shall not have to travel far to get the training to fit them for promotion.—Kingston Standard.

Some Gypsies in Belleville were detected performing lightning-change acts with the currency of local merchants. Heretofore the wanderers have been suspected of nothing more modern than an envious attitude towards clothes lines and chicken roosts but time brings its changes.—Globe.

The Portuguese Government's latest is an intimation to the clergy that unless they promptly submit to the law changing the relations of the Roman Catholic Church and the State, their stipends will be cut off. Perhaps the clergy can afford to be independent and indifferent. There are things in the Portuguese situation which suggest that in time the clergy's stipends will go anyway. The State seems to need the money.—Hamilton Spectator.

Revised census returns show that during the past ten years the population of the parliamentary constituency of East Hastings decreased 2944 and that of West Hastings 517. That, too, in face of a large increase in Belleville and Trenton, and in the mining regions and the cement business. The decrease is udoubtedly due to the migration from the agricultural sections and the decay of the lumbering industry. Prince Edward had a similar experience, the decline in that county being 694.

Attacks on the British are being made in all parts of Germany and on all sorts of pretexts There is a German parliamentary election campaign in progress. When last a British parliamentary election was in progress, attacks on Germany's good faith and good will marked the campaign of one of the parties. Perhaps, seeing how wicked and foolish such conduct appears when Germans fall into it, British public men will be strong enough to resist the temptation when next they think they have a domestic political crisis to face.—Montreal Gazette.

Here is further evidence that all the fools are not yet dead: All that the Cornelius Farrell family, father and two boys, have to show for two 300-acre farms in the Parry Sound district, is $8,500 worth of stock in the Canadian Wire and Screen Co., of which Mansell and Leushner, the two promoters, are charged with false pretences and conspiracy in connection with the flotation of the stock. This fact was brought to light on Saturday in the Jury Sessions, presided over by Judge Winchester, where Mansell and Leushner are on trial. This is about on a par with sensible men allowing gypsy women to juggle them out their money in fortune telling.

In the matter of the naval question in Canada there can be no doubt that the majority of our people, Liberal or Conservative, favor doing something in the way of naval defence, whether it be contribution or construction. Yet three so-called Nationalist Ministers, representing a small Quebec minority, are able to thwart the wishes of the people. Is this representative government? So asks a correspondent of The Globe. "The allegation is false, and the allegator knows it," as was said to the showman who misrepresented the size of a saurian which he was exhibiting. The wishes of the people have not been thwarted by the Nationalists of Quebec, or by any one else. Better wait until after the Borden Government, after consultation with the Imperial authorities, have announced their policy. Then, and not until then, will comment be in order.

MURDERER FEARED DEATH IN CAMERA

Antonio Datalo Thinks He is in Electric Chair and Makes Scene

MONTREAL, Dec. 20.—Shrieking for mercy, his face contorted with abject fear, praying loudly to God for forgiveness, and evidently mistaking the chair he was to sit in for the electric chair, and the harmless camera which he faced as an instrument of torture, Antonia Datols, charged with the murder of Pietro Calabro, on December 10th, was photographed in the detectives' office yesterday.

It required the combined efforts of Detectives Cowan, Lajoie and Fafard and the persuasion of his attorney, Mr. Maurice Alexander, to convince the man that he was in no danger of his life.

At the sight of the camera, Datolo thought his last hour had come, and in broken English cried out loudly: "They are going to kill me. Do not let them shoot me."

He was finally persuaded to face the camera, but when Photographer Laflamme clicked the machine after an exposure of a few seconds, Datolo jumped as if he had been shot, and throwing both arms in the air prayed loudly to God and yelled out: "I am shot. I am killed."

It required over fifteen minutes to pacify him so as to make him sit for his profile photograph, and when the performance was over he heaved a deep sigh of relief and was in a great hurry to leave the office of the detectives.

He was brought up before Judge Leet for preliminary inquiry, and after Doctors McTaggart and Dugas, Antõnio Calabro, a son of the murdered man, Francesco Meduri, the lessee or the house at 82 Panet street, where the affair took place, had been heard, the accused was remanded for voluntary statement on the 3rd of January.

Datolo is still suffering from the wounds that he sustained in the flight and upon the application of his counsel, the Court granted permission for him to be examined by Doctor McTaggart.

Datolo's path since his arrest, has been a continuance of short-lived hopes, followed by stretches of black despair. When turned over to the criminal courts by Coroner MacMahon, he was first brought up before Mr. Recorder Weir, charged, tried and fined $10 for being drunk. A momentary hope of liberty by paying the $10 was dashed to the ground when he was advised by Interpreter Viglino that he would have to come across to the Police Court and face a charge of murder.

When taken down to the jail he was first installed in the jail infirmary as he was badly wounded himself and treated very nicely as to food. But he is now transferred to ward five. Each time he is taken from the jail he has visions of immediate liberty, immediately foundering when he enters the prisoner's dock, and culminating this morning when he faced the camera and thought he was going to be electrocuted.

STATUE OF SIR WILFRID

Mr. Paul Chevre Will Carve One for Chateau Laurier.

Mr. Paul Chevre, the Parisian sculptor, who designed the Champlain monument on Dufferin terrace, Quebec, and the Mercier monument to be unveiled next spring in the Ancient Capital has just booked the order from the G. T. R. for a statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to adorn the centre piece in the lobby of the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa.

The statue will be marble, along the lines of the bust of Sir Wilfrid Laurier made by the same artist and presented to the ex-Premier in 1901. The bust will slightly exceed the natural size, and will be supported by a single column, adorned with appropriate allegories. It will be ready in the spring and will cost $5,000,

Big Fruit Convention.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—Arrangements are being completed by Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, for the holding of a fruit convention in Ottawa early in the New Year. The gathering will be a large one and will be representative of the fruit-growing interests of all Canada, the various associations and administrative bureaus.

The convention will be held some time in February.

Big Cotton Strike Feared.

Liverpool, Dec. 21.—The weavers of the Helene mill at Accrington went on strike last night because of the employment of non-union labor. The strike threatens to spread to other mills in Lancashire unless the employers meet the demands of the men. On their part the mill owners threaten to retaliate by a general lockout, which will affect 100,000 cotton operatives.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

And here, too, we are given a new light upon Alexander Burke, oiling door-hinges that he might the better spy upon his employer, patiently working out the combination of the hidden safe and running to Alfred Fluette with the old love-letters and mementos—for a price, of course—playing the vindictiveness of the one against the hatred and fear of the other, and scrupling not to gain profit for himself whenever and wherever he might.

But it is proverbial that woman invariably reserves the most interesting and important item for the postscript. And it was so with Genevieve's report I quote the concluding paragraphs in toto.

On the very first day of my arrival, and from the very first person to whom I confided the nature of my errand, I received the surprising intelligence that I was not the first to pursue similar inquiries in Merton. Said my informant: "Why, there was a man here two or three weeks ago, trying to find out all he could about the Pages and the Coopers and the Fluettes. Has some one of them died and left a lot of money?"

I did not think so much of it the first time, but when my second victim told me the same thing, I sat up and began to take notice. Then I extended my inquiries so as to cover my mysterious predecessor.

I soon found out that he had ingratiated himself with everybody in Merton who could give him a scrap of information, and that his inquiries were all directed to one end; namely, the family histories of the Pages, the Coopers, and the Fluettes.

Then, from all the people I could find who had seen and talked to this man, I obtained a decription of his appearance and (where they were remembered his personal peculiarities. One description photographed him for me:

"A tall, lean, lanky feller—real sandy—hair, eyes, eyelashes, eyebrows—no, he didn't have no eyebrows; but all the rest was the same light yaller color. He was pale and sickly lookin'—poor man!—and you couldn't tell what he was a-lookin' at when he talked to a body. Any kin o' yourn?"

Who was my mysterious predecessor in the field, if he were not Alexander Burke?

Who, indeed!

CHAPTER XXIII

Burke Unbosoms.

Eight o'clock Thursday morning—an hour before, Fanshawe had heard with a sigh of relief that I would take his place that morning. I had since been kicking my heels opposite the rooming house where Alexander Burke had his lodgings.

At the hour mentioned Burke appeared. I retreated into a sheltering doorway, and watched him.

He stood for a moment upon the top step, darting quick glances up and down the street, and intently scanning the few pedestrians who were abroad at the time. Then he came rapidly down the steps, and turned toward the city.

The snow muffled my tread, and he didn't hear my approach—didn't know of my presence until I tapped him upon the shoulder.

"Mr. Burke," said I, "I want you."

With a quick intake of breath, which sounded like the hiss of a snake, he slewed round and fixed me with his expressionless eyes. Also—to complete the simile—his head reared back, like a snake's when it is about to strike. I don't believe that I ever before found such a keen pleasure in arresting a man.

"Want me!" he gasped. "What for?"

"Yes, you." I could not entirely hide my satisfaction. "And because you have reached the end of your rope. I don't intend to stand here and argue about it, either.

In a moment the man was calm—all except his gloved hand. A man's hands will, nine times out of ten, betray him in spite of himself. Burke's fingers were twitching, folding and unfolding without cessation.

"Swift," he whispered vindictively, you'll regret this—so help me God, you will. Curse you! Why do you persecute me? I'll go with you—of course I shall; how can I help myself when I'm at the mercy of a brute of a giant, like you?"

"Then shut up, and come along. I'll just keep a hand under your arm until we get to headquarters. . . . Never mind!" as he made a move to unbutton his overcoat. "It's cold enough to keep covered." I had struck down the stealthy hand with considerable vigor, and he winced with pain. The pale eyes flashed a malignant look at me, and straightway became inscrutable again.

Not another word was said until we stood before the clerk at the Central Office. The matter-of-fact way in which he picked up a pen and poised it over the police docket, the callous indifference with which he inquired the prisoner's name and the nature of the charge, made Burke flinch for the first time.

"Wait, Johnson!" I said suddenly to the clerk, as if on second thought. "I don't believe I'll docket this man yet; I want to keep the pinch quiet for a while."

The game was familiar to Johnson; he laid aside the pen as indifferently as he had taken it up, and returned to his interrupted perusal of the morning paper.

"You come with me," I said to Burke.

I conducted him to the little room behind the Captain's private office—scene of many a heart-to-heart conference—and pushed him toward one of the two chairs which constituted the room's sole furnishing. It was a dim, silent, disheartening place, and I was resolved to have no mercy upon the man whom at last I had succeeded in getting into a position where I could handle him.

"Burke," I began, "I'm not going to mince matters or stand for any quibbling or lying. I have you right where I want you, and whatever leniency you may receive will depend entirely upon your frankness. This is your chance—the last one."

No doubt my expression and manner were grim; I meant them to be and there was no doubt that my obvious confidence in my position impressed the ex-secretary; for the fingers grew more agile, and he licked his dry lips again and again.

"What am I charged with?" he demanded, in a shaking voice.

"Nothing as yet," I returned cheerfully. "You doubtless noticed that I dispensed with that little formality. Do you know what that means? Just this: no one knows you are here; there is a certain small cell below stairs, dark as Egypt, provided expressly for recalcitrant individuals . You could lie there for a year, and nobody be a whit the wiser. I, for one, wouldn't care how long you stayed."

"Swift," the fellow stammered, "this—this is outrageous."

"Perhaps," agreed I, carelessly, surveying him with a narrowed look. "I'm not here to excuse police methods; they're not very gentle, I'll admit; but when we deal with crooks we're obliged to hand them the only treatment they're amenable to.

"Burke, you can't excite one bit of pity or sympathy in me for you, for I know you to be a cold-blooded, treacherous scoundrel, and whatever you have coming to you is only what you deserve. I'm fixed to put you through as a principal in the murder of Page—sit down!" I thundered at him, for he had started to rise from his seat. He dropped back limply. "You wait till I'm through. Your chance is coming in just about a minute. I promise not to interrupt—as long as you tell a straightforward story.

"As I said," I went on, "I'm prepared to put you through as one of the principals; the bare fact of your arrest should be enough to convince you of my readiness.

"However, while I haven't any desire to spare you, we are in the habit of trading leniency to a rascal who is willing to turn State's evidence. It's a plain business proposition."

I imagined that he perked up a bit at this.

"Ah, then you are not so sure," he seemed to muse; "you would have me convict myself for your precious benefit."

"Maybe you can judge better before I have finished," returned I, unmoved. "You need not tell me anything about yourself, but I do need a few facts to complete my case against the others who were involved in this crime. It's up to you."

I retreated a step, folded my arms and stood watching him—and waiting. I knew that he couldn't tell the truth without filling in the gaps in his own case. I never am deterred by any compunction over the methods I am sometimes obliged to use to make an individual, whom I know deserves no consideration, speak. With a knave like Burke I would as lief resort to thumb-screws, the boot, the rack, or even to choking the words from him, as to trust to persuasion alone. To tell the truth, my preference lies with the means first enumerated; they are much more prompt and direct. The worst indictment that one may bring against the old-time torture is that it was not applied with judgment and discrimination, nor always confined to legitimate ends. I fear that I shock you. But I am not by any means a cruel, blood-thirsty person. I merely speak from long years of experience. Whenever I hear a misguided soul deploring the so-called "third degree"—why, I have something in pickle for him.

This, however, is not the place to open the pickle-jar.

Perhaps, though, Burke's suffering was as poignant as if his ordeal were physical. How restlessly the man's slender, bloodless fingers curled and uncurled! Still, his self-control was wonderful; his white face remained indecipherable, the pale eyes stared at me unblinkingly and without mirroring a single emotion that I could discern. Then the change came so quickly that it almost caught me off my guard.

One hand shot to his bosom. When it reappeared something flashed dully in the dim light. At the same time, with a cat-like spring he was out of his chair and upon me.

I concentrated all my attention upon the hand that held the murderous knife. I caught it as it lunged at me; then, with a quick twist, I bent it backward and behind him, until he groaned with pain. The long-bladed knife clattered to the floor, and I shoved him roughly away from me. Then I picked up the weapon.

The fellow acted for all the world like a whipped and cowed panther. He brought up violently against the wall, where, in a stooping posture, he commenced running to and fro the width of the room, spitting and snarling venomously. The pale eyes were no longer blank. The pupils had widened, and the look of them was deadly.

New Phase of "Ne Temere."

London, Dec. 21.—The ne temere decree is now before Justice Kenny and a special jury in Dublin. An Irish Catholic farmer seeks a declaration that his secret midnight marriage with a Catholic servant in his mother's employment is null and void, because, though celebrated by the parish priest, it was performed before one witness instead of two, as required by the decree of the Council of Trent and the ne temere decree.

A large array of leading counsel on each side are arguing for and against the validity of the decree in relation to the common law of Ireland. The respondent's counsel contends that while as a Catholic he has every respect for the decrees of the church, they are absolutely without legal force or effect in an English governed country.

Shuster Must Go.

Teheran, Dec. 21.—The Cabinet has won an important victory over the National Council, which foreshadows the acceptance of Russia's demand for the dismissal of W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general of Persia, unless public opinion proves too strong.

The National Council, in a session which lasted from eight o'clock Tuesday night until after midnight, finally accepted the proposal to appoint a commission of five deputies with plenary powers to deal with the Russian ultimatum.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Assertions that the alleged damage to the Argentine crop had been made too much of, put the wheat market to-day on the down grade. Closing prices showed a decline of 1-4c to 3-8c net. Corn finished at 3-8c to 5-8c advance, oats unchanged to a sixteenth up and hog products varying from 5c off to a like amount increase in cost.

The Liverpool markets closed to-day on wheat unchanged to ¼d higher than yesterday, and corn unchanged to ¼d higher. Buenos Ayres wheat was 1c to 1¼c lower, Paris wheat closed unchanged to ⅛c lower, Antwerp 1¼c lower, Berlin ⅝c lower, and Budapest ⅛c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 20.—Good business continues to be done in all grades of Manitoba spring wheat over the cable, there being a good demand from both the United Kingdom and the continent, and the prices bid showed no change. The local market for coarse grains remains steady, with a fair amount of trade doing. There was a good inquiry from European sources for spring wheat flour, but, as the prices bid to-day were not so satisfactory, the volume of business done was small. The local trade is fair and prices rule steady. Demand for millfeed is good. Cheese remains quiet, but firm, while butter and eggs are in good demand.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 47½c; do., No. 3, 46c to 46½c; extra No. 1 feed, 46½c; No. 2 local white, 46½c; No. 3 local white, 45½c; No. 4 local white, 44½c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 20.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 700 cattle, 800 sheep and lambs, 1650 hogs and 200 calves.

The feature of the trade was the display of some extra choice cattle for the Christmas market, and, as these were first lots to come forward this week, they met with a good demand, and sales of steers were made at $6.60 to $6.75 and $5 per 100 pounds.

There was also a good demand for ordinary choice steers, and on the whole a fairly active trade was done, and, as the supply was not in excess of the requirements, a firm feeling prevailed in the market. The offerings of common stock were much smaller than usual, for which the demand was limited, as buyers of such are well supplied for the present.

A feature of the small-meat trade was the stronger feeling in the market for sheep, and prices scored an advance of 25c per 100 pounds. The demand was good, and sales were made at $4 to $4.25 per 100 pounds.

The market for lambs showed no further change, but the undertone was firm at the recent advance in prices, with a good trade passing. Calves were scarce and in good demand, but buyers found it impossible to fill their wants, altho they were willing to pay good prices for choice stock.

The undertone to the market for hogs continues strong, and prices have made a further advance of 10c to 25c per 100 lbs., which is attributed to the continued good demand from packers for supplies and the small offerings, and sales of selected lots were made at $7 to $7.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.25 to $6.25; do., medium, $4 to $5.50; do., common, $3.50 to $3.75; canners, $1.50 to $3.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.50; do., medium, $4.50 to $5; do., bulls, $4.50 to $5.50; milkers, choice, each, $75; do., common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40.

Sheep, ewes, $4 to $4.25; bucks and culls, $3.50 to $3.75; lambs, $5.75 to $6.25.

Hogs, f.o.b., $7 to $7.25.

Calves, $3 to $12.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Dec. 20.—Cattle—Receipts, 225 head; fairly active and steady.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 6000 head; sheep active and steady; lambs slow and 25c lower; lambs, $3.50 to $6.75.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Cattle—Receipts, 15,000; market strong to 10c higher; beeves, $4.60 to $8.90; Texas steers, $4.20 to $5.75; western steers, $4.50 to $6.80; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $5.75; cows and heifers, $2 to $6.50; calves, $5 to $7.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 38,000; market weak at yesterday's average; light, $5.80 to $6.10; mixed, $5.75 to $6.25; heavy, $5.85 to $6.25; rough, $5.85 to $6; good to choice hogs, $6 to $6.25; pigs, $4.50 to $5.70; bulk of sales, $5.95 to $6.15.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 25,000; market strong; native, $2.50 to $4; western, $2.70 to $4; yearlings, $4 to $5.25; lambs, native, $4 to $6.10; western, $4.25 to $6.10,

The Dynamiters

The crimes which are daily coming to light in connection with a murderous crew in the United States, who, under the guise of protecting labor, conspired to dynamite buildings erected by what are known as non-union men, and work shops in which non-union men are employed, are truly appalling. Hundred of honest men have been murdered by these conspirators.

The extent and ramifications of these murders are gradually becoming known. The trial of the McNamaras, charged with dynamiting a newspaper office in Los Angeles for daring to employ non-union printers, by which between 20 and 30 men were killed, has and is still bringing to the surface the extent and purpose of this villainous conspiracy. The last development, through the confession of some of the murderers, is that no less than twenty union labor leaders knew of the murders and destruction of property which had taken place through the use of dynamite, yet they winked at the crimes, gave no intimation to the authorities of the murders and destruction of property which had taken place, thereby making themselves parties to the crimes. Does not this knowledge which the labor leaders possessed account for the raising of some $200,000 to defend those who were on trial for murder, and for the purchase of jurors, and making away with witnesses? No doubt of it. It is to be hoped that every one of them may reap his reward on the gallows or in the penitentiary for life.

It is difficult for one to believe that such a state of things could exist in a free and enlightened country as is the United States, yet such is the case; and notwithstanding the exposures which have taken place and the conviction of some of the murderers on their own confession, the villainies are going on, as it was only a few days ago that a further outrage was committed in the west by the blowing up by dynamite of a factory just constructed. The only known reason for the crime was the fact hat it was built by non-union labor.

So alarming has this state of affairs become that investigations are proceeding in nearly all parts of the Union. At present the "murder of an iron-worker named Conroy, in New York, has put a new proposition up to the Federal Grand Jury that is investigating the dynamite cases, and it is understood that the Federal authorities in the Empire State are looking into it in the belief that Conroy was made away with because of his knowledge of the great dynamiting conspiracy, and the fact that he would be called before the Grand Jury to testify."

So far no connection with these crimes has been traced to Canadian labor unions. Though riots have taken place during strikes and injuries have been inflicted upon non-union men who were willing to work, it is to be hoped that no Canadian labor union leader has had any knowledge, directly or indirectly, of these crimes.

Champ Clark

This gentleman is still harping upon his favorite topic, the annexation of Canada to the United States. Harper's Weekly of Nov. 11th, 1911, tells its readers that Speaker Champ Clark is stumping the Third Congressional District of Nebraska in the interest of Daniel V. Stevens, and talking freely on various subjects. He is quoted, for instance, as saying on Nov. 2, at Fremont, Neb., that

> "'Nine-tenths of the people of this country favor the annexation of Canada, and I don't care who hears me say it. I am willing to make this proposition:—You let me run for President on a platform calling for annexation of Canada, insofar as this country can accomplish that end, and let President Taft run against me, opposing annexation, and I would carry every State in the nation.'
>
> "In part of that there is a measure of truth. Do we like or dislike Canada? We like her, of course. She is our next neighbor. We live on excellent terms with her, without jealousy or bickering.
>
> "Would we be glad to see her Provinces States in the Union? We would be delighted. Any other feeling would be inhospitable or unfriendly.
>
> "So far nine-tenths of our people, as the Speaker says, favor annexation. But that is all there is to it, and that is not worth talking about.
>
> "It is one thing to admire a lady and suggest that it would be happiness to be married her. It is quite another thing to seek to detach her from an alliance which already exists, and seems to give satisfaction. We suppose the Speaker merely admires Canada as any gallant man admires an admirable dame, and that his intentions are absolutely honorable. But he should not advertise his admiration so freely. Time enough for that when Canada becomes a widow—if she ever does. Meanwhile such a clamor of admiration sets busybodies to talking and misleads too many people."

Champ Clark may speak truly of the people of the United States. The people of Canada spoke upon this question on the 21st of September last, which should be sufficient for that gentleman.

Two Good Reasons

"Dorothy," said that young lady's mamma, "It seems to me that you had the gas turned rather low when young Smart was here last evening."

"It was solely for economy, mamma," answered the maiden.

"There is no use trying to beat the gas company, my daughter. I have noticed that the shutting off of the gas is always followed by a corresponding increase of pressure."

"Well, that lessens the waist mamma, dear; doesn't it?" replied the artless girl. And her fond parent could find no answer.

De Ruyter: "You see, I drop into poetry occasionally."

Editor: "Yes, so I see! You appear to drop clear through it."

It's easy for a man to admire a strong-minded woman—if he isn't married to her.

SIAMESE CATS.

At birth the Siamese cat is almost white, showing a faint line where the "markings" will, with age, develop. In a few months, the colour gradually darkens into a lovely pale fawn, and the markings are of a beautiful deep brown or even chocolate colour. These markings, which are prominently displayed on what canine fanciers would term the muzzle—the face and head—and on the legs and tail should be as clearly defined as possible, but the majority of cats seen at the present time have the colour smeared and smudgy. Besides its peculiar colour, the Siamese cat has wonderful opalesque — blue eyes which seem to be set aslant, giving it a curious appearance. In the dark these strange creatures are stranger still, for they glow like red hot coals.

Many a man would appreciate his home more if it had all the comforts of a club.

PICTURE SHOWS PROVIDING "GUARDIANS" FOR CHILDREN

Printed Card Issued by One Theatre to be Signed by Parent Putting Child in Charge of "Our Mr. Laurie"--One Way of Getting Round The Law Against Admitting Unaccompanied Children

MONTREAL, Dec. 20.—The fiat of Chief of Police Campeau that children under fifteen years of age, unaccompanied by any adult, must not be admitted to the moving picture theatres, is taxing the inventive genius of those managers whose shows were visited by large numbers of children. A number of them have adopted the pass system, to protect themselves evidently, and at the same time permit the admission of any one who may wish to visit their theatres, irrespective of age.

The Vitoscope Theatre of Mount Royal avenue, has issued the following card:—'I, the undersigned father or mother, of the bearer, authorize the directors to admit my child ot the Vitoscope Theatre, with the price of admission, and in the care of Mr Laurie.' A blank line is left for the signature of the father or mother. The card, a small red one, about the size of a gentleman's calling card, is printed in French and English.

A 'Witness' reporter who had visited the theatre yesterday, secured one of these cards. When the afternoon performance opened there were 21 people in the hall, five of whom were certainly under fifteen years of age, while a sixth, a girl, would probably come under the ban. In the seat in front of the reporter was a boy who said he was ten years old, who proudly showed his pass signed by his parents.

When leaving the theatre the reporter asked the ticket collector for a couple of the cards. He professed ignorance of what was desired, but called a gentleman, a few feet away, apparently an official of the theatre. The request being repeated, the two cards were produced and handed to the reporter without a moment's hesitation. A glance at them was sufficient to see that they were identical with the one resting in the reporter's pocket. A moment later the official became suspicious, for he snapped the cards from the reporter's fingers and shoved them in his pocket.

"What's that for? What's the matter?" asked the reporter.

"I'm not going to give you any. You don't need any: I say you can't have any," and a moment later he added, "I think it is time for you to get out.."

The reporter 'got out,' but he had learned that the passes were in existence and were procurable, although their possessor was cautious in their distribution.

The boy who was in attendance with the signed pass in his pocket, received no special care whatever while the reporter was in the hall.

SAYS THAT WOMEN WILL PROPOSE IN FUTURE

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 19.—George Wills Cooke, lecturer, believes that in the very near future women, not men, will do the proposing. "With the coming of suffrage they will act for themselves, not only politically, but socially," he says.

"The present diffidence and shyness of girls in love-making is a subterfuge—a part of present social teachings. It goes back to the headship of the man. Among the Zuni Indians these qualities are exactly changed. It is the boy is so-called modest, diffident and shy. For there he leaves his home when married just as the girls do here.

"Another reason why the women should do the proposing is that they are getting better educated than the men and, therefore, will select more intelligently. In time it will be the women who will do the courting.

"The situation at the present time is in the hands of the men. When Roosevelt told the women to marry and raise big families, he spoke ill-advisedly. It was to the men he should have directed his remarks."

LET EVERYONE USE CHRISTMAS STAMPS

The little Christmas Stamp, issued on behalf of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, to help care for needy patients, serves, of course, a very practical purpose in providing a means of securing funds for this institution. But the educational value of millions of these stamps being put in circulation must not be overlooked. For this reason we urge our readers to put a one cent stamp on every letter and package that they will be mailing between now and the new year. Scatter abroad the good news that there is hope for the poor consumptive. With the stamps costing only one cent each, the door is open to everyone to have some part in this great campaign of stamping out consumption. In a decade the mortality in the Province of Ontario from tuberculosis has declined nearly forty per cent. Every buyer of a Christmas Stamp can help to further improve these conditions. A post card to the Secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, 347 King Street West, Toronto, will give all particulars. Write him to-day.

TELEGRAPH MARVELS

1700 Miles Per Minute Is the Rate at Which a Wire Travelled Around the World Though this Is Not the Record.

With a view to finding out how quickly a message could be sent round the world, the editor of the 'New York Times' recently carried out an ingenious test. He wrote a message of nine words addressed to the paper, and dispatched it eastwards. The message completely girdled the northern hemisphere, traveling through Honolulu to Manila, thence to Hongkong, Singapore, and Bombay, from which point it sped onwards to Suez, thence to Gibraltar, towards Fayal, and finally re-arrived at New York, a distance of 28,613 miles.

No attempt was made to clear the line for its transmission in the hope of establishing a record, but the messages was sent under ordinary commercial conditions. The message passed through sixteen relay stations, and sixteen and a half minutes after it left New York it re-entered that city, thus travelling at an average speed of 1,700 miles per minute.

This, however, is not a record. The quickest time in which a message has been dispatched round the world was in celebration of the opening of the Pacific cable, when the globe was telegraphically encircled in nine and a half minutes. In that case, however, the line was cleared specially for the passage of the message.

NEW CHURCH GOERS

In a Remote Part of India During a Service at a Mission a Tiger Once Put in an Appearance. But Turned Tail.

It is the commonest of common sights in the Highlands of Scotland, and in some of the remoter churches of the English Lake district, to see dogs at church. Their sheep-dogs are such inseparable companions of the shepherds that they would both look upon it as an unforgivable insult if one went anywhere without the other. So, when the shepherd goes to church, his dog goes with him, and so well trained are they that it is most unusual for any of them to stir during the service. They lie under the seats and generally go to sleep — a practice in which they are not imitated by their masters, for the Scottish shepherd is not accustomed to sleep under the longest sermon.

Bullocks in the Baptistry.

At the present moment a dog may be seen in a London church, for certain felonious and sacrilegious persons have taken to robbing the offertory-boxes at Westminster Cathedral by night. So the authorities have added to the staff a watch-dog, whose duty it is to keep his eye on the money-boxes. Whether he stays during the service hours we do not know, but it is very unlikely that he does. He is probably only a night watch-man — or watch-dog — and goes home to supper and bed when other people are thinking about breakfast and the day's work.

Many people consider that the presence of a dog in church is a profanation of the sacred edifice, but surely a pig is much more so. Yet a pig might have been seen quite lately in a crate at the base of the pulpit during the harvest thanksgiving services at the Grimsby Fishermen's Church. It transpired that the minister had solicited a contribution from a local farmer, who said, "What would you like?" to which the minister replied, "Oh, anything from the farm." Well, the farmer might have sent potatoes, or eggs, or butter, or cheese, or even bacon, but he elected to send a pig — not in a poke, but in a crate. His contribution to the harvest thanksgiving services was thankfully received, and after the services were over was sold for a good price for the benefit of the church funds. The animal behaved splendidly in its unusual surroundings.

Too Much for the Tiger!

On one occasion at a mission church in a remote village of India a tiger put in an attendance. At any rate, the monarch of the jungle entered the church — probably for the first time in his life — but when the whole congregation rose "en masse" he was evidently not quite sure whether it was a sign of welcome or of menace. The tiger was as much frightened as the congregation, turned tail, sprang out by the way he had entered, and disappeared into his native haunts.

In the north-west of Canada a bear once strolled into a church. There was an immediate panic among the women, and some men sprang towards the shaggy beast, intending to slay him. Bruin, however, took all these things very coolly, sat up, and looked so amiable and unaggressive that, instead of killing him, the men laughed at him. Indeed, it was almost immediately seen that the bear was the identical animal which had formerly been the pet of the village, and which had run from the settlements into the woods about six months before. He had only returned to pay his respects to his old friends, and finding them all at church had evidently thought he might as well go too.

THE KING'S PRIVATE NAME

If the King were to renounce the Throne and resolve to become an ordinary citizen he would be called George Wettin. How does the name Wettin come to be King George's surname? This is the answer: —

Queen Victoria married Albert, Duke of Saxe-Cobourg-Gotha, of the senior branch of the House of Saxony. The family name by which this house, dating from the middle of the tenth century, came to be known afterwards was Wettin, and this was and is the surname of both branches — the Ernestine and Albertine — of the House of Saxony.

QUAINT CHARITIES

A Bachelor Who Left an Endowment to the Man Who Would Lead the Ugliest Woman to the Altar.

A well-known bachelor who died the other day at Frankfort, Germany, left an endowment for an annual prize of $125 to the man who leads the ugliest woman to the altar. If the bride is lame as well as unprepossessing the groom will receive an additional sum of $25.

This reminds us that the town of Haschmann, in Germany, has a system of rewarding lovers who marry girls who have little or no personal attractions. A well-known financier left a sum of money to the town authorities to provide dowries for the plainest woman under thirty married in Haschmann every year, a cripple, and four women under forty who had been jilted several times.

Some years ago a merchant of Kentucky, U.S.A., instructed his executors to invest a certain sum of money and divide the interest every year — on their wedding days — among five American girls who were possessed of heads of "reddish-gold" hair. The founder of this marriage portion died a bachelor, and those who knew him declared that when quite a young man he was very badly treated by a handsome young woman, who was exceptionally proud of the fact that she was the owner of a head of glossy red hair.

Givette, a town in the Ardennes, was left some money a long time ago, and to-day it encourages matrimony by awarding money prizes to mothers who send the largest number of children to the schools.

Every spring several young servant girls of Cardiff, Wales, who wish to get married, are handed a sum of money towards the expense of getting a home together. The maidens are nominated by the Cardiff Council and the mayor pays over the dowries. This marriage fund owes its existence to the generosity of the Marquess of Bute, he having placed in the hands of the mayor of Cardiff, in the year 1897, the sum of $5000, the yearly income from which was to be distributed each spring to deserving servants of the city whose wedding was impeded by the want of a dowry.

GOOD BARGAINS IN OLD BOOKS

Some Wonderful Bargains Made by Collectors — In One Instance a Book Bought for 75c Sold For $500.

Everybody collects nowadays, from the small boy with a penchant for tram-tickets and cigarette-cards to the millionaire, like Mr. Pierpont Morgan, who seems to be making a determined effort to "corner" the world's art treasures. And there is no keener bargain-hunter than the collector, not even excepting a woman at sale time, and his cup of happiness is full when he buys for a $5 note an object he imagines to be worth $200.

"He glories in the feat," says Mr. Charles Edward Jerningham, "and claims to have engaged in a perfectly legitimate transaction; whereas if the object turns out to be worth no more than $2 he denounces the dealer as a thief."

Ignorant English Dealers

Perhaps the most remarkable cases are those which are given in support of the contention that the average English dealer does not know his business. It will scarcely be believed that at one of the foremost sale-rooms in London a small casket was recently sold for $60 which later, melted down, produced several hundred pounds' worth of gold.

And there was Lord ——, who one day bought in Wardour Street, very cheaply, a pair of silver-gilt "entrée" dishes which were afterwards discovered to be made of gold; and a certain general, who purchased an old Georgia snuff-box, sold to him by the dealer as silver-gilt, which was also made of the precious metal.

An amusing story is told of an old bookseller, who was packing up some volumes which a customer had just bought. "Ah, sir," he said, "since I was young times have changed altogether in the book-selling trade. As a youth I often bought volumes which were worth as many dollars as I paid pennies for them. Those days are past, never to return. The value of books is known to all now, and——"

"Apparently the value of all of them is not known to you, my friend," interrupted the customer, "for you have sold to me for one dollar a book the market price of which is $25."

A Little Knowledge Is a Good Thing

Even a little knowledge may sometimes secure a bargain, as the following instances show. A governess, who had been with the family of a collector and had learned a little about the value of rare books, picked up on a bookstall in a by-street of London a first edition of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village." She paid sixpence for the book, and it was subsequently sold at auction for $420. Then there was a clergyman who bought for 75c a copy of the "Vicar of Wakefield: Supposed to be Writen by Himself." The book is now valued at over $500. At Sotheby's not long ago the second copy of Shelley's "Original Poems by Victor and Cazire," dated 1810, was sold for $3000, though it is understood that the preceding owner only paid $75 for it.

Laziness inspires many a man to a political job.

MURDER OF PARISH SEXTON

A Vicar Under Arrest on the Charge Believed to be Innocent.

The mystery of a village church lies behind the arrest of the Abbé Laroue, the respected vicar of Igornay, on the Loire, in connection with the murder of the parish sexton as the latter was going to ring the angelus. Th esexton, an old man named Dessertenne, was found by children the following morning with his head battered in at the foot of a savings amounting to about $100 which he always carried about with him, were gone. A soldier named Leroux on being arrested some weeks after is alleged to have made a statement, following on which the Abbé Laroue and a young man named Crillot, who had formerly been in the Abbé's service, have been arrested. The villagers firmly believe in the innocence of their vicar, who is generally beloved. The Abbé is immensely popular with the farmers and the peasants. It is stated, refused to lend the police a conveyance of any kind to take him to prison at Autun.

RUSSIAN LETTER-OPENERS

In Russia one letter in every ten passing through the post is opened by the authorities as a matter of course. Indeed, the postal authorities of every country have experts who have raised letter-opening to a fine art. Some kinds of paper can be steamed open without leaving any traces, and this simple operation is finished by reburnishing the flap with a bone instrument.

In the case of a seal, a matrix is taken by means of new bread before breaking the wax. When other methods fail, the envelope is placed between pieces eof wood, with edge projecting one-twentieth of an inch. The edge of the envelope is first flattened, then roughened, and finally slit open. Later a hair line of strong white gum is applied and the edges united under pressure.

SHALL BOOKS BE BURNED?

Quite recently Lord Roseberry declaimed against the system of hoarding up thousands upon thousands of books in public and private libraries.

It is probably a fact that many of the bulky tomes so carefully guarded and stored will never be of use again; but who shall weed out the works that have lost their pristine value?

Libraries are as old as our civilisation. Aristotle possessed a collection of books centuries before the Christian era, and Plutarch owned 200,000 of the curious volumes of his day.

As proof of the enormous number of books that have been shepherded into public keeping, it may be mentioned that the Bodleian Library, at Oxford, contains no fewer than 600,000 volumes, and the Advocates' Library, in Edinburgh, 430,000.

Revenge is sweet only after the heart has become soured.

REALISM IN THE CHURCH.

The cult of realism is spreading. Art, Literature, and the Stage have all been permeated by it, and now the Church seems to be following suit. The pioneer is the Rev. Charles Harrison, vicar of [illegible]ston, a colliery village in England. For the celebration of the harvest festival the vicar decided to use "God's own temple"—a stackyard attached to the farm of one of his congregation. A farm waggon, with the horse in the shafts, was used as a pulpit, sheaves of corn being placed at each corner. On one side of the waggon was a large wheat stack, on the other side a stack of oats, and at the rear hay and straw ricks. The surpliced choir and school children sang harvest hymns.

TRADING IN NIGERIA

Though Christianized the Natives of Nigeria Are Always in Fear of the Fetish Ju-Ju and Offer Sacrifices.

Life on a trading station would not suit everyone, as it is a very quiet one. I am stationed at a place about 50 miles from the coast on an island in the centre of a creek, entirely isolated, and it requires a very optimistic disposition to keep cheerful under some of the circumstances which go to make up the life of a trading station.

The natives on this port of the coast are a fighting, semi-savage lot, and the white man's safety is not at all secure, as the natives are nearly always having tribal differences, and whatever state of civilisation they may have attained during the term of peace is entirely forgotten, and they return to their natural state of cannibalism.

When any person of importance dies, there is what is called a "play," in which all the surrounding chiefs take part. They dress up in all the fantastic and grotesque attires conceivable, and dance for hours on end, after which a great feast is prepared and drinkables consumed to no small extent. This may last for a day or two, and perhaps a week, when the next of kin takes possession of the household.

Ju-Juism is very much in evidence out here, and although Christianity is preached in every town, the native, irrespective of what he professes to be, has a superstitious nature, and no amount of preaching can eradicate his fear of the fetish Ju-Ju, to which he makes sacrifices of fruit and flesh of animals.

For instance, a native convert had just loaded his canoe with merchandise, of which he had a large amount, when he came into one of the stores where I was and stole a trifling article. I chased him to his canoe, but he got there first, and in my anger I told him that the Ju-Ju would get him. Coincidental though this may seem, his canoe sank in the middle of the creek, and needless to say he never would come back again to our station, although he sent a native witch doctor and some natives dance round it, to drive away the to build a fire near the factory and Ju-Ju.

'FIRST AID'

Canadian Railroad Now Introducing First Aid Classes All Over Its System.

Of such value does at least one railway consider its "First Aid to the Injured" work that it is now extending its sphere of activities in this connection. Formerly the railway's "First Aid" work was largely confined to the employees of its operating departments, but now the work is being extended to all classes of employees, classes being formed among the clerks and office staffs. This is being done not so much for the advantage of the railway itself, but from a feeling which those at the head of the railway have that everybody should have at least a rudimentary knowledge of "iFrst Aid". Altogether on the C. P. R. system there are now about between 1800 and 2000 men enrolled in the classes, among the cities and towns in which these classes are situated being Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Brandon, Carleton Place, Fort William, Port Arthur, Kenora, Nelson, North Bay, Ottawa, Outremont, Smith Falls, St. John, Havelock, London, Farnham, McAdam Junction, Windsor, Goderich, Fort Berry, Chapleau, Scriber, White River, Webbwood, Sault Ste Marie, Sudbury and Bing Inlet. Altogether there are over 100 classes, Montreal city heading the list with ten classes.

Maybe So.

HOW WASTE COAL CAN BE USED FOR POWER PURPOSES

An illustration of the feasibility of using waste coal for power purposes has just been given in Hull, England, one of the new patent water-tube boilers having been installed in an oil mill in that city. The success of a public exhibition given shows, it is claimed, that much coal which has heretofore been rejected as worthless can be used, and that greater efficiency can be obtained by mixing air in proper quantities with pulverized coal before the latter is introduced into the furnace. This insurts better combustion with less air than usual, and with a consequent increase of boiler efficiency by reducing the amount of heat carried away by escaping gases. The results obtained with the poorest kind of fuel are claimed to be as follows:

First—The almost total elimination of losses, as all the fuel is burned in suspension, the amount of unconsumed coal in the furnace at any given time being infinitesimal.

Second—The rapidity with which steam is raised under ordinary conditions. The system differs from others in that with ordinary furnaces some time is taken before the fires are completely alight, but in this case as soon as the boiler is fired theoretically full effect is obtained.

Third—The smallest and cheapest kind of "slack" are burned with ease and high efficiencies are obtained.

Fourth—The arrangements which permit a close inspection of the straight vertical tubes.

Fifth—The reduction of supervision necessary.

Coal dust, costing $1.25 a ton, which could not be utilized in any other way, was burned under this boiler and gave equal efficiency as compared with coal costing $2.50 a ton used with the old style boiler. The boiler can be started and stopped by holding the fire up, in one minute. In twenty-six minutes a steam pressure of 180 pounds can be obtained, whereas it takes four hours to fire a boiler of the old style. At meal times the fire can be cut off and a great saving of coal effected. An additional advantage is that the space occupied by the boiler is considerably less than that required for the ordinary boiler.

EXTRAORDINARY ADVERTISING

A Beef Firm Offered to Pay the Nicaraguan Government a Heavy Sum If Allowed to Permit the Sides of Its Warships Placarded with Ads.

A striking novelty in what might be called political advertisement has just been hit upon by an English M.P. Wishing to draw attention to the need for reform in the present electoral system, he has had a number of blue poles erected on a conspicuous site in the Strand.

These poles, which vary in size from eight inches to twenty-two feet, represent the number of voters in each constituency. Below appears in large letters the inscriptions: "Each upright, whatever its size, counts the same in the lobby. Is this fair?" And the thousands of people who have stopped and stared, have walked on chucking over the neatness of the idea.

But some of the most startling advertising ideas have never gone beyond the idea stage. When the new King George stamps were being designed, a well-known firm offered a good many tens of thousands a year for the right to use the reverse sides of the stamps, as well as the blank stamp-paper, as advertising space. The Government, however, firmly declined the offer.

On Cliffs and Stamps

It was a firm of equal enterprise that some fifteen years ago talked of having an illuminated advertisement in gigantic lettering on the face of Dover cliffs. The smart firm probably knew quite well that they would never be permitted to, but the newspaper talk of the project was a good enough advertisement in itself.

Beef on Battleships

In the U. S. A., laws in restraint of the more blatant form of advertising are practically non-existent. Some of the growing towns of the West spend money like water on advertising their own merits. One may see train-loads carrying big inscriptions like, "Here is another batch of wise men. They are settling down at Portland." In many a town all the inhabitants pledge themselves always to wear a button-badge with the town's name and motto.

But probably the most startling idea on record is that of the big Chicago beef firm, which proposed to pay the Nicaraguan Government heavily if in return it would permit the sides of its warships to tell forth the glories of a certain pressed beef. And it was only by a narrow majority that Nicaragua refused to turn its fleet into sandwich-boards.

BOYHOOD OF GREAT NAPOLEON

In the French military school at Brienne a small garden was allotted to each pupil to be tilled for his exercise. But one of them, a stunted, sickly youth, palisaded and entrenched his portion, and in this miniature fort he sat and read without disturbance. Fifteen years later this youth had carved his way to a throne, was making and unmaking kings, was terrorising Europe, and proving himself not only the first of all soldiers, but a legislator and constructive statesman beyond compare. Who ever tires of the story of Napoleon? The spell that he cast over the Continent in his lief still clings to his name to-day.

To Check Floating of Fake Companies.

Under a law passed by the Kansas Legislature at last session all companies offering stocks, bonds or other securities for sale in that State must first obtain formal permission from the State Banking department. This department investigates the financial standing of the company and directors who seek to float securities, their plans of operation, and if need be the physical value of their properties.

How effective this law is seems to be indicated by the fact that in seven months since it went into operation five hundred companies have asked permission to sell securities, and only forty-four have passed examination. It is said that before the law was passed Kansas investors were robbed of $5,000,000 a year by the floating of securities by fake companies.

CONFESSIONS OF A HUSBAND

How a Man Who Married for Money Was for Years Kept in Pocket Money By His Wife — Who Held a Tight Hold on the Cash.

I married for money, and now I wish I hadn't. I was a bank-clerk, when a wealthy customer — a widow — took a fancy to me. She invited me to various social functions at her house, and before long I knew that I had only to propose to be accepted.

I didn't hesitate. While I was not in the least bit in love with Mrs.—— I liked her, and foresaw a pleasant existence as the master of some thousands a year, a cosy house in town, and a nice place in the country.

At least, I fancied I was going to be the master of all these good things; but that was where I made the mistake.

Naturally, I resigned from the bank — indeed, my fiancée insisted on my doing so — and this seemed a favourable opportunity for hinting that I should require some money for my own personal use. The answer was satisfactory in a way. Didn't I know that all she had was mine? That sounded all right; but, alas, her lawyers took precious good care that not a single penny of her money did really become mine!

There may be cases of rich women marrying poor men, and making them independent for life by handing them over a lump sum, but I can only say that I have yet to hear of an authentic instance. As it is, I receive an allowance of $1500 a year, but it is absolutely at my wife's pleasure.

Well, you may say, $1500 a year pocket-money, the "run of my teeth" in a comfortable, even a luxurious home, motor-cars, hunters, what have I to grumble at? But I am no longer a bank-clerk on $650 a year. I have developed expensive tastes. I am thrown with men who spend $1500 a year and more on their clothes.

True, my wife pays my tailors' and other bills and makes me handsome presents from time to time. Practically, however, I am harder up than ever I was as a bank-clerk.

We do not get on at all badly, my wife and I, but there are times when my position is almost intolerable, and I wish I were back at my desk, a free man, not ashamed to face other men.

If we hit it off pretty well together, occasional tiffs are inevitable, and it is then that my wife is apt to remind me that it is she who holds the purse-strings. And, one way or another, I am always being reminded of this disagreeable fact. If a man wants to sell me a horse, I cannot say "Yes" until I have asked my wife. If we subscribe to anything the subscription appears in her name or jointly with mine.

The servants treat me with veiled insolence, for they know my true position as well as I do.

A Wife Keeps the Keys

In a recent lawsuit between a rich wife and a poor husband it was shown that she kept the keys of the wine-cellar, and every time her "lord and master" wanted a bottle of wine, he had to ask his wife for the keys. My wife does not put such an indignity on me as that; but still we are not king and queen, but queen and prince-consort, and in the end, practically everything connected with the house has to be referred to her.

I have met a good many other rich women's husbands, and I don't know one who is really happy. Often they take to drink to drown their feelings of self-contempt. Sometimes, kept short of ready-money, they get it by forging their wives' names to bills and cheques.

I am talking, of course, of men who like myself, are absolutely dependent on their wives. I don't say that rich women should only marry rich men; but, unless a man can maintain himself independent of his wife, then his position is at best invidious, while it is often little short of intolerable.

Bottled Gooseberries

Cold Water Method.—Put in glass jars well washed gooseberries, or cut up rhubarb, fill the glass jars as full of water as they can hold, fastening on the lids under water Gooseberries rhubarb, huckleberries can be canned under water, not taking the jars out until rubber and cap are in place and fastened down tightly. They will be in perfect state until time gooseberries will come again — in other words will keep a year.

ARE NO WIVES FOR 2,691,379

MEN OUTNUMBERED WOMEN OF UNITED STATES, ACCORDING TO THE CENSUS.

The female of the species is less numerous than the male, according to a census bulletin issued to-day, giving the distribution of the population of the United States according to sex.

The enumeration taken as of April, 1910, showed that in the United States as a whole there were 47,332,122 males and 44,640,144 females, or a proportion of 106 males for every 100 females. Moreover the men are increasing their lead. In 1900 there were only 104.4 males to every 100 females. The figures for 1910 mean that if every one in the country were ordered to marry there would be 2,691,879 wifeless men left after the rush.

In only five States and the District of Columbia do the women and girls outnumber the men and boys. Here is their relative strength:

State	Males	Females
Massachusetts ..	1,655,226	1,711,190
Maryland	644,255	651,121
Rhode Island ...	270,359	277,251
Dis. Columbia ..	158050	173,019
North Carolina	1,098,471	1,107,816
South Carolina..	751,842	763,553

Ten years ago the females outnumbered the males in five other states: New York, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Virginia and Georgia. Now the tables are turned. The bulletin says in part:

"At birth the number of males always exceeds the females, but male mortality is always greater than female. Consequently through the excess of male deaths, the number of females gradually approaches that of males, and in the later years of life exceeds it. In the United States there is generally a lower death rate than in northern European countries, and the difference between the death rates of males and females is not so marked.

'The equality in the number of sexes occurs here at a later age than in European countries, and the slightly greater male death rate does not overcome the initial advantage the males have at birth. The result is for the native white population of the United States generally an excess of males. The negroes, with their greater death rate, show the same result as observed in European countries, namely, an appreciable excess of females in the population, both in 1910 and 1900."

The bulletin shows that New England has 64,512 more females than males. Since the proportion of females of middle age and beyond is greater than that of earlier life it is fair to assume that there are more old maids in New England than in any other section, but proportionately the excess of females, and presumably of old maids in the District of Columbia is even greater.

THE FIGHTING TURK

The Turk is a great fighting man, perhaps the best in the world — that is, on land, for as a sailor he has never shone.

Within the last fifty years mighty Russia has tried to beat him twice (in 1854 and 1877) and failed signally on each occasion. The way Turkey put paid to Greece's account in 1897 is fresh within most people's memory.

He is a great fighter because he is physically a strong man. The Turkish peasantry, from whom the Army is recruited, have to work hard for a bare living, and there is no room among them for weaklings. Therefore, the Turkish soldier is capable of tremendous feats of endurance, and can live on nothing, or next door to it. Then he is accustomed to fighting almost from babyhood. On the frontiers and in the country districts of Turkey there is always trouble going on.

Death in battle has no terrors for him, for by his religion it assures him of paradise.

Burmese Spells.

Some curious sidelights on the Burman's character are contained in a report on the work of the Archaeological Survey in Burmah. It is stated that the Burman highly prizes the following gems—ruby, diamond or crystal, pearl, coral, topaz, sapphire, cat's eye, amethyst, and emerald. Collectively they ward off sickness or danger. The cat's eye is supposed to secure invulnerability in war. Incantations are muttered over some or all of these stones and the water in which they are immersed is drunk in order to secure immunity from all evil. Spells are uttered over values, and they are inserted as amulets in the flesh of men who desire to be immune from wounds inflicted by sword, spear, or gun.

O'Hara once saw an advertisement in a street car reading—"Buy your stove at O'Brien's and save half your coal." "Begorra," he said, "I'll buy two stoves and save all my coal."

SHE COLLAPSED ON THE STAGE

Sudden Death of a Well-Known and Popular Young Actress in New York.

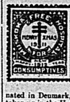
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The audience at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre thought it was all a part of the shown on Monday night when Rosabel Morrison, who played Dago Ann in Paul Armstrong's sketch of the underworld, fainted on the stage.

Miss Morrison, who was the daughter of Lewis Morrison, the famous Mephistopheles, in private life was Mrs. Mitchell Lewis. Before the evening performance she bought a box of cough drops. An autopsy will be performed.

Rosabel Morrison came naturally by her love for the stage. Her mother, Rose Wood, was one of the original Wood children who came to the Boston museum in the early days. Rosabel was born in New Orleans thirty-four years ago. She first appeared with her father as Marguerite in his interpretation of Faust.

CANADA'S CHRISTMAS STAMP

The Campaign for 1911 is on, and Needy Consumptives all over Canada are Rejoicing



As Archdeacon Cody expressed it at a meeting of the Citizens' Christmas Stamp Committee in Toronto, a few days ago, the Christmas Stamp, now issued each year in aid of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, has become one of the institutions of the country.

Three years ago the movement was set on foot in Canada by the National Sanitarium Association, following the idea that first originated in Denmark, which was a year later taken up in the United States, and quickly spread to Canada.

The idea itself is very simple, though the results show how true it is that "great oaks from little acorns grow," $11,000.00 being realized from the sale of stamps in 1910, a sum sufficient to care for forty patients at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. This year it is hoped that $25,000.00 may be realized to assist in this great life-saving work which is ever becoming more urgent.

The cut in the corner of this article shows the design of the stamp for 1911, though the original is in three colors.

This stamp does not carry any mail. One wants to remember this, though, as it has been epigrammatically expressed, any mail will carry it. The idea is for everyone to use this stamp in their correspondence between now and the end of the year. This plan will serve the two-fold purpose of helping to realize the $25,000.00 for the aid of needy consumptives, and will besides possess an educational value that can hardly be overestimated.

The stamps are on sale to-day in book stores, drug stores, and elsewhere in almost every town and city in Canada. Clergymen, Public School teachers, Sunday School teachers, Bible Class workers, Daughters of the Empire, and organizations of many different kinds are assisting in the work of spreading the sale of this little stamp. Each stamp costs only one cent, so that it becomes possible for everyone to have some part in this great battle against consumption.

We have every pleasure in urging our readers to make much use of this little messenger of healing for the next thirty days.

A NATURAL CLAMP.

A thing that has caused many people to wonder is the fact that a chicken never falls off its perch. The reason is that whenever the fowl's leg is bent, the toes are involuntarily forced to close inwards, clenching the foot like a fist. Thus, when a chicken wishes to roost, it mounts the perch with legs straight, and, having selected a foothold, lowers itself by bending its legs. Immediately the toes close tightly round the perch, and the bird remains clamped to it without effort until the legs are again straightened.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

MUST BE A REPUBLIC

That Alone Will Satisfy Chinese, Says Yuan's Deputy.

Inspired Announcement, Made After Peace Conference With Powers, Says Emperor Will Have to Abdicate, But That Premier Will Not Allow Any Intervention — Tang Shaoyi Wants Peace.

Shanghai, Dec. 21.—"I am convinced that the abdication of the Emperor and the establishment of a republic is the only thing that will satisfy the people and prevent the further wholesale shedding of blood."

This statement was made last evening by Tang Shaoyi, the representative of Premier Yuan Shi Kai, after the session of the peace conference with foreign powers.

Continuing, he said: "Pekin is not aware of the depth or the extent of popular feeling in the south. Even I myself, although somewhat prepared, am astonished to find such a change from an attitude of patient forebearance in dogged patriotic determination. It now appears certainly too late to save the dynasty.

"It will be difficult to persuade Yuan Shi Kai to abandon his plan for a limited monarchy, but we must use every endeavor to secure peace and end this awful bloodshed and the suffering among my people."

Tang Shaoyi expressed the belief that the situation might have been saved at one time by a conference with the revolutionary leaders and prompt assurances of adjustment of the wrongs, but he considers that it is now too late. He is also convinced that there must be no foreign interference in the way of loans, or otherwise.

Six foreign powers, the United States, Great Britain, Japan, Germany, France and Russia, united yesterday in presenting an identical note to Tang Shaoyi, and Wu Ting Fang, Foreign Minister in the revolutionary provisional cabinet. While the exact wording of the note has not been made public, it is understood that it did not go much further than to express the good will of the Governments represented and the hope that the peace conferences would result in bringing the revolution to a close. The German consul was first to read the note, he being followed by the other consuls.

In reply, Tang Shaoyi said he hoped that the conference would be successful in restoring peace. Wu Ting Fang, in response to the consuls, said that he was a lover of peace and therefore would do his utmost to attain a settlement. "But it must be remembered," he added, "that the Chinese are fighting for freedom and good government and that hasty peace might lead to serious consequences—perhaps to another worse revolution."

The conference between the delegates of the Imperial Government and the revolutionaries was resumed in the afternoon.

Practically the whole of the session was devoted to Wu Ting Fang's speech in favor of a republic. Tang Shaoyi, whose powers are clearly limited, expressed his readiness to accept Wu Ting Fang's views, but declared that the matter was so important that he must first communicate with Pekin. He suggested, however, that a settlement be left to the National Assembly, but made no counter propositions.

Thus neither side presented a well-defined scheme and the conference was again indefinitely adjourned.

In the meantime, it is announced, the armistice has been extended to Dec. 30. A telegram from Premier Yuan Shi Kai stated that he had issued an order to the generals commanding the Imperial forces to suspend hostilities.

Revision of U. S. Tariff.

Washington, Dec. 21.—Congress will actively begin consideration of tariff legislation in the committees of the two Houses immediately after the holiday recess. The committees must decide just what rates should be fixed after thoroughly comparing its own data with facts submitted by the tariff board in the report which President Taft submitted yesterday to both Houses of Congress.

Senator Penrose announced that he hoped the Republican Senators would be able to formulate a bill to comply with the tariff board's views. Representative Underwood said the President's message really pointed out the necessity of a great reduction in wool rates and that he had no doubt the House would carry out the suggestions made.

Liquor Fight In Waterloo.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 21.—Waterloo Township Council are submitting a local option bylaw at New Year's. Eight hotels are affected, but they are organized and reports to hand tell of a very keen contest going on in that municipality. A private meeting of hotelmen of the township, at which the hotelmen of Berlin were present, was held here, and while they had nothing for publication it is known it was held largely for organization purposes. The outcome is being watched with interest.

Aid For Independent 'Phones.

New York, Dec. 21.—Minor M. Davis, who was recently appointed superintendent of telephones of the Postal Telegraph Cable Co., announced yesterday that his company has issued instructions to its construction department to proceed with the erection of additional heavy copper wires between all important points on the system of the company, for the purpose of extending the telephonic use of the same to independent telephone companies.

Settlement House for Blind.

New York, Dec. 21.—With a silver trowel, handed to him by a blind woman, President Taft laid the cornerstone yesterday afternoon of the first settlement house in the world for the blind. A crowd of several thousand persons choked the street to get a glimpse of the Presidential party.

TO PROBE THOROUGHLY

Prominent Men Mentioned For Ottawa Commission.

Inquiry Into the Affairs of Government Departments Will Begin Where the Liberal One Left Off and Is Expected to Yield Sensations—A. B. Morine Is Probable Chairman.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—It is reported that the Government has determined upon the men who are to conduct the investigation into the several departments of the public service at Ottawa. The names mentioned are those of Hon. A. B. Morine, K.C., of Toronto, who will be chairman; Richard S. Lake of Grenfell, Sask., and G. N. Ducharme of Montreal. Mr. Morine is regarded as peculiarly well fitted for the work of investigation by reason of his lengthy experience in the administrative affairs of Newfoundland and of his high standing as a member of the Bar.

Mr. Lake represented the Saskatchewan riding of Qu'Appelle in the last Parliament, but was defeated in the September election. He is a practical farmer, with a wide knowledge of business affairs and has made a study of civil service questions.

Mr. Ducharme is a wealthy man, who has had a long and creditable business career in Montreal. It is expected that Mr. Morine will be the chairman of the commission.

No authoritative announcement in regard to the work of the commission is obtainable this morning, but it is to be expected, following the attitude repeatedly taken by Mr. Borden in Parliament within the last five years, that the inquiry will be wide open and that there will be time enough allowed for the commission to make the enquiry thorough and complete. The present Premier repeatedly protested, while in opposition, against the restrictions with which the previous investigations by the Courtney and Cassels commissions were circumscribed. The Courtney-Fyshe-Bazin Commission, appointed in 1907, dealt chiefly with the Marine Department, but reported that there was no time to go into the work of the other Departments, at the same time indicating their opinion as to what an investigation into the other Departments would reveal.

The Cassels enquiry, which followed, had to do only with the work of Marine Department officials.

The probability is that the new commission will take up and complete the work begun by the other commissions. The probe will go deeper under the enlarged powers of the commission now being established. Before the adjournment of the House the Minister of Justice gave notice of a bill to amend the Enquiries Act to enable commissions to employ experts who could be entrusted with some of the detailed work of investigation. This amendment, it is believed, will bear directly upon the investigation to be made by the new commission.

To Boost Annuities.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, and Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, have been completing arrangements during the past few days for the transfer of the annuity branch to the Postoffice Department from the Trade and Commerce. All the details have now been completed, and after Dec. 31 the annuities will be administered by the Postoffice.

It is felt that with the machinery of the postoffice at the disposal of the annuities branch and the thirteen thousand odd postmasters throughout Canada to act as agents, there should be a great increase in business.

While the annuities branch has so far been a moderate success, the expenses have been so great that it has scarcely been paying its way. Hon. Mr. Pelletier is planning an aggressive campaign for the annuities branch throughout Canada.

Wants Packers Discharged.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Formal notice that the defence will present a motion in the near future to have Judge Carpenter instruct the jury to return a verdict finding the ten Chicago meat packers, charged with criminal violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, not guilty, for the reason that U. S. District Attorney Wilkerson failed to make out a case in his opening statement to the jury, was given yesterday by Attorney Levi Mayer at the opening of the afternoon session of the trial.

The action of the defence came as a surprise to the Government and caused Judge Carpenter to adjourn court until this morning, when he will rule on the motions.

Brockville Rector Resigns.

Brockville, Dec. 21.—Rev. R. B. Patterson, rector of the Anglican Church at Athens for the last seven years, has tendered his resignation, to accept a charge at Stellarton, N.S.

The death is reported from Edmonton, Alta., of Dr. I. J. Lone, a native of Williamsburg, Dundas County. Deceased was 55 years of age, and a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston. He also took a post-graduate course in Edinburgh.

New York's Busy Subway.

New York, Dec. 21.—Figures available to-day show that last Monday's travel on the subway and elevated railroads of Manhattan set a new high record. The number of tickets sold was 2,460,000, the subway carrying 1,400,000 and the elevated 1,060,000.

The total exceeds even the tremendously heavy traffic recorded during the Hudson-Fulton celebration. The great increase in travel was due to Christmas shopping.

Turkey Needs Money.

London, Dec. 21.—The Italians continue their work of establishing their position in Tripoli. The occupation of Zangur Sunday rendered the further smuggling of arms from the west impossible.

In diplomatic circles it is reported that Turkey needs financial assistance

THIS DOG IS A HERO

Fireman's Pet Saves Lives at Conflagration in New York.

"Happy," a Dalmation, Which Follows the Wagons, Realizes Danger of His Master and Climbing to the Third Story Guides Lost Men to the Window by His Barking—Crowds Watch Sensational Feat.

New York, Dec. 21.—To the already long list of life-saving heroes of the fire department another new name was added last night. It was that of a dog—"Happy"—a Dalmation, which follows the apparatus to every fire.

Three firemen were saved from a burning furniture warehouse in Harlem last night through the sagacity of "Happy," which climbed a ladder three storeys to effect their rescue. The three firemen, one of them "Happy's" master, had been caught at the rear of the third floor in that dread of all firemen, the back draught, and forced to flee. The smoke was so dense that they lost their way in their search for the window, at which their ladder had been run up.

Standing near the hose cart "Happy" heard his master's cry for help, jumped for the ladder and began climbing it. Thousands of spectators watched the black and white spotted animal as he mounted rung after rung, and several firemen who had seen the dog start up the ladder and knew something must be wrong, began climbing after him. "Happy" reached the third floor window first and, poking his nose inside, he began barking. The nearly-suffocated firemen inside the building heard their company's pet and, guided by the barks, made their way through the smoke to the window.

"Happy's" master picked the dog up in his arms and tenderly carried him down to the street. Then he tied the animal to the hose cart, saying he would take no more chances of having him hurt by climbing ladders.

Russia Not Interested.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 21.—The Russian newspapers are giving small attention to the Russo-American relations. About the only article published on this subject is an interview with M. Timiriazeff, who was Minister of Commerce in the Witte Cabinet, and has taken a leading part in developing Anglo-Russian commercial relations.

The former Minister of Commerce says that the treaty of 1832 is old fashioned and primitive, the principle of the most favored nations being obscurely formulated therein. Commercial treaties, however, he adds, pursue solely economic objects, never political objects. If the Jewish question served as the reason for the abrogation of the treaty, the United States, he declares, will scarcely gain its point in a new treaty.

The Moscow newspapers ignore the subject completely. A few despatches from London and one or two mail letters from occasional correspondents in America represent the sum total in the treaty question.

Indians on War Path.

Montreal, Dec. 21.—Oka reservation is to-day the scene of strife between railway workers and Indians.

"Chief" Gabriel Kennatosse, famous for his struggle with the seminarians and appeals to Ottawa and King Edward, is the leader of a malcontent band of red men some forty strong, who bar the way of Canadian Northern track layers, preventing the linking up of the Ontario and St. Eustace branches over a strip of land little more than 400 yards wide.

Kennatosse, who claims the chiefship, declares that the land is owned by himself and his followers, and declares that the Indians will not allow the railway to be laid over their land without a forcible attempt to prevent it.

The band is armed with guns, pistols and clubs, and has adopted a very defiant attitude. The railway workers are also becoming restless, and a clash is feared.

The authorities are rushing deputies to the scene.

Marjory Clouston Married.

London, Eng., Dec. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At Paris the marriage of Miss Marjory Clouston, daughter of Sir E. Clouston, president of the Bank of Montreal, to Dr. John Todd of McGill University, was celebrated very quietly here yesterday. The civil ceremony was celebrated at the British consulate by Percy Inglis, the consul-general, at noon, and the religious ceremony was celebrated a few minutes later by Bishop Ormsby, in the presence of members of the family and some intimate friends, no invitations having been issued.

His Illusions Shattered.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Dec. 21.—In broken English, with choking sobs, Jacob Klenovic, Russian Jew, said in the police court: "I never could believe they would do anything like this in America." Klenovic had been rejected at Bridgeburg by Officer Thomas, Canadian immigration department, coming to Niagara Falls and attempted to enter the country on the G.T.R. train passing over the lower bridge. Magistrate Fraser find him $50 and costs, which was paid. He was then deported.

Murdered by Bandits.

Los Angeles, Dec. 21.—Frank Gillette, a former business man of Cleveland, Ohio, was murdered by Mexican bandits Dec. 10 on his coffee plantation near Rosa Morda, territory of Tepic, Mexico, according to advices received here.

The marauders entered the house, bound and gagged Mrs. Gillette, stabbed her husband to death and rifled the house, taking away $10,000 in money and silverware.

Want Canadian Hay In Britain.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—The demand for Canadian hay is growing in England, where the shortage in last season's crop was very great.

WOOL TARIFF REPORT.

President Taft Recommends a Liberal Cut In the Duty.

Washington, Dec. 21.—President Taft sent to Congress yesterday the long-awaited report of the tariff board on schedule K, of the Payne Tariff Act, and with it a message recommending that the rates on wool and woollens be materially reduced. The duties now are so arranged as to keep out of the United States entirely wools of finer qualities which, if imported, might be used to displace the cheaper substitutes now employed.

On raw wool, the board finds the duties higher than the difference in cost of production in the United States as compared with the cost abroad.

On tops, from which yarn is made, the present rate of duty is found to be prohibitory. On yarn, from which cloth is woven, the present duty is found to be prohibitory because it keeps out all except the finer grades.

On cloth, the present rate of duty is pronounced prohibitory on heavy-weight, cheap and medium grade cloths, principally because of the specific compensatory duty which fixes a certain charge per pound before the ad valorem rate begins. It costs 100 per cent. more to make cloth from yarn in the United States than it does in England or France. The present system of fixing the same ad valorem rates of duty on different grades of fabric is condemned as unfair.

The board's figures would seem to show that the "prohibitory duties" do not affect the American consumer so much as would be inferred by the use of those words, for while the duties on sixteen samples of foreign cloth selected by the board averages 184 per cent., the actual excess of the domestic price over the foreign price was found to be 67 per cent., as the result of domestic competition.

"At the present time the industry in general is on a competitive basis," says the report.

Steamer Companies Turned Down.

New York, Dec. 21.—The full bench of the U. S. Circuit Court yesterday overruled the demurrers interposed by the Hamburg-American Steamship Co. and other transatlantic lines, which form the "Atlantic Conference," against the Government's suit for their dissolution. The Government's contention is that the conference is by reason of an alleged pooling agreement on passenger rates, a trust in restraint of trade, and an injunction is asked to restrain the companies from further execution of the agreement.

The demurrers alleged want of equity in the Government's petition and followed closely the petitions in the Tobacco and Standard Oil cases sustained by the U. S. Supreme Court in the "light of reason" and under the "rule of reason."

Judge Noyes, who read the opinion of the full court, said the transportation of passengers between the United States and Europe form a part of the commerce of the United States with foreign nations and that Congress had the power to prohibit all contracts.

Richeson Wounds Himself.

Boston, Dec. 21.—Rev. Clarence Richeson, former pastor of a prominent Baptist church in Cambridge, who is awaiting trial in January on a charge of poisoning a former sweetheart who was in a delicate condition and who stood in the way of his marriage to an heiress, early yesterday morning seriously wounded himself in his cell.

The act of the minister is not regarded by the jail officials as an attempt to commit suicide. It is looked upon as the deed of a deranged man.

The attendants at the jail heard a disturbance in Richeson's cell early in the morning and found him in great agony. He had gashed himself with a sharp, jagged piece of tin, which he had converted into a sort of knife. Blood poisoning is feared.

Better Inspection Wanted.

St. Catharines, Dec. 21.—The fruit growers of Niagara district at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided to tender a banquet to Hon. Martin Burrell, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, who was for some years a prominent grower in Louth Township, close to the city, and who will be here for the Christmas holidays. It was also decided to extend an invitation to Hon. J. S. Duff.

The principal subject of discussion was the growth and spread of little peach and yellows, which are becoming a great menace to growers. A resolution unanimously adopted provides for a memorial to the Provincial Government asking the appointment of an inspector to take charge of all inspection, that he have power to appoint or dismiss local inspectors, and to assess half the cost to townships.

Sentenced For Murder.

Riviere du Loup, Que., Dec. 21.—Jules Plourde and his brother Ovide were sentenced yesterday morning for the murder of Louis Dion, who was shot by the former while mixed up in a quarrel.

The death sentence was passed on Jules, while his brother, who gave him the cartridges with which the deed was committed, got ten years.

The men had nothing to say before sentence was passed. They are both young fellows under 25 years of age, and unmarried.

Banker Cughan Released.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—After serving a year of his sentence, R. E. Cughan, formerly manager of the Farmers' Bank branch at Athens, has been released from the penitentiary on parole. He was sentenced to three years for forgery. W. R. Travers, general manager of the bank, on the eve of his own downfall, took an active part in the proceedings against the Athens branch manager. Travers will spend Christmas in the penitentiary.

Another Steamboat Merger?

Montreal, Dec. 21—The Herald says: "It is understood, upon good authority, that the directors of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. are discussing with the directors of the Quebec Steamship Co., certain plans which may later be embodied in proposals looking towards the amalgamation of the two companies.

Deputies Ratify Treaty.

Paris, Dec. 21.—The Chamber of Deputies last evening ratified the Franco-German accord on the question of Morocco. The ratification was adopted by 393 against 36 votes.

M. Jaurez, Socialist leader in the Chamber, after a lengthy speech, announced that he would vote for the treaty because it would put France in a position to intervene and bring Great Britain and Germany closer together, although he did not believe that an economic conflict between England and Germany would lead to war. He declared that the greatest peace forces were international organizations of the proletariat and the renaissance of the old Puritan Liberalism in Anglo-Saxon countries.

M. Jaurez raised applause by referring to millionaires, who, with no further material wants to satisfy, turn their aspirations towards idealism. This recrudescence of idealism had led Great Britain, the United States and Japan to conclude arbitration treaties and was an excellent omen for peace.

Most of the deputies from Lorraine departments abstained from voting. They declared that, while they realized the advantages of the treaty for France, and were unwilling to embarrass the Government, the representatives of a part of Lorraine which was still French, they could not give their consent to a treaty detaching a portion of the national territory to give to Germany.

AMUSEMENTS

THE COW AND THE MOON.

Chas. A. Sellon's "The Cow and the Moon," a new three act musical extravaganza, which comes to the Griffin Opera House Wednesday, Dec. 27, for one night only, is one of those likeable kind of musical trick shows, as there is sufficient included in its sixteen scenes to form a feast for all who witness it.

The score is something that will set you whistling and longing for more of the same and the interpolated songs are all hits and done by a shapely, beautifully costumed chorus who can really sing.

The scenic environment can fittingly be spoken of as tremendous and furnishes some startling surprises in musical comedy, such as the natural sized locomotive, which comes roaring rumbling, rushing on its way from a distant perspective.

Many other scenic instances occur which are truly novelties, and do their share towards making the best extravaganza en tour this season. Seats at Doyle's Monday, Dec. 25.

CREW WAS TERRORIZED BY A DEADLY CORBRA

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 20.—A constant guard was provided for to-day during the unloading of the German steamship Kattenturn, to prevent fatality among the 'longshoremen and stevedores, because of a poisonous cobra, which on the voyage from Calcutta killed one member of the crew and reduced the remainder to a state of abject terror, was still loose aboard the ship. The reptile, one of 21 consigned to a New York animal dealer, measures eight feet long. Although the crew, after the reptile had escaped and bitten a sailor, who died after a few hours of agony, hunted with weapons about the vessel, the coora could not be found, and was believed to have secreted himself among the cargo.

DEATH'S CALL

MRS. JOSEPH BRASON.

Mrs. Joseph Brason, who resided on Coleman Street, died this morning, after being ill for the past three months from dropsy and heart trouble. Deceased, who was 68 years of age, was born in Prince Edward County, her maiden name being Miss Letitia Redner. For over half a century she was a resident of the neighboring county, where she was widely known and highly esteemed. For the past fourteen years Mrs. Brason had been a resident of this city, and had made many friends. She was a most amiable and christian lady. Deceased for many years had been a consistent member of the Methodist Church. In addition to the husband a family of two sons and three draughters survive. The sons are Herbert, of Hillier, P. E. County, and Fred, of Calgary. The daughters are Mrs. R. J. Crawford, of Alberta; Mrs. D. A. Anderson, of Ameliasburg, and Mrs. W. Adams, of Hillier.

HOME AGAIN AFTER CANNIBAL CHASE

Congregational Missionaries Will Reach Toronto for Christmas

TORONTO, Dec. 20.—After having been surrounded by cannibals who wished to eat them for a Christmas dinner, Rev. Dr. W. T. Currie, and his wife, arrived in New York on the steamship Minnehonka from Angola, Portuguese West Africa, yesteray afternoon, and will, according to the statement made by his aged mother, Mrs. Currie, of 86 Gerrard street, east, to The News this morning, arrive in Toronto by the end of the week.

"At any rate," she said, "he will be here in time to eat his Christmas dinner with the rest of the family, something which he has not done for the past twenty-five years."

Since 1886, Dr. Currie has been engaged in active missionary work in West Central Africa, and during that period he has been home only twice. The last time was five years ago, when he came to Toronto on a year's furlough. Blackwater, and malaria fever, those two scourges of the West Coast, however, have undermined his constitution, and he will not return again to his field of labor.

"We were making a fourteen month trip into the interior," Dr. Currie explained to the New York interviewers yesterday, "when on one occasion armed canibals surrounded us and made preparations to serve us up for a Christmas dinner. It looked pretty serious for a time, but I called the chief over and finally talked him out of eating up Mrs. Currie and myself. It ended up by the cannibals giving us a pig and a gourd of beer."

It is twenty-six years since the famous missionary graduated from the Congregational College in Montreal. His early days were spent in Toronto, where he attended Zion Congregational Sunday School, first as a pupil and later as a teacher. After his ordination in Hamilton, he spent some time addressing the congregations of the various churches throughout the province on the urgency of the missionary movement in West Africa.

In March, 1886, he married Miss Clara Wilkes, daughter of the City Treasurer of Brantford, and three weeks later the couple sailed from Boston for Benguela, West Africa. After landing the Doctor and Mrs. Currie travelled into the interior as far as Bailundu, where Mrs. Currie was attacked with a sickness to which she succumbed a few weeks after their arrival at the station.

When the news reached Canada, a movement was immediately set on foot to raise funds for a suitable memorial in the shape of a school house, known as the Clara Wilkes Currie Memorial school, which was erected at Bailundu.

After his wife's death Dr. Currie went still further into the hitherto unexplored country, establishing a mission post in the Chisamba district, which was then under the rule of King Kopoko, who later was deposed by the Portuguese.

The mission post was three hundred miles from the sea coast and about 1,000 miles north of the Transvaal Colony. Sixteen years ago, on Christmas Day, Dr. Currie married his second wife, Miss Johnson, a fellow missionary of Brandon, Man. The ceremony took place in the mission at Chisamba.

Mrs. Currie, the missionary's mother, stated that it was decided that her son would not go back again to West Africa. He has had many serious attacks of fever, and the last time he left for a holiday, he was so weak from blackwater fever that he had to be carried to the boat. A leading physician in England, she said, had told Dr. Currie that he needed perfect rest in order to recuperate.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT THE TABERNACLE

Sunday School Pupils Had an Enjoyable Time Last Night.

The Christmas Tree and entertainment of the Tabernacle Sunday School was a success in programme, patronage and proceeds. The Sunday School room was crowded. There were many beautiful presents. Santa Claus arrived promptly at 10 p.m. and was greeted by the kindergarten class which was drawn up on the platform to receive him. The proceedings reflect great credit upon the Superintendent, Mr. J. E. Walmsley, and his able staff of helpers. It was a children's evening and they thoroughly enjoyed it. During the evening the Superintendent was presented with a beautiful gold handled umbrella by the officers and teachers. Mr. S. A. Gardner was presented with a costly pearl stick pin by the young ladies of his class. Mr. Gardner has been a teacher in the schools of Ontario for over 52 years. We believe that he enjoys the distinction of having taught more people and for a greater length of time than any person in Canada. He is doing fine service in our public school work. Mr. Bell, teacher of the ladies' Bible class, was presented with an elegant chair by his class. A very pleasing feature of the entertainment was a scheme of colored electric illumination supplied by the Electric Installation Co. The following is the programme: Greeting by Primary Class, with solo by little Irene Frost; Scriptural recitation, Mrs. Waddell's class; prayer, Rev. W. G. Clarke; address, Supt. J. E. Walmsley; chorus, "Merry Christmas," by three classes; recitation, Miss Henrietta Fenn; song, "Holes in Stockings" Eva Davis and Hilda Vantassel; an exercise, "Father Time's Bell," Mrs. Phillip's class; solo, Miss Lila Gulliver; "Mother Goose's Party," Mrs. Mowat's class; recitation, Miss Jean Nicholson; chorus, Miss M. Watson's class; solo, Miss Alta Dennis; dialogue, "Sending a Xmas Box," Miss Hibbard's class; soldier song, Mrs. Waddell's class; recitation, Miss Vera Morton; solo, Miss Flossie Bonisteel; military drill, Miss E. Watson's class.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burrows, of Toronto, are in the city, the guests of his parents.

Mr. George B. Jones, of Montreal, is in the city for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Robt. Anderson, who has been in Calgary for the past nine months, arrived home last night.

Miss Donah Boulter is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ed. Brewster, in Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Lowe, of Calgary, are visiting Mrs. Lowe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Anderson, Bellevue Terrace.

Mr. R. Gorman and Mr. Geo. Gorman are here to spend the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs Gorman, Charles street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spalding of Chicago are in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Burrows.

J. R. Denike, of Delaware City, is home to spend Christmas with his mother, Mrs. W. F. Denike, Foster Avenue.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS.

Although Canadian railways operate through a new country and for the most part thinly settled territory, they have been able to improve their lines and their service to such an extent that they are now attracting the attention of travellers all over the Continent. A gentleman, who recently travelled through Canada, using both the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Grand Trunk, has written to one of the Railway officials as follows:

"It occurred to me that the exceptionally good and efficient service that I had, was worth calling your attention to, especially in the splendid dining and sleeping cars that you run. I have had occasion to travel on many of the largest and most important Trunk lines in America, and can say without equivocation, that I have never seen better run, or more excellent dining cars."

IMPORTANT MEDICAL APPOINTMENTS

Leading Canadian Physicians Become Consultants to the Muskoka Sanatoriums

The trustees of the N[illegible]al Sanitarium Association have annou[illegible] to the Medical Profession in Canada that they have appointed Dr. W. P. Caven, Dr. J. T. Fotheringham, Dr. H. B. Anderson and Dr. Harold Parsons consultants to the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium and the Muskoka Free Hospital. These well-known physicians will spend a day regularly once a month at the Muskoka Homes. The visits of Dr. Parsons, who has charge of the tuberculosis clinic at the Toronto General Hospital, will be made every two months.

SUREST TONIC IN THE WORLD

IS "FRUIT-A-TIVES" THE GREAT FRUIT MEDICINE

Like fruit juice, "Fruit-a-tives" acts on the great blood purifying organs of the body—namely the liver, bowels, kidneys and skin, and stimulates all these parts to increased activity. The splendid nerve tonics and intestinal antiseptics, combined with the intensified fruit juices, make "Fruit-a-tives" the finest of nerve tonics.

On the stomach, "Fruit-a-tives" acts as a soothing tonic and allays all irritation.

By purifying the blood—strengthening the nervous system and regulating kidneys, bowels and skin—"Fruit-a-tives" builds up the whole system as nothing else will.

"Fruit-a-tives" is a really wonderful medicine—being made directly from fresh fruit—and is the intensified juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit. It is mild in action—pleasant to take—and is a tonic of inestimable value.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HORSE AND TRACK

One heat in 1.01 and a second in 1.01½ was the remarkable performance of the pacer Prince Erie over the half-mile circuit at the Winnipeg Driving Club's matinee last Saturday. The mark of Little Payne, 1.00, made over the same track last winter, is in danger.

The Canadian pacer, Major Brino is the most remarkable of all the twenty-five 2.10 horses that reduced their records during the season of 1911. The black son of Wildbrino will in a few days be in his fifteenth year, but is still sound, and not at the limit of his best accomplishment. This year he reduced his record from 2.05¼ to 2.04½, and may do still better next season. The thoroughbred is close up in the valuable Canadian family established by Mr. Angus Sinclair with Wildbrino at its head, and it is a loss to our breeding interest that he retired before carrying on his operations for several generations further. Wildbrino gave us a tribe of horses with uniform high speed at the harness gaits, backed by the courage, spirit, endurance and longevity of the thoroughbred.—Globe.

CHEAP POWER WINS AT OTTAWA

Hon. Adam Beck Secures Rights in Trent Valley Canal Dam

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Eastern and Central Ontario will get cheap power. This is the result of the visit paid by Hon. Adam Beck to Ottawa this week, when he brought to the attention of the Government the condition of things in the Trent Canal district and laid before the Cabinet the necessities of the case.

The matter was brought to a head about a month ago by the joint action of the municipal authorities of Peterborough and Lakefield. It was to presente the situation with respect to power rights on the Trent Canal that Hon. Adam Beck went to Ottawa. He was accompanied by Mr. Lynch-Staunton, solicitor for the Hydro Electric Commission, and they presented the case to Hon. Frank Cochrane and Hon. Mr. Doherty. The Commission desired to secure the power rights on dams Nos. 4 and 8.

The electrical interests, which at present have the hold on things in the district also appeared, and made objections. Both parties appeared to reach an understanding.

The result of the negotiations at Ottawa is that the Hydro-Electric Commission gets leases on the two dams required, and that the Government has undertaken to meet any claim that may be made by the existing electrical interests. The decision is a big gain for the Commission and for Eastern and Central Ontario, as it opens the way for important extensions of the project.

A number of the Eastern Ontario municipalities are to vote on power by-laws at the coming elections, and the way has been greatly cleared for their decisions.

Train Nearly In River.

Philadelphia, Dec. 16.—A signal tower was demolished and passengers on the Conshohocken, Norristown & Phoenix express train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, leaving Broad street station at 5.49 o'clock last night, narrowly escaped being thrown into the Schuylkill River when the rear coach jumped the tracks shortly after leaving the station. Six coaches composed the train, all being filled with passengers. When the rear car bounded the rails, the engineer applied the emergency brakes just as the train approached the bridge which spans the river.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

MYSTERIOUS BILLY SMITH.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—Mysterious Billy Smith, the ex-pugilist, who was shot and fatally wounded in Portland, Ore., Sunday evening by Captain Loomis, was a Canadian, a native of St. John, New Brunswick. Late in the eighties, when still a mere boy, Amos Smith, for that was his correct name, left home and made his way to the Pacific Coast. Always of a combative disposition and a natural fighter, under the instruction of Jack Dempsey, he soon developed into one of the greatest little fighters of his time.

He first came into prominence on the western coast when he met and defeated Billy Armstrong, the local instructor, for the lightweight championship of the Pacific Coast, before the Occidental Club in San Francisco, in 1892.

Armstrong remembers the boy well. When asked about him last evening Billy said:

"Oh, yes, I remember Mysterious Billy Smith. He was on the coast when I was there in the nineties. There was another Billy Smith there at the time, known as Australian Billy, and it was to differentiate him from the latter that the nickname 'Mysterious' was applied to the St. John boy, but not altogether because of the suddenness of his rise to prominence. When he first broke into the game he was a fresh-faced youngster not more than nineteen or twenty years of age. His first victories were won against Frank Purcell and Spider Kelly. Then he defeated me in the fourteenth round of a battle for the Pacific Coast title. After this he went to Portland, where he defeated Shadow Maber, and then returned to Frisco, where he married a Miss Merchant.

"Smith was getting over the lightweight limit then, but was equally successful in the welter class. His first victory in this division was over Danny Needham on the coast. After disposing of everything in his class in the west he came east, where his fights with Tommy Ryan and Joe Walcott are still remembered as the most terrific of the period, his 25 round draw in '98 being a particularly good example of the various battles these men fought whenever they came together. After fighting for a few years in the east he returned to the coast, nominally the welterweight champion of the world. He settled in Portland, and the last I heard of him he was keeping a hotel in that city."

A WORD ABOUT K. O. BROWN.

Valentine Braun, who applied for the position of caretaker of Wolgast's lightweight crown, stipulating to return it in perfect condition any time the owner may demand it, may find that the custodian of the symbol of lightweight supremacy is liable to serious annoyance. Braun, who is known in Queensberry society as K.O. Brown and who boxes with his right foot and right mitt forward, doing the principal execution with his south paw, is one of the best looking boys in the boxing game. He is a plump little chap, with clear complexion red cheeks and a shock of light hair. Good nature pervades the youngster his face being almost constantly ornamented with an expansive grin. He has none of the outward evidences of a fighter, but when once he enters a contest he exhibits the fighting instinct to a high degree.

There is a division of opinion as to his boxing skill, but all who have seen him in action concede that he is a fighter from head to foot.

He also has the physical ruggedness necessary for the assimilation of punishment and from all points of view is a dangerous opponent.

AN AFTERMATH OF FITZ AND CORBETT.

The assertion that Corbett could have knocked out Fitzsimmons at Carson City, but permitted Fitz to stay for the benefit of the moving pictures is the veriest rubbish, without a shadow of foundation. Although Fitzsimmons was 35 years old in 1897 when he met Corbett, yet the freckled fighter was in his prime, and no boxer in the world could afford to let him stay a second if the opportunity to stop him was presented. No one knew this better than Corbett, a man with an annoying jab, but no knockout punch. Had Corbett been a hard hitter he would doubtless have won from Fitz in the sixth round, for Fitz was in sore distress and at one time during the round was on one knee, listening to the count of the referee.

But Corbett lacked the punch and Fitzsimmons's remarkable stamina and recuperative powers came to his aid. He weathered the storm of the sixth, came back strong in the seventh and from that time on gradually wore Corbett down till the fourteenth round, when with his famous left shift and solar plexus blow he put the champion out of time, although not unconscious. When Fitzsimmons had Corbett in distress in the final round, there was no failure of punching ability.

As between Corbett, the clever, shifty, showy, light hitting boxer, and Fitz, the crafty, rugged fighter, with a knockout punch in either mitt, the question of superiority was definitely settled at Carson. Each man was at his best, and the puncher won. It was a triumph of heavy hitting, backed by shrewdness, over fancy boxing without a punch.

CARL MORRIS A COMER.

Carl Morris keeps plodding along, getting into good condition and beating men with whom he is matched by his manager, William Newman. Morris is doing a great deal of road work and is gradually reducing his bulk. He certainly will have to be taken into consideration by the other white hopes, for it can be relied on that the next time Morris starts against a man as good as Jim Flynn, the Oklahoman will be in excellent physical condition, not to speak of the improvement in his boxing. Morris, who trains at the New Polo A. C., has the benefit of boxing with some of the cleverest boys in the game, including Mike Gibbons, Young Otto, Jimmy Carroll and others.

BILLIARDS

DALY BACKING SUTTON.

Billiard followers were surprised at the challenge of George Sutton, of Chicago, which almost immediately followed his defeat at the hands of William F. Hoppe for the 18.2 balkline championship. Many of them felt that Sutton, after his defeat, on the night of Tuesday, November 28th, in the Madison Square Garden Concert Hall, was displaying a temerity that was not supported by his skill in that match.

The real facts became known yesterday, when it was learned that Maurice Daly is backing Sutton in his second challenge. The reason advanced was that Sutton had been the victim of changed conditions, which completely upset his game so that he was heavily handicapped when he faced Hoppe. Before going to New York, it seems, Sutton had practiced on a slow cloth in Chicago. Arriving in New York he found a fast, tightly stretched cloth provided for his practice. As Daly explained, the change was like a man stepping off of a rubber mat upon smooth ice. Sutton after a month's work on the slow cloth slipped up on the easiest sort of shots and was unable to accommodate his stroke to the change in the short time before the championship match.

Sutton and his admirers profess to believe that Hoppe displayed signs of a falling off in execution at the recent meeting. The fact that he played a string of 500 points with an average of only 22 16-22, with runs of 80, 75 and 52, they cite as evidence in support of their theory. Sutton even in poor form counted 266 points, with an average of 12 2-22 and runs of 121, 38 and 33.

It has been arranged that the second match will be decided in New York. The date has not been set, but it will probably be the latter part of January or the first of February.

FIGHTING GOING ON IN PERSIA

The Capital City Teheran is in a State of Violent Ferment

(Intelligencer Special)

TEHERAN, Dec. 22.—A violent anti-Russian demonstration is in progress in the streets of Teheran to-day on their way to a church entertainment at Cainesville last night, accompanied by Rev. C. H. Emerson, were met on a high level bridge by a Grand Trunk express. Josie Gibson, 19, daughter of the Public School Principal, of Waterford, jumped and was instantly killed. Lena Isving, who home is at Forestville, also jumped, receiving fatal injuries. The rest of the party reached the end of the bridge safe following the news of fighting in the north. Placards everywhere call on Persians to fight the invaders, and armed resistence to the Russian who are due to arrive here to-morrow seems inevitable.

NESBITT'S MAJORITY IS OVER 1000

DARTFORD, Dec. 21.—In the recent provincial election Mr. Samuel Nesbitt, the popplar Conservative candidate for East Northumberland, han an overwhelming majority of 1,023 over Mr. T. J. Atkinson, the Liberal standard-bearer.This is the largest majority ever obtained by a Conservative candidate in this riding. On account of the inclemency of the weather, the bad condition of hte roads, and the fact that no particular fault was found with the Whitney Administration, a comparatively small vote was cast. A drizzling rain fell all day, and but little interest was taken in the proceedings. Mr. Nesbitt was first elected to the Legislature in 1908 when his majority was 578. The successful candidate secured a majority in every village and in every township in the riding. In Brighton Village, Mr. Nesbitt's home town, the Conservatives had a majority of 143, while in Percy, Mr. Atkinson's home town, the Conservatives were 74 in the lead.

TRAGEDY OF A HASTY MARRIAGE

Refusal of Young Bride's Family to Countenance Match, Ends in a Murder.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Driven from his bride by her family's threat to have him arrested because they declared she was too young to be a wife, Louis Segratta re entered his own home in Williamsburg after a three days' absence last night, and, after firing ineffectively at his mother-in-law and his wife's sister, he wheeled as his bride appeard and shot her dead. Then he shot himself.

Segratta's rage had seemed suddenly to be aroused when refused his wife's picture, which he begged for on being denied a glimpse of the young woman herself. Their marriage recently was the result of an ocean courtship as they were coming from Naples.

HURRIED TRIP HOME.

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—Receiving word while in the woods that his brother was seriously ill, Mr. Norman Kerr, of Brockville, arrived in Toronto this morning en route home. Mr. Kerr had to tramp for miles through the bush to a railway station in order to make train connections. He has been up in the Porcupine district for some months, engaged in mining, and had intended to spend the winter there. However, the telegram regarding his brother's health changed his plans. He left this morning for Brockville.

CLOSING EXERCISES IN GRIER STREET SCHOOL

Were Many Visitors, Appropriate Speeches and a Pleasing Programme

At Grier street public school yesterday afternoon a novel but interesting programme was rendered by the pupils who showed that they had been well trained by Principal Mott, and the lady teachers, Misses Bishop, Stafford and Free. Many parents were present, thus evincing their interest in the school. The programme presented was as follows:

Recitation—Gerald Draycott: "Our Heroes.

Recitation—Della Hubbard: "Quite Like a Stocking."

Chorus by School: "Glad Christmas Time."

Recitation— Eddie Walsh: "A Discontented Boy."

Dialogue by Ena Cliff and Willie Folwell, entitled "A Sick Baby."

Recitation—Ena Anderson: "The Keys."

Dialogue—Flossie Bonisteel, Hazel Mott, Vera Kindred, Frank Mayfield, Vera North, Nellie McMechan, Percy Folwell, Charles Mott, Lawrence Cook, Clifford Andrews, Harvey Andreson, Marion Wallace, the later impersonating Mrs. Bentley, and Ernest Adams as Santa Claus.

Exercise by nine little boys.

Recitation— "The Real Santa Claus," by Bramwell Humphrey.

Duett—Margaret Pratt and Silvia Johnson.

Address by Rev. A. M. Hubly.

Recitation—"I am Only a Boy," by Clare Mott.

Solo by Miss Ida Gulliver, accompanist, Miss Bishop.

Recitation—"A Good Reason," by Hazel Everson.

Recitation—"A Boy who Taught" by Robt. Colling.

Dialogue—Hazel Mills, Pearl North Ida Gulliver, Marie Stewart, Gerald Draycott, Don Morton, Bramwell Humphrey, Hary Eves, Willie Scott, who impersonated Santa Claus.

Recitation—"Bed-Time Story," by Marie Stewart.

Recitation—"The Weather," by Wilfrid North.

Solo by Ena Cliff; Miss Free accompanist.

The children presented to Mr. H. Wrightmyer gifts and money which they had collected for the little ones in the Children's Shelter. To the gifts Mr. Wrightmyer made a suitable acknowledgement.

The pupils of Mr. Mott's room presented him with a box of writing material, and the pupils of Miss Bishop presented her with a jewel box.

The proceedings were brought to a close by a chorus by the school and the singing of the National Anthem.

SPORTS IN GENERAL

Billy Delaney, the well-known trainer of pugilists, is confined to his Oakland home with an illness which his physicians fear may end fatally. They say he will never enter another training camp.

Delaney came to San Francisco from New York thirty years ago. He put Corbett in condition to meet Sullivan in New Orleans in 1892. When Corbett retired he developed Jeffries for the match in which Fitzsimmons lost his title. Delaney's last work was the training of Jack Johnson for the championship contest at Reno.

Bill Happenny, the M.A.A.A. pole vaulter, who holds the American indoor record in this game, leaves next Monday for New York to represent the association in the A.A.U. games in Madison Square Garden on December 26 and 27. Happenny is entered in both the distance and height events.

Pitcher Mike O'Toole has been sold by Albany to the St. Paul club of the American Association. He is a brother of Marty O'Toole, who was purchased by Pittsburg from St. Paul club for $22,500.

INCREASED DIVIDEND.

The Standard Bank of Canada has increased its dividend to 13 per cent.

CHILD MISSING

Harold Cecil Abelard, a child three years of age, this morning strayed away from his parents' home, 235 George street, and up to the hour of going to press hte little one had not been found. The parents, friends and police took a hand in the search for the child.

FINGERS SEVERED.

Jimmie Keiler, Dundas Street west, Deseronto, a boy about 17 years of age, had the misfortune to have all the fingers of his right hand severed by a saw at the box factory on Wednesday morning. He only started to work on Monday.

TRIED "SKIN" GAME.

The party of five women, six children and two men, gypsies, who cleaned up several hundred dollars in Belleville, were in Kingston yesterday, says The Standard, and endeavored to play the same game, but as far as The Standard can learn they did not succeed and left by the noon train. Several King St. and Ontario St. business offices were entered by the women, who told fortunes, by means of making chants over money and "feeling" the anatomy of the desired victim. The gag did not work, however, and the band left a few hours after their arrival in the city quite as poor as when they came.

CHILDREN'S AID NOTES.

Thirteen tons om coal has already been donated to keep the children at the Shelter warm. Twenty-five tons will be required to put them through the winter. eW acknowledge with thanks the following contributions: The Misses Hatt, 2 tons; the Misses Holden, 1 ton, Miss D. Sutherland, 1 ton; Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., 2 tons; Mayor Ackerman, 2 tons; Mr. Thos. Ritchie, 1 ton; Mr. A. [illegible] Bailey, 2 tons; Mr. P. F. Canniff, 1 ton; Mr. John Downey, 1 ton.

CHURCH PRESENTATIONS.

At the Baptist Church Xmas social on Tuesday evening Mr. Charles A. Hart, the popular Sunday School Superintendent, was presented with a silver mounted ebony walking cane by the teachers and friends of the school. Following the choir practice last evening, Mrs. William Deeton, organist of the church, was the recipient of a jewel case filled with gold, the gift of her many appreciative friends in the church, choir and orchestra. Mrs. Deeton was completely surprised. A dainty supper was served in the church vestry by a staff of ladies led by Mrs. A. C. Faulkner. Songs and speeches followed, during which many friends spoke of Mrs. Deeton's talented services, so generously given to the Baptist Church.

GOOD ADVICE.

William Scriver, a middle-aged man was arrested yesterday on a charge of vagrancy. The Magistrate this morning advised Scriver to proceed to his home in Prince Edward County, where he could be looked after.

CHRISTMAS TEA.

The City Mission, Dundas Street, Christmas tea and entertainment will take place at the City Mission on Wednesday evening, Dec. 27th. Any persons desirous of contributing to this may leave their gifts at Mr. Chas. Elvins' or Mr. Chas. S. Clapp's store or at the City Mission.

BELLEVILLE BOY HONORED.

The many friends of Mr. Reginald Geen, of Owen Sound, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Geen, of this city, will be pleased to learn of the young man's musical triumphs and the honor which fell to his lot in being requested to play for the Duke of Connaught, the Duchess and Princess Patricia upon their arrival at Rideau Hall, Ottawa, recently. In fact, Mr. Geen was one of the first to personally meet the Princess in that city, and the cordial greeting accorded to our young townsman, with fervent expression of pleasure by Their Highnesses regarding his ability as a musician were most gratifying, and the fact that his address was asked for and given speaks volumes for what may transpire in the near future. Mr. Geen is organist at St. George's Church, Owen Sound, and director of the Musical Association of that place. A musical concert given by his choir boys Dec. 13th was an unquailfied success and greatly appreciated by the large audience. As will be remembered, Mr. Geen is a gold medal graduate of Albert College and also a graduate of high standing from the A.T.C.M. The Intelligencer, with scores of local friends, sincerely congratulates the young musician upon his rapid strides in a conspicuous career in the world of harmony.

GIRLS WIN CHEESE CUP.

The Royal Street factory held its annual meeting on December 18th, and was well attended. The report of the season's business was most gratifying. Dairy instructor Thos. Whattam gave an interesting talk on the care of milk. Mr. Cundick in a few well chosen words thanked the people for their patronage. The most pleasant thing in connection with the meeting was a vote of thanks tendered Mr. McConnell's two daughters, who have been successful in winning the silver cup donated by the Metropolitan Bank two years in succession for the best cheese made in Prince Edward County. Mr. McConnell, on behalf of his daughters, thanked the patrons for their appreciation and kindness and said no small amount of the credit was due the patrons who were sending better milk each year.—Picton Gazette.

A NEW J. P.

An Order-in-Council was passed on the 19th inst. appointing Henry Freeman Ketcheson, of the city of Belleville, as a Justice of the Peace in and for the County of Hastings.

SERIOUS CHARGE.

A young man named John Coughlin was this morning before the Magistrate charged with house breaking. He was remanded to jail until Thursday next, 28th inst. It appears that at a late hour last night Coughlin visited Mr. George Ward's residence on Moira Street and without any ceremony forced open the front door, and when inside acted in a quarrelsome manner. The police were sent for and Coughlin was placed under arrest.

LARGE POTATO SHIPMENTS.

Potatoes are being shipped in large quantities over the Intercolonial Railway from various points to Ontario, including Belleville, and western Canada. Particularly large shipments of P. E. I. tubers have their origin at Point du Chene, where, from the Island boats, they are loaded on I.C.R. cars and forwarded to shippers in Montreal. The abundance of the crop in the Maritime Provinces and the great demand for potatoes elsewhere form a happy combination of trade circumstances.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

While crossing Front Street near Bridge, about 3.30 yesterday afternoon Mr. Allan McFee, exMayor, was struck by a team of horses attached to a democrat wagon, knocking him to the ground with such force as to break a finger and fracture one of his hips. He was taken at once to his home on Church Street, where his injuries received medical attention, and at present he is resting as comfortably as could be expected. A questionable feature of the incident was that the driver, but for deliberate carelessness, could have avoided the accident, as Mr. McFee had nearly reached the sidewalk on the west side of Front Street, the horses moving rapidly in his direction until the wagon wheels scraped the curbing. The driver, who was unknown to the spectators, immediately quickened the speed of his team, turning on to Bridge Street, and was later seen leaving the city by way of the back streets. [illegible] many friends of Mr. McFee will [illegible] to learn of the accident, and hope [illegible] his speedy recovery.

A VALUED FRIEND

A highly welcome visitor to The Intelligencer to-day was Mr. J. B. Morton of Kisbry, Saskatchewan, who called to renew his subscription to the Weekly Intelligencer for the forty-third consecutive year. Mr. Morton, who formerly lived in Tyendinaga, went to Saskatchewan sixteen years ago and has deservedly prospered there.

The St. John, N. B. Globe, the most consistent Liberal journal published in New Brunswick, suggests that on attaining office fifteen years ago, members of the Liberal Government betrayed the party by abandoning its Free Trade tenets. It now suggests that Sir Richard Cartwright should write the true history of the betrayal. The Globe asks too much. It can hardly be expected that Sir Richard even would give the reasons for swallowing himself during the past 15 years; although one word would give a full explanation—viz: "OFFICE."

This is like carrying coal to Newmarket. A telegram from New York of the 19th inst. says:—Fifteen hundred tons of potatoes grown in Scotland reached New York to-day on the liner California, and will be placed on the market, it is said, to break the high prices charged for the Long Island potato. Duties amounting to $750 were paid on the consignment. Dealers declare that there is a shortage in the crop and that prices greatly in excess of last year's market, they say, prevail. Other shipments from Scotland will follow the initial cargo.

How easy it is to think you would head the list of philanthropists if you only had the money.

CURRENT COMMENT

Is 1912 to be the tipless year? If so, it will be a blessing to the travelling public.

The chief desire of a good many citizens is not to be elected to the City Council, but how to avoid being forced into it.

Every female voter ought to vote for the abolition of the ward system so that the mayor and aldermen may get home to their families at a reasonable hour.

For the first time in the history of St. Boniface, Manitoba, an English-speaking gentleman was elected Mayor, J. Berry defeating Dr. Lachance by 121.

There has been nothing to approach the enthusiasm with which Hon. Santa Claus will be welcomed by this country since Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson came back from Washington.—Mail and Empire.

There is to be a "house-cleaning" in the civil service at Ottawa and certainly not before time. The personnel of the commission who have been appointed for the purpose leaves no room for doubt that the necessary work will be done in a thorough manner.

Two men were arrested at Havelock on the charge of stealing fowl. They will probably urge in mitigation the outrageously high price of the article, which placed the "bird of Christmas" beyond their power of purchase, but not beyond their reach.

Mr. Champ Clark announces that Joan of Arc was the greatest woman that ever lived. Then why didn't Champ marry her and have all the greatness in one family?—News.

Would it not be well for The News to find Joan's whereabouts and then send Champ after her?

Joseph Desjardines was sent to the penitentiary for thirty months for a series of burglaries in the village of Saint Elzear, where he was known as "God's good man" because he gave away everything he stole. Scores of men and women were in the court to testify that he was a philanthropist. —A modern Robin Hood.

> The Toronto Star still pretends to believe that the majority of Canadians were idiots in voting against reciprocity.—News.

The Star is evidently of the same stripe of lunatic as he who declared himself to be the only sane man in the world. Let The Star enjoy its hallucination; it will hurt no one.

There is not let-up in the work of devising weapons of the highest attainable destructive power. Krupp, the famous German manufacturer of war material, is reported to be constructing a 38-centimetre gun, which will be the biggest piece of artillery ever constructed. The length of the gun, it is said, will be 20 metres, and the projectile it will carry will weigh 390 kilograms (858 pounds.)

Egypt, which is a British protectorate, has taken possession of the eastern part of Tripoli, with the apparent consent of Turkey. It happens that this portion of Tripoli has the best naval harbor in the country. It is not to be expected that the Italian government will appreciate this. It may also be recalled that one Kitchener is managing things in Egypt at the present time.—Ottawa Citizen.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier praised the commercial travellers in his speech to them in Montreal. Sir Wilfrid is wise in his day and generation. There is no class of citizens in the community whose friendship and political influence are more to be desired than those of the commercial travellers. Their business makes them well informed and gives them opportunities of putting in a word in season that is simply invaluable to the leader of a great political party.—Kingston Standard.

Mrs. Pankhurst, the Suffragist, says that Hon. Mr. Borden should not be allowed to lead a comfortable life. If the Canadian suffragists should so far forget themselves, which we are sure they will not, as to undertake to assault Canadian Cabinet Ministers, we would suggest that Col. Sherwood, commissioner of Dominion police, should be authorized to recruit a bodyguard of Amazonian police officers, whose special duty it would be to deal with militant suffragist demonstrators. There would be hairpins on the green then.—Ottawa Citizen.

DEFENCE SCHEME OF AUSTRLIA

Lieut.-Col. J. C. Reade, C. B., of the Australian forces, has been lecturing in Toronto, on the new defence scheme.

Col. Reade pointed out that in Australia every boy between the ages of 14 and 18, and every man between 18 and 26 was compelled to enroll for the purpose of national defence.

Though the Labor party was in power in the Commonwealth, and opposed to militarism, it was in favor of keeping the country a "white man's country," and for that reason had decided that a strong defence force was necessary.

Australia already, is training 88,000 boys between the ages of 14, and 18 as cadets. At the age of 26 a man was not allowed to remain in training, a mistake Col. Reade thought.

In Switzerland, Col. Merritt said the expendiutre per capita of militia was $17.50 against $119.60 in Canada. As a result of this expenditure the total war strength available in Switzerland was 467,763, whereas the establishment of the Canadian militia was only 57,694, with only 44,000 of this number trained last year.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

I smiled with quiet satisfaction, for I knew that Burke was—as we specify it in police parlance—"coming through."

After a while he quieted, and at last stood panting in the corner farthest away from me. I pointed to the chair.

"Sit down," I said, precisely as if he hadn't tried his best to murder me but a minute before.

He moved slowly—fearfully—toward the chair, and sank into it. His head was dropped forward, his shoulders were bowed, and the fingers were no longer restless. All the man's defences were at last down.

"Now, then, Burke," I went on calmly, "I suppose we are ready to get down to business?"

He muttered inaudibly, without raising his head.

"What's that?"—sharply.

"You devil!" he whispered.

"Yes, yes, I know. I've heard that from you before. I don't care to hear it again." I advanced and stood threateningly over him.

"Look at me," I sternly commanded.

Slowly he raised his head until his eyes met mine. The pallid mask was pinched, and it wore a look of torment.

"Once for all, Burke, are you going to speak?" I suppose the quietness with which I uttered it was ominous to the wretch. "Or will I be obliged to drag you to that cell of which I spoke?"

With a quick gesture, he outspread his arms.

"Enough, Swift, enough!" he cried, in a hoarse, distressed voice. "I know when I'm beaten; I'll give up. What do you want?"

"Good," without alteration of tone or manner. "Let's go to a pleasanter place." And we went into the Captain's private room, where a stenographer sat concealed by a screen.

Burke dropped into a chair. I thrust my hands into my coat pockets, and as I slowly paced to and fro, addressed him.

"I'll tell my story. When I'm wrong you may correct me. See that you do it, too, because you won't know when I'm testing you or when I am really ignorant of the facts. You see how much I trust you, Mr. Burke.

"To begin at the beginning, your first treacherous act toward your employer was when you determined to steal the Paternoster ruby, and started in to hunt for it. You had your work all cut out for you, too, Burke; Felix Page was no fool; he wouldn't trust the safekeeping of so valuable an object even to his confidential clerk, nor could that clerk search for it with impunity.

"You've been gifted with the same brand of patience, though, Burke, that keeps a cat glued to a rat-hole for hours upon end; you bided your time. And you never let an opportunity slip by you, either.

"Felix Page was in the habit of talking to himself—a trait not uncommon to people who live much to themselves—so you oiled the door-hinges in order that you might steal upon him undetected, from any part of the house, and listen to his self-communings. No wonder, when you talked with me, that you were fearful of the curtained alcove!

"But I'll be brief. By and by you learned of the hidden safe; then—still with infinite patience—you set about trying to discover its combination. You succeeded."

I halted abruptly in front of him.

"Burke, the opening of that safe door was a revelation; it offered new possibilities which must have overwhelmed you. What did you think when your eyes first fell upon those old love mementos from Clara Cooper to Felix Page? Don't look astonished so soon; wait till I'm done. I'll have no difficulty convincing you that my case against you is pretty complete.

"But your find was extremely aggravating, for you were afraid to make use of it. Without doubt, Alfred Fluette would give a pretty penny to get them from Felix Page. But you lacked sand to brave Page's wrath.

"Then what did you do?" I paused to eye him a moment. "Why, you went down to Merton and dug up all the old family skeletons. Now you were surer of your ground; you were ready to levy tribute—blackmail—not from Page, though, because he would have promptly kicked you out—but again your nerve failed you. That's where you have fallen down, Burke, [illegible] the way through. You carried a [illegible] or two to Fluette to prove your [illegible]; then, before their loss was discovered, you brought them back again, and replaced them in the safe. Oh, old man, in his lifetime, inspired a wholesome fear of him in your soul."

Then, circumstantially, I detailed as a statement of the case, my reconstruction of the tragic night, concluding with his hiding the ruby in the bar of soap. At this point I suddenly wheeled upon him, and asked pointblank:

"Tell me what you were doing in Mr. Page's bedroom Friday night, and what it was that surprised you there?"

He stared at me in amazement. He had been, whilst I was talking, slowly regaining his self-possession,—crawling into himself, as it were, and pulling down the blinds; and now, when he spoke, it was with something of his old manner.

"Swift, the biggest blunder was in underestimating your intelligence. I thought I could play hob with you; but I was a fool." His face gave me a certain impression of slyness, which I didn't at all like.

"Careful, now," I sharply warned.

He sat silent for a moment, then spoke.

"I'm not taking any more chances, Swift; don't worry. . . . What was I doing Friday night? I was hunting for the ruby."

"Look here," — impatiently, "I thought you had trifled enough."

He raised a protesting hand.

"Let me finish. Friday was the first time since Mr. Page's death that I have managed to shake off the man who has been following me. When I became convinced that I really had succeeded in doing so, I stayed under cover until nightfall; then—well, you yourself have said that I'm an opportunist. I didn't know the cake of soap had been removed from the bath room; when I discovered it was not there I supposed you had found the ruby's hiding place, and that you had concealed it elsewhere. I was trying to find it, when—when somebody came in."

"One of the Japanese," I supplied.

"They're not Japanese," he corrected, with a provoking air of superior knowledge. "They are Burmese."

"Whatever they are, you have been playing them and Fluette against each other. Burke, I suppose you can't help lying; it comes easier for you than telling the truth. You know that those fellows managed to steal the bar of soap—"

"While you were watching it," he interpolated.

"—and," I went on, ignoring the thrust, "they notified you and Fluette of the fact Friday morning."

"Yes," he said slowly, after a pause, "they told us they had secured the bar of soap."

"If that's so," I fixed him with a level look, "why did the intelligence floor you so?"

"You draw your conclusions so admirably that you ought to be able to supply the answer to that question yourself."

"I'm not here for that purpose,"—curtly. "Come, speak up."

He sat for a long while silent; then,—

"Well," said he, "it would come as a shock to any man to be bluntly told that he had just been deprived of a fortune. Mr. Fluette, confident that he was within a step of securing the stone, blamed me with being the cause of his disappointment."

The fellow's demeanor angered me beyond endurance.

ANOTHER SILVER MEDAL CONTEST

It was the First of the Season and was Pleasing to all Concerned

An excellent programme was given Thursday afternoon when another Silver Medal contest under the auspices of the "Y" was given at Pinnacle street school. There were eight contestants and every reciter did well and was a credit to their teacher and trainer, Miss McKay.

The following programme was much enjoyed by the trustees and visitors:

Chorus—"Hark the Bells," by the School.

Recitation—"A Temperance Boy," by Harold Cornell.

Recitation—"Tommy's Threat," by Benjamin Long.

Chorus—"Santa Claus," by Miss Steele's pupils.

Recitation—"Since Fathre Doesn't Drink," by Muriel Fredette

Recitation—"Dropped Stitches,' by Laurette Taylor.

Chorus—"Rocka Bye," by ten of Miss McKay's girls.

Recitation—"My Trumpt," by Harry McConnell.

Recitation—"How the Question Came Home," by Grace Sandford.

Chorus, by ten of Miss McKay's boys.

Recitation—"We're Killing Ten a Day," by Geo. DeLong.

Recitation—"My Dolly's New Dress," by Lillie Clapper.

Chorus "Santa's Little Helpers," by ten of Miss Steele's pupils.

After singing, they retired and Santa Claus came in with them, and they assisted him in passing bags of candy which he had in a big sack, to each scholar. This visit was a pleasant surprise.

The trustees were then called upon for short speeches and the following responded: Messrs. Hudson, Sharp, and Bailey. Mr. Clarke, the Inspector, also spoke briefly. Mr. Wm. Johnson was detained until too late to hear the splendid programme, but said he was glad to be in time to see Mr. Harold Cornell presented with the medal, which was given to him by Miss Selina Johnson, one of the "Y" workers. Miss Lily Capper deserved honorable mention as she was only 2-3 of a mark below the winner.

The whole programme of recitations and choruses showed what energy and perseverance will do. The indefatigable efforts of Miss McKay and Miss Steele in the training of their pupils certainly placed this last contest among the best. The "Y's" hope this first contest of this season will be a forerunner of good things to come and that the other contests will be equally good. The singing of God Save the King brought an enjoyable afternoon to a close.

Hydro-Electric Progress

Under the above heading the Toronto Mail-Empire refers to power development in this district. The negotiations at Ottawa between representatives of the Hydro-Electric Commission and the Otonabee Power Company, of Peterborough, for the acquiring by the commission of the company's generating plant and distributing system, is another step toward the introduction of a public power service into the Trent Valley. Since the change of Government at Ottawa every encouragement has been given the commission to extend its system by the utilization of power sites that had been held to be under Federal jurisdiction, and there will be no delay in the implementing of Sir James Whitney's pre-election promise to give Central and Eastern Ontario cheap hydro-electric power.

Two dams on the Trent waterway system have already been leased by the Dominion Government to the commission. These are No. 4, about five miles north of Peterborough, and No. 8, about 25 miles southeasterly. No. 4 has a generative capacity, under its own head, of about 1,100 horse-power; and No. 8 a capacity of 6,000 horse-power. These two heads, however, are alone capable of yielding the quantity of power the commission wants. Not only have municipalities in the Peterborough and Lakefield district to be provided for, but hydro-electric power has been promised to the lake shore municipalities. The commission wants dam No. 5, owned and developed by the Otonabee Company, to combine with No. 4 and thus add 3,000 horse-power to the public battery. Dam No. 5 is wanted particularly, because while Nos. 4 and 5 can singly develop only 1,100 or 1,200 horse-power, combined under one head they can develop 4,000 horse-power. The Otonabee Company sought No. 4 for some years, intending to combine the two heads, but was blocked by the City of Peterborough. The Otonabee Company, which was for years an independent competing company in Peterborough, is now controlled by the Electric Power Company interests that have a virtual monopoly of water power in the Trent district.

If the commission secures dam No. 5 the power from the combined development will probably be held for Peterborough and Lakefield. Dam No. 8, being below Rice Lake, and a larger dam, may be used to serve the more southerly municipalities. However, the expressed intention of the commission is to acquire other dams, enlarging its battery at every opportunity, until eventually there are units with an aggregate capacity of nearly 20,000 horse-power, which is considered ample to meet the needs of the district for years, especially as there are few large municipalities in it.

No More War

Mr. David Starr Jordan, in an address in Buffalo, declared that he was willing to stake his reputation as a prophet in making the prediction that there can never be war among the great nations of the world.

The noted educator from California gave the reason for his prophecy. "The war debt of Europe to-day is enormous," he said. "A group of the world's greatest bankers are the creditors. These bankers control the nations. Their interests are intertwined with those of the nations. They will not permit the nations to go to war because present day war is so costly and their interests will be threatened."

According to Dr. Jordan, Italy's case is an exception. "When Italy discovered it was unable to borrow money," he said, "it offered collateral, and went out after the collateral. I have been told this by an inside source."

The biggest cost of war, he declares, is not paid for in the war time, the bills come later. There is the destruction of the virility, the force and the character of the nation," he declared. "There is the killing off of the strong and the necessary breeding from what remains—the weak. This is what has dragged down various nations of the world. Three millions and seventy thousand men—this is the estimate—fell in Napoleon's campaigns. No wonder the life of Europe is impoverished. To get rid of slavery it cost up 650,000 lives. And this number, almost a million on the North and South, was the best the nation could bring. The gaps they left are filled to all appearances. But the men that died in 'the war time' had better stuff in them than the father of the average man to-day."

As usual, the convicts in the Portsmouth Penitentiary will have a change of prison fare on Christmas Day. Their menu will consist of roast pork, plum pudding, and currant bread, but no tobacco will be allowed them. Each prisoner will have to partake of his dinner in solitude. No meals will be served in the large dining room on that day.

A prominent member of one of the large wholesale dry goods houses of Montreal who has just [illegible] from a trip to the Pacific Coast including Vancouver and San Francisco, writes the Grand Trunk as follows:

"On our tirp to the Pacific Coast and return we travelled over ten different railways, making use of the dining car service on each, and would like to let you know that we did not find in any case that the service on the dining cars of other lines was superior to the Grand Trunk Railway, and in many cases it was very inferior. I take this opportunity of informing you as to what we think of the service you are giving on our great Canadian Railway."

UNION BANK MOVES ITS HEAD OFFICE

Past Year Best in Banks History

The 47th annual report of the Union Bank of Canada, held in the office of the bank in Quebec on December 18, revealed a most satisfactory condition of affairs. The net profits for the year, after making the usual deductions for bad and doubtful debts, etc., amounted to $662,437, as compared with $451,629 for the previous year. The earnings were at the rate of 14% on the bank's average paid up capital. The premium on new stock issued during the year amounted to $457,000, while the balance at credit of account November 30th, 1910, amounted to $80,000. This made a total of $1,119,983 available for distribution. Of this quarterly dividends at the rate of 2% absorbed $361,000, the sum of $200,000 was transferred to the rest account, as well as $457,000 transferred to the same account from premium on new stock, making a total transferred to the rest account of $657,000. The sum of $100,000 was written off bank premises account. Officers' pension fund received $10,000, while the balance of profits carried forward amounted to $71,975.

That the bank is making rapid progress is shown by a comparison with the figures of the previous year. The note circulation has increased by nearly $1,300,000, total deposits by over $7,800,000, paid up capital by $914,000, and the rest account by nearly $600,000. The total assets of the bank now stand at $58,434,000, as compared with $46,555,000 for the previous year.

During the year the bank took two or three forward steps. Early in the year it absorbed the United Empire Bank of Toronto, thereby increasing its assets and the number of its branches. Later in the year it established an office in London, England.

It also decided to move its head office from Quebec to Winnipeg in order to take fuller advantage of the western business. The bank has 156 branches west of the Great Lakes, and 76 in Ontario out of its 242 branches, so that its decision to locate the head office in Winnipeg is a natural one.

Altogether the showing made by the bank calls for the warmest congratulations to the President, Directors and General Manager.

When a man is thirsty he is sure to admire another man who says the right thing at the right time.

SEEKING FOR GOLD IN THE WILDS OF LONELY LABRADOR

OTTAWA, Dec. 21.—Mrs. J. M. Childerhose of this city received yesterday a letter from her brother, Mr. Frank W. Porter, who is one of the members of the Ungava expedition which left Dane about a month ago. The letter was posted from the last Hudson Bay post from which mail could be sent on the route of the gold seekers. The party have with them provisions sufficient to last for a year, but in case of emergency they have firearms and hope to augment their supplies with wild game they may be able to kill on the trail. The party is made up of eight experienced prospectors and explorers, several of whom have had experience in the Klondyke and who went into that country over the old Edmonton and White pass trail. The party is headed by Mr. Will Donaldson of Cobalt, also a Klondike miner and former manager of the City of Cobalt and Wyando mines at Cobalt.

Among old bushmen the trip is looked upon as an extremely hazardous one. The party will go over and into territory unexplored and supposedly untrodden by white men. This particular territory is almost totally uninhabited except by a few roving tribes of Eskimos who give the white man a wide berth.

The letter was brought to the nearest post office by a party of Indian fur traders and was written on Dec 2. All members of the party were well, the letter stated, and the party was to leave the post that afternoon to continue their way to the wilderness. With the Indians at the post the coming of the party was a big event. The members of the expedition are each equipped with fur-lined suits with capuchin coats, sealskin boots and leggings, etc., and are fully prepared for the hardships they will have to endure.

A Cobalt correspondent sends the following dsepatch:

It now transpires that the Donaldson party which two weeks ago undertook the despatch trip to, as it was then reported, Labardor, was forced to go overland to forestall two Unitted States boats that are outfitting for a trip now in Boston and New York. Until this was discovered John Black and his eastern townships associates were content to proceed to the placer ground by boat also, but when they learned that news of their movements had leaked out, they determined to be the first in the field at all hazards, hence their despreate trip. Three years ago the Roy brothers, French-Canadians of Montreal, were fishing and trapping on the northeastern shores of Hudson Bay. They at that time panned in two pie plates in one afternoon, twenty-three ounces of gold.

It is this placer field that they are going back to stake. One of the Roys went north with Billy Donaldson on the overland trip. The other will go up with the ship in the spring. The trip that Donaldson and his eight men are now engaged in is in the vicinity of 900 miles long. If they striks for the east coast of Hudson Bay, the last point at which they rest is the Hudson Bay post of Prince Rupert, but that is hardly likely. The party learned of an old fur trail that led from a point east of Dane on the Tesnory to the north coast of Hudson Bay, and it is this that they will follow for 800 or 900 miles. They are well equipped for the task. They took with them 40 dogs, over the usual complement for such an expedition, and these they will gradually "cull" out as they go along and feed to the survivors. They have altogether seven tons of provisions carefully selected by men who know to the last shoepack string just what they want. They have also with them three canoes. Donaldson was so solicitous for the comfort of his men that he came back almost a hundred miles to get some supplies that they might want, and that he found they had not.

It is curious to learn in this connection that the old stone huts built by Sir Martin Frobisher on Hall's inland, Frobisher's Bay, have been re-discovered. They were never occupied, because the English miners that Sir Martin took there in 1579 refused to stay, and after he had loaded 150 tons of ore into his ship he returned to England. Accounts disagree as to whether the expedition was remunerative. At the point where they are going to operate, which may be north of Hudson strait, the Donaldson party will remain until the ship which is being outfitted reaches them in the spring.

Some seeds have been taken north to plant in a prospective garden. The men in the enterprise have signed on for a year at a good wage per day and substantial interest in what they stake. It would be the height of madness for any single prospector to endeavor to trail the party in overland, as in many respects it would be much more arduous than the Klondike, but there is little doubt that there will be several outfits breaking ice into the desired land in the spring. The fact that men who made the find have gone back themselves and that such extensive and expensive preparations have been made to reach reputed placer fields by those who know the details of the find, lend credence to the story of the richness of the field.

What a saving it would be if the women would wear wrappers that come around soap.

Laziness inspires many a man to seek a political job.

JEALOUS WOMAN KILLS HUSBAND

Angry Wife Shot Him When She Saw Him Dining With Friends.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 20.—Shot by his wife as he sat at supper in a grill room with a party of friends late last night, Homer V. Trout, a cattleman well known in Texas, died this afternoon.

Mrs. Trout entered the dining room and catching sight of her husband glided up to his table unnoticed. "Now I've got you," attracted the supper party's attention. Mrs. Julie Saylard, one of Trout's guests, leaped to her feet and confronted the angered wife.

Mrs. Trout evaded this interference and drawing a revolver from her muff, shot her husband. The bullet pierced her husband.

CAMORRIST TRIAL IS A TEDIOUS AFFAIR

VITERBO, Italy, Dec. 20.—Although the trial of the Camorrists is dragging somewhat owing to public indifference on account of the war, it is the intention of the Ministers to push the hearing through to the end. The taking of evidence in the hearing, which has been going on since early last March, has been hampered by the clashes which have been occurring daily betw[illegible] the witnesses and the prisoners, a[illegible]ometimes between the opposing c[illegible]. The jurors have made no request for the discontinuance of the trial, as has been reported, but they say they will be greatly relieved when it is over.

G. H. BALFOUR,
General Manager.

During the past year twenty-four branches and agencies of the Bank have been opened in the following provinces: New Brunswick, 1; Quebec, 2; Ontario, 9; Saskatchewan, 5; Alberta, 2; British Columbia, 4; England, 1.

Two branches in Alberta and one branch in Ontario, which proved unproductive, have been closed. The total number of branches is now 242.

During the year the capital of the Bank has been increased from $4,000,000 to $4,914,120. The premium arising from the disposal of new stock has been credited to the Rest Account.

The customary inspections of the head office and of all branches and agencies of the Bank have been made.

Quebec, December 18, 1911.

JOHN SHARPLES,
President.

Before moving the adoption of the report, the President addressed the Meeting, giving the Shareholders further particulars as to the increase of paid up capital by $914,120. Increase in number of Shareholders by 415, making a total of over 2,675. Mentioning specially the absorption of the United Empire Bank of Canada on April 1, which added twenty branches in the richest portion of Ontario, where this Bank was previously unrepresented. He also spoke in regard to the proposed removal of the head office from Quebec to Winnipeg, as recommended by the Directors, after considering the matter for two years, and which was to be voted on by the Shareholders later. Mr. Sharples, commenting on the hearty support which he had at all times received from the Board of Directors and the Executive Officers of the Bank, stated that the condition of his health would not permit of his continuing to discharge the important duties of President of the Bank after its removal to Winnipeg.

Another important event had been the opening of a branch in London, England, which was undertaken after the most careful consideration of the Board, and the personal visit to London by the General Manager and the Assistant General Manager, Mr. F. W. Ashe, formerly Eastern Superintendent, was appointed manager of this branch, and the results to date have exceeded expectations.

It was then moved by the Hon. John Sharples, and seconded by Mr. William Price, that the Report of the Directors, now read, be adopted and printed for distribution among the Shareholders.—Carried.

The General Manager addressed the meeting, referring particularly to the figures as shown by the Balance Sheet, and giving additional details as to the policy of the Bank in various matters of interest to the Shareholders, mentioning in particular the opening of twenty-four additional branches during the year, making a total of 242, as follows:—

New Brunswick	1
Nova Scotia	1
Ontario	76
Quebec	7
Manitoba	39
Saskatchewan	67
Alberta	39
British Columbia	11
London, England	1

Mr. Balfour expressed his regret at the decision of the Hon. John Sharples to retire from his duties as President at a future date, and said that he was voicing the feeling of the Directors, Shareholders and Officials in expressing the hope that he would long be spared to exert that keen interest in the Institution which he has displayed during the past seventeen years as Director, Vice-President and President of the Bank.

After the adoption of the Report, Mr. R. T. Riley, in a short address, stated that it was the wish of the Directors that when Mr. Sharples finds it necessary to retire from the Presidency of the Bank that he be tendered the position of Honorary President. He also spoke specially in reference to the Western Division, in which there are now 155 Branches with a staff of 755.

Mr. Samuel Barker, M.P., of Hamilton, also addressed the meeting, congratulating the Shareholders on the Report presented to the meeting, thanking the President and Directors, the General Manager and other officers of the Bank for their efforts on its behalf, and expressing his approval of the proposed removal of the Head Office to Winnipeg.

At the request of the President, the Secretary then read the draft bill, now before the House of Commons, for the purpose of amending the Bank's charter, and moving the Head Office of the Bank from Quebec to Winnipeg.

It was then moved by Mr. William Price, seconded by Col. J. F. Turnbull, and unanimously resolved that the action of the Directors in applying for the foregoing amendment to the Bank's charter be and hereby is approved.

Moved by Mr. R. T. Riley, seconded by Mr. E. E. A. DuVernet: "That the Meeting now proceed to the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and that the ballot box for the receipt of votes be kept open until a quarter past four o'clock, or until five minutes have elapsed without a vote being offered, during which time proceedings be suspended. Carried.

The Scrutineers appointed at the Meeting reported the following gentlemen duly elected as Directors for the ensuing year: Hon. John Sharples, Messrs. Wm. Price, E. J. Hale, Wm. Shaw, George H. Thompson, R. T. Riley, E. L. Drewry, W. R. Allan, F. E. Kenaston, John Galt, M. Bull, Samuel Barker, M.P.; E. E. A. DuVernet, K.C.; George P. Reid and Stephen Haas.

At a subsequent Meeting of the newly-elected Board the Hon. John Sharples was elected President, and Mr. Wm. Price, Vice-President.

WAS TOO FOND OF HORSES

Telesphore Bergeron Stole No Less Than Five Horses in One Week.

MONTREAL, Dec. 31.— A great lover of horseflesh is Telesphore Bergeron and the means that he has employed lately to satisfy his passion have been anything but commendable. Telesphore, however, soon gets tired of one 'nag' and during the last week got rid of no less than four horses. He was in the act of getting rid of the fifth when he was apprehended.

On the 12th of December, he unceremoniously jumped into the buggy of Louis Raicot, notary, of Boucherville, and drove away. On the 11th he sold it but on the next day he succeeded in obtaining another outfit without spending any of the profits of his first sale.

The horse and wagon of Mr. J. H. Swift, of 2009 Waverley street, valued at $250, was the one he secured, but he palmed it off on somebody else and visited the Eatna Biscuit Company on the 18th, where one of the turnouts took his fancy and he phomptly appropriated it.

Other owners who received their property back did not wish to prosecute the lad, ho is under 20 years of age, as he pleaded guilty to the first three charges before Judge Leet yesterday.

He will come up for preliminary enquiry on the 3rd of January next.

PRINCESSES WILL CONTINUE VOYAGE

Embark on the Macedonia for Egypt To-day—Storms Continue.

GIBRALTAR, Dec. 20.—The Peninsula and Oriental steamer, Macedonia from London to Bombay, is expected to arrive here to-day. A wireless message was received from the Macedonia late last night stating that she had been delayed by a series of storms. Some uneasiness has been felt on account of her non-arrival, and the wireless stations both here and at Cadiz made several unsuccessful attempts during the day to get into communiaction with the steamer.

The Princess Royal, the Duke of Fife and their family, who were passengers on the steamer Delhi which was wrecked off Cape Spartel last week and who have been awaiting the arrival of the Macedonia will continue their voyage aboard the vessel.

BANK AMALGAMATION

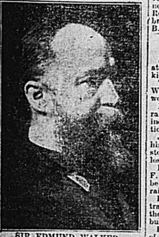
Commerce Absorbs the Eastern Townships Interests.

By Absorption, Which Has Been Foreshadowed For Some Time, Ontario Financial Institution Will Press Bank of Montreal Hard For First Place — New Paid-Up Capital Is Fifteen Millions.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—A despatch from Montreal, announcing the amalgamation of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the Eastern Townships Bank, does not come as a great surprise to the local financial world, as the sharp advance in the market quotations of each bank within the past few days foreshadowed important developments. However, realization of expectations is causing more than a mere flutter, for the import of the news is that the biggest banking merger known to Canada has been effected. Moreover, the Bank of Commerce promises to press the Bank of Montreal hard for the distinction of being the biggest banking institution in the country.

At Montreal yesterday the directors of the Eastern Townships Bank ratified the terms of the agreement for the amalgamation, and the plans will be presented at a meeting of the shareholders shortly.

The united banks will operate under the title, "The Canadian Bank of Commerce, with which is incorporated the Eastern Townships Bank." The new bank's paid-up capital is $15,000,000. The reserve is $12,000,000; the aggregate assets are in excess of $210,000,000.



SIR EDMUND WALKER.

The basis of exchange is two $50 shares of Commerce stock for one $100 share of Eastern Townships.

The new bank's headquarters will be in Toronto. All the existing offices will be maintained.

Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Bank of Commerce, stated last night that the agreement had been pending for some time. The Eastern Townships Bank, he said, was strongly intrenched in the English-speaking parts of Quebe and in Nova Scotia, and the amalgamation was made for geographical reasons and not to eliminate competition.

When asked if the merger would have one significance to Toronto in the way of a new head office building, or a more extensive banking facility, Sir Edmund replied that it would not.

The Bank of Commerce, previous to the amalgamation, had a paid-up capital of $11,000,000, which figure is exceeded by the Bank of Montreal by nearly $4,000,000. The Bank of Commerce, however, has considerably more branches in Canada than its rival. The last statements give the Bank of Montreal 141 branches, and the Bank of Commerce 239.

The amalgamation will mean an aggregate of over $132,000,000 of deposits. This, however, is little below the deposits of around $170,000,000 which the Bank of Montreal can claim.

The news has been well concealed until the last few days, when rumors began to get about which forced a speedy decision of the directors. The climax came yesterday morning, when in consequence of the stories of the merger, which were floating around, Eastern Township stock took a jump on the local exchange of seventeen points, going up to 210.

The terms of amalgamation provide for the retention of all the Eastern Township and Commerce offices now in existence, and since the Eastern Townships Bank has a wide connection in the Maritime Provinces, while the Bank of Commerce branches cover the whole of the west to the Pacific coast and the Yukon, it will be seen that the amalgamation gives the new financial institution a very wide range.

The staff of both banks will be retained in full, and the Eastern Townships employes will be allowed to share the advantages offered by the Commerce pension scheme.

The new bank will have a total of some 330 branches, and will also have direct representation in London, New York, San Francisco and Mexico City.

One of the most important features of the amalgamation is in the arrangement of the directorate. The Eastern Townships directorate is retained as an advisory board, while a certain number of the directors will be placed as full directors on the new board to represent the Eastern Townships shareholders.

The directors of the amalgamated corporation are as follows:

Eastern Townships: William Farwell, president, Sherbrooke; S. H. C. Miner, vice-president, Granby; Gardner Stevens, Waterloo; C. H. Kathan, Rock Island; J. S. Mitchell, Sherbrooke; A. C. Flumervelt, Victoria, B.C.; O. A. Robertson, Minneapolis,

REFUSES A REPUBLIC

Yuan Shi Kai Pledges Himself to the Monarchy.

Britain Is Behind Him, Not With a View to Balking Chinese In Securing Their Rights, But to Get a Practical Solution of the Present Problem—Powers Are Believed to Be Enlisted.

Pekin, Dec. 22.—Premier Yuan Shi Kai yesterday gave his answer to those who are aiming to transform China into a republic. In an official statement, he declared, without qualification, that he refused to accept a republic.

At the Shanghai peace conference Wednesday, Wu Ting Fang, Foreign Minister in the revolutionary provisional cabinet, spoke strongly in favor of a republic and later Tang Shao Yi said that he was convinced that the abdication of the Emperor and the establishment of a republic was the only thing that would satisfy the people. At the same time he expressed doubts whether it would be possible to persuade Yuan Shi Kai to abandon his plan for a limited monarchy.

It is believed here that Yuan Shi Kai means what he says and will uphold the monarchy. A new situation has arisen. Great Britain, which has been supporting the Premier's monarchial program for several weeks, is now strengthened by the Japanese and is endeavoring to obtain the support of the United States and other countries. Great Britain believes that the action of the dependencies, Manchuria, Mongolia and Thibet, and the serious internal troubles of China would result far from the establishment of a republic, whereas the republicans have already obtained in a material way everything they desired. Only the name of the monarchy is left.

It is stated that the American group, if not the American State Department, already supports the British idea and are ready with two, if not three of the others of the "four nation group" of financiers, to lend Yuan Shi Kai's Government money. Negotiations to this end have been proceeding for some days.

It was on Great Britain's initiative that the six powers urged the Shanghai peace conference to reach an agreement. Now Great Britain is endeavoring to persuade the rebels of the necessity to settle the revolution and come to terms.

It is pointed out that British interference is not directed against China's interests, but against the sentimental idea in such cases where the practical interests of the entire nation are being jeopardized. The extension of the armistice for ten days to which the revolutionists have agreed, has given some hope, but unless the revolutionists accept Premier Yuan's offer the only alternative is continuation of the conflict, with possible division of the country, the dependencies rallying around the northern empire.

The Premier has sent 3,000 troops to Chinwangtao, on the coast of Chihli, with the object of preventing republican troops from assembling in the north. Precautions are also being taken below Tientsin.

The revolutionary leader here positively assert that if Yuan Shi Kai persists in his refusal to accept a republic, the powers giving him their support would be regarded as the enemies of China and the lives of all foreigners in China would be jeopardized.

It is generally believed among the revolutionists that Great Britain is supporting the monarchy solely because of the dangerous example which would be set for India, should China become a republic.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the reform leader, is due to arrive here in a few days and it is believed that he will assume the leadership of the south. Large reinforcements of well-armed and well-trained troops are arriving from Canton.

Serious Freight Wreck.

North Bay, Dec. 22.—A serious freight wreck occurred last night about seven o'clock on the C.P.R., 30 miles west of Pembroke. Two freight trains, which left North Bay about noon yesterday, eastbound, came together in a rear-end collision near Bass Lake. The leading train had stopped at the foot of a grade, and in the early evening darkness and by some mistake in flagging, the second train thundered down the grade and crashed into the standing train, wrecking the caboose and demolishing ten cars and the locomotive of the second train.

Engineer William Packer of North Bay was badly injured and Fireman Mackay of Chalk River is reported so seriously hurt that he may not live.

Used Axe Wilfully.

London, Dec. 22.—The coroner's jury, inquiring into the death of Frederick Culver, who died as the result of a wound in his leg, inflicted near a roadhouse, by Dan Reynolds, last night returned a verdict that he had come to his death, by bleeding, from a wound in his left leg, inflicted by a blow from an axe, in the hands of Daniel Reynolds. They also believed that the wound was wilfully inflicted.

A sixteen-year-old son of the prisoner testified that he was drunk at the time and remembered nothing that happened, adding that he had become intoxicated a number of times with his parent.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Argentine reports of perfect harvest weather laid a heavy hand to-day on wheat and indirectly on all the grains. Closing figures were at a net decline of 3-4c to 1 1-8c. Latest trading left corn 3-4c to 7-8c down, oats off 3-4c to 1c, and hog products varying from last night's level to 7 1-2c below.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅜d lower to ⅝d lower than yesterday, and corn ⅜d to ⅝d lower. Buenos Ayres wheat 1⅝c lower, and corn unchanged. Paris wheat ¼c to ⅝c lower, Antwerp 1¼c lower, Berlin ⅝c lower, and Buda Pest ½c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 21.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat was quieter today for export account. Cables were easier at a decline of ½d to 3d per quarter, and the markets were reported of a holiday character. The demand was fair and some sales were made. The local market for oats was weaker and prices declined ½c to 1c for Canadian western in sympathy with the weakness in the Winnipeg market. Malting barley is also much weaker and lower on account of the increased offerings and slow demand. Buckwheat is stronger, and prices have advanced under a fair demand for car lots. The export trade in flour was quiet, but a fair business is passing for local and outside account. Demand for bran and shorts is good. Cheese is quiet. A good trade is passing in butter and eggs at former prices.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 46½c to 47c; do., No. 3, 45c; extra No. 1 feed, 45½c to 46c; No. 2 local white, 46c; No. 3 local white, 45½c; No. 4 local white, 44½c.

McKenna Is Caustic.

London, Dec. 22.—Admiral Lord Charles Beresford's recent speeches, in which he made statements against the administration of Reginald McKenna, former First Lord of the Admiralty, in relation to the alleged unreadiness of the British navy during the Anglo-German crisis in regard to Morocco last summer, have drawn a pointed reply from Mr. McKenna.

In a letter written for publication, Mr. McKenna, who in October changed the portfolio of the navy for that of Secretary of the Home Department, says: "Lord Charles Beresford's speeches did not disturb me in the slightest. Nobody attaches any importance to what he says, and it is common knowledge that I refused to employ him and also refused to recommend him as admiral of the fleet."

AMUSEMENTS

THE COW AND THE MOON.

Manager James Malon, of Griffin's Theatre, states that Chas. A. Sellon will be seen here on Wed. Dec. 27 in his latest success, "The Cow and the Moon," a new musical extravaganza. Mr. Sellon's success with big fun shows, is well remembered in as much as their resulting popularity have placed him on the pinnacle of fame.

"The Cow and the Moon" tells a story, rapid in action, of Moon people who come to earth in search of a bride for the Man in the Moon, and the fun of course is the dominant factor. A large company is promised, including Ed. Gilmore, Janet Priest, Clarence Sterling, Wm. Gross, Walter Wilson and many more. There is also the chorus, and a big scenic production. The plan for the "Cow and the Moon" will be open at Doyle's drug store on Mon. Dec. 25th. Prices 25, 50, 75, $1.00, $1.50.

THERE WILL BE A CONTEST FOR BELLEVILLE'S MAYORALTY

Alderman Vermilyea and ex-Alderman Thomas are in the Field --Proceedings at the Nomination--A Sharp Contest in Prospect

Nomination of candidates for Mayor for 1912 took place in the Council Chamber at 10 o'clock this morning. It was expected that there would be no contest for Mayor, but Alderman Vermilyea was at the last moment pervailed upon to enter the field. The nominations were as follows:

Geo. I. Thomas, nominated by Mr. L. B. Cooper, seconded by Ald. Bogle.

Ald. A. G. Vermilyea, nominated by Mr. J. F. Wills, seconded by Mr. Henry Pringle.

At eleven o'clock nominations were closed and Ald. Chown was called to the chair, when brief addresses were given by the Mayoralty candidates and others.

Ald. Vermilyea stated that he had been before the electors of Belleville since 1905, and from that date to the present he had been a member of the Council. His record was before the citizens to judged. Since being in the Council he had always done what he could to advance the city's interests. Many of his friends thought it was his opportune time to be a candidate for Mayor. He would do all he could to be elected, and if elected as Mayor, he would do all he could for the city's advancement. He would in the future, as in the past, be a friend to his opponent, no matter who might be the victor. He asked for the votes of those present to elect him to the position of Mayor.

Ex-Alderman Thomas said that he was a candidate because his friends desired him to be. He had lived in the city for 53 years and his record when in the Council was before them. He had the best interests of the city at heart and would do all in his power to improve the city. If elected he would advocate the paving of Front street, and the placing of other streets in the city in the best possible condition for travel. He was in the hands of his friends.

Brief addresses were given by Ald. Bogle and others.

For Mayor

Geo. I. Thomas

RESPECTFULLLY REQUESTS THE VOTE AND INFLUENCE OF THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ON THE FOLLOWING PLATFORM.

If returned as Mayer of your city, I am in favor of:—

1st.—Better streets for Belleville.

2nd.—Public tenders for all contracts.

3rd.—An active Industrial Committee.

4th.—Economy in all matters pertaining to the city.

5th.—A fair day's pay for city officials.

6th.—Enforcement of the Liquor License Laws.

7th.—And all other good measures which may from time to time be brought before the Council.

As I cannot see all the electors personally, I trust that all those in favor of the above platform will give me their votes and influence on election day.

For Mayor

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the solicitation of a large number of the ratepayers, I have decided to come before you, asking your support for the position of Mayor for the year 1912.

For the past seven years I have faithfully served you as one of your representatives, and during that time I have filled most of the prominent chairmanships in the Council.

It will be impossible to see you all personally between now and election, but if my services have met with your approval, I trust you will give me your vote and influence.

Yours obedient servant,

A. G. VERMILYEA.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.09.

Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

SUN IS NOW AT FARTHEST SOUTH

December 22nd the Shortest Day —So Say all Competant Authorities

"No, this is really not the shortest day of the year. That honor falls upon the shoulders of to-morrow, December 22."

Thus said one of the astronomical men at the Observatory in Toronto, yesterday. Thus says also that conglomeration of knowledge, Chambers' Enclyclopedia. Daniel Webster, however, unabridged, speaks of the time of the sun passing the winter solstice as being "about" Dec. 21.

Most of us have followed Webster, and have been sure that this is really the best day in the year for a suffering invalid, a family who is enduring an unwelcome visitor or a man dodging bills.

The gas people say that they light up earlier on Dec. 21st than any other day. However, Dec. 22nd is really the shortest day, and the beginning of winter, and is called the winter solstice. The time falls 'about' Dec. 21; this has caused the popular belief.

The sun has been gradually travelling south over the torrid zone since crossing the equator in September, and by the 22nd of December has reached the farthest point south he can go, and stand vertical in the tropic or circle of Capricorn, which is the southern boundary of the torrid zone. Here the God of day remains stationary for a few days, and starts to retrace his progress. And soon the days grow longer and the nights shorter in these northern climes.

To-morrow while we are enjoying or defying the weather of the shortest day of the year, people of the southland will have warm June-like weather, for it is their longest day.

NOT MUCH CHANCE OF SNOW FALLING FOR CHRISTMAS

The Weather Man Holds Out but Little Hope of Any Coming Yet Awhile—We May Have Rain, or Even Some Slush

What color is our Christmas going to be this time—white, green, or black?

Everybody always looks for a white Christmas with plenty of fresh snow, good sleighing, hard sun, frost, and flashing sunshine. But only six times in the last sixty-five years has this ideal been realized in Toronto, according to the records of the Weather Man, which never lie. "Probabilities" and "records" are different.

The outlook for sleighing is discouraging this Christmas, said the Weather Man in Toronto yesterday. It is raining in south western Ontario and the upper lakes now. We are to have occasional sleet or rain this evening or to-morrow morning. I won't say what is to be after that. Several complications of weather are mixing, and I don't know which one will be chosen for Toronto yet.

They have lots of snow on the north shore of Lake Superior, if any enthusiasts are really looking for snow. There's about 30 inches of it up there. There is little of it in Porcupine. Sleighing is moderately god in Montreal and Quebec. In the west they are enjoying nice, hard freezing weathre, not too extreme.

But the outlook is discouraging for Toronto, sighed the Weather Man who really regrets that he is not yet ready with his snow.

MILITARY DRILL FOR CHILDREN

Develops Moral Natures Better Than Teaching Says Inspector Hughes

Mr. James L. Hughes, Chief Inspector of Public Schools in Toronto, speaking at the Empire Club in that city, declared himself strongly in favor of military training for school children.

After 37 years' experience, he said he believed it was one of the most important departments of school work both from a national and an individual point of view.

As to the alleged development of "hatred to other nations," Mr. Hughes declared emphatically that such a spirit could not possibly be engendered by military training. As proof that such a contention was absurd, he pointed out that war is never caused by soldiers, but most often by politicians and newspapers.

"I would like," he said, "to see a system of military drill universally adopted in Public and High Schools, and a system of senior cadets (I would suggest calling them Strathconas,) for those who leave the Public Schools and do not go to the High Schools. The training should commence when they leave school, and be continued until they reach the age of 18 and are old enough to enter the militia regiments."

In addition to the militia, Mr. Hughes advocated a system of rotation training for every man between the ages of 18 and 45, taking, say, one-seventh of the men each year.

He expressed the conviction that it was an indication of a low moral ideal to hold or to inculcate that a man was not responsible for the defence of his country.

Turning to the individual side of the question, Mr. Hughes said his experience had taught him that the value of military drill was inestimable in defining the powers of the boys as individuals and in inculcating in them those characteristics which make the best kind of citizens.

"Boys like drill," he pointed out, "and that fact alone proves that it is adapted to their development. During the period of their adolescence their moral natures may be developed by drill more definitely than by any process of teaching. It develops them physically and gives them freedom and grace of step and a manly and dignified mearing, besides training them to be responsibly obedient.

"It defines also," Mr. Hughes contended, "a consciousness of the need of co-operation. The only way to communicate to children the true ideals of social unity and social relationship is by action, and words cannot compass it. The men who most commonly oppose drill in schools oppose a vital method of developing their own ideals.

"It develops a genuine patriotism, not an arrogant or offensive consciousness of national importance, but a genuine faith in himself and his country. When a boy wears his country's uniform, and follows his country's flag, and keeps step to the patriotic music of his country, he gets a real patriotic spirit in his heart and life. Such a spirit is one of the basic elements of a strong and balanced moral character.

"When a boy learns drill in his youth he is ready throughout life to take his place creditably in the ranks of a company or regiment. He cannot forget his drill. It is not something he memorizes, or he might forget it. He learns drill by doing, and so it is second nature to him.

"Drill makes boys executive, and executive training is the highest training; and the schools of the past have failed in defining executive power more than in any other way.

"The idea that drill will make a boy quarrelsome or antagonistic in his attitude toward other nations is entirely erroneous. Those who have had experience know that drill develops no such ideals in a boy's mind, or such tendencies in his character. It adds to his faith in himself and his country, but genuine faith is never bumptious.

"I sincerely hope," concluded Mr. Hughes, "that the boys of the whole Empire may be encouraged in every legitimate way to learn military drill for their own development, and to qualify themselves for their duty as citizens."

Can't Find Derelict.

TWO HUNDRED MAY BE DROWNED

Terrible Fatality in a Lancashire Mine from Bursting Dam

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 23.—The reservoir at the Cross Teley Mine, near Wigan, broke to-day and flooded all the workings. Of over two hundred men at work below the surface it is feared that few, if any, will escape.

HALF MILLION IDLE

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 23.—A melancholy Christmas is in store for London. It is estimated that half a million men are unemployed and thousands of families face eviction for failure to pay rent. The Salvation Army and church army will feed sixty thousand each on Christmas Day and the big newspapers have arranged for the distribution of food and clothing to thousands of unfortunates.

CLAIMS SIXTY MILLIONS

TORONTO, Dec. 23.—The claim of Harold Price Doon, a Jewish tailor in the "Ward" here, to a sixty million dollar estate in Russia isn't taken very seriously by the authorities here, who have packed him back to the insane asylum in New York from which he came.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

VANDALISM.

Mrs. Thos. Wragg, who resides on George Street, reports to the police that some time during last night three spruce bushes were cut out of a hedge which is upon her premises.

THE TIME LIMIT.

Candidates who have been nominated for the position of Aldermen will have to qualify before 9 o'clock this evening or their names will not appear upon the ballot paper.

BROUGHT THEM TO TIME.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bateman, of the Crystal Hotel, were made the recipients of a magnificent grandfather's clock by their employees. The woodwork is of quarteerd oak and the works are of the best material. To the presentation Mr. Bateman, on behalf of himself and Mrs. Bateman, returned their thanks.

FILED QUALIFICATION.

Up to the hour of two o'clock this afternoon the following Aldermanic candidates had filed with the City Clerk their qualifications:

Foster Ward—A. Robinson and F. M. Clarke.
Samson Ward—J. E. Parks.
Ketcheson Ward—None.
Baldwin Ward—W. S. Smith.
Bleecker Ward—W. Lott.
Coleman Ward—F. Slater, R. P. White and J. A. Roblin.
Murney Ward—B. A. Lucas and J. Canning.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Mr. David Kyle, an aged gentleman who resides on Lime Street, yesterday afternoon met with a painful accident. He was working upon a ladder which was placed against his residence, when the ladder slipped and he was thrown to the ground, falling a considerable distance. The result was he broke the wrist of his right hand and cut his chin to such an extent as to require stitches to be taken in the gash made. He was otherwise badly shaken up.

AT OCTAVIA STREET.

At Octavia Street School yesterday the pupils of Misses Gardner's, Nurse's and Thompson's rooms gave a programme consisting of recitations, songs, etc., which was most entertaining to many visitors who were present. Mr. W. P. Hudson, chairman of the Board of Education, and Mr. A. E. Bailey, who were present, gave appropriate addresse. The pupils of the school had collected a large quantity of eatables, etc., for the Children's Shelter and Home for the Friendless, which were taken to those institutions.

POLICEMEN BOXED.

Mr. J. Elliott, manager of the Standard Bank, remembered the members of the police force by presenting a cheque for $10 to be divided among the members of the force.

HUNGARIAN ARRESTED.

A Hungarian employed at Point Ann was this afternoon placed under arrest on a charge of stealing a new overcoat from a fellow employee. The accused contended that he found the article.

TO SHELTER HIM.

On Friday last at the closing exercises of the Cannifton Road School, the pupils presented their principal, Mr. C. F. Simpkin, with a silver mounted umbrella, suitably engraved.

DIED AT PRESTON.

Rev. W. J. Crothers, M.A., D.D., formerly pastor of Bridge St. Church, died at Preston yesterday from an affection of the heart. His many friends here will learn with much regret of his untimely death.

THEY WATCHED HIM.

Mr. H. Holland, the popular forman of the polishing and plating department at the Belleville Hardware Company's establishment, was most agreeably surprised yesterday afternoon. Mr. F. Barton read to him a complimentary address and, on behalf of the employees presented Mr. Holland with a handsome gold watch. The recipient, who was taken completely by surprise, in a few words tendered his heartfelt thanks for the gift.

A ONE-SIDED GAME.

At the Armories last night the indoor baseball match between the Marsh & Henthorn and the Cement Company teams was so much one-sided as to be uninteresting. The foundrymen at the commencement, took a decided lead, maintaining it to the end, the score at the close being 28 to 6 in favor of the Marsh & Henthorn players., J. Connell and Campbell were the battery for the winning team and M. Connell and J. Smith for the Cement Company. There were many spectators present to witness the match. Each team played eight men a side. Mr. A. P. Allen was umpire and Mr. H. Sharpe umpire on bases. The line-up of the teams were as follows:

Marsh & Henthorn—Smith, Brown, Gerow, J. Connell, Kelleher, Campbell, Hogan, Draycott.

Cement Co.—Dowrie, M. Connell, Thompson, C. Reddick, Croft, Ford, F. Reddick, J. Smith.

Ed. Gilmore and The Dancing Daisies in THE COW AND THE MOON at Griffin's Opera House, Wednesday, Dec. 27. Plan opens Monday.

THE SPIRIT WITHIN.

Some are an-hungered, some athirst,
Some are borne down with heavy woe,
Some are of sin and shame accursed,
But in the Eve-Star's heaven-glow
All are befriended. each has heard
Messages that bid him rejoice,
We are the ones that speak the word:
Brothre, my brother, it is His voice.

We go a-shudder to the door,
Sorrowing over all the want,
tion, and is the ladies' favorite. A
Into the hands by pain made gaunt
Nay, 'tis not ours that find the way
Into the dark and noisome street,
Bringing the cheer of Christmas day:
Brother, my brother, it is His feet.

Child-lips to laughter all alien-strange,
Show us a miracle in this while,
When over them there comes the change—
When for the once they know a smile.
Baubles we bring are jewels fair
Found in the distant wonderlands
Think you 'tis we who take them there?
Brother, my brother, it is His hands.

Pulsing to us through the centuries
Murmurs forever in one deep key:
"As ye have done it to one of these
So ye have done it unto Me."
Give as we can, and gladly, too—
Out of the soul does the implse start.
What is this throbbing in me and you?
Brother, my brother, it is His heart.

CURRENT COMMENT

A Colorado woman found a diamond in a turkey. Probably when she remembered what she paid for it, it wasn't such a bargain after all.

"Many are called, but few are chosen." In the case of the nominations which were made for aldermen, it will be a case of "many are called, but few will choose" to go to the polls.

King George and ex-President Roosevelt are both men of high degree and mighty hunters. So far the King appears to have had better success in killing dangerous animals in India than had Col. Roosevelt in Africa.

Aaron Kirschlieff, a ranch owner at Edmonton, Alberta, is spending his spare evenings engraving a prayer on a grain of wheat. There are 390 words in the prayer, and Kirschlieff expects to get them all on the grain of wheat. When the work is completed he will send the oddity to the Duke of Connaught.

This is as it should be: Communications are passing between the Canadian Government and the Britsh Admiralty, with respect to the form of naval assistance to the Mother Country. It is the desire of the Government that the case be well considered by the Admiralty before the visit to England of the Minister of Marine who will go to discuss the matter with the authorities in England.

Mr. George I. Thomas, in his remarks at the nomination meeting today, said: "If elected I will endeavor to have Front street paved, and roads made on those other streets where conditions are bad." The foregoing statement should please every business man, every man who drives a horse, and every automobile owner. Belleville wants good roads, and if Thomas will give them, he will certainly be known in future as "Good Roads Thomas."

Toronto, December 20.—This morning a statement of claim was filed at Osgoode Hall in the $50,000 suit against Hon. A. G. Mackay for the alienation of affections of W. J. Haines' wife. Haines is a commercial traveller of Toronto. It is but just to Mr. Mackay to say that he positively denies the truth of the charge and declares it to be a case of blackmail. If Mr. MacKay succeeds in proving this, the blackmailer should receive condign punishment. This blackmailing of public men has become too frequent.

There is nothing like whistling to keep up courage. The Halifax Chronicle (Grit) says: "The Liberals of Ontario have proved that the party is still alive and full of fight. They did not win, but they laid the foundation of future victory. Mr. Rowell, in all probability, will be Premier of Ontario at no distant date." Here is another: The Stratford Beacon is joyful. It says: "The darkest hour precedes the dawn. Let no Liberals who lament the loss of seats, be downcast. Let them play the man. The light has broken over them. The day of triumph is not distant. They have but to put their trust in themselves and their leaders, keep their powder dry and they will be sure to win."

The value of city property in Toronto has risen to a fabulous price. The corner of the north west intersection of King and Yonge streets, has just been sold to a large Montreal investing company for $13,000 a foot. The sum paid was in the neighborhood of $800,000. There was a time when land in Toronto was unsaleable. Had it been during that time of depression confiscated by the city for non-payment of taxes, what a haul the City Treasurer and Mayor could have made, knowing that a boom in city property was in the air, by privately selling this corner fo ra song, to their wives, mothers-in law, and sons-in-law, and daughters, and a City Council and judge to declare no wrong had been committed.

The German press does not appear to have a very exalted opinion of President Taft and United States statesmen. The pan-Germna organ, Die Post, describes the action of President Taft with regard to the abrogation of the treaty with Russia regarding the Jews as a piece of political impudence unparalleled in the history of even shirt-sleeve diplomacy. It says that Mr. Taft is assuming the role of moral censor of the world in endeavoring to prescribe for Russia as to how she should manage her internal affairs. The article attributes Mr. Taft's action to a parvenu-like seeking after American self-importance, which it says, is the hallmark of American diplomacy, or else to an act of revenge for the treatment accordded to Mr. Shuster, the Persian Treasurer-General, by Russia in her demands upon Turkey. It concludes that Washington, the capital, is not Rome, and says that when America poses as Jove old Europe only smiles at the political manner of the land that is without culture.

BELLEVILLE CLUB NEWS NOTES

Personal and Other Happenings Told by the Chicago Club News

Miss Jessie Neilson, of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, is spending the Christmas season with her big brother, "Bob," of the Belleville Club.

"Cap" Robertson—you know "Cap"—well, "Cap" says, "Believe me," he says, "that dinner of the Belleville Club in January is going to be a dinner, believe me'" We does, Capting, we does!

Maurice Lynch, our special editor of "Old Time Events in Belleville," made his initial appearance as a "Minstrel Moke" in the big minstrel performance given by the Illinois Athletic Club on December 8 and 9. Maurice got his "gags" across in good shape and surprised his many friends in the audience by the easy manner in which he rendered his end song. He's a great little end man, all right!

Mrs. Alf. Gillen, of Belleville, is visiting her brother, Fred Foster, of the Belleville Club. Fred intends spending the Christmas holidays in the old home by the shores of the Quinte.

Miss Sarah Neilson, of Detroit, Mich., is spending the winter months on the Pacific slope at Venice, Cal.

Jack Hungerford, brother of H. B. Hungerford, of the Belleville Club, has been appointed assistant manager of the Quebec branch of the Bank of Montreal. Congratulations.

Dr. A. H. Tickell, of Nevada City, Cal., has been laid up for some time A severe cold developed into pneumonia, and he was removed to St. Francis' hospital, San Francisco. Latest advices give his condition as improving. The crisis has passed, and it is fully expected that he will be around again before very long. The "News" sincerely hopes his recovery will be rapid and permanent.

Mrs. William Robertson, mother of the president of the Belleville Club, is in Chicago visiting the president and his family.

"Billy" Johnson, eldest son of Mr. William Johnson, Inspector of Weights and Measures, has been in Belleville for some weeks recovering from a case of too much work. We know "Billy," and we know he is a hustler; but it won't do, Billy. You can't do it all this week, or if you do there will be nothing left for next week—and then what?

A Trenton man has been appointed station agent for the Canadian Northern at Belleville. Ah, say! that's rubbing it in!

Mr. Chas. J. Bowell, publisher of The Intelligencer, wil accompany Sir Mackenzie to Chicago in January. We'll be waiting and watching for thee, Charles!

With this issue the Belleville Club News rounds out its first year. It has been the aim of the projectors of this idea, because the "News" is an idea, to rekindle the flames of "long ago" in the hearts of all those it has been able to reach.

Its mission has been one of peace and fellowship. Its endeavor has been to cause momentary forgetfulness of the present, with its recurring worries and anxieties, by guiding its readers down the sunny slopes that lead to the past. Its object has been to bring to the minds of its circle the happy days of "Auld Lang Syne" when care was unknown and the earth and all upon it smiled with the joy of living, "when eyes that loved flashed love to eyes that loved in turn."

We sincerely hope that its aims and objects have been at least partly realized.

The gentlemen who have associated in this work have been unsparing in their efforts to make of this little journal a cheerful intruder. They have tried to instill in each article a little gleam of sunshine, in the hope that its genial warmth might penetrate to some spot momentarily closed to the sunlight.

The Belleville Club News wishes each of its readers and each Belleville man, woman and child, past and present, a bright, happy, healthful and prosperous New Year.—Belleville Club News, Chicago, Jan. 24.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

"Burke," I cried heatedly, "do you think you can make me believe that a man of Alfred Fluette's calibre would purchase the Paternoster ruby from you, knowing that it was not yours to sell? Bah!" I was filled with disgust.

"Ah, Swift, Swift," the rogue said, complacently wagging his head at me, "there are some things of which even you are ignorant.

"Here is one of them—listen: the Paternoster ruby was no more Felix Page's than it is yours or mine. It is the property of the King of Burmah; it was stolen from him years ago, and the Burmese nobleman who is at present in this country with his retinue—"

"Tshen-byo-yen," I said quietly, and had the satisfaction of beholding Mr. Burke favor me with a startled glance.

"Yes," he pursued, with considerably less assurance, "that's his name."

"And one of the 'retinue,' as you are pleased to call his gang of thugs, is that hideous, misshapen monster that shrieks like a ghoul. I suppose that he too was hunting for the ruby Friday night—after having stolen it the night before." My sarcasm failed to touch Burke. He shuddered, saying:

"The dwarf? He's a mute—Tshen's slave. Tongue's been torn out. And—truly—believe me; you may easily verify what I say—Tshen is the properly accredited representative of the King of Burma, invested with full power and authority to dispose of the stone. Does the fact that it was stolen from his royal master—that it has for some years been out of the king's possession—in any way lessen or invalidate his right to it? Surely you would not dispute that?"

"I don't propose debating the matter with you." And then I pointed out: "If his claim is good, there are the courts."

Burke's shoulders twitched in a tiny shrug.

"Who can fathom the Oriental mind?" said he, oracularly.

I swung on my heel squarely away from him; I had no more patience for such shuffling with words.

"You come with me," I said curtly; "I'll at least get you straight on the police docket—since you seem to prefer it to frankness."

He was out of his chair like a flash.

"No—no—no, Swift!" he implored. "I swear I'm telling the truth. Not that!—not that!" He hesitated a second.

"It wasn't the ruby that was in the bar of soap"—the words literally dragged themselves from his lips. "I thought it was. But it was only the paste imitation."

CHAPTER XXIV.

Confession

I stared at Burke in speechless amazement. The tremendous possibilities opened up by this revelation left me bewildered. But the wave of joy which suddenly swept over me was unmistakable.

"Then, how—" I began, and stopped.

If I could not understand, it was only too clear that Burke could not tell me what I wanted to know; for it was also [illegible] that he too was utterly at a [illegible] account for the circumstance. This, [illegible], had been the intelligence imparted by the Burman on Friday morning, which had so upset Fluette and Burke.

But, again, why in the first place should Burke have informed the Burmese of the supposed gem's hiding-place? And how could it have been the replica instead of the real stone? The whole thing was fraught with many perplexities; something here, which I could not seize upon, flaunted itself in obscurity, and if I wanted to learn more from Burke it would not do for him to discover how far I was at sea. Was it possible that he still fostered the hope of getting his fingers upon the real gem?

I was again surveying him with a cold, suspicious eye.

"Burke," I said, "just how did you come to put the gem—or the paste replica—in the soap?"

For a long time he sat contemplating his hand, first the back and then the palm, and then closing the fingers and scrutinizing the nails. Finally, with another shrug and a little gesture in which I read resignation, he said:

"I might as well tell it. As you say, I knew the jewel-box—and I honestly thought it contained the ruby—and the Clara Cooper letters were in the safe, and I never had an opportunity to take them till Tuesday night a week ago. The assurance that Page was going to Duluth that night, combined with the backing Tshen would give me, put me in a position where I could take the ruby and defy Page. I was so sure that Page was going to Duluth that night that I arranged a meeting between Fluette and the Burman at Page's house.

"For you surmised correctly when you declared that Fluette would not buy the ruby on the strength of my representations alone. The purpose of that meeting was to convince Fluette of the good faith of Tshen's claim to the stone, whereupon I was to procure it from the safe—the letters, too—and he was to pay over a certain sum of money for them."

"How much?" I bluntly demanded.

"Two hundred thousand dollars."

So this was the reason why Alfred Fluette must needs help himself to Genevieve's patrimony. That rapacious monster, the Wheat Pit, had exhausted all of his legitimate resources, and so mad was his obsession that he scrupled not to steal.

I entertained only hard feelings for him at that moment. He had not bought the ruby, however, and doubtless Genevieve's fortune was still intact.

"Go on," I commanded curtly. "What happened then?"

"Well, Maillot's arrival demoralized everything. Fluette was to come at ten o'clock, and Tshen at ten-thirty. I didn't know what to do. I had no way of getting them word at that time of night, and I soon realized that Page had given over the trip. I contrived, however, to smuggle all of them up to my room, without anybody being the wiser.

"I explained the state of affairs, and assured them that I would fulfil my part of the agreement as soon as Page and Maillot retired and the house grew quiet.

"Some time after eleven I heard Page and Maillot coming up-stairs. The light was out in my room, and, peering through the crack of my door, I watched Page bid Maillot good-night. The old man was holding a lighted candle in one hand and the small leather box in the other. I know it was the ruby he showed Maillot—".

Noted Painting Slashed.

Washington, Dec. 23—A vandal bent on destruction Thursday night cut a strip of canvas 30 inches long and three inches wide from the frame of "The Battle of Lake Erie," one of the largest and most valuable paintings that hangs in the Senate wing of the United States capitol. The painting was defaced near the left hand corner, thereby marring the water scene.

The mutilation of "The Battle of Lake Erie," which shows Commodore Perry transferring his flag at the crucial moment in the fight in Put-in-Bay, is regarded as the worst act of vandalism in the history of the Capitol. The strip was found close by upon the floor, and experts say that it can be repaired.

Malachi Rebuking and Encouraging Judah. Mal. iii:1-18; iv:1-7.

Golden Text—Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of hosts. Mal. iii:7.

(1) Verse 1.—Who is the "messenger" that is to come?

(2) In what respects does the history of John the Baptist show that he answered to this description by Malachi?

(3) How would you sum up in a few words, the character and work of John the Baptist?

(4) Verses 2-6—In what respects has Jesus been to mankind like a refiner's fire, and like fuller's soap?

(5) What effect has Jesus had upon the Jewish people as a whole?

(6) What has Christianity done for the moral and material progress of mankind?

(7) Verses 7-8—In how many ways have men gone away from God?

(8) What to-day are the chief sins of the organized Christian church?

(9) What are the reasons to believe that God still demands tithes and offerings from the people?

(10) Verse 9—If a man does not pay to God's cause at least ten per cent of his earnings, does God regard him as a robber? Give your reasons.

(11) What was the nature of the curse that rested on the people for robbing God of his tithes?

(12) Verse 10—What are the reasons for believing it is literally true that if we take care of God's house by paying into it 10 per cent of our earnings, God will bless us with material prosperity.

(13) What proportion of Christians in your church would you say are giving to God's cause not less than a tenth of their income?

(14) Make a rough estimate of the actual annual earnings of the members of your local church and say what a tithe of the whole would be, then substract the amount they actually give, aid say how much they are robbing God annually, if any. (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(15) Verses 11-12—If our whole nation were to voluntarily give to the church not less than ten per cent. of its earnings, what effect would that have upon the conversion of the world, and how would it affect our reputation with other nations?

(16) Verses 13-15—What is the culpability of the sin which denies that there is any profit in serving God?

(17) What is the profit of serving God?

(18) Verses 16-18— What are some of the many spiritual benefits of experience meetings?

Christmas Lesson.

Jesus Born in Bethlehem. Matt. ii:1-12.

Golden Text—Unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. Matt. ii: 11.

(1) Verses 1-2—Did God directly plan that Jesus should be born in a manger at Bethlehem? Why, or why not?

(2) How did the wise men from the East know of the place and birth of Jesus?

(3) Who were these wise men?

(4) What reason is there to suppose that God revealed himself in those days to the wise and devout men of other nations, as well as to those of the Jews?

(5) Who was this Herod, and how long had he been king of Judea?

(6) What does the lowly birth of Jesus signify to the world?

(7) What did it presage, that the wise men, philosophers, scholars, astronomers, of a Gentile country, were the first great men to greet the new born Saviour?

(8) God revealed the birth of Jesus to the shepherds by an angel and by a star to the wise men; would this indicate that the shepherds had the keener sense of the unseen? Why?

(9) Does God to-day reveal Himself to any, other than by natural methods? Give your reason.

(10) Verse 3—Why had God not advised the wise men, the prophets and priests of Jerusalem, of the birth of Jesus?

(11) Why were Herod and "all Jerusalem" troubled when they heard of the birth of Jesus?

(12) If the people are troubled when they stand in the presence of the supernatural or the unusual, is that any indication that their consciences are not right with God? Why?

(13) Verses 4-6—From what book did the scribes and priests quote? (See Mic. v:2 et seq.)

(14) What evidence is there that the prophet Micah had the birth of Jesus in mind, when he penned his prophecy as quoted by these priests and scribes?

(15) How much practical use do even the leaders in religious thought make of scripture prophecies, that are not yet fulfilled?

(16) Verses 7-8—What reason is there to think that bad men generally hide their fears and jealousies, when they seek to ruin the objects of their envy?

(17) What cases beside this can you cite where great wickedness has been concealed under a mask of great piety?

(18) Verses 9-12— Is there any reason to think that Joseph, before his relationship to Christ, ever had converse with angels?

(19) Does close relationship to Christ always give the ability to see and hear God? Give your reasons.

(20) May we always have warning from God of impending danger to us or ours? Why?

(21) How may we know when it is our duty to face danger, or to fly from it?

(22) If this holy family had to face such serious trouble, what does that indicate for the rest of us, and why is it?

(23) Is it absolutely safe for us to follow the leadings of God as Joseph did?

(24) When, and how did God recall this holy family from Egypt?

The Census

The last Census bulletin issued gives the total population of Canada at 7,192,338, a gain of 1,821,023 over the population of 1901.

The figures giving the population by males and females are not quite complete, the returns for the Yukon and for ten subdivisions in British Columbia and two subdivisions in Saskatchewan not yet being available.

With these eturns omitted, the figures by sexes are 3,805,350 males and 3, 376,937 females. Compared with the figures of 1901 this shows an increase of 1,054,642 in the male population, and 757,330 in the female population. The surplus of males has, therefore, increased by 297,312. The preponderance of males is especially noticeable in Western Canada. In Manitoba there are 44,523 more males than females. In Saskatchewan the surplus is 90,336, in Alberta 73,400, and in British Columbia 106,883.

The figures by constituencies show that the unit of representation, according to the population of Quebec, will be 30,852, and that Ontario will lose a portion of its representation in Parliament.

So far as Hastings is concerned it contains just about the units of population of 514, the sexes being 15,446 males and 15,388 females. We lation during the past decade of 2,949, the population being 13,085 males and 11,909 females. West Hastings also shows a falling off in population of 514, the sex being 15,446 males and 15,388 females. We have no desire to cast reflections upon the enumerators, but from what has come to light, we hesitate not to say that the most palpable negligence or stupidity characterized the taking of the census in this county, which is easily accounted for.

The counties likely to be affected in their representative capacity in Parliament are Antigonish, N.S., with 11,692; North Lanark, 14,629; North Middlesex, 13,737; West Northumberland, 12,965; Chateauguary, 13,322; Vaudreuill 11,039, and Yukon 10,051, alll being much below the unit of 30,000; while Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver will be entitled to an increase, they being in population far in excess of the unit.

All will watch with interest the next Redistribution Bill.

The Emigrant Come Back

Upon the text of the "Emigrant Come Back," Mr. Arthur Hawkes the recently appointed Special Immigration Commissioner for Canada, has written a remarkable article which will appear in the January issue of the "Nineteenth Century and After."

It is a complete study, set forth in simple and convincing manner, of the thesis that the returned emigrant is the best and most convincing proof of the worth of the land to which he emigrates.

Mr. Hawkes begins by showing us why the emigrant becomes so:—

> "You think you can judge John Emigrant as he boards the steamer by his antecedents—his record in his native parish. You can but only partially. If he is truthful, he will be truthful still. If he is frugal, he will be frugal still. If he is a never-do-well, he will be a never-do-well still. If he is self-respecting, he will be self-respecting still. If he thinks for himself, he will go on thinking. But he is going away because something within him, which he scarcely understands, and which you cannot see, tells him that he is a bigger man than his present environment will let him be."

Here is the type who, as Mr. Hawkes remarks, begins on the lowest rung of the ladder of self-reliance. Not that he is bad, not that he is shiftless, but that he does not know. "He goes away timid, he comes back unafraid."

And with his learning there breathes a new fire into his veins; forsaking the old grooves of atrophied and paralyzed potentialties, he emerges into a new atmosphere, where everything sings a sense of possession, a bigness, a glory in the promised land. "At once the impossible becomes the commonplace." At once there is a revolution. The impossible in England becomes the commonplace in this wonderful country where there is little distinction drawn between master and servant, where every one not only tries to live the Golden Rule but loves to return to the old and yet the only logical mode of life—work, wherein is hope, happiness and content.

And Mr. Hawkes does not spare the provincialism of the ordinary English emigrant, for he says in most unmistakable language:—

> "It is rather a grievous discovery for a good Englishman to make—that a foreigner knows more about his native country than he knows himself. It is not necessary to suggest that the Englishman is more ignorant of his own country than any other emigrant is, but it is unhappily true that the sense of local patriotism is much less distinctly developed among the English who come to Canada than it should be."

CLEAR DEFINATIONS OF HORSE POWER

Scotch Engineer Gives Some Figures Relating to Ship Propulsion.

In connection with steamship propulsion, the average man is apt to speak very glibly of so many hundred or thousand horse power. But it is extremely doubtful if one person in a hundred really has a due apprecia- of what the phrase actually means. On this point some very interesting remarks were made by John Heck, the Glasgow engineer-surveyor.

He said that calculating the strength of twelve men to be equal to one horse-power, it would require 840,000 men to produce as much energy as the 70,000 horse-power developed by the turbine machinery of the express Cunarder Lusitania.

Then if the men were to work on the eight hour day system, those figures would give a total of 2,520,000, that being the number of men whose strength would be necesary to drive the vessel across the Atlantic Ocean. So it would take all the men in Scotland to supply the energy produced all the day round by the wonderful turbine machinery of this great ship.

TO EXPLORE THE DEAD SEA

German Expedition Will Investigate Mysteries of It.

Isn't it a remarkable fact that so little is known about the Dead Sea—supposed scene of one of the greatest tragedies in all history? A German expedition is on its way thither, equipped with a large motor boat and modern sounding apparatus. Only two expeditions have preceded this one. The first was fitted out by an American, Lieut. Lynch, in 1848, and was rather more thorough in its work than would have been expected before the days of motor craft and deep sounding apparatus. The second exploration was made in 1864, by the Duke de Luynes, but did not compare in efficiency with the Lynch investigations.

To anybody who has seen the Dead Sea at close quarters, the surprising thing is that it does not contain any animal life. The sea of Tiberius is prolific in fish, and the Jordan must carry large quantities of them into the Dead Sea. What becomes of them? Is there an outlet? If so, where does it empty? Like the Caspian, it is lower than the Mediterranean.

Seen from the Mount of Olives on a clear day, due east, the Dead Sea looks like a magnificent body of water—very green under the sun's rays; but near at hand one has the impression that he is gazing upon a stagnant, filthy pool. Not only is the water saturated with salt and many other mineral substances, but a coating of bituminous, glue-like scum is near the shore, unless a strong wind has driven it into the lake. The feeling of the body after leaving the water is highly disagreeable.

Some people with tender skins suffer with a rash like the sting of nettles, after taking a dip in the filthy pond. Whence comes this oleag'nous scum? Likely as not there is a deposit of bituminous somewhere in the region, similar to that greatest physical mystery on earth—the Trinidad lake of pitch. Or there may be petroleum among these desolate hills. At Baku, on the western shore of the Caspian Sea, are the greatest spouting oil wells on earth.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE COW AND THE MOON."

Griffin's Opera House, Wednesday, Dec. 27th.

A company of forty people taken from the best of those in the field of musical extravaganza, and a perfect flotilla of pretty girls for a chorus, and with plenty of songs and musical numbers to fill out the background, a good show is assured those who like musical extravaganza.

Ed. Gilmore, the eccentric comedian heads this cast. With him will be Bess Taft as the Good Geni; Maude Amanda Scott, girl with the beautiful gowns, who will portray the dashing operatic prima donna; Clarence Sterling, the giant Great Domo, ruler of the Moon; Hazel Rice, as Miss Innocence, the little girl, who never saw a man; Wm. Gross, the plethoric German, will do Hans; Will Henel is also a favorite. Plan open at Doyle's Monday.

Consumption May Yet be Wiped Out

A DECREASE OF NEARLY 40 PER CENT. IN DEATH-RATE

The following is a letter of appeal sent out to his fellow-citizens in all parts of Canada, by Mr. W. J. Gage, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Sanitarium Association. The letter tells its own story, and is surely timely at this Christmas Season:—

Toronto, December 21st, 1911.

Dear Friend,—

Each Christmas seems to call for an increasingly urgent appeal to the people of Canada to help those who are sick in our Consumptive Homes in Muskoka.

The trustees during the year have been piling up a large debt in caring for the 300 consumptives in our Homes in Muskoka and near Toronto. They have been looking forward to this Christmas time in the hope that generous people would gladly help to share the burden.

Since our work was started in 1896, wonderfully encouraging results have been shown in a decrease of nearly 40 per cent. in the death-rate from consumption.

Not only must the trustees provide a very large sum for maintenance of the sick ones, but provision for still further accommodation must be made.

A bright young girl came to our Muskoka Home, and when advised by the Physician-in-Chief that there was no room, with tears streaming down her cheeks, she said, in the presence of one of the trustees: "Where am I to go, what am I to do, doctor? My own friends do not want me—my sisters will not kiss me."

Will you help to answer this poor girl's question?

Christmas of all seasons is the time to remember the poor and suffering. It was the Christ way. May it become ours. May we have your help this Christmas season?

Yours sincerely,

W. J. Gage

THE STRIPED RIVER NEAR EQUATOR LINE

In his article on his recent explorations of the great rivers of South America, Caspar Whitney describes an interesting characteristic of these rivers.

"One of the phenomena of this land of waters," he says, "is the retention by each of its own color without diffusion to the very point of actual contact, even where the rivers differ vastly in volume. Black waters flow into white ones, retaining their individuality up to the very edge, a visible line of demarcation—on one side white, on the other side black—unmingled and unexplained. Thus the puny black Atabapo joins the surging white Orinoco to no loss of integrity. The black Negro receives almost at right angles the odious white Casiquiare without contamination, and itself empties into the Amazon, not so much as tinging the mud-colored waters of that mighty river. Humboldt reports on the lower Casiquiare, which I did not visit, a black and white stream, both coming from the east, while of the rivers flowing in from the west, some are of white and some are of black water. Of the number of small streams coming into the upper Casiquiare from the east, those I noted were olive. These colors, which among white waters range from the really white Blanco through many yellowish mud shades, and of black waters from the greenish and bluish and deep brownish to the really deep and almost black of the Negro, high up—are explained, the scientists maintain, by the character of the soil whence they take their source and through which they flow. Those rising among the decaying leaves, roots and vegetable mater of the forests are the black, and the white are those that have their source and flow in the alluvial clayey soils. Yet the Orinoco has its source in the heart of the mountain forest, and flows under the very shadow on the north until it sends off the pest laden Casiquiare to the south."

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon fire started in J. J. English's store in Hastings, Ont., and a brisk blaze resulted. The stock was badly damaged by fire and smoke. Loss probably on building and stock is $12,000.

An appointment of much importance to the diocese of Pembroke was announced officially by His Lordship Bishop Lorraine, who has named Rev. P. T. Ryan, parish priest of Renfrew, as vicar-general of the diocese.

Arrangements have been made by the Grand Trunk Railway System to operate a special train from Edmonton, Saskatoon and Winnipeg, via St. Paul and Chicago to Portland, Me., in connection with the White Star Dominion Line S. S. 'Teutonic' sailing from Portland, Me., December 14th. The train will consist of high-grade electric lighted fourteen section tourist sleeping cars, coaches of largest capacity and latest standard dining cars, etc.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has been recognized for some time past as setting a new standard for railway operation in the West and this latest movement in providing passengers with electric lighted tourist sleeping cars will undoubtedly be highly appreciated by the large number who are returning from Western Canada to spend the approaching holidays with their friends in the British Isles, etc.

FIERCE BEASTS IN THE PHILIPPINES

The Tamarao and the Carabao are Said to be Dead Terrors

The hunter in the Philippines can get a good deal of strenuous life with a comparatively small amount of hunting if what they say it true about the activity of some of the islands' beasts. 'A paradise for hunters,' is the way, according to the Manilla Times, that Judge Liddell describes the country in the vicinity of his home and plantation on the south east coast of Mindoro. One game Mindoro excels in is the tamarao, rarest of animals, and one which is found only in Mindoro. This fierce animal, much like the American buffalo, is held in universal dread by every native on the island, who looks upon him as a far more formidable creature that the maddest of wild carbaos.

The tamarao is seldom seen in clearings because he sticks to his native wilds. When he does come near a clearing the natives in that vicinity make for the nearest shelter. For the tamarao does not wait an attack. He takes the initiative himself, charging everyone and everything in sight.

Mrs. Liddell, wife of Judge Liddell, is perhaps the only white woman who has ever seen a tamarao. A few weeks ago one came within 15 feet of the window [illegible] the Liddell kitchen, where she [illegible] instructing the cook, and peered in. The natives in the neighborhood took to their heels, and then the tamarao quietly walked off.

But if the tamarao is the piece de resistance among the game of Mindoro, it is not the only game to be found on the island. There are myriads of deer, wild chickens and game birds of all sorts. There are also plenty of wild boars on the island, and none of them noted for docility. Judge Liddell has one tusk fully 18 inches long. It came from a monster boar, which charged the hunters repeatedly before he was shot down.

Wild carabao hunting is another pastime of the Mindoro planters, and is one that is not destined to soothe the nerves of weak-hearted men. These animals are at all times dangerous, and when once wounded or angered will charge their hunters with all the ferocity of an African buffalo.

James Liddell, son of the judge, had an experience with one of them recently that will not be forgotten in a hurry. He was hunting, and shot the big fellow, knocking him off his feet. As the carabao lay still he approached and when not a foot away the carabao leaped to his feet and charged.

There was no time for a shot, so young Liddell did the only thing open to him—grappled with the infuriated beast. Three times the animal gored him, and finally the boy made his escape. What the Filipinos regarded as the miraculous feature of the cacident was the fact that the carabao permitted him to escape.

Correction of Article re the Policyholders' Mutual Life

Re the Policyholders' Mutual Life and its Lower Premium Rates.

In our issue of Dec. 16th, page 4, will be found an article re the above Company. In section one, 6th and 7th lines, an error in composition destroyed the sense of that section. It should have read that if these agents who are misrepresenting the Policyholders' Mutual Life by stating that their rates are too low, had any knowledge of the Insurance business, they would know that these very rates are the same as used by one of the oldest companies (for over forty-eight years) and which in its dividends and stock bonuses has been better than a gold mine to its fortunate stock holders.

In Confirmation of this it is Interesting to Note.

That at the meeting of Life Insurance Presidents held in New York last week William H. Hotchkiss, Government Superintendent of Insurance for the State of New York, delivered an address on "The future of Insurance." Among other things he said "The little monosyllable "rates" is much the most important word in contemporary economic discussion. The Policyholder is becoming critical for the reason that he is beginning to realize that rates are too high and that they are no longer regulated by competition. He is learning of the great expense of Insurance Companies, also that competition to-day is not between Companies for the reduction of cost but between companies for agents and brokers."

The Policyholders' Mutual Life have recognized this and have led in the reduction of rates and thus deserves the support of the insuring public.

TRENTON CASE IN THE COUNTY COURT

Hooey vs. Tripp—Judgment in an action tried at the sitings of the County Court of the County of Hastings, before His Honor Judge Deroche, on the 13th of December last, in which the plaintiff claimed to recover a strip of land fronting on Dundas street, Trenton, and damages. Defendant purchased and obtained a conveyance of the west half of Lot 8 on the north side of Dundas street and afterwards plaintiff purchased and obtained a conveyance of the east half of the lot from the same common owner of the lot. Lot 8 was of an irregular shape. The plaintiff claimed that he was entitled to half the superficial area of the lot. The defendant claimed that the lot should be divided by a line parallel to the side line of the lot commencing at a point at the front of the lot on Dundas Street at equal distances between the east and west lines of the lot, thereby giving the defendant more than half the superficial area of the lot, and the defendant erected a fence on this line. Held, the plaintiff is entitled to half the superficial area of the lot. Defendant to deliver to plaintiff the land in dispute and pay $25 damages and costs. W. C. Mikel, K.C., for plaintiff; Porter & Carnew for defendant.

CHRISTMAS SERENADING IN THE LONG AGO

Maurice D. Lynch Tells How Bands Played in the Good Old Times

It is so cold, the telegraph wires are humming a tune and the sidewalks crack when anyone walks past; everywhere without is snow. The folks below stairs are calling to the laggards who have not yet arisen, that it is 7 o'clock and time for breakfast. In the drowsy comfort of the warm bed the sleepy one remembers hazily that it is Christmas Day. The fact comes to him finally and completely, however, a moment later, when he hears the strains of the band serenading some neighbor a few doors away. He suddenly realizes that it is indeed Christmas morning, and he gets out of bed and goes shivering to the window, raises the blinds and looks up the street, towards where the big double bob-sleigh, with four steaming horses, stands. The tune is over and the bandsmen are stamping around to keep their feet warm, and are swinging their arms to keep up circulation. The steam rises with every breath of the musicians, while clouds of it go up from the horses. The chances are the citizen being serenaded has a well-stocked sideboard and the bandsmen go in and get "a nip" to warm them up. Then out into the sleigh again and away to the next place.

We never have seen bands serenading at Christmas and New Years since we left dear old Belleville. It was a time-honored custom there when we were a boy. We wonder if it yet obtains. And the bandsmen—what of them? Where are they? Scattered, no doubt, like the rest of us.

Belleville always was well represented in the way of brass bands and they were good bands, too, and held their own in the district contests which used to take place from time to time. A large percentage of the youth of Belleville lived in the hope of some day being able "to play in the band." That seemed the pinnacle of fame to a kid. How nifty Charlie Hambly used to look with his music-holder fastened on his left arm. And "Ocky" Ockerman! What a hero he seemed to us, with his silk hat cocked rakishly on his head. He was a bandsman for a youth to stand in awe of. He was the ne plus ultra, to us, at least, and even to this day, we never see a tall, debonair bandsman, but we think of Charlie Ockerman. Then Sam Woods—how huge he loomed, with his big circle bass—and Chris. McDonald and Jack Fenn and all the rest of them. Charlie ("Yates") Dickens and Jack Borbridge—what wonders they were to most of us the first time they ever "pulled" a saxophone on the marveling throng. If we remember right, "Yates" was the first man to play a saxophone in Belleville, although Jack Borbridge must have been a close second; we well remember the first time Jack ever played the instrument in public. The saxophone is common now and for twenty years or more has been, but when those boys first sprung them on Bellevillians, the horns were curiosities, and seemed to the natives like glorified Dutch pipes.

We remember well when Prof. W. B. Riggs first came to Belleville, and, by the same token, the professor has done a whole lot for music in Belleville since that day. Brent Wolover was an old-time bandsman and his brother, Hame, too, was musical. My! What a lot of them there were! Jimmy McCullough, Bob Blaind (we saw Bob last summer in Belleville and he looked just the same as he did twenty-five years ago when he did the "toodle-e-toot"); then Ed. O'Rourke, Charlie Turner, Jack Crowe, "Stuff" McCall, Jack Allen, "Andie" Pierson, "Jim" Stewart, Charlie Spry, Jack Weese, Clem Vermilyea, Jack Fenn, Jack Fleming and the Warham boys, Tommy and Billy, were bandsmen to a fare-ye-well. Do you remember Billy Warham and the big bass drum? The drum was bigger than Billy, and how mad Tommy got when the kids nick-named him "Tommy-in-the-Band." Benny Dickens was a tooter and so was Jimmy Brown, while Ed. Lear, Lew Terwilligar, Chris. McDonald and Harry Fenn were all experts. Jack Borbridge's brother, Harry, was also a moosic man; so was Oscar Brickman; while our old friend, Cap. Robertson, who had to have a finger in every pie, used to do things to a clarinet. Jap Nelson, who to-day is a great saxophone player with Ringlings' circus, tried his hand at band work while still a kid. Poor Major Brough, whose death notice appears this month, was a bandsman.

Wasn't it Ab Nix, or was it Jesse Nix who was leader of the 15th Battalion Band at one time? Other old timers of that band were Hank Ashley, Frank Proctor, bass drum, Hi Rankin, Jed Cronk, Bill Pringle, Geo. Flowers, Luke Chown, George Robertson, Rutherford, Pasco, Bill Roenigk and others. What was the name of the drum major of the 15th? Was it Joe Schiblosky? Do not let us forget, among other bandsmen, George Ashley, Sid Brown, drum major; Sam Gardiner, Dick Gardiner and Jule Roenigk. Doubtless, there are many more old timers whom other fellows can think of, because Belleville was full of brass band material. I suppose it is the same to-day and that the tooters are on the job the same as usual.—Belleville Club News, Chicago.

The drum major to whom Mr. Lynch refers was named Zobloskey. To the names given might be added George Dame, cornet; Aaron Dame and Miles and Will Rankin, bass; Jake Heilbron and N. Meyers, cornet; Frank Mason and Jack Pearce, tenor; Jimmy Fitzpatrick, snare drumer and F. Muchall, drum major.—Ed. Int.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Nearly everyone has dandruff, and must reconcile themselves to the idea of becoming completely bald or resort to the use of Newbro's Herpicide.

The manufacturers have absolute faith in Herpicide to kill the germ and remove all traces of dandruff. So perfect is this belief that all dealers are instructed to sell the preparation with a "money back" agreement.

Such supreme confidence is the best evidence in the world of the merit of Herpicide. They know the result, hence the guarantee. It protects the purchaser.

Used as directed, Newbro's Herpicide kills the germ that causes dandruff and prevents the hair from coming out. It stops itching of the scalp, which is so disagreeable.

Send 10c. in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Herpicide is for sale by all druggists and applications may be obtained at good barber shops.

FUNNIER THAN COMIC OPERA

Are Campaign Tactics of Chinese Army and Navy.

No one who has studied the military method of China will be surprised to learn that "shells of painted wood have been picked up in the German concession Hankow." This is truly Chinese. Not so very long ago each soldier was supplied with an oilcloth paarsol, and a fan which he tucked up his sleeve. During the battle of Ping Yang, when the rain came on, the parasols were opened and the enemy found the men easy targets, especially as each one wore a large white disk bearing the number of his regiment on his breast and back.

At the arsenal at Nankin it was once decided to shorten a Krupp cannon which had arrived there, because it was too long, and to make "solid shells" which would not burst. Green sprouts were also seen on logs from which gun stocks were to be made. But the "limit" as one would say, was reached at Hankow when an Austrian warship entered and saluted the fort. The Chinese attempted to return the courtesy, but stopped short after five or six discharges. As the Chinese commander afterward explained, "When the third artilleryman had been killed we decided to stop firing."

MILD BLEND COFFEE

Drink Tea at Home and Coffee at the Hotels?

STRONG BLEND COFFEE

HERE IS THE ONLY SECRET OF GOOD COFFEE?

It is not because a French chef makes the coffee at the big hotels—nor only because they use expensive coffee—that it tastes so good. It IS because the chef makes the coffee the right way.

Boiling ruins coffee. Such coffee is always bitter and weedy, and the longer coffee is boiled, the less flavor it has. Boiling drives off the fine aroma and flavor and leaves in the grounds and woody fibre, which are responsible for so much indigestion among coffee drinkers.

Dalton's French Drip Coffee Pot means all the good of coffee and always good coffee—and it means that you can make a cup of delicious coffee with ⅓ less coffee.

We give this French Drip Coffee Pot absolutely free in order that you will be able to prepare

Dalton's French Drip Coffee

as it should be made. And Dalton's Coffee is worth making right. It is entirely different, and better,—a Coffee you can drink every day, as much as you like, without fear of the effects of ordinary Coffee. By our special processes of selecting the raw Coffee—in cleaning, blending, roasting and grinding it—we take out the bitter skin which lines the Coffee berry. It is this skin, roasted and ground up in ordinary Coffee, that produces the ill-effects so common to drinkers of ordinary Coffee.

When you make a cup of Dalton's French Drip Coffee, in a Dalton's French Drip Coffee Pot, you get the delights of the finest Coffees in the world—with none of the faults of ordinary Coffee.

This French Drip Coffee Pot Free with one tin each of Dalton's MILD and STRONG Coffee at 50c. a tin.

Dalton's Coffee is better, very much better, than ordinary Coffee and you can drink it for every meal, all the year round. Only—it should be made properly. This is why we make this special offer.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER

We feel so sure that you will find either Dalton's Mild Blend or Strong Blend French Drip Coffee just the Coffee that you have been looking for that we have authorized your Grocer to give you one of these handsome pots (worth $1.30) absolutely Free with the first purchase of a tin each of Mild and Strong Blend. You buy two 50c. tins of our Coffee—one of each blend—to give it a fair trial and we give you the means of testing it FREE, satisfied that you will use nothing but Dalton's French Drip Coffee thereafter.

Light and heat commissioner—Samuel Carter.

Water commissioner—R. L. Terrance.

Sewerage commissioner—Daniel E. Rudd.

President Estrada Dead.

Guayaquil, Dec. 23.—Emilio Estrada, President of the Republic of Ecuador, died here last midnight.

President Estrada was elected to office on Jan. 11, 1911, and was inaugurated on Sept. 1.

President Estrada became ill in September and was sent to Quito. While there a plot to assassinate him was foiled, and a number of the would-be assassins captured. The attitude of Quito proved dangerous, and President Estrada returned here the latter part of last month.

Underbid Cement Company.

Winnipeg, Dec. 23.—In spite of the high duty on cement an American firm, the Lehigh Cement Co., underbid the Canada Cement Co. for the city of Winnipeg's 25,000-barrel order for spring delivery. The successful bid was 71.43 cents per cwt., including bags, against the 72.65 cents of the Canada company, and represents a saving of four cents per barrel over the price paid this year by the city.

Win For "Pinafore" Captain.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—The vagrancy and non-support charge which had been laid against Geo. J. McFarland, one of the principal singers in the "Pinafore" company, which appeared at the Princess a week ago, was thrown out of court yesterday by Judge Bazin, in the police court.

Pastor Dropped Dead.

Galt, Dec. 23.—Rev. Dr. Carruthers, pastor of the Preston Methodist Church, dropped dead just after arising from bed yesterday morning. Deceased was appointed to Preston last June, was a brilliant preacher and highly popular. He leaves a widow and three children.

Earthquake In Mexico.

Mexico City, Dec. 23.—An earthquake of moderate intensity occurred here at 6.15 yesterday. The shock lasted about one minute.

PERSIA CLIMBS DOWN

National Council Decides to Accept the Ultimatum.

Apology Will Be Made For Insult to to M. Petroff and W. Morgan Shuster, the American Financial Minister, Will Be Dismissed — Russian Citizens Said to Have Been In Danger at Tabriz.

London, Eng., Dec. 23.—(Can. Press.)—Persia yesterday yielded to the demands of the Russian ultimatum, which demanded that the Persian Foreign Minister apologize for an insult to M. Petroff, the Russian vice-consul at Teheran, on the occasion of the seizure of the property of a brother of the ex-Shah, is also called for the dismissal from office of W. Morgan Shuster, an American, who held the post of treasurer-general.

The Persian charge d'affaires at St. Petersburg called at the Russian Foreign Office late yesterday to announce officially his Government's decision to abide by the terms of the ultimatum. Up to a late hour last night, however, no public announcement had been made at Teheran of the recession of Persia from the defiant stand she originally took against the demands of the Czar's Ministers, even in the face of threatened aggression. The delay in making public the fact that she had yielded to the Russian demands probably was through fear of the consequences of public resentment.

Early yesterday official notices were posted on the walls of the city in prominent places ordering the people to abstain from political meetings of any kind without having previously obtained police sanction.

Mr. Shuster is still without formal notice of his dismissal. He is resolute in declaring that he would have nothing to do with the negotiations and would only recognize the right of the national council to dispense with his services.

The exact form of Persia's reply to Russia is not yet known, but from the latest news received from Teheran, it would seem that the Cabinet has overridden the wishes of the commission which the National Council appointed to deal with the matter.

Russians In Danger.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.—The fighting between the Russians and the Persians, which was reported from Tabriz Thursday, lasted in the streets of the city throughout the day. The old citidel was bombarded.

The Russian consul-general has sent to headquarters a request for reinforcements in view of the danger to Russian subjects and Russian property in the city.

The Russians Cossacks at Resht, which is 16 miles northwest of Enzeli, on the Caspian Sea, drove the Persians out of their position after considerable fighting. It was found that the Persians were armed with Russian rifles.

According to the despatches received here, both at Tabriz and Resht, the fighting was opened by an attack on the Russians from a Persian ambuscade.

London Approves.

London, Dec. 24.—The London morning newspapers generally consider that Persia in acquiescing in the Russian ultimatum acted wisely and averted thereby Russian occupation of Teheran.

The Times in an editorial congratulates the Persian Cabinet. It says the Cabinet needed no little courage to follow so unpopular, if sensible, a course.

Disagree on Reply.

Teheran, Dec. 23.—The commission appointed by the National Council to deal with the acceptance of the Russian ultimatum held a long session last night, but it is reported that its members were unable to agree on the wording of the Cabinet's draft of a reply to Russia.

It is stated in Russian official circles that while the Russian Government is sincerely desirous for an early withdrawal of its troops in Persia, it will be unable to pledge an evacuation immediately. Persia complies with the terms of the ultimatum. Speculation is rife whether the cabinet will act without sanction. On its failure to do so the commission would assume dictatorial power.

Kaiser Forbids Travel.

London, Dec. 23.—The Kaiser, acting in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the German army, has forbidden all his officers to visit England without permission from the military authorities. At present German officers must obtain the consent of the authorities to travel abroad, but they have not been required to state their foreign destination.

The Kaiser's new decree is intended to prevent German officers from undertaking at their own risk espionage on British territory. Hitherto this has been a common practice among the ambitious young military men who desired to gain distinction by bringing home useful information about England's defences.

Actor Lorimer a Suicide.

New York, Dec. 23.—Wright Lorimer, the well-known actor, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas at his home, 124 West 65th street.

Lorimer was 38 years of age and began his stage career in Chicago several years ago.

He was best known in the production of "The Shepherd King," which he wrote with Arnold Reeves.

Lorimer filled two engagements in Toronto in "The Shepherd King," a Biblical play, in which he scored a great success there.

Many Hurt In Railway Wreck.

Texarkana, Texas, Dec. 23.—Thirty to forty persons were hurt, some fatally, yesterday, in a head-on collision between two passenger trains on the Texas and Pacific Railroad, Kildare, south of here.

PREMIER REMAINS FIRM

Yuan Shi Kai Refuses to Agree to a Republic For China.

Considers That It Would Be Disloyal to the Emperor If He Were to Consent to Abdication, and Would Resign First—Empress Dowager May Be Removed and an Agreement Reached With the Rebel Provinces.

Pekin, Dec. 23.—Yuan Shi Kai, the Premier, evidently still remains steadfast in his decision not to accept a republican form of Government for China as the price of peace within the empire. Members of the Premier's entourage reiterated yesterday that Yuan never will advise the abdication of the Emperor and thereby become a traitor. They say that if the formation of a republic is unavoidable, he will resign his office as Premier.

Though none of the members of the foreign legations will venture a prediction on the outcome of the situation, there is a feeling that an agreement is possible between Yuan and a number of the rebel provinces, perhaps not immediately, but after several armistices. Yuan, it is thought, may offer the last concession possible, namely, the retirement of the Empress Dowager and the appointment of a Chinese regency, to effect peace. The Premier has steadily been replacing officials and army officers throughout the northern provinces, with trusted men, loyal to himself.

He believes he could regain and retain many of the rebel provinces if money were obtainable. A quartette of bankers is willing to support him, but up to the present time the legations have disagreed regarding a loan. The British legation desires the monarchy continued, but is receiving serious protests from business interests in the south, which dread a boycott of their goods. The American legation and also that of Japan advocate supporting Yuan Shi Kai financially.

Will Protect Property.

Harbin, Manchuria, Dec. 23.—Gen. Horvath, the Russian commander here has expressed a willingness, acting with the railway guards to protect the property of all foreigners in Northern Manchuria. Conditions in the country, however, are normal and no foreigners except Russians have asked for protection.

The representative of large British interests at Kinchow and Aigun and also of railways in Central China, has decided to leave the country for an indefinite period and is now on his way to Europe. He says complete chaos reigns in the Chinese Empire.

Smashed Window, Stole Turkey.

Brockville, Dec. 23.—A daring act was perpetrated by William and Daniel Brown, two young men with police records, in deliberately smashing a large window in a butcher shop on Brockville's leading thoroughfare and lugging off a fat turkey. The police first arrested Dan, who implicated his brother, and the pair, when arraigned, pleaded guilty and were remanded.

A. J. Delaney, the proprietor of a moving picture show, was fined $50 and costs in the police court for allowing the children under fifteen years of age to enter the theatre without a guardian. This is the first conviction in Brockville under the new statute, passed by the Legislature.

British Steamer Seized.

Alexandria, Egypt, Dec. 23.—The Italian cruiser Puglia yesterday seized the British steamer Menzaleh of the Khedival Mail Steamship & Dock Graving Co., with $150,000 in gold coin on board, destined for the payment of the Turkish troops at the port of Hodeida, in the Turkish Province of Yemen on the Red Sea.

The Menzaleh left Suez on Monday for Aden, and was to call at Port Soudan, Suakim and Hodeida. She is a vessel of 1,080 tons.

A flotilla of Italian cruisers is keeping a sharp lookout for vessels touching at Turkish ports on the Arabian coast of the Red Sea.

Knighthood Probable.

Ottawa, Dec. 23.—According to information received in Ottawa yesterday through the English mail, Premier Borden will be Sir Robert Borden after the distribution of New Year honors. The conferring of the knighthood upon the Prime Minister thus early in his administrative career, will be a recognition of his fight for the British connection and the unity of the Empire in the recent elections.

The honor in this case must, of course, come from the King without any recommendation from Ottawa.

To Lock Out 160,000 Men.

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 23.—The committee of the Lancashire Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Associations, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to lock out the whole of the workers in the mills belonging to members of the federation beginning on Dec. 27.

The lockout is a protest against the attempts of trades unionists to force weavers not belonging to the unions to join their ranks. No fewer than 160,000 operatives are involved.

Packers' Case Adjourned.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Counsel for the ten Chicago meat packers charged with combining to control the price of meats in violation of the criminal sections of the Sherman Law, concluded their opening statements to the jury yesterday and U. S. District Judge Carpenter adjourned court until next Tuesday.

T[illegible] hundred witnesses will be called [illegible] Government.

Liberal In Lanarkshire.

Glasgow, Dec. 23.—At a bye-election held yesterday for the seat in the House of Commons for the Govan division of Lanarkshire, D. U. Holmes, Liberal, was elected by a majority of 986. The seat formerly was held by Wm. Hunter, Liberal, who has been raised to the position of judge of the court of sessions. Mr. Hunter's majority last year was over 200.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Unchanged, Chicago Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Both long and short interests to-day busied themselves getting clear of wheat. All American grain exchanges will be closed to-morrow and Monday, and there was a general desire to be free of commitments and avoid the effects of any surprise which might be sprung in foreign markets. The end of the evening-up process left wheat varying from a shade lower to 1-2c higher than last night's close. Corn finished 1-16c to 1-4c down, oats unchanged to 3-4c off, and hogs products unaltered or running to a decline of 5c.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged from yesterday, and corn ⅜d to ⅝d lower. Buenos Ayres wheat was ⅞c lower, and corn unchanged. Paris and Pudapest wheat closed unchanged, Antwerp ⅝c lower, and Berlin ¼c lower.

$500,000 Fire In New York.

New York, Dec. 23.—One of the most spectacular fires New York has seen in years late yesterday afternoon swept through the seven-storey terminal warehouse building, occupying a block on Eleventh avenue, between 27th and 28th street. Three alarms were turned in and three fireboats fought the blaze from the river. The loss will be $500,000 or more.

[illegible] Wants to Retaliate.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.—A legislative proposal to provide for tariff war schedules applicable to the United States at the expiration of the Russo-American commerce and navigation treaty of 1832 has been introduced in the Douma by ex-President Guchkoff and other signers representing the Octobrist and Nationalist parties, which control the majority of the Douma.

The bill proposes to raise existing Russian duties by 100 per cent. and also to impose a duty of 100 per cent. on articles which are admitted free under the present Russian tariff. Besides these impositions the bill proposes also to levy double the gross weight tax established by the law of June 21, 1901, on merchandise arriving by sea and to levy a double tonnage tax. Should the present American tonnage tax be raised to the disfavor of Russian vessels then the Russian tonnage tax will be correspondingly increased.

It is said that the schedules are to be applicable to all countries which do not grant to Russia the most favored nation treatment in commerce and navigation.

Accuse Prelate of Conspiracy.

Lisbon, Dec. 23.—The Government has decided to prosecute Mgr. Anthony Mendes Bello, patriarch of Lisbon, on a charge of conspiring against the republic. It is considered certain that if the prelate is convicted he will be sentenced to the maximum of six years' imprisonment and ten years' deportation to Africa.

Mgr. Bello frequently has been considered a likely appointee to the cardinalate, and just prior to the last consistory when Pope Pius created nineteen new members of the sacred college, the identity of one of them was kept secret. In best informed quarters in Rome, however, it was believed that Mgr. Bello was the recipient, and that his name was withheld from the public only because of the strained relations between Portugal and the church.

Promoter Murdered?

Leamington, Dec. 23.—John Passman, the Kingsville promoter, is still unaccounted for. The missing man is a son-in-law of W. D. Nickerson of Leamington, and left home a week ago last Wednesday to visit friends and relatives of Detroit. Mr. Nickerson and daughter were recalled to Windsor yesterday on the supposition that the unidentified man who was just recently buried in Windsor might possibly be Passman, but they learned otherwise.

He had between $50 and $60 on his person when he left, wore a blue serge suit and stiff hat.

Foul play is feared. His young wife is overcome with grief.

Sir Charles Failing.

London, Dec. 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The improvement in Sir Charles Tupper's condition is not continuing. Yesterday he is reported to be failing in strength.

Cir Charles suffered a severe attack of bronchitis on Sunday, Dec. 10, but contrary to expectations made excellent progress towards recovery. A despatch of the 19th stated the family was very hopeful.

Treat a man like a dog and it will make him mad—even if he doesn't develop hydrophobia.

For Mayor
Geo. I. Thomas

RESPECTFULLLY REQUESTS THE VOTE AND INFLUENCE OF THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ON THE FOLLOWING PLATFORM.

If returned as Mayor of your city, I am in favor of:—

1st.—Better streets for Belleville.

2nd.—Public tenders for all contracts.

3rd.—An active Industrial Committee.

4th.—Economy in all matters pertaining to the city.

5th.—A fair day's pay for city officials.

6th.—Enforcement of the Liquor License Laws.

7th.—And all other good measures which may from time to time be brought before the Council.

As I cannot see all the electors personally, I trust that all those in favor of the above platform will give me their votes and influence on election day.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. I. THOMAS

For Mayor

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the solicitation of a large number of the ratepayers, I have decided to come before you, asking your support for the position of Mayor for the year 1912.

For the past seven years I have faithfully served you as one of your representatives, and during that time I have filled most of the prominent chairmanships in the Council.

It will be impossible to see you all personally between now and election, but if my services have met with your approval, I trust you will give me your vote and influence.

Yours obedient servant,
A. G. VERMILYEA

FOR ALDERMAN

To the Electors of Baldwin Ward;—
Having been nominated a candidate for Alderman for 1912, I respectfully solicit your vote and influence. If elected, I shall do all in my power to promote the Social and Industrial Interests of Belleville.

W. S. SMITH

FOR ALDERMAN

To the Electors of Coleman Ward.—
Your vote and influence are respectfully solicited to secure the election of
R. P. WHITE
As Alderman for the year 1912. D23d6t

BAND IN ATTENDANCE

Y. M. C. A. Notes

To-morrow afternoon the service will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Wallace and Mr. R. J. Graham. Time 4.15.

The indoor baseball game scheduled between the Steel Co. and the Y.M.C.A. has been mutually postponed for a few days.

The juniors at their pumpkin pie social this week organized a "Still Hunt" membership campaign. Each worker wears a button "Get One." When he secures his new member this button is taken up and replaced with a button "I Got One."

The bowling alleys have been almost completed. Men will next week put on the metallic ceilings, whilst the woodwork will be in the hands of the painters. The railing about the running track will also be set up.

The physical director will spend Xmas with relatives in Toronto.

Last evening a Junior Hockey team was formed. Next week a meeting will be called for forming the Y. M. C. A. senior hockey league of the city.

The Y. M. C. A. is bringing here a protege of Melba in the person of Eva Mylott, Australia's great contralto. Particulars later.

U. S. Naval Changes.

Washington, Dec. 23.—The organization of the navigation bureau of the Navy Department, projected by Secretary Meyer and initiated by the appointment of Commander Philip Andrews, as chief of that bureau, has been followed by the detail of Commander J. R. W. Blakely, now executive officer of the Cruiser Washington, to relieve Commander H. A. Wiley, in charge of the enlisted service branch. Commander Wiley goes to the Asiatic station with Admiral Nicholson, the new commander-in-chief.

Synopsis of Canadian North-west Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.09.

TRIED EVERYTHING WITHOUT RELIEF

Until I took "Fruit-a-tives"

SARNIA, ONT., Feb. 5th, 1910.

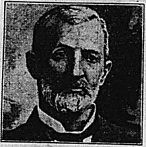
"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors but derived no benefit whatever.

Finally, I read an advertisement of 'Fruit-a-tives'. I decided to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial and found they did exactly what was claimed for them.

I have now taken 'Fruit-a-tives' for some months and find that they are the only remedy that does me good.

I have recommended 'Fruit-a-tives' to a great many of my friends and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly"

PAUL J. JONES



"Fruit-a-tives" is the only natural cure for Constipation and Stomach Trouble, because it is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit juices and valuable tonics. Hundreds of people have been cured, as if by a miracle, by taking "Fruit-a-tives", the famous fruit medicine.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WILFUL, MALICIOUS OR IGNORANT MISREPRESENTATION

There are certain Life Insurance Agents (for the honor of the business fortunately very few) who resort to misrepresentation and lying.

The Policyholders' Mutual Life Insurance Company is a comparatively new Company, organized in 1907 and forging ahead in its business because it has modern advantages and can offer the insuring public a better value at lower cost.

In their jealous misrepresentations these Agents Assert

1.—That the rates of the Policyholders' Mutual Life are too low for safety and yet they know, if they have any knowledge of the Insurance business, that these very rates are the same as used by one of the oldest Companies (over forty-eight years) and which in its dividends and stock bonuses has been better than a gold mine to its fortunate stockholders.

2.—That a young company is a weak one, and yet they know, if they have any knowledge of the Insurance business, that a young company has the advantage of starting out with a clean slate on modern principles with no old business or methods to be disturbed, and that with the regular Government deposit made and the full Government reserve put up, the policy holder has as absolute security as though he were with the oldest Company.

3.—That the Company is not registered and is, therefore, doing business illegally. This they know is false and, if they have any knowledge of Insurance business, know that it would be a criminal matter. All companies doing business in Ontario, their own included, must register with the Ontario Government and the Policyholders' Mutual Life is certified and registered on the Insurance Company Register pursuant to the Ontario Insurance Act as No. 1221, Folio 449, Certificate signed by A. A. Chisholm, Entry Clerk, J. J. Foy, Attorney General of Ontario Minister in charge of the Department of Insurance and A. R. Boswell, Inspector of Insurance for the Province of Ontario.

The names and work of two of these unfair agents are known and if their false and malicious statements are repeated, they will be named in a future issue. If they then consider that any injustice is being done them they will be invited to prosecute us for libel in the Courts.

Published by order of the Board of Directors of the Policyholders' Mutual Life Insurance Company.

CRITICS OF THE CLUBS

It is extremely amusing to note some of the criticism made of the make-up of the clubs for the battles of this year by men who at best see very little of some of the clubs, and are therefore little qualified to pass judgment on them. One cannot speak intelligently of the work of players after but a few games during a season. To pass intelligently on the work of the players of a club one must thoroughly understand them and one cannot do that unless he has been with them constantly and is familiar with every detail of their work. It was only the other day that a well-known player, who undertakes to do [illegible] or less writing for the press, [illegible] out and ventured the opinion [illegible] certain player of his club was underestimated. There was absolutely no foundation for the assertion, for the player in question is as popular as any member of the team and his work in all its lines is perfectly understood by any one who knows anything about games at all, and the people in the city in question have been following the game for more years than the aforesaid critic is years old.

"ONE ROUND" BEAT NELSON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—"One Round" Hogan was given the popular decision over Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion of the world, in a ten-round bout at the Madison Square Club here to-night.

Mike Gibbons is sparring with Carl Morris, the Oklahoma white hope, who is said to be rapidly rounding into shape under the tuition of the clever St. Paul boy.

Dr. George W. Ehler, of Wisconsin University, says the blight of professionalism is killing college baseball. He sees little difference between the game as played in the universities and that played in the major and minor leagues as far as the professional spirit is concerned.

The well-known jockey, S Heapy steered his fourteen-hundredth winner in Belgium last month, when he scored on Astucieuse, in the Prix de Pinsons, at the same time scoring his one hundred and fortieth winner of the present season. Heapy, who has been riding in Belgium since 1900, is a nephew of Sam Loates.

They are described as a stout, burly lot, resembling their sire. One, a colt out of Sabine Queen shows a remarkable resemblance to Orby.

The Powderhall Marathon race, for which Tom Longboat, Hans Holmer and Fred Cameron have gone to Edinburgh, does not offer rich rewards in the way of prize money, the entire sum to be divided being only £100, or less than $500. It costs only two shillings and sixpence to enter and the list does not close until Christmas.

New York Tribune: What's in a name. The International League no doubt will prosper and wax fat as rapidly as under its old name of the Eastern League. I cannot help but feel, however, that traditions are worth something, and a change of name means to a large extent the loss of tradition. Still, Edward Barrow and his old league under a new name are deserving of all success, and they should have it, too, as Mr. Barrow has proved himself a good executive and was deserving of re-election for a five-year term.

Arthur Irwin, who is a close student of baseball rules, says the proposition to modify the foul strike rule in order to increase batting and lessen the effectiveness of pitching will not go through both major leagues. Irwin admits that the rule prevents hard hitting in many instances, but he says it cannot be changed without lengthening the time consumed in playing games.

"The foul strike rule was passed for the purpose of shortening the games so that the fans could get home at a reasonably early hour. A modification would mean a return to the former evils. There are players in both leagues who can foul off as many pitched balls as they want to and with the present rule changed they will cause unnecessary delays. There's one change that might be made, however, that of calling balls fouls that go behind the catcher within a certain radius of the home plate."

Irwin insists, too, that the raised pitcher's box is necessary because it belongs to a system of drainage for the infield.

AN OPEN SWITCH LED TO DEATH

Heavy Freight Switched on to Side Line Crashed into Yard Engine—William Symons, Brakeman, Crushed to Death Between Cars—Wesley Post, Engineer, Had Leg Amputated—Other Train Men Badly Injured--Inquest Opened on Symons' Remain

WM. S. SYMONS, brakesman, killed.

WESLEY POST, engineer, probably fatally injured

J. BONE, fireman; J. G. WELLS, fireman, and W. LORD, engineer, more or less injured.

J. W. COLLINS, fireman, and GEO. ORMOND, engineer, badly shaken up.

Such is the record of a distressing accident which occurred at about 10.45 on Saturday night at the east end of the Grand Trunk Railway yard here, as the result of a head-on collision. An open switch, it is alleged, was the cause of the deplorable affair.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

It appears that a double-header west bound high-ball freight train, hauled by engines No. 1216 and 2525 was approaching the yard proper from the east, when, at the same time, a yard engine, No. 1682, was shunting some freight cars. The latter was on a side track off the main line, but for some reason, which has yet to be explained, the switch was open on to the main line. The heavy freight came thundering along, and, instead of remaining upon the main line the head engine was switched to the side line. At this time the yard engine, with some cars attached, was going towards the oncoming train. The perilous situation was noticed by the engineer and fireman on the yard engine, and possibly by those in charge of the head engine of the double-header. A collision was inevitable, and with it human life was likely to be sacrificed. The engines came together in deadly embrace and all three were virtually converted into a heap of scrap.

By those employees of the railway who were first to arrive upon the scene it was feared that the collision was of such a nature that a fatality must have occurred, and such proved unfortunately to be the case.

THE RESULT.

W. S. Symons, a brakesman on the freight train, was in the act of getting off the tender of the second engine to the box car adjoining the tender when the crash came. He was caught between the tender and the car, and was probably instantly killed. It was some time before the body could be removed from the position it was in, owing to the tender being driven into the end of the box car, and the body was held there by the tender.

On engine No. 2525, which was the head engine of the freight train, were engineer W. Lord and J. G. Wells, fireman, both of whom are residents of Brockville. The latter was very seriously injured, his injuries consisting of a fractured arm and some ribs broken. Lord was cut about the head, but was not seriously injured. He was able to return to his home on Sunday morning.

The second engine, No. 1216, was in charge of Engineer Wesley Post and Fireman J. Bone, both of this city. The former sustained terrible injuries, which may probably result fatally. His right leg was taken off near the thigh, his left leg severely lacerated, while bruises of a severe nature were on various parts of the body. His fireman, Bone, had several ribs fractured and his left arm was injured.

Engineer Ormond and Fireman Collins, on the shunting engine, miraculously escaped with slight injuries.

MAKING IT HOT FOR ITALY

Arab Sheiks Will Stop Cultivation and Cut off Supplies from Enemy

(Intelligencer Special.)

DEHIBIAT, Tunis, Dec. 26.—Two thousand Arab warriors have just joined the Turkish and Arab army in Tripoli, bringing large food supplies after a forty-day march across the Libian Desert. The Sheiks have forbidden the cultivation of land during the war, thus forcing Italy to transport all her supplies. Unprejudiced correspondents with the Turkish army believe that Italy faces a long and hopeless struggle.

TELEGRAPHED MUSIC

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—An unprecedented telegraphic feat was performed between New York and Toronto yesterday, the entire score of Marie Cahill's "The Opera Ball," being transmitted over the wires to replace the original music, which had been lost. The composer sat besides the operator in New York, converting the music into shape for transmission, and giving the value and position of each note, while in Toronto another musician re-translated the telegrapher's copy into music.

BAIL REFUSED

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—Motorman Moore, whose car figured in the street railway Christmas eve tragedy, was refused bail by the police magistrate this morning. He was remanded to jail for a week.

BANNED UNDER THE NE TEMERE

Winnipeg Woman not Allowed to See Husband in Hospital

WINNIPEG, Dec. 22.—Quite a sensation has been created in this city since the publication in one of the local papers this morning of an interview with a Mrs. Frederick Brewster, of 8 Victoria Chambers, Logan Ave., who stated that the Mother Superior of St. Boniface Hospital refused to give her permission to visit her husband, who is at present lying very sick in the institution.

The reasons for the refusal is given out that Mrs. Brewster is not the legal wife of Frederick Brewster, under the Ne Temere decree. She is a Roman Catholic and her husband a Protestant and they were married in a Protestant church.

In the interview Mrs. Brewster stated that for some time past Father Comeau, the parish priest of St. Mary's, had been importuning her to be married at a Roman Catholis church. This she absolutely refused to do, and was told by the priest that she could never visit her husband until she did, or promised to do as he (Father Comeau) wished.

Mrs. Brewster tried several times to obtain admission to the hospital but all her attempts proved futile until she applied to the a[illegible]ities for relief.

The city relief officer took up the case, and after ascertaining that the marriage had been duly solemnized, according to the law of Canada, and with the requisite number of witnesses, he quickly compelled the Mother Superior to allow of Mrs. Brewster's freely visiting her husband.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

POLICE HAVE $2.

Mr. David Whitney, a yeoman of Ameliasburg, on Saturday left $2 with the police, being the purchase money of some apples he sold and was unable to locate the purchaser.

LOST A ROBE.

On Saturday afternoon a horse attached to a buggy belonging to Mr. John Aris, ran away on Dundas St., but was caught before it had done any damage. Mr. Aris is, however, the loser of a robe which was lost from the vehicle.

DRUNKS RUN IN.

As a result of two calls on Saturday afternoon, two drunks who were unable to navigate, were taken in charge by the police and conveyed to the police station. They were subsequently allowed their liberty upon making a deposit to appear in court on Wednesday.

FORGER SENTENCED.

Wilfred Young, the young man who a few days ago was convicted on the charge of raising a cheque from $2.65 to $5.65, was this morning brought up before the Police Magistrate for sentence. His Worship, after commenting upon the enormity of the offence, sentenced Young to 5 months in the Central Prison.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

There will be a contest for Public School Trustees in two wards of the city, namely Bleecker and Coleman. In Bleecker Ward :W H. Wrightmyer and J. B. Ives are the candidates, and in Coleman Ward there are three candidates, namely Don Bleecker, Charles O. Greenleaf and S. J. Harris.

MISSING MONEY.

A foreigner, whose correct name could not be ascertained, reported to the police that he had on Saturday night been relieved of $65. The man, through an interpreter, stated that he had placed $115 under the pillow of a bed where he slept and the money was taken from that place. The police investigated the alleged theft,but were unable to find any trace of the missing money. Where the foreigner was boarding there were others also boarding of his own nationality.

THEY MADE MERRY.

A successful and pleasing dance was last evening given by Prof. A. Johnstone to the patrons of his class. The affir took place in his dancing academy, Alberta Block, and was attended by about 50 couples, who thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Lunch was served shortly after 11 o'clock. A vote of thanks was tendered to Prof. Johnstone by Mr. P. J. Horton, on behalf of those present. The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought the pleasant evening to a close.

STOLEN AND RECOVERED.

Miss Ethel M. Coon, whose home is at Lakehurst, Ont., reported to the police last evening that last night she left a telescope valise in the lady's waiting room at the G.T.R. station and when she returned after some minutes' absence it was gone. The police recovered the valise, it having been taken by a small lad named Laval. The grip was returned to Miss Coon, who started for home in a happy state of mind.

A CHRISTMAS RE-UNION.

A very pleasant event took place in this city yesterday, when the six married daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Falle, formerly of Belleville, were together for the first time in fourteen years. The gathering comprised Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Falle, Bowmanville; Mr. and Mrs. D. Harrison and daughter, Bowmanville; Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kerr and daughter, Sturgeon Falls; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Miller and daughter, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Goddard and three sons, Elgin, N. B.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carter, son and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Yerex, two sons and daughters, of this city, and Mr. W. O. Kerr, of Moosejaw, Sask. This joyous event will long be remembered by all who were present.

PEPPER—TEAL.

At 11.30 this morning a wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. George Teal, Bleecker Avenue. The bride was Miss Christina Teal, and the groom Mr. William Pepper, of this city. The couple were unattended. Rev. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ Church, officiated. After the ceremony a wedding repast was partaken of. Mr. and Mrs. Pepper left this afternoon on a wedding trip in the west, and upon their return will take up their residence in this city.

TOKEN OF SYMPATHY.

The death of Rev. Dr. Crothers was received with a great deal of regret by Bridge St. Methodist Church. On Sunday morning the Official Board met and passed a resolution regarding their late pastor, which later was forwarded by wire to Mrs. Crothers and family.

GIVEN APPOINTMENT.

Charles Treverton, son of Mr. Samuel Treverton, of Sidney, has been appointed to a position in the Inland Revenue Department. Mr. Treverton takes the place of Mr. William Thomson, who resigned some months ago.

PRINCESS AND DUKE.

The following cable from the Duke and Duchess of Argyll was received by Lieut.-Col. Marsh, commanding officer of the 15th Regiment, on the morning of Christmas Day:

"Marsh, Colonel, 15th, Belleville, Ont.
"We send heartiest greetings.
"LOUISE AND ARGYLL."

SUDDEN DEATH.

After only a few hours' illness Mrs. Frances Wood, wife of S. T. Wood, of the editorial staff of The Toronto Globe, died Christmas morning. Mrs. Wood was in her usual good health on Christmas eve. Dr. John Ferguson was summoned and applied restoratives, but was unable to sustain life. Mrs. Wood was daughter of Robert Dwyer, of Sandhill, Peel County. Two sons besides her husband survive: Samuel, of the post office staff, and Frank. Mr. Wood is a Belleville boy and the sincere sympathy of many friends will be extended to him in his bereavement.

TO COMMAND REGIMENT.

The following appears in the last issue of the Canada Gazette:—

15th Regiment "Argyll Light Infantry"—To be Lieutenant-Colonel and to command the Regiment: Major L. W. Marsh, vice Lieutenant-Colonel T. Stewart, who, on the expiration of his period of tenure of Command, is retired retaining rank. 19th October, 1911.

CHARGE OF RECEIVING.

Joseph Diamond, a junk dealer, who is accused of receiving and purchasing a quantity of rubber tubing, knowing the same to have been stolen,, was this morning on trial before Magistrate Masson. After the evidence for the Crown had been taken the case was enlarged until 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown and Mr. Carnew appeared for the accused.

JUNIOR HOCKEYISTS.

The junior hockey players whose names appear below, registered with the O.H.A. last winter and qualify this coming season under the age rule—under 20 years of age on Jan. 1, 1912—and clubs do not require to file official age certificates for them. Providing they are qualified under the residence rule, the players mentioned are eligible to play by simply signing the ordinary player's certificate, and having it passed by the association. The list for Belleville and Picton is as follows:—

Belleville—Alfred H. Thompson, Richard V. Brown, Jos. C. Frechette, Wm. J. Wilson, Geo. Wardrope, Stephen A. Moore, Wm. H. Wallace, Jas. Marshall, Ernest G. Moore, Angus Ray Tuite.

Picton—Clifford Cooper, Gerald Moffatt, Fred Hefferman, Wellesley Scott, Ernest Hudgins, Kenneth Cooper, George Jones, Lloyd Gunter, Geo. A, Hare, Earl Hickey, Bernard Sayers.

AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

Midnight mass was celebrated at St. Michael's on Christmas eve. The church was packed to the doors, and the number receiving communion was unusually large. The celebrant was the rector, Rev. C. Killeen. The musical part of the service was of a very high order; the mass (Milliard's in Eb.) being rendered by the large choir most creditably. The soloists, Miss Bawden in the "Qui Tollis," Mrs. Grant, "Agnus Dei"; Mr. Peppin "Et Unum Canctum," and Mr. J. V. Doyle, "Et Incarnatus," fully sustained their reputations. The offertory piece was Dudley Buck's baritone solo, "Fear Ye Not, O Israel," by Mr. C. St. Charles, and was given in a clear, strong and pleasing voice. The young singer was afterwards the recipient of many congratulations on this, his first venture as a soloist. As in the past, Messrs. O'Rourke, Blaind and Weese kindly assisted with their respective instruments.

THE PERSIAN CRISIS

Berlin.—A special news despatch from Constantinople says that Turkey in response to Russia's action in Persia, is preparing to send the sixth arm corps toward the Persian frontier. Turkey, the despatch adds, has been long endeavoring to establish a hold on northwestern Persia, in the vicinity of the lake and town of Urumiah in the province of Azerbaijan. She desires to share in the eventual partition of Persia which Russia regards as a strategic menace.

It is thought in Constantinople that Russia's vigorous following up of the Shuster incident has been perhaps influenced by the difficulties caused to Turkey through the Turko-Italian war.

CURRENT COMMENT

Edison is now at work devising a moving-picture apparatus for use in the homes of the people. When every home is equipped with an Edison phonograph to delight the ear and a moving-picture machine to delight the eye, what will the theatre managers do?—Hamilton Herald.

A practical potter, it is said, has patented a process by which clay can be so hardened as to make it a valuable article for road making. It is claimed that by the watering of the surface of clay roads with a solution of potter's acid the roads would become hard and practically waterproof. If this invention proves of use there will be no difficulty in having good roads in Hastings, for there is an abundance of clay obtainable.

On Sept. 21st last there was no doubt as to Mr. George I. Thomas' position on the reciprocity question. He was against it like all well-wishers for Canada's future prosperity. Now Mr. Thomas has Belleville' interests at heart. He wants to be Mayor and to see Belleville forge ahead, with all possible lines of Canadian transportation running through it.

The Canadian Pacific Railway people never do anything by halves. It is now erecting a new office building in Toronto for the accommodation of its various departments. This building will stand at the corner of King and Yonge streets—the principal corner of, and perhaps the most valuable property, in the city of Toronto. The new building will be sixteen storeys high, being the highest office building in Canada.

Here is a disgusting state of affairs. A telegram from Los Angeles of the 21st Dec., states that the local Russian colony in that locality is a marriage market wherein young girls are bartered like cattle by their parents. Elsie Taviok Navikoff, 17 years old, while in the juvenile court there, on a charge of a delinquency, screamed that she would bare the secrets of her race rather than to marry a stranger to whom she alleges her parents were willing to sell her. She declared that in the Russian quarter, with a population of about 4,000, there were 600 young girls for sale, at an average price of $500. Would not lynching in such cases be justified?

The Canadian climate produces some lively octogenarians. Here is the governor of the Halifax prison, who, though 82 years of age, declines to consider himself in the chloroform stage and resists all inducements to resign. Another wiry old gentleman, a resident of Dundas, walked from that town to Hamilton the other day, a distance of "about five miles," in 62 minutes, in celebration of his 84th birthday. This is an annual stunt of his. While we decline to believe that anybody except a professional pedestrian can walk five miles in 62 minutes, still even four miles an hour is remarkable speed for an octogenarian, and it is sincerely hoped that the old gentleman will continue to beat out that other old gentleman, Father Time, for many years to come.—Ottawa Citizen.

MYSTERIOUS HUMAN RAYS

The recent announcement from Paris that a Major Darget has discovered that the human body emits rays, which he has named "V"-rays, is a reminder that confirmation has not yet been obtained of the mysterious rays which eight years ago M. Blondlot claimed to have seen. These rays, said M. Blondlot, were not only emitted by certain sources of light and heat, but also by the human body, and by animals such as frogs. They varied in their nature so much that a very thin sheet of aluminum was opaque to them when sent out from the brain or nervous system, but when originating in the muscles, the diaphragm, or the heart they easily passed through otherwise opaque screens. M. Blondlot named the rays the "N"-rays, after the town of Nancy, in the University of which he was a professor, but up to the present other investigators have utterly failed to discover their existence.

Friendship of Books

To fall in love with a good book is one of the greatest events that can befall us. It is to have a new influence pouring itself into our life a new teacher to inspire us, a new friend to be by our side always, who, when life grows narrow and weary, will take us into his wider and calmer and higher world.

Whether it be biography, introducing us to some humble life made great by duty done; or history, opening vistas into the movements and destinies of nations that have passed away; or poetry, making music of all the common things around us, and filling the fields and the skies and the work of the city and the cottage with eternal meanings — whether it be these, or religious books or science, no one can become the friend even of one good book without being made wiser and better.

AN OPEN SWITCH LED TO DEATH

THE VICTIMS CARED FOR.

As soon as possible after the unfortunate affair the ambulance was called, and as speedily as possible the injured men were conveyed to the hospital, where medical men and the nurses were in readiness to render whatever aid was in their power. The injured, excepting Post, and there is some hope for him, will no doubt recover within a short time.

Post is a married man and has a family of two children. Although he has been an engineer on the G. T. R. for some years, he has not long been a resident of this city, having moved here from York. He is spoken of as an efficient engineer and a general favorite with his fellow employees.

W. S. Symons, who lost his life, is a married man, but his wife is at present at Stirling, Scotland, where she was notified of her husband's death. Deceased was comparatively a young man and we are informed had not been long a resident of this country. He was boarding at Mr. A. Craig's, on Bleecker Avenue. The remains, after being taken from the wreck, were, on order of Dr. Farley, the coroner, removed to Tickell & Sons' undertaking establishment. His left leg had to be amputated and his right leg was terribly mutilated.

In conversation with one of the men who was in the wreck, The Intelligencer learned that it was impossible, under existing circumstances, to have prevented it, as danger of the impending collision was not learned until the iron horses were within a few feet of each other. The party stated that neither the engineers nor firemen had an opportunity to jump.

INQUEST OPENED.

It being necessary, under the circumstances, to hold an inquest to enquire into the circumstances of the terrible affair, Dr. Farley, coroner, issued his warrant for an inquest. On Christmas morning at 10 o'clock, a jury having been empannelled, met at the undertaking establishment of Tickell & Sons. The following composed the jury: Messrs. T. P. J. Power, foreman; F. Dolan, C. Atkins, J. Canning, P. Harrison, L. Canniff, E. T. Austin and A. Collins. The jury, after being sworn in, accompanied by the coroner, viewed the body of W. S. Symons and noted the injuries he had sustained.

The only evidence taken was that of Sergt. Naphin, of the police force, who testified that, acting under the instructions of the coroner, he had empannelled a jury.

Mr. P. J. M. Anderson, County Attorney, was present in his official capacity. The inquest was then adjourned until Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the police court room.

NOTES.

During Sunday the scene of the accident was visited by many citizens.

Much sympathy is expressed on behalf of Mrs. Symons, who at present is thousands of miles away from the city and will be unable to attend even the obsequies of her late husband. A number of letters from her were found on the person of the dead man, and among them one in which she stated that she had forwarded a Christmas pudding to him.

For Brides.... and Others

A country vicar gave this advice to a young woman bent on matrimony: "When you marry him, love him; after you marry him, study him; if he is honest, honor him; if he is generous, appreciate him; when he is sad, cheer him; when he is cross, amuse him; when he is talkative, listen to him; when he is quarrelsome, ignore him; if he is slothful, spur him; if he is noble, praise him; if he is confidential, encourage him; if he is secretive, trust him; if he is jealous, cure him; if he cares naught for pleasure, coax him; if he favors society, accompany him; if he does you a favor, thank him; when he deserves it, kiss him; let him think how well you understand him, but never let him know that you 'manage' him."

To Renovate Blue Serge

A good renovating mixture for blue serge is composed of two ounces of spirits of wine and one ounce of liquid ammonia. Rub the serge with a small piece of cloth soaked in the mixture. Only a little of the renovator should be poured out at a time as it evaporates rather quickly.

Great care should be had in watering horses. A little and often is the best way.

BIG REMOVALS

In These Days of Progress Many Large Buildings are Moved Bodily to Other Cities for Different Reasons.

A remarkable moving feat was successfully carried through just over a year ago at Bochott, a little town in Belgium. It was found necessary to enlarge the church, and to do this it meant moving the church tower. New foundations were prepared about 30 ft. away, and, along the machinery constructed for its transport the tower, which dates from the fourteenth century, was slowly moved. It wasn't a "moonlight flit" either, for it took the best part of a week to move it the necessary 30 ft. Not only had the engineers to face the possibility of the tower toppling in the move, but they had the task of lifting 2,700 tons.

Moving a Glasgow Church

Whole towns have been moved bodily. Some years ago the town of Platte, in South Dakota, was declared to be insanitary. It was decided to move to a more convenient spot, some miles away. The first building moved was the Platte Hotel. One great obstacle that had to be overcome was a broad creek. This was successfully managed, however, with the help of 120 horses. The town church followed, and then the rest of the buildings, shops, houses, everything, lock, stock, and barrel.

This is certainly one of the most extraordinary moves that have ever taken place. Shifting houses in America is not thought half so much of as in England, where it is rarely done.

In 1899, however, Glasgow people witnessed the removal of St. Bride's Episcopal Church from its old site in the Beaconsfield Road to a new one about half a mile away. It was found to be considerably cheaper to shift the church as it stood than to pull it to pieces and re-erect it. The church was moved on a Saturday, and on the Sunday services were held in it as though nothing out of the ordinary had happened.

BIG FISH HATCHES

The World's Largest Salmon Nursery Is In Canada. — Fish-Hatching Is An Extraordinary Business.

From the Fisheries Department of the Canadian Government, whose duty it is to replenish the Canadian rivers with the commercial varieties of fish, come some interesting facts concerning fish-hatching. The work is carried out by a series of hatcheries established throughout the country at points both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and on the Great Lakes.

The largest of these — indeed, it is said to be the largest of its kind in the world — is the hatchery at Harrison Lake, drained by the Fraser River in British Columbia, which deals exclusively with the hatching of salmon. There are always 10,000,000 fish in the building — 7,000,000 sockeys salmon eggs and fry (the fish principally used for canning purposes), and 3,000,000 spring salmon.

The building contains 160 hatching troughs, each averaging 90,000 fish. During September and October the eggs of the female are expressed into a pan and the fertilizing "milt" of the male thoroughly mixed with them. The eggs are then carried to the hatchery and placed in troughs set in flowing water.

When ready to be liberated the fish are placed in a specially-constructed semi-submerged boat. This is towed to a chosen spot, and when in proper position is allowed to sink below the water.

BOILED SNAKE-ONE

Reptiles Though Repugnent to European Tastes are Considered in Many Climes as Dainty Dishes.

People in general have an instinctive abhorrence of reptiles, yet in many parts of the world it is a "cut" from the alligator, not from the joint. The waiter may deliver his order of "Boiled Snake—One."

A peculiarly dainty and nourishing dish is made with the iguana, the flesh of which is as white as that of a chicken and just as palatable, though the reptile's outward appearance with its scaly, blackspotted, green coat, is more repulsive than either crocodile or alligator. To the inhabitants of the Bahamas and the other islands in the West Indies, the iguama affords a much valued source of food. They hunt them down by means of dogs, their mouths muzzled in order to prevent them using their teeth and damaging the reptile, then eat them alive, or kill, salt and barrel them for home consumption. The flesh of the reptile is usually served up boiled, together with a dish of clarified iguana fat, into which the meat is dipped as it is eaten. The eggs of the iguana also are much relished, and are like hens' eggs, in flavour, but wholly filled with yolk, and do not become hard in boiling.

Crocodile flesh is publicly sold in the meat mearkets of Senuaar in Africa, and in Siam you see their carcases hung up for sale like sheep's in the butcher's shop. Both alligator and crocodile eggs are much prized by certain nations. The second is considered to be a dainty in Siam, while the natives of Madagascar are particularly fond of the first.

CRITICS OF THE CLUBS

It is extremely amusing to note some of the criticism made of the make-up of the clubs for the battles of this year by men who at best see very little of some of the clubs, and are therefore little qualified to pass judgment on them. One cannot speak intelligently of the work of players after but a few games during a season. To pass intelligently on the work of the players of a club one must thoroughly understand them and one cannot do that unless he has been with them constantly and is familiar with every detail of their work. It was only the other day that a well-known player, who undertakes to do more or less writing for the press, came out and ventured the opinion that a certain player of his club was underestimated. There was absolutely no foundation for the assertion, for the player in question is as popular as any member of the team and his work in all its lines is perfectly understood by any one who knows anything about games at all, and the people in the city in question have been following the game for more years than the aforesaid critic is years old.

Ladies of Culture and Refinement Use Salvia Hair Tonic. It Makes the Hair Beautiful

At last a remedy has been discovered that will positively destroy this pest.

That Dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and remove Dandruff in ten days, or money back.

D. M. Waters guarantees it. It will grow hair, stop itching scalp, falling hair, and make the hair thick and abundant. It prevents hair from turning gray, and adds life and lustre.

SALVIA is a hair dressing that has become the favorite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of beautiful hair. A large generous bottle costs only 50c. at leading druggists everywhere, and in Belleville by D. M. Waters. The word "SALVIA" (Latin for sage) is on every bottle.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

"I suppose you were in the curtained alcove while he and Maillot were talking," I interrupted.

"Not all the time; I didn't dare be. The old man was as sharp as a fox. He didn't trust anybody.

"However, I carried out my part of the programme, all right; but just as I reached the top of the stairs I felt the magnetism of somebody's presence. I looked back and saw Page—he looked positively diabolical—following me. How he enjoyed catching anybody in such a predicament!"

"And then?"

"Well, then—why, I must have lost my head. I started for my room, but the old man commanded me to stop, and I stopped. People generally did when Page told them to. Fluette heard him and came into the hall to learn what was the matter. Page could not see him then because of the angle in the corridor, and the old man paused by the etagere to light the candle in the iron candlestick.

"After that the old man walked right up to me and held out his hand for the box and the bundle of letters; but before I had time to give them to him, Fluette rushed in between us. His appearance startled the old man so that he recoiled a pace or two. This gave Fluette the opportunity he needed to take the things from me. He smiled at Page, and said:

"'By God, Felix Page, you sha'n't thwart me this time; for once I've got the upper hand of you, and I mean to keep it.' Fluette, you see, had put in the time while waiting in my room listening to Tshen's story and examining his credentials.

"That infuriated Page so that he went clear off his head. He set down the iron candlestick upon the floor, and plunged right into Fluette. Quicker than you can think, they were wrestling furiously for the box and the bundle of letters.

"I ran into my room and told Tshen what was going on. Three of his party were with him, and they were all so excited that I could scarcely do anything with them. Next I ran back into the hall, where the two men were still struggling and threshing about. They saved their breath for their exertions, each trying with might and main to wrest the precious package from the other.

"All at once the jewel-box was wrenched open. The ruby—or what I thought was the ruby—flew out and fell at my feet. I stooped in a flash and picked it up. As I straightened upright, I saw that Page had succeeded in recovering the jewel-case, although Fluette had the letters. With an oath, Page cast the empty box away from him. 'I'll cut your heart out for that!' he snarled, and started for Fluette. Fluette hastily jabbed the letters into his coat pocket, grabbed up the candlestick and threw it above his head. The light was extinguished, and the candlestick crushed upon Page's head.

"It was an inspiration that made me press the ruby into the soap; I couldn't have found a better hiding-place if I had searched the house over."

I was no longer heeding him. The last doubt had been removed. After all, then, Alfred Fluette was the guilty man.

My heart ached for the three women upon whom the blow would fall the hardest. The tangle was unravelling in accord with my theory. I had warned Genevieve of what she might expect—indeed, she had apprehended the probable outcome herself; it had been hopeless to attempt to prepare Belle. But all this failed to relieve the situation any.

However, the ruby presently rose uppermost in my mind, and with it came a conviction that Burke had not told me everything that he might have respecting the gem. If it had not been in the bar of soap, where was it? Then light flashed upon the enigma.

Burke and the Burmese had been afforded more time than I in which to speculate upon the substitution of the false for the genuine stone, and Burke had not gone inconsiderately to the Page place on Friday night, but, quite the reverse, to prosecute a definite plan of search. How near he came to the goal I didn't appreciate till later.

The discovery by the Burmese that the soap contained merely the paste replica, made them suspect Burke of duplicity. Hence, after Fanshawe and I lost them Friday morning, the Burman had continued to dog the ex-secretary until relieved some time during the day by the misshapen dwarf, who, in turn, had followed him to the Page place after nightfall.

The mute—whose ugly visage Genevieve had seen at the alcove curtains—had attacked him, perhaps in the belief that Burke had found the gem, and that he had been deceiving them respecting it.

It was this struggle in the bedroom which had created such a tumult, frightening Burke within an inch of his life, and driving him pellmell away and to his bed, where he had remained until the following Tuesday. Both had utterly vanished by the time I effected an entrance to the house.

"I can truthfully say, Burke," I confided, "that I never underestimated your intelligence. You did not go blindly to the Page place Friday night. You reasoned that, if Mr. Page displayed the genuine ruby to Maillot, and if the jewel-case contained only the replica when you robbed the safe an hour or so later, why, the substitution must have occurred somewhere between the library table, where Maillot and Page had been sitting, and the safe. Consequently you were encouraged by the assurance that the scope of your search would be restricted.

"I believe you argued correctly. And to keep you out of further mischief, or from setting your precious Burmese upon me again, why, you may stay here a while and think over it."

Despite his protestations, when I left headquarters the last glimpse I had of him was through the bars of a cell door.

I went directly to the Fluette residence to inform Genevieve that her apprehensions and uncertainties had at last crystallized into dread reality. I shall not dwell upon this wretched conference; it is quite enough to say that the poor girl was torn with grief, yet not wholly convinced.

"Knowles,"—she was clinging to my arm, her voice hoarse and distressed,—"it is too terrible—too monstrous for belief. I can not do it—can't believe it—unless I hear the words from Uncle Alfred's own lips. He is here now; he didn't go down-town to-day. The horrible charge has been made—confront him with it. He's up-stairs with Aunt Clara."

"Very well," I quietly returned. "You go and ask him, as calmly as possible, to come down to his study. Don't alarm Miss Belle or her mother; it may not be necessary."

Moving blindly towards the stairs, she paused on the first landing and turned to me a tragic face.

"Courage!" I whispered.

Then she found the strength to carry her on to the end of her revulsive errand. I went direct to the study, and waited.

Fluette came in hastily, his manner wild, his face white and haggard. Genevieve, distressed and heartbroken, followed close behind him. She closed the door. The man began speaking at once, incoherently, in a harsh, strident whisper that signified constricted throat muscles.

"So! It's come at last! You—keep it from—from—my God! keep it from my wife and daughter!"

I answered him roughly, in an attempt to keep him from breaking completely down.

"Pull yourself together, man! What sort of way is this to act?" I surveyed his abject figure an instant, then added with some bitterness: "It is not I that you fear, but your own conscience."

G.T.R. SECURES MINES.

Valuable Railway Fuel Areas Are Secured In Ohio.

Pittsburg, Dec. 26.—The Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada has just closed a deal whereby it obtains the holdings of the Rail and River Coal Co., with main offices here. The mines are located in Belmont County, Ohio. The deal includes 31,000 acres of coal lands and six producing mines, which have an output of 750,000 tons annually. The Grand Trunk Railroad contemplates operating the mines and using the output on its lines. The price approximates $3,000,000.

Many obstacles had to be overcome before the transaction could be completed. The closing of the deal was hastened by the proposed merger of 48 rival mining companies in Belmont and Jefferson Counties, Ohio. M. Liseman & Co. of New York have underwritten the stock for the merger, which represent $30,000,000 in capital, to be subscribed by London and Amsterdam capitalists. All the stock will be controlled by European interests.

It is said that Dan R. Hanna of Cleveland, Ohio, has agreed to dispose of his large holdings to the new syndicate. The capacity of the mines which it is proposed to consolidate is 13,000,000 tons annually.

The coal lands purchased by the G.T.R. are all in the No. 8 Pittsburg seam, which has been shipped heavily to the lakes the past few years. It makes excellent fuel for railroad purposes and is superior to any other grade of coal on the market.

Not Fully Confirmed.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26.—Officials of two big Columbus coal companies, who are among the largest operators in the Belmont County coal fields, yesterday denied any connection with the sale of coal land in the Belmont County field for the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada.

It was stated here, however, that the Grand Trunk had absorbed the Rail & River Coal Co. of Pittsburg.

The Rail & River Co. was capitalized at $2,500,000, with $2,500,000 in bonds outstanding. The Grand Trunk is understood to have paid $3,000,000 for the stock and guaranteed the bonds.

According to Pittsburg operators, the Grand Trunk purchase is the first step toward a consolidation that will represent an investment of $30,000,000 in Belmont County coal property, and control an annual output of 13,000,000 tons.

Two men were arrested at Havelock on the charge of stealing fowl. They will probably urge in mitigation the outrageously high price of the article, which placed the "bird of Christmas" beyond their power of purchase, but not beyond their reach.

Samuel Humphrey, Stony Point, Ont., met with a serious loss in the destruction of his barn by fire. Two hundred bushels of oats, twenty tons of hay, his farm implements, harness, tools, etc., were also burned.

Duke Is Bountiful.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—Christmas was spent quietly in the capital, the weather being against much outdoor enjoyment, being sloppy and mild. The churches were well attended.

At Rideau Hall H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught spent the season in old English style. Every employe was personally given the best wishes of the day by the Duke, who added something substantial to the handshake, the laborers got turkeys and wine, while others had money given to them, and higher officials stick pins with the Connaught monogram surmounted by the crest in precious stones.

His Royal Highness attended church twice during the day. Mr. R. L. Borden received many messages of good-will by mail and wire, two being cables, one from Sir Joseph Ward and one from H. R. Fisher, Australian Premier.

Taken From Jail and Shot.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 26.—King Davis, a negro, aged 23 years, who last Saturday night shot and killed Frederick A. Schwab (white) at Fairfield, Anne Arundel County, was taken from the lock-up at Brooklyn, a suburb of Baltimore, at an early hour yesterday and shot to death by a small party of unknown men.

Davis, who was also known by the name of Johnson, was dragged to a spot about 200 yards from the station and shot through the lungs four times. His body was not discovered until several hours afterwards by a passer-by who notified the police. No all-night guard is kept at the station, and the police had no knowledge of the affair until the finding of the body was reported. Chief Irwin at once started an investigation. Up to last evening he said he had no clue to the perpetrators of the deed.

Steamer Run Down.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 26.—Driven many miles off her course by a strong northeast gale and while trying to find her way, the barkentine Mabel Myers, from Searsport, Maine, to Richmond, Va., collided with the Royal Mail steamer Orotava, bound from New York to Havana, about 75 miles off Cape Hatteras early Saturday morning, according to advices received here. Neither vessel sustained serious damage, and after a few hours' delay, proceeded on their way.

The Orotava's passengers, who were asleep when the accident happened, were badly frightened, and they were quieted with some difficulty by the officers of the vessels. The Myers had her railing torn away for about twenty feet and several plates on the Orotava were slightly dented.

Means "Absolutism."

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 26.—"If Roosevelt is put in the White House in 1912, we will never get him out again except feet first," was the statement of Col. Henry Watterson, editor of The Louisville Courier Journal, in commenting on the Republican situation throughout the conutry.

Col. Watterson expressed the belief that the long looked-for change of parties was at hand, but he has not declared his choice for the Democratic nomination.

Col. Watterson declared that in his opinion the Republicans could not elect either Roosevelt or Taft, and said the election of the former president, abrogating the third term tradition, would be a step toward absolutism.

Lindsay's Municipal Fight.

Lindsay, Dec. 26.—The following candidates are in the municipal field: For mayor, Dr. J. W. Wood, R. M. Beal; for reeve, James Graham, A. C. Babcock; for first deputy reeve, M. J. Levis and James H. Hopkins; for second deputy reeve, H. Dobson and W. W. Jordan; for council, W. McWatters, J. A. Brown, F. McClory, N. Small, Alex. Horn, N. Grey, J. Wilson, S. Howe.

Sardinian's Rough Trip.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 26.—The Allan liner Sardinian reached port yesterday with 168 passengers. Capt. Hamilton said he encountered a continuous series of gales, and added that he had never seen the Atlantic so rough as it has been so far this week.

For the first time in the history of St. Boniface, Manitoba, an English-speaking gentleman was elected Mayor, J. Berry defeating Dr. Lachance by 121.

The Mayoralty

A city correspondent is unnecessarily troubled about the position of The Intelligencer on the mayoralty question. Our friend evidently forgets that The Intelligencer took strong grounds upon the tax lot question, the dealings with which it considered improper on the part of those who used their official positions to benefit themselves or their relatives, and demanded an investigation. What position would The Intelligencer be in were it to advocate the election of any of those who voted against the investigation? It would be advocating its own condemnation. The Intelligencer has some regard for consistency and honesty in municipal as well as in other affairs, if our correspondent has not.

A Broad Farce

The attempt to govern Belleville on a system which provided machinery big enough for a city of a million people, and which was not only unjust to the smaller taxpayers, but opened the door wide for the admission to the City Council of undesirable men, has resulted, as The Intelligencer predicted, in a broad farce.

The net result of the municipal nominations is, so far as the aldermanic board is concerned, a failure to secure a sufficient number of candidates, so that in three of the wards there has been election by acclamation, and in three other wards there is a shortage of five candidates in all, while no less than ten of last year's aldermen refused to serve for another year in a body of twenty-one members. In only one ward is there a contest. Here are the details:—

Foster Ward—This ward, which cried out for a resident alderman, has lost the only resident representative which it had by the retirement of Ald. Gibson, and has elected two representatives from Murney Ward and one from Coleman Ward.

Samson Ward has only one candidate, who lives in Murney Ward. Aldermen Sills and Caldwell refused to run again.

In Ketcheson Ward the former representatives, namely Aldermen McGie, Riggs and Marshall cried "enough" after one year, and in order to provide candidates, two of those who were nominated in Baldwin Ward were switched over and chosen by acclamation, but there is still one seat vacant for this ward.

Baldwin Ward—Ald. Adams failed to qualify and by the switching of two of the five who were nominated to Ketcheson Ward the necessary three were elected by acclamation.

Bleecker Ward—Ald. Thompson and Flagler would not have any more of it, and as only two aspirants were willing to serve, there was an election with one man short.

Coleman Ward—Two of last year's aldermen retired and four will go to the polls.

Murney Ward—Two of last year's aldermen and one new man were elected, Ald. Vermilyea having retired in order to contest the mayoralty.

tem. It needs no comment further tem. tI needs no comment further than to say that, in addition to all its other objectionable features, it has entailed a considerable needless expense in the holding of supplementary elections to fill the representation of Samson, Ketcheson and Bleecker Wards.

The names of the nominees who qualified in the various wards will be found in another column.

Vote for the resumption of a sane system of civic government on Monday next.

The Civil Service

It is stated in Ottawa that the Government has determined on the men who are to conduct an investigation into the several departments of the public service at Ottawa. The names mentioned are those of Hon. A. B. Morine, K.C., of Toronto; Richard S. Lake, of Grenfell, Sask.; and G. N. Ducharme, of Montreal. Mr. Morine is regarded as peculiarly well fitted for the work of investigation by reason of his lengthy experience in the administrative affairs of Newfoundland, and of his high standing as a member of the bar. Mr. Lake represented the Saskatchewan riding of Qu'Appelle in the last Parliament, but was defeated in the September election. He is a practical farmer, with a wide knowledge of business affairs, and has made a study of civil service questions. Mr. Ducharme is a wealthy man, who has had a long and creditable business career in Montreal. He is a director of the Banque Provinciale. It is expected that Mr. Morine will be the chairman of the commission.

These gentlemen have an herculean task before them, if they devote themselves to the ferreting out of how business has been transacted in the past and how grafting has flourished.

A FINE SHOWING

The President, Directors and General Manager of the Merchants Bank are to be congratulated on the fine showing made by their institutions during the past year. Its net profits were the highest on record, amounting to a total of $1,179,000 or equal to 19.23% of the paid up capital. These profits were over $100,000 in excess of the net earnings for the previous year. With the $99,000 brought forward from the previous year the bank had $1,278,000 available for distribution. This was apportioned as follows:—Dividend requirements, $570,000, the two former being at the rate of 9% and the last two quarterly dividends at the rate of 10%. The sum of $500,000 was transferred to the reserve fund, $100,000 written off bank premises account and $50,000 contributed to the officers' pension fund, leaving a balance of $58,000 carried forward.

That the bank has been prosperous is shown by a comparison with the figures of the previous report. The reserve fund, which is now equivalent to 90% of the paid up capital, stands at $5,400,000, as compared with $4,900,000 last year.

Two or three features in the report are worthy of special mention. The increase in dividend from 9 to 10% is the second in two years, and the increase in the reserve fund makes that equivalent to 90% of the paid up capital, while the quickly available assets now stand at over 45% of the total liabilities. In addition the increase in deposits and the total assets show that the bank is growing in popularity with the public and becoming an increasingly strong financial institution. The showing for the past year was a highly creditable one.

Mme. KARIN MICHAELIS

LONDON. — The most talked-of book in Europe today is "The Dangerous Age", by Madame Karin Michaelis, a Danish woman. The book is an intimate study of the heart of a woman — daringly conceived and brilliantly executed. A storm of discussion has been started wherever "The Dangerous Age" has appeared, for it is not a book for sweet sixteen to read.

Madame Michaelis seems to think that the dangerous age is along about 40.

HE WAS NAMED IN A NOVEL AND SUES FOR $100,000

Gelett Burgess, the author, and his publisher, the Bobbs-Merrill Company, of Indianapolis, have been sued for $100,000 damages by William H. Dailey, a wealthy mining man of San Francisco, who alleges that a character named Dailey as drawn in Mr. Burgess' novel, "The Heart Line," is a libel on himself. The suit has been brought in the Supreme Court of New York. Judge Vernon M. Davis, before whom a demurrer to Mr. Dailey's complaint was argued a few days ago, is expected to render his decision on that point to-morrow.

Mr. Dailey, in his complaint alleges that the public has been caused to associate him with persons of unsound mind and disreputable habits, and is led to believe that he is a "curiosity" and that his conduct and manner of living are not those of an "ordinary, sound, reasonable and decent" member of society. He also takes exception to the other characters who figure in Mr. Burgess' chapter "My San Francisco Improbabilities" and calls attention to the fact that in the chapter of "The Heart Line," that is, the basis of the action, Dailey is made to order a case of champagne with every meal.

The part of "The Heart Line" which Mr. Dailey considers to be a reflection on him, and which is quoted in the complaint filed by H. D. Sears, of 49 Wall street, Mr. Dailey's lawyer, reads:

Clytel accepted the diversion, evidently only too glad to escape the subject.

"What collection," she asked.

"My San Francisco improbabilities. I've got a note book full of them—things no Easterner would believe possible, and no novelist care to use in fiction."

"Oh, yes, I remember your telling me. What are they? One was that house made entirely of doors, wasn't it?"

"Yes, 'The House of One Hundred and Eighty Doors' at the foot of Ninth street. Then there is the bulk of the Orizaba, over by the Union Iron Works, where 'Frank the Frenchman' lives like a hermit, eats swill, and bathes in the sewage of the harbor. Then there's 'Munson's Mystery' on the North Beach—nobody has ever found out who Munson is. And Dailey, the star eater of the Palace Hotel—he used to have four canvas backed ducks cooked, selected one, and used only the juice of the others; he ordered soup at a dollar a plate, and had a happy way of buying a case of champagne with each meal, drinking only the top glass from each bottle."

Clytie laughed now, for Clayley was in one of his most amusing and enthusiastic moods. "Do you remember that tramp who lived all summer in the Hensief vault in Calvary Cemetery?"

"Yes, but that isn't as impossible as Kruger's Castle out in the sand hills by Tenth Avenue. It is a perfect jumble in joint-ot buildings from the Mid-Winter Fair, like a nightmare palace. I went out there once and saw old Mother Kruger so tortured with rheumatism that she had to crawl around on her hands and knees. She had only one tooth left. The old man is one of the last of the wood-engravers, and calls himself the Emperor of the Nations. He has resurrected Hannibal and an army of two hundred thousand men; also he revived Pompeii for three days. He wanted to bring Mayor Sutro back to life for me, but I wouldn't stand for it."

Clayley swept on with his anecdotes. "Who would believe the story of 'Big Bertha' who bounced all the swellest Hebrews in town, and ended by playing Mazeppa in tights at the Bella Union Theatre? Who has written the true story of Dennis Kearney the hack driver, who had his speeches written for him by reporters, and went east with a big head, unconsciously to plagiarize Wendell Phillips in Faneuil Hall? Or of 'Mammy' Pleasant, the old negress who had such a mysterious influence over so many millionaires—who couldn't be bribed—who died at last, with all her secrets untold? There's romance in purple letters!"

Mr. Sears said yesterday that he did not believe that Mr. Burgess had ever met Mr. Dailey, who, he said, was a man of means prominently identified with the smelting business in the West.

"What we want," said Mr. Sears, "is a chance to prove that Dailey, of 'The Heart Line,' was intended to, and did refer to Mr. William H. Dailey, of San Francisco, who for many years lived at the Palace Hotel in that city. Mr. Dailey resents being classed with such characters as 'Frank the Frenchman; 'Kruger'; 'Big Bertha'; 'Kearney,' and the cemetery tramp, and 'Mammy Pleasant.' 'Frank the Frenchman,' 'Big Bertha' and 'Kearney' are all characters once well known in certain San Francisco circles.'

"The meaning and intention of this publication," Mr. Dailey says in his complaint, "was to cause the public in general, and did cause the public in general, to believe that this plaintiff was a man of great extravagance in his manner of living, and was a man of intemperate habits, used to drinking a great deal of champagne, to wit, twelve glasses with each meal, a glass from twelve separate bottles, discarding the remaining contents thereof; and other forms of ridiculous and useless extravagance.

Mr. Dailey states that the statements in Mr. Burgess' book on which his action is based are false, and that as a result of their publication he has been injured in feelings and reputation and caused great mental suffering, all to his damage in the sum of $100,000. He asks judgment in the above amount together with the costs and disbursements for the action.

STORY OF LIFE IN A PARIS HOTEL

The Strange Story of a Loan and Its Consequences.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—The ways of life in the caravanserais of the twentieth century are always so much of their own kind that the French public is never tired of hearing something of what goes on within their walls. Hence the great interest yesterday in the prosecution of an hotel clerk accused of having embezzled $10,000 in an hotel in the Champ Elysee.

'What is to be expected," said one of the witnesses, "in an hotel where an Oriental potentate runs up a daily bill of $2,000, where a millionaire drinks Haut Brion at $30 a bottle, where an English family thought 80 trunks not an excessive luggage, where guests go about with a lion pup on a leash, or a baby crocodile under their arm, and where magnates from the East do their cooking in their bedrooms and disdain to use the tapestried chairs, sitting, instead cross-legged on the floor?"

The embezzlement, it was urged, was scarcely remarkable in this milieu, although it might be more reprehensible. But the prosecution pressed the case. The evidence showed that the defalcations were discovered on a surprise visit by the auditor. The excuse given was that the money had been advanced, with the courtesy and discretion that are customary in such hotels, to one of the guests—a lady of distinction. The plea made the judge prick up his ears.

"This sum was advanced to a lady?" he asked the prisoner.

"Yes," was the reply.

"But it is rather a large sum."

"Well, I lent only $500 at first, but then, in order not to lose that, and lose my place as well, I advanced further sums. But there need be no fear, the money will be refunded."

"But who is the lady?" asked the judge.

"A lady of title—but I cannot disclose her name."

"Yes," said his lawyer, "I have her name here in my brief. She was born on the steps of a throne, but I am bound by my oath as a barrister not to reveal her name."

The judge, less impressed than some with this plea, refused to accept it, and the clerk was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

PORTE DROVE BARGAIN.

Asked Great Britain to Requite the Cession of Sollum.

London, Eng., Dec. 22.—A belated despatch reports a fight at Derna on Dec. 16, between the Italians and Turks, in which the casualties were small. No movement is reported from other occupied points. It is said that 15,000 Arabs and Turks have assembled within four or five miles of the Italian trenches at Tobruk.

According to despatches to a news agency, six Italian warships have appeared off Durazzo, on the Albanian coast, and the inhabitants are preparing for flight.

The Porte, in consideration for the cession of the Sollum district of Barca, the eastern division of Tripoli, to Egypt, stipulated that Great Britain use her influence to preserve peace in the Balkans, prevent Italian naval action in Turkish waters, and maintain a benevolent neutrality on the Egyptian frontier. Sollum has been occupied by Egypt, and, it is announced, will be held pending the conclusion of the Turco-Italian war.

Turks Draw Off.

Derna, Tripoli, Dec. 22.—Turkish forces have made several attacks on the Italian soldiers while the latter were engaged in throwing up works outside the town. Reinforcements were sent to the aid of the Italians, and a counter attack resulted in the withdrawal of the Turks. The Italians had three killed and 24 wounded.

Anarchy In Macedonia.

London, Eng., Dec. 22.—A despatch from Saloniki, European Turkey, to a London news agency reports a condition of anarchy throughout Macedonia. Murder, pillage and brigandage are rife. Travel in the country districts is safe only for large armed parties. Twenty-seven assassinations have occurred within the past month within a two hours' journey of Saloniki, all the victims being Greeks.

The Christians, finding it impossible to obtain redress, are organizing bands with the object of killing the Turks.

CANADIAN WINS SEAT.

Capt. F. C. Campbell Is Elected to British Commons For Ayrshire.

London, Dec. 22.—The Government has lost another set in the House of Commons owing to the result of the bye-election for North Ayrshire in Scotland. A. M. Anderson, K.C., the Liberal member returned at the last election, had to seek re-election upon his appointment as Solicitor-General for Scotland, and was defeated by Capt. D. F. Campbell, the Conservative candidate, by a majority of 271 votes.

At the last election Mr. Anderson won the seat by a majority of 238 votes.

Capt. Duncan Frederick Campbell is a Canadian, and was born in Toronto, residing on George street until 11 years ago. He was educated at Trinity University. Shortly after his graduation, he left for England, where he received a military education in a private military school.

He received his commission in the Lancashire Fusiliers shortly before the outbreak of the Boer war, and served with distinction throughout the South African campaign, receiving the D.S.O. after the war.

Coming of old Scotch stock, he was anxious to serve in a Scottish regiment, and at his own request was transferred some years ago to the Black Watch. About eight years ago he returned to Canada and married Miss Reilly of Hamilton.

Capt. Campbell's father was at one time a law partner of Sir William Mulock. His mother was a daughter of the late Barlow Cumberland. D. Lorne Campbell of the Toronto Stock Exchange, is a nephew.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HOME

Hello, Son—Are you Having a Good Time?

IT IS wonderful how much satisfaction can be obtained from a talk over the Bell Telephone.

A letter carries words, but the Bell Service has been brought up to such a point of perfection that the modulations of the voice are clearly heard.

The cheery tones show that the talker is well and in good spirits. The call may come from a suburban village or a distant city, but within the limits of the carrying power of the voice the Bell Service carries the tone as well. You get a personal interview with a friend hundreds of miles away.

LEARNING TO USE LIGHT

The color of the light plays an important part in tiring people out. Fatigue occurs far more quickly with orange and yellow rays at high intensities than from green and bluish green light like that from the mercury vapor lamp. Nothing equals the bluish white of diffused daylight. Shadows also have an important part to play. In fact, one of the principal aids in distinguishing objects is the difference in brightness. If there were no shadows but only a perfectly diffused illumination of high intensity it would be hard to see clearly. In order to have shadows there must be directed light from one or a number of sources and not merely diffused light coming from all directions. There must be enough directed light to mark edges of objects by shadows and also enough diffused light to enable one to see clearly in the shadows. To light the home with comfort and economy requires a combination of concentrated illumination of fairly high intensity at the dining or reading table with a general illumination of low intensity. The lighter the wall and ceiling are the more light they reflect to give the required diffused general illumination and so less direct light will be needed. As artificial light is deficient in blue and green rays, walls and ceilings of a bluish or greenish shade give them greater reflecting power for daylight than for artificial light, which is generally desirable.

MANY MILES OF SODA

Right in the Heart of Africa Is a Lake — Thirty Miles Square — of Soda Deposit Which Will Supply the World for Years To Come.

Forty million tons of the best washing material, supplied and manufactured by Nature, are waiting to be carried from Central Africa to the European markets, and an extension of the Uganda Railway is to be built from Ulu to Lake Magadi in order to effect this. Lake Magadi is not really a lake, but an area of thirty square miles of soda deposit situate in the heart of Afrca.

Two expeditions have gone out into this soda lake region, which, though hot in the middle of the day, is declared to be quite healthy. It is in the midst of one of the finest big-game shooting areas in the British South African Protectorate. In ordinary times the lake has a perfectly level, hard, and dry surface, like that of a gigantic mass of ice, if a thirty-square-mile area can be imagined.

It apepars that in the past it has been left to the Indians to remove soda from the lake. They cut out blocks, and what is called "Mother Liquid" spurts up and re-forms into solid soda, which they cut away next season. There is evidence that the soda in the lake is being continually augmented.

In addition to the many surface-springs discharging considerable quantities of soda into the lake, there are indications of large springs in the lake itself. On the removal of the soda already crystallized the "Mother Liquid," which takes its place at once, starts to re-form the crust.

It looks as if washerwomen can sleep comfortably in their beds for some years to come. So long as washing is provided for them, their soda shall be sure.

A Female Trooper.

The gallant Scots Greys are the only British cavalry corps which can boast of having possessed a female trooper. She was Mrs. Christian Davies, who doughtily wielded a sabre as a private in the Greys in the Marlborough Wars. Her sex was discovered after she was wounded in the head at Ramillies by a splinter of a bombshell. She was invalided, and granted a pension of a shilling a day for life. At her death she was buried with military honours in the grounds of Chelsea Hospital.

FIGHTING IN PERSIA

Serious Hostilities Have Begun in City of Tabriz.

Governor's Palace Has Been Bombarded and Other Clashes Between Russians and Persian Constitutionalists Are Reported—National Council Has Decided to Surrender, Says London Post.

Teheran, Persia, Dec. 22.—That serious fighting has commenced between the Persian constitutionists and Russian troops is evidenced in despatches from Tabriz, which state that the governor's palace has been bombarded. There were casualties on both sides, but their extent is not yet known. The Russian legation last night professed to have no details of the engagement.

There has been fighting also between the Russians and the Persians at Enzeli, on the Caspian Sea, and at Resht, 16 miles northwest of Enzeli. Conflicting versions are given as to the cause of the fighting. One says that the Russians seized the police headquarters at Resht.

It is feared that the news will have a deplorable effect upon public opinion in Teheran. The special commission of five deputies, which the National Council on Wednesday decided to appoint to deal with the Russian ultimatum, has not yet been formed, owing to the reluctance of the deputies to serve.

Attacked the Russians.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 22.—According to reports received from the town of Julfa, a suburb of Ispahan, Persia, the Persians yesterday attacked a Russian detachment. The firing lasted all day and the artillery took part in the engagement. Telegraphic communication with Persia has been interrupted.

A despatch from Tabriz reports that a small body of Russians was attacked while engaged in repairing a telephone line. Two of the attacking party were killed.

Will Not Fight.

London, Eng., Dec. 22.—The Teheran correspondent of The Morning Post says that Russia on Wednesday presented to Persia a final ultimatum, demanding compliance with 24 hours, otherwise the Russian troops now stationed at Kasbin would advance on Teheran.

The National Council, says the correspondent, has now abandoned its policy of resistance and has voted the regent authority to settle in the best interests of the country. The acute stage of the crisis is believed to be ended.

Endowed Theatre a Failure.

New York, Dec. 22.—"The New Theatre" idea, which was backed by several millionaires, headed by W. K. Vanderbilt, with the purpose of giving the country an endowed theatre with an established repertoire company of the first-class, is now announced to have been wholly abandoned.

When the founders of the project gave up the magnificent but unwieldy playhouse they had erected near Central Park, it was announced that the idea would not be abandoned, but that a smaller theatre would be erected further down town to house the stock company. At a meeting of the founders Wednesday night it was decided with reluctance to abandon the project altogether.

It was stated that the promoters had acted according to the advice of experts. It has been estimated that a fortune of several million dollars has been spent in the New Theatre cause, which commercial managers have continually berated.

Fear Win For Railway.

Winnipeg, Dec. 22.—Consternation has been created in civic circles by the possibility of the Privy Council's decision against the city's contention that the Street Railway Co. has no authority to supply current for light, heat and power in Winnipeg.

While decision has not yet been rendered, the law lords it is felt have forecasted their opinion by many direct questions, and by asking the solicitors for the city if they were willing to pay all costs, without contest, in the event that the decision went against them.

Six million dollars has been invested by Winnipeg in a municipal power plant, after the highest courts in Manitoba had decided that the Street Railway Co., which also furnishes light and power, had no legal status in the streets of the city.

New York Backs Taft.

New York, Dec. 22.—President Taft went back to Washington early yesterday with assurances that he would have practically solid support from the New York delegation at the coming national convention. Col. Roosevelt's friends seized the occasion of the President's visit to reiterate that his predecessor would not allow his name to be used in opposition to Taft's.

The President returned without seeing Col. Roosevelt or receiving any communication from him.

New Western Freight Rates.

Ottawa, Dec. 22.—The C.N.R. and C.P.R. have been given until April 1, 1912, to frame new schedules of freight rates between Fort William, Regina, Moose Jaw and other points west of Manitoba. This order was made by the Board of Railway Commissioners in 1910, when discrimination against these cities in favor of Winnipeg was alleged.

The order was appealed by the companies, but the appeal was dismissed with costs by the Supreme Court.

Violent Storm Sweeps France.

Paris, Dec. 22.—The eastern districts of France have been swept by a violent tempest of rain and wind. Yesterday much damage to property was caused. Many telegraph poles and trees in the forests were uprooted, while a score of fishing craft were cast ashore along the coast and a number of fishermen drowned.

There has been nothing to approach the enthusiasm with which Hon. Santa Claus will be welcomed by this country since Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson came back from Washington.—Mail and Empire.

FIRST LOVE OF KAISER WILHELM

The Stern Necessities of Politics Cast a Cloud Over Two Young Lives and Compelled a Prince to Desert His Love Who Died.

The touching story of the romantic attachment of the Emperor William I. to Princess Eliza Radziwill when he was a young man and she a girl, and of the obstacles that arose to prevent their union, is related in detail in a book just written by Dr. Bruno Hennig, of Berlin. The stern necessities of politcs cast a cloud over these two young Royal lovers, and compelled Prince William — as he then was — to desert the girl he loved to contract a union based on prudence instead of on personal inclination.

Towards the end of the eighteenth century Prussia had absorbed a portion of the ancient kingdom of Poland, and was engaged in the difficult task — still only imperfectly accomplished — of assimilating the conquered Poles, who regarded their German masters with repugnance.

The hopes of Prussia in those days were largely centred in Prince Antony Radziwill, one of the Polish magnates, who accepted Prussian supremacy over his native land in a friendly spirit, and married Princess Louise, a niece of Frederic the Great, after which he was appointed Viceroy of Prussian Poland, with his seat of government at Posen. His real home, however, was in Berlin, and it was here that his daughter, Princess Eliza, who as a Hohenzollern on the maternal side associated freely with the Prussian Royal Family, met Prince William, the second son of the reigning King, Frederic William III.

Prince William and Princess Eliza grew up from childhood together, and it was not until 1820, when he was 23 and she three years younger, that their friendship ripened into love. The first words of love were spoken at a pic-nic in the forest round Berlin, at which Prince Antony and Princess Louise Radziwill and the King's remaining children, the Crown Prince, Prince Charles, and Princess Alexandra, were also present. "Dear, dear Lulu," wrote little Princess Eliza to her friend, Countess Stosch, "how happy, how supremely happy I was with William."

A Shadow

During the next two years the young couple saw one another constantly, but a shadow had fallen across their happiness owing to the degree of difference in their respective ranks, which constituted a bar to their marriage. When Princess Eliza's mother — a Hohenzollern Princess — married Prince Radziwill, her inferior in birthright, she descended to his rank, and their children were not Royal Princes and Princesses, but merely the descendants of a Polish noble family, with Royal blood in their veins.

A marriage between Prince William and Princess Eliza would thus have been a morganatic union, and the right of their children to inherit the Prussian Throne would, according to the "House Laws" of the Hohenzollern dynasty, have been open to doubt. The question was raised whether Princess Eliza could not be raised to the rank of "Royal Highness" either by the King of Prussia or by the Tsar, and the two lovers went through an anxious time, which extended into several years, while this matter remained undecided.

But Prince William was obliged by what he considered his duty to the State to desert the girl of his heart, and in February 1829 his engagement to Princess Augusta of Weimar was announced.

Princess Eliza did not live long after the marriage of William to Princess Augusta of Weimar.

HOW VANDERBILT SQUEEZED

Many are the battles royal fought between the "Bulls" and "Bears." Those who read money articles in newspapers have often seen the phrase, "Such and such a share rose sharply on what is believed to be a 'bear' squeeze." What is a "bear squeeze?" The uninitiated might be pardoned for thinking that the "Bears" must have caught the "Bulls" and were proceeding to hug them. Whereas it is in reality a painful operation inflicted upon the "Bear." The best illustration of it is the classic instance of how a big railroad magnate "squeezed" a whole Legislature in America a long time ago. It was in the days when American Legislatures were rather corrupt. It appeared that this body promised Commodore Vanderbilt certain railroad concessions which inflated the value of his stock. They then formed themselves into a "Bear" clique, and sold it heavily. The "Bears" kept on selling until they had sold a good deal more stock than there was actually in existence. When they thought they had made millions they repealed their grant of the concession. The stock had come down very little despite all the selling, but they thought that when their decision was announced it would slump. It did not. Some of them then decided to "cover." The price they sold at was 75, and it had dropped to only 73. If they could close their deal at that figure they would have a profit of two points on each share. But when they came into the market there was no stock to be had. They started bidding, and the price rose with amazing rapidity to 179. The Commodore had all the stock! He allowed the "Bears" to settle at 179. They lost millions, and he raked in millions as the result of his great "corner."

Brown: "It's a fine thing to have the advantage of a college education."

Jones: "Yes, I've found it so."

Brown: "But you didn't go to college."

Jones: "No, but my wife did."

"Many are called, but few are chosen." In the case of the nominations which were made for aldermen, it will be a case of "many are called, but few will choose" to go to the polls.

THE MERCHANTS' BANK OF CANADA

PROCEEDINGS AT THE FORTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL MEETING OF SHAREHOLDERS.

The forty-eighth annual meeting of the Shareholders of the Merchants' Bank of Canada, was held on Wednesday December 20th, 1911, at the head offices of the Bank. Among those present were the following Shareholders—Sir. H. Montagu Allan and Messrs. Jonathan Hodgson, Thomas Long, Charles M. Hays, Alex. Barnet, K. W. Blackwell, Andrew A. Allan, C. C. Ballantyne, E. F. Hebden, E. Fiske, John Patterson, William Agnew, D. Kinghorn, A. Piddington, M. S. Foley, A. D. Fraser, C. J. Fleet, C. R. Black, H. B. Loucks, H. B. Yates, T. E. Merrett, A. Dingwall, W. Stanway, James Alexander, A. Haig Sims and J. M. Kilbourn.

The President of the Bank, Sir Montagu Allan, was asked to take the chair, and appointed Mr. J. M. Kilbourn, the Secretary of the Bank as Secretary. The Notice calling the meeting was read.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were presented and taken as read.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The President then read the Directors' report as follows:—

It is with much pleasure the Board once more meet the shareholders in annual meeting assembled. We have another favourable year to report. Our profits, after making full provision for all doubtful debts due to us, amount to the sum of $1,179,581.03 Notwithstanding the increase of the dividend to 10% making the second increase in two years, we have again written $100,000 off the Bank Premises Account, added $50,000 to the Officers' Pension Fund and placed $500,000 to our Reserve Fund, which now represents the important sum of 90% of the paid up capital, and carried forward $58,878.18 to next year's Profit and Loss Account. We trust our shareholders will find this showing satisfactory.

All the branches of the Bank have been inspected during the year.

We have opened the following offices during the past twelve months: Vancouver, B.C. (Cor. Granville and Hastings Streets); Coronation, Calgary (2nd Street East); Chauvin, Pincher Station and Edgerton, Alta.; Frobisher, Regina and Moose Jaw, Sask.; Hartney, Winnipeg, Man., (Bannerman Avenue); and Wallaceburg, Ont. We have to report no offices closed during that period.

We have lost two Directors during the year—namely, Mr. Hugh A. Allan, who retired by reason of his now residing in Great Britain, and Mr. Charles F. Smith, who died in October last. Mr. Smith was a very regular attendant at meetings of the Board, where he aided deliberations by his wise counsels and sound judgment, and his demise is much regretted. The two vacancies on the Board were filled by the appointment of Mr. Andrew A. Allan and Mr. C. C. Ballantyne.

The Directors have much pleasure in testifying to the good work performed by the staff during the past twelve months.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. MONTAGU ALLAN, President.

In moving the adoption of the Report, the President referred to the intention of the Directors to issue $1,000,000 new stock.

The General Manager spoke briefly regarding the business and prospects of the Bank, particularly in the Western Provinces, and paid a tribute to the devotion of the staff.

The following Directors were elected—Sir H. Montagu Allan, Mr. Jonathan Hodgson, Mr. Thomas Long, Mr. C. M. Hays, Mr. Alex Barnet, Mr. F. Orr Lewis, Mr. K. W. Blackwell, Mr. Andrew A. Allan, Mr. C. C. Ballantyne.

Resolutions were passed expressing appreciation of the services of the Board of Directors, the General Manager and the staff, which were acknowledged by the President and the General Manager. The meeting then adjourned.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors, Sir. H. Montagu Allan was re-elected President and Mr. Jonathan Hodgson, Vice-President.

MAN BEHIND ARABS WHO MADE IT HOT FOR ITALY.

Tripoli.—When it is said that Enver Bey is behind the Turco-Arab revenge on Italy, it means something. Enver is a name to conjure with. In person, a tall, handsome cavalry-man, of charming but reserved manner, he was the hero of the Turkish revolution. It was thanks to his wanderings in peasant disguise through Macedonia, preaching and organising the doctrines of constitutionalism, that the famous march to Constantinople was made, followed by the removal of Sultan Abdul Hamid.

A WONDERFUL NEWSPAPERMAN

Joseph Pulitzer Who Started as a Tramp Became the Millionaire Owner of One of America's Greatest Papers and a Force in Politics.

The history of modern business and commerce contains many striking examples of men who, commencing life with scarcely a penny in their pockets, have in the course of years accumulated vast fortunes. None of their careers has been so varied and extraordinary, however, as that of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, the proprietor of the "New York World," who has just died at the age of sixty-four, leaving a fortune of $30,000,000. He was seventeen years of age when he decided that there was no opening for him in his native country, Moravia. He therefore tramped through Germany to the coast, sailed in an emigrant ship for New York, and when he reached Boston harbour jumped overboard and swam to shore because he had not sufficient to pay the head-tax on aliens. Ultimately he arrived in New York with just twenty cents in his pocket.

However, he managed to enlist as a private in the Lincoln Cavalry, and served through the last year of the Civil War. After his regiment was disbanded he began his fierce struggle for existence. He worked at anything that came his way — coal-heaver, coachman, waiter, butler, and stoker on a Missouri ferry-boat. It was while engaged in the latter occupation that he strolled one night into a small saloon in St. Louis where a game of chess was in progress. Pulitzer possessed a perfect genius for chess, and that night he beat the best man in the saloon. His play attracted the attention of a German journalist who was proprietor of a paper in St. Louis. He gave him a job and within a few years Pulitzer was managing editor and part-proprietor of that newspaper.

The Turning of the Tide

This was the turning of the tide. In 1878 he was able to buy the 'St. Louis Dispatch,' and, amalgamating it with his first newspaper, he formed the "St. Louis Post Dispatch," now one of the most prosperous journals in the United States. Five years later he acquired the 'New York World' from Jay Gould, a paper which soon developed into one of the most influential journals in America under the guidance of Pulitzer.

Pulitzer, having shown what he could do in the newspaper world, turned his attention to law and politics, and soon became a great force on the platform. He had an extraordinary command of English, although when he first landed in America he could not speak a word of the languages. Every spare moment, however, was spent in the public libraries, and within four years he could write trenchant English. At the height of his fame and prosperity, however, a great misfortune befell him. Early in the 'nineties he became quite blind. During his last years he spent most of his time on his yacht.

"Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson found, after long experiments and practice," says The Medical Times, "that 4 degrees Fahr. is the best temperature in which to conduct mental labour. If the temperature falls below this the mind becomes drowsy and inactive, and if it rises much above there is a relaxed state of the body and mind which soon leads to fatigue and exhaustion. It is important that the temperature be the same in all parts of the room and that it be steadily maintained."

PERSIANS MASSACRED

Five Hundred Dead Are Reported in Official Advices.

Russian Troops In Vicinity of Resht Are Said to Have Engaged In a Barbarous Slaughter of Inoffensive Natives—They Have Been Advised Not to Resist, But Massacre Continues—Russians Abandon Bank.

London, Dec. 26.—A massacre has been going on in Resht since Saturday, according to official Persian telegrams received in London yesterday. These state that on Sunday 500 Persians were killed by the Russians, many of them being women and children. The people, it is said, have been exhorted not to fight, and not to give the slightest provocation, but the massacre still continues.

Resht is the capital of the Province of Ghilan, and has 40,000 inhabitants. The Government house has been bombarded, and many Government officials and police have been killed. Private houses have been demolished.

According to other despatches the Russians killed four unarmed Mohammedans in the Armenian quarter of Tabriz, during the fighting in that city.

"The people of Persia," says the despatch, "are stupefied at the attitude of the Russians, especially as these outrages have followed immediately on the acceptance by Persian of the second Russian ultimatum, and when Persia has shown every desire and disposition to conciliate Russia and establish friendly relations."

Resented Shuster's Dismissal.

Teheran, Dec. 26.—The Cabinet yesterday notified W. Morgan Shuster, treasurer-general of Persia, of his dismissal from that office. This follows the decision of the National Council and the Ministry to submit to the demands contained in the Russian ultimatum. The Cabinet intimated to Mr. Shuster that they would communicate to him later their plans concerning the turning over of his accounts to his successor.

An indignation meeting was held after the announcement of Mr. Shuster's dismissal was made, to protest against the so-called coup d'etat, but the crowds were dispersed by the police without disorder. Further demonstrations are expected. All the opposition newspapers have been suppressed, and martial law has been proclaimed.

The Russian consul, who has assumed the government of Resht, reports the town quiet at the present time, but looks for further outbreaks.

It is reported from Shiraz, capital of the province of Fars, that Persians fired on a body of Indian troops who were proceeding to meet the British consul, one of the Indian soldiers being killed. There has been considerable trouble at Shiraz, on account of the boycott instituted against the Indian troops by the Mollahs.

Russians Abandon Bank.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—Advices received here yesterday from Tabriz, in Persia, say that the Russian troops have been forced to abandon the Russo-Persian Bank, which is situated in the principal bazaar, and which they have hitherto been protecting. There is a sum of about $150,000 in specie lying in the bank, which is now entirely without a guard.

Fighting Not Over.

Julfa, Persia, Dec. 26.—According to information received here fighting continues in the streets of Tabriz between the Russian guard and the Persian constitutionalists. The Russian reinforcements, consisting of a regiment of rifles and a sotnia of Cossacks with a mountain battery, which left here on Dec. 23 for that city, arrived there yesterday, having encountered very little opposition from the Persians.

Steamer Ashore; Many Lives Lost.

Bordeaux, France, Dec. 26.—The Uruguayan steamer Rafael, from Montevideo, has been wrecked off Coubre Point, on the west coast of France, at the mouth of the Gironde. The Rafael carried a crew of twenty-five men. Five bodies have already been washed ashore.

The coast continues in the grip of the storm, which has lasted for several days. A score of sailing vessels have been driven on the rocks, the crews being rescued with difficulty. All incoming vessels report damage; several of them have had men swept overboard by the heavy seas.

Red Cross Founder Honored.

Washington, Dec. 26.—Miss Clara Barton, founder and first president of the American National Red Cross Society, was showered yesterday with greetings and good wishes upon the ninetieth anniversary of her birth. Although feeble from her illness early this year, Miss Barton was able to celebrate the day with her relatives and friends, who are spending Christmas with her home, "Red Cross," in Glen Echo, Md., a suburb of Washington.

DISASTER IN TORONTO

Street Car Runs Into Switch and Two Are Killed.

Two More Are Not Expected to Live and Several Others Are Seriously Injured as the Result of a Christmas Eve Accident When Car Going at 50 Miles an Hour Dashes Around Curve and Topples Over.

Toronto, Dec. 26.—Two persons were killed and many injured in a street car wreck here on Christmas eve. A loaded King street car, westbound, dashed past the barns and striking a switch ran sharply around a curve where it turned over, crushing many in the wreckage.

The list of casualties is as follows:

Dead.

Mrs. Jessie Deacon, 13 Elmer avenue; killed almost instantly. Chest terribly crushed.

Mrs. Williams, 7 Fenwick avenue; base of skull fractured. Died at 8.30 p.m. in General Hospital.

Wounded.

Arthur Blow, 76 Victor avenue; severe scalp injury.

William Cassan, 321 King street west; shoulder bone broken.

William Owen, 33 Greenwood avenue; severe head injuries.

Mrs. Brayne, Alexandra Industrial School for Girls.

Mrs. Patterson, Alexandra Industrial School for Girls; severe shock.

Mrs. Wetherly; arms and shoulders badly hurt.

Mrs. McMillan; fractured shoulders.

Several others were taken home after having their wounds dressed.

With the exception of Robert Hall and Arthur Blow, who both have fractures at the base of the skull, all are doing very well, and have good chances of recovery. These two are in a very grave condition, and are not expected to live.

The car was several minutes late and was crowded, even men, women and children were standing on the back platform. The motorman turned on all the power after he passed the switch at the new Don bridge and let his car go at full speed past the car barns, where he should have stopped. After his arrest he said that he tried to stop, but that the brakes were out of order, and he lost control of the car just after leaving the bridge.

Mrs. Jessie Deacon, 23 Elmer avenue, who died a few minutes after the accident happened, was thrown through a window near the front of the car and crushed beneath the heavy framework. The others in the body of the car were thrown into a mass, and those on the rear platform were scattered in the mud, some twenty feet from the car. Mrs. Hillis Williams of 7 Fenwick avenue, died of a fractured skull an hour after being taken to the General Hospital.

It is estimated by street railway officials that the car was traveling at nearly fifty miles an hour.

Ten or twelve people were standing in front of the car barns, which are situated in the black running east from St. Lawrence street, and they bore out the statement that the car was traveling at an excessive rate of speed.

It was the worst street car accident Toronto has known since Thanksgiving Day in 1904, when a car with about thirty people broke through the railway gates at Queen East and De Grassi street level crossing and was struck by a train. Four people were killed and many others injured.

With the memory of Sunday night's tragedy still fresh in their minds, thirty-five passengers in King street car No. 1,508, westbound at the King street barns, close to the scene of the accident, were given a severe fright at 10.45 last night when that car, to allow the car behind to run ahead, switched into the sheds, and in so doing bumped the side of the brick entry, partially demolishing the rear vestibule and severely shaking the car and its occupants. There was a scene of confusion and it was a fortunate thing that a panic did not develop.

Premiers' Christmas Greetings.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—The first exchange of Christmas greetings between Premiers of the over-seas dominions took place on Saturday, between Hon. R. L. Borden and Sir Joseph Ward. The following cable was received from the Premier of New Zealand: "Season's greetings to yourself and colleagues. Ward." Premier Borden promptly cabled back: "Thanks, and warm congratulations to yourself and colleagues. Borden."

Chicken Thieves Fired Barn.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 26.—Thieves who broke into Samuel Lavigne's barn Sunday night and stole several chickens and geese, set the place on fire and the building was totally destroyed. One horse and some poultry were burned. The place is in a dangerous fire zone, and for a time the wind was blowing a gale, the blaze looked serious.

Native May Rule Bengal.

London, Dec. 26.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Calcutta gave the rumor that Sir Krishna Govinda Gupta, member of the India council, will be appointed governor of the new Province of Bengal. A native has never before held such an important post.

Foreign Secretary Honored.

Berlin, Dec. 26.—The Emperor has conferred upon Herr von Kiderlen-Waechter, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, the brilliants and oakleaves of the Order of the Red Eagle of the first class. The Secretary already possessed the Order.

Russia and Japan Friendly.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—The first dinner of the new Russo-Japanese Society recently formed here, was held Saturday night at the Japanese embassy. Baron Ichero Motono, Japanese ambassador at St. Petersburg, and M. Kokovsow, the Russian Premier, exchanged toasts, both referring to the value of Russo-Japanese friendship.

REBELS WIN THE DAY

They Insist on a Republic and Powers Will Give In.

Conference at Shanghai Seems to Have Come to the Conclusion That a Republican Government In China Is Inevitable and Unless Emperor's Advisors Concede This Peace Negotions Will Break Up.

Tokio, Dec. 26.—A conference of members of the Japanese Cabinet at which many of the elder statesmen, including Prince Katsura, the ex-Premier, were invited to assist, was held here Sunday. The strictest secrecy has been maintained regarding the discussions at the conference, but it is generally believed that the latest developments of the situation in China were taken into serious consideration. It is understood that the conference reached the conclusion that the adoption of a republican form of government by China was apparently inevitable.

Information from a reliable source has reached here that the revolutionaries in China continue to insist firmly on a republic, and that the peace negotiations now proceeding at Shanghai will result in a rupture unless the imperial authorities in Pekin should yield to their demands in this respect.

Most of the powers are apparently reconciled to the inevitable tendency of the prevailing situation. Neither Japan nor Great Britain has any intention whatever of intervening in any way in China, much less of imposing any form of government on that country.

The general feeling here is that the only alternative for the present situation is for the representatives of the Imperial Government in Pekin to yield.

Major-Gen. Shiba, who was in command of the Japanese troops in Pekin at the time of the Boxer uprising in 1900 left Shimonoseki, the fortified naval city in the southwest of Hondo, Japan, for Tokio, in response to an official summons received by him from headquarters.

Rebel Leaders Confer.

Shanghai, Dec. 26.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, one of the leading promoters of the revolution, who may be named as president of the proposed republic, boarded a launch soon after his arrival here yesterday morning and was escorted down the river by two warships. After landing he proceeded by automobile to the residence of Wu Ting Fang, the foreign secretary in the revolutionary provisional Cabinet, to discuss the situation.

So far as is known, no reply has yet been received from Yuan Shi Kai, the Imperial Premier, with regard to the establishment of a republic, as insisted upon by the revolutionaries.

May Oust Premier.

London, Dec. 26.—A special despatch from Shanghai says that the revolutionaries are incensed at the imperialists for the capture of Taiyuanfu, in Shansi Province, and have protested to Tang Shao Yi, the representative of Yuan Shi Kai, at the peace conference, against the continued breaches of the armistice. They have demanded an indemnity, the withdrawal of the troops and the punishment of the officers upon whom the responsibility rests.

The revolutionary leaders insist that unless Yuan Shi Kai replies at once to the demands of the conference they will elect Dr. Sun Yat Sen president along with the Cabinet which has already been formed.

Tang Shao Yi explained that the imperialists had occupied Taiyuanful only after the revolutionists had deserted the town. He forwarded the demands, however, to Pekin.

Rebel Leaders Confident.

Shanghai, Dec. 26.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen is quartered in a large modern residence in the French concession. He said yesterday that he preferred to make no statement until he had reviewed the entire situation. His conference with Wu Ting Fang and other leaders shows that he is evidently commanding the greatest respect and attention.

Dr. Sun said that the entire movement was united, and there would be no serious differences. It is quite evident that the revolutionaries are preparing for the constructive work of government, and are not counting on Yuan Shi Kai. They are even disregarding Pekin, which they confidently assert they can take at leisure.

It has been definitely decided that Nanking shall be the future capital. Even after the abdication of the Emperor and the reorganization of the new Government, the leaders assert positively, Pekin will not be considered.

In the minds of the revolutionists the movement has been highly successful. One of the high officers said yesterday: "Fourteen provinces have declared for a republic. We control 12 divisions of the army; two more are coming. We hold the entire navy. Two provinces remain imperial and two are neutral. There is no government in Pekin. Yuan Shi Kai is its only representative, except the infant Emperor.

"The sooner the powers recognize the real situation, instead of clinging to harmful and intangible sentiment, the sooner will order be secured in China. Hesitation to recognize the republican cause will certainly prolong the stagnation of trade and will be responsible for much bloodshed, should fighting begin again."

Farmer's Heavy Loss.

Brockville, Dec. 26.—John N. Truesdell, a farmer, residing near Rockfield, in Escott Township, sustained a severe loss when his barns and contents were destroyed by fire. When the fire was discovered it had made rapid headway and nothing could be done to save the buildings. Some pieces of machinery were got out, but the buildings were consumed, together with their contents and 21 head of cattle, 13 sheep and the entire season's crop. Mr. Truesdell carried some insurance, but his direct loss is about $2,500.

AUTHOR ARRESTED.

Andrew McConnell Confesses to Shooting His Wife.

New York, Dec. 26.—Andrew McConnell, magazine writer and lecturer, was arrested at a reporter's desk in a morning newspaper office last night while, it is alleged, he was writing a confession of shooting and seriously wounding his divorced wife, Mrs. Marion D. McConnell.

Mrs. McConnell lies at her home in Orchard Grove, N.J., with a serious bullet wound in the head. The shooting is said to have occurred late Saturday night.

McConnell was operating a typewriter at a reporter's desk in The Times' office last night when a detective arrested him. The paper in the machine bore these words:

"I was forced to shoot the woman who was my wife. Absolute divorce was obtained last spring. Not one word was said regarding the divorce the night I shot her. She has tried to villify an innocent woman."

This was as far as had been written on the machine, but beside the typewriter the detective found a slip of paper upon which there was scrawly handwriting, which was hard to make out, as follows:

"Every person who has helped to build my work has been vilified by a woman who is either hopelessly insane or a designing fiend. When I made discovery in the electrical basis of life, which (three intelligible words) years later."

Detective Devoti declared that McConnell added to his alleged confession by declaring that he shot his wife because "She was always making me believe I was insane. She vilified me to different people and has run my character down."

Robbed Ten Cent Store.

New York, Dec. 26.—Graduates of the newer schools in burglary operated on a safe in a five and ten cent store, owned by S. S. Kresge, in Harlem, yesterday, and got away with nearly $4,000 in cash. The men entered by way of the sky light, drew electricity from a live wire to operate their drill and with nitro-glycerine easily blew off the safe door.

A roll of carpet was found which had been used to deaden the noise of the explosion, and beside the carpet was found kid gloves which the burglars had evidently used to avoid detection from finger prints, which have recently led to arrests and indictments of several alleged burglars.

Tribute to Farley.

Rome, Dec. 26.—Pontificial mass was celebrated yesterday by Cardinal Farley in his titular Church of Sancta Maria Sopra Minerva. Besides being a demonstration of piety, the ceremony was a great manifestation of respect and admiration for Cardinal Farley, who is commonly called here the "Venerable Archbishop of New York."

The church was packed with worshippers, the congregation comprising many noted personalities among the clergy and laity of Rome. The monks of the order of the Dominicans, who are in charge of the church, clad in their white robes, added picturesqueness to the scene.

A Fatal Christmas Box.

New York, Dec. 26.—One hundred women guests at the Virginian Hotel, for women only, were thrown into a panic early yesterday by the plight of Miss Argyle E. Lyons, the superintendent of the hotel, who rushed wildly about the halls with her nightclothes burning. Miss Lyons had risen early, enthusiastic over making a cup of coffee over a new alcohol lamp which she had received as a Christmas present. Her nightdress caught fire from the flames when she attempted to pour more alcohol into the lamp without blowing out the blaze.

It is believed that the young woman will die.

Crew Escaped From Dredge.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 26.—Menaced by death from violent seas that pounded and wrenched his craft till she pitched and swung like a derelict, Captain F. J. Davis and his crew of eleven men abandoned a dredge in tow off the South Caroline coast Saturday noon.

In small boats the sailors made Daufuski Island, and yesterday Captain Davis reached Savannah, after traveling through miles of lonely swamp country. He engaged help and an expedition left here yesterday afternoon to rescue the hungry sailors stranded at Daufuski.

Civil Service Commission.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—The commission appointed last week to investigate the civil service will meet in Ottawa next Wednesday, according to present plans, as announced by Premier Borden. R. S. Lake is already here and will be joined by Mr. Ducharme of Montreal and A. B. Morine of Toronto.

Mr. Morine will be the chairman of the commission. The selection of counsel for the commission has not yet been considered, but will be taken up at once.

Reyes Has Been Captured.

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 26.—According to a private telegram received here bearing the signature of Gen. Geronimo Trevino, Mexican military commander, Gen. Reyes has been taken prisoner. Reyes, according to the telegram, surrendered after his forces had been defeated by federal troops near Linares yesterday.

Over the Pacific Stormy.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—Thirty-eight days from Tsingtau, China, the British bark Calcutta, arrived here Sunday, establishing a new record for the journey. Tempestuous weather was encountered and owls, falcons and hawks, driven off shore by the heavy gales, sought refuge in the rigging of the vessel.

Editorial Writer Dead.

Montreal, Dec. 26.—W. E. Hunt, editorial writer on The Montreal Witness, died yesterday at his residence on St. Urbain street, of typhoid fever.

Mr. Hunt was born in England, but came to Canada some twenty years ago, and had spent almost a score of years on the staff of The Witness.

Condemned Hold Jollification.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Seventy-seven murderers, with 600 other prisoners, partook of Christmas dinner and exchanged yuletide greetings at the Cook County jail yesterday. In many respects the holiday was the most unusual in the tragedy-laden history of the institution.

Ewald Shiblawski, one of the four murderers sentenced to hang Feb. 16 next, delivered a terse temperance lecture to a group of prisoners. He said:

"We had too much whisky in us when we did it. But for that Guelzow (a truck farmer whom they murdered) would be with his wife and children to-day. I wish I could bring him back."

Thomas Jennings, a negro sentenced to hang for the murder of Clarence Hiller, in the suburbs of Washington Heights, has turned preacher and yesterday had 25 negro prisoners praying on their knees. He also led a song service with the enthusiasm of a revivalist.

Mrs. Louise Vermilya, charged with several poisonings, said she had spent a cheerful Christmas in company with Mrs. Jane Quinn, who is charged with shooting her husband, John Quinn.

Riley Not Downcast.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 26.—Twelve hundred letters of Christmas greeting and sympathy came yesterday to Jas. Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, who has been ill for several months.

"I can't answer them," said Mr. Riley, with a rueful glance at his right arm, of which he has lost the use. "I can't hold a pencil, I wish I could. But I am not so downcast as many of my friends seem to think. How could I be when I have so many well-wishers, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, whom I have never even seen. This is a merry Christmas for me, and I hope for all my unknown friends."

Some of the letters are in verse. One admirer advised that the poet learn to write with his left hand. "It is possible: I shall try this," said Mr. Riley, "but I fear it will be a tedious task."

Car Ferry Instead of Tunnel.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Dec. 26.—Nominations take place for the Prince Edward Island general elections on Thursday of this week. The construction of a tunnel across the straits has long been a chief factor in the island's politics. A feature of the present campaign is that the Conservatives are now professing satisfaction with the proposal that instead of this a car ferry be established. The Charlottetown Guardian, which has hitherto been independent, is advocating the car ferry scheme.

Santa at the Mercer.

Toronto, Dec. 26.—Santa Claus in full regalia, with the regulation whiskers and girth, visited the Mercer Reformatory at Christmas dinner. The Christmas saint came in the person of Dr. King, surgeon of the institution, who distributed bon-bons to inmates and staff. His arrival was a great surprise, it being his first visit. It was the signal for great mirth and jollity. The afternoon was merrily spent listening to various offerings at an impromptu concert, gotten up by the inmates.

Burned by Christmas Tree.

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 26.—Playing Santa Claus in flannel attire and tousled hempen hair, George H. Sawyer, aged 14, went too close to the lighted candles on the Christmas tree in his home in Cliftondale yesterday, and suffered burns which are expected to prove fatal. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seward Sawyer, were burned severely in an attempt to beat out the flames and save the life of their boy.

Good Buying in Ladies' and Children's Coats

When we say good buying we mean special values for our customers who have delayed the purchase of a winter coat. We have about 100 Ladies' Cloth Coats and about half this number of Children's and Misses' Coats; sizes well assorted, and all priced for quick selling.

Ladies' Coats $5.00, $9.50, $12.50 and $15.00.

These are not regular prices, but special prices, made to clear the balance of our Ladies' Black and Colored Plain Cloth and Tweed Coats. In this lot there are some extra large sizes, specially designed for stout women; also Tweed Coats for Misses from 16 to 18 years. Prices $5.00 to $15

Children's Coats at $2.50 to $7.50.

For little girls of every age, from 2 to 12 years, we have White Bear Skin Coats, Navy and Cardinal Serge Coats, Tweed Coats and Velvet Cord Coats; a splendid assortment of this season's newest styles and best made coats, now selling at $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $4.00 $4.50, $5.00, $7.50.

Special $1.00 Underskirts

These skirts are made of Black Mercerized Satins and Black Moreens, in Ladies' regular sizes, also Misses' sizes in lengths 34 and 36 inches, both styles being particularly well made and selling for only $1.00 each.

Knitted Golf Coats

We don't think we sell all the Knitted Golf Coats, but we do think we sell most of them, and the reason is we have both the variety and styles to select from in every color that these garments are worn in and our prices for Ladies' Knitted Wool Coats range from $1.50 to $7.50 each.

Children's Fur Sets

We have just a few Children's White Fur Sets left, Muff and Collar, for little girls from 2 to 10 years, sets that sold regularly from $3.50 to $7.00, and these we have now marked to clear at $2 50, $3.00, $3 50, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.

Ladies' Fur-Lined Coats

We have a few Ladies' Fur-Lined Coats, black and navy only, sizes 34 to 44 bust measures, muskrat lined, natural sable collar and revers, shells made of all-wool Austrian broad-cloth, very special values at $45.00 and $47.50 each.

Ladies' Tailored Waists

These are the very newest styles in Ladies' Waist wear and we show them in a variety of materials, laundered and unlaundered styles, priced to sell at $1.50, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE COW AND THE MOON."

In the spectacular musical fantasy, "The Cow and the Moon," which Chas. A. Sellon brings to Griffin's Opera House to-morrow night, two characters of exceptional interest are seen that of Little Innocence, played by Miss Janet Priest, said to be the smallest singing soubrette now on the stage; and the part of Great Domo, the king of the moon, portrayed by Clarence Sterling, who is claimed to be one of the biggest men in extravaganza. Innocence is the Maid, who in the play has never seen a man, and Domo, the King of the Moon, comes to earth seeking a bride who must meet the requirements possessed by Innocence. Her miraculous escapes from his clutches, assisted by some 45 other aides, form a capital plot for extravaganza. Musical numbers of the swinging, pleasing sort are interpolated from time to time, which, together with 16 gorgeous changes of scenery, makes a delightful entertainment. Plan open to-day at Doyle's.

For Mayor

Geo. I. Thomas

RESPECTFULLLY REQUESTS THE VOTE AND INFLUENCE OF THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ON THE FOLLOWING PLATFORM.

If returned as Mayor of your city, I am in favor of:—

1st.—Better streets for Belleville.

2nd.—Public tenders for all contracts.

3rd.—An active Industrial Committee.

4th.—Economy in all matters pertaining to the city.

5th.—A fair day's pay for city officials.

6th.—Enforcement of the Liquor License Laws.

7th.—And all other good measures which may from time to time be brought before the Council.

As I cannot see all the electors personally, I trust that all those in favor of the above platform will give me their votes and influence on election day.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. I. THOMAS

For Mayor

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the solicitation of a large number of the ratepayers, I have decided to come before you, asking your support for the position of Mayor for the year 1912.

For the past seven years I have faithfully served you as one of your representatives, and during that time I have filled most of the prominent chairmanships in the Council.

It will be impossible to see you all personally between now and election, but if my services have met with your approval, I trust you will give me your vote and influence.

Yours obedient servant,
A. G. VERMILYEA

FOR ALDERMAN

To the Electors of Coleman Ward--
Your vote and influence are respectfully solicited to secure the election of
R. P. WHITE
As Alderman for the year 1912. -D23d6t

WARD NOMINATIONS FAILED TO FILL

Only Eighteen Nominees Qualified—Contest in Coleman Ward Only

It has again been demonstrated that the system in vogue in this city of selecting aldermen by wards is not productive of the best results. On Friday last nomination was held and candidates named had up until nine o'clock on Saturday evening to qualify. Of the twenty-one aldermen necessary to be elected in order to have the city fully represented in the Council only 18 filled out the necessary papers, and in one ward, namely Coleman, there were four of this number, being the only ward in which there will be a contest. Samson Ward has but one representative, Ketcheson Ward two and Bleecker Ward two. Those filing their required declaration and the wards they will represent are as follows:—

Foster Ward—A. Robinson, F. M. Clarke and W. H. Panter.

Samson Ward—J. E. Parks.

Ketcheson Ward—R. C. Chown and A. Wallace.

Baldwin Ward—W. S. Smith, J. L. Anderson and J. O. R. McCurdy.

Bleecker Ward—W. Lott and Walter Black.

Coleman Ward—F. Slater, R. P. White, J. A. Roblin and R. Bogle.

Murney Ward—B. A. Lucas, J, Canning and W. A. Woodley.

Messrs. G. I. Thomas and A.G. Vermilyea, who are Mayoralty candidates, filed their declaration papers.

DEATHS.

SYMONS—In Belleville on Saturday, December 23rd, 1911, W. S. Symons, formerly of Stirling, Scotland.

The funeral will take place from the undertaking establishment of Tickell & Sons to-morrow, Wednesday, Dec. 27th, at 4.00 p.m. to St. Michael's Church, thence to Belleville cemetery vault.

Traveler Falls Under Train.

Toronto, Dec. 16.—A man believed to be Otto Lang, a commercial traveler of this city, was seriously and probably fatally injured by falling from the C.P.R. Montreal Express at the Don Station last night. He attempted to board the train as it was moving, but missed his footing and slipped beneath the front trucks of one of the sleeping cars, and before the train was brought to a standstill the trucks of three cars had passed over him. His left foot was so terribly crushed that it will have to be amputated, the right arm is broken in several places, and the right knee fractured.

BAND IN ATTENDANCE

BURTON--HARLOW

A pretty wedding, says the St. Johnsbury, Vermont, Caledonian, of December 20th, occurred Monday at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther B. Brown, when Miss Gladys C. Harlow, of this place, was united in marriage to Frank Burton, of Belleville, Ont. Miss Edna Brown acted as bridesmaid and J. Thomas Brighty as best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Peter Black. The bride was charmingly gowned in white and carried pink carnations. The bridesmaid was also dressed in white and carried pink carnations. The room was tastefully decorated in green and white. The favors to the bridesmaid and best man were signet rings. There were no invited guests. Dinner was served after the ceremony. The beautiful and costly gifts consisting of silver, linen and cut glass showed the esteem in which they were held by their many friends.

Mr. Burton, who is a son of Mr. Benjamin Burton, of this city, was formerly employed as bookkeeper by Swift and Company, of St. Johnsbury, but about six months ago was transferred to Waterbury, Conn., where he holds a fine position. Mr. and Mrs. Burton left on the afternoon express for Boston, where they will spend a honeymoon.

"MY STOMACH IS FINE
Since Taking Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets"

Mrs. J. Merkhuger, Waterloo, Ont., enthusiastically recommends Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets. Her experience with them, as she outlines it, explains why.

"I was greatly troubled with my stomach", she writes. "I had taken so much medicine that I might say to take any more would only be making it worse. My stomach just felt raw, I read of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and a lady friend told me they were very easy to take, so I thought I would give them a trial and really they worked wonders. Anyone having anything wrong with his stomach should give Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets a trial, they will do the rest. My stomach is fine now and I can eat any food."

One of the many good features of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is that they are so pleasant and easy to take. The relief they give from heartburn, flatulence, biliousness and dyspepsia is prompt and permanent. Try one after each meal—they'll make you feel like a new person.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Gaining Experience.

Before one of the present Bishops was elevated to his see a prominent part of his work was that in connection with the missions, in which ambulance lessons were held and the members taught to render "first-aid." One day an elderly woman asked him if he could persuade her husband to join the ambulance classes, to keep him out of the public-house.

The reverend gentleman said he would try, and after some trouble he succeeded in persuading the "hubby" in question to join the ambulance class.

Some weeks after the clergyman met the woman, and asked her how her husband liked the classes.

"Oh, he's that keen on it, yer don't know, sir. Why, when there's no class to go to he stays at home and bandages the cat!"

LOST 45 POUNDS IN WEIGHT

NOW WEIGHS 125 POUNDS, THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

PLANTAGENET, ONT. Jan. 31st. 1910.

"About March 1st. 1909, I was taken deathly sick with Liver Congestion and Stomach Trouble. I failed from 125 pounds to 80 pounds and was confined to bed for eight weeks. The doctors said they could do nothing for me, and as a last resort, one of the doctors told me to try "Fruit-a-tives"—if they would not cure me, nothing would.

My husband bought some "Fruit-a-tives" and inside of ten days, I was able to leave my bed. My stomach got strong and I could eat and retain my food. Today, I weigh 125 pounds".

ROYALTY HOSTS

Though Many Strive to Entertain Royalty — the Cost Limits Would Be Hosts in Addition to the Social Position.

King George, like the late King Edward, does everything that lies in his power to prevent undue trouble or expense being incurred by those whom he visits, and everything that savours of ostentation is most obnoxious to him. At the same time it is necessary that a certain amount of formality should be carefully observed and all this runs into money. His Majesty, for instance, is invariably accompanied by an Equerry, who, by reason of his position, becomes a member of the house-party, while if the Queen travels with His Majesty, her Lady-in-Waiting has likewise to be included among the guests. It is very rarely that the King is attended by more than two body servants; while three maids, as a rule, suffice for Queen Mary's requirements.

It is laid down that His Majesty must upon all occasions have a suite of apartments to himself, and it is desired that these should be as far removed from the rooms of the other members of the house-party as possible. A similar suite has to be provided for Queen Mary when she is present. Not many years ago a well-known obleman who was entertaining the present King for the first time spent over $10,000 in providing a new suite of rooms for His Majesty's occupation.

An Expensive Luncheon

His Majesty lives very simply, so that in reality very little extra cost need he incurred for food and drink upon his account. Naturally, however, those honoured with his company find it incumbent upon them to exert themselves to the utmost to provide every delicacy — in or out of season — that can possibly be obtained. As much as $5 apiece has been paid for quails for the Royal table before to-day, and as much for peaches when not in season, while $3 a basket holding considerably less than a pound of early strawberries is regarded as nothing out of the ordinary upon these occasions. A short time before his accession it was estimated that one luncheon-table for ten guests, at which His Majesty was present, had cost between $1000 and $1500 to prepare. And then all that the King ate was a plate of cold roast-beef and some salad!

Royal Liking for Music

Both King George and Queen Mary have a great liking for good music, so that those who are their hosts and hostesses spend almost fabulous sums to obtain the services of the most talented vocalists and instrumentalists of the day. Upon one occasion, some years ago, Queen Alexandra having expressed her admiration for the playing of Kubelik, her host promptly wired to him and invited him to name his own terms for one evening's recital. Not only was the large amount demanded cheerfully paid to the gifted musician, but special trains were provided to convey him to the house and to take him back to London again, a sumptuous dinner awaited him, and the smallest wish he expresed was at once complied with. What that evening's entertainment cost it is almost impossible to say.

Race Dying Out.

There is at least one native race that is not dying out. This is the Maori, of New Zealand. According to statistics obtained in the census of Maoris taken in last March, the total native population of New Zealand is said to be 49,350, an increase for five years of 1617. In addition there are 215 Maoris on the Chatham Islands. It is a matter of difficulty to ascertain the number of half-castes living at Maoris. Probably all half-castes, and a large proportion of the Maoris as well in the South Island, now live in European fashion. The health of the natives has been generally good. There has been a great advance in the observance of sanitary laws, and the Maoris are beginning to realise that the excessive mortality amongst their children has been due to unsanitary conditions.

A COLLEGE SPORT

No Knockout Allowed in Intercollegiate Boxing.

Properly restricted and safeguarded, boxing might prove an acceptable form of intercollegiate sport, in the opinion of Dr. William G. Anderson, director of the Yale gymnasium, but it would have to be freed from the "knockout" and "any other element that has proved hurtful to boxing."

In an article in the Yale News discussing the matter, Dr. Anderson suggests a meeting of representatives of different colleges and universities for the purpose of giving the subject careful consideration.

THE TRUCE

By Thomas Spratt

The sun rose slowly over the edge of the wood, while a lovely slip of a girl, rich in the promise of glorious womanhood, sat watching the coming day. The birds caroled around her, the wild flowers opened their sleepy eyes and nodded brightly, the fragrant dogwood under which she sat sent showers of its soft white petals to greet her, but the little messengers fell on and around her unheeded and unseen.

Over beyond the eastern horizon her father was fighting.

Down in the tree shaded valley where the violets grew her mother had slept for nineteen years, while back in the shuttered house in his own room lay the soldier son and brother nearing his journey's end.

The small squad of union officers which had surprised a party of confederate scouts the night before, while not able to capture the trespassers, had succeeded in mortally wounding William Bickerton, the youngest of the three.

It was a nearly unconscious comrade they assisted from his horse, and that hastily aroused the only occupants — his sister, Alice, and old "Aunt Linda," who had nursed them both.

The sun was well over the tree tops when the girl arose and walked slowly back to the house and passed through the empty hall and up the uncarpeted stairs. She tapped softly on the bed-room door, to be admitted by the old caretaker, who was battling for the young soldier's life.

"Did yuh lock de outside do', honey?" she asked in a whisper.

"Yes, Aunt Linda. Are the men asleep?"

"Sh-h-h, not so loud, but ah low dey is. Dey 'spects tuh leave at dawk an' tak Mawse Willie's hawse 'long."

"Will he live, Aunt Linda?" And the blue eyes searched the darw ones.

"Sho, chile, ah reckon, if de good Lawd's willin', Mawse, Willie'll be heah fo' a long time. Now, you sit heah while ah fetch some fresh watah an' min' yuh keep changin' dem cloths on his haid."

Maj. Bicketron's position with the southern army had so far assured protection for his daughter and her nurse, both of whom had begged to stay as long as possible in the old home. To be sure, practically everything usable about the place had been seized in the name of the government and the slaves had been liberated, but the dear old house was still a shelter and outside protection was theirs, albeit from union men — protection which had been scornfully rejected by Alice, to be as wisely accepted by Aunt Linda, who realized that protection, even from an enemy, was sometimes a boon.

The days lengthened into a week and the life spark of the fever racked man was growing fainter. His companions had thought the union camp — a mile and a half north of the Bickerton home — would soon be broken by their men and had promised the first medical men and had promised the first medical aid possible, but the days had passed and no relief had come.

Silently, fircely, the two women fought for the life so dear to them, deaf to the continued rappings of the messenger who was waiting outside. But at dayight of the seventh day, when the red of the enemy's fires was paling in the dawn, he opened the door unannounced and, gently brushing the two watchers aside, commanded the soldier soul to follow him. Together they passed out into the early morning.

The union camp was astir with the sun and a group of officers gathered around the general's tent were startled to see a slender, bareheaded, beautiful girl appear before them.

After the first outburst of grief Aunt Linda and she had faced together the necessity of securing help to bury their beloved dead. Not an implement could be found on the place nor at any of the neighboring houses and the few homes not already deserted sheltered help to be secured for many miles was women like themselves. The nearest from the union men. It was with reluctance the girl was persuaded to seek relief from the only possible source. Aunt Linda had deftly brushed and coiled the girl's thick chestnut hair and laid out the best of what was left of her wardrobe and made her ready to face the bitterest moment of her life.

Like a flower of truce she stood before the general and his men. Simply and directly she told her story, omitting as much as possible any conflicting details, stating that her brother had been wounded while trying to reach home for a few hours' stay and that his two companions had returned that night.

Gently the general questioned her and, satisfied that his attempt to gain information was fruitless, ordered two of his men to return with her to her home, himself promising to go over in the afternoon.

It was nearly the close of day that a little group of union men went up the broad steps of the Bickerton home. Led by the general, the party mounted the stairs to find Alice waiting at the top, a confederate flag folded across her arm. Silently she led the way to the boy's room, where he still lay, dressed by Aunt Linda in the old gray uniform he had worn home, an early white rose in his hand.

The general looked long at the boyish face, then turned to the girl who stood like a statue beside him.

"I thank you, Miss Bickerton," he said, "for the trust and the honor you have conferred upon me in coming to me as you did. You women of the south are not less fine than your men and I shall cherish the memory of your trust always."

With touching solemnity he assisted her in wrapping the dead soldier in the folds of his flag, then tenderly the blue-coated men carried the body through the old house and garden, down to the valley where the mother had waited so long.

CANADIAN BASKET BALL LEAGUE IS PROPOSED.

Dr. Peacock, well-known yachting and hockey enthusiast, has a scheme for the organization of the Canadian Basketball Leagues, which is well worth consideration. It is proposed to have two sections, an eastern and western. The eastern section will be composed of teams in Ottawa and other eastern cities, while the western section will be composed of teams in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Brantford, Woodstock and other cities. The idea is to have the winners of each section to play off for the championship. If the league is formed there will be senior, intermediate and junior sections.

A Baseball Story

"Big Six" Mathewson, for years King of the Twirlers, told this story at an impromptu reception one night.

"The teacher of the class in English had demanded that the public all write for their daily exercise a short account of a baseball game. One youngster sat through the period, seemingly wrapped in thought, while the others all turned in their narratives. After school the teacher, impatient and disgusted at the laggard, offered him only five minutes to write the description, with a thrashing as an alternative. The boy concentrated all his attention upon the theme in hand, as the teacher counted his remaining moments. At the last, he scratched a line on his tablet, and with a sigh of relief handed it to his master. It read, "Rain — no game."

"If it wasn't for me my class in school would not have any standing at all," said Hubert.

"Nonsense," said his aunt. "Your mother says you are at the foot of it."

"I am," said Hubert. "How could it stand if it didn't have a foot?"

DOCTOR'S ENDORSE

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the professional man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, Covington, Tenn., says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applications of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It is advisable to continue its use for several weeks."

The words of J. B. Thompson, M. D., No. 2 Burrough Place, Cor. Collis St., Boston, Mass., are not less enthusiastic: "I can only speak in praise of Newbro's Herpicide. It is all that is claimed and perhaps more. Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp but brightens the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Dr. T. A. Moore, Duncan, Ariz., writes of his experience: "My scalp was in places covered with patches of dry, scaly material and itching was incessant. Since using Herpicide all these evils have disappeared and my hair is soft, smooth and growing. Hair has grown on spots before but thinly covered."

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once.

Herpicide is for sale at Drug Stores and one dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at the leading barber shops. Be sure you get genuine Herpicide. Send 10c. in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. J. V. Doyle, Special Agent.

R. W. LEONARD

Chairman Transcontinental R. R. Commission.

The appointment of Mr. Leonard to succeed Mr. Parent as chairman of this important commission meets with general approval. In the past, it is claimed politics have counted very much when appointments on the Transcontinental Board were made. In the present instance the work will have the benefit of a supervision that comes from experience. Mr. Leonard is a railway engineer of first-class reputation. He is a man who has made his own fortune in other business. As a partisan asset he does not look to amount to much for the government, but as a national asset he looks good. Mr. Leonard ought to be worth a good many million dollars to Canada in the still uncompleted 30 per cent. of the Transcontinental work.

BROCKVILLE'S BEST HOTEL BURNED

Strathcona Destroyed Also Other Places--Total Loss $85,000

(Intelligencer Special.)

BROCKVILLE, Dec. 27.—A fire which broke out about five o'clock this morning, threatened to destroy the business section of Brockville. It started in the Strathcona Hotel, and, fanned by a strong breeze, made great progress, and in a short time Brockville's finest hotel was reduced to ashes. The flames spread to Mowat & Jackson's tailor shop, which was completely gutted. Other places adjoining suffered slight losses. The hotel was valued at $75,000 and carried an insurance of $35,000. Mowat & Jackson's loss was $10,000, insurance $5,000.

CITY COUNCIL HELD THEIR FINAL SESSION FOR 1911

The Meeting was Business-like and of Comparatively Short Duration—Many Matters were Disposed of—Many Nice Things Said by the Aldermen of the Retiring Mayor—Digest of the Proceedings

The final meeting of the City Council for 1911 was held last evening and the session was one of the most business-like of the year. A number of matters were disposed of, including the passing of Ald. Clarke's by-law to disfranchise electors who have not paid their taxes on or before the 14th day of December in each year. A vote of thanks was tendered to retiring Mayor Ackerman and a number of nice things were said of him and the chairmen of the various committees.

The members present were Mayor Ackerman, Ald. Vermilyea, Caldwell, McGie, Parks, Chown, Clarke, Adams, Panter, Gibson, Bogle, Canning, Woodley, Marshall, Sills, Lott, Anderson, Bleecker.

After reading and confirming the minutes of last meeting the Council went into Committee of the Whole on Reports, Communications, etc., Ald. Chown in the chair.

In Committee.

The reports of the various committees were first considered. The accounts were endorsed, also the following recommendations:

That in view of the close proximity of the C. N. O. R. tracks to Dundas Street that a road be opened up to connect with Willard Street and on to Mary Street south of the street known as Norfolk Street;

That the Y. M. C. A. have the privilege of the Griffin Opera House for an entertainment on January 12th at the $25 rate;

That we accept the flat rate of $20 per h.p. for supply of electric power to pump during term of contract.

In regard to the last recommendation Ald. Lott asked if citizens would have the privilege of obtaining a flat rate of $20 per horse power.

Ald. Chown said he could not say. The recommendation of the committee, if adopted would mean a saving to the city of $300 to $500 per annum from a flat rate.

In answer to Ald. Woodley, the manager of the Water Works stated that the new pumps were giving satisfaction and he considered they would do the work here as they were doing in other cities where they had been installed.

An account of $33.30 from the Marsh & Henthorn company for making repairs to the fire engine caused some discussion.

Ald. Clarke stated that a tube had been placed in the engine which had been rejected. The engine to his mind had not been properly repaired.

Ald. Canning said that he, as chairman, could not sanction the account.

The account was referred back to the firm, with the understanding that the Council was of the opinion that the city had not received value for the amount named.

A number of accounts recommended for payment by the Board of Health were passed, also the following accounts:

F. S. Anderson	$28.00
W. T. Lingham	56.10
W. C. Clarke	.60
J. Craddock	15.00
D. M. Waters	1.20
F. Dolan	70.25
R. McCoy	50.00
H. A. Yeomans	12.00
F. D. Ford	.50
F. S. Anderson	10.50
F. S. Anderson	7.00
Bell Telephone Co.	1.50
A. S. Large	17.00

An account of $10 for repairs made to a broken piece of granolithic walk on Everett Street brought forth considerable discussion.

Ald. Panter said the breaking of granolithic walks appears to be neglect on the part of some person. A house was moved on Emily Street and the sidewalk was broken and no report of it was made.

Ald. Woodley thought that if any

SAYLOR—DAY.

A quiet wedding took place this morning in Bridge St. Church at 10.30 when Miss Edith Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Saylor, was married to Mr. Oscar P. Day, both of Trenton, by Rev. A. R. Sanderson. They were unattended. Miss Maud Day, sister of the groom, and Mr. J. W. Jaques, of Trenton, were witnesses.

WAS CONVICTED.

Joseph Diamond, the second hand dealer, who was accused of receiving and purchasing a certain quantity of rubber tubing, knowing same to have been stolen, was yesterday afternoon, before Magistrate Masson, found guilty. He was not, however, committed to jail, but had to pay all costs and enter into a bond of $100 in himself to appear for sentence at any time within a year. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown and Mr. Carnew appeared for the accused.

LATE VEGETATION.

Seldom indeed is vegetation in progress at this time of year, but 1911 is an exception to the rule. Mr. Dana Grills, who, with his father, Mr. Jas. Grills, lives on the Jay Farley farm in Thurlow, brought to The Intelligencer office to-day new four-inch sprouts from an orange lily and a sturdy young Sweet William, about four inches high which had grown since fall set in. Truly this is a most remarkable Canadian winter.

CHRISTMAS ASSEMBLY.

The Onweglide Club last night held their Christmas assembly, which proved to be a most enjoyable affair. Some 60 couples, many of whom were visitors in the city, were in attendance and all appeared to be thoroughly enjoying themselves. An augmented orchestra furnished inspiring music. The affair took place in Symons' Academy, Front Street. At midnight a toothsome lunch was partaken of, after which dancing was indulged in until an early hour this morning.

VIOLATED LIQUOR LAW.

Before Magistrate Masson this morning two hotel men of this city, namely Felix Allore and Martin Connor, were charged with an infringement of the Liquor License Act. They were charged that they sold liquor during prohibited hours, namely from 7 p.m. Saturday last until Tuesday morning. In the case of Connor it was not proven that an actual sale had taken place, but he had to pay $30 and costs for allowing persons in his bar during prohibited hours. Allore admitted the offence for which he was charged and a fine of $50 and costs was imposed. Both fines were paid.

Two young men named George Griffin and Clare Ashley, strangers here, were fined $2 and costs each for being in a bar during prohibited hours.

Mr. Anderson represented the Crown and Mr. Carnew appeared on behalf of the accused.

WAS CARED FOR.

The police last evening answered a call to east Bridge Street, it being reported that a drunk was lying in a lot. The man had evidently been taken care of before the police arrived upon the scene.

BAKER—ISTEED.

Mr. Isaac F. Baker and Miss Ada Isteed were yesterday quietly married in this city by the Rev. A. R. Sanderson, pastor of Holloway Street Church. The ceremony was performed at the parsonage, Hillside Street.

TWO WEDDINGS.

On Christmas day Rev. Rural Dean Beamish, rector of St. Thomas church, united in marriage two couples, namely Mr. Wellington R. Godfrey and Miss Mary Amelia Connors, and Mr. Albert Pickel and Miss Lillie M. Kaiser.

RAILWAY VICTIM BURIED.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the funeral took place of the late W. S. Symons, the victim of the terrible accident which occurred in the G.T.R. yards here on Saturday night. The remains were conveyed from Tickell & Sons' undertaking establishment to St. Michael's Church, where Rev. Father Killeen conducted services. A number of the G. T. R. employees attended the obsequies. The body was placed in the vault at the Belleville cemetery.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENT.

A most successful entertainment was given at the Methodist Church, front of Thurlow, on Thursday evening, the 21st. Although the weather was rather threatening, the church was well filled with an appreciative audience, and the best of order prevailed. The pastor, Rev. W. T. Wickett, of Shannonville, made an ideal chairman. The programme committee, Mrs. A. Clazie, Miss L. Roblin and Mr. W. D. Reid evidently spared no efforts to provide a first-class programme, in which they were assisted by Mrs. F. Parrott, who rendered solos in a very pleasing manner, and Miss McPherson, of Belleville, held the audience with her humorous readings. Special mention might be made of the young ladies' sash drill, also a sunflower march by eight boys of the primary class, which reflected great credit on their trainers. At the close of the evening the children were delighted with the gifts handed them from an evergreen cross.

MAYOR ENTERTAINED.

At the adjournment of the City Council last evening Mayor Ackerman entertained the members of the Council, some of the civic officials and newspaper representatives to an oyster supper at Mr. B. J. Black's restaurant. A pleasant hour was spent by all who were present.

INCENDIARY FIRE.

A large frame building situated at Twelve O'clock Point, a summer resort near Trenton, was last evening burned to the ground, also some other small buildings adjoining. The fire broke out about 7 o'clock and soon the buildings were reduced to ashes. How the fire originated is not known, but there is a suspicion that it was incendiary in its origin. The buildings were the property of Mr. Bonter, of Trenton.

THE CENSUS.

A census of the city of Toronto to be taken by the police early in the new year, is recommended by the Board of Control. It will cost $150 to $200. Should it not be well for the new Council of Belleville to follow the example thus set? No one believes that the official census of this city is correct. The cost would be trifling in comparison to the satisfaction it would give to know the facts.

SCHOOL ELECTION

Nomination for trustees for the Separate School Board was held in St. Michael's Academy at noon to-day. All were elected by acclamation as follows:

Foster Ward—Jas. St. Charles, jr.
Samson Ward—J. M. Truaisch.
Ketcheson Ward—T. Cushing.
Baldwin Ward—W. N. Belair.
Bleecker Ward—Rev. Father Killeen.
Coleman Ward—W. J. Hogan.
Murney Ward—Wm. Donohue.

SCRUB WITH ORANGES.

Many of the women in Florida scrub their floors with oranges. In almost any town in the orange growing district women may be seen using them exactly as many housewives use soap. The acid in the oranges does the cleansing, and the boards are as white as snow after the application

A Division of Labor.

Bobby had been unusually quiet for several hours, so quiet, indeed, that his mother began to worry over the great quantities of stillness that came from the room in which he was sitting. Finally, unable to stand the strain any longer, she rose up from her work and went into the nursery.

"What are you doing, Bobby?" she said, as she discovered the little chap curled up in a chair with a very solemn expression on his face.

"Thinkin 'and wishin'," replied Bobby.

"What about, dear?" asked his mother.

"I was thinkin' how nice it would be if I was twins," he answered. "Then the other one could do the studyin' at school and I could stay home and play; and then, when I did something naughty, why you could spank him. When I was sick he could take the castor oil, and"——

"And when you had some candy, what then?" asked his mother.

"Oh, I'd eat it," said Bobby. "It wouldn't do for me to let him get sick."

CURRENT COMMENT

Belleville has parted with the City Council of 1911 without regret.

Good news for the hockey fans is contained in the announcement that it was 18 below in the west yesterday and that the cold wave is rolling eastward.

Remember that the polls will be open on Monday in all the wards for the reception of votes in the mayoralty contest and on the by-law for the abolition of the ward system. Vote for the by-law.

Anyone who has a copy of the Liberal platform of 1893 should at once forward it to that party in Ottawa. The Liberals intend to use it for the first time in fifteen years. Liberal platforms are for use in opposition only.—Peterborough Review.

Let every municipal elector in Belleville ask himself or herself the question: "Do I want to have a voice in the eection of ALL the men who are to spend my money, or in that of only THREE out of twenty-one?" and vote accordingly on Monday next.

A late despatch from London, England conveys the distressing information that half a million men in that city are out of employment and on the verge of starvation. A fair presumption is that under a protective tariff a vast majority of those men might be employed in manufacturing industries.

Evidences are not lacking that the end of the Liberal Government is in sight in the old land. Four losses within a month makes pretty startling reading and is cogent evidence of the fact that public confidence in the administration is on the wane. Without much dobut the splendid verdict of Canada against Reciprocity has been quite a factor in strengthening Empire desires.—Brantford Courier.

Hon. George P. Graham in Renfrew will have to fight against his own declaration of some fourteen years ago, made in Brockville when Hon. Peter White invaded that riding and was told publicly by Mr. Graham that the Brockville people wanted one of their own men and not a "stranger from Renfrew." Now Renfrew may retaliate by saying that it does not want "a stranger from Brockville."—Kingston Standard.

Lord Charles Beresford has been running amuck against Mr. McKenna, late First Lord of the Admiralty, denouncing his administration of his department. Mr. McKenna, in a letter just published, returns in a fighting style. He says: "Lord Charles Beresford's speeches do not disturb me in the slightest. Nobody attaches any importance to what he says, and it is common knowledge that I refusde to employ him and also to recommend him as Admiral of the Fleet." Now it is the turn of the bluff old Admiral to buckle on his armour, prime his guns and fire a retort.

Bonar Law appeasr to be making good as leader of the Unionist party in England. A well informed London correspondent writes: "Bonar Law has come well out of his first few weeks of leadership. There has been no murmur of discontent, and his followers are not simply pleased, but delighted, with him. The one surprise in the new regime is that it is so much on the lines of the old one. Bonar Law's belief that the Conservative party is to be saved by 'tactics' is equal to Balfour's. This came out in the third-reading speech on the Insurance Bill, which provoked from Mr. Asquith the deserved compliment that an Amurath has succeeded to an Amurath. It had all the Balfourian deftness in steering between Scylia and Charybdis."

During 1910, 16,348 persons were granted certificates of naturalization in Canada, which, with those previously recorded, makes a total of 146,833. Those who sought the charmed circle of British nationality included Algerians, Argentines, Armenians, Austrians, Bavarians, Belgians, Bohemians, Brazilians, Bucowinians, Bulgarians, Chinese, Cubans, Danes, Dutch, Egyptians, Finns, French, Galicians, Germans, Greeks, Hebrews, Hungarians, Icelanders, Italians, Japanese, Macedonians, Mennonites, Mexicans, Montenegrins, Norwegians, Persians, Poles, Portuguese, Prussians, Roumanians, Russians, Servians, Sicilians, South Africans, Spanish, Swedes, Swiss, Syrians, Turks, and 5,854 United States citizens. This is another proof of the magnetism of a great land and all that a world-famous flag implies.

OPEN SEASONS IN THE "GOOD OLD TIMES"

Steamer Came From Kingston to Deseronto Jan. 1st, 1838—Christmas Trip to Massassaga, 1877.

Unseasonably mild as has been the winter of 1911 so far, it is not without a parallel in this district.

On the 1st of January, 1838, when the Mackenzie rebellion was in progress, a steamer went up from Kingston to Culbertson's Point, now Deseronto, with arms for the volunteers, who proceeded to that place in sleighs. Among the citizen-soldiery were Mr. John Bowell, father of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and Mr. Joseph P. Reeves, father-in-law of Mr. R. S. Bell, the present editor of The Intelligencer. Mr. Reeves, who was a youth of about 16 years of age, had armed himself with an old pistol which he had commandeered.

On Christmas day, 1877, the bay was open, with a little ice beginning to form along the sides, and a large party took a trip on the ferry steamer Prince Edward to Massassaga Point, where quoit pitching games and foot races were indulged in. The yachts Kathleen, owned by Mr. R. J. Bell, and Gracie, owned by Mr. R. M. Roy, sailed down as far as Cedar Island.

It was intended to repeat the trip on New Year's day, but the bay closed on the night of December 29th.

There was but one week's sleighing that winter and the river opened two weeks earlier than usual in 1878.

Small Heads Dont Mean Small Brains.

The fact that you take a small size in hats does not necessarily mean that you have a small brain. A man with a small head may be much cleverer than a man with a large one. Moreover, the size of the brain is not everything, since, if undeveloped, it is no more likely to produce anything of value than land which is not fertile. There are people with large heads who display so little intelligence that one almost expects to hear their brains rattle when they move, like a shrivelled kernel in a nut.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE COW AND THE MOON" A HIT IN LONDON.

No one looks for a great deal of logic in the average musical production, and "The Cow and the Moon" makes no pretensions in this regard, but for an evening's amusement it delivers the goods. It might be classed as a sister play of "Superba" or the Hanlan's trip through Switzerland, so many marvelous changes and tricks are pulled off. And interspersed are dashing choruses and catchy solos, with an ever ready and willing, vivacious ballet. The girls are young and pretty and sing well, and all the leads are in capable hands.

Miss Janet Priest appears in the leading role, that of "Innocence." She is a cute little body, who has grown somewhat in avoirdupois since her last appearance here, but she is just as pleasing and doll-like as ever.

Mr. Ed. Gilmore, as "Happy," is a comedy cyclone, who has plenty of new "stuff" and even if his lines were old would be able to get away with them. He is a hard worker and made himself solid with the audience.

Mr. William Gross, as "Hans," provides a Dutch character which injects yards of humor at mostly all stages of the performance, and Mr. Will M. Haenel, as Signor Caruso and other people, is an ideal villain, who ceases his nefarious plotting occasionally to sing a song and do it well.

Miss Bessie Taft possesses a splendid voice and won the approval of her hearers. There are very many mechanical effects and some very fine staging and costuming.

"The Cow and The Moon" plays Griffin's to-night.

Prices 25c., 35c., 50c., 75c., $1.00.

"STEVE" THE BOY LIFTER

Samson's prodigious strength forms the substance of biblical legends which encompass tencer youth with physical buoyancy; Dumas Porthos (a mythical, yet magnetic character) the lion-hearted, the colossus whose life ebbed under the weight of a massive rock; Sandow, athletic plenipotentiary to King George — these men were invested with abnormal strength. Exceptions they are, of course, but there is more physical power hidden in the average man than one might suspect.

Imagine, for instance, a mere stripling, weighing considerably less than a hundred pounds and in about the middle of his teens, lifting over 35 tons in a single day.

Seems foolish, doesn't it, this statement that a "kid" could lift more than 70,000 pounds in one day?

Statistics, however, are available to prove the assertion, and what is more, the giant-lifting youngster is none the worse for his experience.

"Steve," the lad who spots pins on Saratoga alley number one, had an extremely busy session the other day. He toiled throughout the day and well into the evening. To him the work was easy — simply daily routine — but had he been aware at the close of his duties that he had handled the equivalent of over 35 tons of wood he doubtless would have agreed that a day in a bowling pit is far from a sinecure.

SUPERTITIONS ROUND 'OPALS'

The idea that opals were unlucky is thought by many to be on account of the unfortunate part Sir Walter Scott assigned to it in his "Anne of Gelerstein." The opal is also associated with misfortune by Russians of both sexes, who, should they chance to see an opal amongst the goods displayed for purchase, will buy nothing more that day, and it is a curious fact that the Japanese, being under the sign that this stone belongs to, should be the nation to bring such ill-luck to the Russians during the disastrous war between these two countries. The [illegible]ans of old loved the opal so wel[illegible]t they bestowed upon it the nam[illegible] "lovely youth." It never occurred to them that it was a gem which carried ill-luck to its possessor. In the Middle Ages there were not wanting men who shared the Romans' weakness, for opals did not lose their popularity as time went on. Each century brought its own joys and sorrows, luck and ill-luck, to the human race; and each age brought its fashions in jewellery as in clothing, but the opal remained high in favour and entered largely into the adornment of both sexes.

THE DEMAND Is increasing enormously Can we tell you the Reason Why?

I was thinking of the women.

He slumped into a chair, clasped his outstretched hands upon the writing-table, and allowed his head to droop between his arms. At that moment I heard Belle calling "Papa!" She was running lightly down the stairs. Again she called, and I knew that she was coming swiftly toward the library.

Genevieve made a move as if to bolt the door, but I checked her with a gesture. Of what use would it be to bar the way of her who came so impulsively? The dreadful truth must be broken to her. It was a task that no third person might assume; let her hear it wrung from her father's unwilling lips.

"Papa!" She was approaching quickly. How youthful and self-reliant her voice sounded! The sweet, girlish soprano jarred painfully upon at least two of our tense, waiting group. And Belle continued to advance all unsuspectingly.

"Papa, where are you? Why don't you answer?"

Genevieve ran over to her uncle, and laid one arm across his bowed shoulders.

"Uncle! Uncle!" She shook him, striving in an agitated way to rouse him to a sense of realization. "Uncle! Sit up! Don't go all to pieces, this way! Belle is at the door!"

And sure enough, as the bent figure painfully straightened a light rap sounded upon the panel, and Belle's fresh young voice again called:

"Are you in there, papa? May I come in?"

Genevieve drew suddenly back to a shadowed corner, wringing her hands with a helpless, despairing gesture. Fluette rose unsteadily to his feet. Then the door opened, and Belle stood framed in the doorway.

The man's look darted feverishly between the two girls—Genevieve well-nigh overcome, while the smile on Belle's handsome face quickly gave way to an expression of bewilderment, and then to a dawning one of alarm. Next she rushed into the room, and stopped abruptly. Bending a look of anxious inquiry first upon her cousin and then upon me, she finally confronted her father.

"Papa," she faltered, her voice quaking with the fear that suddenly gripped her heart, "what is it? What does this mean?" Then, as she started blindly toward him, she uttered one piercing, agonizing cry: "Papa!"

Unconsciously he brushed aside her beseeching arms. He did not answer her directly; his words were a response to the charge that I had not yet made.

"Man, you are right," he said huskily, "it is my conscience. It is not you that accuse me, but the pure eyes of these two innocent girls—the unspoken reproach of that broken, white-haired woman who sits in silence upstairs—those fling the charge into my face—sear it into my very soul—every minute of the day and night.

"Take me. I am guilty. It was I who killed Felix Page."

CHAPTER XXV.

"Thimble, Thimble—"

It is needless to dwell upon the scene in Alfred Fluette's study; I shall take up merely such details as constitute an integral part of this memoir, and hurry along.

After Genevieve had led Belle away, Mr. Fluette quickly mastered himself. The bitter moment of the confession once passed, it seemed as if his mind had been relieved of a great burden, and he talked to me with comparative unreserve. But his appearance was in pitiable contrast with what it must have been before he wandered into devious ways. He was crushed, his mein one of hopeless submission to whatever the future might have in store for him.

"First of all," he began, with impressive earnestness, "I want to emphasize the fact that when I snuffed out that man's life I was in imminent peril of my own. When I snatched up the candlestick, if ever a man had murder in his heart Felix Page had at that moment.

"The rest was automatic; I could no more have stayed the deadly blow than I can now hope to escape its consequences. Revolt from almost a lifetime of pitiless, persistent persecution filled me with an irresistible impulse to destroy and rendered my arm invincible."

I went with him, step by step, over the ground that is already familiar. Felix Page had ever been the thorn in his flesh.

"It wasn't as if I had a tangible enemy," he declared; "he wouldn't come out into the open and fight. His aims were always petty, he perpetually annoyed and harrassed me by mean and ignoble ways, which I was obliged to bear with an assumption of ignoring them, or else lower myself to his level to meet them. Any bold, decisive stroke would at least have won my respect; but no, the cunning hound knew that my disposition could not forever turn aside his sly thrusts; he knew that, by degrees but inevitably, he was warping my nature, slowly but surely destroying all that was best in me.

"Well," bitterly, "he has succeeded. He has ruined me not only financially, but body and soul as well.

"Time and again he flaunted in my face some old letters which my wife wrote when she was a mere girl. They were such as any artless, inexperienced girl might write to a man who has for the moment captured her fancy; but how could that be made clear to a public ever greedy for scandal? How would those letters read in the light of my wife's years and the dignity of her present position? Yet the scoundrel has threatened me times without number that he would scatter them broadcast.

"Then—the ruby: that was a crowning stroke. He deliberately stepped in and wrested it from my grasp simply because he in some way found out that I had set my heart upon it for my collection. It was as if he perpetually had his fingers upon the pulse of my desires and intentions; he seemed to divine and anticipate my every move.

"But I was soon reconciled to the stone's loss, and I would have remained so had it not been for that creature, Burke. When he put the idea into my mind that perhaps Page had no legal title to it, I was tempted—and I fell. He presented to me too good an opportunity to retaliate for me to let it pass.

DRUNKARDS PATRON

What has come to be known as St Martin Summer consists of a few lovely days about the second week of November. We hear a great deal about St. Luke's Summer; but St Martin's Summer and his name-day November 11th, suffer neglect — possibly because the saint was French and not English.

Perhaps, too, the knowledge that he is the patron saint of drunkards has not added to his reputation. That office came to him by accident. The reason how this doubtful honour was thrust upon him after his death was rather curious. The Vinalia, or Feast of Bacchus, was always celebrated on November 11th. Later, when the Christians decided to merge Bacchus into St. Martin, the reputation of the former was unfortunately handed on to the saint, although quite unmerited by him.

Before his conversion he was a military tribune, stationed at Amiens. When one day, so the story goes, in midwinter, at the city gate of Amiens a miserable beggar appealed to him for help, the soldier drew his sword and dividing his cloak, gave half of it to the wretched beggar. At night, so it is said, Christ in person appeared to the astonished soldier, clad in the very cloak he had divided with the beggar a few hours before.

Another legend is that the saint, having been annoyed by the behaviour of one of the geese in his poultry-yard, ordered it to be slain and served up for dinner. He died immediately after partaking of it, and the anniversary has ever since been observed in France by the eating of goose on that day, November 11th. And even now, when the sunny days of St. Martin's Summer come round, there are but few French people who do not give a passing thought to that kindly saint who divided his cloak so that a poor beggar might be protected from the cold.

Caught Poachers.

Montreal, Dec. 27.—Game Warden W. H. Griffiths, of the Association for the Protection of Fish and Game of Quebec, telephoned to headquarters Monday that he had arrested 31 men at Caribou Lake in St. Maurice County, and had seized nearly a ton of red trout, a beaver, just as it had been trapped, a number of beaver skins, muskrat, mink, marten and weasel. The men will be tried on Friday at Three Rivers.

Raising Sunken Barge.

Kingston, Dec. 27.—It is not very often that a marine wrecking job can be undertaken this late in the season, but the steamer Hinckley is working on the barge Davy of the Montreal Transportation Co., which sank near Alexandria Bay early in the season while grain laden on the way to Montreal. Good progress is being made, and if the river does not freeze over the barge will be liberated in two weeks' time.

Mgr. Stagni Named.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Mgr. Stagni, papal delegate to Canada is again prominently mentioned in despatches from Rome as the probable successor to Mgr. Falconio as apostolic delegate to Washington. The position was made vacant by the elevation of Mgr. Falconio to the cardinalate a few weeks ago.

And the more people expect the more surpise they show if their expectations are realized.

Congratulations

The staff of The Intelligencer extend congratulations to Sir Mackenzie Bowell, President of The Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House, who is to-day celebrating the 88th anniversary of his birth. Born at Rickinghall, Suffolk, England, December 27th, 1823, he cames to Canada with his parents in 1833; learned the business of a printer in the office of this newspaper, which he entered in 1835, and of which in 1847 he became the proprietor. Began his public career in 1867, when he was elected to the first Parliament of Canada, and continued to represent that constituency in the House of Commons until 1892, when he was appointed to the Senate. In October, 1878, he entered the Cabinet then formed by Sir John A. Macdonald, as Minister of Customs, which he held continuously for over thirteen years, when in January, 1892, he became Minister of Militia and Defence in the Abbott Government, and in December of the same year became Minister of Trade and Commerce in Sir John Thompson's Administration. On the death of that gentleman in December, 1894, Sir Mackenzie (then Mr.) Bowell was called on to form an Administration, which he completed Dec. 21st, 1894, and on April 27th, 1896, he retired from office. Subsequently he became the Conservative leader in the Senate, which position he resigned a few years ago. Space will not permit more than mere mention of the fact that Sir Mackenzie had a distinguished military career of many years' duration; that he rose to the highest positions in the Orange order; that he served the public usefully for several years on the Board of Public School Trustees; and that his tongue, as well as his pen, have ever been actively used for what he believed to be to the best interests of the community of which he is a member, as well as those of Canada and the Empire. Moreover, when the invasion of our country was threatened by foreign foes, he on two occasions went to the front to aid in repelling the invaders.

Bearing these things in mind, the employees of The Intelligencer, some of whom have been associated for many years with Sir Mackenzie, heartily congratulate the venerable head of the Company by which they are employed and take this opportunity of extending to him their cordial felicitations, and to express the wish that he may for many years to come be associated with them.

Single Tax

Alberta is to test the efficacy of the single tax theory. On the 20th Dec. Premier Sifton introduced a Bill in the Alberta Legislature, one of the most progressive pieces of legislation ever brought forward by a Liberal Government. The bill now before the Alberta Legislature stipulates that within seven years the single tax principle shall be observed by all established municipalities, and that it shall be observed from the outset by municipalities hereafter established in Alberta. The bill, in its entirety, will provide a model constitution for municipalities now in existence, and that will be created in the future in the province. It contains 377 sections and it is the aim of the Government to include in these every consideration that enters into the administration of a municipality.

This is an experiment which the result of will be watched with no little interest.

Claims 85,000

A little light is to be let into the manipulations of mergers, how they were brought about, and how the operators manage to make their hundreds of thousands out of them. This is likely to be the result of an action brought by the Bank of Montreal to recover no less a sum than $85,000 from Sir Sanford Fleming, Joseph Samuel Irvin, Sandford Hall Fleming, Hugh Fleming, William Exshaw and the Anglo-Canadian Finance Co.

This suit arises out of transactions in connection with the Cement Merger in which a number of people in this locality hold stock.

The Bank brings suit claiming that the defendants are liable on certain notes given in connection with the merger, as follows: Sir Sandford Fleming, $39,109.50; J. S. Irvin, $20,739.73; Sandford Hall Fleming, $10,369.86; Hugh Fleming, $10,369.86; the Anglo-Canadian Finance Company, $20,739.73; William Exshaw, $10,369.86. In every case interest at the rate of 5 per cent. is asked. Their claim is that the Exshaw concern was taken into the Cement Merger and that its liabilities should have been taken care of by the merger. There will be issued raised at the litigation of these cases that will practically necessitate the re-opening of the affairs of the Cement Merger and a thorough investigation into the information. Startling developments are expected when these cases are heard. The claim of the defence is that the indebtedness of the Exshaw works was to have been taken over in the cement merger but that the concern was frozen out of the deal and then bought in off the market for practically nothing.

An exposure of how the mergers are managed may be of service to investors in the future, and how millions of "watered" stock is thrown upon the market, and how people are humbugged and deceived by the manipulators.

The King as a Sportsman

King George has in the past proved his prowess as a sportsman, which has lost nothing by hunting exploits in India. A cablegram from that part of the Empire says: "Three tigers and an equal number of rhinoceri fell victims to His Majesty King George's aim during his hunt yesterday as the guest of the Rajah of Nepaul. The King made several difficult shots and is being highly praised for his excellent marksmanship. Six hundred elephants and forty automobiles are being used in the hunt and there is an abundance of game. King George plans to present several of his trophies to British museums."

This equals Roosevelt's shooting in the East.

CIGARETTE PAPER.

So Light that 500 Sheets Go to Make an Ounce.

Of the great army of cigarette smokers there is probably not more than one in a hundred who knows that rice paper, in which the tobacco is wrapped, has nothing to do with rice, but is made from the membranes of the breadfruit tree or more commonly of fine new trimmings of flax and hemp.

So light is this paper that 500 of the tiny sheets go to make an ounce. They are perfectly combustible and give off the minimum of smoke. Before being rolled with tobacco they are analyzed to prove that they are free from all deleterious ingredients and that they contain nothing but the purest paper fibre. Only new material—flax and hemp trimmings—is used, and these are thoroughly purified.

Chopped by machinery into minute particles, they are well mixed by a revolving fan and then reduced to a dust, which is placed in a solution of lime and soda. After remaining in solution for some time it undergoes a thorough washing process, the water being the purest kind.

Then the pulp is rolled out into paper. At first it is of a grayish tinge, the pure white of the finished product being obtained by an electric process.

The French manufacturers of cigarette paper practically supply the entire world, the output of Austria and Italy being insignificant.

PASSING OF THE CLOWN.

Perriots and the Huge Three-Ring Circus the Cause.

Mr. Alfred Miaco of the circus deplores the passing of the clown.

This is largely the observation of the European-bred artist. Strictly speaking, while we have developed many clowns, they have been clowns mostly in an invidious sense. Miaco, with the training to qualify him as a legitimate actor, in less distracted surroundings would give us finished pantomine in rare play with the eyes and hands.

Continental Europe has its perriots who are public idols. Plays are written for them and composers of standing write their incidental music.

Of men like these, England's Grimaldi was famous. George Caron, the last of a long line of clowns and the funniest of them all, died a few years ago at the height of his career.

While these instances are of the theatre rather than of the circus, the school which devloped Miaco did not take into calculations three rings and a jumble of changing sights. The clown held the centre and was the mainstay of the entertainment. For him to have to be dependent upon sudden collapse under the weight of a slap stick would have been the sign of the passing of art.

Gold That Is in the Sea.

Apart from the treasures which find their way to the bottom of the sea, and occasionally come to light again, there is more gold in the sea than has ever been coined into money. Such, at all events, is the opinion of Prof. Wilde, of Brussels University. All sea water contains a certain amount of gold, in the proportion of about one grain to each ton of water. Reckoning the total weight of all the oceans at the very moderate figure of 1,000,000,000 tons, Prof. Wilde estimates that they would yield gold to nearly a hundred thousand times as much as . .

Why, bless you! you can bathe in gold.

Saved by His Wit.

One evening, when the city clerk's office was full of men seeking registration, an Irishman asked to be registered. He received the usual blank, with the request that he sign his name This he succeeded in doing, after a painful effort.

Suspecting that this was the extent of his accomplishments, an onlooker called out to the clerk:

"Try him on another name! Let him write yours."

"'Deed, I'd never dare!" said the Irishman, quick as lightning. "Sure, 'twould be forgery!"

Pastor Russell's Sermon

ON THE PACIFIC, Dec. 25.—When Pastor Russell and party with others westward bound discovered that a day must be dropped from the calendar, they decided to observe Sunday, the 24th, and Christmas Day together. The text for the day was the song of the angels on the morning of Jesus' birth—"Glory to God in the highest; on earth peace, good will toward men."—Luke ii:14.

Pastor Russell adverted to the fact that a few months ago neither he nor his companions had the slightest thought of spending Christmas Day on the broad bosom of the Pacific Ocean, but in God's providence they were there on a mission of "peace and good will toward men," and on an ocean whose name is Pacific; and by circumstances beyond control, Sunday and Christmas Day merged into one, in a double sense speaking peace and the Divine benediction upon their mission.

What could be more appropriate to the occasion than the song of the angels, "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will toward men?" Surely that song must find a responsive echo in the hearts of all good people.

Nearly 19 centuries have sped since the Saviour was born and the angelic message of peace went forth; but still God is not glorified, and peace and good will are not exemplified amongst men. What means this delay?

Instead of peace we have war; instead of disaarmament, fresh taxes are levied; armies are enlarged and freshly equipped; new guns of more deadly calibre take the place of previous types, and nine more monster Dreadnoughts are promised before another year—all for peace! Some of us, as Bible students, have learned within the past few years to place greater confidence than ever in our precious Bible.

Wiping from it the smearings of ignorance and superstition accumulated during the dark ages, we find God's book wonderfully rseplendent! Verily, it shines out as a lamp upon the other-wise dark pathway of the world's trend. It reveals to us the whole situation. It assures us of Divine blessing upon all who have the spirit of peacemakers; but it also assures us that not peace, but great trouble lies immediatel yin our pathway—"A time of trouble such as was not since there was a nation."—Daniel xii:1.

It explains that this is the result of the great increase of knowledge amongst men, in whom the principles of selfishness rather than love hold control. In other words, because the increased knowledge has not brought "Glory to God in the highest," and good will and equity toward fellowmen, it ersults in the opposite—an increase of selfishness. The Bible predicts that shortly this will break forth as a consuming fire: "Every man's hand will be against his neighbor," in that reign of terror.

Thank God! the same scriptures which tell us of the coming catastrophe point to the silver lining of the cloud. They declare to us that be[illegible] the Sun of Righteousness will rise with healing, blessing in His beams, and that then, under the administration of Messiah's kingdom, God's will will be brought to pass on earth even as it is in heaven. Then God will be glorified in the highest, and on earth will be peace, good will equity, justice and love amongst men.

"But how strange!" says one; "we had hoped that the education would have made the world holier, nobler, better. We had hoped to establish this peace and good will amongst men by the conversion of the world." Yes we once all foolishly trusted in the arm of flesh. We are all to learn the lesson that the Almighty arm can deliver us from the snares of our own weakness and selfishness. Do we not see that the majority of our race are not made by holy education, but rather made "lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God?" Do we not see that the prisons and police officers are more numerous and more necessary in proportion to civilization?

How long will it take us to learn the lesson that mankind cannot lift itself out of sin, selfishness, degradation and death any more than a man can lift himself by his own bootstraps! The world must learn this lesson before it will be prepared to look to the Lord for the helpful change which He has promised to give and be prepared to appreciate that help when received. God is teaching our race—yea, the angels also, great lessons which are to be useful to all eternity.

In God's due time—foreknown by Him from the beginning—His divine power will be manifest amongst men. Coming after men shall have realized their own impotence, the Prophet declares Messiah's kingdom will be "The desire of all nations"—all peoples. Its necessity will have been demonstrated, its rule will be joyfully accepted as the only course whereby man can escape from "the valley of the shadow of death"—sickness, sorrow, pain, trouble—back to the sunshine of divine favor lost six thousand years ago, through Father Adam's disobedience—the sentence which, by heredity, has affected all of his race.

But the Redeemer must first gather from amongst men a select little company to be His companions on the spirit plane in glory, honor, and immortality. These are styled the "Body of Christ," or otherwise "the Bride, the Lamb's wife." The world cannot be dealt with until this election shall first be accomplished. Nearly nineteen centuries have been devoted to the gathering of this saintly few, who are called heirs of God, joint-heirs of Jesus Christ, their Lord" to a heavenly inheritance. To our understanding the Bible teaches that very soon the last of these 'elect' ones will have been tested and accepated. Then the first resurrection will be completed, the great Messiah, head and members, will be glorified, all-powerful, but invisible to men.

The first work of this kingdom class will be the binding Satan and the restraining of evil; and the great "time of trouble" amongst men already referred to will be incidental to this overthrow of Satan's control—the kingdom of darkness. Forthwith the Sun of Righteousness will begin to shrine, and earth's dark clouds of sin and sorrow will begin to melt away. "The glory of the Lord will be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together."

ACCIDENTS IN AVIATION.

Mostly Due to Breakdown in Human Machine

All who walk the earth in safety and apparently in a normal condition of health are not physically qualified to be aviators. This is demonstrated by Dr. R. Moulinier who writes as follows

"The rapid ascent to great altitudes exposes the body to conditions different from any terrestral ones. Mountain climbing offers some analogy, but it is different in the fact that the transition from the high atmospheric transition of the sea level to a low pressure takes place much more slowly. The author has reported some interesting observations on the blood pressure of aviators who have ascended to high altitudes. On alighting after ascending to a height of 1200 to 2000 meters the aviator presents cyanosis of the extremities, probably from the low temperature of the high regions of the atmosphere.'"

This means that the extremities turn a dusky blue color. Often there is congestion of the inner surface of the eyes. The pulse is quickened, but there is no irregularity of the heart's action, nor bleeding from the nose. There is often slight headache and ringing in the ears. Sometimes there is a tendency to sleep, and this may be felt even during flight. Rising to a great height and coming down again always increases th blood pressure, as the writer explains.

Power From Sea Waves.

At the recent meeting of the British Association the question of economical production of power from tides and winds was again under discussion, and it has been taken up widely by scientific journals in Europe. "La Revue Scientifique" calls attention to a system of utiliing the power of sea waves to actuate a dynamo which has been employed during the last six months at the mouth of the river Gironde. An air chamber is connected with a well, which communicates with the sea at a depth below the level of the lowest tides. By the advance and recession of the waves changes of pressure are produced in the air chamber, and a system of valves enables the resulting air currents to be applied to rotating a kind of turbine. It is said that the apparatus works equally well in calm and in stormy weather.

A FAMOUS ENGLISH CLOCK.

Terrestial and Celestial Bodies Incorporated in the movements.

Wells cathedral contains one of the most interesting clocks in the whole world. It was constructed by Peter Lightford, a monk, in 1320 and embraces many devices which testify to the ancient horologist's ingenuity. Several celestial and terrestrial bodies are incorporated in the interesting movement and relationship. They indicate the hours of the day, the age of the moon and the position of the planets and the tides. When the clock strikes the hour two companies of horsemen fully armed dash out of gateways in opposite directions and charge vigorously. They strike with their lances as they pass as many times as correspond with the number of the hour. A little distance away, seated on a high perch, is a quaint figure, which kicks the quarters on two bells placed beneath his feet and strikes the hours on a bell. The disk of the clock is divided into twenty-four hours and shows the phases of the moon and a map of the universe.

Risky to Marry Money.

Apropos of a beautiful young wife, worth $40,000,000, who had just divorced her penniless husband in order to marry again, Henry E. Dixey, the comedian, said at a dinner:

"The young man who marries for money has none too easy a time of it. His rich wife is likely to tire of him and throw him out in a few years, or else she is likely to limit his allowance to 25 or 50 cents a day.

"'I married money,' a man once said to me.

"'Wasn't there a woman attached to it?' I asked

"'Yes, you bet there was,' he exploded. 'So much attached to it that she never parted with a penny.'"

"Sounds Good: I'll try to join you"

SPORTSMAN and TELEPHONE

EVERY TIME a man wants to get away from all connection with the busy world, the telephone is an important helper.

The Local Service is useful in arranging his affairs at home, and the Long Distance Service of the Bell System helps him to decide where to go and what to take.

By means of his Bell Telephone he can find out whether the fish are biting or the birds are flying, and whether guides or horses can be secured.

After he has been out awhile, if he wants to get word from the city, the nearest Bell Telephone is a friend in need.

FRENCH POSTAL BANKS.

People of France More Provident than Anglo-Saxons.

The record of the postal savings bank system in France has been one of continued progress. In 1882, when this institution was established, the total number of postal banks in operation was 6024, with 211,580 deposit accounts remaining open at the close of the year. These accounts, including interest due to depositors, amounted to $9,187,116, the average sum of the deposits being $43.41. On December 31, 1909, the latest year for which complete statistics are available, the number of banks had increased by nearly 2,000, the deposit accounts numbered 5,542,882, and the deposits, including interest, represented an aggregate amount of $216,456,866, averaging $37.08.

The expenses of administration during 1909 amounted to $1,504,678 and the net profits to $526,786. It may be recalled that individual accounts are limited by law to 1500 francs ($289.50). When an account exceeds this the surplus is invested by the bank in national bonds. The total value of the bonds purchased in 1909 was $2,080,575. The withdrawals, including these purchases, amounted to $104,916,150.

ENIGMA OF GROWTH.

Reason Why Persons Do Not Keep on Growing.

Six pounds and a half is the weight of the average child at birth; at the end of the first year the average weight is eighteen pounds and a half, a gain of twelve pounds; and at the end of the second year the weight is twenty-three pounds, a gain of only four pounds and a half. And with each successive year the gain is less and less until maturity is reached. Why is the gain less each year? And why does it finally cease altogether?

The reason is that the absorbing surfaces inside the stomach and intestine do not, and in the nature of things cannot, grow proportionately to the growth of the body as a whole. During the first year of growth the child's body becomes approximately three times as large as it was at birth, but the interior of the stomach and bowel of the child at the age of one year is not even twice as large as it was at birth, let alone three times as large. Yet all the nourishment which supplies materials for growth has to be absorbed by the membrane which lines the insid of the stomach, and especially the small intestine. It is, therefore, plain that growth of the body as a whole must gradually subside as the tissues to be nourished gradually approach a size at which their demands balance the utmost supply of nutrition taken up by the stomach and intestine.

QUEEN MARY FROWNS.

Order about Hobble Skirts was Disobeyed.

Queen Mary's order about hobble skirts was disobeyed at the two courts by all except the actual court ladies. All the rest wore tight skirts, but their trains covered them. They say they didn't see why they should make themselves unfashionable because the queen herself is abnormally large around the hips and unsuited to tight dresses.

Nevertheless everyone was staggered by the costume of the Marchioness de la Vill Urrutia, the wife of the Spanish ambassador. Her dress was so tight that her whole figure was sharply outlined and she had great difficulty in walking. As she belongs in the diplomatic circle she is independent of the queen's wishes and fortunately had no courtesy to make with consequences which might have been indescribable.

The queen only smiled when she saw her trouble and seemed wisely obvious of how her order was generally obeyed. Indeed, the queen was the surprise of the court, she was so smiling and bright, with a word for everybody.

Not Loaded.

No other language under the sun is open to so many interpretations as the English language, as witness the conversation between two Sharon Hill girls the other evening

"Oh, May," said the first one, "Jim and Bill tried to fight a duel over me."

"How romantic! What happened?"

"It was terrible. I came into the room, and those foolish boys were pointing big pistols at each other!"

"Pistols? Heavens! were they loaded?"

"Not a bit. That is just what made it really very serious. They both were sober."

The Importance of the Beard.

The importance of the beard was fully recognized in the middle ages. Here is a passage from a letter of the writer, Bartolomeo Catena: "It is well that those who have to lead and govern should have a long and fine beard. And I can assure you that the government of cities and provinces has been given to more than one prelate because he had a long and fine beard; otherwise he were not worthy that honor."

Passengers on the White Star liner Arabic saw a rainbow by moonlight while in midocean.

And

The bartender said 'twas a wonder some of 'em didn't see two rainbows.

Oysters weighing eight and a half pounds have been found in Vineyard canyon, near Monterey, Texas.

Many a man isn't worth the time it takes to get the better of him.

An Ignorance of Values.

"You shouldn't have said you could hire all the brains you need for $25 a week," said the politician's friend

"Why not?"

"Because it's merely an invitation to somebody with only six dollars' worth of brains to come along and cheat you."

Doing Things Regularly.

The Lady—I thought you said you were looking for work?

The Hobo—Well, I am, mum. But I don't want to get it right now. I'm a detective, you see, an' I'm just after clews, to-day.

"Are you at the head of your class in school?"

"Not exactly," answered the sturdy youngster, "but the boy that is at the head of my class in school isn't in my class in football."

Even the women who complains of her heart can run up a bill without getting out of breath about it.

Canada Buys a Holman Hunt.

The national art gallery at Ottawa has been enriched by a painting by Holman Hunt, of the British Academy. The painting is a portrait of Henry Wentworth Monk, who was born in the Ottawa Valley and who was known as "The Apostle of Peace." He was an intimate friend of the artist, who painted the picture while with Monk in Palestine. The painting was secured from Mrs. Holman Hunt at a moderate price.

"Very clever, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"I'm told that his three older brothers are mentally weak."

"Yes, he's the original sane fourth."

BELGIAN CHILDREN.

Parents share their Pleasures with Offspring.

This delight in the family life is characteristic of all Belgians. One sees in Brussels and Antwerp monsieur promenading in the boulevard or the bois with a cigar in his mouth, madame leaning on his arm and the children, hand in hand, walking sedately under the proud eye of their parents.

One finds children in the restaurants and children in the music halls. The pleasures of father and mother are shared always with the nursery. To go junketing without the children would appear to the Belgian not only selfish but dull. His happiness is the happiness of his children. He sees the circus half with his own eyes and half with theirs. The toyshops and bookshops in Brussels tell of the paramount part played by the child. The happiness of this people is the pleasure of domesticity.

More Widows than Widowers.

The proportion of remarriages shows an almost continuous decrease, says the registrar-general in his report on the births, deaths and marriages in England and Wales during 1909.

The number of of widows, he states, is always much greater than that of widowers, because in the first place men marry later in life than women; secondly, because the duration of male life is shorter than that of female life, and thirdly, because the proportion of widows who remarry is much lower than the proportion of widowers who remarry.

Marriages of persons described as divorced have steadily increased and in the year 1909 were the highest on record.

ARE THE MEN THE WEAKER SEX!

Women Gaining Muscular Supremacy.

A college professor expresses the conviction that women are gaining the muscular supremacy over men. He attributes this to their taking a more active interest in outdoor sports, while the men are becoming indolent in that respect, and prefer being spectators to participants in athletic exercises. With their admitted superiority in all the arts and graces, including fluency of expression, and to add to this physical predominance, there seems to be little left for mere man but to plod unostentatiously along in the ranks of the producers, and continue to pass up his gross earnings to his mental and physical superior every Saturday.

MAKING OF CARPETS.

They Were First Used in Europe to Cover Tables.

The primary use of carpets in Europe was to cover tables. The first of these so-called carpets were embroidered—not woven—fabrics, and were made in French cloisters, about 1,000 years ago The manufacture of carpets in Europe did not begin until the reign of Henry IV. of France. In England the industry was established about 1750 by a French artisan, who, being at odds with his own country, fled thither.

Carpet-making, as a modern industry, was first developed in France. That country had large factories and a monopoly in Europe of the art of carpet-weaving when a rush-strewn floor was the rule even in the royal palaces of Britain. But the edict of Nantes, that great dispenser of French artisans and artistry, caused many of the carpet craftsmen to cross the channel. They settled at Bristol, Axminster and other places in the southwest of England. From there the secrets of the industry spread to Glasgow, Kidderminster and the towns of Yorkshire. These places are still the great carpet-weaving centres of Great Britain.

LATEST STYLES IN PRISONS

Inmates in New Institution Have the Pleasure of Associating at Table and Taking Part in Literary Work and Debates, and Games.

From time to time we have heard of remarkable prisons in the States, where the inmates are allowed to drink, smoke, play cards, indulge in sport, music, and theatricals, and who are so delighted with their "home away from home" that they are often reluctant to return to freedom. We have no penitentiary in this country which is quite so attractive, as is a delightful retreat for habitual offenders, now almost completed, near Parkhurst, in the Isle of Wight.

The Prevention of Crimes Act of 1908 permits the detention of the habitual criminal for certain periods, and it is with the object of providing an institution for the accommodation of such criminals that the authorities have erected a new establishment in the middle of Parkhurst Forest, a position hard to equal for seclusion and rural charm. Even the unemotional, hard-headed Prison Commissioners speak enthusiastically of the institution in their latest report.

"It has been possible," says the report, "to secure not only an admirable site, with sufficient ground for cultivation and for additional buildings if necessary, but a locality which, from the point of view of climate and salubrity and opportunity for agricultural work of a severe nature, is well adapted for the custody and treatment of a new class of prisoner."

The inmates of this new institution, instead of having meals alone and apart, will have the pleasure of associating at table, and good behaviour will enable them to meet for additional relaxation of a literary and social character. A good library is being built up, entertaining lectures will be given in the main hall, while the men will be able to earn money at various occupations. The money will not actually be handed over to them, but they will receive it when they leave, and will be able, by means of a canteen establishment in the institution, to purchase little luxuries which they might not otherwise get. No cash will change hands, the amount of each purchase being deducted from the official gratuity earned by the customer for work done within the establishment. If by chance an nmate becomes ill, he will still, under the recommendation of the doctor, receve a gratuity in proportion to his earnings when in full health.

ROCKEFELLER AND THE GOAT.

No butting for John D. if he could help it.

John D. Rockefeller does not possess quite enough money to keep him from being afraid of a common, ordinary, gardn variety of goat. On one occasion, when he was walking along one of the country roads just outside of Augusta, Georgia, where he spends every spring, he overtook a little girl who was driving a goat hitched to a cart.

Walking beside the cart was a young woman who had taken the little girl out for the ride, and it was with the young woman that Mr. Rockefller talked.

"I used to drive a goat myself," he volunteered, in explanation of his interest in this one. "Where did you get it?"

He was told that the goat and cart had been hired. By this time the rich man had taken his stand in front of the goat and was leaning reflectively on his cane.

"Does he kick?" was the next question.

"Oh, no, sir," cut in the little girl. "He doesnt kick, but he butts something awful."

That was enough for in that moment Mr. Rockefeller destroyed the popular idea that he is infirm and feeble. He displayed all the agility of a youth of eighteen by making one leap, that took him from in front of the butting goat to the gully beside the road. And there he stayed until the little girl drove on.

IRL HICKS' WEATHER FORECASTS FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY

A reactionary storm period will make itself felt in a progressive way from west to east, central on the 2nd 3rd and 4th. This period is at the centre of a Venus equinox, with moon at full, in perigee and at north extreme declination. It will bring decided rise in temperature, falling barometer, with rain, turning to snow and sleet as storms advance eastwardly across the country. A seismic period, covering six to seven days, is central on the 4th. Great extremes from high to low winter temperatures will mark this and other January periods.

A regular storm period, central on the 7th, covers the 5th to the 9th. This period under the Venus influence, promises to take up the disturbances immediately preceding it, causing a prolonged spell of stormy, disagreeable weather. The period will cuminate on and touching the 9th, in possible thunder and rain, with sudden change to freezing, blizzard and high north gales. A very low barometer at the first stage of these storms will be warning of a great and far-reaching cold wave, which will prevail generally, and far into the south, from about the 9th to the 12th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 13th, 14th, and 15th, at which time the general cold will relax, the barometer will fall and cloudiness with rain and snow will pass eastwardy across the country. Prolonged cloudiness and threatening weather will follow this period, as a result of the Mercury and Mars equinoxes.

A regular storm period covers the 17th to the 21st, central on the 19th, with new moon. The Mercury period is central on the 18th, and the Mars period will also begin its perturbing inflence at this time. The moon will be in apogee and at extreme south declination. Watch your barometer as this period develops! If it falls to very low readings, fierce winter gales will surely follow; rains will turn to destructive sleet; blizzards will rush down from the north west, and a furious cold wave will wind up the storm turmoil, say about the 20th to 23rd. Don't neglect this period, or neglect to take such precautions as might save you great suffering and loss. A seismic wave will pass through many parts of the earth within three or four days of Friday the 19th. The Mars influence at this storm period will "set the pace" for storm and weather for six or eight weeks to come. In other words—the same general character of storms and weather prevailing at this time will be charactreistic of storms and weather through February and far into March.

A reactionary storm period falls centrally on the 24th, 25th and 26th. The moon passes the celestial equator on the 24th, which fact always brings marked tendency to higher temperature, drop in barometric pressure, and electrical disturbances. Thunder and lightning even in winter as a rule, result at the transits of the moon over the equator. Watch these dates all through the year. Rain and snow will return on and touching the 24th and 25th, followed by higher barometer and reaction to very cold.

A regular storm period is central on the 30th, reaching from the 28th of January, to the 2nd of February. January will go out with falling barometer, rising temperature, growing cloudiness and rain storms in western sections, moving eastward. The storms will be over the central Mississippi valley about the 31st, with rising barometer and much colder advancing from the northwest. Eastern extremes will have storms and change to colder, one to three days later.

Upon the whole, we figure that January will bring much severe and stormy weather.

"What kind of an eating house do you call this?" asked the man from Alberta, as he entered a queer-looking establishment in Paris.

"This is one horse restaurant, monsieur," explained garcon. "You can have ze horseflesh in any style. How would you like yours?"

"Horse in any style, eh? Well, suppose you have mine curried."

No Mystery.

"Son, why don't you marry Emily? You have been attentive enough to her."

"Father, I will never marry Emily. There is an insuperable bar to our union."

"What mystery is this?"

"No mystery. Only I asked Emily and she won't have me."

An Alternative.

Old Richfellow (desperately): "If you refuse me, what is there left for me to do?"

Sweet Girl "Well, I read the other day about a rich man who made his will in favor of the woman who refused him, and then went and hanged himself."

Rough on Josefa

Dispatches from Berlin say: Rosa Blachek, one of the Siamese twins, who lately appeared at a Paris music hall, was arrested by the police to-day on a charge of breaking her contract.

Her sister, Josefa, was, of course, obliged to accompany her to jail, and complains that though innocent she has to share the imprisonment.

All He Was Fit For.

A forlorn Irishman, reduced to the last stage of poverty and destitution, as the last resource made inquiry at a marine store as follows:

"D'ye buy rags and bones here?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"Then, be jabers," said Pat, "ye may put me on the scales."

The Reason.

Benevolent Old Gntleman: "Johnny, why was Damocles afraid to eat his dinner when the sword was suspended over his head by a single hair?"

Johnny (who does not like being patronized): I s'pose he was afraid the hair would fall into his soup."

A Progressive.

Ralph Connor is a Man with a First-Hand Knowledge of Men.

Rev. Charles W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) of Winnipeg, the famous novelist, who has been appointed Chairman of the Board of Conciliation which will seek to settle the big strike of coal miners in the West, is noted for his tolerance. That quality stands out strongest among his characteristics as a man, a minister, and a writer.

As good an example of this as can be found is an amusing incident in his novel, "The Foreigner."

The Anglican bishop in the story was being driven over the Edmonton trail by Sam Macmillan, a very competent but very profane freighter. Every time the horses became wired in a slough Sam would let loose a string of original oaths which made the bishop's blood curdle. The latter implored the man to desist.

"Just as you say, your reverence," replied Sam. "I ain't hurried this trip, and will do our best."

At the next slough the experiment was tried. Ordinary language was used, but the horses would not budge. Half an hour passed with no results.

"It's getting late, Mr. Macmillan, and it looks like rain. Something must be done," said the bishop.

"It does, your lordship," answered Sam. "But the brutes won't pull half their own weight without I speak to them in the way they are used to."

More time passed. Then the bishop gave in.

"Well, well, Mr. Macmillan," he said, "we must go on. Do as you think best, but I take no responsibility in the matter."

He retired from the scene and—

Macmillan seized the reins from the ground, and, walking up and down the length of the six-horse team, began to address them singly and in the mass in terms so sulphurously descriptive of their ancestry, their habits, and their physical and psychological characteristics that when he gave the word in a mighty culminating roar of blasphemous excitation, each of the bemired beasts seemed to be inspired with a special demon, and so exerted itself that in a single minute the load stood high and dry on solid ground.

A clergyman who will write like this ought to be a man to consider all the circumstances and provocations on both sides of a labor dispute.

MEASURES MINDS WITH MACHINE

Wonderful Apparatus Devised by an English Scientist.

A Mr. John Gray has devised a mind measuring apparatus, and among the persons already tested by him are Lord Avebury, Sir William Crookes, professors and physicians of the West London and Middlesex hospitals, many of the women of the Lyceum Club, and one actor.

Commenting on the results of these tests, he says that, generally speaking, he found the men, with the exception of the actor, came under class V of the scale of persistence, which includes men of thorougn and profound thought. What a dramatic critic Mr. Gray would have made!

He found the literary women to be more mentally brilliant, witty and quick of apprehension than the average. Then Mr. Gray takes another whack at the actor by saying he came under class II, which comprises cynics, persons who do not go into the centre of things and only learn superficially.

The apparatus consists of a box, the interior of which is fitted with a revolving mirror, on which powerful colored lights are made to play. The eye of the person to be tested is placed against a whole in the side of the box, the mirror is set in motion, and the length of time taken for the sensation of flickering to disappear from the subject measures his mental persistence, thus giving indication of his intelligence.

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

A Year Ahead of His Time.

Luxembourg was not so long ago the scene of an incident savoring decidedly of comic opera. When the late ruler of the Grand Duchy was Duke of Nassau he was officially informed of the death of his cousin, the King of the Netherlands, and promptly journeyed from Vienna to Luxembourg, to which state he was next in succession owing to the operation of the Salic law. A ceremonial entry was made into the capital, and the new Grand Duke had already received personal congratulations from many of his most prominent subjects, when he heard that Kink William's physicians had been misled by a cataleptic trance, and that, so far from being dead, he was on the road to recovery. So Duke Adolphus had to return to Vienna, and when, a year later, the King really pased away, several weeks elapsed before the new ruler of Luxembourg assumed the reins of government.

A Trick of the Sun.

Upon a mountain in Andalusia quaint spectral forms are frequently seen. Whenever there is a heavy mist and persons are ascending the mountain they appear in all their ghostly splendor and sometimes so suddenly as to strike dismay into the hearts of those who see them for the first time. Of course it is all a trick played by the sun. When a mist partly shrouds the mountain the sun is naturally obscured, and then he revenges himself by projecting the shadow of any person who is ascending he mountain until it assumes the form of a gigantic spetre.

A CAUCASIAN MARRIAGE.

A Piece of Sugar Put to Lips of Bride to Sweeten Tongue.

In the Caucasus the marriage ceremonies everywhere are of the greatest extravagance in regard to length and the amount of feasting. In Mingrelie large tents are erected for the wedding guests, and the smallest number invited comes to two or three hundred. An interesting and pretty ceremony is the going forth of the bridegroom's mother to meet the bride, to whose lips she puts a piece of sugar, wishing her happiness and joy, and hoping that her tongue may always keep the sweetness of sugar. In the marriage procession all the goods and wealth of the fomily make an appearance. An elderly lady, generally the bride's nurse, plays an important part throughout the ceremonies. She sits by the bride, who neither laughs nor eats during all the merriment and feasting. A meal is served in the nuptial chamber, to which the matron conducts the bride. The bridegroom is refused admission until he buys his entry from the matron. This old lady remains a week in the house, and when she departs the bride breaks into loud lamentations. For a year the young couple are full of respect and attention for their parents, never sitting down in their presence and submitting to their wishes in everything.

REMOVAL OF BIRTHMARKS.

Carbonic Acid Snow Treatment Proving Generally Successful.

In less than a year the carbonic acid snow treatment for birthmarks, warts, and rodent ulcer, first introduced at Charing Cross Hospital, has gained an accepted place in modern therapeutics.

The early experiments with the new remedy, described in these columns last June, have been so successful in suitable cases that now practically every hospital in the country, as well as thousands of general practitioners and skin specialists, is making use of the new medicament.

The snow is prepared by allowing a thin spray of carbonic acid gas, liquefied under pressure, to escape into a felt covering slipped over the tap of the iron cylinder containing the gas. The gas is deposited on the felt as a very fine powdered snow at a temperature of about 100 degrees below zero. The snow is then solidified into an icy pencil by being tightly packed into a hard rubber cylinder with a plunger.

Treatment consists of pressing this intensely cold pencil of carbonic acid ice for a few seconds against the birthmark, wart or rodent ulcer to be removed. The resulting intense cold freezes the part, setting up severe local inflammation, which leads to a breaking down and absorption of the frozen tissues. There is very little pain and the wound heals naturally in a few days, leaving the skin practically normal.

Rise Immediately after Waking.

Get up immediately after waking, says a physician. Do not stay in bed, falling into a half unconscious state. When you are up go through a few light exercises without bells or clubs. Now have a bath, cold if it does not disagree with you, slightly tepid otherwise. Dry thoroughly and use such vigor leisurely. If you do not experience any giddiness, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart or nervousness during or after this meal you may continue with it. But should there be one or more of these symptoms there is something in the meal that disagrees. Tea, coffee or cocoa may be responsible, or it may be the heat of the fod, or even the odorladen atmosphere of the room. The body is never in such a low state of vitality as during sleep, and at no period of the active day is it so weak as just after waking. Do not hurry; do not fill the stomach with irritants; do not indulge in tasks of strength, do not poison it with an impure atmosphre. Thousands of people have found physical salvation in cool, pure air, cool cleansing and a cold, light meal.

Just His Luck.

The lady bather had got into a hole, and she couldn't swim. Nor could the young man on the end of the pier; but when she came up for the first time and he caught sight of her face he shrieked: —

"Help!"

A burly fisherman sauntered to his side.

"Wot's up?" he hoarsely cried.

"My wife! Drowning! I can't swim! Twenty pounds for you if you save her!"

In a moment the fisherman was in the sea. In another moment he was out of it, with the rescued lady bather. Swelling with expectation he approached the young man again.

"Well, what about the twenty quid?" he asked.

But if the young man's face had been ashen grey before, it was now deadly pale as he gazed upon the features of the recovering dame.

"Y-e-s, I know!" he gasped. "But when I made the offer I thought it was my wife who was drowning, and now — now it turns out it was my wife's mother!"

The fisherman pulled a long face.

"Just my luck!" he muttered, thrusting his hand into his trousers-pocket. "How much do I owe you?"

The Principles of Life.

Whoever studies the principles of of life finds in them a unity which binds together all events, all industries, all joys, sorrows, and interests, and enables him to use them for the good end of improvement. They are not ends in themselves, but means to something higher; they are not life itself, but methods by which we are able to accumulate life. The child looks at each lesson as a separate task to be learned for its own sake; but the mature student sees running through all his studies and connecting them the higher purpose of mental development. So the shallow and thoughtless look at each circumstance of life as something to be welcomed or regreted for itself alone; but the wise man or woman sees that through them all runs a deep principle, the development of true manhood and womanhood and that only as that principle is upheld and cherished can the real value of external experiences be extracted.

Hint for the Laundry.

Articles that have been put away rough dried, when required again are often extremely tiresome to iron owing to the difficulty of getting them properly damped. If, however, they are well sprinkled, rolled up tightly wrapped in a damp cloth, and then in a newspaper, and placed for a few minutes in a cool oven with the door open, the heat will cause the steam to rise through the material, and thoroughly soften it, and the articles can then be ironed with perfect ease.

Sudden Rise in Real Estate.

He bought when real estate was low,
Then hoped that it would rise.
A workman dropped some dynamite;
It did — to his surprise.

Most beautiful women are born without hearts, to lure men to madness... It's a merciful provision of nature. If they grieved over every man whose life they spoilt their whole existence would be one long grief.

Prescription for Headache!

If you should go to your family physician and ask him for a prescription for headache, and he knew the very latest discoveries in medicine, he would prescribe the ingredients of ZUTOO tablets.

Yet he might not get the happy combination of the ingredients secured in ZUTOO tablets after long trial and experiment.

The ingredients of Zutoo Tablets are prescribed for headache by the very best physicians of the day.

Praised by all users, thousands gladly testify to the merits of this reliable cure for headache. 25c at dealers Try it.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

RAILWAYS MAY FIGHT

G.T.R. and C.P.R. at Loggerheads Over Fares.

Because C.P.R. Has Better Facilities For New York-Winnipeg Trip Charles M. Hays Starts a Movement to Divert the Traffic From New York Altogether — Western Roads Are Backing Him Up.

New York, Dec. 27.—Unless negotiations now being carried on in this city are successful, it is possible that passenger traffic for the Canadian West now coming to the port of New York will be diverted to other ports of the United States.

The Grand Trunk Railway System considers itself aggrieved because it cannot get the same terms for passengers to Winnipeg as are accorded to the Canadian Pacific, through the latter's connection with the New York Central's lines. Charles M. Hays is pushing the negotiations for his company and is said to have the backing of the various steamship companies arriving at this port.

The railroads west of Chicago are also favorable to the Grand Trunk view and other roads going out of New York are willing to co-operate, but the New York Central, which, so far, has, through its arrangements with the Canadian Pacific Railway, controlled this traffic, seems to be holding out against giving the Grand Trunk System any portion of this trade.

The Lehigh Valley connection of the Grand Trunk, with its 500 miles of double track leading out of New York City, could be utilized in carrying passengers to Chicago. Should the Trunk Line Association not meet the claims of the Grand Trunk, it is intimated that some of the steamship lines will land passengers at New London, Conn., where they will go west via Central Vermant direct over Grand Trunk lines to Chicago.

"Triangle" Case Goes to Jury.

New York, Dec. 27.—Taking of testimony in the trial of Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, proprietors of the Triangle Waist Co., charged with manslaughter in connection with the Asch building fire of last March, when 147 lives were lost, was completed yesterday, and the case will probably go to the jury late to-day after counsel have summed up.

Robert Wolfson, the firm's head cutter, swore yesterday that Harris had said to him after the fire: "Well, the dead must be buried, but the living must go on and live. Sure, the door was locked or they would have robbed me of my fortune."

Max Blanck was also questioned and like his partner, denied all the material charges brought against him by various witnesses during the trial, concerning issuing orders that doors should be locked to prevent theft and threatening to discharge employes, who testified at the trial against him.

Murdered Two Children.

Muskogee, Okla., Dec. 27.—Court enquiry into the conspiracy that resulted in the death of two negro children, who owned oil lands valued at $250,000, went forward rapidly yesterday. D. C. Allen, the negro accused of having killed the children, Herbert and Castella Sell, pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

F. L. Martin and John Coombs, the latter a wealthy oil operator of Barlesville, are accused of having had a part in the conspiracy against the children.

One white man has been convicted in the case. He is William Swin. It was charged he promised the negro Allen $2,000 to kill the Sell children. The alleged conspiracy aimed at possession of the children's valuable oil lands.

May Raise Duty on U. S. Cotton.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—The proposal introduced in the Douma by ex-President Cuchkoff, providing for an increase in the duties imposed on American products imported into Russia, has stirred business circles. The national council of the Congresses of Industry and Commerce met here yesterday to discuss this important subject, while the central committee of the Octoberist party has been summoned to meet at Moscow.

M. Guchkoff explained yesterday that the proposed duty on American cotton signified a menace to the U. S. but that the measure will be subjected to serious consideration before it is adopted. The Douma has already voted to submit the proposal to the financial committee.

Brantford's Hospital Bylaw.

Brantford, Dec. 27.—Brantford ratepayers will vote on Monday next on a bylaw to authorize the issue of $85,000 worth of debentures for the erection of a new wing at the John H. Stratford Hospital, and the reconstruction of the entire hospital plant, which was a bequest to this city of the late John H. Stratford.

If the bylaw carries, an additional forty bids will be given.

The County Council will supplement the city's expenditure by $15,000.

Roundhouse Collapsed.

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 27.—Half of the roof of the old Pennsylvania Railroad Pittsburg division round house in this city, now used for the housing of passenger locomotives of all divisions, fell in without warning yesterday. A number of workmen were injured, but none fatally.

The fire department was on the ground promptly and prevented the building catching fire. About 20 locomotives were damaged.

Trust Gets More Time.

Trenton, N.J., Dec. 27.—U. S. District Attorney Vreeland in the Circuit Court yesterday announced a further extension of time had been granted for the filing of answers in the suit of the Government for the dissolution of the U. S. Steel Corporation. The time was extended from the first Monday in January to February 1, in the case of the U. S. Steel Corporation itself and [illegible] 15 or 20 other defendants

EXPECTS SETTLEMENT

Chinese Official Looks For It in Two or Three Days.

Tang Shao Si Cables Reply to Message of Columbia University Chinese Students Expressing a Hopeful Opinion—Eighty Missionaries Reported Safe at Hankow—Proposal For Assembly Is Before Manchus.

New York, Dec. 27.—Settlement of the question of the future form of Government in China, now the subject of the peace conference between the revolutionaries and the Imperialists at Shanghai, is expected "within two or three days," according to a cablegram received here yesterday by the Columbia University Chinese Students' Club, from Tang Shao Si, the representative of Premier Yuan Shi Kai, at the conference.

The message is an answer to a long cablegram sent to Tang Shao Yi on Monday by the club in behalf of the Chinese students of the United States, which he was asked to deliver to the Premier, with a copy to Wu Ting Fang, chief of the revolutionists.

The students favored a republican form of government, giving several reasons therefore.

In reply the following cablegram was received:

"To the Chinese student body in the U.S., in care of Columbia University Chinese Student Club:

"Since I retired from public life I have long been indifferent to re-entering the official world. This time circumstances have compelled me, with my poor health, to come down to the south. I earnestly wish that the situation may be peacefully settled, and I wish to do my best to serve the people. I expect that a settlement will be reached within two or three days. Having received your cablegram despatched from afar, I take this opportunity to express my appreciation.

(Signed) "Tang Shao Yi."

Decide China's Fate.

Pekin, China, Dec. 27.—Premier Yuan Shi Kai has submitted to the more prominent Manchus here the proposal emanating from Shanghai for the meeting of a special national assembly in order to decide on the future form of government which shall be adopted for China.

This step taken by the Premier practically means that he asks the court to decide its own fate, because the members of such a national assembly would decide in favor of a republic.

If the Manchus agree to adopt the suggestion, their decision to do so will be promulgated as an edict, which in all probability will be made public in the course of the day.

Missionaries Safe.

Hankow, China, Dec. 27.—Eighty missionaries, a majority of whom are Scandinavian-Americans, have arrived here from the Lachow and Fancheng districts in the northwest of the Province of Hupeh. A few more still remain at Lachow awaiting the arrival of others from outlying stations. The missionaries were escorted from their station first by revolutionary troops and afterwards by Imperial Government troops. They report that the cities in the province are peaceful, but that the country is infested with robbers.

Consular reports from Chengtu, capital of the Province of Cze Chuen, dated Dec. 5, say that complete anarchy prevails in the surrounding country. There has been much kidnapping and robbery and most of the people have buried their money.

The British consul at Ichang, in the Province of Hupeh, writing on Dec. 21, says that there is serious danger of an anti-foreign outbreak there.

Cannot Break Marriage.

Rome, Dec. 27.—The Vatican has declined to grant to Count Boni de Castellane an annulment of his marriage with Anna Gould, who is now the Duchess of Talleyrand and Sagan. Countess de Castellane was granted a divorce from her husband and given the custody of their three children on Nov. 14, 1906. About a year ago Count Boni applied to the Vatican for annulment of the marriage.

For several months past the congregation of the council has had under advisement the process received from the Archbishopric of Paris concerning the case. When Mgr. Amette, Archbishop of Paris, came to Rome recently to receive the red hat, he gave to the Pope and Cardinal Gennari, prefect of the Congregation of the Council, all the details in his possession concerning the case and the situation of the parties involved.

Anna To Boni.

Rome, Dec. 27.—Count Boni de Castellane, the former husband of the present Duchess of Talleyrand and Sagan, whose maiden name was Anna Gould, being now in Rome in order to urge the granting by the Vatican of the annulment of his marriage, the Duchess of Talleyrand has expressed her desire to make public the following statement from Rome:

"I hope the count will succeed, as that would free me from all moral obligation to bring up the children in their father's religion.

(Signed) "Duchess Anna Talleyrand."

Canada's Open Ports.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Foreign craft will continue to have free access to the coasting trade of Canada for another year at least. An order has been made by the Government, providing that vessels of not less than 1,500 tons from Italy, Germany, Austro-Hungary, and other European maritime countries, as well as [illegible]tina and Japan shall be admit[illegible]o the coasting trade of the Domi[illegible] between Nova Scotia and Quebec on the same terms and conditions as Canadian vessels to the end of 1912.

Roosevelt Sits Tight.

New York, Dec. 27.—Ex-President Roosevelt said yesterday he was taking no part in the New York State election and "not a single human being" had asked him to favor any candidate.

HOSTILITIES CONTINUE

Russian Censors Are Keeping Things in Persia Dark.

W. Morgan Shuster Replies to National Assembly, Accepting His Dismissal But Demanding That His Successor Be Named Before He Hands Over Accounts—Another Attack on Indians Is Reported.

Teheran, Persia, Dec. 27.—W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general of Persia, who has been dismissed from office by the Cabinet in compliance with the demands contained in the Russian ultimatum, yesterday sent his reply to the Cabinet, in which he stated his willingness to hand over his accounts when his successor was named. He added that his chief solicitude now was for the welfare of his fourteen American assistants, concerning whom nothing has yet been decided.

Meetings were held yesterday in the various mosques to protest against the action of the Government. The Minister of the Interior has issued an order that new elections shall be held as soon as possible.

Despatches from Tabriz report a temporary lull in the fighting. A telegram from Shiraz, Province of Fars, where a boycott has been instituted against the Indian troops, reports another attack on the Indians near Kaneroon, in which two Sowars were killed. The situation there is regarded as serious.

Russians Censor Despatches.

Washington, Dec. 27.—A cablegram received yesterday from American Minister Russell, at Teheran, dealt with plans being made to get Mr. Shuster and his family safely out of Persia.

The meagreness of the news that is coming to the outer world from the Persian capital has led to suspicion that a severe censorship is being exercised over the news despatches by the Russians, who control some of the telegraphic channels of communication.

Russians Deny Outrages.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—The Russian consul-general at Tabriz has telegraphed yesterday to the Russian Foreign Office a vigorous denial of the charges of murder and outrage which have been launched against the Russian troops by the Persian authorities.

The consul-general says: "I protest against this infamous calumny on our troops, who have always treated the peaceable populace with humanity, notwithstanding the atrocities wrecked by the Persians on our wounded soldiers and the mutilation of our killed.

Troops For the Front.

Julfa, Persia, Dec. 27.—Another large force of Russian troops of all arms left here from their encampment in the vicinity of Ispahan for Tabriz yesterday.

The reinforcements consisted of three additional regiments of rifles, three squadrons of Cossacks and two mountain batteries, all at war strength.

Russians Lost One Hundred.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—A telegram from Tabriz says that the total loss of the Russians, killed and severely wounded in the recent fighting in that city, is about 100. Several bodies of Russian soldiers have been found partially burned.

The director of the Persian department of the Russian Foreign Office, in an interview yesterday, said that the Government was convinced that the Persian Government was not concerned in the anti-Russian outbreak at Tabriz or elsewhere. Those responsible were principally Armenians and criminals.

"Hands Up" at Tabriz.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—The Russian consul at Tabriz in a despatch to the Foreign Office here, says that he has informed the governor that the disarmament of the populace is indispensible to the opening of negotiations. The governor has placarded the town in consequence of this, ordering the immediate surrender of all arms.

Freezing In Orange Belt.

Los Angeles, Dec. 27.—In many of the orange districts of Southern California Monday night's weather was the coldest registered in many years. In one section the mercury fell to 16 above zero, while in San Bernardino the thermometer registered 22 and in Riverside 20 degrees.

Persistent smudging probably has saved the growing crop from injury, but in some districts temperature is awaited with anxiety. What damage already has been done is not considered sufficient to bring the crop below the average.

There was a rise in temperature yesterday that encouraged growers to believe that the frost would not be severe.

Dined Together by Phone.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 27.—Although separated by 500 miles, Charles R. Anderson, a wealthy New York broker, and his wife enjoyed a Christmas dinner together by telephone. Mr. Anderson is at a Denver hotel and his wife in Salt Lake City, Utah. Telephones were placed at their respective dinner tables and waiters on extension telephones heard husband and wife order a menu together as if they had been sitting side by side. During the meal husband and wife kept up a constant conversation. Telephone charges brought the cost of the dinner up to $75.

Cholera Scare Passes.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—There has been a relaxation of the quarantine regulations against cholera. An order has been made by the director-general of public health that bacteriological examination of passengers from Italy is hereafter to apply only to cholera-infected vessels.

King George a Peacemaker.

London, Dec. 27.—The Express said it is understood that King George and Queen Mary will undertake a series of state visits to European capitals in 1912.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Rev. Thomas Paton died at St. Catharines.

Huntsville people enjoyed boating on Christmas Day.

Harriet Cornelius, an aged Indian woman, was burned to death at Moraviantown.

Rev. Canon Abbott has been appointed Dean of Christ's Church Cathedral, Hamilton.

Frank Smith, St. John, N.B., was yesterday chosen Rhodes' scholar from Mount Allison University, Sackville.

Mr. Miyako, M.P., of Japan, who is visiting Ottawa, says his Government intends to stop the emigration of Japanese to Canada.

President Madero of Mexico has granted to a syndicate of Seattle men a concession to build 300 miles of railroad, which will connect Acapulco with the City of Mexico.

It is reported at Montreal that Toronto and British capitalists, headed by Mr. Aemilius Jarvis of Toronto, are promoting a scheme to establish a model city on the Island.

London Hydro street lights were out last night for twenty minutes. Enquiry shows the trouble was due to a broken insulator, and it is believed the damage was deliberately done.

The British steamer Guillemot from London for Genoa, foundered in the Bay of Biscay on Dec. 21. The captain and 15 of her crew were lost. Seven survivors were picked up by the steamer Lincairn.

There have been several engagements between the Riff tribesmen and the Spanish troops near Melilla. The tribesmen met with a severe repulse on Dec. 22, and were again driven back on the two days following.

His Royal Highness the Governor-General, who is also the chief scout for Canada, has expressed a desire to meet the boy scouts on New Year's morning at Rideau Hall. All the Ottawa scout masters have been notified.

Carrying a suit case containing 72 sticks of dynamite, a roll of fuses and two quarts of whisky, George Bridges, who refuses to tell anything concerning himself, was arrested Monday night at Monessen, Pa., a mill town near Pittsburg.

Roosevelt Raises a Row.

New York, Dec. 27.—Close on the heels of one great peace meeting, which was broken up by a section of the audience opposed to the ratification of President Taft's proposed treaties with England and France, clouds of disagreement have spread about what is being planned as one of the greatest peace dinners the country has ever seen, here, next Saturday night.

It developed yesterday, according to a member of the committee in charge of the dinner, that former President Roosevelt had replied to a semi-official invitation to the function, at which President Taft will be the principal speaker, with a letter declaring that his sentiments were wholly at variance with those to be expressed at the affair, and censuring as "traitors" to their principles all who accepted invitations to the dinner without agreeing with its purposes.

John Temple Graves was selected yesterday as toastmaster of the dinner at which it is expected to seat 800 prominent persons, including a whole special train load of diplomats from Washington. A letter received from President Taft read: He agreed to be present and to make a thirty-minute speech, as well as to remain throughout the dinner, if it did not continue for more than three hours and a half.

Two Die In Cells.

Toronto, Dec. 27.—Early yesterday morning the bodies of Lawrence Vale, 65 years old, who lived at Weston, and a middle-aged man, who is believed to be James Waterman, who formerly boarded at 302 Adelaide street west, were removed to the morgue by the police. Before their admission to St. Michael's Hospital both had been placed under arrest on charges of drunkenness.

Waterman was found lying in a doorway in Queen street, near McCaul, by Constable McLeod shortly before midnight, and sent in the patrol to the Agnes street station. Upon reaching there Sergt. McFarlane ordered his immediate removal to the hospital, where the man died about half an hour later.

After being discharged from the Court street station at 10 o'clock last night to enable him to get a car home, Lawrence Vale was re-arrested at 11.35 for being drunk at King and Sumach street. When he was brought to the station Sergt. Allison had him removed to the hospital. Vale died while being carried into the hospital. He was an exceptionally large man, weighing over 300 pounds, and kept a shoe repairing shop at Weston.

Inquests will be held to-day.

Kingston's Golden Wedding.

Kingston, Dec. 27.—Thomas McAuley, Kingston's veteran bookseller, and Mrs. McAuley yesterday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They were married here in St. James' Church fifty years ago and have lived here ever since.

Miss Myra, daughter of Abraham Shaw, inspector of customs, was married yesterday to D. W. Richmond of Ottawa, a graduate of Queen's. Rev. T. W. Neal officiated.

Miss Gilder on the Stage.

New York, Dec. 27.—Under the inconspicuous name of Dorothea Coleman, Dorothea Gilder, daughter of the late Richard Watson Gilder, American poet and editor of The Century Magazine, has begun a stage career. It become known yesterday that she had made her debut Monday night in a Broadway production.

Peace Has Its Victims.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 27.—A brawl occurred Monday morning among time-expired sailors employed at the gunpowder works in the outskirts of St. Petersburg, and soldiers. A soldier was wounded and a sergeant, who attempted to interfere had his head fractured by a small calibre shell.

Bradbury Was Misquoted.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—George H. Bradbury, M.P., of Selkirk, is here to-day. He says that he did not tell a Manitoba audience, as reported, that a Manitoba man, then in Ottawa, would succeed R. L. Borden as Premier.

"Nothing that I said could be so construed," said Mr. Bradbury.

Vatican Wants Triple Alliance.

Rome, Dec. 27.—An exchange of communications between the Vatican foreign office and the chancellors of European powers is proceeding at the present moment with the greatest activity. The subject of the communications is the war in Tripoli, but the question of the renewal in 1914 of the triple alliance between Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy is also being discussed.

Efforts are being made both by the Government in Constantinople and the Italian Foreign Office to find a possible basis for conclusion of peace between the two countries.

The negotiations between the triple alliance are of the most important character, as it is conceivable that they might even result in the withdrawal of Italy from the alliance and the consequent strengthening of the triple entente between Great Britain, France and Russia.

The Italian ambassador at Berlin is now in Rome, where he is giving a verbal report to the Foreign Minister, Marquis di San Giuliano, as to the disposition of Germany.

Farmer Killed by Train.

Canfield, Dec. 27.—A fatal accident occurred at 11.45 o'clock, Monday night, about two miles west of Canfield, when Edgar Brown, a highly respected young farmer, was struck by a Grand Trunk eastbound train.

Mr. Brown, accompanied by his wife and lady friends, was returning from a Christmas entertainment at Canfield, when meeting the train the ladies stepped to one side, Mr. Brown to the other. He apparently changed his mind and attempted to recross the track and was struck, receiving such injuries that caused his death in an hour. Deceased leaves a young wife, but no family.

Berlin Men Injured.

Berlin, Dec. 27.—F. B. Hyatt, a lifelong resident of this town, while coming out of The News Record office last night, slipped and fell, striking his head, rendering him unconscious. He was taken to the General Hospital and is in a serious condition.

Philip Gies, proprietor of the Peerless Leather Co., while overseeing some work yesterday was struck on the head with a piece of plank and became unconscious. He is improving, although not out of danger. His physician hopes for his recovery.

Jim Hill the Ambitious.

Winnipeg, Dec. 27.—There is a rumor that the lake terminal of the Midland Railroad, under which name the J. J. Hill interests operate in Canada, will be between Port Arthur and Fort William. It is stated that already agents for Hill have secured options on property in that locality to the extent of hundreds of acres.

Would-Be Mayor Illiterate.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—That Ald. Dupuis of Hull, who is opposing Mayor Archambault of that city, in the municipal elections, can neither read nor write, is the rather surprising allegation made by Louis Cousineau, a lawyer, who is working in the interests of the mayor.

Good Buying in Ladies' and Children's Coats

When we say good buying we mean special values for our customers who have delayed the purchase of a winter coat. We have about 100 Ladies' Cloth Coats and about half this number of Children's and Misses' Coats; sizes well assorted, and all priced for quick selling.

Ladies' Coats $5.00, $9.50, $12.50 and $15.00.

These are not regular prices, but special prices, made to clear the balance of our Ladies' Black and Colored Plain Cloth and Tweed Coats. In this lot there are some extra large sizes, specially designed for stout women; also Tweed Coats for Misses from 16 to 18 years. Prices $5.00 to $15

Children's Coats at $2.50 to $7.50.

For little girls of every age, from 2 to 12 years, we have White Bear Skin Coats, Navy and Cardinal Serge Coats, Tweed Coats and Velvet Cord Coats; a splendid assortment of this season's newest styles and best made coats, now selling at $2.00, $2.50, $3.00, $4.00 $4.50, $5.00, $7.50.

Special $1.00 Underskirts

These skirts are made of Black Mercerized Satins and Black Moreens, in Ladies' regular sizes, also Misses' sizes in lengths 34 and 36 inches, both styles being particularly well made and selling for only $1.00 each.

Knitted Golf Coats

We don't think we sell all the Knitted Golf Coats, but we do think we sell most of them, and the reason is we have both the variety and styles to select from in every color that these garments are worn in and our prices for Ladies' Knitted Wool Coats range from $1.50 to $7.50 each.

Children's Fur Sets

We have just a few Children's White Fur Sets left, Muff and Collar, for little girls from 2 to 10 years, sets that sold regularly from $3.50 to $7.00, and these we have now marked to clear at $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.

Ladies' Fur-Lined Coats

We have a few Ladies' Fur-Lined Coats, black and navy only, sizes 34 to 44 bust measures, muskrat lined, natural sable collar and revers, shells made of all-wool Austrian broad-cloth, very special values at $45.00 and $47.50 each.

Ladies' Tailored Waists

These are the very newest styles in Ladies' Waist wear and we show them in a variety of materials, laundered and unlaundered styles, priced to sell at $1.50, $2.00, $2.25, $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.

CITY COUNCIL HELD THEIR FINAL SESSION FOR 1911

damage was done to the walks by contractors, telegraph or telephone companies that they should be compelled to repair the same. In various parts of the city sidewalks were broken. He was of the opinion that the City Engineer should notify the City Solicitor and he in turn notify the parties responsible for the breakage to repair same.

Mr. A. S. Large, market lessee, put in a claim of $17 for loss to him on account of the market scale being repaired, which took two days.

Ald. Parks thought the account should not be paid, as it was too much.

Ald. Sills was of the opinion that Mr. Large should be compensated. He moved that he be paid $10.

A motion prevailed that the account be not paid.

The C.N.O.R. gave notice that the Railway Commission would at a sitting on January 4th consider the matter of payment for expropriating some certain pieces of land in the city near Bay Street.

Ald. Clarke said that it was simply settling with parties and not with the city.

Claim for Damages.

A communication was read from Messrs. Porter & Carnew that their client, Mr. A. N. Allen, claimed $730 as damages owing to loss he had sustained by reason of the bad condition of the road at a C. N. O. R. crossing near his coal yard.

Ald. Panter stated that every time a demand had been made to him for material to fix up the road he had complied with it.

The City Solicitor was authorized to look after the matter, it being alleged that if there was cause for damages the C. N. O. R. was responsible.

Mr. W. H. Clarke, residing on Everett Street, through Messrs. Porter & Carnew, claimed that he would hold the city liable for damage on account of a water course which is near his building.

Ald. Panter said the city had a right across those lots where the water course is.

The matter was referred to the Public Works Committee.

Mr. S. Masson wrote the Council asking damages to the extent of $500 for Mr. F. Drake, who fell on the sidewalk and fractured an arm.

Ald. Marshall stated that Mr. Drake fell on Front Street, west side, where the sidewalk was in good condition.

The matter was referred to the Claims Committee.

Repairing Fire Engine.

The special committee appointed to report as to the condition of the fire engine reported that Messrs. McCarthy and Roblin, of the Walker Foundry Company, had agreed to place the engine in a first class condition for the sum of $680. The report recommended that the work be done by these gentlemen.

Ald. Canning said he could not see how an old fire engine could be put in first-class shape. The city must have a fire engine, but he did not think it wise to expend $680 on an old engine. After this money is expended on the engine, in a year or two it may need repairing again. He would favor procuring a new engine.

Ald. Lott said it was only throwing away money on that old engine.

Ald. Panter considered it was not a wise policy to spend this amount on the present engine.

Ald. Lott moved that the report be not adopted.

Ald. Clarke moved in amendment that the report be adopted. The frame of the engine and the shell of the boiler is as good to-day as any that is being made to-day. What it is proposed to do is to place in new tubes, cylinder rebored and a new piston put in. With the water works an engine is an auxiliary. The engine, he said, had not of late been taken care of. The engine would be put in first-class repair if the report is adopted. These people undertake to put the engine in a condition that will be satisfactory to the Fire Underwriters' Association. If we buy a new engine it could only do the work which the present engine has in the past. A new engine would cost $5,000 or $6,000. If a year ago, or in the early part of this year, the engine had been placed in a proper state of repair we would not have had the censure of the Fire Underwriters Association.

Ald. McGie stated that if the engine can be repaired he would favor the report. We were taking no risk in the matter.

Ald. Panter said if these gentlemen would guarantee the placing of the engine in a first-class condition he would favor the engine being repaired.

The motion to adopt the report was carried, and the City Clerk was authorized to draw up a contract.

More Light Wanted.

A petition was presented asking for a light on the corner of Coleman and Earle Streets.—Referred to the Light Committee.

A report was presented from the deputation who recently visited Buffalo, N.Y., and witnessed the operation of the Augustine rotary engine.

Ald. Clarke was of the opinion that this report should not come to the Council, but to the citizens who sent the delegation to Buffalo.

Ald. Bogle considered that as the deputation went to Buffalo in the interest of the city, the Council should pay the expenses of the deputation. At a meeting of citizens a guarantee fund was realized and some present expressed the idea that the expenses would be refunded by the Council.

Mayor Ackerman thought that this was a matter that did not concern the Council in so far as the paying the expenses of the deputation.

Nothing was done in the matter.

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

Enquiries.

Ald. Marshall asked if water spouts on certain buildings on Front Street which were discharging water on the sidewalk were going to be left as they are. He considered it dangerous, especially when cold weather came.

City Solicitor—They should not be allowed but be repaired by the owners of the buildings.

Ald. Sills asked if the City Engineer had a right to give permission to cut down trees and if the walk on the lower bridge was going to be relaid, the same having been passed by the Council.

City Engineer—I do not take the responsibility on myself of giving parties permission to cut any tree. As to the sidewalk it would be laid as soon as the planking arrived, which he expected in a day or two.

Ald. Clarke—Why is not the light placed on the lower bridge, as passed by the Council.

Ald. Sills—The Trenton Electric Light Company cannot put up a Tunison light owing to vibration of the bridge, but could hang an arc light.

Introduction of By-Laws.

Ald. Vermilyea introduced a by-law to construct a sewer on Bleecker Ave. from Pine Street 375 feet north.

The by-law was passed through its various stages and numbered 1684.

Ald. Bogle was in the chair in Committee of the Whole on By-Laws.

Ald. Clarke's by-law disfranchising electors from voting at municipal elections who have not paid their taxes on or before the 14th day of December in each year was passed and numbered 1685.

Motions.

Ald. Vermilyea moved that a deed be executed to the C.N.O.R. by the Mayor and City Treasurer in consideration of $360 for part of lot 12 on Pinnacle Street.—Carried.

Ald. Clarke moved, seconded by Ald. Adams, that the gas department be instructed to place a light on the lower bridge and the Trenton Electric Company be requested to withdraw.—Carried.

Vote of Thanks.

Ald. Clarke said he desired before the Council adjourned to place on record the general appreciation of all concerned to His Worship the Mayor for the able and courteous manner he had presided over the deliberations of the Council. The old Council would pass over to the new Council a pretty clean sheet. Every member of the Council had no doubt done what he conscientiously considered was his duty to the city's welfare. The chairman of the Executive Committee deserved credit for the manner he had performed his duty. He had been the watchdog of the city treasury. Ald. Parks, as chairman of the Market, had done yeoman duty. The Mayor was especially to be congratulated for the able manner in which he had presided over the deliberations of the Council. He moved a vote of thanks to the Mayor for the manner he had performed his duty towards the city.

Ald. Woodley seconded the motion.

Ald. Panter supported the motion. All members of the Council had no doubt done what they considered was their duty.

Ald. Vermilyea thanked Ald. Clarke for the remarks in reference to him (the speaker). He had endeavored to do what he could for the city's interest.

Ald. Sills wished every success for the incoming Council. He would not be a member next year, but would always take an inteerst in the city's welfare.

Ald. McGie said he would not be a member of the Council next year. It had been a pleasure for him to be a member of the Council, and was sorry in a way that he would not be.

Ald. Canning heartily supported the motion proposed by Ald. Clarke. Whatever the Fire Committee had done it considered was for the betterment of the city.

Ald. Adams concurred in Ald. Clarke's motion, and he left the Council with the best of feeling towards all members of the Council. He had been especially pleased with the action of Mayor Ackerman in presiding over the deliberations of the Council.

Ald. Parks said that whatever he had done as a member of the Council he did it for what he considered was for the city's interest.

Ald. Marshall spoke to the motion. He was sure every alderman had done what he considered was for the best interest of the city. He wished the new Council every success.

Ald. Gibson said he wished to thank the electors of Foster Ward for the honor they bestowed upon him during the past year, also the members of the Council for their courtesy shown him during the past year, and wished all a bright and prosperous new year.

Ald. Bogle stated that he had during the year been treated most kindly, not only by the Mayor, but by the City Clerk. He wished all a prosperous and happy new year.

The motion was carried by a standing vote and singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The motion was tendered to the Mayor by Ald. Clarke.

His Worship in reply thanked the Council for the motion it had so unanimously passed. This had been a pleasant year to him and he desired to thank every member of the City Council for the assiduous manner that it had conducted the city's business. He also thanked the press for the reports of proceedings and the officials of the city for courtesy to him.

Council adjourned.

For Mayor

Geo. I. Thomas

RESPECTFULLLY REQUESTS THE VOTE AND INFLUENCE OF THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ON THE FOLLOWING PLATFORM.

If returned as Mayor of your city, I am in favor of:—

1st.—Better streets for Belleville.

2nd.—Public tenders for all contracts.

3rd.—An active Industrial Committee.

4th.—Economy in all matters pertaining to the city.

5th.—A fair day's pay for city officials.

6th.—Enforcement of the Liquor License Laws.

7th.—And all other good measures which may from time to time be brought before the Council.

As I cannot see all the electors personally, I trust that all those in favor of the above platform will give me their votes and influence on election day.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. I. THOMAS

For Mayor

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the solicitation of a large number of the ratepayers, I have decided to come before you, asking your support for the position of Mayor for the year 1912.

For the past seven years I have faithfully served you as one of your representatives, and during that time I have filled most of the prominent chairmanships in the Council.

It will be impossible to see you all personally between now and election, but if my services have met with your approval, I trust you will give me your vote and influence.

Yours obedient servant,
A. G. VERMILYEA

FORMER RESIDENT GETS A GOOD POSITION

Mr. W. S. Morden, K.C., Has Been Appointed General Manager of the Guardian Trust Company.

(Staff Correspondence New York Mercantile and Commercial Times.)

Included in the list of important developments of interest in Toronto financial circles recently is to be noted the appointment of W. S. Morden, K.C., as general manager of the Guardian Trust Company, Limited. That gentleman for fifteen years practised law at Belleville, Ont., where he achieved distinction in his profession, and for some time since leaving that place has had considerable experience in trust company and financial activities. Mr. Morden brings to bear in his new incumbency executive ability of a high order and this, together with his legal training, peculiarly fits him for such a responsible position as the active head of an important organization like the Guardian Trust Company. So it is but natural that his appointment has been widely and favorably commented upon in financial circles as one of the strongest that could have been made and the wisdom which prompted his selection cannot be too highly commended.

The remaining members of the official staff are likewise of the highest calibre. The president is Mr. Cawthra Mulock, one of Toronto's younger and more influential financiers and whose connection with the company lends it much additional strength. The secretary, Mr. R. W. McNeill, is also of wide experience in business matters, and has been associated with the company since its inception. He was formerly with the Dominion Railway Commission.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.--Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties--Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.09.

RUSSIAN GRAIN KING.

Was Queer Character, But His Business Integrity Was High.

Of a peculiar stamp was the man of millions, Nicholas Boukhroff, the Russian grain king, who recently died. In his externals he was a mujik merchant. He wore the top boots, the trader's kaftan—coat and overcoat in one, fitting close up to the neck and reaching to the knees—and the embroidered cotton shirt without starched collar, which are the historic garb of the Volga traders, men who carry as much as 50,000 rubles in notes stuck in the leg of a boot and who distrust the documentary machinery of credit. Boukhroff's great fortune compelled him to handle investments and bank paper, but he was in sympathy with the old simple ways. He was in fact an Old Believer and a devout churchgoer who lived his religion.

In his housekeeping he lived on much the same scale as an ordinary hand worker in comfortable employment. He gave away millions of rubles in charity, but was close fisted in personal outlays. The porters at Nijni-Novgorod and elsewhere avoided him when they saw him step from a train. He would never pay them more than 10 cents for carrying his baggage. When he met great personages he "thoued" them, as he did everybody else, keeping to the Old Believer, Quakerlike form of address. His integrity in business was of the highest.

He would lecture men in his employment if they spent five kopeks needlessly. His patriarchial ways had sometimes a welcome side. He exacted unquestioning obedience to his instructions; but every now and then a man who served him well for some years would receive a draft for 25,000 or 50,000 rubles with no further remark than:

"Thou shalt now be a Man, too. I know that thou wilt make good use of the money."

"Marvellous Griffith" Passes.

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 26.—Arthur F. Griffith of Milford, Ind., a lightning calculator, who has bewildered vaudeville audiences throughout the country for a number of years by his mathematical wizardry, was found dead of apoplexy in his bed at a local hotel yesterday.

Griffith, who was known professionally as "The Marvellous Griffith," was to have gone to Bridgeport, Conn., to fulfill an engagement yesterday. He was 31 years old.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED.

Toronto Woman Dies of Injuries Received in Boarding-House.

Toronto, Dec. 27.—Mystery surrounds the death of Elizabeth Follon, 11 Christopher street. The woman died in the General Hospital on Friday morning, twenty-four hours after having been removed there in a semi-conscious condition, by order of Dr. Robinson of College street, who was summoned to the house by Mrs. Stevenson of the General Hospital free surgery on Chestnut street. He found the woman suffering from injuries to the head. How long she had been in that condition and how she sustained the wound is baffling to the police, who fear that she has been the victim of foul play.

On Sunday evening, Dec. 17, around eight o'clock, about fifteen Italians gathered in the Christopher street house to enjoy the contents of a fifty-cent flask and have a merry time in general.

Elizabeth Follon was the only woman amongst the group, she being the mistress of the three-roomed house, two rooms of which she rents.

"Help! help! Andrew, help!" cried the woman about 8.30 o'clock.

Andrew Silvanio was sick in the front room and on hearing the woman scream, rushed to her assistance, but by the time he reached the room where the visitors were assembled, all was quiet and Andrew was forcibly hurled against the wall by some warlike gentleman.

Whether the woman sustained the injury to her head at that time or not is still a mystery. The post-mortem show that she had received a blow on, or struck her head against something.

There will possibly be an arrest made before the case is gone on with on Friday.

Big Lock-Out Inevitable.

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 27.—Nothing has happened to warrant the hope that the lock-out of 160,000 cotton workers in Lancashire can be averted. The lock-out is scheduled for today and officially both sides maintain an uncompromising attitude.

The weavers in the Helene mill at Accrington went on strike Dec. 20 because of the employment of non-union labor. Two days later the committee of the Lancashire Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association decided to lock-out the workers in all the mills belonging to the federation, as a protest against the action of trade unionists in trying to get weavers to join their union.

Yesterday was a general holiday and few cotton men remained in Manchester. It was impossible to obtain the views of a majority, but among some there is a disposition to refer the dispute to the industrial council, of which Sir George Askwith, the noted strike settler, is president.

The Federation of Master Cotton Spinners will meet here to-day and, it is expected, in the event of a general shutdown of the weaving sheds, that they will propose the early closing of the spinning mills in Lancashire.

They Couldn't Kill this Boy.

The young man was told that the ranches of the West were fine places in which alcohol and rum could be worked out of the human system. He journeyed forth and accosted a ranch owner with this: "I'm the swiftest fellow you ever saw. I was known as the swiftest thing on Broadway. Give me a job!" The ranch owner looked him over, had a fit of hysterics, and decided to get rid of him by giving him a job big enough to kill him. "There's a flock of sheep, two hundred of them," he said. "Go out there and drive them into that corral you see a mile away. When you've done that I'll give you a real job." In fifty minutes the Swiftest Thing came back and reported: "I've got 'em all in — two hundred sheep, and nine lambs." "There ain't any lambs," objected the ranchman. "Come and see," suggested the Broadway racer. "I know. I rounded them up." The ranchman went and took a look. The swiftest thing on Broadway had driven into the corral the two hundred sheep and nine jack-rabbits.

Summer Evening Wraps.

Evening wraps are unusually novel this season, the great vogue for sheer materials finding a happy expression in these more elaborate garments. Marquisette wraps are the latest novelties, and while exorbitant prices are asked for them in the smart shops, there is no reason why any woman could not fashion one herself, or at least plan one and have it made at very little expense.

Black, white, Alice blue, gray, gold color and king's blue are good colors for these little wraps. Many of them are cut on extremely simple lines, with the kimono sleeve and plain back and front. There seems to be no attempt to fasten these garments. They are cut so that the front just meet, and are apparently designed to hang free.

WHO THREW THE SWITCH THAT CAUSED DISASTER

Switchman Mossman Says that He Left it Set for Main Line—He Said Freight was Running Too Fast for Safety—Other Witnesses Differed on that Point—Much Evidence was Given—Jury Taken to the Scene of Fatality

At the police court room yesterday afternoon, before Coroner Dr. Farley, the inquest to enquire into the circumstances of the collision at the G.T.R. yard here, whereby W. S. Symons was killed and others injured, was resumed. Much interest was manifested in the proceedings, the court room, during the taking of evidence, being filled with spectators.

Mr. P. J. M. Anderson, County Attorney, represented the Crown, and Mr. Pratt, of Montreal, who is in the legal department of the G.T.R., was present on behalf of the company. Considerable evidence was taken, the witnesses chiefly being those who were in the collision, and Mossman, the switchman, who was on duty at the switch where the accident occurred.

J. BONE, FIREMAN.

J. Bone, sworn, testified that he lived in Belleville, being a fireman on the G.T.R. He was fireman on engine 1216, being one of the engines of the double-header train coming west. W. Post was his engineer; the train came into the Belleville yard about 10.30 p.m.; witness could not see distinctly, the lights being on the second engine. He was in the act of firing when suddenly he was thrown out onto the track. Engineer Post witness found on the tender of the engine. He saw Post was badly hurt about the legs. Witness helped Post to the switch shanty near by; did not know Symons. Witness did not examine the switch.

UNDERTAKER TICKELL.

Mr. J. L. Tickell, being sworn, stated that the first he saw of the body of Symons was at his undertaking establishment. Said body was viewed by the jury and the coroner.

PILOT FIREMAN.

J. W. Collins, sworn, said he was a fireman on the yard engine on Saturday night when the accident occurred. The first he knew of an impending accident was when he saw the headlight of the first engine of the double-header train. He heard no signal. The engine he was upon was on a side track. Witness had a slight knowledge of Symons, who was killed. He saw Symons when he was pinned between the tender of the second engine and a box car. He was dead when taken out of the wreck. He did not go down to the switch after the accident occurred. Geo. Ormond was engineer on the yard engine at the time of the accident.

YARDMASTER TESTIFIES.

Mr. James Hatton tetified that he was yardmaster at the G.T.R. The first he knew of the accident was some time after it occurred. Symons was a brakeman on the double-header going west. He saw Symons between the leading car and the tender of engine No. 1216. Symons was dead when taken out of the wreck. The body was taken to the baggage room and then removed to Tickell's undertaking etablishment. From what he heard the double-header should not not have run into the lead line. The switch he saw was open and set for the lead. This was not a proper condition of affairs at that time. The switchman was J. Mossman, who was on duty at that point at the time of the accident. When the switch was turned to the lead it would show a red light. This was an indication that the train was on a diverging line. A train at this point would approximately be going at the rate of four or five miles an hour. Witness had a conversation with Mossman after the accident, and he (Mossman) said some one had turned the switch. If the switchman had been strictly attending to his duty no one, in witness' mind, could have interfered with the switch. After the switch was wrong the engineer should have noticed it but witness could not tell why he did not stop. If the switch had been closed there certainly would have been no accident. There was no defect to the switch. There is a bulletin in effect in reference to trains approaching at the east end of the yard, and all employees are supposed to be conversant with the bulletin. Witness could not see why Symons should have been where he was when the accident occurred, as he should have been on the cars while the train was entering the yard. In witness' opinion Post, the engineer on the second engine, was as responsible as the engineer of the leading engine as to the lights, etc. Witness had heard of no defects about the engine. No blame could be attached to those in charge of the yard engine.

To juryman Canning witness said the engineer of the leading engine had full control of the braking power of the train.

To Coroner—The engineer on the second train could not of necessity see the lights as good as the engineer on the head engine.

FIFTY DEAD FROM STRANGE DISEASE

Alleged Ptomaine Poisoning now Appears to be Either Cholera or Plague

(Intelligencer Special)

BERLIN, Germany, Dec. 28.—Fifty persons, mostly paupers, are now dead and one hundred fresh cases are reported of a strange epidemic, at first believed to be ptomaine poisoning. It is feared that the outbreak is cholera or plague.

GOLDEN CITY'S BIG BLAZE

(Intelligencer Special.)

COBALT, Ont., Dec. 28.—Only a liberal use of dynamite saved Golden City from total destruction by fire early this morning. Nearly half the town, however, was burned, the losses including the Evans Aid Co., gents' furnishings; Carter and Wright, druggists; J. P. Crawford's law office; Strathcona Hotel; two saloons; the Lyric theatre; Laub's fruit store, and Langs' business block. Practically every building that escaped the conflagration of last July was destroyed this morning. There is very little insurance on account of the high rates. The loss has not yet been estimated.

"HEART" BABY IS DEAD; IT LIVED TWO WEEKS

Child Born With Heart Outside Body Greatly Interests Medical Fraternity—Cause of Phenemenon.

TORONTO, Dec. 27.—After living for nearly two weeks with its heart outside its body, the little "heart baby," as it has been called, is dead at the Hospital for Sick Children.

When the child was born it was taken to the hospital to see if the doctors could do anything for it. Except for its heart it was apparently quite healthy and it gained weight while in the hospital. The heart action however, became weaker for several days until the child died.

The autopsy showed that the chest wall was normal, but the muscular wall between the chest and abdomen was absent in front. This, with a weakness of the abdominal wall, allowed the heart to slip down under the breast bone and out upon the surface.

This case was one of the most phenomenal ever seen in Toronto. The child was born here, and several doctors, including University professors, were interested in the case.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

YOUNG MEN'S GIFT.

Last Sunday the Rev. Mr. Kerr, of St. Andrew's, was presented with a gold locket by the Men's Bible Class, showing the esteem and appreciation in which the Rev. gentleman is held by the young men of the church. The same class at the same time presented Mr. John McIntosh with a gold Masonic pin for his untiring efforts.

SOCIAL EVENT.

Mrs. E. Malcolm Young was the hostess of a reception at Claramount, Picton, yesterday afternoon to mark the debut of her daughter, Miss Bernice Young. Mrs. Young wore a robe of ashes of roses satin with over dress of gold net embroidered in gold roses, yoke and sleeves of tissue of gold. The debutante wore the gown in which she was presented to their R. H. the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at the first drawing-room: white charmeuse, with tunic of white silk net embroidered in roses, cut crystal and seed pearl fringe. The assistants were Mrs. Bogart, Napanee; Mrs. G. E. Boulter, Miss Martin, the Misses Ross, Allison and Wright.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who was the recipient yesterday of many telegrams from distant friends, congratulating him on the eighty-eighth anniversary of his birth, takes this means of making his grateful acknowledgment.

Among the telegrams received was the following from Senator Thompson of New Brunswick:

Fredericton, N.B., Dec. 27.
Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Belleville, Ont.

The good die young. Conundrum: how did you escape? I guessed at exceptions prove rules. Congratulations. Make it a hundred.

F. P. THOMPSON.

ANDERSON—ANGLIN.

A very pretty wedding of local interest took place to-day in Kingston at 11 a.m., when Mr. John A. Anderson, B.A., youngest son of Mrs. Levi Anderson, Rossmore, was united in marriage to Miss Annie Gertrude Anglin, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Anglin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thos. W. Neal, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Sydenham Street, in the presence of a few of the near relatives of the happy couple. The parlors were beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the young couple were unattended. At the close of ceremony a most elaborate spread was partaken of, after which Mr. and Mrs. Anderson took the train for their new home at Davidson, Sask., where the groom for some time has successfully been teaching in a High School. The bride is one of Kingston's great favorites and will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. A number of costly and beautiful presents bear evidence of the high esteem and affection in which she was held. The Intelligencer extends congratulations and wishes the happy couple many years of connubial bliss.

ALLEGED HOUSEBREAKING.

John Coughlin, a young man, was this morning before the Magistrate on a charge of housebreaking. It is alleged that on Thursday night last the accused forcibly effected an entrance into the residence of Mr. George Ward, who resides on Moira Street. As the complainant did not appear, the case was enlarged until to-morrow and in the meantime Coughlin was remanded to jail. Mr. Anderson appeared for the Crown and Mr. Carnew for the accused.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Mr. Blackburn, who is an employee of the Seymour Power Company, yesterday afternoon had a narrow escape from being electrocuted. He was upon a ladder at the company's substation near Point Ann, when he came in contact with a live wire through which 4,000 volts were passing at the time. Fortunately for Mr. Blackburn the wire was in such a position that he did not receive the full voltage. As it was, his right wrist was somewhat burned and a burn inflicted upon the side of his foot. The man was thrown to the ground and sustained some bruises. His injuries are not of a serious nature.

AT SHANNONVILLE.

A very fine concert was given on Christmas night in the A.O.U.W. hall at Shannonville under the auspices of the Sabbath School of the Methodist Church. The programme was of a very high order, the children furnishing choruses and songs, and Miss Ada Wellington, of Brighton, was the reader for the evening. As an elocutionist she came highly recommended, but she exceeded all expectations. Her selections were of a high order and well rendered. There was a beautiful blending of the sublime and the humorous, so that the audience was both entertained and edified. We are sure Miss Wellington will be welcomed there again and will be greeted by a still larger audience. The programme was interspersed by instrumental music by local talent, pantomimes and tableaux. The gross receipts totalled about $50.

THE BIG COUNCIL HAS BEEN A BIG FAILURE.

HOW TO VOTE ON THE BY-LAW

The by-law which is to be voted upon on Monday next is in exactly the following form:

January 1st, 1912.
Voting on By-Law respecting the Council of the City of Belleville.

FOR THE BY-LAW.

AGAINST THE BY-LAW.

This form is so indefinite that explanation is necessary in order that the average voter may know just what it means.

The by-law proposes to abolish the ward system, with its big Council of twenty-one members, and to substitute for it a Council of ten members, to be elected by the vote of the whole city.

All who desire to have a voice in the election of all the men who are to spend their money will vote for the by-law.

Under the present system, the elector who is assessed in but one ward can vote on the election of but three members of a Council of twenty-one members.

Under the general system, which the by-law, if carried, will bring into operation, the elector so assessed can, as above explained, vote for ten members of a Council of ten.

Therefore, place your X in the upper compartment of the ballot paper, and

VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW.

Dogs were formerly indigenous to the indigent, but, since the advent of dog licenses, whereby a dog, without a maid or a valet, is presumed to be guilty until it is proved innocent or shot, they have been grafted on family trees, with their own separate heraldry, as substitutes for children, thereby furnishing considerable consolation for race suicide.

Dogs are divided into two great classes — pedigreed and verdigreed. Verdigreed are of two kinds — mad dogs and dogs. Pedigreed are of several kinds, chief among which are watch dogs and sheep-dogs. Watch-dogs are so called because they are small enough, and usually cranky enough, to be carried around in the place of watches by people who have plenty of time. Sheep-dogs are so called because they are led around by sheepish-looking people.

Those dogs are considered the handsomest by connoisseurs which look the ugliest to other people.

CURRENT COMMENT

The advance guard of the cold wave has arrived. The main body is close at hand and is very strong.

The Belleville water works department might very well challenge the Modder, or any other African or South American river as to the amount of mud per gallon in their respective products.

A news agency despatch from Dalny, Manchuria says that the Japanese do not conceal their delight at the controversy which has arisen between the United States and Russia over the Jewish question. They perceive in this a new ground for closer relations between Japan and Russia.

A Toronto judge, repeating a some-what familiar complaint in regard to the unreliability of testimony given in the courts, added the charge that in the suit that called forth his anger, solicitors concerned had made statements not reconcilable with the truth. Is this usual with a certain class of lawyers?

The C.P.R. evidently does not intend to allow its rivals to tap its trade without a struggle to retain it and capture more. It is now said upon good authority that that company contemplates the construction of an aggregate of 450 miles of railway in Ontario during the coming year. The more the better.

The Toronto Telegram gives the following cold comfort to The Globe anent the coming withdrawal of the "flying post" train, from which the last named newspaper profitted so largely: "Meantime The Globe is cheered but not inebriated by the thought of all that its $25,000 will do towards the reduction of the national debt."

Not in many years, says the Mail and Empire, have there been so many intoxicated men on the streets of Toronto as on Saturday last. Facing a drought of two days many of them tried to lay in a sufficient stock of liquor to maintain their average. The result was a veritable orgy of intoxication, of which the Police Court blotter gives no record.

THE BIG COUNCIL HAS BEEN A BIG FAILURE.

The people of Prince Edward Island are having a general election, and the principal plank in the new Government's platform is a car ferry across the straits and a third rail on their whole system, so as to enable Intercolonial cars to carry goods to all parts of the island without breaking bulk. Give them this and they promise no further agitation for a $9,000,000 tunnel. Modest, to say the least of it!

Three hundred witnesses, it is expected will be heard in the trial in Chicago of members of the National Packing Company, who are charged with combining to restrict trade in and enhance the price of meats. The proceedings, it is thought, may last three months. Does not this equal our famous tax lot sale investigation? Summon everybody who ever mentioned the word "combination" to declare they know nothing about it, except to pocket their witness fee.

A despatch from Madrid of the 24th Dec. says: The Spanish Government it is understood, has finally settled upon the basis for a provisional commercial convention with Cuba. A special committee has had under examination the various treaties with the United States and Cuba for many months, and it is believed that the treaty with Cuba as now proposed has an excellent chance of being accepted, as it does not clash with Cuba's commercial conventions with the United States, her best market.

The Toronto Globe is so interested in the Ontario members of the Government that it ferreted out their whereabouts and how they spent Christmas Day. It tells its readers that "Sir James Whitney left his home for a short time during the afternoon, paying a visit to his office in the Parliament buildings. Hon. J. J. Foy attended Mass at Our Lady of Lourdes and "took things easy" by the fire the rest of the day. Hon. Dr. Pyne spent Christmas almost as quietly, visiting a number of friends." Is it possible that Hon. J. J. Foy is the only pious man among them, or was he singled out from among his colleagues for the purpose of telling its readers he attended mass?

A cablegram from London of the 26th says: "Santa Claus brought many rich presents to the Royal children yesterday from their parents in India. These offerings entirely eclipsed those from the other members of the Royal Family, which, as a rule, were exceptionally rich. Queen Alexandra attended her grandchildren to church. According to local gossip at Sandringham, the Prince of Wales, he had left the palace without taking the precaution to put some money in his pocket for the collection, and saw that he would be unable to contribute when the plate was passed. To obviate the difficulty he suddenly hastened outside, and borrowed from a police sergeant who was on duty at know if it was paid backk

FRANKFORD VILLAGE NEARLY WIPED OUT

Big Fire Raged There Last Night—Started in the Sweetman Hotel Block and Swept the Business and Residential Streets—Two Hotels, Six or Eight Stores and Five or Six Dwellings Destroyed—The People in a Panic

The village of Frankford, situated on the banks of the river Trent in the township of Sidney, fifteen miles northwest of Belleville, was last night visited by a disastrous fire, which did damage amounting to several thousands of dollars.

Between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock the fire started in the Central Ontario Hotel, a temperance house, owing to local option being in force, and spread rapidly. Soon the building, a frame one, was enveloped in flames, which ignited other buildings in close proximity. The hotel and what was known as Sweetman's music hall was burned, also sheds and outbuildings near the hotel, a house belonging to Mrs. George Clarke, the flour and woollen mills owned by Mr. John Sills, A. Ross' blacksmith shop, and a shed owned by Mr. Clarke, a harness shop and dwelling owned by Mr. Robert McMurney.

The losses and insurance on the buildings destroyed have not been ascertained.

At the time the fire broke out a gale was blowing and all efforts to check the onward march of the devouring element proved futile. The loss to the village is a serious one.

Anothre account says: The fire started about 8.30 in the Sweetman Hotel block, on the main street. In a very few minutes this was destroyed, and the flames spread to the Brennan Hotel adjoining. The fire then crossed to the south side of the street which is the residential section, and four or five houses were wiped out in a short time. Catching the north part of the business section, Ross' harness store and blacksmith shop were cleaned out, and before long all the south side of the main street from the Sweetman block to the Bell Telephone office was destroyed. Calls were sent to Trenton, Belleville and Picton for assistance, but none was forthcoming. Trenton was unable to respond because it has only one engine. Belleville and Picton had to turn down the stricken village because they have no late train service.

The people of Frankford were nearly frantic, running everywhere for help and not knowing what to do. Helped by the farmers and workmen from the Glen Miller Paper Mills they organized a bucket brigade, and did what they could to prevent the flames from spreading, but owing to the intense heat they were unable to do much. With a high wind prevailing it was evident that nothing could prevent the whole village from being wiped out, and the only hope was in the wind dropping. Sweetman's was a frame building but Brennan's was a brick. So far the fire has destroyed two hotels, six or eight stores, and five or six dwellings.

Late at night other assistance was obtained from Stirling and Glen Miller. One more residence, that of Mrs. Ferguson, has been destroyed since the previous report. very little furniture and few personal belongings were saved from the flames.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE COW AND THE MOON."

An extravaganza assuredly, and stretched to the limit, with a few redeeming features in the way of beautiful scenery, elaborate costumes and —"Happy" the tramp, who was the trump card of the show. An expectant audience filled every seat in Griffin's last night, ambitious to manifest its usual hearty appreciation of features calling for an encore, but the plaudits were mild compared with the outbreaks of mirth witnessed at the past two entertainments. There were several fair voices in the chorus, but on the whole the vocal portions of the play were not up to the standard, owing, no doubt, to the wear and tear of successive service.

The curtain raised on a bevy of seminary young ladies, among whom was one who "had never seen a man," but was gratified to her heart's content later on. A scene in a Pullman sleeper, the creditable production of a railway train, saved from wreck by "Happy"; the trip to the Moon by "Happy" and his pals in an automobile; a vivid scene of the upper regions, and the closing transformation, were all interesting, the play concluding with "Happy" attempting to milk the "Cow," which was apparently a mascot for "Domo," the ruler of the moon. The character of "Geni," the good fairy, was in a way pleasing. "Hans," who found "No Use" in attempting anything, and Mr. John Gilmore representing "Albert" in love with "Innocence," came in for a share of applause. The scenic changes were vivid and enchanting. The troupe have every reason to feel grateful to Belleville's theatre-goers for the good treatment received.

A circular has just been issued by the General Freight Department announcing the appointment of Mr. Jas. Edward to the position of Commercial Agent at Moncton, N.B. Mr. Edward has been associated with the Grand Trunk as far back as September 1st, 1883, when he joined the Company as telegraph operator at Omemee Junction, Ont., served in that capacity at this and other points on the system until 1885 when he was appointed agent at Lakefield, Ont. He occupied the position of agent at a number of other stations until 1892, when he was appointed Agent of the Great Eastern Freight Line, and contracting Freight Agent for the Grand Trunk Railway System, with headquarters at Montreal. In 1903 he was appointed Traveling Freight Agent at Montreal, and was transferred to Moncton in 1904.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

NATIVE POLO AT GURAIS.

The Ancient Game of Golf is a New Game in Comparison.

Polo is played at Gurais (three marches up the Gilgat Road) in Kashmir regularly once a week during the summer months, when the ground is free from snow.

Each villager rides his own pony (about 12 hands. any distance up to 15 miles in the morning, plays from 12 to 3 or 4 p.m., and then rides back to his home. When there is a bet of a sheep they have sides, otherwise it is each for himself. Each chukker lasts two hours unless nine goals are scored first; if the ball goes between the posts it counts as a goal, and if it can be caught in the hand in mid-air the catcher scores a goal by riding with it in his hand between the posts—if he can. No one bothers about "offsides," fouls, or other embellishments of Europeans.

In spite of plentiful hard knocks, and sometimes worse, no one will miss his weekly game if he can help it. The game generally starts with six or eight players, but by the time it finishes it is no uncommon sight to see twenty players taking part at the same time, and needless to say the game is fast and furious all the time.

The local telegraph master is the only European who plays, except for occasional visitors and sportsmen on their way through. To our ideas the game is primitive, but it finds great favour in the eyes of all the natives in this part of the world, and one has only to watch the game for a few minutes to realize how keen they all are, and absolutely devoid of nerves.

The greatest tragedy that can befall a keen player on polo day is to have no pony. Sometimes it happens, however, that the animal is hired out and not returned in time. Then the player calmly takes his place in goal — on foot.

System in Salesmanship.

"Young man," says the automobile manufacturer to the new salesman who has astonished the organization by the rapid-fire sales he has made in the two months of his employment, "I must congratulate you on your work."

"Thank you, sir," replies the new salesman modestly.

"I know we build the best auto in the market," says the manufacturer, "but even at that I cannot understand how you can sell ten times as many machines as the very best men we have had prior to you. How do you do it?"

"Well, sir," explains the new salesman, the light of honest pride in his eyes, "I always ask the customer to take a ride in one of our machines as the first move toward getting acquainted with its riding qualities. Of course he accepts the invitation. I then take him out on the boulevard and get arrested and fined for fast running. After that there is no argument."

Ten minutes later the new salesman leaves the private office with a block of preferred stock tucked away in his inside pocket.

Prestige and Irishmen.

A well known Railroad president, in his study of all classes of men who are under him, entertains a great admiration for the Irish foreman of a gang of laborers who went to any lengths to show his men that he was the real boss. One morning this foreman found that his gang had put a hand car on the track without his orders.

"Who put that han' car-r-r on the thrack?" he asked.

"We did, sor," one of the men answered respectfully.

"Well," he said shortly, "take it off ag'in!"

The laborers did so with some difficulty.

"Now," said the foreman, "put in on ag'in!"

Rung himself to Death.

Extraordinary circumstances attended the suicide of a church sexton at the Hungarian village of Koros-Rajany recently. The inhabitants were alarmed by the violent ringing of the church bell, and thought a fire might have broken out. As, however, none could be seen, some of them went to the belfry to discover the reason, and there found the body of the sexton dangling from the bell-rope, with which he had hanged himself.

The man whose wife seems to think he is merely a piece of furniture to be sat upon is entitled to a lot more sympathy than he gets.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

"It was a foolish thing for me to do, going to his house that fatal Tuesday night; but there was no other way. Burke was willing to procure the stone from its hiding-place, but flatly refused to assume the risk of conveying it through the streets. Page was to be away from town that night, so in an evil moment I decided to take the chance.

"You know what happened. I failed to get the gem that night; your unrelaxing vigilance prevented Burke from getting at where he supposed he had hidden it, and at last the Burmese determined to make the attempt Thursday night. Friday morning I was to have again met Tshen-byo-yen to close the deal for the stone, when one of his henchmen notified Burke and me that the attempt had been a failure, that they had succeeded in securing only the replica. We both charged Burke with double-dealing.' '

I started suddenly at his words; a possibility had flashed into my mind, so huge and significant that I could comprehend it only by degrees. I spoke with quick eagerness.

"Mr. Fluette, do you think the Burmese would have devoted all these years to recovering the jewel, if they were willing to sell it to the first would-be purchaser that happened along? Doesn't it strike you as a bit peculiar?—as being inconsistent with their unflagging zeal, their tireless efforts to regain what they contend was once stolen from them? Those fellows are very far from home, please bear in mind."

"I never before regarded it in that light," he returned thoughtfully.

He was not interested, and did not press me for an explanation. But his suggestion of Burke's double-dealing had given me an idea which was clearing away one dark corner of the puzzle: the possibility was opening up more rapidly. I looked at him shrewdly.

"Just how did Maillot's story of his experience with Page impress you?" I asked.

He gave me a quick glance.

"It was amazing. I could not believe that Maillot was wilfully fabricating; yet, to accept his extraordinary story left me, as the only alternative, a conviction that Felix Page had either undergone a change of heart, or else had lost his mind."

"It didn't occur to you that Page might be trying a game of his own?"

"No."

"Did you ever see the replica?" I asked.

"Yes, many times. It is a remarkably excellent imitation—silicate of alumina; the weight, color, and hardness, the measurements—table, girdle, and culasse—all correspond exactly with the original. It lacks only in density, and perhaps a trifle in—but no; it would require an expert test to determine that it was not a true ruby."

"Then," I eagerly pursued, "even an expert might be imposed upon by the replica?"

"Well," he slowly admitted, "perhaps—yes. But not for long; men who deal in precious stones after a time develop a sort of sixth sense that protects them against imposition. It is too subtle to define; but any diamond imitation will raise a doubt in his mind as to its genuineness; a true stone, never."

When I considered his special knowledge of the subject in general, and of the Paternoster ruby in particular, I was astounded at his obtuseness. Later, I was not less astounded at my own.

"Is it possible, Mr. Fluette," I went on, with an enthusiasm which he did not in the least share, "that it never occurred to you what Burke's game might be? With the connivance of these Burmese, he was deliberately attempting to swindle you; he meant to practice the old familiar game of 'switching' the false for the real stone. The Burmese want the stone, not the money without the stone; but for a generous share in the proceeds, they were willing to lend themselves to Burke's fraud. There's the Oriental for you."

The man stared at me dully. I continued, warming with the subject.

"And Felix Page—he was craftier than even you give him credit for. Mr. Fluette, there's nothing extraordinary in Maillot's story of his Tuesday night adventure—except our stupidity in comprehending its real significance.

"Remember Page's strict injunction to Maillot not to let the jewel-case out of his possession until he and Miss Belle were married; think of the alacrity with which he acceded to Maillot's request; think of his sly chuckles and furtive manner, of his attitude during the whole of that remarkable conference, and tell me what it means if he, too, didn't intend palming off the false stone on you? Maillot and Miss Belle once married, then the young man—in complete innocence, to be sure—would have handed you, not the ruby, but—the replica."

Slowly the dull look died out in Alfred Fluette's eyes, and in spite of his distress, his face flushed darkly with anger.

"The hound!" he muttered through his clenched teeth. "What a dupe I've been. But," he added, with kindling interest, "where is the ruby, then?"

"Ah, precisely. That's what I would like to know myself. I think, however, I have the key that will unlock its hiding-place, when I learn how to use it." And I showed him the cipher. He shook his head over it; it was utterly meaningless to him.

There was one phase of our conference concerning which I insisted that the wretched man be minutely circumstantial. Our talk touching upon this point was much too painful for me to reproduce here in its entirety; but after I had almost literally dragged from him every minute detail of the actual tragedy, I felt justified in offering a word of encouragement.

It is sufficient simply to record now the point brought out, to supplement it with certain details acquired from Burke, and to state that it had a vital bearing upon the outcome of the case. The Page affair was by no means closed yet.

When Mr. Fluette struck the blow with the candlestick he was standing at the angle of the balustrade nearest the rooms which Burke and Maillot were occupying. Mr. Page was facing in that direction—that is, toward the west—and consequently his left side was opposed to the balustrade. Such were the respective positions of the two men at the instant the candlestick was snatched from the floor.

Immediately after the blow was struck both Burke and Fluette were thrown into a panic. The latter at once ran wildly down the front stairs, stumbling over the body on the landing, and out at the front door and away. Burke followed hastily after him, his teeth chattering with fright, and promptly bolted the front door. The act was accomplished so soon after the flight that Fluette, overcome with horror at his deed, distinctly heard the bolt shoot while he was speeding down the walk.

Burke had already informed me that after he made fast the front door he ran back to the rear stairs—he was afraid to pass again the body on the landing—where he observed the rear door wide-open. This he also closed and locked, then hurried up to the front floor, being governed by only one idea—to secure, as quickly as he possibly could, Maillot's companionship.

Between the instant he started to follow Fluette down-stairs and the time he stood rapping at Maillot's door, he had consumed much less than a minute. Some time later he thought of the Burmese, but when he looked into his room it was empty. The open back door accounted for their absense.

When I departed from Alfred Fluette—and I did that very thing; walked deliberately away from him, leaving him hopeful in the midst of his household—my heart was exultant, although I had in contemplation a task that might have dismayed Hercules.

But sometimes, usually when we are least expecting it, or when we are getting our affairs into too much of a muddle, Providence intervenes, and with a decisive stroke straightens matters out for us. After all, it is ridiculous wasting so much time and energy in rough-hewing our ends, when the shaping lies with other hands than ours. On this day of days Providence appeared in the guise of Dr. Wentworth De Breen.

His buggy drew up at the curb beside me.

"Hullo!" was his gruff salutation.

I was pleased at the meeting.

"The very man I was wanting to see," said I. "How many hospitals are there in the city and the immediate vicinity?"

(To be Continued.)

Sparks from Mars.

Old Sport Saturn is getting very giddy these warm nights. Came home last week with two rings on crooked. Must be warm times on the "Gay White Milk Way."

Our astronomers make some queer blunders. The smoky spot on the earth that was long thought to be an active volcano turns out to be a habitation of earthlings, called Montreal. Those immense fields of curious-looking objects are not gigantic mushrooms blown by the wind, but the hats of the earthling ladies. Thus do we live and learn.

Come, spend your summer on Mars. No mosquitoes. High altitudes. Take a gondola ride on the canals. Come and send a souvenir postal card to your friends on the earth.

Her Confidence.

She had stopped, panting, by the road to rest. It was the shell road at Toronto Beach, and she was black. Beside her was a heavy market-basket filled to overflowing. A passerby stalled at her with sympathetic friendliness and she responded with full and free confidence.

"Yassm. I is some tiahed. An' lame. All painful wid miseries. Yassm I coulda done sen' some one else to mahket fo' me. Mah grandson he ceuda done gone. But I dasn't trus him. He spends mah money too briefly."

Don't Lie Discouraged.

A very large proportion of the suffering that afflicts mankind proceeds from the simple feeling of discouragement. Besides the misery which it inflicts, there is the palsying effect it exerts on all human effort. As long as hope reigns in the heart, no exertion seems too great; it is when hope sinks away and despondency takes its plac that labour of head or hand languishes.

Women Formed for Love.

Women are formed for attachment. Their gratitude is unimpeachable. Their love is an unceasing fountain of delight to the man who has once attained it and knows how to deserve it. But that very keenness of sensibility which, if well cultivated would prove the source of a man's highest enjoyment, may grow to bitterness and wormwood if he fails to attend to it or abuses it.

A Little Economy.

A Northern lady with philanthropic symptoms was trying to instil a little economy into her husband's colored tenants. One of them, Mary Kinney, an anti-race-suicidist, kept a colored girl as nurse to her group of ten growing American citizens. "Mary," remarked the lady, "do you think a woman in your circumstances can afford a nurse?" "I dunno 'm, as I kin, but I don't pay her but twenty-five cents a month, an' I pays dat in ole cloes, and" — with a wide smile — "she don't git dem!"

Nothing Like Politeness.

It is much easier to be polite and neighbourly than to fly into a passion when things do not suit you. Take this note as an instance, addressed by a lady to a neighbour next door—"Dear Madam—Your children, who are numerous, and appear to be disorderly, no doubt deserve the frequent floggings you give them; but, as my nerves are weak, I write this to ask if you can't do something to deaden the sound!"

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Black rust attacking the vital part of the Argentine crop—that sown in the rich provinces to the south—gave sudden strength to-day to the market for wheat. Closing prices were up 1c to 1⅛c higher than last night. Corn showed a net gain of ⅜c to ⅝c, and oats an advance of ⅛c to ¼c. Latest trading left hog products varying from unchanged figures to 7½c higher.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d higher than on Friday last on wheat and on corn ⅛d to ⅜d lower. Paris wheat closed unchanged to ¼c higher. Antwerp 1⅛c higher, Berlin ⅜c higher, Buda Pest ⅛c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat was good at advanced prices, but the volume of business was curtailed considerably on account of the fact that the bulk of the orders were for January shipment, for which no ocean freight room is obtainable, but some sales were made for February-March. There was some enquiry for oats, with 19s 9d bid for No. 1 feed from Bristol.

There was an improved demand on spot for all lines of coarse grains and a fair trade was done. Oats were stronger at an advance of ½c. Early in the day sales of several cars of new No. 3 yellow corn were made at 71½c and 72c, but at the close 72½c to 73c was asked on account of the advance in Chicago. Demand for flour was better for local account, but the export trade is quiet. Bran and shorts were fairly active. Cheese is quiet. Demand for butter is good and prices have an upward tendency. Eggs, active and firm. Dressed hogs have advanced 25c per cwt.

Corn—American No. 2 yellow.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 47c; Canadian western, No. 3, 45½c; extra No. 1 feed, 46c; No. 2 local white, 46½c; No. 3 local white, 45½c; No. 4 local white, 41½c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Dec. 23 were 1100 cattle, 1000 sheep and lambs, 1800 hogs and 400 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning amounted to 600 cattle, 300 sheep and lambs, 1350 hogs and 30 calves.

A feature of the trade was the stronger feeling in the market for cattle and prices since this day week show an advance of 10c to 15c per cwt., which was attributed to the small supply and the increased demand for good to choice stock, but there was no improvement in the market for common or inferior cattle, as the stock of such on hand is still far in excess of the requirements. A few choice steers sold as high as $6.50 per cwt., but the bulk of the trade was done in good cattle at $6 to $6.25.

The tone of the market for lambs was stronger and prices since this day week have advanced 15c to 25c per cwt., on account of the limited supply coming forward, for which the demand is good for local consumption, as consumers do not care for frozen stock as in former years. There was no change in the condition of the market for sheep, but the undertone is firm with a fair demand. The market for calves was quiet and as the stock offered was not very good, the top price paid was $10.

The market for hogs was rather irregular, some reporting easier than this day last week at a decline of 10c to 15c per cwt., and others stating that it was stronger and reported sales of selected lots as high as $7.25, while some packers said that they bought all they wanted at $6.90 to $7.10 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Export cattle, choice, $6.35 to $6.50 per cwt.; medium, $5 to $6.25; common, $3.50 to $4.50; canners, $2 to $3.25; choice cows, $5.50 to $5.75; medium, $4.75 to $5.25; bulls, $4.50 to $5.50; milkers, choice, each, $75; common and medium, each, $50 to $60; springers, $30 to $40. Sheep, ewes, $4 to $4.25; bucks and culls, $3.50 to $3.75; lambs, $6.25 to $6.50. Hogs, f.o.b., $6.90 to $7.25. Calves, $3 to $10.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Dec. 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 50 head; market steady; prime steers, $7.50 to $8; butcher grades, $3.70 to $6.75.

Calves—Receipts, 100 head. Market active, 25c higher. Common to prime, $6 to $9.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 7400 head; market, fairly active; firm; choice lambs, $6.20 to $6.40; cull to fair, $4.75 to $6; yearlings, $4.50 to $5; sheep, $2 to $4.

Hogs—Receipts, 1020; market, active, 15c stronger; Yorkers, $6.45 to $6.50; pigs, $6.40 to $6.50; mixed, $6.50 to $6.55; heavy, $6.55 to $6.60; roughs, $5.50 to $6; stags, $5 to $5.50.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 13,500; market weak; beeves, $4.85 to $8.80; Texas steers, $4.20 to $5.75; western steers, $4.30 to $6.60; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $5.75; cows and heifers, $2 to $6.15; calves, $4.75 to $7.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 31,000; market steady to 5c higher; light, $5.90 to $6.25; mixed, $5.90 to $6.40; heavy, $6 to $6.40; rough, $6 to $6.15; good to choice hogs, $6.15 to $6.40; pigs, $4.50 to $5.90; bulk of sales, $6.10 to $6.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 25,000; market weak; native, $2.50 to $4.25; western, $2.75 to $4.25; yearlings, $4.50 to $5.50; lambs, native, $4.25 to $6.35; western, $4.50 to $6.20.

A True Bourbon

The Toronto Star refuses to acknowledge defeat. As a true Bourbon it has learned nothing from the overwhelming defeat by the Canadian electorate of the Taft-Laurier so-called reciprocity pact, and has been almost daily, since the popular verdict was pronounced, working energetically at the hopeless task of revivifying the dead project.

In this post-mortem campaign The Star is renewing in every particular the absurd methods which it pursued while the question was at issue before the people: that is to say, it asserts that the farmer would receive higher prices by exporting his products to the United States and the consumer could import those very same products from the United States at lower prices than he could buy them for in the home market.

Two or three weeks ago The Star was publishing daily comparisons between the prices of live stock and a few other commodities on the Buffalo and Toronto markets respectively, with the object of showing that the former ruled the highest.

Now The Star has switched from the producer to the consumer, whom it is trying to convince, by the report of its commissioners, who have been visiting Buffalo for the purpose of comparing retail prices there with those current in similar establishments in Toronto, with the object of showing that the cost of living in the Bison City is lower than it is on this side of the line.

The Bourbonism of The Star is made plainly apparent from the fact that a similar comparison which was made by our contemporary while the election was in progress, was completely refuted at the time and was the laughing-stock of the country. Thus The Star has learned nothing from experience.

The Star is, in this respect, doing excellent service—for the Conservative cause.

No Drunkenness

As evidence of the effect of practical legislation, we have the declaration wired from Ottawa on the 26th inst. that "Clergymen of all denominations in Ottawa are rejoicing to-day in the fact that for the first time on Christmas Day the bars were closed yesterday in the province. The general ministerial association is working for temperance reform and license reduction in Ottawa and its members all say that the Christmas closing law was a splendid enactment. There were none of the old time scenes of debauchery common on the streets in other years, the day being more one of quiet home observance. The hotel men say the new law cut quite a slice off the year's receipts, Christmas always proving the best day on the calendar for them."

Let us add further testimony of the salutary effect of the closing of the bar on Christmas Day. A gentleman, in conversation with The Intelligencer, who has not in the past been in favor of too restrictive liquor legislation, declared that after witnessing the result of closing the bar on Christmas Day, he had become a firm and decided convert to the Whitney Government's practical legislation on the liquor question, as he had spent most of the day in different parts of the city, and had not met nor seen a single drunken man, which he attributed to the closing of the bars. A little practical legislation is much more effective than theorizing, of which we have had too much from political cranks, who thought more of party than principle.

ORGANIST WAS HONORED AT SPENCER'S

Mrs. J. L. Milburn Was Presented With a Brass Jardiniere, a Jewel Case and an Appreciative Address.

On the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 19th a number of the congregation of Spencer's Church on the Shannonville circuit, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Milburn, to spend the evening in social intercourse, and to express in some measure their appreciation of the faithful service Mrs. Milburn has rendered the church as organist for a number of years.

During the evening the following address was read:

Mrs. J. F. Milburn, our dear friend and co-worker.

A few of your many friends of the congregation of Spencer's church have taken the liberty to come to your home, "Maple View," that we might spend an hour with you in social intercourse, and to bear testimony in some degree to our heartfelt appreciation of the cheerful and faithful service you have rendered the church as organist for so many years.

While we realize that you have always striven to do what you could for the Master in the different departments of church work, yet we believe that as organist you have been particularly faithful, and while at times we have felt that we have depended too much upon you, yet as far as you were able, you have always responded to the call to lead us in our songs of praise.

As a slight token of our appreciation of the cheerful service you have rendered we beg you accept this brass jardiniere and jewel case, not for their value, but trust you will accept them in the spirit in which they are given, namely, the spirit of appreciation, good fellowship and love.

KING'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM WOUNDED TIGER

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—A despatch from Bombay printed here this afternoon says:—

A sensational report that King George had a narrow escape from death while tiger hunting in Nepal was circulated here to-day. The story was told by a native, who had accompanied the Royal expedition as a game-beater.

Although every precaution possible had been taken to protect the life of his Majesty, an enormous tiger, streaked with blood from several wounds, and frantic with pain and rage, leaped upon the elephant from whose back King George did his shooting, before it was finally put to death.

Two of the best shots in India were stationed on elephants on each side of the King. Each had fired upon the tiger when it was driven from cover by the horde of game-beaters, but their first bullets missed a vital spot. King George fired first, that honor being accorded all guests of the Maharajah. He missed, and after the beast had been wounded in half a dozen places, it made the le[illegible] that ended on the back of the elephant just back of the Royal howdah. The King's nerve remained unshaken, and the tiger fell to the ground with two well-directed bullets hrough its head fired by the marksmen on either side of his Majesty.

BROADWAY "ANGEL" WAS A $14 A WEEK CLERK

Made Women Presents of $500 Furs and $70 Hats and Paid Cafe Bills Cheerfully—Posed as a Promoter

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—In the offices of the Acme Specialty Company, Registered, on the second floor of the Gaiety Building, Broadway and Forty-sixth Street, there is a closed desk and an empty chair, and for that reason the Acme Specialty Company, Registered, is out of business to-day. James Wilson, the President and working force of the Acme Company, better known to the six men who had desk room in the same office, as "Angel Jimmy," has engagements elsewhere.

'Angel" had been arrested on a warrant from Jersey City charging him with the embezzlement of $1,000 belonging to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company. He was arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning nad held for extradition.

"But it was not as "Angel Jimmy" nor as "James Wilson," President of the Acme Specialty Compnay, that he was arrested. It was as Edward Ripinski, 23 years old, a $14 a week clerk, also known as the "Millionaire Kid," who until a week ago was employed in the premium department of the tea company in Jersey City. His friends in the Gaiety Building had never known him as Edward Ripinski, and it was only after they were convinced that the young commercial president had deceived them that they volunteered information.

Ripinski came to New York from Jersey City about two months ago. He had a prospect for making a million dollars. He held an option, for instance, on promoting a saltshaker, constructed after the likeness of the Flatiron Building, and he had options on other patents.

"I've got the capital," he told his office friends. "I've made thousands already in the promotion business."

He rented a suite of rooms at the Times Square Hotel, in West Forty-third Street, and lived well. His manner was affable and he and his money made friends readily, particularly among the women. He could be seen in the cafes, his friends said yesterday, with six women at a time, absolutely at his ease and buying cheerfully. He made presents of $500 furs and $75 hats, and was charitable toward everybody who needed a little cash or wanted it.

"Especially was this true lately," said one of his friends yesterday. "Honestly, I believe the holiday spirit affected Angel. A woman came here the other day and said she had Red Cross stamps to sell.

" 'How much are they?' as Angel Jimmy.

" 'One cent each,' replied the strange woman.

" 'I'll take $100 worth,' replied Angel Jimmy. And he did. A man came over from the tea company this morning and took them all away."

Last night, his friends say, Ripinski, the erstwhile "Angel Jimmy" gave a woman $500. The money was intended, it was said, to get a lawyer for him, as all day Tuesday he appeared very much worried about something. Nothing has been heard of the woman since.

Detectives Hughes and Hyams of the West Thirtieth Street Station arrested Ripinski late Tuesday night on the complaint of John Peterson, manager of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's branch store in Jersey City. He was charged with forging a check for $1,000 while employed by the tea company to the order of "James Wilson."

Manager Peterson declared that the books of the company showed embezzlements totalling $12,000.

The detectives say Ripinski drew checks of the company in favor of James Wilson and deposited them in the Greenwich Bank, Broadway and Forty-fifth Street. At the bank he was a frequent visitor, finely embellished stationery bearing the name: "James Wilson, President of the Acme Specialty Company," aiding in keeping his scheme afloat.

The young man's father and a lawyer were in court yesterday, and the lawyer, on behalf of the prisoner, waived examination. Magistrate Barlow then sent the prisoner to the District Attorney's Office, and it is probable that he will be taken to Jersey City without prolonged extradition proceedings.

FALSE IDEALS

"Graball Too Often the Height of Ambition.

False ideals of happiness haunt the ways of men and lead them on to danger and destruction through the siren song of fantasy. One markes his of wealth. He has enough now for all the purposes of refined living; but he wants that extra ,that margin, by which enough may be broadened out into excess, and refinement may be made to include frantic luxury and insolent ostentation. "When I have so much, I shall be content," he says to himself. But he is never content. If he gets a hundred thousand pounds, he wants two; if two, three; and so on till he covets a million which then, when compassed, shall positively be the term and boundary of his desires But the million spreads out and rolls on, as the hundred thousand had done before it.

Rousing Response.

At a Toronto theatre not long since the curtain rose on an empty stage in the second act of a play, and by and by a meek-looking young man with a dust-coat slung over his arm came on and loudly called, "Uncle! uncle!"

According to the book of the play he should have received no answer to his call, and after an appropriate pause he should have gone on with the monologue. But a graceless "god" in the gallery took upon himself to answer the actor.

"All right. I'm coming in a moment; how much do you want on it?" he shouted.

The effect on the audience may be imagined.

Japan has Cheapest Postal Service.

Japan has the cheapest postal service in the world. Letters are carried all over the empire for two sen, about seven-tenths of a cent. This is the more remarkable when we consider the difficulties of transportation over a mountainous and irregular country that has only about a hundred miles of railway, while only a few of the chief roads can be used for wagons and the steamships connect only a small number of stations on the coast.

We Eat Too Much.

To rise from the table able to eat a little more is a proverbially good rule for every one. There is nothing more idiotic than forcing down a few mouthfuls because they happen to remain on one's plate after hunger is satisfied, and because they may be "wasted" if left. It is the most serious waste to overtax the stomach with even half an ounc more than it can take care of.

BROCKVILLE'S BLAZE.

Bad Fire at One Time Threatened to Be Very Costly.

Brockville, Dec. 28.—Early yesterday morning the main business section narrowly escaped being wiped out by a fire, which started in the Strathcona, the largest and finest hotel in the town. A heavy rain counteracted the southwest gale, which carried sparks for blocks.

About five o'clock the night clerk detected smoke issuing from the basement, directly under the barroom, where the laundry is located.

All the inmates, including fifteen guests, easily found their way out with their belongings, with the exception of Police Magistrate Clarke of Cardinal, who occupied a room at the rear in the second storey. He was found wandering around half an hour later by two firemen, almost overcome, and, by means of a ladder, rescued him in a half-dazed condition.

The Strathcona Hotel was a five-storey structure, built of brick with an ornamental stone facing, and was reduced to ashes. It was erected by Thomas Tompkins of Ottawa, in 1901, at a cost of $75,000, but passed into the hands of the Brockville Loan & Savings Co. at a bargain. Their insurance of $35,000 in the London, Liverpool and Globe, will not cover the loss.

The tailor shop of Mowat and Jackson, which adjoined the hotel, was gutted. Loss $10,000, insurance $5,000.

Challenge the Judge.

It was a case in an Irish court, and, the prisoner seeming hard to satisfy, juryman after juryman was asked to leave the box. However, all things come to an end, even in Ireland, and at last the swearing of the jury was completed. And then the prisoner leaned over the dock and sought the ear of his counsel.

"The jury's all right now, I think," he whispered; "but ye must challenge the judge. I've been convicted under him siviral times already, and maybe he's beginnin' to have a prejudice."

FRENCH PHYSICIAN'S CANCER TREATMENT

Dr. De Keating Hart's Process is Now in Operation in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The visit of Dr. De Keating Hart of Paris, the cancer authority, who will sail to-day on the French liner La Provence, has created a great deal of interest among medical men of the country, according to a statement made ot a Times erporter yesterday by William R. Sheffield.

On Dec. 2 Dr. Hart arived in New York for the purpose of demonstrating his new process of treating cancer by burning with an electric spark, which he calls "fulguration." He demonstrated first before 100 doctors at the Skin and Cancer Hospital here, and then went to McGill University, Montreal; then to St. Agnes' Hospital, Philadelphia, and afterward returned to this city.

The hope held out by this new idea is so great that in the last ten days patients have come to the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital from as far as San Francisco. Electricity has been tried in many ways in the treatment of cancer, but always without practical results. It began with the X-ray teratment. This was followed by the Finsen ray, or blue light, treatment. After this Dr. Boyen, with his electro coagulation tried to burn out cancer with an electric spark.

Then Dr. Nagelschmidt introduced his "diathermy," which was also a burning process, in which an electric spark was used. The idea was to sterilize the affected parts so that cancer would not recur. Both Dr. Doyen's and Dr. Nagelschmidt's processes produced disintegration of the tissues treated, because the electric spark burned the patient.

Dr. Hart perfected at the Hospital Saint Luc, in Paris, where he is in charge, a system of passing the spark through sterilized air, which cooled the spark. He said in a recent interview that the "spark does not affect the cancer, but acts upon the soil on which the cancer grows without destroying the tissue, and therefore prevents recurrence." A large number of cases were treated without recurrence of the cancer.

At the Skin and Cancer Hospital here the new apparatus of Dr. Hart has been installed, and many patients are now being treated. The work is being done at this hospital under the care of a Research Committee, consisting of Drs. L. Duncan Bulkey, D. Sutrat Dodge Jessup and William Seaman Bainbridge.

NEW CHANCE FOR HARRY THAW

He May Use Precedent Set by Shaughnessy Case to Seek Freedom

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—A consequence of the release of Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, who killed her husband last May 5, is likely to be that Harry K. Thaw will make another effort to obtain his release from Matteawan, using the O'Shaughnessy case as a precedent. Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was acquitted of murder and given her freedom, although the court interpreted the finding of the jury of not guilty because of insanity at the time of the shooting. Jeremiah T. Mahoney, attorney for Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, said he had used the Thaw case as a precedent in trying the case, but he did not think Thaw could use the O'Shaughnessy case as a precedent in seeking his release.

Judge Foster, before whom Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was tried, was asked if Thaw, like Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, was now sane, and that he, like the woman, had no further homicidal mania, if he was not also entitled to his liberty. Judge Foster replied:

"If Harry K. Thaw is a sane man he should most certainly be given his liberty. We thought best to place Mrs. O'Shaughnessy under parole in the custody of her attorney and Dr. Maron fo rher own protection. Thaw, however, was placed in an institution for the criminally insane, as he was considered a dangerous man. But if the court can be satisfied of Thaw's sanity he should have the same freedom as Mrs. O'Shaughnessy. I do not think Thaw can use the case of the woman for a parallel, however, although another judge may have a different opinion."

Dr. William Mahon said that Mrs. O'Shaughnessy was not detained on Ward's Island through a commitment by the court. She had signed an application as a voluntary patient and might be in his custody three months.

Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald, of 15 East Forty-Eighth street said the Thaw case and that of Mrs. O'Shaughnessy were not parallel because Thaw was a paranoiac of a dangerous type.

NAVAL BATTLE WITH HORSES,

How 3000 Cowboys Captured the Spanish Fleet.

Paez, who was the first President of the Republic of Venezuela, was perhaps the only man who ever fought a naval battle on horseback. It is a matter of history that he, to whom more than any other man, apart from Simon Bolivar, Venezuela owes her independence, actually attacked and captured with his cavalry a fleet of ships.

Bolivar was endeavouring to cross the Apure River in the struggle for independence, but was prevented from doing so by some eight Spanish gunboats, which moved up and down the stream as he did. Bolivar was in despair for a while. To Paez, who was second in command, he appealed for counsel, saying that he could never cross the river so long as the Spanish gunboats were there. "If only we could capture them," the revolutionary leader observed, "the rest would be easy."

Paez decided that he would have those ships or die, and he accordingly told his regiment of cowboys to follow him. Paez himself had been a cowboy on the plains of the Orinoco, and was the idol of his men. So when he spurred his horse into the stream, calling on his men to follow, of the 3,000 cowboys and their mounts, which are taught to swim as well as to gallop, there was not a single man to hold out in this unique assault upon the gunboats. It being night, the Spanish fleet were taken quite unawares. The cowboys wriggled from their saddles to the decks of the vessels, letting their mounts swim back to shore. Having thus cut off their own retreat, it was a question of win or die. They fought well, and every gunboat was captured.

THE EDIBLE CRAB

Something of the Curious Life of This Half Fish Half Animal.

The edible crab is obliged to moult or cast off its shell many times during its life. This moulting appears to be an unpleasant ordeal to pass, for the crabs often die during the act. When we see that they are not only obliged to escape from the carapox or shell, but also from the hard covering of their egs, delicate mo[illegible]arts, and even gullet — turning [illegible]emselves inside out, as it were — [illegible] not surprising that they perish during the ordeal. The crab crawls up into some secluded nook or cove in shallow water to moult, out of the way of its hard-shelled relatives, for the helpless, newly-moulted, or soft-shell crab, if found, is devoured by them, as well as by several species of fishes. Fortunately for the crab, the soft covering hardens rapidly, and in a few hours it has a new and strong armour, and it then goes fearlessly out into deep water.

LORD ROSEBERRY'S BET.

How the Great English Politician Gave a Good Tip.

On one occasion Lord Roseberry was in a railway carriage on his way to a race meeting at Ayr. Opposite him sat a commercial traveller, who was rather inclined to be talkative.

Seeing his lordship (whom, of course, he did not know) reading the 'Racing Calendar, he remarked:

"Suppose you are going to the Ayr meeting?"

"I am going as far as Ayr," replied his lordship.

"Pity young swells get fleeced by blacklegs.. Some noblemen, I hear, drop fortunes on the Turf."

"Indeed!"

"Do a bit myself sometimes — about a tenner or a pony is my cut. Know anything good for to-day worth my while touching?"

"I am not a tipster."

"Beg pardon. Saw you reading the 'Racing Calendar,' so thought you might know."

"Well," replied his lordship, "if I give you the straight tip will it be of service to you?"

"Depends if I fancy it."

"Put your tenner or pony on Lord Roseberry's Chevronel for the Welter Cup."

"Not for Joseph! I never back Lord Roseberry's horses. They say he's a regular chumpkin."

"Indeed! Perhaps they're right. However, you asked me. I can only add that I heard Lord Roseberry himself tell what you term a chumpkin to back his horse."

"Depend upon it, if it was all right, he would not let you overhear his conversation. Mum would then be his game. Why, there's a lot in that race! I'll bet you a pony Lord Roseberry don't win it."

"Really! I am not accustomed to bet in railway carriages with strangers."

"There's my card. Fact is, you ain't game to bet"

"I think you'll lose your money, but as you challenge me let it be a bet. You'll see me in the stewards' enclosure at the course. I have no cards with me."

"Agreed! It's a bet. I bet you an even pony against Chevronel for the Welter Cup. But what's your name, young fellow?"

"Primrose. Sometimes I'm otherwise addressed."

"All right, young Primrose; pay and receive after the race."

The companions separated at the station. Chevronel won in a canter, and the commercial received the following morning a short note by a messenger from the stewards' stand: "Mr. Primrose (Lord Roseberry) would feel obliged by Mr.—— handing to his servent £25, which his lordship will have much pleasure in forwarding as a donation to the Commercial Travellers' Orphan Asylum."

The "bagman" paid his money, looking very crestfallen, and was heard to ejaculate, "Done! Who on earth would have dreamt that the good-looking, affable young fellow, whom I imagined was a chumpkin, was in fact none other than the Earl of Roseberry, giving me a good honest tip about his own horse, by which I was fool enough to lose £25? Anyway, he's a regular trump, and he's right — I'm the chumpkin after all!"

ON A GRAIN OF WHEAT.

A Prayer Containing 386 Letters Inscribed and Four Figures.

Prayers have been written and engraved on many very small objects, but only one person ever has been patient and painstaking enough to inscribe a complete prayer on a grain of wheat. One day Sir Moses Montefiore, the great Jewish financier of England, received a small tin box in the mail. On the cover of the box was written, "A prayer for Moses Montefiore, by Bauch Mordecai, son of Zebi Hirsch Scheinemann, of Jerusalem." The box contained a single grain of wheat, on which was inscribd, in characters so small that they could only be read with the aid of a powerful microscope, the 386 Hebrew letters of the prayer, and the date of the year (Hebrew reckoning), 5645. Sir Moses kept the prayer in his desk until he died, and it is now preserved with religious care by one of his friends.

Canada's Post-Office.

A Devonshire lady once sent to her son a pair of trousers by book post, which is, of course, cheaper than parcel post.

The postal officials wrote to her: "Clothes cannot be sent by book post. If you look in the 'Post Office Guide,' you will see under what conditions articles may be sent by book post."

After a few days the lady replied: "I have looked in the 'Post Office Guide' and find that articles which are open at both ends may be sent by book post. And if trousers are not open at both ends I should like to know what is."

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF A FORMER BELLEVILLIAN

THOMPSON, HUGH H., born in Belleville, Ont. He was a thoughtful child. When about five years of age he could throw a grappling hook with the best of them. At seven he was an expert and at ten a master hand.

It was said of Hugh that he could tell by the peculiar motion of the water of the Moira, whether the fish, swimming up stream at any particular spot, was a "sucker" or a pickerel. Mr. Chas. Wilkins, the well-known fishery inspector, used to say that Hugh was about the most "pickerelarious" fish-grappler along the west bank of the Moira.

At 12 he had, in addition to becoming an expert swimmer, with or without, made quite a name for himself in other lines of local endeavor. He could tantalize a corner groceryman in about as artistic a manner as could any of the West Belleville gang, and there were a few in that same gang who could probably do some tantalizing.

In conjunction with a crowd of neighboring "pals," he decided about this time to form a baseball club, the principal object of which was to wrest the laurel werath from the plaster of paris brow of the haughty "Young Troublers." A meeting was held one evening under the brow of the hill, near Severn's brewery. The speakers gerw eloquent in decrying the playing ability of the "Troublers" and in boosting the worth of their particular "mob." When the excitement was at fever heat Hugh leaped into the middle of the circle and, sticking his right hand in his vest, like Joe Fahey used to do, when reciting "The Charge of the Light Brigade," Hugh cried out: "I've just finished reading a swell book called 'The Life and Battles and Andie Cowie,' and in that book it says 'the first blow is half the battle.' Now, let us give them a good walloping blow right above the belt; let's call ourselves the 'Conquerors.'" This suggestion caught like wildfire, and the very next day a committee went down to The Intelligencer office and ordered the badges. Hugh played ball for several years, and played it well, too.

When a mere youth he was induced by some friends to learn the cigar-making business, as an economical way to procure high-grade smokes at cut prices. He learned it, and became very expert at it. His pals in the cigar shop thought Hugh too formal a name, so they shortened it to "Shinnie," more euphonious, you see.

"Shinnie" left Belleville soon after learning the trade, and came to Chicago, where he followed the business for several years. One Sunday he left Chicago on an excursion to Milwaukee, Wis. He left the boat at Racine, for a walk on the dock. When he came back the boat had left the dock. Shinnie went up town. Entering a cigar store, he selected a 'perfecto,' lighted it, took a puff or two, looked at the 'steamer,' then at the dealer, and said, in a mildly inquiring tone of voice: "Say, who wrapped that piece of cheese in a cigar wrapper, hey?" "Why," said the dealer, "I buy them seegars right heer in Ray-cine. Ain't them fine ones?" "Yes," said Shinnie. "They would make fine mosquito smudges; but they ain't or aren't very Double X Special for a real live man to smoke. If Jim Roblin ever had a brand like that in his 'joint' Bob Simmons would throw a fit. What did you say the name of this burg is, and what part of the country is it in?" "Why," rpelied Mr. Dealer, "this is Ray-cine, Wisconsin." "Well," retorted Shinnie, "I never heard of the town or the state, but if you call them good smokes I'm the curly headed litle boy who is going to come up here and show you boobs how to make cigars like they make in Belleville, where I come from."

The next week he returned to Racine, hunted up a partner, another Canadian, Bob Boyce by name, and they opened a cigar factory under the firm name of Thompson & Boyce. That was about eight years ago. The last report of the Wisconsin state factory inspector said that "Thompson & Boyce, of Racine have the most sanitary and best run cigar factory in the state."

We submit, your honors, that we should be pardoned if we have the temerity to suggest that in our very humble and foolish opinion, the last is "sure going some." Shinnie is a charter member of the Belleville Club and makes the journey from Racine to be present at all our principal meetings. That proves his love for his old home, and his enjoyment of the society of his old friends from home. As "Sallie" Root says, "Shinnie goes along Main street in Racine, looking for the Anglo-American, and is disappointed when he wakes up."

He is a good fellow, this same Shinnie. He has a charming wife and a beautiful daughter, a successful business, a fine home, a whole army of friends, and if any man or boy from West Belleville has the nerve to ask for more, we hope to heaven he succeeds in getting it. Smoke up! —Belleville Club News, Chicago.

SWALLOWS' NEST OF BANK-NOTE

Also How a Mouse Stole $40 Worth of Notes to Make a Home.

A pair of swallows of Fiberbrunn, in the Tyrol, have stolen a number of ten-kronen bank-notes to line their nest.

The parent birds discovered that the new notes were just the shade of blue to match their eggs, the tissue being tough but flexible, and exactly the material they needed. The nest and the missing notes were only discovered when the swallows had abandoned it and it fell to the ground.

This feat has been equalled by that of an enterprising mouse in Dornbirn, which abstracted a number of twenty-kronen notes to the value of $40, of a delicate reddish brown shade, from the cash drawer of a butcher, and, tearing them to pieces, adapted them to the purpose of making a nest for her family of seven. The butcher in his search for the notes suspected and traced the mouse, and found the nest under the boarding. He carefully picked up the remains of the notes and returned them to the bank, where they were pieced together. The butcher recovmouse's teeth.

Last Call.

Professor Leacock tells the following story about a young man who sometimes drank more whisky than was good for him:

He had been making a night of it, but had forsaken his compahions. He was acquainted with an undertaker named George, and got the crazy notion at three o'clock in the morning that he must see this particular man. Accordingly, he found George's undertaking establishment, over which George had his sleeping apartments.

The intoxicated young man rang and rang George's bell, and at last awoke him. The undertaker put his head out of the third-story window, expecting to find that his funeral services were required immediately. Instead, he recogniezd his friend Frank.

"Well, Frank," he exclaimed crossly, "what do you mant?"

"I just wan' tell you, George," said Frank, "that you're the lash man in the world I wan' to do business with."

Utilizing Waste as Fuel.

The greatest work which has been carried on by the British in Egypt, since their occupation of that country has been the construction of dams along the Nile for the purpose of providing water for irrigating the Nile Valley. As a result of this work vast areas, previously waste, have been brought under cultivation and the output of the country vastly increased.

Another enterprise, of little less importance, is now under way. This is for the purpose of utilizing sudd, a thick tangle of water plants in the Nile bed. This growth has for generations seriously interfered with the navigation of the Nile. It has recently been discovered that it can be utilized as a fuel. The new fuel is known as suddite.

The New Boarder Again.

"For ten eyars," said the new boarder at a Montreal boarding-house, "my habits were as regular as clockwork. I rose on the stroke of six; half an hour later I sat down to breakfast; at seven I was at work, dined at twelve, ate supper at six, and was in bed at nine-thirty; ate only hearty food, and hadn't a sick day in all that time." "Dear me!" said th edeacon in sympathetic tones, "and what were you in for?" An awful silence ensued.

Without Nihilism in Russia Siberia would be unnecessary. The very faults which Nihilism seeks to remedy are kept alive by its existence. If it were eradicated Russia would take its place among the Liberal nations of the world.

An Insect Gunner.

Many insects have some means of defense from their natural enemies, none of which is more curious than that of a small beetle, which, when clorely pursued, discharges a puff of poisonous vapor with a distinct detonation. Undoubtedly in many instances this aids the diminutive gunner in his escape, mainly, in all probability, by startling his pursuer and causing him to abandon the chase. From this peculiar acquirement, this little fellow is kewn as the bombardier beetle.

Boosting.

Things may be coming your way but be careful that they do not come with such force as to carry you away with them. There are tides and tides. Some are natural, some are supernatural and some are dangerous, because they move with a force which is too strong for our character and will. "Beware of uncontrolable circumstances". This was an expression which first fell from the lips of Wellington. The editor of a periodical remarks: —

"Old salts, who are forever yarning about wrecks and their causes, have a theory that what is called a "boosting" sea accounts for more than one of the disasters that have occurred in the long history of shipping. A "boosting" sea is a sea that runs heavily after a steamer, and, if it does not actually "poop" the vessel, yet, by the roll of billow after billow, accelerates its speed to a degree unguessed by the navigator, until finally the ship, having unconsciously overrun its course, brings up upon a rock or hidden reef, and is reported at Lloyds' as "lost."

Monuments in Queer Places.

There are Monuments in all sorts of out-of-the-way places, but one that is really unique is that erected in a river. It stands in the Parramatta River, New South Wales, a stream known the world over for the rowing events that have taken place upon it. This monument, which is in memory of the world-famed rower, Searle, is also unique from the fact that it has been used as the winning-post of the races for the world's championship, and is still used as such for local events.

The Emperor Gorges Himself.

The "Hoel Pao" says that an American doctor recently visited the palace at Peking to examine the baby Emperor, who, it was found, had gorged himself with a meal of swallows' nests (a sort of glutinous material), and thus provoked a raging thirst. The indisposition yielded easily to the doctor's treatment. The Emperor sleeps in a gigantic bed, big enough for six people! he rises at six, at once has a meal of rice-gruel or rice, and then goes to pay his respects to the Dowager Lung-yu.

A sculptor recently produced the likeness of a celebrated personage in whose biography it was mentioned that he regarded architecture as a very secondary art. The son of this personage visited the artist's studio for the purpose of examining the bust, when, after considering it with the air of a connoisseur, he inquired, "Could you not express more clearly his contempt for architecture?"

The heart of a man is divided into many compartments, mostly isolated. Sometimes there is a door between two of them, or even three may be joined together, but usually each one is complete in itself.

Too Much Education a Mistake.

It is a mistake to suppose that a good general education wil secure success in life. No wise man accepts a general invitation to dinner! it involves no particulars. Only a particular education is of practical use. Let the boys be educated for something particular — lawyers, doctors, clergymen, printers, merchants, tradesmen — only something definite. No hands are so often idle as those which are supposed by the owners — and by no one else — fit to "turn to anything."

Expecting Much.

The sphere of our affections is one in which we are very apt to expect too much from others, and thus to cause bitterness and often estrangement. Where we love we naturally crave to be loved; but this craving if not regulated by reason, is very likely to blossom into a selfish oppression.

A Sewing Machine Wrinkle

A hand sewing-machine is often very apt to slip about on the table. To obviate this, all that is necessary is to place a couple of the old-fashioned gelatine lozenges, slightly moistened, under each corner of the base board. In a few seconds the machine will be found to adhere to the table and equal a stand-machine in firmness.

Humility Safest Virtue.

Among all the virtues, humility, the lowest, is pre-eminent. It is the safest, because it is always an anchor; and that man may be truly said to live the most content in his calling who strives to live within the compass of it

"Shoots Wife Before Children," says a newspaper headline. That's a matter of precedence.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

BLOODSHED CONTINUES

Russians Go on Slaying Persians Around Tabriz.

The Czar's Officials Have Determined to Use Severe Methods to Suppress Disorders, But Little News Is Allowed to Get Out—Independence of Country May Never Be Restored—Troops Pressing Forward.

London, Dec. 28.—The Russian Government has decided upon stern measures to suppress the disorders at Tabriz and other disturbed Persian towns. The dislocation of the telegraph lines makes it impossible to get a reliable narrative of the outbreaks. Yet it cannot be doubted that a situation of the gravest complexity has arisen.

As reports of Russian progress in Persia, and stories of the indiscriminate killing of natives in Tabriz and Resht, and of the destruction of Persia's Constitutional Government under Russian menaces, continue to reach England, the people are becoming increasingly disquieted at the British Government's attitude, which the Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, thinks is a matter of policy and compelled by the Anglo-Russian agreement.

Doubts have also been increased as to whether Persian independence will ever be restored to even the feeble status it had before this last assault by Russia. If Parliament were sitting there would undoubtedly be severe questioning of the Government on this subject, and an arraignment of the Foreign Office.

The Times is the only paper which stoutly supports the Government, and it expresses considerable uneasiness over Russia's intentions as hinted in the St. Petersburg reports. The Manchester Guardian, the ablest and most influential provincial Liberal paper, deplores the British course and questions whether the Government could not have taken some stand earlier, but fears that it is too late now. In short, the whole affair is repugnant to Liberal sentiment.

Troops on the Move.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 28.—The latest reports from Tabriz announce that the telephone line to Julfa has been cut. Julfa is a small town in Transcaucasia, on the Aras River, something less than 100 miles from Tabriz. It was from this point that the Russian reinforcements were despatched to Tabriz several days ago.

About 200 Caucasian fidais, including a number of leaders, fled Tuesday night to Karadagh, with the intention, it is believed, of crossing the Russian frontier. A Russian guard has been placed over the Russian bank and the citadel, over which the Russian flag flies, is occupied by a Russian rifle regiment.

The Fifth Chasseurs, with an artillery detachment, has forced its way through to Baghichemal, a suburb of Tabriz, to join the Russian forces encamped there. There were several skirmishes along the road on the march from Julfa, and at sunset last night artillery and machine gun fire could be heard in the distance.

Will Punish Persians.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 28.—A semi-official statement issued last evening says that the Russian Government, in view of "acts of foolhardy aggression committed against the Russian forces and institutions in Tabriz, Resht and Enzeli, sometimes followed by brutal torture of the wounded and base outrages against the dead," has decided that the severest punishment of the guilty is merited, and Russian commanders, in conjunction with Russian consuls, are instructed to adopt the most stringent measures.

Atrocities by Russians.

London, Dec. 28.—The Persian committee, composed of prominent Englishmen interested in Persian affairs, has received the following telegram from the provincial assembly at Tabriz, sent through the Persian Society of Constantinople:

"On Dec. 21, Russian troops attacked and seized the administration buildings. They trampled school children underfoot and killed and despoiled innocent men and women. They also looted the shops. The inhabitants after extraordinary forbearance began to defend themselves and forced the Russians to evacuate the Government offices.

"On Dec. 22, the Russians bombarded the city until sunset, consternation increasing hourly. On Dec. 23, in consequence of orders from the central Government to cease fighting, the inhabitants took no steps to defend themselves, but the Russians renewed the bombardment, firing from the environs of their consulate at women and other innocent persons. They wounded or made captives the wives and children of many respectable citizens and set fire to numerous buildings and mosques.

"The inhabitants still remained quiet on Dec. 25, but the ferocity of the Russians greatly increased. They killed many women and children, and a large number of buildings were burned by them. If to-morrow they do not desist from their savage attack, the inhabitants will be compelled to defend themselves.

"We beg you to communicate this telegram to the principal newspapers and influential centres of Europe."

Aeroplane Man Arrested.

New York, Dec. 28.—Harry Graves Carter, president of an aeroplane company, was arrested yesterday charged with misappropriating funds of the company. The complainants against Carter are A. A. Hart, vice-president; R. E. Bibbins, treasurer, and W. A. Carter, a director of the company. The latter is an uncle of Carter.

Specifically, Carter is charged with misappropriating $1,000, $375 and $85. Carter denies the charge.

To Dine Hon. Mr. Hughes.

Quebec, Dec. 28.—Col. Sam Hughes has been offered and has accepted a dinner, by the members of the Garrison Club of this city. The date for the function is fixed for Jan. 9.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN COUP

Mongolia and Turkestan Fall Into Her Clutches.

Great Provinces on Border of Russia Will Be Proclaimed Independent To-day and Effect Will Be to Make Them Practically Russian Provinces—Chinese Rebels May Chose Provisional President.

Pekin, Dec. 28.—Mongolia, which almost equals China proper in size, will be proclaimed independent to-day, simultaneously with the cutting off from China of the vast dependency of Turkestan. Both will pass under Russian influence and will practically become Russian protectorates. Russia will at any time be able to annex them. A grand khan will be named as monarch of Mongolia.

The construction of the trans-Mongolian Railway, for which Russia has long sought permission from China, will now be a matter of time, Europe thereby coming nearer to Pekin by three or four days.

Russian influence will flank the Japanese sphere in Manchuria perilously, and a Japanese alliance for the sake of preserving Japanese interests may sooner or later be expected. Russian officers and officials, if not the Russian Government proper, have influenced this action in Mongolia.

Elect President To-day.

Shanghai, Dec. 28.—It is reported that the delegates of the eighteen provinces of China proper intend to meet at Nanking on Dec. 28 to elect Dr. Shun Yat Sen as president of the Provisional Government of the United Provinces.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The report on contagious diseases in Montreal for the week ending Dec. 26, showed 138 cases with 29 deaths.

It was announced yesterday that the water and light plants of Woodstock show a profit of over $16,000 for the year.

The Liberals of New Brunswick gathered yesterday for a conference with Hon. Wm. Pugsley. Organization in local and federal politics is the object.

Detective Sam Le Huquet, Montreal, after 23 years on the police force, almost half that time in the detective bureau, has retired. Six years ago he was shot twice by a burglar.

With a rifle which was his Christmas gift, 10-year-old Harry Leowall yesterday shot and instantly killed his mother, Mrs. Caesarina Leowall, in their home near Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis.

As a result of the wave of crime prevalent in Winnipeg lately and especially to put a stop to street hold-ups, police magistrate yesterday sentenced three Galician bandits to 12 years in the penitentiary and twenty-four lashes each.

Earl Johns, Gordon Buchanan and Frank Albraith, ranging in age from 7 to 12 had a desperate struggle for life in the river at Wingham, after going through the ice. The three hung on to the edge of the ice for nearly half an hour until rescued.

The City of London has issued a writ against the Town of Newmarket asking for an injunction to prevent that town from issuing $25,000 debentures in connection with a proposed loan to the Harding Motor Co., which is now a London industry.

Worried Over Crown Prince.

Berlin, Dec. 28—The possibility that Crown Prince Frederick William, who was prevented by a cold from coming to Berlin from Danzig to be present when the Crown Princess Cecilie gave birth to her fourth son on Dec. 19, and also at Christmas, will abandon Danzig as a residence during the winter, is being discussed in court circles.

The climate of Danzig, where the crown prince is serving in the army as colonel in command of the Death's Head Hussars, is, owing to its proximity to the Baltic Sea, rather raw and trying, and is said by his physicians to be unsuitable in winter for the heir to the throne.

Merger That Failed.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Albert H. Veeder, attorney for Swift & Co., the first witness called by the Government in the trial of the ten Chicago packers, testified yesterday that the defendants made two efforts to organize a merger in the summer of 1902 and that their efforts to finance the enterprise were unsuccessful in both instances.

Mr. Veeder testified that E. H. Harriman, James Stillman and other New York financiers were to have furnished the capital, and the amount they were to receive as compensation was $10,000,000.

Fatal Explosion of Gasoline.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 28.—As a result of an explosion of a gasoline tank at a cleaning establishment here yesterday, one man is dead and three other persons are probably fatally injured. All the victims were employed at the establishment.

John Adams, 16 years old, died on the way to the hospital. Fred Cool, B. Shanamaker and a woman whose identity has not been established, were badly burned and probably will not recover.

A Collar Combine Now.

Troy, N.Y., Dec. 28.—Twenty million dollars is the capitalization of the proposed collar combine, which may be announced on May 1, 1912, if negotiations which are being promoted by Max Osler of New York, representing Harvey, Fiske Co., bankers, do not fall through.

Galna's Majority 1,075.

Parry Sound, Dec. 28.—The official returns of the Parry Sound district provincial elections were given out yesterday by the returning officer, showing the following result: Galna (Conservative), 2,218; Bradwin (Liberal), 1,143. Galna's majority, 1,075.

COTTON MILLS CLOSED

Big Lockout Goes Into Effect in Parts of Lancashire.

Proposal of Master Cotton Spinners to Close Down Three Days a Week and Refusal of Three Persons to Join a Union Precipitates Grave Unemployment Crisis In England—Long Struggle Feared.

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 28.—The refusal of one man and two women to join a trades union, coupled with the decision of the Master Cotton Spinners to close their mills three days in the week, caused a complete stoppage of a great portion of the cotton mills in northeast Lancashire last evening. Efforts are already on foot to bring about a settlement, but as one woman, who left the union after twenty years, because she believes that the benefits are not commensurate with the payments, persists in her attitude, and the master spinners insist upon their right to maintain open shops, a long and bitter struggle is feared. There is danger, too, of the fight spreading to other industries.

The lock-out involves 160,000 weavers and nearly an equal number of spinners will be reduced to half pay. Unfortunately there are indications of probable complications through the introduction of a new issue on the troublesome question of wages. This move has been taken by the weavers, who declare that now a lock-out has been decided upon they intend to make an advance of five per cent. in wages a condition of any settlement. It is estimated that the weekly loss in wages to the weavers and allied workers, spinners and card room employes, will amount to $1,400,000. The weavers will receive roughly $325,000 lock-out pay from the union.

Bad Year for Coal Industry.

Washington, Dec. 28.—There has been an over-production of coal this year and a consequent struggle for trade, which depressed prices, is the opinion expressed yesterday by Edward W. Parker, coal statistician for the U. S. Geological Survey. Mr. Parker added that there had been few more unsatisfactory years in the history of the coal mining industry and that prices were depressed to such an extent that when the total returns for the year are footed up, the balance probably would be on the wrong side of the ledger, although the production of coal in the United States for the year is probably second only to the record year of 1910.

The total production of coal for the year is estimated at 490,000,000 tons, only 11,000,000 less than in 1910. Of this year's production, 400,000,000 tons was bituminous coal.

Hope to "Convert" Tenderloin.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 28.—Accompanied by police, a committee of women religious workers yesterday visited houses in the "red light" district here in an effort to persuade the inmates to take a fresh start in life.

Each woman was offered a respectable home and a position in which she can earn an honest living. A home, to be conducted as an ordinary boarding-house, its address to be kept secret, will be provided for those who accept the offer.

The effort is part of the men and religion forward movement. In addition to planning to care for the women, the organization has gathered the names of all the property owners who rent their places for immoral purposes and will ask that criminal proceedings be started against them.

Can't Satisfy Teddy.

New York, Dec. 28.—Although President Taft is to be the guest of honor and Andrew Carnegie is down on the program as honorary president, the pending arbitration treaties, with Great Britain and France, for which Mr. Taft has labored and which Mr. Carnegie has endorsed, are not to be brought officially before the Citizens' Peace banquet, to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria on Saturday night next.

With this revised understanding Secretary Bloomer called on Col. Roosevelt again yesterday and again the colonel declined flatly to attend.

Found Miss Peter's Body.

Flint, Mich., Dec. 28.—The decomposed body of a young woman, later identified as that of Emma Peter of Toronto, Ont., missing since Nov. 4, was found in the Flint River here yesterday, at a point where wires had been stretched in the stream with the hope of catching Miss Peter's body.

The young woman came to Flint from Toronto, on Oct. 3. She at the time was suffering from nervous trouble, and her relatives believe this affected her mind. They believe she drowned herself while temporarily unbalanced.

Conservatives Lead In P.E.I.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Dec. 28.—Premier Mathieson was yesterday elected by acclamation with his colleague, Temple MacDonald, to the Prince Edward Island Legislature. Other acclamations are: John MacLean, Conservative, in the first district of Kings; Hon. John Kickham, Conservative, also in the first district of Kings, and John A. Macdonald, Conservative, in the third district of Kings.

Enquiring Into Ne Temere Case.

Winnipeg, Dec. 28.—John O'Connor, barrister, has been retained by a Catholic society to conduct an enquiry into the facts of the ne temere case recently aired here. He is now examining witnesses and rumor says if the [illegible]ome is favorable, action may be [illegible] against Winnipeg publishers to vindicate the attitude of the church in this matter.

Rev. Mr. Richeson's Successor.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 28.—Rev. Austin T. Kemptor of Lunenburg, Mass., was last night called to the pastorate of the Emmanuel Baptist Church, succeeding Rev. C. V. T. Richeson, now in the Charles street jail awaiting trial on the charge of the murder of Avis Linnell.

PROPRIETORS FREED.

Owners of Triangle Waist Company Are Exonerated.

New York, Dec. 28.—The state failed yesterday in its effort to fix the blame for the fire horror on March 25, 1911, in which 147 young women shirtwaist makers in a factory on the top floors of the Asch Building were burned or driven to jump to their deaths on the pavements, nine floors below.

A verdict of "not guilty" was brought in late yesterday afternoon in the case of Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, proprietors of the factory known as the Triangle Waist Co., who are the only persons indicted in connection with the holocaust.

Unusual precautions were taken to prevent repetition at the court-house yesterday of the demonstrations which have occurred in a long series of mass meetings, parades and in other ways against the defendants since the fire. Only a few persons were allowd in the court-room and the corridors and entrances were heavily guarded by extra policemen.

The jury came in at 4.35 p.m., after deliberating for an hour and forty-five minutes. The pronouncement of acquittal was first taken quietly by the defendants, but after an adjournment to an ante-room they gave way to their emotion in tears, when embraced by relatives and friends. As they passed out through a lane of policemen to the street a large crowd of men, women and children awaited them.

One hysterical man tried to press his way through the throng, crying in a high voice: "Not guilty, not guilty; Murder, murder, murder!"

He fell on the steps of the courthouse in convulsions, gasping that he had lost a sister in the fire. An ambulance was summoned to take him to an hospital. By the time this excitement was over the defendants had darted into a subway entrance and got free of the hostile crowd.

Harris and Blanck were not charged in a wholesale manner with the deaths that occurred at the fire, but specifically with manslaughter in the case of Margaret Schwartz, a young girl who was found asphyxiated and burned near a door on the ninth floor. The main argument of both prosecution and defence was directed against this door, the state introducing over a hundred witnesses in an attempt to prove that it was locked and the defence refuting this contention by a mass of testimony.

Winnipeg's Power War.

Winnipeg, Dec. 28.—So keen is the rivalry between the municipal light and power system and the private company that the latter is publishing a page advertisement calling public attention to the weak spots in the former, and predicting the ultimate collapse of the principle of public ownership in Winnipeg. The private company devotes much space to the fact that the Manitoba Government, which took over the Bell Telephone system of the province two years ago, have found it necessary to make heavy advances in the price of telephones, and cites this as an evidence that the Winnipeg municipal plant will shortly be forced to advance rates.

However, the price of light and power has been lowered nearly sixty per cent. since the civic scheme began operation. Hundreds of customers are leaving the private company daily to take the civic service. The private company, however, adds that it will continue to meet all cuts in price.

Cold Weather Coming.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—A cold wave sweeping down from the northwest has reached the lake region.

Since Tuesday noon the temperature here has fallen from 41 to 22 degrees above zero. It was said at the Government weather bureau that the temperature probably would fall ten degrees more in this section before to-night.

Heavy snows are reported in Wisconsin and parts of Michigan. Effects of the storm may be felt in all parts of the central west, recording to the weather bureau.

Reports from northwestern states show the range to be from six above to 14 below zero.

Mercury In Porcupine.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—"Discoveries of cinnabar, as mercury ore is called, have been made and several claims staked at Groundhog, on the Groundhog River, east of Cochrane," said Wm. Walsh, who has arrived from the mining country. "The stuff is said to be present in quantity, and a number of claims have been staked there. The find is the topic of conversation in Porcupine.

"As quicksilver is used to separate silver from its compounds, a market can be found for it right in the mining camp."

Wanted For Murder.

New York, Dec. 28.—At the instance of the British Consul, United States Commissioner Shields in this city yesterday issued an extradition warrant for James Lowrie, said to be known also as "Jimmy Johnson," who is wanted in Leeds, England, on a charge of killing Peter McBride Harvey last August.

Lowrie is said to be a race track man. He was arrested Tuesday at the home of a brother in Yonkers. He will be arraigned to-day.

Killed Entire Family.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 28.—News reached this city yesterday afternoon that the entire family of T. J. Grant, consisting of himself, his wife and six children, have been murdered. Grant resides 12 miles from Benton, Ark.

The evidence tends to show, it is declared, that Grant killed his wife and children, and then took his own life. Details regarding the tragedy are few.

Body Found In Water.

Kingston, Dec. 28.—The body of an unidentified man was picked up in the water near Cataraqui Bridge yesterday afternoon and is at Corbett's Undertaking Parlors. It is that of a man five feet nine inches, weight about 160 pounds, with black hair and moustache. It was evident the body had been in the water some time.

Putrid Fish Kills 36.

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 28.—Thirty-six homeless men, who sought with decayed smoked herring to add to the favor of the frugal meal of bread and soup served to them at the municipal lodging-house on Tuesday night, are dead. More than forty others are sick, several of whom are believed to be dying.

The cause of death has not yet been announced, but the authorities are confident that putrid fish was responsible. The autopsies appear to substantiate this view. All those known to have partaken of the fish are dead or in such condition to be unable to throw any light on the subject. It is believed, however, that one of the victims found the fish in the garbage pile of a nearby market and divided them among his companions. The men became sick early yesterday morning and in some cases death followed rapidly, in from two to three hours.

Commission Holds Meeting.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—After calling upon Premier Borden, the Minister of Public Works and the civil service commissioners, the members of the recently-appointed commission which will conduct an enquiry into all the Government departments, held their first meeting yesterday afternoon.

The three commissioners, Hon. A. B. Morine (chairman), R. S. Lake and G. N. Ducharme, discussed the question of securing quarters, and decided to meet to-day to consider the question of appointing counsel, secretary and other officers necessary to the proper carrying on of the work in hand.

It is quite probable that the quarters recently vacated by the railway board will be secured by the commissioners, who propose to get established in Ottawa and commence the work of hearing evidence early in January.

Biscay's Death Toll.

Gibraltar, Dec. 28.—Still another vessel, the German steamer Chios, foundered with nearly all hands in the Bay of Biscay.

The Chios, belonging to the German Levant Line, was proceeding from Hamburg to Alexandria on Thursday last when she was caught in the hurricane and sank with all but two of her crew, the chief officer and one sailor, who were picked up by a passing vessel.

The Chios was built at Hamburg in 1891 and registered 2,590 tons net.

Miss Edmands In New York.

Boston, Dec. 28.—It became known here yesterday that Miss Violet Edmands, the Brookline heiress who was engaged to marry the Rev. V. T. Richeson, has left her home to become a settlement worker in New York. Miss Edmands was formerly active in charitable work in Brookline. The announcement that she is now doing settlement work in New York came from a close friend of the family.

Hurt In Blasting.

Kingston, Dec. 28.—S. Gorgett and Angle Flett, Poles, were badly injured by a blast, while working for the Canadian Northern Railway in construction work at Perth road. They are in the Hotel Dieu and will recover.

Duke of Argyll a Composer.

London, Dec. 28.—It is announced that Oscar Hammerstein, whose London opera house was opened Nov. 13 last, has accepted an opera written by the Duke of Argyll, for production in the spring.

WHO THREW THE SWITCH THAT CAUSED DISASTER?

To Mr. Pratt—He gave explicit instructions to the switchman to keep the switch for the main line closed except when in use.

NIGHT YARDMAN.

Charles Moore testified he was night yardman on the G.T.R. here on the night of the 23rd inst. He gave no instructions to the switchman that night in reference to the switch. At the time of the accident the switch should certainly have been set for the main line. Mossman had been a switchman on the G. T. R. for some time. Witness saw Mossman after the accident. He asked Mossman how the train went on the lead, and he (Mossman) said the switch was set for the main line. Witness saw the body of Symons between the tender of the engine and the leading car. The accident was caused by the double-header train taking the side track instead of remaining on the main line.

To juryman Power—The shunting engine was probably about 1,000 feet from the main line.

ENGINEER ORMOND.

George Ormond, sworn, testified that he was a G.T.R. engineer, and on Saturday night was on the yard engine. At the time of the accident he was on the right line, taking his orders from the yardman. The first he saw that night was the headlight of the leading engine coming in. At first he thought the train was on the main line. The train was then about ten car lengths away. He thought the train was going about 10 miles an hour. Five to six miles an hour was the ordinary speed for a train coming into the yard at that point. When the crash came the tender of the engine he was on was driven up into the cab. The bell of the engine should be kept ringing when coming into the yard. Witness did his best to get out of the way, but he could not escape the collision. Witness would not say the train was coming in at an undue rate, but possibly a little faster than is usual. It would have been the duty of the engineer on engine No. 2525 to have slowed up the train. Witness had a conversation with the engineer of engine No. 2525 and he said he did not see his (witness') engine until they were in close proximity. Witness had not talked to Mossman since the accident.

To juryman Power—The switch had never been left open before, nor was it out of order as far as he knew.

ENGINEER LORD.

James Lord, sworn, stated he was an engineer on engine No. 2525 of the double-header train going west. His fireman was J. G. Wells. There were 22 loaded cars and 22 empty cars on the train. He knew the yellow light at the entrance of the east end yard, which means to come in slow. He had been an engineer for ten months. The only instruction they had was the switch. When the switch was open on the side line it showed a red light. He came to that switch at the rate of about 6 miles an hour. At the east end yard he stopped for five minutes as the semaphore was against him. When he came into the yard he was running at a moderate speed. Witness never saw Symons after the train left Napanee until he was killed. Witness saw the headlight of the yard engine, but at that time did not think his train was taking the side line. When he first saw danger was when he was close to the shunting engine. The side track is on a curve. There was nothing unusual occurred to put him on his guard that he was going on to the side line. He had made several trips through the Belleville yard. By his train taking the wrong switch was the cause of the accident. He saw the switchman in the shanty near the switch. As a result of the accident witness' left arm was hurt. Symons was evidently getting off the tender on to the leading car when the collision occurred. Witness could not do anything different from what he had done.

To juryman Canning—New rules had recently come into force, but witness was conversant with them. Some lights were changed on the semaphore by the new rules.

FIREMAN WELLS.

J. G. Wells testified that he was a fireman on engine No. 2525. The first thing unusual he knew of was when the crash came. He had two ribs broken and sustained some other slight injuries. He did not know when the engine left the main line. He could not tell that anything more could have been done than what was done to avert the accident. The engineer and witness were perfectly sober at the time.

YARD FOREMAN.

Philip J. Connors, sworn, testified that he was yard foreman at G. T. R. here. The incoming train was coming in, to witness' idea, about ten miles an hour. Six miles an hour is the limit for running an engine in the yard. Witness did not know Symons.

To Mr. Pratt—Witness would not say that a man was justified in running a train at the speed it was running.

YARD HELPER'S EVIDENCE.

Wilfred Bartley testified he was a yard helper on the G.T.R. here. The engineer on the yard engine did all in his power to avert an accident. He saw the body of Symons, but did not know him. Witness was some distance away from where the accident occurred.

SWITCH TENDER'S VERSION.

Ernest Fleming said he was a switch tender in the east end yard of the G.T.R. here on the night of the accident. He pulled the semaphore and also put the double-header train on the main line, being a manifest train, which is a through train. He was on duty at night from 6 o'clock until 7 in the morning. His duties were not too heavy to safeguard his switches. Mossman was on duty some distance away from where witness was on duty. He did not neglect his duty that night. Witness did not know Symons.

CONDUCTOR DEGAN.

John Degan testified that he was a conductor on the through manifest train going west on Saturday night. He was in the caboose when the collision occurred. Five cars remained on the main line. He saw the body of Symons taken out of the wreck and recognized the body at the undertaking establishment. He was a good sober man and did his duties faithfully.

BRAKEMAN VANCE.

Clifford Vance testified he was a brakeman on the double-header train. He was in the caboose when the collision occurred. After the accident he saw the switch was open. He had no conversation with the switchman.

SWITCHMAN MOSSMAN.

When this witness was called all present were desirous of hearing his evidence, and close attention was given to all the evidence he gave. When sworn he testified that he was a switchman at the Herchmer Avenue switch. He had been there about a month and a half, but had about 3 years experience as a switchman. His duty was to keep the switches right. On Saturday night an engine passed over the switch. This was about 10 o'clock. The west bound train came in about 10.25 or 10.30. He was positive he shut the switch after the light engine had passed over it. After he had lined up the main lead he went into the switch shanty. From the shanty he saw the switch was showing green for the main line. This was about 10.10. On Saturday he had seven hours sleep. The only reason he could give that that switch was opened, was that it had been tampered with. It was all right when he looked at the switch. It was possible for a person to have opened that switch. He saw no person about the switch. He had never known that switch to have been opened before. The cause of the accident was that the switch was open. The train went by the shanty at from 15 to 16 miles an hour. In his opinion it was running altogether too fast and unsafe at that point. He did not give the engineer any signal. When he saw the engine had taken the side track he tried to get on to the tail end of the train to pull the brake, but he could not. He was confident that he set that switch for the main line and that some one had tampered with it. The shanty was on the north side of the track and the switch was west of the shanty. He had no talk with the engineer after the accident.

To Coroner Farley—He set the switch yesterday morning for No. 3 express train.

This exhausted the list of witnesses who had been summoned to give evidence. The jury, after a consultation, decided that they would like to visit the place where the accident occurred and inspect the ground, and so intimated to the coroner, who concurred in the idea. It was arranged the G.T.R. would furnish a car for the jury to visit the scene of the accident, and an adjournment was made until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Lucky Miss Knoche.

Such was the description of a young man who, at an entertainment given at Brooklyn, U.S.A., by the Westport Protective Home Circle, in April, 1905, was offered as first prize in a lottery. When the holder of the winning number, Miss Katherine Knoche, stepped forward to claim her reward, the spectators present clamoured for the marriage to take place there and then. Mr. Arnett was willing. "It's up to her," he said; "whatever she says goes. I'm game." The lady, however, though willing enough to espouse the gentleman — who, indeed, chanced to be an old acquaintance — demurred at such excessive haste, so the couple resolved to defer the cere-

WHAT CANADIANS ARE DOING

C. A. MAGRATH
International Commissioner.

Though Mr. Magrath was not successful at the last parliamentary election, and consequently out of the running for cabinet honours, the premier did not leave one of his right hand men, while in opposition, to rust long and in appointing Mr. Magrath to a responsible position as member of the International Commission he has not only done a gracious act but has strengthened the commission with a strong man.

C. A. MAGRATH

Of immense physique, powerful intellect and indomitable will power C. A. became an object of interest as soon as he entered the House of Commons in the last parliament. The son of a brilliant Irish schoolmaster, he has also the best blood of the Macgregors in his veins and, if ability counts for anything, Mr. Magrath is destined to occupy a high place in the councils of the nation. Decency in public life is one of the battles he is always fighting.

Mr. Magrath was born in 1860 in Augusta, Ont. and after a good education he took up the profession of surveying. Before entering the House of Commons in 1903 he had already served two terms in the N. W. Legislative Assembly.

HON. J. D. McGREGOR
Nova Scotia

It is appropriate that the chief executive of a Scottish province should be of Scotch extraction so that in James Drummond McGregor Nova Scotia has a Lieut.-Governor of her own heart.

Born in New Glasgow seventy-four years ago of a family which first settled in Pictou in 1786, one member of which, Rev. James McGregor, was the pioneer minister of Eastern Nova Scotia, young James, after a sound education went in the shipping business and made a fortune.

HON. J. D. McGREGOR

In public life he was twice a member of the N. S. legislature and twice Mayor of New Glasgow. Previous to being called to the Senate in 1903 Mr. McGregor had tried for the House of Commons but was not successful.

GEORGE HAM
C. P. R. Publicity Agent

To know the genial George Ham of C. P. R. fame is the password to anywhere at any time, for everyone knows, either by reputation or personally, the man who has advertised the C. P. R. and incidentally Canada. Mr. Ham has acted as host, of course on behalf of his company, to every big man who has visited Canada, this last twenty years, and should they forget the C. P. R. and even Canada they cannot forget the fund of humour bottled up in one man.

There is a story told of George who, wherever he may be always sends his soiled linen to Montreal to be laundried. One day on an Eastbound train the engineer staying over long to take in water was threatened with dire penalties by the conductor. "Man, the President's on board and there'll be H— to play". "Cannot help it." At last, as no other threat would avail, "Man, George Ham's washing's on board." "What. Why in the name of Columbus didn't you say that at first. Here I've been wasting five minutes gassing. Don't you tell George for he'll never forgive me."

Such is the popularity of George Ham amongst his confreres, from the President down.

A. W. CAMPBELL
Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals.

A lofty aspiration flits through the brain of most healthy men. Some aspire to heights of poetry or art yet untouched, some aspire to become even more oratorical than the incomparable Cicero; one man opined that if he could write the songs of a nation he didn't give a Teddy bear who made the laws. This brings us to Archibald William Campbell, Deputy Minister of Railway and Canals, who is content to let the lawmakers, songwriters, and so forth proceed and progress ad lib., so long as he can help to secure good roads for Canada. He is enthusiastic and consistent in this desire. Years ago he was dubbed "Good Roads" Campbell. It is a nickname that is a credit to him, because no man north of the 49th parallel has done more to educate the people to recognize the value of good roads than Mr. Campbell. He is recognized as the greatest living authority in this Dominion on the subject. He does not discriminate about roads; so long as it is a road he knows the how to build it. Just now, of course, he is principally interested in railroads.

"Good Roads" Campbell was born in Wardsville, Middlesex County, Ontario, in the year of grace 1863. His parents were of good Scotch blood, and kept a store in Wardsville. Archibald William went first to the Public School in closest proximity to the store, then he went to the Collegiate in closest proximity to the Public School aforesaid. Then followed a post-graduate Collegiate course in St. Thomas, from whence he went to Toronto University to study civil engineering. He graduated in 1886, and from that year until 1890 he engaged in private practice as a civil engineer in St. Thomas. Then he accepted the position of City Engineer in St. Thomas, and filled the position with distinguished success until 1898. It was at this time the Ontario Government had hearkened unto many agitations about the need for better roads throughout the province. One Archibald William Campbell, City Engineer of St. Thomas, had displayed a deal of interest in road-making, and had demonstrated he knew something about the business.

He was the very man the Provincial Government needed, and he was induced to accept the position of Chief Highway Commissioner for Ontario. His duties were to educate, demonstrate, enunciate, propagate—in fact, do all he could to get better roads over all the territory the Legislature controlled.

"Good Roads" Campbell tackled the task with the vim only capable in the man who loves his work, and knows how to go about it. Seven years he carried on the good work, with the results you can see to-day all over Ontario. During the seven years he spoke at seven hundred public meetings on everything incidental to good roads. In 1903 he was appointed Deputy Minister of Public Works in the Ontario Government.

There's one thing we admire about women: There's few of them called "professor."

PERFECT PANACEA FOR RHEUMATISM

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL ALWAYS CURE THIS TROUBLE

MCMILLAN'S CORNER, Ont.

"Your remedy Fruit-a-tives is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pains from Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year, and not being able to work at anything. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything; it would pass away.

Fortunately, about two years ago, I got "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me. Since then, I take them occasionally and keep free of pain. I am satisfied that "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism and they will cure anyone who takes them". JOHN B. McDONALD.

Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago are caused by Uric Acid—a poisonous substance formed as a result of acid indigestion and impurities in the blood. "Fruit-a-tives", or intensified fruit juices, is the greatest blood purifying medicine in the world.

"Fruit-a-tives" keeps the whole system free of uric acid and will always cure Rheumatism in every form.

BOXING

WHITE HOPES MEET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Carl Morris, the Oklahoma engineer out-fought Tom Kennedy, the New York heavyweight, in eight rounds of a ten-round bout at the Empire Athletic Club to-night. In the general opinion of those at the ringside, neither of the white hopes showed any advancement toward their aspirations of some day wresting the world's championship from Jack Johnson. The Oklahoma man, weighing 228 pounds, as compared with Kennedy's 215, was considered too slow, and Kennedy's much-touted footwork proved a disappointment in to-night's bout.

The New York man showed great gameness in taking all the punishment which the former locomotive driver gave him. He had so much the worst of it in the latter rounds that many of the spectators shouted to the referee to stop the bout, but he declined to interfere.

The Sixth Sense.

It is frequently the case that we meet people who antagonize us the moment a glance or a handshake is exchanged, while our inner consciousness offers no explanation for that reasonless antipathy. On the other hand Fate brings us in contact with personalities which at once appeal to a sixth sense which is indefinable, but which seems to comprehend more than the combined educated and trained sensibilities. What is that sixth sense?

Maud—"I'm afraid Gertie's husband has ceased to love her."

May—"Heavens! Why?"

Maud—"He hasn't quarrelled with her for a week."

Katherine: "Papa won't let us marry as long as I am a minor."

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

GOES TO TRIAL

A young man named Victor Jordan was this morning charged before Magistrate Bedford here with stealing some harness from Miss Berta Ross, and also of using threatening language towards the complainant. The parties reside in the township of Tyendinaga. The evidence was such that Jordan was committed for trial. Mr. Anderson represented the Crown while the accused was undefended.

C.M.B.A. BALL.

There was a good attendance at the C.M.B.A. Ball, which was held in St. Michael's Academy hall last night. Sixty-five couples tripped the light fantastic to the music of O'Rourke's orchestra, and there was a progressive pedro which was participated in by a considerable number. The prizes in the latter form of amusement were won by the following: Miss Irene Flagler, who received a beautiful brass jardiniere, and Mr. Gerald Fitzgerald secured a handsome silk umbrella. A bountiful supper followed and all went home satisfied that they had enjoyed the most pleasant evening of the year.

CHARGE WITHDRAWN.

The charge of housebreaking preferred against the young man, John Coughlin, has been withdrawn and he has been allowed his liberty until Saturday next, the 6th of January, when he will appear before the Magistrate to have another charge preferred against him disposed of.

CASE LAID OVER.

Mr. Wm. Haslip, who is proprietor of the Albion Hotel, was this morning summoned to appear before the Magistrate on a charge of refusing admittance to his bar during prohibited hours of a police officer. The case was laid over for a week without any evidence being submitted.

CHRIST CHURH XMAS

Chist Church parish hall was last evening filled to the doors by the children of the Sunday school and friends. It was the Christmas entertainment in connection with the school. A programme varied in its character and of an interesting nature was given by the scholars of the school, after which gifts and prizes were presented to the children. The school, under the superintendency of Mr. W. E. Griffith, is progressing in every department.

GOES TO COBOURG.

Mr. William Cochrane, who has been for nearly 13 years Bursar at the Deaf and Dumb Institution here, has received notification that he has been transferred to the Asylum at Cobourg, where he is to be Bursar. He is to enter on his new duties on Tuesday next, the 2nd of January. While it is not definitely stated who is to succeed Mr. Cochrane here, it is generally surmised that it will be Mr. J. W. Pearcy, ex-M.P.P., of Marmora.

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

A wagon load of provisions, dry goods, toys, etc., was contributed by the pupils of St. Andrew's Sunday School last evening at their annual Christmas entertainment for the Children's Shelter of this city. Supper was served in the basement of the church at 6.30 o'clock. At 8 o'clock the programme of the evening commenced with a selection by the orchestra. Many of the little tots of the Primary Class took part in the programme, viz., Helen Cooper, Margaret and Mary McIntosh, Leslie Allen, John Beaumont, Grace McIntosh, Mabel Easton, Helen Byrne, Grace Hall and Irene Muir, Dorothy Andrews and Viola Munroe. Two splendid choruses were given by the school and members of the Pocket Testament League. Then the classes, one by one, brought their gifts and presented them to Santa Claus. Toward the close of the programme the pastor, on behalf of the school, presented books to pupils for regular attendance and reciting catechism. Two very interesting features brought the programme to a close: Mr. Horie, teacher of the Ladies' Bible Class, was presented with a Bible in appreciation of his good teaching and faithful service in the interests of his class. Presentations were also made to Mr. John Fenn, Miss Edith Fenn and Master Leo Fenn, members of the S. S. orchestra, for their capable leadership of the musical part of the services. Mr. Wm. McIntosh, Superintendent of the Sunday School, was in the chair and handled the programme, as he does the school, in an able and efficient manner.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

The following is a list of Christmas gifts to the House of Refuge: Mr. H. Corby, case of oranges; Mr. E. B. Harris, case of oranges; Christians of Bethel Hall, candy and daily text calendars; Mrs. A. Watson, doughnuts; Miss V. Burleigh, home-made candy; Miss Mary Wilson, home-made candy; Mr. J. V. Doyle, chocolates; Mrs. Thos. Jordan, candy; Miss Marie Parks, candy and fruit; Miss F. Newton, ties for women; Mrs. Chas. Hudson, ties for men; Mr. Collip, two handsome plants; Mr. J. J. Haines, slippers for men.

CHILDREN'S NIGHT.

A large crowd gathered at the Salvation Army hall last night to listen to the children recite and sing and go through their drills. Every number called forth the applause of the crowd. Little Miss Gladys Horn and little Pearl Adams and Esther Howe delighted all. Three forms of telegrams brought by Master Bertie Adams, announcing the trials of Santa Claus in reaching Belleville, caused much merriment. At last he arrived with a leap and a bound, with many a ring of sleigh bells and with many willing hands to help, commenced to give out the gifts. Every child in the hall received one or more presents. Everyone was delighted and many expressed themselves by saying it was the best yet. Adjt. Allen wishes to thank those who so kindly donated the toys. Mr. James Cordes made a good Santa Claus.

ST. THOMAS' CHRISTMAS.

At St. Thomas' Church Hall last evening the annual Christmas entertainment in connection with the Sunday School of the church was held, and it proved to be one of the best ever held. The hall was filled with children and adults, and a programme was presented which was entertaining in its character. Mr. W. T. Fleming, Superintendent of the school, occupied the chair, filling that position in an acceptable manner. The following programme was carried out: Opening chorus by the school; Scotch song by George Carruth; bag pipe selection by Prof. Johnstone; dialogue, "Some Scenes from a Chaplain's Family," by the pupils of Mr. Ablard's class; Scottish selection by the Johnstone pipe band; song by Reto Thompson; selection by Johnstone's pipe band; tableau, "Faith, Hope and Charity"; chorus, "Christmas Tidings," by Sunday School children; selection by the Johnstone pipe band; Irish duet by Reta Thompson and Harry Ablard; Scotch song by George Carruth; selection by the orchestra; bag pipe selection by Prof. Johnstone; flag dialogue by the pupils of Misses Roberts and Sisson and Mrs. Kerr's classes; recitations by Reta Stevens, Flora B. Brown and Margaret Arnott; a dialogue by Aletha and Harry Groom. At the conclusion of the programme Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts to the children. Votes of thanks were proposed by the chairman and tendered to Prof. Johnstone and members of his pipe band; to Miss Thompson and Mr. H. Ablard for the services they had rendered, and to Miss Terwilligar for training the children, and to Mr. C. J. Bowell for courtesy of The Intelligencer; also to Thompson & Company for supplying furniture, etc. The Christmas tree and platform was beautifully lighted with electric lights, these being provided by Mr. W. T. Fleming and Dr. Jepson.

SWITCHMAN PARTIALLY TO BLAME; SWITCH POSSIBLY TAMPERED WITH

Such was the Verdict of Coroner's Jury in Railway Fatality—Jury Spent Two Hours at Scene—They Deliberated Over Two Hours Before Arriving at a Verdict—Report of the Proceedings at the Closing Session

> We find that William S. Symons came to his death on the night of December 23rd, 1911, as the result of a collision in the east end yard of the G. T. R., in the Township of Thurlow, County of Hastings, while in the discharge of his duty, and by no fault of his own. In our opinion, no blame can be attached to any member of the crews of the double-header manifest train or the crew of the shunting engine.
>
> The cause of the accident was a misplaced switch, and, in our opinion, Mossman neglected his duty to a certain extent; but, from the evidence submitted, we do not feel that all responsibility should be placed upon him, as the switch may have been tampered with by some person or persons unknown.

Such was the verdict rendered by the Coroner's Jury which was empanelled to enquire into the circumstances regarding the fatal collision which occurred in the G. T. R. yard here on Saturday night last. Yesterday afternoon the Jury, Coroner and County Attorney were taken to the scene of the accident in a special car provided by the G. T. R., and minutely examined the ground, the switches and working of trains at the point where the accident occurred. Yardmaster Hatton, who was present, explained the working of the switches and showed just how the accident occurred. The Jury were in the switch shanty where Mossman was seated when the ill-fated train passed from off the main line onto the side track where the collision occurred.

Returning to the police court room, the Coroner asked if there was any person present who could or desired to give any further evidence in the matter.

Mr. Anderson, County Attorney, then addressed the jury, explaining why inquests were held. The law demands that in cases where persons are killed in mines and on railways an inquest shall be held. This is one of the cases where the Coroner was compelled to issue his warrant for an inquest. All the evidence possible had been procured in this case. The Jury had heard the evidence. There is the fact that one man was killed and others injured, and it was the duty of the Jury to weigh carefully the evidence submitted. There was nothing to show that a person designedly caused this accident whereby a life was sacrificed. There were some important points the Jury would have to consider. The question was, was the west-bound freight train, by negligence on the part of any person, allowed to go on a side track instead of keeping on the main line. Another question to be considered was, was that train going at a speed that was unsafe at the point where the accident occurred? It was a manifest train intended to go through the yard here. If the switchman had kept the switch set for the main line the west-bound freight train would not have gone on to the side track. His explanation is that the switch was tampered with. There is no evidence that an engine passed over the switch, opening it automatically, as can be done by an engine backing over it. Another question to consider carefully was the evidence of Lord, the engineer of the leading engine of the double-header train. He swore that the train was going at a rate of speed of five or six miles an hour. Another witness said the train was going ten miles an hour, while Mossman testified that the train was going at 15 or 16 miles an hour. The question was was there negligence on the part of any person? If this is the case, and a person has violated any rules, then he is guilty of manslaughter. It was the duty of the Jury to render such a verdict as the evidence warranted.

Coroner Farley said this was an important matter for the Jury to [illegible]sider. Symons' death was caused by a collision, and the Jury must [illegible] what was the contributory cause which led to that collision. The cause of the collision had been shown to be an open switch. Why was that switch open? It was the duty of the switchman to see that no one tampered with the switch. The open switch was the primary cause of the accident. What was the contributory cause? These were matters the Jury would have to carefully look into.

The Jury then retired and deliberated for over two hours before they were able to arrive at a verdict.

Revolutionists are Eager to Resume Hostilities and Loot Manchu Millions

(Intelligencer Special)

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 29.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen's election to the Presidency of the Chinese republic must be ratified by a National Convention. While an extension of the armistice until after this formality seems likely, many revolutionary leaders are eager for an immediate resumption of hostilities in order to seize from the Manchu princes in Pekin their millions of treasure.

THREW VITRIOL AT AN OPERA SINGER

Jealous Lover Then Murdered Two Policemen and Committed Suicide

BUCHAREST, Dec. 28.—Crazed with jealousy Bodna Rescoul, a young Bulgarian, entered the room of Chiarina Giacoma, aged seventeen, a prominent Italian operatic singer yesterday and dashed a quantity of vitriol in her face.

A pedestrian and two policemen who tried to capture the man as he dashed from the girl's rooms, were shot to death. Rescoul committed suicide near the outskirts of the city when he was about to be surrounded by the police.

The opera singer was removed to a hospital, where doctors are trying to save her sight. She was noted for her great beauty. Her face was terribly burned.

Suicide In Sunday School.

Woodstock, Dec. 29.—Choosing as his death bed the platform in the Sunday school room of Dundas street Methodist Church, Joseph Rogers, a resident of this city, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by blowing his brains out with a 32-calibre revolver.

The body of the unfortunate man was found by an employe of a local firm, who went to lay some carpet in the Sunday school room. It was lying in a pool of blood, and the man's head was resting on his overcoat, which had been neatly folded before the shooting took place.

Rogers attended prayer meeting in the church the night before and it is thought that he remained in the building all night. The deceased is a married man, but has been living apart from his wife for some time.

CURRENT COMMENT

VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW IN EVERY WARD IN WHICH YOU HAVE A VOTE

King George got eighteen tigers, but one of them nearly got him.

Good advice to those whom it may concern is to get ready to turn over a new leaf.

It looks like a big majority for the by-law, but do not on that account fail to vote for it in every ward in which you are qualified. Rather, help to make the issue sure.

Daughter—"You are the best and dearest old dad that ever lived."

Father—"Let me think a minute. You've got a fur coat, a new hat, a new suit, an auto rig, and—what in thunderation can you want now?"

Smith had just made the discovery that he had moved next door to a friend.

"Hello, old man," said the friend, "who are you working for now?"

"Same people," was the reply, "a wife and five children."

The Intelligencer congratulates Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., City Solicitor and City Clerk of Belleville, on the high honor conferred upon him by the members of his profession in electing him to the office of President of the Ontario Bar Association. The honor which has been received by Mr. Mikel has been worthily won and reflects honor upon the city of his residence, where all his professional life has been passed.

THE BIG COUNCIL HAS BEEN A BIG FAILURE.

According to unofficial calculations the next House of Commons to be elected after the redistribution of the constituencies to meet the conditions shown by the census, will consist of 234 members, of whom fifty-six will come from the Provinces west of Ontario. In the present Parliament only thirty-five come from the region in question. The progress is notable, but even if it continues, it promises to leave the wise men of the East a good voice in shaping Canada's national business for a while yet.—Montreal Gazette.

The new civil service commission is losing no time in getting down to business, and it cannot get down to business too quickly. Apart from any question of graft and extravagance, the employment of entirely superfluous clerical assistance and wastefulness engendered by red-tapeism run riot, there is a consensus of opinion on the part of those who have opportunities for judging that the business methods in vogue in most of the departments are too antiquated and inefficient for belief. The sooner all this is corrected the better for the country.—Ottawa Citizen.

Count Boni de Castellane, who married Miss Gould for her wealth and then wasted it in riotous living, who then got divorced by his wife, who by and by married another French noble, has been moving heaven and earth, if the Vatican can be called that, to get himself proclaimed from the sacred chair as having been a blackguard from the first. In other words, he has tried, like some people nearer home, to get the Pope to declare that he never was married to Miss Gould, but deceived her into unsuspected degradation. The fact that the good Pope could not see his way clear to brand him such a villain does not make him it any the less.—Hamilton Spectator.

Every owner of his home ought to vote for the by-law, so that in the years to come he may have a voice in the election of ALL the aldermen.

Company's Big Profits.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Objections by counsel for the defence to evidence, which the Government seeks to introduce regarding the operations of the Kenwood Company and the Aetna Trading Company halted the packers' trial yesterday and caused Judge Carpenter to excuse the jury, pending the hearing of legal arguments

The Government contends that the Kenwood Company, which was organized by the packers in 1900, and continued in business until 1905, was one of the alleged pools used to market the packers bye-products. It is alleged that the Kenwood Company dealt in oleomargarine and the Aetna Trading Company in the same period, dealt casings.

The Government intends to show that the Kenwood Company's profits were $4,000,000 in one year, despite the fact that it was only incorporated with a capital stock of $14,000. The profits of the Aetna Trading Company are also alleged to have been proportionately large, by counsel for the Government.

Mr. Frank Hirpich, of Fairbanks, has Made Good His Boast.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 21.—After twelve years in Alaska, Frank Hirpich, of Fairbanks, returned to-day, bringing securities representing over $1,000,000.

"I said I would make it, and here it is. Now we will have a good Christmas dinner," was his comment.

Hirpich has a bank and other interests at Fairbanks and is an owner in valuable mining claims. He brought an English wife home with him.

Owing to infrequent mails he was several times mourned as dead by his relatives in Denver.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. W. W. Gould, of the Educational Department, Edmonton, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Chapman, left to-day for Campbellford, where he will spend a few days with his brother, Mr. Fred Gould.

Belleville is well represented in the governing board of the Ontario Bar Association, Col. W. N. Ponton being Historian and Chairman of Committees. Col. Ponton read an interesting paper on Legal History at the meeting yesterday.

BANKER GONE; SAFE EMPTY

Crowd Storms Mangini's Place, Demanding Money in Vain.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—Joseph Mangini of 772 South Seventh street, proprietor of one of the largest Italian banks here, has disappeared, leaving empty his safe, which should have contained $35,000 of his depositors' money. Giovanni Mangini of 33 Bleecker street, New York City, father of the banker, came here this morning and told friends he would see every depositor was paid.

Mangini went away ten days ago, announcing that he was going away on a business trip south. He did much work for southern railroads supplying laborers. Yesterday several Italians who had sent Christmas money home through him heard the money had not been received. The notification drew a crowd to the bank demanding that the safe be opened, There was a riot and the police were forced to use their clubs vigorously.

Mangini, who had been connected with his father's bank in New York, came here two years ago as manager for Caesare Conti's bank. It is said he sent his family to New York several days before his disappearance. G. Tumminillo got an attachment today against the bank furniture to cover a claim of $600.

MAN WAS DEAD WITH HIS DOG ON GUARD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 26.—An Irish terrier, the life-long companion of a "down and outer," for twelve hours stood guard over the body of his master, who was drowned in a street ditch on Monday night. The animal had to be held at bay with pitchforks before the police could get the body.

The dead man was Mike Gregory, 60 years old, well known to the police.

Neighbors noticed the dog's wailings on Tuesday morning, twelve hours after its master is supposed to have staggered into the ditch. They tried to drive the dog away, believing the man might be alive. The dog, growling and snapping, prevented them. Several shots were fired at the animal, which escaped unhurt. Then pitchforks were used, the dog being caught between the prongs and held at a distance while the body was placed in an ambulance.

The released dog, seeing his dead master taken away, went back to the scene of the drowning and remained there several hours wailing mournfully.

FLORIDA BOYS FIND TREASURE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 28.—Guarded by an ancient chart found in the ruins of a Spanish shellhouse on Fort George Island, two boys of this city, say they have unearthed Spanish treasure worth about $150,000.

They say the gold, silver, and copper coins were found in a strong box about one cubic foot in size buried six feet deep.

The boys are Loring M. Hewen, 17 years old, son of Prof. Shelby E. Hewen, vice-president and general manager of a local business college and John F. King, aged 18 years, son of a pilot at Mayport. Those who have seen the coins say they bear dates of more than a century ago.

AN EDUCATED ANIMAL
knows at a glance that our hay is the best product on the market.

Don't imagine for a minute that your horse doesn't know the difference between good and inferior feed. You can tell a tough from a tender steak, can't you? Well, your horse apreciates good oats as much as you prefer tender steak. To get the horse pleasing kind of grain and feed, buy here.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

Very Convenient.

An enterprising builder was one day in conversation with several friends, when he was accused of using inferior materials in the construction of houses which he had recently built. of which a gentleman arrived who A hot argument ensued in the midst lived in one of the jerry-built cottages, and the matter was referred to him

"Weel, sirs," said he, "I can assure ye they are the maist convenient hooses I ever abode in."

"But," said one of the listeners, "why convenient dae ye say."

"Oh, haud yer wheest till I explain. When first I cam' to bide in Mr. Jerry's hoose, I had to rise i' the middle o' the nicht an' open the door to let oot the cat; but the cat can gang oot an' come in noo thro' the cracks, an' I'm saved a lot o' bother."

No Resemblance.

"Now, Nora," said the departing physician to the Irish girl, who was nursing a bad case of fever, "if the patient sees snakes again, give him a dose of this medicine. I shall be in at six."

The hour for his return arrived. The physician once more visited the sick patient, and found him raving. He had been so, said the nurse, for hours.

"And did you give him the medicine?" inquired the puzzled doctor.

Nora shook her head.

"But didn't I tell you to give it to him if he saw snakes again?" demanded the physician.

"But he didnt say he saw snakes this toime, dochter," replied the nurse, confidently. "He said he saw red-white-and-blue turkeys wid straw hair on!"

Work for Women.

If the harem of Abdul Hamid finds itself out of employment because of the misfortunes of its imperial master, the ladies thereof will find plenty to do in this country where, thanks to a sudden famine in domestic servants, most of us are doing our own housework.

The worst of country society or for the matter of that the society of any community, is that every woman is eligible, but only a man here and there.

Village Nearly Wiped Out.

Trenton, Dec. 28.—The village of Frankford, about eight miles northeast of Trenton, was almost wiped out by a terrible fire which broke out last evening and was still blazing this morning. The fire started about 8.30 in the Streetman Hotel block, on the Frankford main street. In a very few minutes this was destroyed, and the flames spread to the Bremen Hotel adjoining. The fire then crossed to the south side of the street, which is the residential section, and four or five houses were wiped out in a very short time. Catching the north part of the business section, Ross' blacksmith shop and harness store were cleaned out, and before long all the south side of the main street from the Streetman block to the Bell Telephone office was destroyed.

Calls were sent in turn to Trenton, Belleville and Picton for assistance, but none was forthcoming. Trenton was unable to respond because it has only one engine. Belleville and Picton had to turn down the stricken village because they have no late train service.

Antique Things and Antique Minds.

Antique things are for antique minds. The mind that is capable of being attracted to antiques ought to be steam-cleaned, overhauled, tar-papered, and laid away in moth balls in a musty attic, filled with love letters, and family skeletons. There it should be felt until the family moves, when it should be thrown into a pile with other truck, from whence it goes to form the substratum of some new real-estate alotment but recently reclaimed from pulsing tides or stagnant swamps.

An antique mind should not be put in an insane asylum. Such an environment would be altogether too rational. On the other hand, there is some hope for the mind that is satisfied with modern things made in imitation of the antique. That is to say, any mind that doesn't look beyond the label is a material assistance to business. If you must lean toward antiques, do not be too particular about the age of the articles offered.

The man whose wife seems to think he is merely a piece of furniture to be sat upon is entitled to a lot more sympathy than he gets.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medical forest plants. THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

He eyed me in his customary serious, intent manner. I amplified:

"I haven't the least idea, you know Perhaps I could name a dozen, perhaps a score; but there might be five hundred. Anyhow, I have to search them all—or, until I find what I want."

"The deuce you have!" he jerked out. "Anything to do with your ruby case?"

"Everything," said I.

"Well!" He stared at me for a moment, then with a sudden movement whipped the fur lap-robe aside. "Get in here, he commanded, in his abrupt manner.

The next instant I was seated beside him, and his spirited mare was dashing along the street at a pace which I regarded as altogether too reckless. Dr. De Breen had a weakness for spirited horses, and he handled them with a careless ease that never failed to excite in me a secret envy; for—I here confess it—I always have been a bit afraid of horses, whether spirited or not; not much, but just enough to make me cautious. I never take any liberties with even a blind and spavined derelict.

"What d'ye want to find?" he bluntly asked, after we had ridden the better part of five minutes in silence.

"A disabled Burmese," was the reply. "I trust to find some part of his upper-works in a more or less damaged condition."

"Burmese!" he echoed in an exclamation. "Good. I win. Larrimer bet me five he was a Javanese." The doctor sniffed scornfully. "Devilish lot Larrimer knows about ethnology." He then became lucid.

"Larimer's head at the Drevel Hospital, y'know; deuced clever at the operating-table, but set in his ideas. Lord dynamite wouldn't move him; stubborn's no name for it.

"Your Burmese is there: triple fracture of the left parietal, left clavicle and bladebone badly crushed; trephined him last night. Beggar'll die."

"It certainly sounds serious enough," commented I. "Is the parietal a part of his upper works?"

He jabbed with the tip of one gloved finger the side of my head nearest him, which happened to be the right.

"That's your right parietal," he explained; "the left one's on the other side."

"Thank Heaven for sending you across my path this day!"—fervently "That's my man."

The doctor was a good deal of a scoffer. "Heaven had nothing to do with it," said he, with unnecessary asperity. "I knew you'd be wanting to see him; I was hunting for you. Beggar speaks English fairly well, and he let out a word or two that made me think he knew something you ought to know. . . . Whoa! Jump out!"

We entered the hospital, and soon were at the bedside of the dying man. The operation had relieved the brain from the pressure of the fractured skull, and the man's wanderings were interspersed with rational periods, during which his story was taken down in shorthand, with infinite difficulty, by the hospital stenographer. I have taken the liberty of preparing a summary from the long rambling account, sufficient to show my justification for anticipating that the case was on the eve of taking an unexpected turn, and to satisfy the curious respecting certain aspects of the ruby's history.

The man, whose name was Chaya, was a priest of the temple at Tounghain, Upper Burma, "where the sublime Da-Fou-Jan sits in eternal meditation among the thousand caverns that lie beyond Mandalay." His companions were also priests, and Tshen-byo-yen was a wealthy noble of the district, whose family was accountable to the king for the safeguarding of the temple's sacred relic—the "Heart of Budda." Thus was the great ruby known, and the rich crimson jewel was averred by tradition to be nothing less holy than the actual blood of "the Perfectly Enlightened One," bestowed upon mankind in an imperishable form.

Naturally, the gem was greatly venerated and not to be profaned by impious hands. But in the time of Tshen's father, it was stolen from the temple by an English adventurer, who succeeded in escaping out of the country with it and making his way to London.

However, a curse went with the ruby. In the temple its influence was beneficent, its crimson glow benignant and abounding with blessings for all true believers; but when desecrated by the plundering vandal's touch it became a great power for evil.

Therefore it came to pass that by the time the reckless Englishman set foot upon his native soil he was only too glad to part with his ill-gotten treasure at almost any price. He was in rags, starving and broken in health.

Thus it was that the rough, uncut gem passed into the possession of Luiz Paternostro.

The recovery of the Heart of Budda straightway became a sacred charge upon all the priests. Tshen's father devoted his entire fortune to the cause. With infinite patience, laboring tirelessly, the Burmese never lost sight of their precious relic; but in England they soon found that conditions were vastly different from those of their home country. It was impossible to approach the object which they coveted; and their opinion of legal redress was based upon their familiarity with what passed for justice in Burma. But they never grew disheartened; and at last their opportunity came.

It was Tshen's father who slew Paternostro. It was he who won undying honor by recovering the jewel. It was he who, hard-pressed by the police, was obliged to seek the nearest sanctuary, which happened to be France. The rest we know.

But the gem still carried its baleful spell, for we also know how the expert whom the Paternostros carried with them to Paris, was drowned just as the homeward-bound vessel was entering Dover harbor.

So much for the ruby's eventful history.

Chaya's declaration also confirmed my conclusions respecting Burke's designed imposition upon Alfred Fluette—which, by the way, he seemed to regard as perfectly legitimate. And then it concluded with the most important matter of all.

On the night of Felix Page's murder, while his companions were all in the second story, Chaya had remained on guard below. He had watched Page following Burke up-stairs, after the robbery, but could not warn the thief without alarming the pursuer.

After the struggle began in the hall, Chaya harkened to it a while, then dashed up the rear stairs to take a hand, in case the jewel was to be snatched from his companions at the very moment of victory. He passed through the bath room during the brief period Burke was in his own room informing Tshen of the state of affairs, entered the hall, where, by the dim light of the solitary candle, the two men were locked in combat. The struggle was so furious that his presence was not noticed. He proceeded to the north-east angle of the balustrade, where he crouched around the corner and followed through the balusters the uncertain issues of the fight.

He watched the two chief actors so intently, in fact, that he failed to perceive Burke snatch up the supposed ruby from the floor; but he did see Page wrest the leather case from Fluette.

Now was the time for him to act. He was armed with a black-jack—a ball of lead wrapped in leather and with a short, flexible leather handle—and just as Fluette grabbed up the iron candle-stick he plunged forward.

(To be Continued.)

SHACKLETON'S EMPHATIC STYLE

The great explorer not always choice in his Words.

When Sir Ernest Shackleton was in the depths of the Antarctic regions on his trip toward the South Pole, he kept a diary describing the adventures he had every day, the kind of country he traversed, the weather, and all the details of the journey. He wrote his notes in a free and emphatic style, using the adjectives and phrases which seemed best suited to impress his meaning on those who might read the volume at a later time.

After he had just missed reaching the pole and had returned to civilization as the man who had gone "farthest south," he was asked to print a book about his experiences. He hurriedly edited his diary and turned it over to the publishers. A few days after the book appeared in the shops he began to get letters from religious folks, upbraiding him for a sentence he had used in describing a certain stretch of country over which he had traveled.

Shackleton looked it up and found he had not edited out all the emphatic language he had used in the original. The sentence, to which objection had been made, read as follows: "The surface of this section plays hell with the feet."

Prince Arthur as Footman.

Prince Arthur of Connaught who will probaly come out to Canada with his father, or "young Arthur," as he is usually known about the Court and to his intimate friends, was once stationed at Aldershot, where some engagement had prevented him from changing into the prescribed uniform before going to a State ball.

Consequently he turned up in a suit of ordinary dress-clothes. One of the ladies — she is fairly well known in society — was departing, when she saw what she took to be one of the Court footmen, and ordered him, in none too polite terms, to find her carriage for her.

His Royal Highness fell into the spirit of the joke, and promptly did as he was told. The lady's carriage was summond, when, to his utter astonishment, she pressed half a sovereign into his palm, remarking, "I know I am quite wrong in doing that, but don't say a word about it; I hope you will shortly improve your position!"

Some people are so conceited that they are actually jealous of themselves.

THE OLD HOME.

(By Jeffery Hume).

(Copyright by Publishers' Press, Ltd)

Mrs. Chatham had made one trousseau, working at it with painstaking care — hemstitching, embroidering, with weary hands working often when her tired eyes rebelled. She had sewed hope and fear, love and faith in every stitch she set. The finished trousseau had been a thing of beauty. Now, she thought to herself with a sigh, it looked as if another one would have to be begun before summer. There was no mistaking the meaning of two, three, sometimes four, visits a week. There could be no objection and Gertrude was one and twenty.

"Quite old enough," the mother mused. "I had been married three years when I was her age. But—I wish she didn't want to leave me so soon. I've lost all my boys. Now the girls are going. Pretty soon there'll be no one left but baby. Thank heaven, no one can take her for years!"

Yet it was far from a cloudless time to her. One by one her three boys had married, settling so far away that visiting was out of the question. Then had come the wrench of parting with her oldest girl. She felt it to be hard, even while she acknowledged it to be natural. Now there came to her a premonition of the desolation which would descend on the old house when Gertrude was gone. The poor old house. Once the capacity of its rambling space had been sorely taxed. Soon it would be all too large. She knew how lonely it would be when only baby and herself were left, and baby, away at school most of the time. She did not look ahead to the time when Baby, a baby no longer, would leave the old home, too. If the thought ever occurred to her it was banished by the comforting one, "Maybe I'll die before then."

As well prepared as she had been, as carefully as she had schooled herself, when the expected happened it came as a blow. The boyish lover trembled no more than she. But she gave her consent graciously enough and began to thrust busy fingers into the intricacies of a second trousseau.

Daily she waited for the announcement of the future place of residence. That it would be far away she did not doubt—in the home town of the bridegroom to be. There seemed a fatality about it. Other girls married and lived near home; other boys did the same. But her boys had taken their wives' homes for their own; her girl had followed in the beaten path her husband had trod before her.

"Gertrude'll do the same," she thought. "I wish she could have fancied someone who lived near Then I could have been content to give her up. Now she'll go away like the others, and I'll seldom see her—perhaps never. I'm getting old. But there's no one to care. Children are different from what they used to be. There used to be home gatherings in my day. They'd come home from the ends of the earth. But the boys have never come—not even for Thanksgiving. I've never seen my our grandchildren. I doubt if they've ever heard my name. I suppose I'm selfish, but——"

Tears fell fast on the dainty work she held. They often fell as the days went on—almost always when she sewed alone. She choked them back when Gertrude worked beside her. And Gertrude never guessed that the eyes bent down so persistently, even when she talked, were too dim to bear inspection.

One night her sweetheart nearly blundered out the secret, if secret it were. He had been talking of his home, of his father's second marriage.

"I never could get on with my stepmother," he said, "though she's a good woman in a way. I wouldn't live near her for anything. She'd find a black speck in a bank of snow. I'm glad we're going to live——"

And shortly afterward the mother had excused herself and left them to talk without restraint. She went up to her room and lay quietly on the bed. The room seemed very peaceful and still. From downstairs came the jarring notes from Baby's practising fingers. But they fell like balm on the mother's heart. She still had Baby—her own for years and years. She hugged the thought to her heart. Presently there came a soft tap at the door. She did not speak, but it opened cautiously.

"Are you asleep, mother?" said Gertrude's voice.

She waited a moment, intending to feign sleep. She had never failed in all her life, even when they were tiny, troublesome things, to answer when they called. Even in her dreams she had heard their voices; she had never been too tired or sleepy to respond. She would not begin now. "No," she answered, "no, Gertrude."

Gertrude sat down on the bed beside her. "Alfred made me come up," she said. "He wouldn't wait, though it just spoils everything. But, mother, he had an idea you were hurt. Isn't it ridiculous, and just like a man? But, anyway, he insisted that I should tell you where we're going to live."

The mother's hasty voice interrupted. "You musn't tell. I don't want to know. I will not force your confidence."

"You aren't," Gertrude observed, complacently. "Not a bit. It's Alfred, and he vows you shall know. It spoils the nicest surprise. Alfred is going to go into business—guess where And we're going to live—guess where!"

She paused. The mother did not speak.

"Here, here, here. Right in the old house with you. I thought you'd be kind of lonely. I thought you'd like it. Mother, I wouldn't ever get married if I had to go away. I couldn't bear it. You'll let us stay home, won't you?"

Don't Talk Too Much.

When we are in the company of sensible men, we ought to be doubly cautious of talking too much, lest we lose two good things — their good opinion and our own improvement; for what we have to say we know, but what they have to say we know not.

That Mailing Privilege

The Toronto News returns to the subject of subsidizing the party press out of the public treasury and exposes the plan by which it was done. Had the Laurierites been retained in power, the Toronto Globe would have been much richer to-day than it is. The News says:

> "During the Federal election campaign this same newspaper secured mailing privileges for its campaign circulation that were denied to its contemporaries who resisted ratification of the trade agreement with Washington. As to this charge there should be no misunderstanding. In the House of Commons just before prorogation Mr. Lemieux pledged his word and the honor of the Government that no newspaper of any political faith would be allowed to send out papers to non-subscribers at the regular rates of postage. The law as interpreted by Mr. Lemieux was applied to newspapers which gave their support to the Conservative party, while this Toronto organ of the Liberal party was permitted to send out from fifty to seventy thousand free copies a day, paid for out of the Liberal campaign fund, at the regular rates of postage, and in direct violation of Mr. Lemieux's solemn and categorical pledge to Parliament. When the campaign was over and the Liberal Government was defeated The News was asked to apply for the return of the cheques it had paid for excess postage. The plain object was to get evidence to justify the treatment accorded to its privileged contemporary. The News declined to fall into the trap, to be bribed into silence by the return of its money. Fortunately there is to be no more of such deliberate and brazen injustice nor any long continuation of the enormous subsidy now granted to two or three morning newspapers."

What would be thought of a Government which would permit one merchant of its political faith to import dutiable goods free, and exact the full duty from the importer who dared to differ from and oppose the same Government? Would it not be denounced as defrauding the revenue of the Dominion to the extent of the duty that should have been paid? Most people, being honest, would reply, yes! Yet how much better was the granting of this postage privilege? None!

Hudson Bay

Telegrams from Ottawa of the 26th inst. say:

"There is to be no delay in the construction of the Hudson Bay line as is evidenced by the fact that J. D. McArthur, the big western railway contractor, who was awarded the tender for the first section by the late Government, has been notified that he will proceed with the work.

"The contract was held up temporarily until Hon. Frank Cochrane looked into the question of the proper terminals, route and harbor. He is convinced the line should be built from Le Pas whether it is a main line or a branch and work will be proceeded with at once.

"One of the biggest problems is the question of transportation of western produce when it reaches the Bay. It is possible the Government may have to build a Government owned line of steamers."

If this road is to be built the sooner it is done the better, though we have not the faith in its usefulness that many have. To make it a success, however, the Cochrane scheme of steamers built for navigating the Hudson Bay route is beyond doubt the most practical solution of the question.

Naval Discipline

According to the London correspondent of the Montreal Star, a measure known as the Naval Discipline (Dominion Naval Forces) Act, passed by the British House of Commons at the beginning of the present month, and at present under consideration by the House of Lords, has an interesting application to the Canadian naval situation.

Under this Act, when the Government of any of the self-governing Dominions—specified as Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and Newfoundland—decides to make applicable to the naval forces raised by the Dominion the British Naval Discipline Act of 1866, this is tantamount to placing those naval forces, both ships and men, under the British Admiralty, so far as the application of naval discipline to them is concerned.

There is one reservation, however, and that is in regard to the trial by court-martial of officers and men belonging to the naval forces of the self-governing Dominions.

In such cases, the provisions of the British Naval Discipline Act, governing the conduct of courts-martial will only apply with such modifications and adaptations (if any, as may have been made in the law of the dominion to adapt the British Act to the circumstances of the Dominion.

In other words, the conduct of a court-martial will be governed by the law of the Dominion concerned, and not by the rules of the British Naval Discipline Act.

If, however, the forces of any self-governing Dominion have been placed at the disposal of the British Admiralty ,then the British Naval Discipline Act applies to such forces without any modification or reservation.

That is to say, immediately the ships and forces of any self-governing Dominion have been placed at the service of the British Admiralty, the ships and personnel are subject to all the rules and regulations governing the British Navy, without any kind of modification or reservation.

It is specifically provided that the Act shall only come into operation in relation to the self-governing Dominions after the latter have made provision for its application to the naval forces established by them.

HE KILLED A HOLD-UP MAN WHILE IN HIS FATHER'S GRASP

Young Hoffman Fires While His Parent Struggles With Thief in Undertaking Shop—Crowd Sees Fight's End—Masked Man Had Robbed Hoffmans

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Many persons saw a girl run from the undertaking shop of Charles Hoffman at 111 Jackson street, Hoboken, N.J., at 6.10 o'clock last night. She was screaming and calling for the police. Half a dozen men ran toward the shop and saw through the big window Mr. Hoffman struggling with a man whose face was concealed by a black mask, and whose hand held a revolver, which Mr. Hoffman also grasped and kept pointed toward the ceiling. Charles Hoffman, jr., a youth of about 24 was circling about his father and his opponent, a revolver clutched in his hand, waiting apparently for a chance to use it without danger to his father.

The watchers stood transfixed, and presently they saw young Hoffman dart in and grapple with the man also. An instant later there came a revolver shot and the man collapsed in the arms of the elder Hoffman, who relaxed his hold on the other's throat and let him fall to the floor. Then the crowd rushed into the store.

The elder Hoffman was weak from the strain of his encounter and his right hand was cut and torn by the sharp edges of the revolver which he had tried to wrest from his opponent's hand. Young Hoffman was white and excited. He held his revolver in his hand and stood looking at the man on the floor before him. There was a hole in the left breast of the prostrate man's coat and from it blood had begun to come.

"I shot him," cried the younger Hoffman, "some one get a doctor."

They had been seated in the rear of the store in front of a desk, said they, awaiting the summons to dinner and meantime going over some figures of their business. They heard the store door open, and looked up to see a man who had entered, turn his back to them for a moment, and then swinging suddenly about came toward them, his face half concealed by a big black silk muffler, which he had pulled up for a mask. In his hand was a revolver.

Father and son had risen as the man entered, and now they stood still startled by the man's appearance. He pointed his revolver at them.

"Don't you move till I tell you," the man said. "If you do, I'll fire."

The Hoffmans stood quietly, and the intruder, satisfied, apparently, that he had them cowed, ordered the younger son to search the father and pass to him everything of value that the father wore.

"Be quick about it, too," ordered the hold-up man, and young Hoffman feeling the muzzle of the revolver upon him, hastily went through his father's pockets, abstracting about $12 in cash, and then removed his diamond ring, the studs from his shirt, his link buttons, and his watch and chain.

The robber accepted these at arm's length, still keeping the revolver wavering from one man to the other, and having crammed the valuables into his trousers' pocket with scarcely a look at them, ordered the father to repeat the search on his son. Mr. Hoffman handed over a diamond ring and a watch, as well as several pieces of jewelry which the younger Hoffman wore, and the robber was backing toward the door of the store, holding his revolver still pointed at the Hoffmans, when Hermina Ferthling, maid for the Hoffmans, opened the store door to summon the father and son to their dinner in their apartments above.

The girl got one glance at the man with the revolver, and then rushed from the store screaming. Her cry startled the hold-up man so that he glanced behind him. His attention was distracted only for an instant, but that was long enough for Mr. Hoffman, a big man, to spring upon him.

First he clutched at the revolver and then closed his other hand on the robber's throat. The man fought back fiercely, and instantly the men were squirming and twisting about the store, one striving to hold his advantage, the other trying to wrest his revolver free.

"Get your gun, Charles," called the father as he struggled, and the younger man ran to the desk and got his revolver from the drawer.

But he feared to use it lest he would wound his father. In the rear of the store several men were employed in the Hoffman stable, and thinking to attract their attention, young Hoffman sent one bullet into the ceiling. Apparently the report of the shot was not heard, for no one came, and at last young Hoffman saw his chance, closed with the robber and fired. It was then the crowd rushed in.

The hold-up man's body was taken to the police station where the valuables were found in his pockets. In addition there was about $7 in change and two union cards, one of the shipbuilders' union and the other of a local of the International Boiler Makers. Each bore the name of Arthur J. Swingle, and the address as Gulfport, Miss. There was nothing else to identify him by.

Young Hoffman was arrested for the shooting, but was immediately paroled after he and his father had told their story.

GET MARRIED OFTEN TO ROB CLERGY

Young Man Gives $20 Bogus Check and Gets $10 in Real Money

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—A young man and a pretty girl are working a new swindle which has engaged the attention of the police, who have so far failed to locate the couple. Their victims are ministers. The scheme consists in simply having a marriage ceremony performed and paying for it with a bogus check of sufficiently large amount to insure the return of some cash in change.

The police have the names of several ministers who have been victimized in this way, but not one of them has consented to press a charge against the young couple even should they be caught. Detectives Fitzpatrick and Brown say it would be hard to convict the couple even if they catch them, unless some minister will appear as complainant.

The Rev. W. F. Kerney, of 23 West Twenty-fifth Street first called the swindle to the attention of the police on Oct. 23 last. Since then the police have received complaints from several other ministers. The couple called at Mr. Kerney's home and said they wanted to be married: The minister asked them if they had a license, and the young man, who said he was Eugene Keller, of 247 West Thirty-sixth Street, promptly produced one.

Mr. Kerney promptly performed the ceremony, the young man and the girl thanking him heartily and the former producing a check for $20 on the Greenwich bank with apologies and an explanation that his circumstances would allow him to give only $10 to the minister.

Mr. Kerney was willing to oblige the young man, and took his check, giving $10 in exchange. A day or so later the check was returned marked no funds. Mr. Kerney refused to get a warrant, declaring that he wished to avoid the notoriety which must follow. More complaints from ministers followed.

GIRL CARRIED SICKLE TO KILL

Young Girl Caught in Male Attire While She Sought Her Abductor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—A slender figure in a long overcoat and slouch hat, slipping in and out of tenement doorways in First Avenue near 109th Street, aroused the suspicions of Policeman Von Weisenstein of the East 104th Street station last night. As he grasped the overcoat sleeve there was a cry and a girl peered up at him from under the slouch hat. Then she clapped her hands to her face and began to cry, letting fall as she did so a sickle, which she had held under her coat.

Von Weisenstein took her to the station house, where she said her name was Annie Dominier, 17 years old, of 2,126 First Avenue. She said she had been looking for Genero Staracio, a former employee of her father. She meant to be revenged on Staracio, who she said, enticed her to a house in New Haven, Conn., early in November and had kept her a prisoner there for twenty-eight days.

Staracio, she said, was about forty years old, and he brought here a telegram from her mother, who was away on a visit, telling of her mother's illness in New Haven and her desire to see her daughter. Her father was away, and the girl accompanied Staracio. He threatened her with a revolver, and always kept locked up, but once when he was out she broke down a door and escaped to a neighbor, where she got money to reach home.

Tuesday, she said, Staracio called at her home while her father was out and threatened to kill her if she told of her trip with him. Again yesterday he called and demanded money. Then she decided to kill him.

The girl was held for masquerading in men's clothes and for carrying a weapon. Detectives were sent to look for Staracio.

DAYLIGHT CRIME IN PARIS

PARIS, Dec. 28.—The latest sensational murder here occurred in the heart of one of the crowded thoroughfares of the city. A bank messenger who carried a satchel containing $60,000 was stopped by four bandits. They invited the messenger to turn the satchel over to them and when he refused and offered resistance they shot him dead. The thieves then seized the satchel and jumped into a waiting automobile. The murder and robbery was witnessed by thousands of amazed and frightened people.

AN ABSENT-MINDED LAWYER

Two Good Stories of an Irishman.

Prominent among the members of the Irish Bar in its early years was Peter Burrowes. Although successful in his profession, he seems to have been subject to absence of mind in an unusual degree. A brother-lawyer who went to call upon him early one morning found Burrowes watching over a saucepan in which his watch was boiling merrily away, while his eyes were anxiously directed to an egg in his left hand. On another occasion he was counsel for the prosecution at an important trial for murder. Burrowes had a severe cold, and opened his speech with a box of cough-lozenges in one hand, and in the other the small pistol-bullet by which the man had met his death. Between the pauses of his address he kept supplying himself with lozenges. But at last, in the very midst of a sentence, he stopped. His chest heaved, his eyes seemed starting from their sockets, and in an agonised voice he shouted. "Oh-h-h, gentlemen, gentlemen, I've swallowed the bul-let!"

Two Ribs Broken.

Several people saw him slip on a wet step and fall. Partly extricating himself from his umbrella he set up such a wall of distress that every one in hearing ran to his assistance regardless of the drenching rain.

"Are you hurt?" asked a chorus of voices.

"Anything broken?" demanded another.

"Only two ribs," he muttered in tones of deep anguish as he wiped his bleared face on his sleeve.

Helping him up, a kind man dragged him into a drug store. One thoughtful person suggested a glass of brandy; another, more generous, said there were two ribs broken, and a second glass followed the first.

"That 'll make you feel better, old man. Ribs hurt you now?"

"What ribs?" he puzzled, smacking his lips.

"Why, the ones you said were broken!"

"Oh," he replied, getting on his feet and moving toward the door. "Dey was de ribs in me umbrella."

Benevolent old lady who has just given a penny to a small rustic: "Now, my dear, what do you say?" Small rustic, with native politeness: "Give us another!" Collapse of old lady.

LORDS AS MUSICIANS.

Many Peers can make a living by Singing.

The recent announcement that Lord Wolverhampton has achieved considerable distinction in the musical world by composing several tuneful songs, although he has never studied music and plays only by ear, reminds one of the accomplishments of Lord Kinnoull, who plays both organ and piano beautifully, and composes and sings well. It was he who composed the hymn that was sung by the choir on the occasion of his marriage in 1903. Lady Kinnoull, by the way, is an expert violinist. Then there are Lord Tollemache, who is a good 'cellist, and Lord Shaftesbury, who possesses a magnificent tenor voice which is often heard in church, and which once led an enterprising American impresario to offer his lordship $150,000 to go on a concert tour through the United States.

Tit for Tat.

The following funny incident happened in one of the largest Edinburgh auction-rooms. A big, stout lady, apparently of the broker class, had ensconced herself comfortably in an arm-chair, and in due course began bidding for a table, on which a tired-looking man, for want of something to sit upon, affectionately leant. Competition was brisk, but in the end the table was knocked down to the stout lady, who no sooner recognized that it was now her property than, stretching out her arm, she sharply rapped her knuckles on it, exclaiming: —

"Hey, man!"

But the tired-looking man paid no attention, so she next poked him with her umbrella, and said, with greater asperity than ever: —

"Lean of that table, will you? It's my property, and you'll scratch it."

The leaner regarder her fixedly for a moment or two but did as requested. He did more, however: for, pulling a scrap of paper from his pocket, he put it under the lady's nose with the quiet remark: —

"D'ye see that number there, mam? And d'ye see that?" and he next indicated a corresponding number on the arm-chair she was seated on. "Well, then," he continued, when she had acquiesced, with a wondering nod of the head, "git [illegible] it's my chair and I want to sit [illegible]n."

And off she ha[illegible]get.

A Heavy Smoke

The editor of a certain periodical was rash enough to remove a few lines from a poem which he had accepted, whereupon the author wrote him a letter which wound up thus—"And now, O slaughterer, vivisector, mangler, maimer, destroyer, disfigurer, deformer, defacer, crippler, mutilator, good-bye! Put this in your pipe and smoke it!"

HOW TO VOTE ON THE BY-LAW

The by-law which is to be voted upon on Monday next is in exactly the following form:

January 1st, 1912. Voting on By-Law respecting the Council of the City of Belleville.	FOR THE BY-LAW.
	AGAINST THE BY-LAW.

This form is so indefinite that explanation is necessary in order that the average voter may know just what it means.

The by-law proposes to abolish the ward system, with its big Council of twenty-one members, and to substitute for it a Council of ten members, to be elected by the vote of the whole city.

All who desire to have a voice in the election of all the men who are to spend their money will vote for the by-law.

Under the present system, the elector who is assessed in but one ward can vote on the election of but three members of a Council of twenty-one members.

Under the general system, which the by-law, if carried, will bring into operation, the elector so assessed can, as above explained, vote for ten members of a Council of ten.

Therefore, place your X in the upper compartment of the ballot paper, and

VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW.

THE FUR MEN DON'T NEED THE RUSSIAN FOX SKINS

Skins of the Animal are No Longer in Demand by the Fashionables

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Fur dealers here are not much concerned over yesterday's cabled reports that the Russian Government has passed an edict prohibiting the killing of white fox in that country for the next five years. They agreed that the law would not seriously affect the market here, as, although the skins have become popular, enough can be obtained from the northern section of the country, Alaska, and the arctic region, to supply the demand. The fur of the Alaskan white fox is of a much finer quality than that of the Russian white fox, it is said.

The dealers were also agreed that they had more serious things to worry about that the latest step by Russia to prevent the annihiliation of the white fox. They mentioned among these the growing scarcity of the Alaskan sealskins and the Russian sables. Hugo Jaeckel of the firm of H. Jaeckel & Sons, was one of those who prophesied that there would be no "famine" in the white fox market.

"We are getting all we want at from $6 to $15 a skin," he said. "But that is not true of the Russian sable, against the killing of which there was a law passed by Russia last fall. They are worth from $100 to $500, and they are going very rapidly."

Julius Klugman, another dealer, picked out Russian sable, Alaskan seal, and black and silver fox hides which were becoming rapidly more difficult to obtain. The skunk skin, too, he said, was in great demand.

"There will be no trouble about getting the white fox" he said. "Why I know of one man who brought back from 700,000 to 800,000 hides from the Alaska district last year. The killing there is carried on in February, March and April, and they get plenty of them. They are of fine quality."

Mr. Klugman predicted that legislation would soon be passed to prevent the killing of the Alaskan seal, and that this legislation would mean an increase of from 40 to 50 per cent in the wholesale price of the skins for a few years. A fine grade of sealskin now costs wholesale from $85 to $100 a skin, he said, and as it takes from ten to twelve hides to make a coat, the cost runs anywhere from $1.200 to $2,500. The sealskins have not been selling well recently.

"There has not been a great demand for Russian sables lately, either," said Mr. Klugman. "Those that come from Russia are the best, of course. Fifteen or twenty years ago a good grade of Russian sable cost from $40 to $50 a skin. Now they come as high as $200 or $300 a skin. How do I account for so great an increase? Why there were more of the skins, and then the world is growing larger every day, and there are more people in it who want furs."

The greatest demand for furs is in Europe, and the prices are practically fixed in the London market. One dealer predicted that St. Louis would soon become the "fur centre of America."

How to prevent the extermination of the animals which provide the furs that have become so popular was a question which none of the dealers were prepared to answer definitely. Legislation providing a heavy penalty was suggested as the obvious way, and that would mean an increase in the cost of skins because of the inability of the dealers to obtain more than a limited number.

There are some skins, the dealers said, which are almost impossible to obtain. Among these were named the black fox and silver fox, and a certain rare Russian beaver. A good black Alaskan fox, one dealer said, ought to be worth about $2,500 now.

FERTILIZER TAKEN FROM THE SEA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The United States will not have to depend on Germany much longer for its potash with which to make fertilizer Secertary of Agriculture Wilson stated to-day. In the near future the United States should be able not only to supply its own needs, but also to export a considerable amount of potash, he said.

The principal source of American potash, the experts of the agriculture report, will be in the kelp, or sea weed of the Pacific Coast. The plant extracts potash salts from sea water and from 25 to 35 per cent, of its weight is potassium chloride. The Pacific coast should yield annually about 1,000,000 tons, worth about $40,000,000.

The success of your aim may depend upon the target. It's much easier to hit a cow than a rabbit.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT MERRY SANTA CLAUS

Children of New Edinburgh, 220 Strong, Had a Royal Christmas Tree

OTTAWA, Dec. 28.—The children of New Edinburgh, the ward in which Rideau Hall is located, are boasting it over their less fortunate brothers and sisters these days, and rightly so, for have they not pulled crackers with Princess Pat and received gifts from the hands of the Duke himself.

About one hundred and twenty of them marched in a body to Rideau Hall. After their wraps were removed they were ushered into the racquet court, where a sumptuous repast was spread on several tables gaily decorated in Christmas fashion. Then their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess and the Princess Patricia, accompanied by their whole staff, entered and greeted their guests. The children soon lost all trace of their first shyness and awkwardness under the genial influence of their royal entertainers, who themselves waited upon the party as they enjoyed their tea.

Pretty Princess Patricia pulled a cracker with nearly every child in the room, while the Duke insisted on their donning the caps and aprons which they contained, and there was great fun over the jokes and riddles.

Then, two and two, they passed into the ballroom to the music of a pianola and there a most magnificent Christmas tree was displayed to their delighted gaze. They marched around the room three times, then the Duchess presented each child and teacher with a Union Jack, and the Duke himself dismantled the beautiful tree of its gifts, one of which he gave to each of those present, with appropriate and merry little speeches.

There was great excitement over all the lovely gifts, and when three cheers were called for their Royal Highnesses and for the King they were given with exceeding heartiness.

The singing of God Save the King brought the party to a close, but when they came downstairs, after donning their wraps, their Royal Highnesses with their staff were there to say good-bye, and each child was dismissed with an extra present of an orange, a bun, and bag of candy.

So, laden with gifts and beaming with happiness, they tumbled out into the night, mentally certain that no mythical Santa Claus could ever be half as delightful as his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught.

EXPLORER FINDS A LOST CITY

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Dr. Bingham, assistant professor of Latin-American history at Yale, who set out to find lost cities of the pre-Inca period in Peru, returned to-day quite satisfied with the result of his expedition. The expedition found one of the cities covered with a cornfield on a plateau about 2,000 feet above the valley of the river Urumbamba.

The explorers were attracted to the plateau by Indians, who told them of the existence of remarkable relics there.

"We found ruins of buildings almost palatial, constructed of white granite," said Dr. Bingham. "We were the first white men, I fancy, who had ever seen this city since the time of Pizarro, 400 years ago. The stones of the houses were beautifully jointed and the cutting perfect. We could not bring any of the specimens with us, as the Peruvian Government will not let any of the ruins be taken from the country.

HIS FORTUNE IS TOO LATE

Parents Dead When Man Returns With Wealth—Missing 14 Years.

SOMERVILLE, N.J., Dec. 28.—Fourteen years ago Patrick Tierney, then a clerk in the store of Thomas & Co., of this city, suddenly disappeared. He lived with his parents at Raritan, one mile from here. He was on good terms with both his family and his employers, and as all his accounts were found to be straight to a penny, his disappearance at that time was a great mystery.

Tierney's parents recalled the fact that he had talked a great deal of going to the Alaska gold fields and had boasted that he would never return until he could bring back nuggets of gold that would enable the old folks to live in comfort for the remainder of their lives.

Michael Tierney, the father, was a workingman with a large family. Five years after his son's disappearance he received a short letter from him from Cape Nome, Alaska. The letter indicated that Patrick had been through hardships and had not struck it rich. After this there was a long silence, although the old man tried in vain to get in communication with his son and eagerly read all the news from the Alaska gold fields.

Last Friday night a well dressed young man, carrying two heavy suitcases, alighted from a passenger train at the Raritan railroad station. He looked in wonder at the handsome rustic stone station before him, which had been recently built and seemed to doubt whether he had got off at the right place. Pulling his slouch hat down, he grabbed his suitcases and walked briskly up the street to the old Tierney homestead, where he knocked at the door. He asked for Mr. and Mrs. Michael Tierney. A strange woman told him that Michael Tierney had died about five years ago and his wife about a year or two later, and that all their children had moved away from the town. The young man staggered back and grabbed a pillar of the portico for support. He then made it known that he was Patrick Tierney and was in search of his parents.

He later looked up a number of his old friends. Among these were William A. Green, a real-estate dealer, and Frederick A. Thomas, his former employer. To his friends he confessed that he was heart-broken to find his parents gone. He returned to make good the promise of his youth, and had brought with him as a Christmas present enough gold nuggets to give his parents comfort in their old age.

He exhibited these nuggets to his friends. There were handfuls of them one alone of which assayed $700. Tierney stated that after many hardships he drifted from Alaska to Peru, where he struck it rich in the Andes mountains, where he has now a good paying claim. Tierney left here today for Philadelphia to look up a brother who lives there.

DISPUTE AS TO OLD TESTAMENT

An Eminent Hebrew Scholar Challenges Accuracy of Translations

PARIS, Dec. 28.—Considerable interest has been aroused in religious and especially Jewish circles here by the appearance of a pamphlet by the well-known Hebraist, P. Ferares, entitled 'An Error in Translation."

M. Ferares deals with the remarkable text occurring twice in Exodus xxxiii:19 and xxiv:26, and once in Deuteronomy xiv:21, and running acording to all accredited translations:—

"Thou shalt not seethe (boil or roast) a kid in his mother's milk."

He contends that this passage, which has given rise to the important ceremonial observances among the Jews, has been misunderstood, and must be rendered: "Thou shalt not boil a kid that is at the breast," or "while it still drinks its mother's milk."

He asserts that this gives a more logical sense, and is just such a regulation as Moses might have made.

M. Ferares is opposed by M. Randon, Secretary of the French Biblical Society, who insists that the original Hebrew says "in its mother's milk" and nothing else, pointing out that all the most learned Hebrew scholars have so translated it.

For the Camper.

An old mackintosh is full of possibilities to the woman who intends to go camping or fishing or even to one who does gardening and her own laundry work or scrubbling. The circular cape may be cut into two aprons if finished with a waistband. Cut the skirt portion of the coat from the underwaist, form a box plait at the center back, put on a waist band and close at the left front, and it is a splendid water proof skirt. The pocket should be left in if it is placed right. The frayed hem at the bottom may be trimmed and finished with black skirt binding. From the remaining parts of the waist a sponge bag or waterproof cuffs may be fashioned.

APOLOGIZE TO CONSUL

Persian Authorities Promise to Punish His Assailants.

Foreign Minister Calls on British Representative W. A. Smart and Expresses Regret For Attack—W. M. Shuster Is Still Awaiting Notification of the Appointment of His Successor—Russians In Bad Fix.

Teheran, Dec. 29.—The British Consul, W. A. Smart, who was wounded in an engagement between his Indian escort and 800 Kashgai tribesmen, is safe, having been brought from a caravanzary where he received medical atention, to Kazeroon. The Persian Foreign Minister yesterday called on the British Minister and expressed deep regret on behalf of the regent and Government for the incident. He informed the British Minister that measures had been taken to ensure Consul Smart's safe arrival at his post at Shiraz and exemplary punishment for the offenders.

The Persian Government is extremely apprehensive lest Great Britain consider the incident justification for a punitive expedition, which might lead to prolonged, possibly to permanent occupation of Southern Persia.

W. Morgan Shuster, the American who was dismissed from the office of treasurer-general by the Cabinet, is still awaiting notification of his successor's appointment. He has suggested the appointment of F. E. Cairns, who was his principal American assistant, to act in the interim.

The telegraph lines to Tabriz have been restored, and it is presumed that the fighting in that district has ceased, but all despatches so far received from Tabriz are several days old and indicate that the Russians were in a desperate plight on Sunday and were awaiting reinforcements. They effected a truce, which was held until Monday, when heavy reinforcements arrived and the Russians renewed their attacks.

Russia's Plans In Persia.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 29.—The appointment of a Russian governor and chief of police for the city of Tabriz in Persia and the assumption by the Russians of the financial control of municipal affairs there, together with the institution of exclusively Russian courts of law is foreshadowed to-day in the semi-official Novoe Vremya.

Wholesale arrests and trials by court-martial of participants in the attacks on the Russian troops are to take place, while the constitutionalists are to be disarmed and stern measures taken for the re-establishment of order in the north.

Pastor Has Alibi.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29.—A congregation in Quanah, Texas, was hearing Rev. Chas. M. Brewer preach a sermon on "Practical Christianity" at the time of the blowing up of the Government bridge at Fort Riley, Kansas, in which the pastor's name was implicated through a confession of Private Michael Quirk, according to a statement made here yesterday by Rev. Mr. Brewer. The Minister was passing through the city on the way from Olustee, Okla., his home, to Fort Riley, where, he says, he will investigate the conditions leading up to his arrest, and demand an explanation of Government officials.

Rev. Mr. Brewer's arrest followed a confession by Private Quirk, in which he said he had met the pastor, formerly chaplain at the fort, riding in an automobile with a woman, and that they had asked him to join them in blowing up the big bridge over the Kansas River.

Montreal D.R.O. on Trial.

Montreal, Dec. 29.—The trial of Albert Gingras, returning officer for the division of Maisonneuve, at the last federal election, on a charge of attempting to defraud the Dominion Government by falsifying election accounts continued yesterday afternoon before Judge Lanctot.

A number of deputy returning officers were called as witnesses for the prosecution, some of who denied signatures on accounts said to be theirs, while others declared that they had signed the accounts in blank, leaving Dr. Gingras to fill in the figures, and still others, looking over accounts for their polls, pleaded ignorance of charges for transport and police service presented to the Dominion Government.

Canon Ellegood's Successor.

Montreal, Dec. 29.—At the adjourned vestry meeting of the Church of St. James the Apostle, to choose a successor to the late rector, Canon Ellegood, the Rev. A. P. Shatford received a substantial majority of the votes of the congregation. Canon Sheeve of Sherbrooke was named as the alternative. The two names will now be submitted to the Lord Bishop of Montreal, and his choice announced at a vestry meeting next Thursday.

Before the balloting, it was pointed out that Rev. Almond Abbott of Hamilton, who was among the nominees, would probably not accept the rectorship, even if it were offered to him.

Rev. W. H. Steacy Dead.

Kingston, Dec. 29.—Rev. W. H. Steacy, one of the foremost men in the church union work, died yesterday after a year's illness. He was born in Kingston fifty years ago, and for years traveled in the interest of church union. When Wilfrid Morrison, boy soprano of Toronto sang before the late King Edward, deceased was with him. He was stationed at many places in the States. A wife and one son, the latter in Toronto, survive. He was one of the first converts of Capt. Abbie's organization of the Salvation Army.

Wreck at Regina.

Regina, Sask., Dec. 29.—John Hudson, an engineer, was probably fatally injured and an engine and several baggage coaches were thrown off the track in the collision of a passenger train and a yard engine about eight o'clock yesterday morning. Hudson's leg was crushed and he was badly scalded.

TO TAKE OVER RADIALS

C.N.R. May Assume Control of Hamilton Utilities.

Story Is Published To the Effect That Mackenzie and Mann Interests Are Planning a Wide Program of Expansion by Which Electric Lines Are to Become Feeders to the Steam Railway—Several Involved.

Hamilton, Dec. 29.—That the stock of the Dominion Power & Transmission Co. and its subsidiary companies, will be transferred to Mackenzie and Mann early in 1912, is the gist of a story published yesterday in The Spectator, the owner of which paper is Wm. Southam, who is also a large stockholder in the Dominion Power & Transmission Co.

The holdings of the local concern include the Hamilton Street Railway, the Cataract Power & Light Co., and four radial electric lines; the Brantford & Hamilton, Hamilton & Dundas, Hamilton, Grimsby & Beamsville, and the Hamilton, Burlington & Oakville railways.

The acquisition of these properties by the big Toronto firm is said to be a part of a general scheme, incidental to the expansion of the Canadian Northern Railway, to secure control of a large number of electrical lines as feeders to the steam road, and it is probable that other electric lines in this section of the province will be taken over by the Mackenzie & Mann interests in the near future.

It is expected that the deal now in progress will be concluded before the Canadian Northern plans for entering Hamilton are filed in January, and it is understood that the city's attitude toward certain proposals which the prospective owners of the Hamilton Street Railway are prepared to make to the city in regard to extensions to the street railway system, will have a material bearing on the C.N.R. plans. The Canadian Northern route through the city, it is said, has already been secured and speculation in surrounding property by Toronto capitalists has become active. The charter of the Dominion Power & Transmission Co. gives it the right to an underground entrance to Toronto, and this feature is said to make the investment attractive to the Mackenzie & Mann interests.

C.N.R. Service To Orient.

Toronto, Dec. 29.—A San Francisco message purports to announce that Sir Donald Mann, at present in California, has stated definitely that the C.N.R. proposes to inaugurate in the near future a steamer service between Canada, Australia, and China, as well as a Western Canada grain service to Europe, via Vancouver and the Panama Canal, as soon as that undertaking is completed some three years hence.

Wife's People Knocked Him.

New York, Dec. 29.—Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany Hall, and his sons, Richard Croker, jr., and Howard Croker, were made joint defendants in a civil action begun yesterday by John J. Breen, to recover $100,000. Breen was married to Miss Ethel J. Croker, daughter of the former Tammany leader, on April 23, 1910, and alleges that his wife's affections were alienated by Croker and his two sons. Breen declares, in his complaint, that he and his wife lived peaceably, happily and harmoniously together until the defendants influenced and induced his wife to leave him.

Breen was a teacher of horsemanship when he and Miss Croker were married by a justice of the peace in Hoboken, N.J. It was said at the time that the family of the bride were much displeased at the marriage.

Breen has since his marriage, been horse trainer for James R. Stratton, ex-M.P., of Peterboro, Ont.

Preference for Canadian Pulp.

Washington, Dec. 29.—American pulp and print manufacturers are bringing pressure to bear upon President Taft to induce him to refuse to yield to the demand of certain European Governments for the free admission of their pulp and print paper on terms of equality with the Canadian product. The disposition of the administration has been to let this matter be determined by the courts, but as this involves long delay, the diplomatic protestants are by no means satisfied and are adopting measures to show their resentment.

In view of the peculiar conditions under which Canadian pulp and paper got upon the free list in spite of the failure of the reciprocity measure some consideration is being given to the propriety of leaving to Congress the adjustment of the international difficulties that have arisen.

Gomez Not a Rebel.

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 29.—Dr. Emilo Vazquez Gomez, who was Madero's representative in Washington during the late revolution, later Minister of the Interior under De La Bara, and recently candidate for vice-president of Mexico, denied here yesterday that he was connected with any revolutionary movement.

Gomez said the surrender of Gen. Bernardo Reyes and the capture of several of his followers, removes the last possibility of a counter revolution in Mexico.

Russia Bars Out Salvation Army.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 29.—The Council of Ministers has decided not to allow the Salvation Army to carry on its work in Russia.

Gen. William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, went to St. Petersburg in 1909 to negotiate with the Government for permission to establish a branch of the Salvation Army in Russia. He was strongly opposed by the holy synod.

Rescued Schooner's Crew.

Barry, Wales, Dec. 29.—The Italian steamer Cavi arrived here yesterday with the crew of the British schooner Clara, which foundered off Sagras, Portugal. The schooner, which was on a voyage from Gibraltar for Harbor Grace, Nfld., was owned by J. McRae of St. John's. She registered 100 tons.

PRINCES ARE STINGY

Chinese Officials Refuse Yuan Money to Quell Rising.

Wealthy Noblemen Plead Lack of Money When Asked For Funds and Dramatic Scene Occurs In Royal Household — Premier Thinks He Can Get Ten Millions From "Four-Nation Group"—On Sick Leave.

Pekin, Dec. 29.—The assembly in the palace yesterday to discuss affairs connected with a settlement of the revolution, was productive of at least one dramatic incident. The Dowager Empress, the Premier, Yuan Shi Kai, and the princes of the Imperial clan were present and the debate waxed so warm that finally Yuan Shi Kai arose and offered his resignation. This, however, was refused.

Premier Yuan Shi Kai explained to the princes that he could continue the Government and retain the country north of the Yangtse only by having funds placed at his disposal. He asked the princes to empower him to secure money. He explained that $10,000,000 would meet the payments for the soldiers for five months, after which the south would become disunited and province after province would return to their allegiance to the throne.

But the princes were unmoved. They pleaded lack of money, although most of them are very wealthy. None has given any substantial amount to aid the Government with the exception of Prince Ching, who has handed over more than $100,000 for that purpose. The Dowager Empress wept, and Yuan Shi Kai showed signs of distress. Then he declared that he could not desert her and the child Emperor, and agreed to continue.

It is said that Yuan Shi Kai intends to make another attempt to obtain a loan of $10,000,000 from the "four nation" group, of which three of the countries signified their willingness to furnish a loan three weeks ago, England declining to participate.

Premier Takes Sick Leave.

Paris, Dec. 29.—A Pekin despatch to the Paris edition of The New York Herald, says:

Disgusted at the refusal of the Imperial clan to contribute to the war chest, Yuan Shi Kai last night took sick leave. It is believed that this presages his early retirement from the Premiership. He bitterly resents the bad faith of Wu Ting Fang and his party in proposing a national congress and now insisting upon a rump, not a representative congress. Yuan fears that a republic means the country's dissolution and believes that the only sane solution is to fight it out, but he is handicapped by lack of money.

Triumphant Revolutionaries.

Shanghai, Dec. 29.—An Imperial edict will not be accepted by the revolutionists, except in the most liberal form under which a republic can be established without delay, or unless it provides for the recognition of the provisional government, of which Dr. Sun Yat Sen will be elected president to-day at the regular convention of the Nanking conference.

The revolutionary leaders here laugh at the apparent struggle of Yuan Shi Kai, the Imperial Premier, to temporize with the situation, which, they declare, has completely passed out of his control.

Mongolia Not Wanted.

Pekin, Dec. 29.—In response to a direct request of the Russian Government, handed to the Chinese Foreign Office by the Russian charge d'affaires yesterday, that China should promptly resume control of Mongolia, the Chinese Government declared its inability to comply at the present moment. The only action the Government is able to take regarding Mongolia, the independence of which has been proclaimed, is the appointment of two commissioners, who have been ordered to proceed by way of the Trans-Siberian Railway, to Urga, the chief city, to persuade the Mongol authorities, if possible to renew their allegiance to China. But in view of the present crisis it is probable that these commissioners will never leave Pekin.

For several years past the Chinese have been aggravating Russia and have been treating her contumaciously since the Japanese defeated her. China even began to organize modern troops and take other military measures along the Russian frontiers. Russia has often protested against this, and the Chinese Foreign Board has verbally agreed to the Russian demands, but has never fulfilled the promises. As late as October the Foreign Board's written reply evades Russia's demands.

Although the Russians express their desire that Mongolia shall continue as a buffer state, the attitude of the Mongolian princes, who assembled in Pekin yesterday, depends centirely on circumstances. As they are not able to defend themselves, they will probably accept terms from the Pekin Government, whether monarchical or republican.

Will Join Revolution For $20.

London, Dec. 29.—A despatch to The Morning Post from Shanghai says that the revolutionary leaders have been informed by Gen. Li Yuen Heng, the revolutionary commander at Wuchang, that 30,000 Imperialist troops at Hankow have offered to join the revolution for $20 apiece.

Nine Below In Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Dec. 29.—With unusually low temperatures in all parts of the northwest and Canada, the coldest weather of the season was recorded here yesterday when the thermometer reached nine below zero.

A temperature of 20 below is predicted in the next 24 hours.

Stabbed Erstwhile Friend.

Hamilton, Dec. 29.—Because he "stole" the sweetheart of his friend, Kenonay Hoeyke lies at the city hospital with several wounds below the heart.

He was stabbed yesterday by his erstwhile friend, Vincent Bruno, who left the city immediately.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Explicit statements that the black rust in South Argentine was not serious except in spots and that the outlook, on the eve of harvest, was for a very large crop, took the strain to-day off the market for wheat. Closing prices were easy, 3-8c to 1-2c under last night. Corn showed a net loss of 3-4c to 2 5-8c, oats 3-8c to 3-4c decline and hog products a fall of 2 1-2c to 10c.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 28.—There continues to be a good demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat and a fair amount of business is passing for both nearby and future shipment. Considerable ocean freight room has been engaged this week for May-June shipment. Cables were stronger, prices bid from the United Kingdom being 1½d higher and from the continent two marks. There was some demand on spot for tough wheat for feeding purposes and sales of several cars were made at 56c, ex-track, and feed wheat was offered at 70c.

A more active trade was done in oats and sales of some round lots were made owing to the increased demand from outside points. Cables on oats were stronger, with 20s bid from Bristol for extra No. 1 feed. Good trade continues to be done in flour for local demand, but the export demand is slack. Demand for cheese from over the cable is increasing. Butter is fairly active. Eggs firm under a good demand. A good many American eggs are coming forward. Provisions steady with a fair trade doing. Supplies of dressed poultry large and prices have broken 1c to 2c per pound.

ESCAPED AFTER ASSAULT.

Ernest Monette Makes Murderous Attack on Chief of Police.

North Bay, Dec. 29.—Chief of Police McElroy of Mattawa was murderously assaulted by a prisoner, named Ernest Monette, alias Gagne, Page and LeClair, whom he arrested on a charge of forgery and obtaining money under false pretences. Monette came up behind the chief at the lock-up and struck him on the head with a club, knocking him unconscious.

Town Clerk McMeekin heard the noise, rushed in and was also attacked by the prisoner, who then made his escape to the woods surrounding the town. A posse was organized and Monette was recaptured. He was committed for trial, and brought before Judge Valin at North Bay, pleading guilty to forgery. He was remanded for sentence, pending the outcome of Chief McElroy's injuries, which are serious and may possibly result fatally.

Monette, under the name of Page, passed a check supposed to be signed by J. Lumbden, lumber dealer, for $70 in payment for a $10 suit of clothes, receiving $60 change in cash. At another store, under the name of Le Clair, he passed a similar check for $50, in payment for small purchases and was given change. The merchants victimized were Malcolm Vineberg and Alexander Matte.

The bank detected the forgery and Monette was captured before he had a chance to get away.

DEATH ENDED MASONIC BANQUETS

All Lodges Were Immediately Notified and Celebrations Abruptly Closed

MONTREAL, Dec. 28.—A tragic close was given to the Masonic festivities for St. John's Night yesterday when Wor. Bro. Allen Austin, of Royal Victoria Lodge, fell ill during the banquet at the temple, Dorchester street, and died within a few minutes. The scene in the lodge room was dramatic when it became known that Bro. Austin was ill, and the tension became much more tense as the members awaited word from the chamber to which he had been carried.

The word was brought back that the old time brother of the Masonic craft as dead. The Master at once ended the feast, and in silence the members left the chamber. As though to add to the contrast there were several delegations waiting outside, and as soon as they were informed of what had happened they telephoned to their various lodges, which at once ended their celebrations.

Within a few minutes of the tragedy, the three lodges meeting at the Masonic Temple had silently ended their festivities. The banquet tables were left without occupants, programmes were abandoned, and instead of the usual crowd of festive visitors at the Masonic Temple there was a scene of sorrow. Visiting delegations who came in festive mood were apprised of the loss the order had sustained, and left in funereal silence.

Within a short time of the tragedy there was nothing left at the Masonic Hall but empty banquet tables and whispering guests and visitors. Never within the history of Masonic work in Montreal has the celebration of St. John's Night met so tragic a conclusion.

THIS COUPLE CERTAINLY GREW VERY FAST

Thirteen Children Came to Their Household in Three Years.

OKLAHOMA, CITY, Oklka., Dec. 23.—The discovery has been made that J. M. Jackson and wife are the parents of 13 children born in three years.

Five years ago the rapid increase in the Jackson family began. Twins then born are now five years old. Triplets succeeded the twins in twelve months, and in another year another set of triplets made their appearance. But the worst, or the best, was yet to come. One year after the last triplets came five children on the same day, making thirteen born in thirty-six months.

TAMPERED WITH A BLAST.

Laboring Man Was Very Seriously Injured as the Result of His Carelessness.

KINGSTON, Dec. 28.—As a result of tampering with a blast that hadn't exploded, Sano Gorgett and Angel Fliett, two Poles employed on the construction of the C.N.R. railway about a mile east of Perth Road were brought to the Hotel Dieu, a few days ago. The explosion caused a serious injury to Fliett's foot, and Gorgett was injured in one of his eyes.

On arriving at the hospital, the injured men were attended to by Dr. McCarthy, and they will be able to leave in a few days. The sight of Gorgett's eye will not be impaired.

YOUNG MAN MISSING.

KINGSTON, Ont., December 28.—George Holden, a young man aged about sixteen, and living at Kingston, is missing since Wednesday and his absence is causing considerable anxiety to his friends. Young Holden came here from Vermont a short time ago, and went to board at the home of Clarence Murray, Elm street. He left his boarding house on Christmas Day and has not been heard of since.

Inquiries at the police station and the hospitals brought out no information and it is thought the young man left the city hastily for his home city.

ANOTHER DISTRIBUTION FROM YORK LOAN

102,000 Checks Sent Out With Second Payment of 25 Cents on Dollar

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—This is a month of stir among the shareholders in the York Loan.

Of the 102,000 checks sent out on December 1, 10,000 have been sent back by the post-office, for the addresses were not correct. Between the period of the last payment and the present that number of people have moved. A part of the 10,000 have come up to Mr. Herrington's office at 20 King street east, have given their new addresses and have received their checks, which are marked payable at the Bank of Commerce, but which can also be cashed at any bank in Canada. Nearly 9,000 people in all have visited Mr. Herrington this month. This morning his office was nearly filled with visitors.

Many of the 102,000 checks went to foreign countries, to France, for example, and Germany, Sweden, Japan and China, in addition to Great Britain and the United States. A great many of those in European countries are old Winnipeg customers who have gone back to their original homes.

A total of 10,000 people have never sent their pass books, which are accepted as proof of claim.

They have not recieved either the first or second payment. The money however, will be held for them for some time yet. On the first payment also, $30,000 was left unclaimed.

HARRY K. THAW TO GO FREE

This Announcement Comes from a Thoroughly Reliable Source

MATTEAWAN, Dec. 28.—From a source, the reliability of which cannot be questioned, comes the announcement that Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, who has been a patient in the State hospital for the criminal insane here, for several years, will be a free man within a few months. The information came from one close to the Thaws and to the hosppital authorities, though permission to make public the name of the informant was emphatically denied.

For many months the Thaws have been preparing for another attempt to effect the liberty of the slayer. Detectives have been in their constant employ, and prominent New York lawyers, among them Clarence J. Shearn, have been in constant touch with Thaw. Representatives of the lawyers have visited the hospital and have had many conferences with Thaw. A person who knows made the statement to-night that Thaw would be released from the hospital within a couple of months.

The plan decided upon is to obtain another writ of habeas corpus and demand a trial by jury as to the sanity of the patient.

MEANS LOSS OF BUSINESS.

Kingston has long been known for her market, which has brought the consumer in direct contact with the producer. Kingston's market has made Kingston the cheapest living city in Canada. The woman with her basket has gone and bought direct from the farmer. On every market day the present hotel accommodation is over taxed, the yards are filled and the wagons are on the street. If ten hotels are closed, the farmers cannot and will not come to Kingston. The market will be spoiled and the people must buy from the middleman and pay a double price. FLOATER AT KINGSTON.

Remains of Unknown Man Found Floating in Water Near R.M.C. Grounds.

KINGSTON, Dec. 28.—The body of an unknown man was found floating in the water where the Cataraqui bridge joins the R. M. C. grounds, this afternoon at one o'clock.

The body was that of a man about five feet nine inches high and weighing about 160 pounds. He had black hair and moustache. Hhis face was badly bloated. He was attired in a good black suit, with a black overcoat, blucher boots with rubbers on.

On being searched the sum of 35 cents in small silver was found in his pocket. There was also a gold watch which had stopped at 7.20. On the little finger of his right hand was a gold ring.

It was evident that the man had been in the water at least two weeks.

WINS $80,000 AT A SITTING

Prince Bourbon's Run of Luck at Monte Carlo Causes a Sensation

MONTE CARLO, Dec. 27.—Quite a sensation has been caused here today by the large winnings of Prince James Bourbon, the Spanish pretender, in the last few days. His Royal Highness who always plays trente et quarante, won $80,000 at one sitting last evening.

Prince Bourbon is the first winner of an unusually large sum in the new rooms of the Casino, which were opened to the public for the first time in January last. After sustaining considerable losses in Paris, he arrived at Cannes some days ago, being the guest of the Countess de Caserta until Christmas Day, when he left for Monte Carlo.

Arriving in the evening, the Prince went straight to the Casino, where with a fund of $12,000 he experienced such a consistent run of luck that shortly afterward he rose from the table the winner of $80,000. Fortune continued to smile on him yesterday, when in a short time he won considerably over $20,000.

The Prince left for San Remo th afternoon, remarking on leaving:—"Now I will take a rest."

Golden City Fire Swept.

Golden City, Dec. 29.—Thanks to the hurculean efforts of every man in the neighborhood, and the use of dynamite, another devastating fire was prevented. The Mulligan House had a close call, and was only saved by wrecking an adjoining store and use of wet blankets.

The fire was caused by a defective electric light insulation in the upper floor of Joe Romaine's saloon, and was discovered by a little girl, who ran down stairs and told her mother about the smoke, and by the time she could investigate the whole roof was ablaze.

The total loss will probably exceed $80,000. The individual losses cannot at present be ascertained, but the following are burnt out: Saul Taub, confectioner; J. M. Forbes, J. P. Crawford, attorneys; T. E. Godson, magistrate; Carter & Wright, druggists; Evans & Co., gents' furnishings; Joe Romaine's saloon, where the fire started; Carteaus fancy goods store; Chinese laundry, Strathcona Hotel; Lang Supply Co., the heaviest losers; barber shop, Chinese restaurant, Imperial bakery, and old Lyric Theatre.

By the liberal use of dynamite, the fire was held in check at the bank saloon. The fire was confined to the west side of King street, and takes in four hundred feet of frontage.

DETECTIVE-ROBBER GETS SEVEN YEARS

Warze Led a Band of Parisian Thieves While a Police Chief

PARIS, Dec. 28.—The amazing career of Alexander Warze, one of the most reputed chiefs of the secret police of Paris, who for four years succeeded in retaining the entire trust of his superiors, Prefect Lepine included, whilst all the time being the mysterious head of a notorious band of thieves, was brought to an end to-day, when a sentence of seven years' penal servitude with ten years in exile was passed on him.

The whole story was quite as unreal and as exciting as anything ever imagined by fiction writers. As already related at the time, after days of fruitless search, his arrest was only affected when Warze himself walked into the office of the Chief of Police and gave himself up.

At the trial Warze, although agreeing that he lived a double life, insisted that he was not guilty, and that the charges brought against him were only revenge on the part of the members of the Apache band, who had planned to get him out of their way by this unusual method.

Despite his defence, however, Warze got the heaviest sentence, only surpassed by that imposed on a confederate, who got ten years in jail and ten years in exile. Five members of the band got from two to five years each.

Warze gave himself up to the Paris police last April after he had been detailed by the Prefect of Police to investigate the very crimes and robberies that he himself had planned and executed. As a criminal he took the name of "Nick Carter," and in his life carried out the double role of detective and thief strangely similar to the fictitious exploits of Le Blanc's character, of Arsene Lupin, who in the later stories, while being the cleverest criminal in Paris, also becomes chief of the French detectives. Warze was betrayed by a petty thief arrested after he had escaped detection and even suspicion for more than a year.

For twelve years Warze was the head and front of a gang of criminals of a very dangerous kind. Warze was put on their trail and enjoyed a fine holiday planning new robberies, and in the meantime sending in reports of progress to the Prefect of Police. He was once sent to a certain resort in Montmartyre by his chief on a clue that showed the "Nick Carter" gang to be there. Warze is said to have led the police into a blind alley, and then given the signal to his gang.

In a hotel at Brussels where he stayed shortly before his arrest, detectives found a complete set of false beards, together with a wardrobe consisting of a naval officer's uniform, a bank messenger's outfit, and even the uniform of a postman and the garb of a Parisian undertaker.

Mgr. Bello Banished.

Lisbon, Dec. 29.—The Government has issued a decree banishing for two years Mgr. Anthony Mendes Bello, the patriarch of Lisbon, the Bishop of Guarda and the administrator of the diocese of Oporto, from their respective districts. The ground on which the banishment is based is persistent opposition to the organization of cultural associations.

It was reported recently that the Government would prosecute Mgr. Bello on a charge of conspiring against the Government. The name of the creation of new cardinals, it being thought that he was likely soon to receive the red hat.

THE BIG COUNCIL HAS BEEN A BIG FAILURE.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

BOXING

MORRIS LOOKED GOOD.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—That Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant has really come back and re-established himself as a formidable "white hope" was the opinion expressed to-day by fight fans who saw him hammer Tom Kennedy, former amateur champion, into a pulp at the Empire A. C.

Morris' showing was a great surprise to those who saw 'Fireman Jim' round him up. He showed considerably more cleverness and steadiness and went after Kennedy from the start. With more training, such as last night's fight showed he needed, Morris, in the opinion of many fighting men, will make a splendid fight against Jack Johnson.

Morris led Kennedy in every round, hammering him all over the ring, but failing to follow it up with the final punch that was necessary to put his man out.

ALL AFTER JACK JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Jack Johnson is a much sought after fighter just now. He has received three offers within the last twenty-four hours, one coming from Harry Pollock the local promoter, a second from Jack Curley, of Chicago, manager of Jim Flynn, while the third is from Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter. Pollock is willing to hang up a purse of $25,000 for a ten-round bout with Jim Flynn of this city.

Jack Curley offers Johnson $20,000 as his share for a finish fight with Flynn in Nevada, while McIntosh offers a guarantee of $30,000 with the privilege of receipts to fight Sam McVey, a twenty round bout at Sydney, N.S.W., for the world's championship. Jack says he will accept McIntosh's offer if he will post the $30,000 with a reliable person in Chicago.

"BOMBARDIER" IS PROMISING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The real white hope is Bombardier Wells, the English fighter, in the opinion of Tex Rickard, the promoter of the Jeffries-Johnson fight. Rickard is in New York on his way to his ranches in Argentine.

"Wells is the best heavyweight in sight," said Rickard to-day. "But he will need a year or eighteen months to develop or learn his business. He gives splendid promises and may be a champion. I do not know about the other white hopes. Carl Morris looked good to me at one time but he did not start well in New York, and now has much to overcome to efface that Flynn fight from the memory of the sporting public.

"As to the negroes, there is no reason to doubt that both Joe Jeanette and Sam Langford would be dangerous opponents to Johnson. A bout between Jack and either would be a big affair, but it would not take on the proportions of the Jeffries Johnson bout, for the reason that both men would be black, and the public prefers a white against a black or two whites."

"Oh, for a man to beat Johnson—a white man," signed Tex. "It will be worth a cool million to the man who can produce him."

THE FRENCHMAN TRAINING HARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Marcel Moreau, French champion middleweight, is putting in an unusually heavy training campaign for his fight New Year's afternoon with Jack Denning at the Fairmount A. C. Those who have seen the Frenchman in action say that he will win handily.

WELSH AND "ONE-ROUND" HOGAN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Arrangements are being perfected here today for a fight between Freddie Welsh, English lightweight champion, and "One-Round" Hogan, to be staged about February 1. Welsh is to meet the winner of the Joe Rivers-Frankie Conley match about January 23. Immediately following that bout Welsh will start East.

MORAN WANTS ANY GAME.

Owen Moran, the English fighter, arrived in New York from England on the Olympic last night sounding defiance to everybody in the lightweight class of puglism.

"I have come here to make a match with Ad Wolgast," said Moran, "and I hope to defeat him or any others who regard themselves as champions. To prove that I am capable, I will take on other men in Wolgast's class and deal with them first, giving away weight to some of them and fighting any man at 133 pounds." Moran says the recent prohibition of the Wells-Johnson fight killed the game in England.

A GOOD HEAVYWEIGHT BATTLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Al. Palzer, the local heavyweight, knocked out Al. Kaufmann of California in the fifth round of a scheduled ten round bout at the National Sporting Club to-night with a right upper cut to the chin. The fight started in whirlwind style. Immediately after the first bell Palzer landed a terrific right to Kaufmann's stomach, knocking him down, but the Californian was up instantly and landed a right to Palzer's neck, which sent the latter to the floor. Palzer jumped to his feet and floored Kaufmann in turn with a right to the jaw.

In the second both slowed up slightly, with Kaufmann the aggressor throughout the round. The third was the westerner's by a slight margin.

The fourth round was all Kaufmann's. He handed the local fighter a neat lacing throughout the session, and at the bell Palzer was hanging on to escape punishment.

Palzer came up fresh for the fifth round, with Kaufmann slowing up a bit. The men pummeled each other about the ring, with Kaufmann apparently having the better of the exchanges until near the time for the bell ending the round. Suddenly Palzer saw an opening in Kaufmann's guard and stepping close to his opponent sent over the fateful right to the chin and Kaufmann went down for the final count.

France Cuts Cable Tolls.

New York, Dec. 29.—The French Telegraph Cable Co. announced last night that beginning Jan. 1, it would accept plain language cablegrams to England. France and Germany, at half the rate of code messages, full rate business to take precedence over the reduced rate despatches.

Not Gratifying.

Some one sent the manuscript of a story to a literary friend, with the request that he would criticise it. The friend returned it, with the following note:

"My dear Blank: Your book contains much that is both new and good; but what is new is not good, and what is good is not new."

It is wicked for us to go about with faces which indicate that life has been a disappointment to us instead of a glorious joy. It shows that we have missed the real object of living, that we have never caught a glimpse of the realities of life, but that we are living in the shadows, in the gloom instead of the sunshine of reality, of truth, of beauty. It indicates that we have not even caught a glimpse of the real glory of life.

HYDRO POWER FOR TRENT VALLEY

Hon. Adam Beck Makes Announcement at Peterboro'

PETERBORO, Dec. 28.—A direct offer to the municipalities in the Trent Valley district, that if they will join hands with the Provincial Government for the development of Hydro-Electric power, the Government would undertake to finance the water power development and transmission lines, on the same basis as they have undertaken to do in the Niagara district and other parts of the province, was made by Hon. Adam Beck to the ratepayers of Peterboro' at an enormous gathering held in the Opera House here to-night.

Mr. Beck said he had been authorized to make this statement by Sir James Whitney and the members of the Cabinet. He said he had the assurance of the Dominion Government that they would lease to them dams Nos. 4 and 8, for power development purposes, if necessary. He made the further announcement, however, that he had met a number of the bondholders of the Electric Power Company, which was operating most of the power in that district in Ottawa, and that they would be willing to dispose of their interests in the company to the Government rather than have the dams leased to the province. He had submitted this offer to Sir James Whitney, who had asked him to have the situation investigated to see whether the purchase of the Power Company's plant would be a good investment.

The project would, Mr. Beck said, mean an expenditure of something over $4,000,000, part of which would be borne by the municipalities. Mr. Beck then confided to his audience that the carrying out of this project would be a partial realization of his vision of the whole of Ontario connected by power lines. The Trent Valley district would be connected with Niagara power at Whitby, and with Windsor, Goderich and Owen Sound on the west; and on the east with the Ottawa power and the whole Eastern Ontario syste mat Kingston.

In the whole province then, he said, there would be an investment of $15,000,000 by the province, and an almost equal amount by the municipalities.

There is a considerable amount of opposition to the project of making a contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission, which is to be voted upon on Jan. 1 by the ratepayers of Peterboro' and Lakefield, in the Trent district. The opposition is coming chiefly from the operating companies. Mr. Beck told the audience of the satisfactory experience of the other towns and cities which had adopted the Government Hydro-Electric system, and he pointed to the profits which had already been made by Guelph, Berlin, Woodstock and London, as an argument against those who were opposed to committing the municipality to so large an expenditure.

Mr. Beck addressed the meeting at the invitation of the Mayor and Council of Peterboro'. There was a large number of people present from Lakefield. Other eastern Ontario cities, which are voting on a Hydro-Electric scheme on Monday are Kingston, Prescott and Brockville.

RECEIVED EIGHT LETTERS.

Mr. Borden Hears From Very Few Members of Grain Growers' Association.

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—Early this winter the organization in control of the Grain Growers' Association urged the members to mark December 16th, the anniversary of the visit of the great farmers' deputation to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government by an avalanche of letters to the Prime Minister, re-affirming the principles preached on that occasion.

Inquiry reveals that Mr. Borden has received in all eight letters on the subject.

The Premier's reply in each case promises consideration of the needs of the West.

Communications of a different nature have come from Alberta, the United Farmers, the equivalent of the grain growers in that Province, having written to request the Government to provide high grade seed.

HALF MILLION FOR G. T. TRAINMEN

Increase of Pay Affects 3000 Men on System from Chicago to Portland

"The company on January 1, 1912, makes effective in train and yard service on the Grand Trunk Railway the rates of pay and the rules contained in the schedule or agreement on that date in effect on the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway east of Fort William."

The above is the third paragraph in the Grand Trunk Railway strike settlement reached on July 31 last year. It means an increase of nearly half a million dollars to the pay roll of the company, or from 20 to 22 per cent. of its total.

The increase affects approximately 3,000 men on the system between Portland and Chicago, and of this number about 150 are employed here. The official word to put it into effect here has not yet been received from Montreal, but is momentarily expected.

In addition to more pay, better conditions in regard to hours and overtime are included in the arrangement. The change provides for a more equal division of the pay and in some individual cases it may mean as much as a raise of almost fifty per cent., but it is not calculated to benefit any one particular class. The C.P.R. schedule is to be adopted in its entirety.

(Intelligencer Special.)

MONTREAL, Dec. 30.—J. Michaud, a city watchman, was hurled fifty feet when a quantity of dynamite in a shack under his charge exploded. He was picked up in a supposedly dying condition, but at the hospital it was found that he was only bruised. Windows for a hundred yards round were shattered.

ABSURD BUMOR CURRENT TODAY

Report that Mr. Thomas Has Retired is Totally Unfounded

A report was circulated to-day on the street that Mr. George I. Thomas had retired from the mayoralty contest. This no doubt originated from a change in Mr. Thomas' advertisement, and it is hardly necessary to add that it totally without foundation. Mr. Thomas is suffering from a severe cold, but he is in the field to stay—and to win.

VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW.

BACK TO CENTRAL.

Joseph McAdams, a middle aged man, was arrested yesterday on a charge of vagrancy. This morning he admitted to the Magistrate that he had only been liberated from the Central Prison some nine days ago. When asked by the cadi where he desired to go he said: "I will go wherever you send me." He was sent back to the Central Prison for five months.

TO APPEAR LATER.

A young man named Harry Thrasher was yesterday placed under arrest on a charge of stealing a robe from John Titterson, who resides in Thurlow. The offence is alleged to have taken place some time ago. Thrasher was subsequently liberated on furnishing substantial bail, until Saturday next, the 6th of January, when his trial will take place.

XMAS AT EMMANUEL.

The annual Christmas entertainment of Emmanuel Sunday School was held last evening. Rev. A. M. Hubly presided. After devotional service Mr. Hubly explained to the large audience which filled the church that "our aim was to give the children a happy time, in keeping with the spirit of Christmas, without resorting to anything in the way of entertainment that would bring discredit upon either the church or the christian religion." A lengthened programme of carols, recitations and religious songs was creditably rendered by the children under the efficient leadership of the Misses Wilder and Fletcher. There was a general exchange of presents between teachers and scholars, and a fancy box of confectionery numbering 125 to the children. An offering was taken up by two little boys of the school, and the happy evening brought to a close with doxology and benediction.

The famous dressing room scene from "The Chorus Lady," Griffin's Opera House, Thursday, Jan. 4. Plan opens Monday.

THEY LIKE THE FRENCHMAN.

Marcel Moreau, the French middleweight, who fights Jack Dunning on Monday night in New York, is having difficulty in securing training partners, owing to his predilection for knocking them out. There isn't any wrinkle or twist of the fighting game he doesn't know, according to fight fans who have seen him work. Many believe he will take the world's middleweight championship back to France with him.

NEGRO REMANDED.

A negro who gave his name as William Hollis, with no particular place of residence, this morning went into the police station, and claimed that he was ill, desiring to be sent to the hospital. A physician examined the man and pronounced that while he may have some muscular pain he was by no means ill enough to be sent to the hospital. Later he was charged before the Magistrate with being a vagrant, and was remanded to jail for a week, which appeared to please him.

DIED AT KANSAS CITY.

Edna Deroche Marsh, the wife of Richard B. Marsh, 1910 Ohio Avenue Kansas City, Kan., died at her home on Thursday, Dec. 7th. She was 26 years of age and is survived by her husband and little son, David. Also by her mother, Mrs. Edward A. Deroche, and sisters, Mrs. Samuel B. Shannon, Mrs. Edward H. Martin, Miss Madelon Deroche, and her brother, Judge Deroche, of Belleville, Ont.—Kansas City Times.

SETTLEMENT EFFECTED.

Some days ago a flock of sheep belonging to Mr. P. Shannon, of Tyendinaga, were worried by two dogs, with the result that two of the sheep died. It was claimed that the canines belonged to Messrs. W. O'Brien and Edward Wilson, and these two parties were yesterday afternoon summoned to appear here before Magistrate Bedford, of Deseronto. The case did not, howver, come to trial, as a settlement was effected between the parties. Mr. Butler represented the complainant and Mr. Carnew the defendants.

DIED IN CALIFORNIA.

The death of George P. Minaker, editor and publisher of the Gladstone Age, Gladstone, Man., took place on Dec. 12th at Palm Springs, Cal., after a protracted illness. He is survived by his widow, a daughter of R. L. Lazier, formerly of this city, and five children. Mr. Minaker was in business in Belleville a few years ago and was a member of Bridge St. Methodist Church. Interment took place at Santo Barbara, Cal.

Every owner of his home ought to vote for the by-law, so that in the years to come he may have a voice in the election of ALL the aldermen.

Some other COAL may be as good, but no other COAL is better.

An influential member of the Federal Government, who has been travelling over the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry. in the West, writes as follows:

"I must say that I found the trip very interesting. The country is more picturesque than any other route across the Prairies, and I have found the travelling comfortable and the service excellent."

Letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry. from a prominent business man residing in Seattle, regarding a trip he made from Winnipeg to Edmonton, contains the following abstract:

"Going out to Edmonton I went through your train several times, and I want to compliment you on your equipment and service. I consider it so far the best Canadian Transcontinental service I have ever seen, and I have travelled over all the American Transcontinental Railways."

CUT HIS LEG, BLED TO DEATH.

Sad Fate of Poor Old Charlie Deroche.

On Wednesday of last week Charlie Deroche, an eccentric character, well known to nearly everyone in Bancroft and vicinity, cut his leg, near the ankle, while setting out some traps in the township of Cardiff, where he had been living lately, and bled to death.

After the accident occurred he tried to get to the residence of Sidney Woodcock, where he had been stopping, and when found by a couple of men, who happened to hear his cries, he was so weak from the loss of blood that he was barely able to crawl. He was carried to the house where he died shortly afterwards.

The deceased had no friends in this part of the country, but claimed to have three daughters in Ottawa.

THE BIG COUNCIL HAS BEEN A BIG FAILURE.

The most momentous events which occurred in Canada during 1911 were the defeat of the Laurier Government and the return to power of the Whitney Government by a practically undiminished majority. The most important occurrence in Belleville was the construction through the city of the Canadian Northern Ontario Railway.

A Christmastide dispatch from London announces that the five new battleships which are soon to be laid down for the British Admiralty will be as superior to the Dreadnought as that great ship and consorts are to the warships that preceded them. The announcement is comforting enough in its way. Its way, however, is not that of peace on earth or good will to men.—Montreal Gazette.

Every owner of his home ought to vote for the by-law, so that in the years to come he may have a voice in the election of ALL the aldermen.

England's position in Egypt has been justified by the era of progress and prosperity she has brought about there. The Soudan has felt the irrigating influence of British gold, and is now exporting large quantities of foodstuffs for European consumption. It is only two years since Port Soudan, the Red Sea outlet of the Soudan Government railway system was thrown open to traffic, and yet its present trade is nearly $12,000,000.—Mail and Empire.

Courageous Boston has defined that at the age of 35 a woman is no longer young, by refusing admission of all over that age to membership in the Boston Young Woman's Christian Association. It does seem, though, that some decision might put a premium on—forgiveable prevarication. But perhaps such decision was shrewdly arrived at with a view to starting a boom in Y. W. C. A. memberships among those of an age such that it is an object of advantage to have a cetrificate through membership, from a religious institution to the effect that they were not yet thirty-five.—Ottawa Journal.

The Ontario Bar Association declared for the establishment of a divorce court at Ottawa, by the Dominion Government, in which evidence and cases will be tried, as in a court of original jurisdiction. Copies of the resolution adopted will be forwarded to the powers that be at Ottawa, and the committee which reported in favor of the establishment of the court, will take all means possible to bring about its formation. Members speaking in favor of the resolution argued that it would do away with the discrimination practised at persent in Ottawa, which makes it impossible for a man of limited means to obtain a divorce. "All citizens should be treated alike," said one member.

THEY WERE CHAIRED LAST NIGHT AT REDNERVILLE

A Christmas entertainment of a very pleasing character was given last night in the Methodist church at Rednerville, which was largely attended and most successful in every respect. The programme consisted of vocal and instrumental music and was most capably rendered. The chair was occupied by Mr. A. H. Anderson, superintendent of the Sunday School, and during the evening two handsome Morris chairs were presented to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ch'slett, together with the following address by Mr. W. W. Anderson, on behalf of the subscribers:

To Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Chislett:

On behalf of the people of this neighborhood, and in recognition of the faithful, assiduous devotion to our Church by leading the choir, assisting in the Sunday School, visiting the sick, and your philanthropic demeanor, we wish to show you in some slight way our appreciation of your efforts. No doubt at times you feit as though your services were not appreciated. We think it is most fitting on this, the Sunday School Anniversary to present to you and Mrs. Ch'slett some slight token of our esteem and affection. We therefore procured a comfortable chair for each of you. Trusting you will not look upon them so much for their intrinsic value as you will for the gratitude and esteem we hold towards you. We wish you a Happy and Prosperous New Year and our Prayer is that the Most High may spare you many years to enjoy them.

Rednerville, Dec. 29th, 1911.

Mr. Chislett made a highly appropriate reply on behalf of himself and Mrs. Chislett.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $40.

A BIG BONUS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The U. S. Steel Corporation has made its annual distribution to the employees of the corporation and subsidiary companies under its bonus plan, which has been in force nine years. The amount distributed this year is $1,450,000.

The corpoartion will also offer to its employees the right to subscribe for about 25,000 shares of stock on the basis of the plan which has been in force for the period already stated. The price has not yet been fixed but will probably be a little lower than the market.

Employees last year subscribed on the basis of 70 for the common and 114 for the preferred.

Reports received at the Grand Trunk Pacific headquarters regarding track laying on the new line in Western Canada up to December 2nd, shows the progress made. On the main line the end of track has now reached 1057.5 miles west of Winnipeg. On the Alberta Coal Branch which is being built from Bickerdike into the Brazeau Coal Fields, the track has reached 21.4 miles south of Bickerdike. On the Tofield-Calgary branch the steel has been laid 105.3 miles south of Tofield. On the Young-Prince Albert branch the end of track is at mile 67.3 north of Young. The entire portion of the branch between Melville and Regina has been completed, a mileage of 98.4. The 52 miles on the Velville-Canora branch has also been completed. On the Moose Jaw branch between Regina and Moose Jaw, track has been laid 1.1 miles west of Regina.

On the Mountain Division steel has been laid to the mouth of Tunnel at mile 104 east of Prince Rupert.

PROMISE REDEEMED.

Hon. Mr. Borden Will Link Prince Edward With Mainland.

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—The people of Prince Edward will at last have a car ferry service to the mainland. Such was the official announcement last night, and the efforts of the two Conservative members, Messrs. McLean and Nicholson during the last two months are at length crowned with success.

A long felt want of the people of Prince Edward Island has thus at last been satisfied by the present action of the present Government. The island province came into confederation under a distinct promise by the Dominion Government to maintain a connection all the year round between the island and the mainland. The Government of Sir John Macdonald implemented this pledge in good faith, but the Liberals under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier insisted that a tunnel should be built as the only effective method of carrying out the contract of confederation.

The Government has met the wishes of the baby province by arranging at once for the installation of a car service between the Prince Edward Island Railway and the Intercolonial Railway, and for this purpose the guage of the P. E. I. Railway will be increased from three feet six inches to four feet eight and a half inches, the standard gauge.

A semi-official announcement given out in the Premier's office says: "The proposal of the Government will involve the change of narrow gauge to standard gauge on the P. E. I. Railway. This improved service will do away with the three short hauls and it is confidently anticipated that it will result in great advantage to the people of the island, and especially to the farmers and other producers."

NO QUARTER GIVEN IN PARAGUAY BATTLES

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Interesting details of the revolution in Paraguay were related here to-day by a New York lawyer who has just returned after a five months' stay in Paraguay and Uruguay. According to this man the published reports of events in the civil war, which began last January, fall far short of showing the real nature of the revolution.

In a battle in March near the city of Asuncion there were 900 dead and no wounded. It is stated as a fact that after this battle the victorious army went through the ranks of the vanquished, bayonetting and cutting the throats of the wounded. There were no hospital arrangements on either side.

The situation in Paraguay has been brought about chiefly through the struggle of five factions for the control of the Government. Martial law prevails, and has prevailed for many months in the capital. The churches are used for barracks. The business of the country has been brought to a standstill. Every man is liable to serve in the army, and few trouble to take up regular occupations. Everywhere, according to the American visitor, the women do the hard work. They man the shops, the farms, and even the slaughter houses.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE CHORUS LADY."

The coming of the big comedy success "The Chorus Lady" is heralded with delight by the patrons of Griffin's Opera House, Thurs. Jan. 4., where she will appear. One of the best and most laughable scenes in the play is the famous dressing room scene in the second act, which depicts the chorus room of the Broadway Theatre, New York, occupied by the girls of a musical comedy company. The play was written by James Forbes, author of "The Travelling Salesman" and "The Commuters," and comes here with the endorsement that follows a year's run in New York, nine months in Boston, six months in Chicago, and four months in London, England.

The company carry their own production, occupying a car, and do not use any of the local theatre's scenery, which will insure a treat to the eye.

Boy Drowned While Skating.

Hespeler, Dec. 30.—Irwin Limpert, eight-year-old son of Ald. John Limpert, while out skating on the dam along with other lads, got into the water and was drowned in about four feet of water. Eddie Lang tried to rescue Irwin when he heard his cry for help, but he failed when he also broke through the ice and was rescued by his companions and was taken to the home of Mrs. Cossage.

Charles Wilkins secured a canoe and pulled Irwin from the water. Dr. Lockhart was quickly on the scene and tried every means in his power to revive the lad, but life was gone.

Tariff Revision In U. S.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 30.—Tariff revision will overshadow all other issues in the coming presidential campaign, according to Champ Clark, Speaker of the National House of Representatives.

Anyway, it's never too late to mend the Christmas hosiery.

Stirring Times For U. S.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Sweeping changes in the tariff will be proposed by the Democratic majority in the House as soon as it gets to work next month. The Republican administration have also big changes now in process of being framed up, based on reports from the so-called tariff commission. But the Democrats will not wait for the administration bills—they have the majority and they will go on their own lines. The leaders of the Democrats have decided on sweeping reductions in the direction of a revenue tariff as against a wing of that party, who want many of the main items in the present tariff placed on the free list. Within six weeks the whole United States will be in the greatest tariff ferment it has ever experienced.

On top of all this is the stirring movements now in evidence in either party over their respective presidential candidates. Woodrow [illegible], in all likelihood, against Lafo[illegible] two modernites, as against the [illegible] like Taft, or Roosevelt, or Harmon (a Democrat).

The most marvelous thing of the situation is the strength of progressive ideas. Any man in the limelight to-day is a revolutionary (say Taft as an example), compared to what he was eighteen months ago. Wilson is for referendum, for recall. The big interests are getting the shake-up of their lives.

THE Paternoster Ruby

BY CHARLES EDMOND WALK

Supplied exclusively in Canada by the British & Colonial Press Limited, Toronto.

At this instant the light was extinguished, and he received the full weight of a human body as it staggered backward. He supposed it to be Page's. He struck out blindly with his own cruel weapon, at the same time shoving the body away from him. He felt his bludgeon crush his victim's head; and the he was himself felled to the floor with a tremendous blow that blotted out everything else for him. The base of the candlestick had found a mark wholly unsuspected by any one.

He knew afterwards that his companions had carried him down the rear stairs and away; that they tried to doctor him until they grew alarmed at the seriousness of his injuries; whereupon they deserted him in his room, after notifying the landlord, who had in turn notified the hospital authorities. Chaya was well supplied with funds, so there had been no difficulty on that score.

And thus was my deduction proved to be correct. Felix Page's left side had been toward the balustrade at the instant Fluette snatched up the candlestick; on the balustrade was a deep indentation where the base of the improvised weapon had impinged, after glancing: and the fatal blow had struck upon the victim's temple. A single descending blow can not very well pass down one side of a man and end upon the other.

But while Chaya's story gratified me beyond measure, at the same time it was incomplete: it threw no light upon the ruby's resting-place, and for the simple reason that he knew no more about it than any of the rest of the individuals interested in discovering where it had been hidden. I was satisfied that the cipher, once I had interpreted it, would lead me to the gem. Therefore, it remained for me to find it.

Well, the cryptic writing was solved, pretty soon; but the solution came like a crash of thunder, revealing the one twist toward the end that I had least expected.

And, worst of all, I should have known!

CHAPTER XXVI
The Cipher Solved.

Chaya's ante-mortem statement, properly attested by Dr. Larrimer, Dr. De Breen, the hospital secretary, and myself, together with the otherwise complete case I had, was sufficient of course to open the prison doors for Royal Maillot. It should also have lifted the cloud from Alfred Fluette; but, alas! it did not.

To make my story end as all well-conditioned stories ought to end, I should here be able to wave my wand, or invoke some good genie, or however it is that the writer-folk bestow happiness at a stroke upon the helpless creatures whom they have been ruthlessly dragging through a sea of trial and tribulation, and show you the actors in my own drama transported with joy. But I am recording what actually happened. It was a strange fatality that cast itself into the lives of these people. They were dismayed, overwhelmed, rendered helpless, left uncomprehending. However much I may desire to do so, therefore, I can not twist the truth to give my own story precisely the ending that you or I might desire it to have.

As for myself, I could'nt carry the news fast enough to Maillot and to Mr. Fluette, and to Belle and Genevive. My enthusiasm met its first damper when the cell door swung open, and the young fellow walked out a free man. It is true that his gratitude was immeasurable; he could find no words to express it, and wrung my hand until—strong man that I am—I had to tear away from him.

But after his elation had time to cool, he grew morose and gloomy; he was more inclined to cling to what he had gone through, than to accept the extremely satisfactory assurance that he stood clear and as far above suspicion as Cæsar's wife.

"No use talking, Swift," he responded to my attempts to rally him out of his humor; "the taint will stick to me. People will say I'm the fellow who was arrested for killing his uncle so that he could inherit his fortune. They'll always point me out and shake their heads and say I was released only because the police could'nt find evidence to convict me. I hope to Heaven the old man made a will giving all his money to charity."

"Faugh!" Such morbid talk was thoroughly exasperating. "Mr. Fluette had a much narrower escape than you did."

"Perhaps," he admitted heavily. "But nobody knows it outside of you and his family. I can't go to Belle with the odor of prison clinging to me. And what's more, I sha'n't."

"If you don't," I said quietly, "you'll break her heart. Your suffererring has been as nothing compared to hers."

Then I lost my patience completely. "Maillot," I flung at him, "you're a damned fool!" And I swung on my heel and strode away.

"Hi! Swift! Come back here!" he yelled after me. In the next second he had caught hold of my arm and jerked me to a standstill.

"Good Lord, man! I didn't know you had such a nasty temper! Here you come and drag me out of jail, and because I don't strike out hotfooted and throw myself into the presence of the cleanest, sweetest girl in the world, you think I'm an ass.

"Look here. I knew I was innocent; but at the same time I didn't try to blink my compromising predicament. I wouldn't blame any fair-minded person for being suspicious of me. But everything's happened so sudden—I can't understand—and—well, hang it, Swift! you havn't made yourself clear, by a long shot. If you think I ought to go to Belle, why, I'll go."

"Then let's go together," said I.

And we did.

After we had boarded a car, I reverted to the matter of the will.

"I don't think it's likely that any will will turn up," I told him. "I have talked with Mr. Ulysses White about it, and he said that Felix Page was one of the sort who have a holy horror of last testaments. If the old gentleman ever made any such disposition of his property, Mr. White had no hand in it."

To dismiss the matter, I will say here that no will ever did turn up, and that Maillot inherited the entire Page fortune. I merely mentioned this topic to pave the way for that of the ruby.

"Not the least part of the estate," I pursued, "will be the Paternoster ruby."

The young fellow interrupted me impulsively.

"By George, Swift! It's yours. Find it and keep it—or sell it and keep the money. I'll not have the ghastly thing—duck it into the lake first."

"That's no proper way to dispose of it; and later on you might regret such a gift to me. This was what I was going to suggest.

"I believe the claim of the Burmese to be just, for I suppose they're honest according to their lights. They would have a pretty hard time establishing it, though, if you are of a mind to contest the matter."

"Great Scott! Forget that cursed ruby; talk about something else. I want to get the thing out of my mind and never think of it again."

"All right. I sha'n't mention it after to-day. But let me get through. Here's an easy way to settle the matter.

"Let the Burmese have it after reimbursing the estate for what your uncle paid for it; it would be only fair—at least, in a measure.

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats, which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. D. M. Waters, your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into Belleville, and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

Fire Chief Refuses Present.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—The members of the fire department are keenly excited over the action that Chief Tremblay has taken, to put an end to a move that had been made to present him with a purse. Over thirteen hundred dollars had actually been subscribed by the firemen, when the facts of the case became known to the chief and the affair was promptly nipped in the bud. It was ordered that every cent subscribed must be given back.

Several weeks ago the members of the fire department decided that as Chief Tremblay had worked so earnestly for the good of the force the entire force ought to show its appreciation by making him a valuable present.

The move was so popular that very soon over a thousand dollars was subscribed.

Smuggled Razor Into Jail.

Brockville, Dec. 30.—James Cowan of Gananoque, after being liberated from the county jail here, where he served two months, was taken into custody again within a few hours. At the request of a prisoner named Doherty, serving eighteen months, Jailer McDougall handed over to Cowan from his belongings, a razor which was found later in the possession of Doherty. Cowan is charged with passing the instrument through the gate of the jail wall while the prisoners were being exercised in the yard.

The magistrate committed Cowan for trial. Doherty hails from Montreal and is considered a dangerous character.

Wife Prompted Murder.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 30.—Immediately after he had been sentenced to death for killing his friend Frank Bezek, last September, Frank Maley, between sobs, in criminal court here yesterday confessed that he had ambushed Bezek in a lonely road and shot him five times, at the instigation of Mrs. Bezek, who, he said, planned the crime and offered him $500 of her husband's saving for doing it.

It was necessary for deputy sheriffs to carry him back to his cell.

British Vice-Consul Dead.

Queenstown, Ireland, Dec. 30.—Thomas Broadwood, who was recently appointed British vice-consul at Chicago, died yesterday at the Queen's Hotel here. He was taken ill Thursday while he was on board the liner New York on the way to America and he disembarked here.

Monday will be Jan. 1st.

It is the day for "swearing off and swearing on," for making calls, for cutting coupons, for starting a diary, for misdating every letter you write, for receiving more bills than you ever before owed; and for making more resolutions than you ever before kept.

Any day will help you to break resolutions, but January 1st is the only day that helps you to make them.

Why not make one or two?

There are a good many kinds. Your wife can, perhaps, by the aid of hard thinking, suggest one, and we are going to propose another. It is in the nature of a business resolution—

It is that you resolve to do your trading during 1912 at the

Go to the Polls

A duty which the citizens of Belleville owe to themselves and to the community is to go to the polls on Monday and cast their votes in every ward in which they are qualified, for the by-law which proposes the abolition of the ward system, with its twenty-one aldermen, and the substitution of a Council with ten aldermen to be elected by the taxpayers of the city, irrespective of ward boundaries.

Belleville has had ample experience of government by the ward system and by the general system, and the record shows that nearly all of the city's unproductive expenditure and all the deficits in our financial administration, which added largely to the debt of the municipality, occurred under the former system, while almost all the progressive legislation and beneficial investments, including the water works and the gas department, were the product of the latter system.

These are statements which have many times been made in these columns, and no attempt has been made to contradict them, for the simple reason that they are facts which are impossible of successful contradiction.

Some of those who oppose the general system—chiefly those members of the late Council who know that they could not be elected by the general vote, and their little coterie of friends—are trying to draw a herring across the track by declaring in favor of the ward system with five, instead of seven, wards and a Council of fifteen members. No intelligent taxpayer can, however, be for a moment deceived by such a subterfuge. The question which is to be decided on Monday is not five wards or seven wards, but the substitution of the general system for the ward system, with seven wards. The same objections in geenral, it must be apparent, apply to five wards as to seven, and particularly that the voter who is assessed in one ward only can vote on the election of but one-fifth or one-seventh, as the case might be, of the men who are to spend his money. In this case it is one-seventh; and be it remembered that the big Council twice refused to reduce the number of wards; and it is not improbable that some of the men who are now talking about a reduced number of wards were among those who voted in Council against a reduction.

As is well said by a contemporary: "Citizens who do not take enough interest in the city's business to go to the polls next Monday should be consistent in their indifference to the city's affairs during the remainder of the year. Citizens who refuse to go to the polls on New Year's Day and vote for representatives of their own opinions should also refuse to growl at the way the city's business is managed or mismanaged by the representatives of other people's opinions."

The coming year will be a most important one in Belleville's history. The people, by the action of a minority of the expiring year's Council, were debarred from deciding some months ago under which system they preferred to be governed. It is, therefore, incumbent on the ratepayers to declare emphatically on the subject, as public opinion cannot fail to have great influence on those who will hold the reins of municipal government during the year; and no doubt if the by-law be carried by a large majority better candidates will come forward for the seats that have gone a-begging than would otherwise be the case.

Fewer Alderman

The following article, which is reproduced from the Montreal Star of Thursday last, is decidedly pertinent to the situation in Belleville under present circumstances:—

> When the question of the reduction of the number of aldermen was purely an academic one, there was little difficulty in persuading the actual aldermen to discuss it and even to admit that, in theory, a City Council of thirty-one members was too large for the best results.
>
> Now that the time has come to put this belief to a practical test and to proceed to the real task of amalgamating wards, eliminating excessive aldermen, and putting the Council on a working basis, we find a reluctance to act which may arise from a consideration for the interests of the city, but more probbaly has a more personal and selfish origin.
>
> It is easy enough to admit that a City Council of twenty is apt to be twice as business-like as one of thirty members, but the rub comes in trying to reconcile any given ten members to the fact that they will have to be sacrificed to bring this about. The average alderman is nothing if not tenacious of office and a proposal to make him submit to a test which means the retirement of one out of every three of the honorable body to which he belongs, fills him with repugnance and opposition. Except at election time, he is willing to give his hearty verbal support to the principle, but you must not expect him to go farther, a state of mind which is in perfect conformity with aldermanic traditions.
>
> Nevertheless, some way should be open for calling the attention of the Legislature to the fact that the opinion of the electors of Montreal has not changed. Two years ago, the referendum showed an overwhelming majority in favor of a small City Council. Nothing in the history of the present unwieldy, discursive, time-wasting Council has altered that decision.
>
> Montreal has the ward system, it is true, but each ward in that city is many times the size of Belleville; and even at that, the election of aldermen for those large constituencies led to an immense amount of grafting through representatives making themselves "solid" with their constituents at the expense of the city."

If thirty-one aldermen are too many for a city of half a million of inhabitants, as is the opinion of the people of Montreal, how many ought Belleville to have?

POPULATION OF GREAT CITIES.

London Has No Near Rival in Any of the Four Corners of the Earth.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—London, the biggest city in the world, has a population according to the last census, of 7,252,963, as compared with 6,581,402 in 1901; New York claims a population of 4,766,883 and is growing very rapidly. Indeed its growth is faster than any other city of the world.

Paris takes third place with a population of about 3,000,000. Berlin follows with about 2,800,000. Tokio and Chicago are bracketed with a little under 2,500,000. Vienna, St. Petersburg, Philadelphia and Pekin all have populations not much below the round 2,000,000.

420,000 LOOMS ARE NOW IDLE

Lancashire Lockout Has Become a Very Serious Affair.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The lockout in the cotton industry in Lancashire promises to be a serious affair and this morning it was announced that 420,000 looms have become idle. This is three-fifths of the total number of looms in the district. The weekly wage bill which the workers will lose is $800,000, and the number of employees affected is 200,000.

Should short time in the mills which are working, become effective, the loss in wages wil be well over $1,250,000. The drain on the wearers' unions for the support of the men will be very heavy and it is estimated that $300,000 will have to be disbursed weekly.

The dispute has now spread to the calico printing mills at Cheshire and 600 employes have been locked out.

Another evidence of the labor unrest in the United Kingdom was manifested to-day when 200 colliers employed in the mines at Treorchy in Wales, went out on strike as a protest against the employment of non-union miners.

BURIAL BY INSTALMENTS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 28.—To be the chief mourner at the funeral of part of himself is to be the novel experience of John Moes, of this city, who was run over by a street car and injured so severely that the amputation of his right leg was necessary.

By Moes' direction the limb will be placed in a vault, placed in a cemetery, and when he has recovered, it will be interred with the customary burial rites.

COUNTRY CORRESPONDENCE

THIRD LINE BREEZES.

The Thurlow township council were elected by acclamation. Our worthy Reeve, Mr. N. Vermilyea, addressed the electors at some length in his usual eloquent manner, entering into all the details of the municipal and county councils, of which he is a valuable member. The Deputy Reeve, Mr. Sills, and the councillors, Messrs. Holgate, Campbell and MacDonald, also spoke briefly, giving account of their stewardship.

Our annual school meeting was held on Wednesday, Dec. 27. There was a good attendance. Mr. Andrew Louck was elected trustee.

Mr. A. Ruttan left on Saturday on a business trip to Oshawa and Whitby. He will spend New Year's Day with his eldest daughter, Mrs. Oliver Tascue, and family.

Mr. W. Clare filled the pulpit at Bethany church on Sunday, Dec. 24, very acceptably. He gave a Christmas sermon which was greatly appreciated.

Mr. R. B. Cooley is home for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Ruttan, and son, Russell, spent Christmas and following days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tufts, near Tweed.

We are informed that Messrs. Frank and Thomas McAvoy have sold their farm to Mr. Wallbridge of Ameliasburg.

We wish you, Mr. Editor, a happy and prosperous New Year.

THE WAR IN TRIPOLI; SUCCESS AND REVERSES

Sudden Revolt of Arabs Jeopardizes Italian Garrison, but After Severe Fighting the Tribesmen are Repulsed and the Commander-in-Chief Gives Strict Orders Which Start Stories of Massacres

ROME, Dec. 29.—Italy's first serious realization that she would be able to hold Tripoli and Cyrenaica only by their complete subjugation was something of a blow, for it led up to the situation which brought down upon Italy the hostility and criticism—either justly or unjustly—of the entire foreign press, if not of the foreign governments themselves. This situation was that of the alleged atrocities.

Italy was busily attending to the "moral and material" development of the occupied territory, and repulsing occasional attacks from without, when suddenly, during one of the fiercest attacks, and evidently at a given signal, all of the natives inside of Tripoli, who had previously submitted, rose in revolt, and arming themselves in some mysterious manner, attacked the Italians from within while the latter were repulsing the enemy from without. By heroic efforts the Italians weer able to repulse both the enemy in front and behind. But immediately afterward Gen. Caneva issued orders that every native inside of the city found with arms in his possession be shot, that every house be searched, and that all of the inmates of every one in which arms or ammunition were found, be also executed.

It was the carrying out of this order that led to the reports in the entire European and American press of gross atrocities and massacres of the native inhabitants of Tripoli. Although sentiment now seems to be turning somewhat in favor of Italy, it has not been established by any outside investigation just what measure of blame, if any, should attach to the conduct of the Italian army.

Italy herself issued numerous official denials of the alleged massacres, as did also Gen. Caneva himself. The latter explained the nature of his order as well as the necessity for it and it has generally been conceded that the action he took is the same action that has always been taken in such situations in the past and which had to be taken after the natives had shown their treachery and the bad faith of their pretended submission.

As to the charges that women and children were put to death, it is the claim of the Italians that the only women and children put to death were those actually engaged in the treachery—the Italians admitting that they were accorded the same that they were accordded the same treatment as the men. To the charge that the innocent suffered as well as the guilty, the Italians admit that this is entirely possible because of the excitement, but on the other hand point out that the Italian temperament is not one of cruelty. In some instances, they say, the Italian soldiers were actually fired upon by Arab women and children.

This sudden awakening of the Italians to the fact that they would have to subdue the entire territory naturally threw the whole occupation back onto a purely military basis again, which resulted in a step which at first was not contemplated. This was the actual annexation of the territories of Tripoli and Cyrenaica—the sovereignty of which Italy had at first been willing to grant to Turkey—and their incorporation under the rule of the Italian crown.

King Victor Emmanuel, in signing the decree of annexation, pointed out to the powers had it had been brought about by Turkey's refusal to make peace, its insistence on prolonging a useless war, and the fact that all of the principal cities of the two territories were then in the full military occupation of Italy.

TRAMPS POISONED LIKE FLIES IN POOR HOUSE OF BERLIN

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—This city is scared to-day by the mysterious poisonings of many tramps. Thirty-six of these tramps were reported dead last night, and this morning the total reached fifty. Another fifty of these homeless men are in a serious condition.

The director of the Institute for Infectious Diseases performed a postmortem upon one of the victims, and reports that death was due to bacterial poisoning.

The chief causes for the public alarm over the epidemic are the mysteriousness of the affair and the fact that it is not confiend to the Froebelstrass Shelter, where it originated. Cases have occurred in another shelter on Wresenstrasse, which is far distant from the Froebelstarsse place and one man died in a police cell at Alexanderplatz, two at Hermsdorf, and one at Potsdam. Several have been attacked in the streets, and some of these have died before they reached the hospital.

The wholesale poisonings are attributed to decayed smoked herring, which was brought into the workhouses by the men in order to add to their frugal meal of bread and soup. Most of those who ate the fish are dead, and the others are in a hopeless condition. One explanation advanced was that one of the victims found the fish in a garbage pile of a market and divided it among his comrades of the streets.

Early this afternoon ambulances were travelling fast all over the city and picking up those who were ill.

The city authorities are most active, and the Burgomaster members of the City Council conferred on the situation and devised steps to be taken to meet the serious situation.

NEW PAPAL DECREE AND HOME RULE

Makes the Pope Dictator of Proposed Irish Parliament

LONDON, Dec. 29.—A persistent effort is being made by the Opposition press to use the recent Papal decree forbidding Roman Catholics from bringing priests or other acclesiasts into lay courts on pain of excommunication for disobedience as an argument against the Government's Home Rule proposals. The organs of the Opposition claim the decree makes the Pope dictator of the proposed Irish Parliament, which, it is admitted, will be overwhelmingly Nationalist, and, therefore, overwhelmingly Catholic. The Government and Irish Nationalist newspapers combat this argument with the contention that the decree will be of no force in Ireland unless it is proclaimed by the Irish Roman Catholic bishops, who have not taken any action in the matter up to the present time.

The Dublin correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette says the theory there is that the revival of the decree, which is an old one put in clearer form, is due to Cardinal Logue, the Primate of Ireland, and Cardinal Bourne, of Westminster, who are said to be opposed to Home Rule, and wish to kill it. The correspondent admits, however, that this theory doesn't jibe with the facts, as Cardinal Logue has been preaching Home Rule for a lifetime.

The Dublin Express, a strong Protestant organ, which was the originator of the propaganda, is now being backed by other anti-Catholic newspapers, which are evidently making an effort to influence Englishmen and Scotchmen who favor Home Rule to change their views.

CASE PUZZLES PHYSICIANS.

Efforts to Restore Injured Man to Consciousness Fail.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Dec. 29.—To live for years as one dead is the peculiar fate which awaits George Cohen, of New York, according to the medical experts. Cohen was struck on the head by a trolley car five weeks ago, and since that time he has been unconscious in the Norwalk hospital.

Every resource of science has been tried to restore Cohen to consciousness, but all have failed, although the victim is physically strong and shows no indication of dissolution save by a natural death. It is thought he will live for years this way, unless some unexpected cure is effected.

WIFE TAKEN AWAY BY CROKER FAMILY

So Horse Trainer for J. R. Stratton Declares, and He Wants $100,000 as Balm for Wounds.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany Hall, and his sons, Richard Croker, jr., and Howard Croker, were made joint defendants in a civil action begun to-day by John J. Breen, to recover $100,000. Breen was married to Miss Ethel J. Croker, daughter of the former Tammany leader, on April 28, 1910, and alleges that his wife's affections were alienated by Croker and his two sons. Breen declares in his complaint, that he and his wife lived peaceably, happily and harmoniously together until the defendants influenced and induced his wife to leave him.

Breen was a teacher of horsemanship when Miss Croker and he were married by a justice of the peace in Hoboken, N.J. It was said at the time that the family of the bride were much displeased at the marriage.

Breen has since his marriage, been horse trainer for James R. Stratton, ex-M. P., of Peterborough, Ont.

DAYS GETTING LONGER.

Only Three Minutes Difference in Nine Days—Why Shortest Day Is Not Coldest.

This year of 1911 the 22nd was the shortest day, although the 23rd was only a fraction of a minute longer. The date of the shortest day depends on when the sun raeches the winter solstice, which is its further point from the equator of the earth.

Since the autumnal equinox of course the days have been shorter than the nights. They continue to shorten until the 22nd of December, and then about March 21st the days begin to get longer than the nights.

This year on the shortest day the sun was above the horizon for eight hours and 55 minutes. On Sunday, the 31st of this month, there will be daylight for only eight hours and 58 minutes. So that in nine days' time daylight has increased only three minutes, or about one-third of a minute each day. After New Year, however, the days will continue to lengthen much faster.

The question may sometimes arise as to why the weather is not coldest on the shortest day, when the sun's rays are striking the earth slant-wise, or hottest about the 21st of June, when the sun's rays are most direct. Everyone knows we often have our hottest weather in July and August, and correspondingly our coldest in January and February. Theoretically the coldest day ought to come on the shortest day, but, owing to the ability of the atmosphere to retain the heat from summer, it takes some time for it to become cooled off. This causes the colder weather to come later in the season.

Again, it might be asked whether, since the 22nd of December was the shortest day, were the 21st and the 23rd of equal length. This would only happen if the sun reached the winter solstice at midday on the 22nd of December. Otherwise, the day before and after the shortest would not be equal in length.

BUYS A HAUNTED HOUSE.

British Solicitor-General Defies Ancient Superstition.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 26.—Sir John Simon, Solicitor-General of Britain, is a courageous man. He has bought an old manor house reputed to be haunted. It is known as Fritwell and is located near Banbury. Sir John paid $36,000 for the estate. The spooky reputation of the house arose from three tragedies. A man was killed there in a duel in 1712. The next tenants, Longueville by name, were involved in a great scandal. Two brothers of the family were in love with the same lady, and the story runs that the younger imprisoned the elder in what was known as "a human dog kennel" in the attic for fourteen years. The elder brother's death was attributed to starvation. Sir Baldwin Wake, who bought the place shortly after the Longueville tenancy expired, was suspected of having killed his son in a quarrel over a card game. According to the tradition the body was concealed by Sir Baldwin and another son in the "dog kennel." Ten years ago the house was renovated and the "dog kennel" removed. Entrance to the "kennel" was obtained through a sliding door in the rear of a cupboard.

FORGER'S MURDEROUS ATTACK ON MATTAWA CHIEF OF POLICE

Ernest Monette of Many Aliases, had Been Apprehended for Passing Worthless Cheques

NORTH BAY, Dec. 29.—Chief of Police Robert McElroy, of Mattawa, was murderously assaulted by a prisoner named Ernest Monette, alias Gagne, Page and Leclair, whom he had arrested on a charge of forgery, and obtaining money under false pretences. Monette came up behind the chief at the lock-up and struck him on the head with a club, knocking him unconscious. Town Clerk John McMeein heard the noise, rushed in, and was also attacked by the prisoner, who then made his escape to the woods surrounding the town. A posse was organized and Monette was recaptured. He was committed for trial and brought before Judge Valin, at North Bay, pleading guilty to forgery. He was remanded for sentence, pending the outcome of Chief McElroy's injuries which are serious and may possibly result fatally. Monette, under the name of Page, passed a cheque supposed to be signed by J. Lumsden, lumberman, for $70, in payment for a $10 suit of clothes, receiving $60 change in cash. At another store, under the name of Leclair, he passed a similar cheque for $40 in payment for small purchases and was given change.

POLICEMAN TO RETIRE AFTER 49 YEARS' WORK

Philadelphia Officer Makes Fortune in Real Estate and Decides to Spend Rest of Life at Ease.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—Geo. W. Cromwell, believed to be one of the wealthiest policemen in the country, will retire on Jan. 1 after 49 years in the service of the department of this city. He was never reprimanded. His average salary has been less than $1,000 a year, and he will retire with the rank of sergeant with more than $250,000.

Cromwell, who is 71 years old, declares that he made his money in real estate, purchasing much property years ago in West Philadelphia when that section was miles from the city proper and it looked as if Philadelphia would never reach out 13 miles from the city hall.

In the Civil War, as a member of the famous Baxter Fire Zouaves, Sergeant Cromwell lost an arm at the battle of Antietam. His one extravagance is his desire to own works of art. In his summer home at Glenolden he has many fine paintings.

ADOPT WOMAN OF 45.

New Father and Mother Are Both Still in the Thirties.

STERLING, Ill., Dec. 29.—Papers have been taken out by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lathe, of Erie, Ill., adopting Miss Ella Mather as their child. Miss Mather is 45 years old, while Mr. and Mrs. Lathe are 32 and 30 years of age, respectively.

Miss Mather, who is highly educated and a graduate of the violin department of a conservatory of music, has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Lathe since their marriage, having been a warm friend of Mrs. Lathe before her marriage. The Lathes are childless, while Miss Mather is an orphan. Being wealthy, and to make Miss Mather their legal heir and avoid possible litigation with relatives, papers of adoption were taken out by Mr. and Mrs. Lathe.

PROVES HE IS ALIVE.

Surrogate's Court Then Charges Him $63, but He Objects.

NEWARK, N.J., Dec. 28.—Joseph Blaney, of Hunterdon County, offered decided objection here to-day to paying $63 to prove that he was alive. Blaney, who was about to be declared "officially dead," because nothing had been heard of him here for eighteen years, turned up at the Surrogate's office and put in a claim for a share of his father's estate, advertisements of the proceedings inserted in newspapers recently having come to his attention.

When he found that he would have to pay $63 to keep himself off the "dead list" he demurred, and an explanation that the expense was for advertising for him in various places failed to satisfy him. Blaney said he would consult counsel to find out why payment of the money demanded was necessary to bring him officially to life again.

"UNCLASP WALTZ" THE LATEST.

London Sees Novelty in This Season's Ball Rooms.

The "unclasp waltz" is the latest novelty in dances reported from London. "In it the partners do not clasp each other," says the English Gentlewoman, "but stand face to face, holding their arms out sideways, the fingers touching, but not interlacing.

"They do eight bars of the waltz in this relative position toward each other. Next the man puts his hands on his hips and the girl puts hers behind her back, but still face to face, but not touching each other, they continue through eight more bars. It is the privilege of the man to reverse or not under these rather difficult circumstances.

$15,000,000 TO FORGERS IN YEAR

Author of "Questioned Documents" Declares Many Millions Went to Criminals in 1911.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Albert S. Osborn, author of "Questioned Documents," and an authority on the subject, declares that the forgery loss in this country for the year 1911 is fully $15,000,000, says Munsey's. "Clever penmen are leaving a trail of bad checks reaching from Portland Me., to Portland, Ore.," Mr. Osborn declares. "Banks and hotels are naturally the shining marks of the forger, but nearly all, if not quite, as much money is paid out on forgeries by individuals, small storekeepers and business houses as by all the banks and hotels combined.

"A large part, especially of the unreported forgeries is in amounts of less than a hundred dollars. If the forger of a small check has vanished, and only a doubtful clue remains, the natural impulse is not to send good money after bad. In most cases nothing is done, and the criminal goes on his way unhampered and unafraid. Banks, naturally do not care to have it known that they pay out customers' money on forged paper, and if the forger is gone, they are not inclined to take much trouble to find him."

FINGER PRINTS CONVICTED HIM

Illinois Murderer Left Finger Prints on Scantling.

OTTAWA, Ill., Dec. 29.—Inspector Foster, in charge of the federal criminal identification bureau, who gave expert evidence in the trial of Thos. Jennings, accused of murder in Illinois, has been notified that the State Supreme Court has upheld the jury's conviction. Except that he was seen near the spot where the murder was committed and that his finger prints in blood were found on a scantling outside the kitchen door, there was no evidence against him.

NEW TEXT BOOKS TO BE ISSUED.

History by Prof. Wrong and Reader Geography to Be Issued by Education Department.

Within the next few days two new text books for the schools of Ontario will be issued by the Department of Education.

A new High School History of England, compiled by Prof. George M. Wrong, of Toronto University, and modeled after the style of his "English Nation," it is hoped, will be ready for use in the schools before the holidays are closed.

A reader geography of an improved type for the third form of the Public Schools also will be ready before the scholars return to school.

In addition to these texts the Education Department is preparing a system of manuals for the assistance of teachers.

HOW TO VOTE ON THE BY-LAW

The by-law which is to be voted upon on Monday next is in exactly the following form:

January 1st, 1912.
Voting on By-Law respecting the Council of the City of Belleville.

FOR THE BY-LAW.

AGAINST THE BY-LAW.

This form is so indefinite that explanation is necessary in order that the average voter may know just what it means.

The by-law proposes to abolish the ward system, with its big Council of twenty-one members, and to substitute for it a Council of ten members, to be elected by the vote of the whole city.

All who desire to have a voice in the election of all the men who are to spend their money will vote for the by-law.

Under the present system, the elector who is assessed in but one ward can vote on the election of but three members of a Council of twenty-one members.

Under the general system, which the by-law, if carried, will bring into operation, the elector so assessed can, as above explained, vote for ten members of a Council of ten.

Therefore, place your X in the upper compartment of the ballot paper, and

VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

TURKS WIN A VICTORY

They Capture an Italian Position at Tobruk.

Report From General at Tripoli Says That the Troops Attacked a Fortified Camp and After Twenty-Four Hours' Fighting Took It and Almost Annihilated the Defenders—Stores Are Captured.

Washington, Dec. 30.—A 24-hour battle, in which the Turkish troops defeated the Italian force, killing half of it in the rout, is described in an official message from Constantinople made public at the Turkish embassy last night. The message was transmitted to the Imperial Minister of War at Constantinople by the commander of the Turkish troops from Tobruk, Tripoli, under date of Dec. 22.

The report follows: "We have attacked the fortified posts of the enemy. Notwithstanding the fire from the warships and fort batteries, we entered the fort and the garrison has been annihilated. Ammunitions, provisions, war material and a quick-firing gun have been carried into our camp.

"In its forward march one of our wings cut off the retreat of the enemy, who fled toward the coast. During the retreat the enemy lost half their number. The battle lasted all day and night. Among the killed were three officers of the enemy. Our losses were seven killed and a few wounded.

"The Sheik H. Meri, with his five sons, came at the head of his tribe, is among the dead. The courage of our officers and soldiers is exemplary. Lieut. Nedjib Bey was the first to enter the fort. He destroyed the quick-firing guns and carried away one into our camp."

Drove Off Turks.

Derna, Tripoli, Dec. 26.—(Delayed)—An Italian force, under Gen. Delbuono, while protecting engineers at work repairing the aqueduct, was strongly engaged by a large force of Turks with heavy artillery. The Italians, though hard pressed, managed to hold off the enemy until the work was completed, and then retired on their redoubts with a loss of three killed and 77 wounded.

D. J. McRae Buried.

Cornwall, Dec. 30.—The funeral of the late D. J. McRae of Bridge End, who figured so prominently in the recent McRae case, took place at St. Margaret's Church, Glen Navis, Thursday. Mr. McRae was the father of Mrs. (Dr.) Magee, Ottawa, whose trouble with her Protestant husband led to the attempt of Magee to remove his child from the McRae homestead, which resulted in the fatal shooting of one of his party, William Shaw, and the consequent conviction and life sentence for manslaughter of Farquhar D. McRae, reeve of Lancaster Township, and brother of deceased

D. C. McRae was 73 years of age and leaves two sons and one daughter. was closely related to the Camerons, McDonalds, McLellans, McRaes and other Glengarry families.

The funeral was one of the largest ever held in the County of Glengarry. The service was attended by his lordship Bishop McDonnell of Alexandria, and six priests. Rev. Corbot McRae of this town was the celebrant of the requiem mass and the sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. J. E. McRae of St. Andrew's.

Women's Votes Cheap.

Los Angeles, Dec. 30.—It cost the women of California 15.3 cents a vote to win their fight for equal suffrage at the recent state election, according to reports given out at the headquarters of the Southern California Political Equality League yesterday. The men admit $2.30 a vote is cheap for campaigns conducted by them.

Reports submitted to the league show that $26,000 was spent in the California campaign. The report showed that no one connected with the women's campaign drew a salary of more than $75 a month.

Where the Shoe Pinches.

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 30.—The increase in the wholesale price of shoes, which will be inaugurated in March by the Brockton shoe manufacturers, will be put into effect at the same time by the Lynn association, and by most of the New England manufacturers. The matter will be taken up later before the conventional association in New York.

Lynn makers say that their advance in price will probably be from 5 to 7 per cent. Retailers will add enough to retail prices to protect themselves.

Sharp Fighting In Morocco.

Madrid, Dec. 30.—Corrected official advices arriving here from Melilla, Morocco, yesterday afternoon, show Spanish losses in the battle with the Riffian tribesmen in Morocco on Dec. 27 of seven officers and 61 soldiers killed and 18 officers and 210 soldiers wounded. The killed include a colonel and three captains.

The captain-general of Melilla reports that there is every indication that Spain will be confronted with a serious military proposition with the Moroccan tribesmen.

Rescued Forty Fishermen.

Prince Rupert, B.C., Dec. 30.—The halibut steamer Grant of Seattle went ashore off White Rock, Banks Island, and quickly sank, Tuesday night. Her crew of forty men took to the dories and were picked up by the Canadian fishing steamer Falcon from here. Owing to the rough weather, the Falcon did not report here until yesterday.

The Grant had 30,000 pounds of halibut on board at the time she sank.

Quebec To Teach English.

Quebec, Dec. 30.—The Congress of the French Catholic school inspectors of the Province of Quebec was brought to a close at noon yesterday. A resolution was adopted urging strongly that the teaching of English be encouraged in the primary schools throughout the province.

RUSSIANS TAKE TABRIZ

After Nine Days' Siege Invaders Occupy the City.

Progressive Persian Forces Are Dispersed and Losses Have Been Heavy on Both Sides, But Authenticated Reports Deny Rumors of Atrocities on Either Side—The Ark Was the Storm Centre.

Tabriz, Persia, Dec. 30—A nine days' siege of this city by the Russian troops, and the dispersal of the combatants belonging to the Constitutional Progressive Party (or Fidais). A large number of casualties were sustained by both sides, the Russians alone losing from 100 to 200 men, while the losses of the Fidais were very severe, although the number cannot be ascertained.

No casualties were suffered by the resident foreign population, but many individuals suffered from a lack of provisions, while they were closely confined to their homes during the prolonged street fighting.

The atrocities which are reported to have been committed by the troops on both sides are entirely unfounded, the mortality among the native noncombatants being far from large.

The Russians alone were the object of the operations of the Persians, who displayed no resentment whatever against any other foreigners.

A collision between a patrol of the Russian guard and the Persian constitutionalists in the street during the night of Dec. 20 was the beginning of the disturbances. Two Persians were shot dead in this affair, after which the population showed great resentment, and fighting became general throughout the city on the following morning.

The principal engagement during the siege occurred in the neighborhood of the Russian consulate around the citadel known as "The Ark," and at the Russian camp at Baghi Shemel.

The Persians fired on the Russian camp with small mountain artillery from the top of "The Ark." The Russian soldiers in the camp replied by shelling "The Ark" with shrapnel and driving the Persians from their position. One of the shells struck the American flag flying at the consulate, which is situated near "The Ark," and the staff fell with a crash on the roof, but no further damage was done.

On the following day there was desperate fighting in the streets, the rifle and maxim fire being continuous. On the same day the Persians made a night attack on the Russian camp to which the Russians at first did not reply, awaiting the closer approach of the assailants. Finally the Russian troops opened fire, repulsing the Persians with heavy loss.

The Russian positions, both in the camp and at the Russian consulate, were at that time evidently in a precarious state. All communication between the camp and the Russian consulate was completely cut off for several days.

The first detachment of Russian reinforcements from Julta, consisting of 800 men with four guns, arrived in the outskirts of the city on the night of Dec. 26. They had made a forced march of 48 hours from their camp at Julfa, eighty miles from Tabriz. On the following morning without establishing previous communication with the Russian camp or consulate they shelled various quarters of the city indiscriminately, doing, however, little damage, but impressing the Persians with the hopelessness of continuing their resistance. The citadel after being shelled from the cap was evacuated by the Persians on the following day and the Russians troops occupied it, raising the Russian flag over "The Ark."

Richeson Rumor Denied.

Boston, Dec. 30.—Reports that an agreement has been reached between District Attorney Pelletier and counsel for the defence by which Rev. Mr. Richeson is to plead guilty to second degree murder were emphatically denied by the district attorney in a statement issued last night. "There is only one agreement possible," Mr. Pelletier says, "and that is a plea of guilty to the charge of murder in the first degree."

The district attorney again declares that the accused minister is in good physical and mental condition, and will be able to stand trial on Jan. 15, the date set.

Farmer Burned to Death.

Brockville, Dec. 30.—A. A. Chapman, a prominent farmer, aged about 40, residing ten miles from Brockville, in the Township of Elizabethtown, was burned to death yesterday morning while attempting to rescue a team of horses from his barns which caught fire by a spark from the chimney of an adjoining dwelling. It is supposed he was overcome by smoke. The charred body was found two hours later in the ruins. Chapman leaves a widow but no children. A coroner has gone from Brockville to conduct an inquest if necessary.

Guayaquil's New Cabinet.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Dec. 30.—Gen. Pedro Montero has formed a provisional government, the portfolios being distributed as follows: Minister of the Interior, Manuel Tama; Minister of Finance, Juan Borja; Minister of Foreign Affairs, Modesta Chavez Franco; Minister of Public Instruction, Alfonso Arzub; Minister of War and Navy, Francisco Martinez Aquirre.

"Dreamland" To Be Park.

New York, Dec. 30.—The seven-acre plot of ground on Coney Island, formerly occupied by the Dreamland Amusement Park, burned last spring, will be turned into a public park. Mayor Gaynor yesterday approved the aldermanic resolution appropriating $1,000,000 for the purchase of the site.

Influx From United States.

Winnipeg, Dec. 30.—Official figures given out in Winnipeg yesterday show that 120,000 settlers from the United States came to Canada this year, bringing property valued at $20,000,000.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

William Smith dropped dead on the street at Guelph.

Joseph Lalonde lost his life while skating at Byng Inlet yesterday.

The new King George postage stamps will be issued early in the new year.

The customs collections for the eight months of the fiscal year amounted to $56,336,708.

The G.T.R. announces an increase of pay to trainmen and yardman to date from Jan. 1.

Rev. T. Darcy Clayton of Manotisk, Ont., will succeed Canon Mucklestone as rector of St. James' Church, Perth.

Thomas Waugh, aged 96, an old resident of Parham, Ont., fell down the stairs at his home and was killed.

The Sulpicians of Montreal have won their suit with the Indians for the possession of the Two Mountains seigniory.

Hon. Adam Beck turned on Hydro-electric power at Baden, his native town, and he and Mrs. Beck were given a hearty welcome.

The Watt House, a large boarding-house in the village of Haliburton, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday night, the inmates having barely time to escape in their night robes.

Brantford was crippled yesterday through lack of power, while Thursday night the city was in entire darkness. Not a street or radial car moved all day. The breakdown of the Cataract plant at Decew's Falls was the cause.

Nine deaths which occurred from yesterday morning up to midnight bring the total of victims at the Berlin (Germany) night shelter for the homeless, who were poisoned by eating tainted fish, up to 57. Some ninety persons still are ill.

Election Laws Bad.

Auguste, Me., Dec. 30.—A special session of the Maine Legislature to consider the liquor laws, re-district the state for Congress and revise the election laws, was announced last night in a proclamation issued by Governor F. W. Plaisted. The session is to begin March 20.

In the proclamation Governor Plaisted refers to the difficulty encountered in tabulating the vote at the last state election on the question of repealing the constitutional amendment prohibiting the sale of liquor. The proclamation says: "Our laws relating to the conduct of elections, the making of returns to the governor and council, the tabulating of the such returns and the declaration of the result thereof, are uncertain in their meaning and inadequate in substance."

Halifax Hotel Burned.

Halifax, Dec. 30.—The King Edward Hotel, opposite the Intercolonial Railway station in this city, was totally destroyed by fire last night.

It was a very dangerous conflagration on account of a heavy northwest gale that swept over the city and carried great embers for half a mile over the roofs of buildings on Lockman street and the waterfront. The only outbreak of fire outside the hotel, however, was in a wooden house three hundred yards distant, but this was extinguished without much damage.

Sixty men from H.M.C.S. Niobe under Lieut. White, R.N., volunteered and gave effective assistance to the fire department. The building and furniture, owned by Wm. Wilson, valued at $65,000 were partially insured.

160,000 Weavers Out.

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 30.—Nothing has as yet been done by way of intervention to end the great cotton mill strike, which has thrown 160,000 weavers out of work and placed on half pay an equal number of spinners. Both sides to the dispute appear determined not to yield and the situation remains practically unchanged.

Joel and Sarah Riley, whose refusal to join the union caused the trouble, have been compelled to leave their home at Accrington on account of the hostile demonstrations against them. The locked out operatives so far are unconcerned over the strike and treat it as an agreeable extension of their Christmas holiday.

Another Empire Binder.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—Efforts are being made to form a Canadian branch of the Empire Parliamentary Association, the foundations of which were laid during the visit of overseas Parliamentary delegations to England at the time of the coronation. The object is to provide some permanent machinery, to provide more ready exchange of information and to facilitate close understanding and more frequent intercourse between members of the various British Parliament.

Arrested Financier In Error.

London, Eng., Dec. 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian Associated Press is informed that John Howard Ford, described as a financier, well known in American financial circles, who is under arrest here on a charge of abduction, was released yesterday morning from Bow street. The New York police, who gave Ford's name, description and even the number of his cabin, made a serious mistake.

Dynamite Exploded Near Dundas.

Hamilton, Dec. 30.—The explosion of a large quantity of dynamite in a quarry close to Dundas about 10.30 o'clock last night, gave rise to a rumor that six workmen had been killed, but the report proved to be without foundation. No one was injured, the men employed at the quarry being all in Dundas when the discharge occurred.

Her Grave Pre-empted.

Wob[illegible] Mass., Dec. 30.—Mrs. Anna Myersc[illegible] Dorchester has brought suit fo[illegible]spass against the trustees of the Boston Cemetery here because a grave which she had reserved for her own personal use, is occupied by the body of a man.

Women to Advise Mayor.

Santa Monica, Cal., Dec. 30.—Seven women have been selected by Mayor-elect R. H. Dow to act in an advisory capacity during his term of office.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable was quieter and bids were rather irregular, some being lower and others higher, consequently sales of only a few loads were made. A fair trade continues to be done in coarse grains on spot, the demand being steady from outside points for car lots of oats. The demand for flour is still somewhat limited from all sources and prices are steady. A good trade continues to be done in bran and shorts. Cheese is strong under a fairly good demand. Butter is active and firm. Eggs fairly active. Demand for provisions fair at steady prices.

To Amend Copyright Act.

London, Dec. 30.—The Yorkshire Post says the Home Government has invited the Dominion Government to submit legislation amending the Copyright Act. It is impossible to have a uniform empire law if the new Canadian Government takes the same view as its predecessors. Germany and other countries are determined to stand aloof from the convention if Canada persists in her present attitude. Mr. Burrill's recent statements tend to spread the hope that Canada may come into line.

Gutters Ran With Liquor.

New York, Dec. 30.—Police headquarters cleaned house for the new year by throwing into the gutter yesterday over 3,000 gallons of contraband liquor, which had been stored there since seizures made last June. Members of the excise board came with axes and sledge hammers, smashed liquor bottles and demijohns and kegs containing more than $5,000 worth of liquor.

CONVENTION TO DECIDE

Chinese Factions Agree to Leave Matters to Assembly.

Manchus at Peace Conference Promise Not to Effect a Foreign Loan Pending the Decision of the National Convention, and to Draw Troops From Positions In Shansi, Shenso, Hupeh and Kiangsu.

Shanghai, Dec. 30.—The peace conference being held here between the representatives of the Pekin Government and the revolutionary party, at their meeting yesterday, agreed in the first place that the question of the form of government to be ultimately adopted for China should be discussed and decided by a national convention, whose decision should be binding on both parties.

In the second place, it was agreed that pending the decision of the national convention, the Manchu Government was neither to accept nor to attempt to obtain foreign loans.

In the third place, all Manchu troops in the Provinces of Shansi, Shenso, Hupeh, and Kiangsu shall evacuate their present positions and withdraw from them to a distance of 100 li (about 37 miles) within five days, beginning from Dec. 31.

The republican troops shall in the meantime neither advance nor occupy the places evacuated pending special arrangements to be reached by mutual agreement. The Manchu troops are not to advance nor to attack the positions at Shantung, already held by the republicans, nor shall the republican troops advance upon nor capture new places.

It is understood that the national convention to be called is to include those delegates at present in conference at Nanking, who have elected Dr. Sun Yat Sen president of the republic and others to be elected.

The Wily Tuan Fang.

Shanghai, Dec. 30.—Tang Shao Yi yesterday received a telegram from Pekin, saying that Tuan Fang, formerly director-general of the Hukwang Railroad and ex-viceroy of the Province of Chili, had arrived in the capital disguised as a coolie.

It was reported Dec. 18 that Tuan had been killed at Tsechow, Province of Shansi, by his own soldiers, under dramatic circumstances. The telegram received by Tang relates that Tuan says he bribed his soldiers to announce publicly that they had murdered him. Instead, they killed a pig and exhibited their bloody swords to the populace, vowing that the stains upon them had been made by Tuan's blood. Meanwhile, Tuan, clothed in rags, made his escape.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen and Wu Ting Fang, the Minister of Foreign Affairs in the revolutionary government, entertained at dinner last night. Dr. Sun declares himself ready to accept the presidency of the Republic of China if the national convention confirms his selection.

W. C. MIKEL, K.C., PRESIDENT.

Young Belleville Lawyer Head of Ontario Bar Association.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—At the final session of the annual meeting of the Ontario Bar Association, held at Osgoode Hall, W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, one of the most distinguished of the younger lawyers of the Province, was chosen President of the Association, to succeed Charles Elliott K.C., who has served his office diligently and well during the past year. Mr. Mikel was immediately called to the platform, following his election, and introduced, but he brought the meeting to a speedy conclusion on account of the lateness of the hour.

The list of officers elected was as follows: Hon. President, E. F. B. Johnston, K.C.; President, W. C. Mikel, K.C.; Vice-Presidents, M. H. Ludwig, K.C., F. M. Field, K.C., W. J. McWhinney, K.C.; Recording Secretary, George C. Campbell; Corresponding Secretary, R. J. Maclennan; Treasurer, A. McLean Macdonell, K. C.; Historian, Col. W. N. Ponton; Councillors, A. K. Clarke, K.C., F. E. Hodgins, K.C., S. F. Lazier, K.C., Charles Elliott, J. E. Farewell, K.C., A. Lemieux, Walter Mills, F. W. Harcourt, K.C., Frank Denton, K.C., Jas. Bain, K.C., C. A. Moss and C. F. Ritchie.

BRITISH DIVORCE REPORT.

Forecast Says County Courts May Be Given Power to Deal With Cases.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 29.—The Morning Leader in a forecast of the report of the Royal Commission, which has been investigating the question of divorce, says that the majority report will recommend that the county court be empowered to deal with divorce suits within well defined restrictions.

UNITED STATES WILL TEACH AERONAUTICS

Courses are to be Established in Colleges—A Plea for Workmen

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 29.—Courses of aeronautics soon will be established in American universities to fit young men for the profession of flying and for airship building. This was predicted to-day by Professor A. Lawrence Roach of Blue Hill meteorological observatory, Boston, in an address before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Professor Roach said the United States was far behind European countries in etablishing laboratories for the study of aeronautics.

Effective legislation to protect the person and rights of the American laborer was the subject of discussion in the opening meeting of the American Association of Labor Organization. Professor Henry Seager, of Columbia University, who presided, urged the establishment of a federal commission on industrial diseases, for which legislation is now pneding in congress.

"Not more than fifteen per cent. of the men injured while working are able to obtain compensation under the so-called common law," said John H. Wallace, a member of the Industrial Commission of the State of Washington. He added that the nation was a bad employer and his view was endorsed by I. M. Rubinow, a former expert of the national bureau of labor, who said private corporations gave employees much more consideration and care than does the government.

Cheaper illuminating gas for consumers in the near future through the advancement of science was predicted by Professor Charles B. Murroe of Washington in an address before the American Chemical Society.

A new method for determining whether maple sugar is the real article, or an adulterated product was described to the same association by Professor J. Snell of MacDonald College, Quebec.

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE

James Luffman, Esq.,
Canifton, Ont.

Dear Sir and Brother,—On behalf of Mizpah Lodge No. 127 I.O.O.F., I desire to convey to you and your bereaved family, the sincere and heartfelt sympathy of your brethren in the dispensation of providence which deprived you of a loving wife and your children of an affectionate mother, our earnest prayer is that the Divine Ruler of events will grant you and yours consoling grace to bear the burden with fortitude and the assurance of a happy reunion where the weary are at rest and parting is no more.

On behalf of the lodge,
Fraternally yours,
CHARLES A. OSTROM,
Secretary.

THOMAS

favors all progressive measures that will advance BELLEVILLE.

For Mayor

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

At the solicitation of a large number of the ratepayers, I have decided to come before you, asking your support for the position of Mayor for the year 1912.

For the past seven years I have faithfully served you as one of your representatives, and during that time I have filled most of the prominent chairmanships in the Council.

It will be impossible to see you all personally between now and election, but if my services have met with your approval, I trust you will give me your vote and influence.

Yours obedient servant,
A. G. VERMILYEA

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

In order that you may understand my position in matters affecting the city's welfare, kindly permit me to state that I am in favor of the following:

1st.—Permanent paving of Front St.
2nd.—An improvement of all city roads.
3rd.—Extension of the water system.
4th.—A substantial reduction of the water rates.
5th.—An aggressive policy to secure the location of manufacturing industries.
6th.—Improved harbor facilities.
7th.—An active interest in the workingman's welfare.
8th.—The present cow by-law and not the by-law as proposed by the Board of Health.
9th.—It will be my constant aim to protect the health, the morals, and to advance the general welfare of the city, to which end, if elected, I shall devote my best efforts with the co-operation of the citizens to BOOST BELLEVILLE.

I beg to submit to my fellow electors, that my seven years continuous service as Alderman, during which time I have not missed a Committee or Council meeting; and have occupied the Chairmanship of most of the important Committees, should entitle me to your support, which I confidently believe you will give me.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year
A. G. VERMILYEA

MARKET TODAY WAS NOT VERY LARGE

While the market to-day was fairly well attended, it was by no means equal to that of a week ago. There were but few changes to note in prices of produce offered for sale.

Eggs, which a week ago, reached a record price, have declined somewhat in price owing to being more plentiful. The ruling price to-day was 40 cents per dozen, but in some cases they were sold for less.

Fresh butter sold readily at from 28c. to 30c. per pound.

Dressed poultry was offered for sale in considerable quantities and good prices were realized. Potatoes are a scarce article and are sold as high as $1.90 per bag. During the week there has been no change to note in the hog market, $6 per cwt. being the highest price paid.

Our quotations are as follows:
Fall wheat—75c. to 80c.
Spring wheat—80c. to 85c.
Oats—38c. to 40c.
Barley—75c. to 80c.
Rye—65c. to 70c.
Peas—70c. to 80c.
Buckwheat—50c. to 60c.
Clover, red—$9 to $10.50.
Timothy—$5.50 to $6.50.
Alsike—$10 to $10.50.
Hay $14 to $15.
Straw—$2.50 to $3.50 per load.
Butter—28c. to 30c.
Apples—30c. to 40c.
Fresh Eggs—40c.
Packed Eggs—30c.
Live Hogs—$6.00.
Dressed Hogs—$8.10 to $8.15.
Dressed Beef—$8.50 to $9.00.
Spring lamb—18c. to 20c.
Mutton—9c. to 11c.
Ducks—$1.25 to $1.50.
Chickens—70c. to $1.40 per pair.
Geese—$1.40 to $2.00.
Turkeys—$1.75 to $3.50.
Lamb skins—80c.
Lamb Skins—75c.
City hides, trimmed—9 1-2c.
Country hides, trimmed—9c.
Horse hides—$2.50 to $2.75.
Kips—8c.
Deakin skins—70c.
Tallow rough—2c.
Wool, washed—19c.
Wool, unwashed—11c.
Potatoes—$1.75 to $1.90.
Old Fowls—9c. per lb.
The prices of furs are as follows:—
Red Fox, No. 1.—$5 to $6.
Mink, No. 1.—$4 to $6.
Skunk, broad stripe.—40c.
Skunk, narrow stripe—60c.
Skunk, short stripe—$1.00.
Skunk, black—$1.50 to $2.
Muskrats—25c.
Weasels—25c. to 50c.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

ANY person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion lands Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.09.

I really could not live without "Fruit-a-tives"

FENAGHVALE, ONT. Jan. 29th, 1910.

"For thirty-five years (and I am now a man over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation. No matter what remedy or physicians I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure. About two years ago, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' and I decided to try them.

I have used 'Fruit-a-tives' ever since. They are the first and only medicine that suited my case. If it were not for 'Fruit-a-tives' I am satisfied that I could not live" JAMES PROUDFOOT.

The greatest remedy in the world for all forms of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, is "Fruit-a-tives". Doctors as well as hundreds of people proclaim it.

"Fruit-a-tives" cures all stomach troubles because it makes the liver active, strengthens the kidneys, purifies the blood and keeps the stomach sweet and clean. "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy made of fruit juices.

WILL ISSUE MANIFESTO.

Sun Yat Sen Accepts Presidency of Republic Provisionally.

Shanghai, Dec. 30.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, after having received a definite report of his election to the presidency of the Republic of China by the delegates of the eighteen provinces in convention at Nanking spent the afternoon here yesterday in close conference with his advisors. There is reason to believe that the personnel of a cabinet will be announced almost immediately and that it will be representative of all sections holding the confidence of the people of China. Among those selected is Chen Chin Tao, who has accepted the portfolio of Minister of Finance. The president will select Gen. Li Yuen Heng as Minister of War.

After the selection of the cabinet the president's proclamation will be issued. This will outline the policy of the new government, offer terms to the Manchus for restoring order throughout the country, encouraging the re-opening of trade everywhere and guarantee the safety and protection of foreigners. Within a day or two President Sun will move to Nanking, from which place all official business will be transacted.

The Associated Press is assured that it is not the intention of the reform leaders to urge decentralization, but on the contrary that a strong central government ultimately will be formed. The present government is practically a military dictatorship and there is every evidence that Dr. Sun is the most competent man available to head it.

SPORTING NOTES

WHITE HOPES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—By a process of elimination fight fans in New York to-day declared that Carl Morris, the Oklahoma giant, and "Fireman Jim" Flynn are the only two "white hopes" in America who could stand a chance with Jack Johnson—and they think Flynn is the better of the two.

They base their decision upon last night's battle between Al Kaufmann and Al Palzer, during which Palzer knocked out Billy Delaney's protege in five over-timed rounds. Flynn has whipped Kaufmann, Palzer has been whipped by Tom Kennedy, and the night before last Carl Morris beat Kennedy to a pulp. Carl Morris, in his turn, has been pounded severely by Flynn, though the Oklahoman has improved vastly since that fight.

Kennedy, Kaufmann and Palzer, therefore, are practically out of the running as a challenger for the giant black, leaving only Morris and Flynn as likely candidates. Flynn at present is regarded as the better man though more work and science may make Morris the logical candidate.

Sophistry of a Sophist.

A certain archbishop, when asked woman to misstate her age, replied: "A lie may be defined as a statement made by one rational being to another rational being, with the intent to deceive. Now, as no rational being would think of asking a woman her age with the expectation of being answered truthfully, one of the elements of the lie is lacking, and the woman's statement cannot, strictly speaking, be defined as such."

Australia has Tallest Tree.

Australia claims to have the tallest tree in the world. It has long been thought that to California belongs this distinction, but, while California trees are of gigantic dimensions, they do not come up to Australia's eucalyptus trees. The Californians are noted not so much for their height as for their girth and diameter. The tallest tree in California yet discovered was found by actual measurement to be 340ft high Australia's record gum tree can beat this by 140ft.

The Foolishness of Over Work.

The labourer who wears out all his powers in the machinery of life's work and takes no part in its thought and imagination, and the thinker who wears out his brain before its time and has no part in the practical activity of life, have each lost much of the pleasure that rightly belongs to them. They may not be conscious of it, but it is none the less true that the health, happiness, and real effectiveness of every man can be gained only by the harmonious union of labour and thought.

His Wife's Tact.

"I'll give my wife credit for not causing me to be swamped by big hat bills of hers," declared the husband boastfully, in the presence of his wife's lady guests. "All the hat bills I get are small ones, which, however, come in very, very often, although I haven't observed a new bonnet on her since Easter."

"I'm so glad you're pleased," rejoined his wife, coming unexpectedly into the room. "The fact is, you're still paying for that last Easter bonnet, the bill for which the milliner is sending to you in installments."

The Eucalypus of Australia.

While the eucalyptus, or Australian blue gum tree, destroys malaria and keeps off mosquitoes in marshy soil, it has no such effect on dry soil. The difference is ascribed by a German scientist to the fact that the tree is constructed to act as an evaporating machine, and only does its work in marshy land. A feature of the tree is its daptability to different climates, it being now grow in almost every civilised country where frosts do not occur.

A man with a trade is generally able to earn a living. That's where a trade has the upper hand of an art or a profession.
